HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

When many of us started learning to drive automobiles, we had all outdoors—West Texas itself—in which to maneuver the "T's" and "A's," the Chevys, and if we were fortunate, maybe an "Essex" or "Buick," and then a little later, the first Ford V-8's. Our teachers were probably our fathers or friends, who had themselves, for the most part, by-gone and by-goshed, gee-hawed, whoaed and yapped through the primary stages of "learning to keep 'er between the fences," until they were "experienced drivers." The instructions they gave were skimpy at best, and only a small portion of what they had learned, which was basic to say the least. "Put the spark lever in this position, put your left foot on the clutch pedal, while you slowly pull down on this gas lever, but keep the other hand on the wheel."

Most of the posts around the yard probably had the bark rubbed off, while getting a touch of Henry's black paint in return. Narrow-doored "car sheds"—many of which probably started out as buggy sheds, bore the everlasting marks of new drivers. It was a good thing there was little traffic during some of those driver-training years, or fairly large and fenced pastures—a majority of us probably wouldn't be here today if we had used the same methods of learning to drive in heavy traffic.

Most of the parents of the young drivers coming up today grow up with steering wheels in their hands, and their feet on gas pedals. And they, like most of us, like to think that driving an auto has evolved into a basic human instinct. But it ain't necessarily so, even though drivers today, as a whole, are probably better than they have ever been. Driving an automobile, properly, could possibly be considered an "art," and should receive as much importance in the scheme of education as any other art. Especially in this day of a moving America.

Some public schools are—and many have been for some time—putting a lot more importance on driver education. Some states consider driver training a requirement toward issuance of a high school diploma. And the driver training programs offered in most schools are not hit-and-miss affairs, but are scientifically developed to instill driver ability and knowledge in the young mind. Some are more advanced than others, but with any of them, a young person will become a much better—and therefore safer—driver than if this part of their education were left to chance.

A chap we know, we'll call him Jim, took his car to the garage to have the timer worked on. A friend, when asked where Jim was, replied, "Oh, he took his car down to have the clock fixed."

Interesting note: According to William R. Johnson, sales promotion manager for J. C. Penny Company, the "backbone of our advertising effort is still our newspaper advertising. Our store managers know that their newspaper ads produce sales dollars. They are willing to use radio and television in carefully selected lines, but don't try to cut back on their newspaper budget. Broadcast is something you do with new money when increased advertising dollars are available to you."

DANE BISHOP

Billy Graham Movie At First Baptist June 16

"Lost Generation," the latest release from World Wide Pictures, will be shown Wednesday, June 16, at the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Harry Grantz, pastor, has announced.

The movie will be shown once at 7:30 p. m., with no admission charge. The public is cordially invited.

Filed in Eastmancolor, "Lost Generation," utilizes multiple screen images and a probing documentary style to investigate attitudes on dissent, violence, the mood of America, and the answers that can be found by this generation as they face the decisions of life.

According to the Rev. Harry Grantz, the opinions of both young and old, urban and rural, rich and poor, are brought to the screen as the camera focuses on people of various backgrounds throughout the nation. Location shots were filmed in Alaska, the Southern states, on the farms and in the small towns of mid-America, and in the dying Haight-Ashbury hippie district of San Francisco.

The feature-length film, which includes special appearances by Billy Graham, Art Linkletter, and Jack Webb, was described by one reviewer as a "moving film that calls on us to make a decision about how much we want to get involved in the troubles of our times. It is a relevant story that demands our immediate attention."

Jimmy B. Brewer Completes Basic Army Training

Army Private Jimmy B. Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Brewer of Winters, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry, Fort Polk, La.

He received instruction in drills and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Dane Bishop, ex-Winters High School Blizzard, and named to both offensive and defensive all-district teams in 1970, has been selected to play on one of the teams in the Greenbelt Football Classic at Childress August 14.

Teams made up for the Greenbelt Bowl are picked from high school all-star lineups, who have graduated from high school.

Bishop, who played center and linebacker for two years on the Blizzard squad, was named to the 1970 all-district first teams, as a center on offense and as a linebacker on defense.

He is the son of E. J. Bishop, and graduated with the class of 1971 recently. He plans to attend Angelo State University next fall.

Each boy selected for play in the Greenbelt Bowl is permitted to select a young lady to be his queen nominee for Queen of the Greenbelt Bowl. Miss Lynanne Hill of Winters is Bishop's nominee. A beauty pageant will be held on Friday night before the game and all nominees will ride in the parade the day of the game.

Former Resident Gets Sales Award At Lubbock

Lewis Irvin, salesman for Adams Extract Co. for metropolitan Lubbock and the surrounding area, was named his company's 1971 Distinguished Salesman by the Sales and Marketing Executives Club in Austin at their annual awards dinner June 8. Irvin is a native of Winters.

Basis for Irvin's selection for this award is the outstanding sales he has built over the years through overwhelming enthusiasm, ability to earn his customers' confidence, his continuing tenacity for work and his unwavering devotion to his company and the quality of its products.

Irvin and his wife, Ila Mae, reside in Lubbock. They have three children, two daughters, Jean Ann, now married and Julia Mae, and a son, Danny.

WINNERS—These three members of the Runnels County Archery Association won trophies in competition at the recent State Archery Meet near Abilene State Park. They are, Rick Egbert, a second place; Mickie Clark, a second place; and Marvin Clark, a first place.

Council Grants Phone Company Rate Increase

Winters City Council Monday night approved a service rate increase for General Telephone Company, although the increase is considerably lower than originally requested by the telephone company.

The telephone company had first requested what would amount to an increase of about 33 percent on most services.

New rates will be effective July 13, 1971.

New service rates for Winters will be:

Business, 1 party, from $9.00 to $10.50.
Business extension, $1.75, no change.

Residence, 1 party, from $5.50 to $6.00.

Residence, 2 party, from $4.50 to $5.00.

Residence extension, $1.25, no change.

Rural business, from $9.00 to $10.50.

Rural residence, from $5.50 to $6.00.

No further action was taken toward establishing Extended Area Service, connecting the Winters phone system with the rural systems in this area. It was indicated, however, that if and when this service is made available, a larger increase in local rates would be necessary.

NYC Boys Work In Clean-Up Following Flood

Boys enrolled in the Neighborhood Youth Corps program in the Winters school, and Coach Chill Black, director of the program, worked in the Sunlaw and Leeman Additions this week helping to clear away the debris and silt washed in by Monday night's flooding.

The crew raked up and piled the trash and tree limbs, fence posts, railroad ties, and old tires which had washed into the yards and on the streets. The trash is being hauled away by City trucks.

The residents of the areas have expressed thanks to the young men for their hard work in helping to clean up and return conditions to normal.

Gerald W. Merz, Range Conservationist with the Runnels County Soil Conservation Service, attended a five-day basic leadership course at the SCS Regional Technical Service Center in Fort Worth May 24-28.

Included in the 27 other personnel attending the session was Fred E. Minzenmayer of Corsicana, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Minzenmayer of Winters. He is a soil scientist working with the SCS at Corsicana.

Primary purpose of the training session was to help develop basic leadership among new employees in the SCS.

Flood Victims Say Thanks For Use of Pump

"The Families of Paloma Street wish to thank Albert Brown for the use of the pump and the work in pumping the water from under our homes following Monday night's flooding.

"Without the pump, damage to our homes would have been much greater."

Cong. Bureson Regrets Losing Runnels County

Washington, D. C.—Congressman Omar Bureson today commented on the Congressional Redistricting just completed by the Texas Legislature. "By legal necessity," he said, "the State Legislature has just gone thru the most difficult job of reapportioning Congressional Districts on the basis of population. The outcome of these adjustments is never calculated to please everyone and, as a matter of fact, they seldom please anyone completely. The Legislature does the best job it can, and it is no easy one."

In Bureson's statement he laments the fact that Runnels County was removed from his Congressional District.

His continuing statement follows: "It has been my contention that factors other than population should enter into the consideration of drawing lines of Congressional Districts. The Courts, however, have held that population controls. It is my feeling that the interest of good government is not served unless a community of interest is maintained in a representative District. I also feel that the people's Representative in Congress should know those whom he represents and they should know them. To lose constituents with whom I have worked for a great many years is like losing something real personal and tangible. I put representation in the Congress of my constituents on a very personal basis. I like to know not only the interests of the broad community but the problems, the opinions and the attitudes of the individual."

"I regret exceedingly that I will not have the privilege of representing the people of Runnels County after the 92nd Congress, but I shall maintain a personal interest in the communities and hope to keep contacts with the valued friendships establishments over this period of time."

Circus Coming To Abilene June 22 and 23

Coming to Abilene from Madison Square Garden where it is now showing, Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus, which will bring its brand of excitement and color to Abilene for the first time in nearly 20 years June 22 and 23, will benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

Bobby Sayles, president of the WTRC Board of Directors, announced the Center's participation in the four Abilene performances of the 100th birthday edition of the Circus Wednesday.

He said that the Center will receive 20 percent of the gross proceeds. The Circus will receive the first $60,000 and the Center the next $15,000 with the balance to be split on a 20-80 basis.

Center officials noted that their profit depends on the success of the show, adding that the event is in keeping with the Center's policy of sponsoring wholesome entertainment and striving to produce at least two outstanding shows per year for the Big Country.

The WTRC arrangement with the circus was not on a guarantee basis of any kind and the Center will not be out any expense, officials said.

The Circus will arrive in town June 21 by old-fashioned circus train. After unloading, an animal march from the train to the Taylor County Coliseum will take place.

The Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus has been acclaimed for its attempt to bring back the original spirit and showmanship of the Circus.

Winters Riders To Plan Trail Ride To Coleman

The Winters Riding Club will meet at the club arena on the Old Crews Road, at 8 p. m. Thursday, June 17.

Plans will be made for the annual trail ride to Coleman, which will be held July 6.

All members and others interested in riding are invited to attend this meeting.

North Runnels Hit By Hail Again

Hail and heavy rains, accompanied by high winds, again romped across North Runnels Monday night, causing flooding conditions in some sections of West Winters and leaving a trail of ruined crops in some sections.

Blowing in from the north, and a bit west, again, the heavy clouds dumped "about 9 inches" of rain, along with hail, in the Drasco Community, and a heavy amount in the Pumphrey community. One reliable report said "at least 12 inches of rain" fell in the area a few miles northwest of Winters. Heavy rainfall also was reported in other sections of the area, except on the watershed of the new Winters Lake. The lake caught very little water.

Winters' official U. S. Weather gauge showed a total of 5.34 inches of rain Monday night.

Small pea-size and marble-size hail covered the ground in the Drasco area, but no building damage was reported. However, crops took a beating, it was said, from the hail and also from high water. In some instances, it was said, cotton and milo may recover, but in most, total wipe-out was reported.

Larger hail fell closer to Winters. All north windows of the office building at Win-Tex Cattle Feeders, northwest of Winters, about three miles, were knocked out by tennis ball and softball size hail, according to reports.

In Winters proper, marble-size hail fell, but no extensive damage has been reported.

Heavy rainfall caused flooding conditions in West Winters. Water was about hip deep on Paloma Street, and on West State Street, and several homes received considerable damage to carpets and floors as the water entered. Damage was apparently greater on Paloma Street in Sunlaw, that street being closer to the little creek running between the addition and the rest of the town. Roselane Street in Sunlaw also was turned into a raging torrent, and some home damage was reported.

The raging waters swept into parked cars in Sunlaw, and reports of extensive damage have been received. Several cars and pickups were swept along with the torrent for several feet, and some of them for almost a block. Fence posts and logs were lodged against fences, houses and under cars parked in carports and on the streets. A big truck tire and wheel was seen being swept from some place down Roselane, along with a smaller tire and wheel. In some instances, homeowners tore fences out to let water and debris escape to prevent backwaters from causing more damage. In other instances, the flood waters tore the fences out. One automobile parked in a carport was turned sideways by the power of the current.

On West Dale Street, water rose about a foot in the offices of Winters Construction Co., and the street was closed to traffic at the creek crossing.

In the Leeman Addition, north of West Dale, some home damage was reported, with debris piled up against fences, homes and parked cars, and mud accumulated in driveways and carports.

Several cars were stalled on FM 53 west of Winters, and were pulled out by men and equipment from West Texas Utilities Company and Seal's Wrecking Service. No one was reported injured, although water damage to automobiles was expected to be high.

A group of Little League baseball players, returning to Winters from Bronte, were forced to leave FM 53 and go to Ballinger and then to Winters.

Water was pouring over the dam at the old Winters Lake north of town, and Bluff Creek was out of banks. However, very little water was running in Elm Creek northwest of Winters, flowing into the new lake.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Women Smokers

Women have more trouble quitting smoking than men do. Nobody knows why. In fact, from 1955 to 1965 the percentage of adult male smokers decreased. More and more men kicked the habit. But the percentage of women smokers actually increased.

Today rates for both adult male and female smokers are tapering off. But a very high percentage of young women of child-bearing age quit but do not stick with it. They slip back into the tar and nicotine habit.

The results are alarming. Pregnant women who smoke one or two packs a day have significantly more stillbirths than women who don't smoke. In one study of 7,500 women, the incidence of spontaneous abortion and premature births was almost twice as great for smoking mothers compared to non-smoking ones. Some researchers now also suspect that traces of nicotine found in the milk of mothers who smoke adversely affect the nursing infants.

Mothers who smoke set the pattern for their children, especially girls. The percentage of teenage girls who smoke is now nearly 40 percent, almost as high as that for boys who smoke. And smoking mothers may also damage the health of their young, non-smoking children. Some studies show that rates of acute respiratory illness among non-smoking children of parents who smoke at home are twice as high as for children of non-smoking parents. The amount of smoke in the home may itself be related to increased illness. Cigarette-smoke in closed places has some of the same effects on non-smokers as on smokers. But on a decreased level.

Women who smoke spend 17 percent more days sick in bed each year on the average than non-smoking women. They have three times the rate of chronic bronchitis and emphysema. And the number of women dying from these two diseases has doubled in the last decade.

For more information about the hazards of smoking, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. They have the facts.

While vegetation helps sustain life, some common plants, trees and shrubs are potential killers, says the Texas State Department of Health.

We eat herbs and the fruits, leaves and roots of many plants in our daily diet, but some plants we deliberately cultivate are deadly.

To the average person, the term "poisonous plant" usually brings to mind visions of poison ivy, or some similar plant that poisons or irritates upon contact. But most poisonous plants are harmful only when they are eaten. In fact, more than 700 species of plants in the United States are known to have caused death or illness. Every year about 12,000 children in this country chew or swallow potentially poisonous plants. A study conducted several years ago revealed that 10 per cent of all child poisonings were caused from eating toxic plants—yet over half of the parents were unaware of the dangers of the plants. Eighty-five per cent of all poisoning cases involving poisonous plants involve children.

It is difficult to believe that one leaf of the graceful poinsettia could kill a child, or that tea made from mistletoe berries have killed adults. Who would expect that the beautiful oleander bush—grown indoors and outdoors all over the country—contains a deadly heart stimulant, similar to the drug digitalis? So powerful is this poison that a single leaf of an oleander can kill a child. And many people have died merely from eating steaks speared on oleander twigs and roasted over a fire.

It's easy to be deceived by plants, for one part may be edible while another is poisonous. All parts of the buttercup, rhododendron, and laurel are harmful. In other plants, only certain parts are toxic. A classic example is the rhubarb which has a perfectly edible stalk, but the leaf contains a deadly poison.

In the strict sense of the word, poison ivy and its cousins are not really poisonous. They contain no poisonous substances and are termed "allergens" because, like golden-rod, they affect only persons who are allergic to them. But over 50 per cent of those who handle these plants will develop mild to severe dermatitis, or skin irritation.

The "poisonous" plants do

Antelope Jaw Bone Study In Progress

Austin — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists are studying the teeth of pronghorn in order to learn more about the age of the animals.

Heading the project is Tommy Hailey, biologist for the department. Hailey is collecting antelope jaw bones from hunters, road kills and any other source which can supply him.

In 1969 hunters were able to add to Hailey's growing collection 11 known-age jaw bones from animals which had been tagged as fawns.

Jaw bones collected in various age classes exhibit overlapping stages of tooth eruption, and from previous age data biologists are able to tell an animal's age by examining the teeth.

contain toxic agents which can cause direct harm when in contact with the skin or absorbed by the body. Poisonous saps and juices of some plants cause severe irritation on contact, actually burning the skin. However, most poisonous plants must be eaten to cause adverse effects.

Jerky Popular As New Snack Food

COLLEGE STATION—A food American Indians used long before this country was settled, and that pioneers and prospectors carried with them along western trails, is making a comeback as a snack food.

"Charqui," as early Andean people called it, is today called "jerky" and is becoming more and more popular, reports Sally Springer, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

Jerky, sold in food stores and by mail order, is thinly-sliced lean beef that has been spiced and air dried, oven dried or smoked. In pioneer days it took 2 to 3 months to naturally cure the meat. But jerky can now be made within 24 hours with advanced processing techniques.

U. S. Department of Agriculture's inspection standards of sanitation and processing are applied to jerky, as for all meat products that are shipped interstate. USDA inspectors also closely examine labeling of jerky and check for the appropriate moisture-protein ratio, which allows the product to be stored without refrigeration.

Because jerky doesn't require refrigeration, it is a convenient "take along" snack or between-meal treat that is both tasty and nutritious. The meat supplies high quality protein that is needed for building and repairing tissues.

Big Fish Grow Bigger

Bastrop—A study to determine the minimum size of catfish which can be successfully stocked in lakes containing a large bass population is nearing completion at Lake Bastrop.

A Texas Parks and Wildlife Department study crew is in its third and final year of the project which involves the stocking of channel and blue catfish. "These fish, instead of being the usual fingerling size (normal hatchery fish), range from seven to 12 inches in length," explains Lonnie Peters, an inland fisheries supervisor.

All of the stocked catfish have plastic streamer-tags on their left sides. They first began showing up in fishermen's creels in 1969. Since then, they have been landed in increasing numbers. Some have been taken weighing up to six pounds, but the average weight is about two pounds.

FIX-IT TIP

Care should be taken when buying tools for your gardening pursuits. You need a rake, but make sure it is a rake that suits you. Heft every tool. Get one with the most comfortable weight and feel to it. Look for balance. Buy good tools — they will last for years if they are cared for. Get the basics before you blow your whole budget on nonessentials. You will need tools for digging, cultivating, pruning, watering and spraying. For the lawn you will need tools to cut and clean up. Invest sensibly and wait for other seasons for the frills when you are in a better position to determine what you really need.

Frozen water pipes should be thawed slowly. Fast thawing causes steam to form at one point, causing bursting. For this reason, and so as not to cause fire hazards, do not use a blowtorch. Heat lamps, hair dryers, heating cable, light bulbs can be pressed into service. Move the heat along the pipe. Work close to the faucet at the opposite end from the shutoff valve. Keep the faucet open, so the water can flow as the ice melts.

In repairing a noisy, older water faucet, check the threads of the faucet spindle itself. If badly worn, it may not fit well. Look at the threads for signs of wear or damage. Get a new spindle if you can, taking the old one with you to a plumbing supply house. It will help if you know the name of the manufacturer of the faucet. In rare instances, the entire faucet may need replacing, but generally a new spindle will be enough.

Prairie Dog Pups Born In Big Spring Park

Big Spring—The thing prairie dogs do best is make more prairie dogs.

State park officials at Big Spring State Park have noted that four tiny pups have been seen cavorting about with the 12 adult prairie dogs recently transplanted to the park from Mackenzie State Park.

Texas Parks and Wildlife officials hope the small colony will grow into a popular attraction such as the Mackenzie prairie dog "town" and perhaps provide brood stock for more "prairie poodle" transplants in the future.

Use of TAP Sign Regulated By State Law

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White was given the duties of regulating the use of the now famous TAP (Texas Agricultural Products) symbol in a bill signed into law last week by Governor Preston Smith.

The Texas Department of Agriculture initiated the TAP program in 1968 and has energetically promoted Texas agricultural products since; but prior to the new law Commissioner White could regulate use of the TAP symbol only as it was used on eggs and their containers.

The new law signed by Governor Smith in last week's ceremony directs: "The commissioner of agriculture by rule shall regulate the use of the term 'Texas Agricultural Product' and any symbol connected with that term in the selling, advertising, marketing, and other commercial handling of food and fibers products."

Any person who violates rules governing the use of TAP as promulgated by the commissioner is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction is punishable by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $200, according to the new law.

Commissioner White said that the TAP program is trying to make all consumers—especially Texas consumers—aware of the fact that Texas agricultural products are "first in quality, economy and availability."

The new law gives Commissioner White the authority to prohibit use of the TAP symbol on any products that are not Texas produced and that are not first in quality, economy, and availability. White urged producers to apply for and use the TAP symbol on their packages to take advantage of the promotional assistance his department is giving.

Longhorn Cattle Will Be Branded And Moved

San Angelo — Texas' state parks have some of the finest longhorn cattle left in Texas, says Bob Hauser, regional director for parks in the West Texas area. Several of them will be branded and moved this week.

Of the 111 animals now in such parks as Longhorn Caverns, Lyndon B. Johnson, Possum Kingdom, Abilene, Fort Griffin, Copper Breaks, Palo Duro and Dinosaur Valley, a total of 31 animals will be selected and branded, then registered.

Before an animal is registered, officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department allow it to reach about 18 months of age, then carefully select those with characteristics most like the traditional cattle that populated the early day ranches and trails of the state.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN—Legislature in regular session agreed to submit 14 more proposed constitutional amendments to voters in November, 1972.

Among major ones is HJR 61, which would authorize the 1973 Legislature to serve as a constitutional revision convention.

Two others (HJR 58 and HJR 95) would provide for raise in salaries of legislators (to $8,400) and lieutenant governor and House speaker (to $22,500).

Other amendments on the general election ballot in 1972 will be:

—SJR 1—Providing four-year terms for governor and other statewide officials now limited to two-year terms.

—SJR 16—Guaranteeing that no rights will be abridged because of sex, race, color, creed or national origin.

—SJR 7 — Permitting local governments on popular vote to exempt $3,000 of assessed value of resident homesteads of persons 65 or older from all ad valorem taxes.

—HJR 68—Providing for advertising (twice) of proposed constitutional amendments in all legal newspapers in Texas.

—HJR 35—Authorizing a tax exemption for disabled veterans and a partial exemption for partially-disabled veterans.

—HJR 57—Permitting county commissioners to reduce the county permanent school fund and provide for payment of money to independent and common school districts on per-scholarship basis.

—SJR 29—Providing that state employees can serve on non-paying school boards and city governing bodies without forfeiting state pay.

SJR 20—Exempting soil and water conservation district directors from dual office-holding prohibitions.

—HJR 61—Relating to rates of interest to be borne by bonds.

HJR 41—Requiring that justices of the peace be compensated on salary basis.

—HJR 31—Abolishing Lamar County hospital district.

JOBLESS ROLL DROPS

Number of unemployed in the state decreased 6,000 during April to 181,000, Texas Employment Commission reports.

TEC said the jobless rate was only 3.8 percent of the total labor force, thus the decline may signal a "possible end to the doldrums of the past year."

Mid-April figure was identical with December, 1970 and considered probably the lowest of the year.

Thirteen labor areas reported improvements. Austin enjoyed the lowest rate of unemployment in the state—1.8 percent of the labor force.

APPOINTMENTS

State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert named William Skelton of Lubbock as a member of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles. Senate confirmed the appointment.

Charles W. Horan Jr., Fort Worth, is the new chairman of Texas Tourist Development Board, succeeding John R. Mc-

LIQUOR TAX PASSED

Tax on liquor-by-the-drink passed in the first days of the special legislative session.

Measure (HB 3) will place a 10 per cent gross receipts levy on sales and service of mixed drinks in bars and private clubs. Cities and counties each will get 15 per cent of the revenue collected within their boundaries.

Bill also boosted the tax on liquor from $1.68 to $2 a gallon and upped the wine gallonage tax depending on strength of the wine.

Beer tax on July 1 will go up from $4.30 to $5.00 a barrel. This rate supercedes the $6 a barrel ordered in the regular session omnibus tax bill (HB 730).

About $28 million in new revenue for the next two years is expected from the bill.

COURTS SPEAK

Clark's discount house in Abilene cannot legally arrange with an allied concern (Sundaco Inc.) to offer Sunday sales in its store, State Supreme Court ruled.

High Court also reversed and sent back for a new trial a Dallas auto accident case where the jury returned two different verdicts as to which driver failed to yield the right-of-way.

Court of Criminal Appeals, reversing a Galena Park robbery by assault conviction, held that jurors are not qualified without expert advice to decide whether signature of a defendant is the same as that on criminal records.

A San Antonio man's claim that removal of a bullet from his back was an illegal search because the surgeon turned the slug over to a policeman was overruled by Court of Criminal Appeals.

AG OPINIONS

A called session of the Legislature cannot pass a legislative redistricting bill, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said in a recent opinion. Martin held that unfinished Senatorial reapportionment must be accomplished by a five-member committee of state officials.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

—Taxing authority of a junior college district is specified by the Texas Education Code, regardless of whether the board of trustees of the district is also board of trustees of the independent school district. If a separate board of trustees is created for the junior college district, it would have control and management of all district property but only such control over school district property as the district board agrees to.

—Alcoholic Beverage Commission has no authority or jurisdiction to regulate beer sales by vendors who sell from ship's chandlerage under U. S. Customs bond.

—State Treasurer will receive fines collected in district court for violation of the Texas Motor Carrier Act, and neither district attorney nor district clerk may retain a percentage.

—A bill providing for establishment of a schedule of abused drugs by rule of the State Board of Pharmacy and for dispensing of drugs is constitutional.

AIR PERMITS NECESSARY

A new law provides that any company planning to construct or modify a facility which may emit air contaminants must get a construction permit from the Air Control Board.

If a construction permit is granted, the facility must also have a permit to operate before going into actual operation.

Air Control Board will formulate procedures for implementation of the permit system.

MH-MR GRANTS APPROVED

Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation approved $260,795 in supplemental grants for improving MH-MR facilities.

Grants went to Abilene Area MH-MR Board of trustees, $34,581; Bell County, $15,000; Dallas County, $26,593; Lubbock County $10,000; Midland, $13,176; Austin-Travis County, $43,100; Galveston County, $12,826; Brownwood, $5,000; Nueces County, $10,000 and Harris County $125,000.

SHORT SNORTS

Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has approved a $296,150 grant for the development of Pedernales Falls State Park in Blanco County.

Alpine Independent School District has been cleared by the Texas Highway Department to acquire highway department property as site for a new high school.

State Industrial Commission officials are in Munich, Germany, to promote development of international trade for Texas.

Construction showed a seven percent gain in April over March, five per cent of which was accounted for by residential building, reports University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

State economy and immediate prospects for significant recovery is described as "checked" by the Bureau of Business Research, but encouraging indications must be weighed against "soft spots."

Driver Education Students Use Modern Means

A large trailer—a classroom on wheels—equipped with modern facilities and equipment for driver training, is being used by the Winters High School driver education class.

A class of about 20 students, under W. R. Leifester, is using the mobil training unit which is provided by the Texas Education Agency through the Regional Education Service Center at San Angelo.

The mobil unit is equipped with a classroom seating 35 students. Slide and motion picture projectors are mounted in the unit, and flash the information and questions on a screen in one end of the classroom. Each desk is equipped with four "answer" buttons, connected with an electronic "Driverator," which records each answer, and gives individual and class percentages.

The unit provides for more rapid and accurate driver instructions. Leifester said, and prepares students for the written tests which they will have to take following the course in order to obtain Texas driver licenses. Following two hours of classroom work each day, students are given actual driver training in a car with dual controls.

UNION GOOF

When Mike was fired from his job as a mechanic, the company cited "incompetence" as the reason. But Mike thought the real reason was prejudice. At his request, the union started the grievance machinery in motion.

Eventually, the arbitrator ruled against him. But Mike, still not satisfied, decided to file a damage suit against the union itself.

"They just didn't try hard enough," he argued in court. "At the arbitration hearing, the union representatives didn't even know the facts of my case. Furthermore, they forgot to tell me the date of the hearing, so I wasn't even there. They also forgot to keep record of proceedings."

The court decided that the union had indeed fallen down on its job and would have to pay damages to Mike. The judge said a union must show reasonable diligence in standing up for the rights of its members.

Most courts agree. However, that does not mean a union is liable every time a member's grievance is turned down. As a practical matter, the law gives a union considerable leeway in deciding how to handle a particular grievance.

WASHINGTON
"As it looks from here"
OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There was a time when golfers went to the course to forget about everything except to keep the head down, a straight left arm on the back-swing, shift weight to the left side on down-swing and carry the club through with a high finish.

Now worries are besetting some older clubs and their members with courses closed in with building developments. The space is needed for other things, they say (other than golfers). But there are other problems, too.

Pending lawsuits allege that it is discriminatory to limit or qualify memberships or to charge fees of any kind. Contention is made that golf courses are a public responsibility and should be publicly owned and operated as a service.

Safety on the golf course is getting attention too. Several years ago someone came up with statistics to show that in proportion to the number of players, golf was the most hazardous of all American sports. Doubts on such a conclusion are, of course, in order. As recalled, included in the statistics were heart failures, lightning and probably apoplexy following a slice or a missed putt.

The National Safety Council now adds a dimension not present a few years ago—the unsafe golf cart. The Council confidently predicts "several thousand" injuries from golf cart accidents during the summer season.

The Council calls the carts "a safety problem that warrants attention." It says that many carts are unstable and roll over while traversing slopes on the bias and others lose their brakes completely, crash into players, other carts, trees and fences, resulting in some serious injuries.

America being what it is, there is, of course, an American Golf Car Association. It claims to be working on the safety problem right at this minute. According to their report they are financing a study on proposed new standards to provide greater cart safety.

Safety, though, is not really the thing that sort of saddens the heart of about all this. It is rather the idea that grown men can't use a little common sense for their own protection. If everything is going to be fixed up where no judgment is necessary, then the golfer should also be forbidden to take a shower before changing into his other clothes. Just let him smell like a golfer, whether he plays well or not. And then, too, there is that 19th hole which could hold some hazards. Better still, maybe he should give up golf for croquet. (There are probably records to show some nasty falls over wickets).

We could live without the pleasant, quiet, natural activity on the golf course—but not as well. Many farmers or ranchers would be in pretty bad shape if their boys are prohibited in operating trucks and tractors. There's not much future in croquet if it's depended on for a living.

Preferred Stocks As An Investment

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., June 10, 1971. Despite the fact that it is more costly for corporations to issue preferred stocks than bonds (preferred dividends are paid out of after-tax earnings while bond interest is tax deductible for the issuing corporation), a record volume of new preferred stock was issued in April of this year. In fact, the April level was nearly five times the monthly average of 1970 and more than ten times the average monthly volume of the two preceding years.

The main causes of this rather sudden emphasis on preferreds as a means of raising corporate cash include the overburdened bond market, the desire of many corporations to keep their debt-equity ratios in balance, and the opinion of some company treasurers that their common stock is priced too low for common stock financing.

Unique Investment Medicine

Preferred stocks legally represent part ownership of a company and are classified in the equity section of the balance sheet. They are, however, very different from common stocks. Generally speaking, holders of preferred stocks have the right to receive a specified dividend before any payments are made on the common. On the other hand, unless the issue is designated "participating," the preferred holders do not share in the company's profits beyond the stipulated dividend.

Preferreds Versus Bonds

Many investors view straight preferreds (those not convertible into common stock) as a fixed investment somewhat akin to bonds. True, both sell on a yield basis and their prices fluctuate inversely to general interest rates. When rates decline, the market price of both straight preferred stocks and bonds rises, and vice versa.

This viewpoint, however, tends to obscure some basic differences between the two. Primarily, preferreds do not constitute a legal debt on the issuing corporation. Thus, the dividends on a preferred stock must be declared by the corporate directors and can be omitted at their discretion, and also, preferred stocks do not have any maturity dates (as do most bonds and holders of these issues have no claim against the corporation regarding their principal (except that they rank ahead of the common stockholders in receiving their share of principal in case there should be a liquidation). Hence, from a legal standpoint, preferred stockholders have a considerably less advantageous position than do bondholders.

Preferreds As An Investment

Preferred stocks can be an especially attractive investment for a corporation because of the favorable tax status of dividends (85 per cent of most dividends—excluding some utilities—received by corporations are exempt from federal income tax). But this advantage does not apply to individual owners, who can exclude only the usual $100 of dividends from taxable income.

There are, however, other good features an individual should recognize when considering investment in preferred stocks. Preferreds usually pay a quarterly dividend, whereas interest on bonds is generally paid semiannually. Also, preferred stocks (except for thin issues) are often easier to buy and sell in small amounts than are bonds (although the commissions are higher on preferreds). Furthermore, there are various special features and privileges on certain preferreds that can make them more attractive than others.

In general, each investor should consider preferred stocks within the framework of his own position, objectives, and financial means. For the investor wishing to add a preferred issue, the Research Staff of Babson's Reports recommends Aluminum Company of America $3.75 cum. preferred (which is appropriate for both individual and corporate investment) and/or Pacific Gas & Electric 6 per cent cum. 1st preferred (not appropriate for corporate investment).

DE FACTO DOLLAR DEVALUATION

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Early this month a sudden storm blew across European money markets, creating a potentially hazardous situation for the Free World's monetary structure and especially for the American dollar. A plethora of dollars swamped the central banking system of West Germany, plus a few other major countries to a lesser degree. It did not happen overnight; it had been building for some time. But the acute stage came with speculative swapping of U. S. currency for German marks and Swiss francs, and to some degree for monies of other leading Free World nations.

DEVALUATION BY PROXY

Our nation's leaders being unable or unwilling to curb domestic inflation and quell the dollar outflow in our balance of payments, the erosion of the status of the American dollar reached crisis stage. The problem was twofold: (1) Flight from the dollar, and (2) speculation that the West German mark and the Swiss franc would be revalued upward relative to the dollar.

Since the U. S. either could not or would not come to grips with the forces combining to tarnish our country's currency, and since a unilateral devaluation of the dollar would compound an already serious inflation and unemployment problem, some of the European nations, in effect, devalued the dollar for us.

TACIT AND IMPLIED DEVALUATION

Switzerland and Austria raised the value of their currencies by 7 percent and 5.05 percent respectively. The net result of these upward revaluations of the Swiss franc and the Austrian shilling was tacit devaluation of the dollar in relation to these two currencies.

On the other hand, West Germany, Holland, Belgium, and Luxembourg took a less direct route. They chose to allow their currencies to "float" on the open market. The resultant value gain in these monies vs. the dollar had the same effect, at least temporarily, . . . lowered the value of the dollar on foreign exchange transactions.

ROOTS OF THE PROBLEM

For many years — and even more so since the Vietnam war began — the United States has had a preponderance of deficits in the difficult-to-understand balance of payments. Moreover, monetary and fiscal policies have been expedient in nature, to accommodate military and social requirements, causing inflation to loom more menacingly.

The Nixon Administration attempted to curb inflation by trimming military expenditures, while the monetary authorities employed the tactic of tightening credit. But the subsequent recession—although mild compared to others since World War II — created serious unemployment. This disturbing development forced the government to alter its position and try to revitalize the economy by expanding the money supply and stepping up public spending, taking a chance on the possible further inflationary impact of these moves.

Line Closets With Red Cedar To Get Rid of Pests

COLLEGE STATION—To rid your closets entirely of pests, line closet walls with red cedar, suggests Jan Slabough, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

The extra cost of red cedar is well worth the price, Miss Slabough adds. The aroma of cedar penetrates items stored in the closet and protects them from moths and moisture.

Moths, their larvae and red cedar do not get along, so a cedar-lined closet is entirely free of pests.

The mild odor of cedar is not pungent or excessive, but is simply a natural wood fragrance that fades after exposure to air. For the odor to penetrate and effectively exterminate pests in the closet, the door must be kept closed.

The fragrance of red cedar in a closet also eliminates musty odors since the wood is highly resistant to moisture.

To maximize concentration of the cedar fragrance, cover not only walls with red cedar, but inside doors, ceilings and floors as well. The tongue-and-grooved boards fit together easily and the cost of improvement is small.

When lining with cedar, don't paint or varnish the surface board. Painting and varnishing seals off the cedar's aroma.

Vegetable Casseroles: Need some variety in vegetables? Try this duet of casseroles which combines ripe olives, eggs, potatoes and cheese in different ways. These should be economical dishes too.

Make Variety Vegetable Casserole for a nutritious dish to serve:

- 1-2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1-2 cup chopped onion
- 3 tbs. oil
- 2 Tbs. flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1-2 cup grated American cheese
- 2 cups cooked corn
- 3-4 cup ripe olives, chopped
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1-4 tsp. pepper
- 2 medium-size raw potatoes

Great Plains Program Helping Area Farmers

Woodrow Hoffman, District Conservationist with the local Soil Conservation District said more and more landowners in the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District are finding the Great Plains Conservation Program a faster and less costly way of solving erosion problems while making yields and income more dependable.

Hoffman stated the program places priority on areas subject to severe wind and water erosion and on areas where a change in land use is needed.

Since the program began in 1958, Hoffman said, 164 farmers and ranchers on 71,692 acres in the Runnels S&WCD have entered into a contract with the SCS to carry out their conservation program under the GPC-P of the total 84 on 35,475 acres have completed their contract under this program. This will leave 80 active contracts on 36,217 acres.

Hoffman said a summary for the first nine months of this fiscal year shows that these 80 producers earned cost-share

Hatchery Now
Pairing Brood
Channel Catfish

San Angelo — If Texas anglers could see the channel catfish being paired in Fish Hatchery Number One in San Angelo this week it might send them rushing for the tackle store. Superintendent Al Pettit says 25 pair of channel cat averaging about four and a half pounds each have been tranquilized for easy handling, paired and placed in the pens containing spawning jugs.

Pettit expects the females to spawn by June 1 and anticipates from 20 to 30 thousand eggs per pair, or more than a million offspring in the 16 ponds that make up nine surface acres of water.

After an incubation period of six to seven days, depending upon water temperature, the fry will be held in rearing ponds for a short time. When they reach two to three inches in length some of them will be stocked in public and private waters, others will be held to varying lengths of up to eight inches or more before they are freed for the fishing public.

Ringneck Pheasant To Be Eyed By Biologists

Wheeler — Ringneck pheasants in the Texas Panhandle produce an annual harvest of more than 12,000 birds and thousands of man-hours of recreation, so biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are going to study the bird with a new technique this year, says biologist Jim Dillard.

In the past the birds were censused by attempting to count the crowing birds in the spring, but roadside noises and irrigation motors made the task difficult and often inaccurate. Thus a new method has been devised.

Over counties with huntable populations of birds, 15 in all, field personnel are setting up roadside counts, a system close to being an actual head count of birds seen.

The lines will be run during the last two weeks of July and the first week of August to obtain data on pheasants reproduction, then gain during the first two weeks of October and the first week of November to determine the distribution and density prior to hunting season. This will enable the department to advise hunters where concentrations of the birds may be found.
