HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

There's been a bit of professed worryment on the part of some who live on the north edge of town—in the Parkview-Skyline additions, and on north along the highway in the vicinity of the Old City Lake—about how they're going to get to and from town once the rebuilding and widening project of US 83 is started, probably in the spring.

We've been assured, however, that once the work begins, provisions will be made to keep the traffic flowing, perhaps at a slower pace, as only one side of Main Street will be under rework at one time, and detours will be provided alongside the highway proper. So there really will be no insurmountable problems.

However, just to help out a bit in an attempt to allay some of those fears, we think we've come up with a solution—just in case there may be a time or two when they can't get the old Ford to town. The railroad runs parallel to and a few feet west of the highway. How about borrowing a section hand car—one of those powered by "pump" handles — or perhaps two or three of them? A schedule could be worked out so that one of them could be at each end at all times. Half a dozen or so people could ride each one, with a couple assigned to do the pumping. A sort of "handcar" pool. That way, no one would be bothered with a torn-up highway, no mud(?) to worry about. Besides that, the pumps could throw away their exercise kits and devices and forget the jogging bit. And once in a while timing may be so that a free push by the train would be available.

A couple or thirty years ago we knew a family whose kids used one of those handcars to travel about five miles to and from school — one of them grew up to become a transportation specialist.

The sport down the street says if it doesn't rain pretty soon, he's gonna trade his boat for a dunbuggy.

The organ which was in the old Methodist Church building, torn down last year to make way for the new building recently completed, was not retired. Phil Anderson, the "old organ disposition committee," reports the organ was sold to Pan-American College at Edinburg, and will be put to good use.

The organ, installed in the church about 1926-27, had a colorful history, according to some. It was originally built for an opera house in Houston, it is said, but for some reason was never installed and was resold to the Winters Methodist Church.

According to an exchange, "the average 18-year-old cannot remember when there was no television. To him, nothing is true — nothing has happened—unless he sees it on TV. . . . Today's youth has parents and grandparents who base knowledge and experience on an entirely different set of values. They grew up reading carefully ordered words. They were mature before being bombarded by on-the-scene news (often contrived), glamorous entertainment, violence in the raw, provocative commercials, and fantasy formats. The older generation brings to its evaluation a cause and effect realism. Youth's desires are not bounded by what can or cannot be. They have no built-in timer that says 'work and save and wait'. The poor see into the homes of the rich. The uneducated out for the status of those who have arrived. Television has brought actuality into the home. What young people see is fact for them. It is simply a matter of the age of the viewer as to what is seen and what message received."

PROCLAMATION: —Runnels County Judge Elliott Kemp signs a proclamation calling for the week of January 25-29, 1971, to be observed as "3.76 in '76 Week" in Runnels County. Looking on are Paul Michaelis, Wingate, president of the Runnels Beef Cattle Association, and

Program Aims At $1 Billion Increase In State Agriculture Income By 1976

A program to increase Texas agricultural income by more than a billion dollars by 1976 has been announced by Dr. John E. Hutchinson, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This goal calls for $3.76 billion in total cash receipts by the end of the 1976 crop year, not including government payments, and was determined from projections by Extension specialists and individuals in the agricultural industry. A committee of agricultural economists with the Extension Service studied past production records and made projections for 1976 based on current trends and expected improvements in technology and marketing.

Projections on an individual county basis were made by program building committees, made up of businessmen and producers. The expectations were then organized along county, Extension district and economic area lines to give producers across the state "something to shoot for."

In addition, annual goals were determined for the various agricultural commodity groups to allow a yearly measure of the program's success.

Winters State Bank Will Participate In "Rehab '71" Fund Appeal Saturday

The Winters State Bank will participate in "Rehab '71," the special six and one-half hour telecast appeal for funds for operation of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Woodrow Watts, president of the bank, has announced.

The telecast will be aired on KRBC-TV, Abilene, and KACB, San Angelo, beginning at 7:15 p. m. Saturday, January 30, and continue until 2 a. m. Sunday.

Watts said special arrangements have been made to have someone available to take calls from persons in this area who wish to make pledges to the Rehab fund. Pledges can be phoned locally to 754-4517, from 7:30 p. m. Saturday until 10 p. m. These names will be turned over to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center and a direct mail verification of this authorization will be made with the donor, it was stated.

The special kick-off telecast for "Rehab '71" will originate from Moody Coliseum on the Abilene Christian College campus, and will cover most of West Texas and reach into parts of New Mexico and southern Oklahoma.

PROCLAMATION "3.76 In '76 Week"

WHEREAS, agriculture continues to have great growth potential in our county with the rewards from such growth accruing to the benefit of all citizens, and

WHEREAS, "3.76 in '76" will narrow the gap between knowledge and practice through the coordinated application of improved production and marketing practices that have been proven to be sound and profitable, and

WHEREAS, the achievement of an increase of $3,760,000 in agricultural income by the end of crop year 1976 will improve the net profit and competitive position of Runnels County farmers and ranchers and make highly significant contributions to the future economy of the county.

Four FB Leaders From Runnels To Austin Meeting

Four leaders of the Runnels County Farm Bureau attended the Texas Farm Bureau's Legislative Conference in Austin January 20-21, where the state farm organization's legislative goals during the 62nd Legislature were discussed.

Attending from Runnels County were M. L. Dobbins of Winters, Ben Frerick of Rowena, Mrs. Frerick, and Marion Hays of Ballinger.

County presidents and chairmen and members of the legislative (policy execution) committees from most of the FB's 203 organized county units attended the two-day session at the Villa Capri Motor Hotel.

Highlights of the meeting included a banquet, tour of the Capitol, and talks by legislators.

Elected state officials, state senators and representatives were special guests at the Jan. 20 banquet to hear the president of the Texas Farm Bureau, J. T. (Red) Woodson of Giber, outline the organization's legislative goals. Lieutenant-Governor Ben Barnes discussed problems confronting the current Legislature.

County Farm Bureau leaders toured the Capitol on the afternoon of Jan. 20 and met with their respective legislators in their offices in the Capitol.

State legislators on the programs discussed current issues and legislative procedures. Senator Murray Watson told how a bill becomes a law. Senator Wayne Connally of Floresville and Rep. Jack Blanton of Dallas discussed taxing of agricultural land. Senator Ralph Hall of Rockwall outlined revenue needs and tax problems.

The future effects of redistricting were covered by Senator Bill Patman of Ganado. Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake talked about water problems and Senator H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock discussed agricultural pollution problems.

TFB National Affairs Director Ed McKay discussed techniques for legislative effectiveness. O. R. Long, TFB executive director, concluded the two-day session with an address—"Let's Accept the Challenges."

TFB President Woodson's banquet address outlined some of the major areas in which Farm Bureau will be attempting to carry out policies adopted by delegates at the November state convention. These include farm chemical and feedlot pollution problems, taxes, farm labor, agricultural research, animal health, farm-to-market road funds, hauling permits, and others.

Kendrick Insurance Agency Sold To Bedford Insurance, Effective Feb. 1

C. R. Kendrick has sold the Kendrick Insurance Agency to Bedford Insurance Agency, the two firms announced this week. The change in ownership is effective February 1.

C. R. Kendrick came to Winters June 1, 1936, as the local Ford dealer. During World War II, he also was International Harvester dealer. He sold the Ford dealership after the war, and in the early 1950's sold the International Harvester dealership to the late H. L. Way, and entered the insurance and real estate business.

Prior to 1936 Kendrick was in the automobile business and insurance business in Sweetwater. Kendrick served as a member of the board of trustees of the Winters Independent School District for eleven years, and about four years as a City Councilman. He is a past president of the Winters Lions Club, and also a past president of the Winters Chamber of Commerce.

Sometimes crappie can be the easiest of all fish to catch. And sometimes the most difficult!

They are easy to catch only because they roam in schools. Once you pin-point a concentration of crappies you can anchor at the spot and quite often fill a stringer with these tasties.

Finding the schools is, of course, your problem. And, unless you are fishing where the fish are you aren't likely to catch any.

Schools of crappies are scattered and unless a person is fortunate enough to be at a spot where they gather, he will find that catching one is next to impossible.

Crappies prefer to linger around some underwater obstruction; a sunken tree, a large boulder, or a clump of brush. Some fishermen create their own crappie-fishing hotspots by cutting brush (cedar is good), tying it together and anchoring it in deep water. The depth where you'll find crappie varies from lake to lake, but in our large reservoirs you'll usually locate them in about 10 to 30 feet of water.

In the spring they'll move along the shoreline to spawn. Then you can catch dozens of them in the shallows. But most of the time they'll be near the bottom in deep water.

Here are some suggestions offered by accomplished crappie fishermen:

When crappies are in a cooperative mood, they'll usually bite in a hurry. Never spend more than 15 to 20 minutes in one spot. Drop your live minnow right to the bottom, then take a couple of turns on the reel handle. Leave the bait here for about five minutes, and if you haven't had a nibble, take a couple more turns on the reel handle. Every five minutes come up a few more feet. This way you'll be prospecting each layer of water from the bottom to near the top. Move frequently trying different spots, around underwater obstructions.

You'll likely find a school of fish sometime during the day if they are biting at all.

A helpful aid is a commercial crappie rig, available at most sporting goods stores. This rig has a pair of twisted-wire "arms" which extend out from he main line. Snelled hooks are tied on these extensions which hold the wiggling live minnows away from the line, preventing twisting. Many anglers prefer to hook a minnow through both lips, rather than behind the dorsal fin. Since a crappie tries to swallow a minnow head-first it is more susceptible to becoming hooked this way.

Two common mistakes that most fishermen make when fishing for crappies are using a hook and a minnow that are too large. A No. 3 finewire hook is about right, the minnow should be no more than two inches in length. A crappie has a small mouth.

A successful crappie fisherman has a sensitive "feel." A crappie can carve a minnow off a hook with almost indiscernible action.

These tricky little critters actually can come up from below, raise the minnow and neatly take it off the hook without the angler realizing he's had a bite. So, watch your line closely. Should it start moving off at a tangent, even slightly, raise your rod tip smartly. It might be the current that's moving the minnow. But it could be a bait-stealing crappie. Successful crappie fishermen never take anything for granted. They set the hook at every inkling of a nibble.

Don't Overlook Investment Credit

The recapture of investment credit is now possible under the new regulations of the 1969 income tax law.

Investment credit was repealed by the 1969 tax law for property acquired or construction begun after April 18, 1969 according to James I. Mallett, farm management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Now credit may be claimed on property acquired by contract that was binding on or before April 18, 1969 or for property with more than 50 per cent of its total adjusted basis under contract or more than 50 per cent of the costs of parts and components held on April 18, 1969.

Property placed in service after December 31, 1975 will not be able to recapture credit.

Mallett noted that investment credit recapture on dispositions after April 18, 1969 will be reduced if replacement property is acquired within six months after selling property qualifying under the old law.

He said the recapture would be reduced by the amount of investment credit the property would have been eligible for before the repeal.

Mallett also pointed out that investment credit is recaptured on early disposition of credit claimed property, and that the recapture is actually the amount claimed less the amount for which the asset qualifies.

In cases of casualty and theft losses of investment credit property before April 18, 1969, the recapture will be offset. There is no recapture on such losses occurring after April 18, 1969.

Efficiency Of Production Helps Swine Producers

With the current low hog prices, commercial producers must strive for efficiency in order to withstand this price-cost squeeze.

According to Dr. W. B. Thomas, a Texas A&M University Extension swine specialist, the major factors that influence the efficiency or cost of producing a 220 pound market hog are fixed cost, feed efficiency, cost of grain and pigs marketed per sow per year.

"Fixed cost, such as depreciation, interest on investment, insurance, miscellaneous and repairs cost approximately $1.25 a head for each $100 invested, provided 16 pigs are marketed per sow each year." The swine specialist explains. "It is impossible to produce hogs without any capital investment, but the amount invested should be the minimum required to provide proper environments for the pigs."

Feed efficiency, the amount of feed required to obtain a pound of gain, certainly affects the cost of production. If by following a better management practices, adjusting feeders to eliminate feed waste and feeding various classes of pigs according to their needs, the feed requirement can be reduced by one-half pound for each pound of weight gained, an approximate savings of $3.50 on each head would result if milo were costing $2.40 a hundred-weight.

The price of grain sorghum also greatly influences the cost of production.

"As the price of grain sorghum increases 40-cents a hundred-weight, the cost of producing a 220 pound market hog increases approximately $2.70, provided a feed efficiency of four pounds of feed for every pound gained is obtained," Thomas says.

Therefore, producers should make arrangements for their grain needs when it is the cheapest, which is usually at harvest time. So, start planning and making arrangements now for next years needs. "Pigs marketed per sow each year also influences the fixed cost per pig as well as labor required per pig produced and the amount of sow feed required per pig," Thomas adds. "Pigs marketed per sow each year is influenced by management. Productive, crossbred sows respond to good management which results in increased productivity and efficiency."

It is the wise producer who keeps the four factors of fixed cost, feed efficiency, cost of grain sorghum and pigs per sow per year in mind as he seeks ways to increase his swine profits, advises Thomas.

Most reformers are satisfied with themselves.

Teamwork succeeds when both horses pull.

AUSTIN—Gov. Preston Smith told Texas lawmakers they can balance a $6.8 billion budget without new taxes — by deficit finance, bond issues and federal assumption of welfare costs.

While legislators liked to hear that they can escape a tax bill, many found the Governor's approach contingent on too many "ifs." Voter approval of bond issues, they noted, is highly uncertain and congressional assumption of welfare is doubtful. Here, in brief, is what the Governor proposed:

—Financing of welfare programs for only 10 months in anticipation that Congress will take over full funding by then.

—A maximum $450 million "public free school bond" issue, to be retired from school land income now going by constitutional decree into the untouchable permanent school fund. A constitutional amendment would be required to create both the fund and the pay-off plan.

—Temporary deficit financing of a $70 million emergency aid-to-welfare appropriation—which would require a four-fifths vote of the Legislature.

—A $71 million revenue bond program (secured with tuition income) to build new colleges, medical and dental schools authorized in 1969.

He also proposed three more constitutional amendments:

—Removal of the $80 million a year welfare ceiling.

—Raising or removing the water development bond interest lid.

—Creation of a $100 million fund for state aid on waste treatment facilities.

Smith pledged an all-out effort to encourage a federal take-over of welfare financing. If lawmakers don't like his ideas, said the Governor, they should "bring me a plan."

COMMITTEES NAMED

House Speaker Gus Mutscher named his committees late last week, signaling the start of actual bill introduction and processing in the lower house.

As expected, he picked veteran Rep. W. S. (Bill) Healy of Paducah for another session as chairman of the budget-writing appropriations committee which promptly launched hearings of spending requests.

To the hot-spot revenue and tax committee chairmanship, he again appointed Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas.

But Mutscher estimated he ordered 74 percent turnover in all chairmanships.

Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine was bumped from the hard-working state affairs panel chair, and Rep. James Slider of Naples got that job. Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock got Mutscher's assignment to chair the congressional and legislative districts committee which must reapportion boundaries on the basis of the new census. Jones estimated a loss of 10 or 12 rural House seats.

Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi kept the judiciary committee chair, and Rep. John Traeger of Sequin retained the constitutional amendment committee gavel. New rules committee chairman is Rep. James Nugent of Kerrville. Rep. Dick McKissack of Dallas, who sponsored the liquor-by-drink constitutional amendment, will head Mutscher's liquor regulations committee. Rep. Frank Calhoun of Abilene is chairman of the criminal jurisprudence panel.

WELFARE MEASURE ADVANCES

First major measure to clear senate committee was a proposed constitutional amendment by Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin to remove the $80 million state welfare ceiling.

Governor Smith said the current rate of expenditures would bring the state up against an $80 million lid by June 1, and drastic cuts in aid to families with dependent children would be required. Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney estimated AFDC average payments of $113.60 a month would be slashed to $90 May 1 if the ceiling is not raised.

Sponsors of the amendment hope to get it to a vote by early May along with other proposals in the Governor's constitutional change package.

Coordinating Board Texas College and University System endorsed state aid to hard-pressed private colleges.

Board backed tuition equalization grants to needy students and state contracts with private institutions for educational degree purposes. Bills to accomplish both purposes have been introduced. Estimated cost to the state is about $28 million.

Board turned down a proposal that the state should assume full cost of community junior colleges.

ALLOWABLE DOWN

Railroad Commission set the February oil allowable to permit a maximum of 3,852,821 barrels a day production, reducing the flow from 83.1 percent in January to 82.1 percent.

Actually, production is not expected to exceed 3,411,000 barrels daily. Buyers nominated for 3,410,979.

Commission heard testimony on high inventories of Texas crude. Only one of 14 major oil company buyers—Mobil—changed purchase plans from January.

DEMOCRATS BACK ELECTION CHANGES

State Democratic Executive Committee endorsed a sweeping election law revision, including Tuesday primary dates and allowing 18-year-olds to participate in national party convention delegate selection.

Party leaders recommended complete revision of voter registration laws but came up with no specifics. They also proposed changes in convention procedures to conform with national party rules.

Legislation is pending in the senate to repeal the annual voter registration requirement and to move dates of primaries from May and June to August and September. Constitutional amendment to permit 18-year-olds to vote in all elections also is pending.

FOUNDATION PROBE LAUNCHED

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin directed immediate investigation of seven members of the Moody Foundation board at their own request.

Trustees asked the Attorney General to determine if there is any basis for complaints made against them by a legislative interim study commission chairman. Orange County District Attorney Lougas Jr. alleged conflicts of interests, acts of self dealing and incompetency on the part of some trustees, but the committee on charitable foundations which he headed did not back his charges.

AGENCY RECOMMENDED

Advisory Committee on Marine Resources has recommended a new state authority to deal with Texas interests and goals in the coastal zone.

A 20-member committee proposed an agency to coordinate research and planning activities in the state's coastal and marine environment.

Other recommendations included establishment of an environmental defense or cleanup fund, support for a sea grant college and clarification of existing state agency role in the coastal zone.

SHORT SNORTS

Legislation urged by the Governor to require immunization of school children has been introduced.

Insurance Board will hold a hearing on February 18 here on revision in fire, windstorm and extended coverage rates and rules for writing fire and allied lines of insurance.

Senate passed a bill exempting from sales tax income from "late, late" movies leased to tv stations.

Governor named Michael P. Metcalf of Dumas 69th district attorney.

Once a slot machine, always a slot machine, said Attorney General Martin in an opinion, holding that such a device still is forbidden even if altered to put out souvenir type coins.

Texas Water Rights Commission adjourned hearing until Feb. 2 on Chambers, Jefferson, Liberty and Galveston counties farmers' protest at cost of irrigation water.

Gypsy moths were first introduced in this country in 1869. They now infest most of New England, eastern New York, New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

Rep. Lynn Nabers Named To House Youth Committee

"The appointment of Representative Nabers as Vice Chairman of the Youth Committee is an acknowledgement of his important role in the Texas House."

The 17-member Committee on Youth has jurisdiction over all matters pertaining to the young people of Texas, their training, employment; the Committee will be concerned with the future development of vocational activities and training and over all matters pertaining to the responsibilities and duties of the State to its youth and the responsibilities and duties of youth to their State and Nation.

Cancer Society Plans Crusade To Start In April

North Runnels Cancer Society has set April 27 as a kick-off date for the annual Cancer Crusade locally.

The Society met Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce office to hear reports from several members, and to view a film presented by Frank Graham, field representative of District IV.

A "Golden Achievement Award" was presented to Mrs. Bill Bell for reaching an all-time high in Crusade collections and for exceeding the per capita goal of the Texas Division Crusade to Conquer Cancer.

Mrs. Raymon Lloyd, service chairman, reported on local aid and said that anyone needing assistance should contact her or some member of the Society. Mrs. LaDell Davis, memorials chairman, reported that memorials have increased to $72 within the last month.

Homer Hodge, chairman of the North Runnels Cancer Society, reported on the District IV meeting of the Cancer Society in San Angelo. Information on special gifts and publicity was given.

More volunteers are needed to work locally, it was stated. Seven members and the District IV representative were present for the meeting.

The Society will meet again February 23.

Workers Entitled To Many Social Security Benefits

A complaint often voiced by working women is, "I will be entitled to social security benefits on my husband's record. I don't see why I have to pay it."

In reply to the above statement, J. M. Talbot, social security manager, said, "The original Social Security Act was designed to give protection to all workers who are covered by social security. One of the major factors often overlooked by people is that both men and women are building and maintaining their social security protection as they work. I am not talking just about retirement protection, but about protection in case of disability or death."

Talbot explained that every worker has protection for himself and his dependents in case of disability. Even though both the husband and wife may be working, if she becomes disabled then she and the children could be entitled to social security benefits even if her husband continues to work full time. The same is true in case of death. The children and other dependents have as much protection on a woman's social security record as on a man's.

It is true a female worker can be entitled to social security benefits on her husband's record, but in many cases she will find she is entitled to a higher monthly benefit on her own social security record.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue, P. O. Box 3808, San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in the area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. The telephone number is 949-4608.

New Family Film Depicts Life of a Mountain Lion

Filmed in the high mountain wilderness of picturesque Colorado, "Cougar Country," by American National Enterprises, Inc., of Salt Lake City, is slated for showing at the State Theatre Friday, January 29.

"Cougar Country" is an outdoor adventure movie for the entire family. Moviegoers travel with "Whiskers," an adventuresome young mountain lion, thru the first two years of his life.

Joining the cougar family shortly after "Whiskers" and his two sisters are born, the viewer watches the mother lion teach her cubs how to survive in beautiful "Cougar Country."

During his first few months of life, "Whiskers" is exposed to the many dangers of the mountains. The young cubs are prey for soaring eagles, coyotes, snakes, and many other "neighbors" in "Cougar Country." But the mother cat is always there to protect her young.

Through mother's example "Whiskers" learns to stalk his own food. He watches intently weed control usually is the most economical and longer lasting, although mowing can be beneficial in removing matured grass which cattle have refused to graze.

Pasture improvement may also include establishing new species of grasses and legumes. Many high-producing species are available for use in Texas and should be used when establishing new pastures, says Pratt. Performance of certain species in a specific county can be furnished by the county agricultural agent, he notes.

Plan now to increase profits through pasture improvement during 1971, advises Pratt.

Plan Now For 1971 Pastures

With rising land costs and favorable cattle prices, beef cattle producers should plan to improve pastures during 1971, says Neal Pratt, Extension agronomist.

Pasture improvement signifies many activities to different individuals, but can be explained as any method or combination of methods to improve the profitability of an acre of pasture.

Pasture improvement starts with a soil sample to determine fertilizer and nutrients needed to grow more forage. Then applying the nutrients when forage species start to grow is essential, says the agronomist.

Pasture improvement also includes weed control. Chemical as his mother teaches him how to catch rabbits and pluck fish from icy mountain streams.

When "Whiskers" reaches the age of two, he has learned all he must know to care for himself. It is time for him to leave his family and go off on his own. From then on he is entirely independent and must find his own food or go hungry. And he does have some hungry moments.

"Cougar Country" shows many wild animals just as they live in the rugged, majestic beauty of their mountain homes. In addition to "Whiskers" and his family, other stars in "Cougar Country" include battling elk, giant grizzly bears, marmots, coyotes, eagles, beaver, badgers, and a skunk who really didn't want to be a "star."

These animals are truly the stars of "Cougar Country." The entire movie is filled with laughter, suspense and excitement.

American National Enterprises, Inc. presents "Cougar Country" as proof of its feeling that the public wants family-type motion pictures.

When you promised to share and share alike, did that mean your wife could use up all the hot water?

You could get up earlier. Then you'd be sure to beat her to it. Of course she wouldn't be too impressed with your chivalry. Another alternative is a larger gas water heater. Gas water heaters are easy to buy, easy to install, and recover hot water up to twice as fast as comparable electric models. So stop competing with your better half. Get a larger capacity hot water heater. For fewer fights and lots more hot water.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

During this century beet sugar has become steadily more important in the field of sweeteners. Part of this increasing significance has been due to the rapid growth of industrial usage of all types, with beet sugar taking an ever larger portion of the market. Expansion of sugar consumption, in fact, has been phenomenally fast in beverages, baking, and cereals.

Prices On Par

In the highly competitive market for nutritive sweeteners price variances have long played an outstanding role in determining demand for cane and beet sugar both (sucrose) and corn syrup (dextrose). In the more distant past, cane sugar sold at a considerably higher price than beet sugar. The great advances in industrial sugar usage, however, have pushed demand for beet upward to a point where the price gap between the two kinds has been practically closed.

During the 1960s, a cataclysmic event took place that helped to give a spectacular boost to the beet sugar business. This was the sudden exclusion of Cuban sugar from the U. S. domestic market, brought about when Premier Castro expropriated American-owned sugar properties on the island. Up to the time of the take-over and for many years before that, Cuba was the leading supplier of cane sugar to the country—constituting 96 percent of the total. Along with cane sugar and corn syrup suppliers, beet sugar producers were quick to step into the gaping breach left by the Cuban shut-off.

Big Gains For Sugar Beets
Last year growers of sugar beets harvested a crop estimated at 26.0 million tons from over some 1.4 million acres planted, a gain of 60 percent and 48 percent respectively over levels reached in 1960. This contrasted favorably with sugar cane harvestings that registered gains of only 54 percent and 33 percent in tonnage and acreage over the same span. Employing estimates of the Research Staff of Babson's Reports for sugar deliveries in 1970, it appears that tonnage consumption of beet sugar alone in the past decade has risen some 48 percent compared with 23 percent for cane sugar. Overall consumption of sugar tends to reflect general expansion in the nation's population. But over the past ten years or so the accelerated growth of the most youthful segment of the populace has brought about an exceptionally broad step-up in utilization of industrial sugar. Then, too, there has been a transformation in traditional buying patterns, placing far greater emphasis upon pre-cooked and semi-prepared food items. The ban in late 1969 against cyclamate-based sweeteners in the beverage and food processing industries lifted sugar consumption in 1970 to a still higher plateau.

Quota Favors Beet Sugar
With 1971 sugar usage estimated at 10.9 million short tons, the percentage increment in the year's U. S. quota under the terms of the Sugar Act is beneficial to producers of beet sugar. An annual quota of 3,025 million short tons, raw value, is granted as long as U. S. total marketing stays within a range of 9.7 to 10.4 million short tons. When the national quota goes outside this range, quotas for beet and cane from mainland U. S. are adjusted, with about 75 percent of such alterations ascribed to beet sugar. The Sugar Act expires at the end of 1971, but provisions will be extended by Congress, probably with only a few mild modifications.

Investment Possibilities
After plummeting during the late 1968-May 1970 period, stocks of most beet sugar firms have seen substantial recovery. Babson's Research Staff currently recommends purchase of the common stocks of Holly Sugar and Great Western United Corp. Worth continued retention in well-balanced portfolios are American Crystal Sugar, Amstar Corp., and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

When you get in a hurry, that is a good time to be sure that you do not move too fast.
