HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

When it becomes difficult to find subjects to discuss, one can always turn to an old reliable: our Winters Schools, and the students there. And this we are glad to do, because in these times when we are constantly being reminded of all the disagreeable events taking place around the world and nation and state, constantly being told that the whole world is going down the drain, that the "drug scene" is overpowering the wholesomeness of America, that "non-violent" students are tearing down this and that... it is refreshing to know that, locally at least, conditions remain more or less on an even keel, and that the situation continues to be what most of us like to think of as "normal."

Students of the Winters Schools continue to attract attention to themselves, their school and their home town. But it isn't the kind of attention sought by tv cameras and the sensationalistic press. It is evidence of the type of training and leadership they are receiving at school—and at home. For instance, the band went to Cisco Friday and came home with the top sweepstakes award, and they didn't cause a ruckus while they were up there. The track team went to Albany Saturday, and came home with all the big prizes; and they didn't cause a ruckus up there. Members of the Distributive Education and Industrial Education Department went to Abilene over the weekend and placed high in competition; and they didn't cause a ruckus up there. These young people have been showing the finer stuff they're made of. And they haven't had to get high on "pot" to do it!

What a difference we find in other localities! For instance, in the news a few days ago was an account of a big school being forced to install closed circuit television in each classroom—and even in the restrooms—so that activities in all parts of the school could be monitored at all times, as a protection for teachers and students who had been beaten and otherwise harassed, and to prevent a general breakdown of control. Many—if not most—of the schools in the bigger cities are faced with similar trouble problems. And these are some of the schools which some of the nation's (and state's) "progressive" pushers would have us emulate.

Now that the Congress has apparently killed the Super-sonic Transport project, thereby saving, as claimed, millions (or is it billions?) of dollars, our old dry and dusty farmer friend out on Bluff Creek expects to get a couple or three dollars refund on his income tax!

According to the Census Bureau, the 1970 population count (Continued on page 8)

Sweepstakes Award Given To Blizzard Band

The Winters High School Blizzard Band, under the direction of Kirke McKenzie, won a Sweepstakes award at the University Interscholastic League concert and sight-reading contests at Cisco Friday. The band had won a first division rating at the marching contests in Brady last November, and needed to win first division in concert and sight-reading Saturday to complete the requirements for the Sweepstakes award.

A large handsome Sweepstakes trophy was presented to the band following the contests. The trophy is on display at Bahlman Jewelers this week.

Sixteen area Class AA schools took part in Friday's contests. A large delegation of Band Boosters accompanied the band to Cisco Friday for the contests.

Junior High School Band To Cisco For Music Festival, Contests Saturday

The Winters Junior High School Band—7th and 8th grades—will participate in concert, sight reading, solo and ensemble contests during the spring musical festival sponsored by Cisco Junior College at Cisco Saturday.

Band Director Kirke McKenzie said he will take about 98 junior high musicians to the contests. The Winters band will perform at 10:24 Saturday morning.

This will be the third year the Winters Junior High School Band has competed in such contests. In the first two years, the band won a concert trophy each time, and a second division in sight reading. The band will be shooting for a sweepstakes trophy this year, McKenzie said.

Junior high bands compete under the same rules drawn up for high school bands, McKenzie said, but these contests are not UIL-sanctioned.

At least 5700 musicians are expected at Cisco Junior College for the three-day festival.

New meet records were set in the 330-yard intermediate hurdle event; the 830-yard dash; the mile relay; shot put; and discus.

BIG BASS—One of the biggest large-mouth bass ever to be caught in this area was being displayed last Wednesday by Roy Paske, right. This bass weighed 9 1/2 pounds, and measured 18 inches. On the stringer with the big bass were five other bass, one about 4 1/2 pounds, one about 4 pounds, and some smaller. Paske and Zane Eoff, left, said they caught the fish in "McGee's Tank," an expression used when fishermen do not wish to divulge the location of their big catches. The world's record large-mouth bass, 22 pounds 4 ounces, was hooked in Montgomery Lake, Ga., June 2, 1932, according to the 1971 World Almanac. (Staff Photo)

"Make-Up" TB Skin Tests Set For Friday, Apr. 9

Those persons in North Runnels County who were unable to have TB skin tests during the recent clinic in Winters will be given an opportunity for the tests next Friday, April 9.

The Texas State Department of Health, Division of Tuberculosis Control, Area XI in cooperation with the Big Country Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, will conduct a "make-up" tuberculin skin test survey next Friday, beginning at 9:30 a. m. in the Winters Community Center.

The Winters Lions Club will have charge of arrangements. In the recent skin test survey held in Winters, more than 2200 persons took the tests. This was one of the biggest turnouts percentage wise ever experienced in the state, sponsors said. However, they felt that there are many people in the area who would like to have the test but were unable to be present during the recent clinic. Now is the chance for such people to get the tests, sponsors said.

Elm Creek Water Districts Gets COG Endorsement

The proposed project of Elm Creek Water Control District to build water retardation structures on Elm Creek in Runnels and Taylor counties, under Public Law 566, has received the stamp of approval and endorsement of the West Central Texas Council of Governments.

At their regular monthly meeting in Abilene March 24, the executive committee of WCTCOG endorsed the Elm Creek District's application for funds, as administered by the Soil Conservation Service.

W. M. Hays, chairman of the Elm Creek board, said members of the board appeared before the executive committee of COG last week, explaining the proposed project. He said he had received word from Billy Jacob, director of engineering for COG, that "endorsement of this project by the Executive Committee accepting the recommendations of the PNRS Committee that found this project is not in conflict with other plans in the area, the potential of a multipurpose structure to supplement the municipal water supply of Winters and Ballinger is consistent with the regional water plan and that further planning of the SCS should be authorized."

Hays said that work by the Soil Conservation Service is continuing, to bring soil conservation practices in the area covered by Elm Creek District, up to standards acceptable to State and Federal commissions who will make final approval of the project, and provide the funds for the work to be done.

It was stated recently that no applications are being taken for the current fiscal year for such projects, but that hearings will be scheduled within a short time and applications will be accepted when funds do become available.

Hays and other members of the board met with State Representative Lynn Nabers last week in Brownwood to recruit his assistance on the project. Hays said Rep. Nabers offered to help in any manner he could.

Steel Bargaining Problems
Wellesley Hills, Mass., April 1, 1971. With steel negotiations looming, both the United Steelworkers and the top manufacturers are flexing their muscles in a way that suggests the probability of a bitter and prolonged strike. In fact, those closest to the labor-relations scene still believe it will be impossible to reach a settlement without a real showdown, in spite of warring business, an uncomfortably high level of unemployment, and uncertainty as to domestic and international prospects. Bigwigs of the steel companies are so sure they face a considerable battle that they are amassing facts and figures and with which they hope to make a case against the anticipated huge demands from the union. Even though they fear labor representatives will not be easy to impress, they will present statistics indicating that Steelworkers are going to press for gains that do not take into consideration the uneasy position of the major steel companies in today's high-cost econ-

Gonzales Infant Died In Hendrick Hospital Saturday

Victor Gonzales, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Esidro Gonzales, died at 4 p. m. Saturday in Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene.

The infant became ill while with his parents in Abilene Saturday, and was rushed to the hospital where he died a few minutes later.

Funeral was at 10 a. m. Monday in Mt. Carmel Catholic Church with the Rev. Patrick Ryan officiating.

Burial was in Babyland in Lakeview Cemetery under direction of Spill Funeral Home.

The baby was born Dec. 17, 1970, at Robert Lee.

Other survivors include one sister, Connie, and one brother, Esidro Jr., both of the home; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecilio Gonzales of Winters; maternal grandparents, Rudolfo Domingus of San Antonio and Mrs. Susie Domingus of San Antonio.

Not even the job scarcity in most sections of the country and in many important industries appears to have any quieting effect on the workers. There is, in fact, a particularly strong voice among union members for brisk increases in basic wage rates, fringe benefits, and job concessions. This was clearly demonstrated recently when the generous can settlement provisions were presented to local union presidents for ratification. Instead of a swift and enthusiastic approval, there was griping in many quarters, claims that better terms could have—and should have—been attained. This was obviously a reflection of the dissatisfaction among union members themselves.

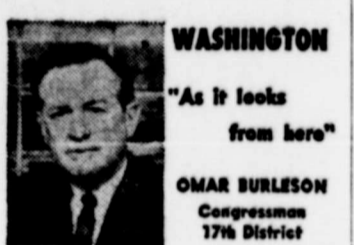

There is one interesting feature of the upcoming steel bargaining sessions that is seldom emphasized: Namely, that approximately 70 per cent of the union's members in basic steel have never actually taken part in a large-scale walkout. The big strike in steel took place in the winter of 1959-1960, lasting for between three and four months. Old-timers are well aware of the agonies of monetary losses when the factories are closed down, something the younger element does not know.

Means To An End

This change toward a dominance of younger workers will have its impact on the situation this summer. With the cost of living still on the ascendancy, most workers supporting expanding families feel the need for improved incomes, and they are willing to risk a strike to achieve this goal. Keep in mind, too, that there are far more young officials within the union than was the case a decade ago, reflecting a more daring spirit than might be found among the more seasoned union leaders, especially for a time when business is still faltering.

No administrative jawboning will cool the zeal of the rank and file. Even imposition of wage-price controls would undoubtedly bring about more defiance than co-operation.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BULESON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—For two centuries we have assumed that the issue of "taxation without representation" was settled when American colonists broke from British rule to establish the United States of America. In our republic it was decreed taxes would always be controlled by the elected representatives of the people.

The architects of government could hardly have envisioned how a serious gap could develop between theory and practice in assuring taxpayers of this protection. Local, State and Federal Governments, along with their budgets, have grown and a system has developed to diminish control over expenditures. Local governments find much of their budget dictated by their participation in Federal-aid programs. At the Federal level, where so many strings of responsibilities gather, Congress bows to a host of recurring spending requirements, all built in by long-range commitments. In the budget for the coming fiscal year, there is this type of spending amounting to close to $100 billion over which there is really no discretion.

"Taxation without representation" in colonial times was a battle cry against a monarch across the seas. As we view our current tax bills, of which we are all soon to be painfully reminded, we can direct complaints closer to home. Over the years, we have allowed to develop an abdication of authority by creating ungovernable demands on the public purse.

It is perfectly well to meet a portion of our local needs by voting bonds to pay for them. It is a capital investment to improve our community facilities serving all people alike. This becomes a matter of collective community judgment.

Likewise, it is a matter of collective judgment to contribute to efforts to promote our personal and collective interests. An example is farmers and ranchers spending their own money to promote their products. We have a program which by vote, cotton farmers permit a collection of $1.00 per bale to develop new uses for cotton. On April 19-30, goat raisers will decide if they want 1½ cents deduction per pound for the promotion of the use of mohair. Sheep raisers will decide on June 7-18 whether they are for or against 1½ cents deduction per pound for wool and 7½ cents per hundredweight on lamb, in order to continue deductions to promote the use of this natural fiber and to promote the sale of lambs in the market place.

This is self-help and the idea of doing something for themselves.

The DuPont Company and other big synthetic manufacturers have been spending millions for 20 to 30 years in developing man-made fibers in competition with natural fibers and have taken away a goodly part of the market.

The sheep and goat industry is a highly important part of the agricultural economy of Texas. It is an amazing statistic that 97 percent of all the goats in the United States are raised in Texas and about 50 percent of the goats in the world are in our State. The sheep industry and

The best thing that has happened in years to the knobby knee is the maxicoat.

With Valentine's Day coming up, it occurs to those poor souls who are unhappily married that "stupid" is about the only word that rhymes with the name of the cherub who totes the bow and arrows.

...about your SOCIAL SECURITY

People over age 65 who have the doctor bill part of Medicare should plan now how their claims should be filed, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager. If your doctor doesn't take assignments, you must file for reimbursement yourself.

As soon as your doctor bills go over $50 in a year, you need to file a claim. Begin now to put all your doctor bills in order. This way, you can be sure of filing a claim on all your doctor bills. You'll need more than just a receipt. You'll need the bill itself. It should show which doctor treated you, when he treated you, what he did for you and how much he charged.

Mr. Talbot said filing a claim is easy. Tear out the blank Form 1490 from your Medicare Handbook. On the form, show your name and claim number just as it is on your Medicare card. When you write in what your condition is, don't try to say it like the doctor. If you have heart trouble and that's what the doctor treated you for, simply show "heart trouble." If you were treated for arthritis, show that. Don't forget to sign the form before you drop it in the mail. If you don't have a Medicare Handbook or a blank, your social security office will be glad to furnish one and help you file your claim. Your question can probably be handled by phone; so, if you need help, phone first. It might save you a trip and a lot of time. The number of your social security office is 949-4608.

After the blank is filled in, where do you send it? This is also in the Medicare Handbook. As a rule, you send claims for payment to the state in which you were treated. If all your treatment was in Texas, for example, you would send your doctor bills to: Medicare, Group Medical and Surgical Service, P. O. Box 22147, Dallas, Texas 75222.

You really shouldn't hold your doctor bills. As soon as you get more than $50 in doctor bills, send them in for payment.

Austin, Tex. —Senate hearings on a multi-hundred-million-dollar tax bill are under way, and where they stop nobody knows.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes indicated they may continue for a week or two.

Key argument as hearings opened centered on whether the state should have a corporation income tax.

Texas economy will be slowed down by the corporate income levy, argued Tom Sealy of Midland, representing the new Texas Association of Taxpayers, at hearings before the State Affairs Committee.

Corporate profits tax, countered AFL-CIO President H. S. (Hank) Brown, will meet revenue needs and "create balance between corporate and consumer taxes."

Sealy backed the House-passed increase of sales tax from 3.25 per cent to four per cent, but said his group needs more time to formulate a complete tax plan.

Brown favored a six per cent corporation profits tax, which he said would raise $900 million over the next two years.

Business, said Sealy, already pays 34 per cent of the state sales tax.

Consumers and non-business interests, said Brown, pay 62 per cent of all state taxes, while business pays 31.7 per cent in direct levies, including its share of the sales tax.

Minimum tax bill, said Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, based on the Senate's Finance Committee budget proposals, would be $643 million for the coming biennium.

Lieutenant Governor Barnes said he hopes to have the tax bill on the Senate floor for debate by April 12.

House of Representatives, said Appropriations Committee Chairman Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah, will have the budget bill ready for debate by Easter.

WELFARE CUTS ORDERED

True to advance warnings, Welfare Board ordered a cut in Aid to Families with Dependent Children effective May 1.

Average grant of $118 a month will be reduced to approximately $80, about one-third of current payments. Cutsback also will eliminate 4,500 families from rolls.

Gov. Preston Smith expressed regrets, but said he has no legal authority to alter the cut, since the state has reached the $30 million a year ceiling for welfare outlays.

Smith gave his endorsement to the constitutional amendment

AG OPINIONS

A special district judge elected during one term of court who continues to serve without objection during the next term without being re-elected by members of the Bar should be paid for all his services, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

"Bill to allow counties to collect either a county registration fee of $5 per vehicle or personal property taxes on the vehicle is unconstitutional."

"State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers does not have authority to make and enforce a rule requiring every applicant for a professional engineering license to take a written examination."

"Bill authorizing state-supported colleges and universities to close a street or alley running through the campus would be valid and a constitutional law."

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Smith designated Joe K. Butler of Houston chairman of Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation and Robert W. Baker of Houston to fill the unexpired term of Manuel C. DeBusk of Dallas on the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

He named Dr. Leonides Gonzalez Cigarroa of Laredo, Dr. Olin Burr Gober of Temple, Dr. Walter Allen Brooks of Quana and O. J. Baker of Prairie View to MH-RR. Board.

Leon Jackson Coker Jr. of Texarkana and Thomas Brazelton Stealy of Paris were re-appointed to Board of Regents of East Texas State University, and E. G. Pharr of Lubbock was placed on E.T.S.U. Board.

Tom Foster of Center was appointed to Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Memorial Naval Museum Commission.

Dr. Edward B. Evans, Prairie View, was designated honorary consul of the Republic of Senegal for Texas.

Smith chose for Texas Surplus Property Agency Bill Bitter of Centerville, Grady J. Hester of Terrell, Dr. William J. Hamm of San Antonio, Garland P. Ferguson of Gladewater, Jess M. Irwin Jr. of Austin, Dr. Thomas M. Spencer of Pasadena, Cyril O. Layne of Austin, Ed F. Riedel of Austin and Clarence A. Roberson of Fort Worth.

Ret. Brig. Gen. James U. Cross is the new Executive Director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

COURTS SPEAK

State Supreme Court upheld an injunction against a Coleman businessman who sold liquor and food in the same building. Texas attorney general's office is studying the case to determine how far-reaching it is.

High Court rejected a Bryan discount store's appeal to stop district judge from ordering it closed for failing to observe Sunday blue laws.

Court of Criminal Appeals held in a San Patricio County case that inmates serving life sentences are eligible for parole after 15 years if sentenced before the 1967 change of law.

Same court, reversing its own ruling, knocked out murder convictions of two men for a Westaco knife slaying.

DEATH TOLL RELEASED

Department of Public Safety said 3,560 Texans died on streets and highways in 1970, nine more than for 1969.

In addition to the death toll, there were 223,000 injuries last year, about the same as in 1969. Economic loss from traffic mishaps was $1,042,200, compared with $955,300 in 1969.

DPS noted there were many more miles traveled in 1970 than in the previous year.

SHORT SNORTS

Governor signed an order creating the new Interagency Transportation Planning Council.

Senate moved fast to ratify the federal constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18; House approval also was likely.

Bill to create "permanent" voter registration system passed the Senate.

Senate also approved a measure designed to give students more flexibility in repaying student loans and to let the loans be insured under a federal program.

Governor Smith says emergency drought assistance for many areas of Texas is expected to be recommended soon by U. S. Department of Agriculture State Defense Committee.

Defector To Russia Felled By Gunfire

News of the death of a Texas defector to Russia has come from Moscow.

The victim was brought down by small arms fire and most likely became an ingredient in some Russian's borsch.

It was a female pintail duck. The bird was banded by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department on March 12, 1967, near Port Acres, and was shot near Oссора in Eastern Siberia on May 25, 1968, some 14 months and countless thousands of miles later.

It took almost three years for the band to return to Texas. It was returned by the USSR Academy of Sciences Zoological Institute, the Centre of Ringing and Marking of Birds and Terrestrial Mammals.

Biologists say pintails sometime cross from Alaska to Siberia to nest, but they add it is extremely rare for a bird to stray that far when tagged in the Central Flyway.

FROM LUBBOCK

Mr. and Mrs. George Mostad of Lubbock visited last weekend in the home of his mother, Mrs. Cal Mostad, and with relatives in Abilene.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

The year he was a senior in high school, one of my friends competed in two statewide scholarship competitions and won both of them.

The total sum of his scholarships was announced after his valedictory speech. Compared to awards won by his fellow classmates, it sounded tremendous.

In the newspaper account of the graduation, a reporter stated that my friend had "taken a lion's share" of the scholarships.

I did not exactly appreciate this reference since the winner had competed statewide and he had not in any way taken anything from his classmates who did not even enter the competition. I finally forgave the reporter for I realized he probably did not know the source of his cliché.

In "Aesop's Fables," the fox and the ass joined the lion in a hunt, but when they divided the spoils, the lion took one-quarter as his prerogative. He took another for his superior courage; another for his dam and cubs, "and as for the fourth, I defy anyone to take it from me."

Awed, the fox and the ass yielded and silently withdrew. Isn't that just like an ass and a fox?

And back to the newspaper story: Just when should anyone be penalized for having brains?

MIRACLE of life is observed by James Barnhardt III, holding an egg from which a duckling is emerging. It's one of many hatched on Virginia farm started by James' granddad.

BULLET BONANZA. Latest British and U.S. fashion trend is a gunbelt—with spent cartridges or toy bullets—worn over the shoulders or on the hip.

IN COLLINSWORTH HOME

Recent visitors in the E. C. Collinsworth home were Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Tailored Knits:

It's boomtime this spring for tailored knits in menswear, predicts Mrs. O'Connor. The new knits, according to her, mean new freedom, not only in the physical sense but also in a psychological sense. Men will be wearing clothing they can put on and forget—functional as a sweater, yet formal as a conventional business suit.

The first thing a man will notice when selecting a pair of knit slacks is the attractive and pleasing hand of the fabric. And the color and pattern will also catch his attention, Mrs. O'Connor said.

While the salesman may speak of comfort, the wearer usually has to experience it to realize a difference. Most men aren't uncomfortable in "ordinary" clothing, so the knit fabric's built-in give is a new feeling. The "give" means freedom from binding at the knees, easier reach into pockets for change, and in knit coats, new freedom in overhead reaches.

Performance is another plus. The knit garments look and fit better for longer periods of time, resisting wrinkles and retaining a crease. Because of their elasticity, they move with the body like a second skin, and have 15 to 20 percent stretch with complete recovery.

Most of the knit garments for men are completely washable, but check the labels and hang tags to be sure of care instructions. Unless the hangtag says the item is completely washable, it's best to treat as dry-cleanable only.

If the knits are washable, Mrs. O'Connor suggests that they be done by hand. Use care not to stretch the wet garment; either wring it out or support it in several places if you let it drip-dry. Finish with a brief tumble drying at warm temperature setting.

Hundreds of food products line the aisles of our grocery stores. And many of these appetizing foods are available because of food additives, Mrs. O'Connor said. Food additives are chemicals added directly to foods, either imparting a desired quality to the finished product or serving a functional purpose in the use of the food.

Without the additives, much of our food would taste differently, shelf lives would be shorter, and food would be less nutritious. Since many food products do not reach the family dinner table for a year or more after packaging, they need a built-in lasting quality. The leavening must stay effective, the flavor must remain constant and shortening must not become rancid. Food shoppers can expect these characteristics because safe food additives have been used.

The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

When a boy or girl becomes a Scout, the name applied to this new venture is "tenderfoot."

Viewers of Western movies and readers of Western fiction know that the term tenderfoot is also applied to any newcomer to life on the range.

This term has been in our vernacular for well over a century. The whole thing began when Henry Clay introduced Hereford cattle to America from England in 1817.

Unlike the longhorns which were tough and could take rough treatment, the Herefords were delicate, and when marched to market would become lame. Walking over rough terrain wore their hoofs down and their feet became tender, hence the name "tenderfoot."

Teddy Roosevelt really put the word into our language when he wrote in "Hunting Trips": "Hunters... who bedizen themselves in all the traditional finery of the craft in the hope of getting a job at guiding some tenderfoot."

The food additives used are subject to strict regulation and control. Manufacturers must test additive products for safety and submit them for approval to the Food and Drug Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

According to most food historians, salt was the first food additive. It remains today an important chemical in the food processing industry.

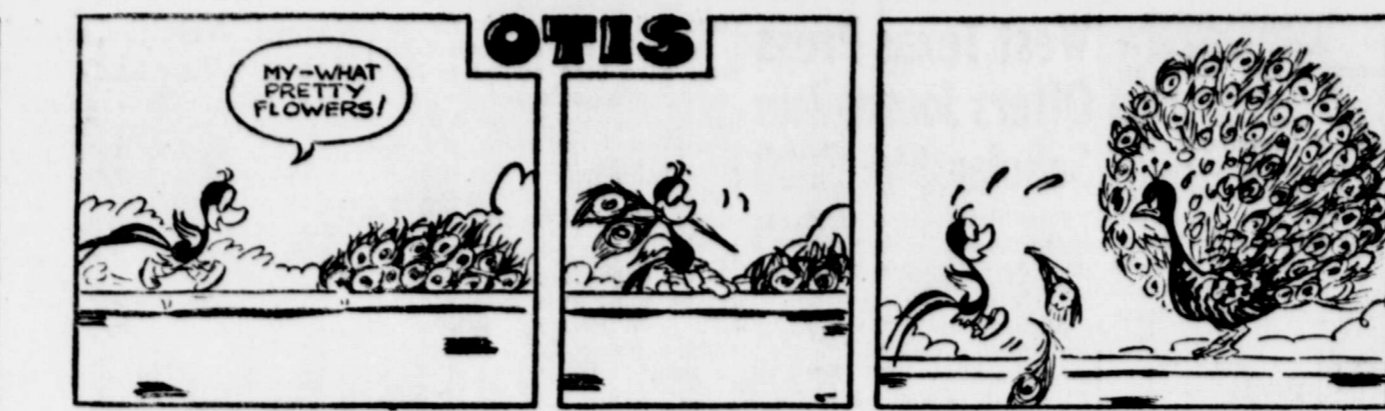

Many of the appetizing foods obtained today—processed cheeses, ready-to-eat mixes, candies, and others—are the result of cooperation between the food industry and many areas of science to make our food supply more satisfying, more wholesome and nutritious, and of even greater variety.

Ginger-Pear Crumble:

A perfect combination—buttery cookie crumbs and pears topped with scoops of ice cream.

- 1-4 cup butter, or margarine
- 1 T. lemon juice
- 1-2 tsp. salt
- 1-4 tsp. nutmeg

Arrange drained pear halves on top of crumbs and drizzle with mixture of lemon juice and 1-4 cup syrup from pears. Combine sugar, salt and spices; sprinkle over pears. Top with rest of crumb mixture. Lightning on the Links

Claps of distant thunder failed to dampen Freddie's determination to finish his round of golf. But when the rain began to fall, he took hasty refuge in a weather shelter near the thirteenth tee.

Moments later, a bolt of lightning struck the shelter and knocked Freddie flat. For the resulting injuries, he filed a damage suit against the management of the club.

"I realize the lightning itself was an act of God," he told the court. "But they invited trouble when they put that shelter where they did. They put it right out in the open, on high ground. No wonder it was struck by lightning."

However, the court decided that Freddie had no case. Even if the shelter's location was less than ideal, said the court, the chance of such a freak accident was still too remote to pin the blame on the management. "Lightning," said the court, "is inconsistent (and) inscrutable. It is no respecter of persons, places or occasions."

foreseeable accidents. In another case, a golfer walking through the parking lot was knocked down by a wayward tee shot. As it happened, balls flew that way with considerable frequency. Yet, no fence had been erected as a safeguard.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Soil tests are a requirement for cost sharing practices under the recently announced Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), administered locally by the ASCS, reminds County Agent Parker.

The cost sharing practices involved cover fertilizer and limestone applications, he adds. Because many farmers are asking about the procedure for soil sampling and testing the county agent makes these suggestions.

First, obtain instruction for collecting samples and boxes from the county agent's office. Study the sampling instructions or discuss with the county agent or some one familiar with soil sample taking before going to the field. Samples should be sampled or taken from 10 to 15 different spots in the field. Established sods should be sampled to a depth of 3 to 4 inches, cultivated land to plow depth.

Mix the soil thoroughly and send about a pint to testing laboratory in the boxes provided. Do not use a galvanized bucket or sampling tool, advises the county agent, since this will contaminate the soil with zinc.

The history of cropping, fertilization and liming should be included on the information sheet sent along with the samples. Be as specific about crops to be grown, potential yields and how forage will be used as possible. Recommendations vary according to soil nutrient levels and requirements for a given crop.

If the soil test results are to be used in connection with REAP Program practices, be sure to put the ASCS Farm number in the upper right hand corner of the information sheet. If this is done, suggested fertilization and or liming will be considered minimum for establishing or improving vegetative cover and the county ASCS office will be mailed a copy of the test results, advised the county agent. He adds he will be happy to assist producers with other information on soil sampling and testing.

A usable, functional and pleasing to look at home landscaping is within the reach of most homeowners. Too, adds C. T. Parker, Jr., a properly planned landscape need not require a great deal of time and labor for maintenance.

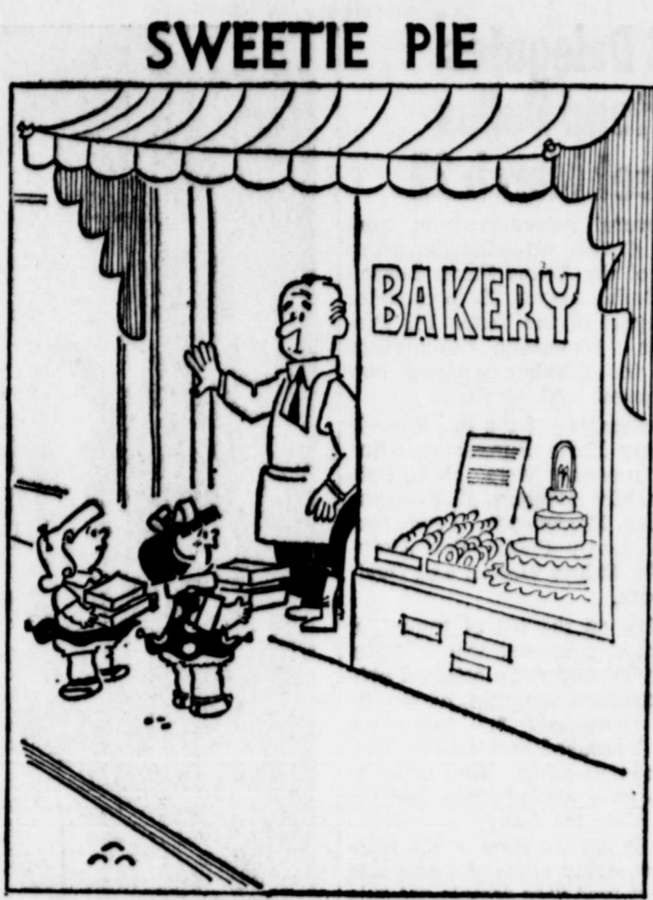

Here are suggestions for reducing maintenance and at the same time improving the usability and attractiveness of yards. Divide the yard space into use areas; most yards include the public area, commonly the front yard, the family area results in more usable and easier to care for yard, he says.

Flower beds, shrub borders and tree masses can be separated from the grassed areas. For this purpose some type of edging material can be used. It may be made from redwood or bricks or metal.

Careful selection of turfgrass varieties, tree and shrub species can also reduce maintenance requirements, Parker says. Some species are resistant to insects and diseases and should always receive consideration. Some also have drought resistance.

Difficulty in growing plants often results from poor surface or internal water drainage. Improved slopes can solve the poor surface drainage problem and incorporation of organic matter into the soil can greatly improve internal drainage. The addition of two or three inches of well rotted manure, peat moss, compost or other forms of organic matter and humus will improve soil which is too heavy or sandy.

The peach twig borer, catfacing insect (stink and lygus bugs,) the plum curculio, and several other insects will damage peaches and plums this year, unless a well planned and well executed insect control program is followed.

Most in season insect pests of stone fruits can be controlled by five or six well timed insecticide applications. These applications should be applied at the pink bud, petal fall and shuck split stages with the addition of two or three cover spray applications. The first cover spray application should be made 10-14 days after the shuck split application and the second 14 to 21 days after the first cover spray.

Commercial orchards should be sprayed again 21 to 25 days after the second cover spray, but this application is not generally necessary in small orchards.

HEALTH COLUMN HS Cheerleaders Elected Recently

The medical profession will focus attention on diabetes April 7 on World Health Day and it's a disease worthy of attention.

"A full life despite diabetes" is theme of World Health Day. This slogan is more than just words to the three million known diabetics in this country. On a nation-wide scale, about two percent of the population is estimated to have diabetes, reports the Texas State Department of Health. But only half of its victims know of the disease. It is hidden in the other half.

Although diabetes has been known to man since about 1500 B. C., there is no cure. However, the introduction of insulin therapy during the 1920's, followed by oral drugs in the 1950's, has been a lifesaver for millions of people.

Diabetes affects people of all ages. In the United States it is 10 times more prevalent after age 45. The chance of it occurring among children under age 15 is only one in 2,500. Diabetes, simply put, is too much sugar in the blood. Blood sugar—glucose—isn't broken down into body fuel as it should be because of a malfunction of the pancreas.

A person with diabetes may have these symptoms: excessive thirst, frequent urination, excessive hunger, weight loss, failing eyesight, intense itching, pain in fingers and toes, weakness, tiredness and drowsiness.

Dr. H. E. Smith, chief of the Preventive Medical Services Section of the State Health Department, says those most likely to have the disease are: persons more than 45 years of age; persons more than 45 who are close blood relatives of diabetics; obese persons 45 or older; and parents of large babies (nine pounds or more at birth).

HS Cheerleaders Elected Recently

The student body of Winters High School last week elected cheerleaders for the 1971-72 school year. Each class is represented. Alternates were elected for the first time this year.

Head cheerleader will be Tandy Medford, and assistant head cheerleader, Cheryl Drake, both senior students.

Other cheerleaders are Trish Hill, junior; Cheryl Whitlow, sophomore; and Mary Lynn Bedford, freshman.

when the parents are 45 or older.

The State Health Department, through its local health departments and Texas Migrant Project, focuses its attention on these candidates. Through a blood screening program, blood samples are sent to the State Health Department Laboratories in Austin for testing. An AutoAnalyzer used to automatically test the samples checks an average of more than 100 blood samples each day for sugar. And the number is increasing.

Finding the diabetic is important. The earlier diabetes is detected, the easier it can be controlled and a person put on the proper diet and drugs. Death rate from diabetes is about 16 per 100,000 population. It is one of the top 10 killers, ranking about eighth, and contributes to other deaths, says Dr. Smith.

Since there is no cure, early diagnosis and treatment is vital. Treatment soon after onset, with good control of the condition, helps not only to prolong life but may prevent or delay the development of complications and lead to a "full life despite diabetes."

of Winters (still questioned in some quarters) was something under 3,000—a drop from the previous count of 3266 ten years ago. However, if everyone living "in Winters"—that is, in the additions and developments joining the actual City Limits, and making up the economical population of the city, the count probably would be much higher—say about 3560.

Now that we have a base figure from which to work, let's do a little imaginative figuring: Suppose that on Jan. 1, 1970, there were 3560 persons living within the perimeter of Winters; and then on Dec. 31, 1970, there was not one single person living here... just stark, empty and decaying buildings, with the streets filling with tumbleweeds, and grass and weeds growing rank where once were lawns and gardens.

In our supposing, we don't mean to suppose all the people moved away, but that everyone of those 3560 persons, within a year, had vanished from the face of the earth under horrible but preventable circumstances. It would be a great tragedy, and one which would cause investigations to be initiated; would cause our lawmakers to double efforts to prevent the same thing from happening to other cities of this size; and one which would cause even us, if we should have happened to have moved just prior to the great disappearance, to take stock of the situation and make some corrections.

All this is not imagination, though — that many people enough to make up a city the size of Winters—did disappear, under horrible circumstances, in Texas last year, and yet we seem to do nothing about it, except pay lip service to the problem. According to reports from the Department of Public Safety, there were 3560 traffic fatalities in Texas in 1970! Many lawmakers, and others, get a lot of mileage out of statistics like that, but when all is said and done, little is done about it. And apparently nothing will be done, until each individual takes a personal interest and becomes involved... that's the only way it is going to be changed.

Old Fort Griffin Due Construction

ALBANY—Fort Griffin, home of the official State Longhorn Herd, is due to get a visitors center and historic site restoration.

A $55,764 contract was recently awarded to Stein Lumber Co. of Fredericksburg for work at the historic site located 15 miles north of Albany.

The project should be completed in November.

Old Fort Griffin was established in 1867 on a bluff overlooking the townsite of Fort Griffin and the Clear Fork of the Brazos River. The fort was deactivated in 1881. The nearby town of Albany annually holds a "Fandangle" in commemoration of frontier times.

FB Delegates Attend Dallas Meet March 22

Several delegates from Runnels County attended the meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau in Dallas March 22 to consider a report of the Texas FB Program Expansion Committee and to consider proposed new programs and services.

Delegates from Runnels County Farm Bureau attending the meeting were M. L. Dobbins, Mrs. Dobbins, E. F. Albro, James Eggemeyer, Leon Frech, Leroy Peizel, Carl Gottschalk, Sidney Horton and Doyle Condra.

High on the list of important changes proposed was a state-wide TV and radio oriented public relations program, as well as new proposals for marketing and increased services to county membership. The delegate body as a whole "recognized the fact that the image of agriculture is not too good in the highly populated cities of Texas and that if food is to remain not only a bargain but in plentiful supply then certain areas of lawmaking must be explained and the potential effect of new rules and regulations must reflect their effect upon all areas of agriculture rather than just upon the ecology and suspected pollution."
