HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The Texas Department of Public Safety has estimated that traffic accidents over the upcoming long Labor Day weekend will claim 52 lives in the state. That's a grisly figure, and the sadness which will be visited upon the many individual and family survivors of the victims cannot be described. And it is all so inexcusable and avoidable, too; the picture could be so much different if only everyone who drives an automobile or truck would only cooperate to the fullest possible extent.

"Accident" is defined as a happening without known or assignable cause—and most of these so-called "accidents" are not really in that category. Most of them are caused by the drivers themselves, by disregard for the rights of others, rudeness, plain carelessness, drunken driving, breakdown of vehicles through neglect, etc. Therefore, most of them could not be rightfully called "accidents"—they are caused! And the cause can be traced in most instances, and could be eliminated if we only took the time and made the effort.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the DPS has called for motorists to avoid drinking while driving, avoid fatigue, and modify their driving speed in accordance with expected heavy traffic conditions. In an effort to hold down the death toll, the DPS and local law enforcement agencies, in cooperation with the news media of Texas, will conduct "Operation Motorcade"—a public awareness program designed to focus attention on the traffic problem. Special reports of fatal traffic accidents will be prepared by DPS Headquarters and released three times daily during the holiday period. From then on, it is up to the drivers.

Texas drivers are going to have to learn to protect themselves against car thieves—or stand a good chance of being fined for not doing so. That's a switch, to say the least.

Effective Monday of this week, a new state law requires a driver to remove the ignition keys from the car before leaving the vehicle unattended. A fine of from $1 to $200 is provided for violation. This is supposed to cut down on the number of car thefts. It is also provided that the new law will keep a lot of "good boys" from becoming criminals.

It is conceivable, under this new law, that a driver who leaves his keys in the car could receive a stiffer penalty than the "good boy" (spelled R-A-T) who steals it! Of course, it is foolish to leave keys in the ignition, anyway. It only makes it easier for the thief to drive it off. But to place the burden of guilt on the shoulders of the driver is a bit far out, it would seem, and is another of those "let big brother hold your hand to protect you from yourself" ideas.

But this law seems to be in line with the trend of thinking that places the blame for all the ills of the world on the doorsteps of those who try to get along, obey the laws, and do the best they can. The criminal is painted to be the victim of society, instead of the opposite. It's sickening to most people, for instance, to be forever admonished by the blasting television commercial, "Don't make a good boy go wrong—take the ignition keys out of your car!" Most people figure that a "good" boy is not going to go wrong and steal a car, even if there are a dozen ignition keys left handy. If he is inclined to steal a car, he's going to learn (Continued on page 8)

LION ROOFERS: Members of the Winters Lions Club Saturday put a new metal roof on the Scout Hut on North Main Street. The new roof covers the roof which was badly damaged in the May 8 hailstorm. Maintenance of the Scout Hut is one of the projects of the local Lions Club.

Shown installing the metal roof Saturday morning are just a few of the Lions who showed up to work, representing about every type of business in Winters. In the foreground are Lee Harrison of the Winters State Bank; Dr. T. L. Russell, dentist; standing with metal sheet, Gene

Wheat, Bob Loyd LP Gas Co.; by the ladder, Fred Young, retired groceryman; in the background, Jim Cowlishaw, lumberman, and George Beard, Elementary School Principal. Other Lions were on the ground handling up sheet metal and working elsewhere about the Scout Hut. (Staff Photo)

Main Street Widening Expected To Start Soon

Cooper and Woodruff, contractors of Amarillo, were low bidders on the reconstruction and widening project for US Highway 83, including Main Street in Winters, and work is expected to begin within a few weeks. Announcement was made last week that the Amarillo firm submitted the low bid—$1,279,315.23—for the project, and that contracts with the State Highway Department are now being prepared.

The project will include all of Winters' Main Street, and the highway from the Taylor County line through town to the intersection with FM 53 on the south edge of Winters, a total of about 9.86 miles. Main Street will be widened, and other extensive reconstruction work will be done. The construction bid does not include purchase of right-of-way for the additional land needed for the highway and Main St. Voters of Winters about three years ago approved a bond issue to finance the City's part of the project. Contract will call for completion within 375 working days, it was understood. The City recently completed re-locating water and sewer power lines to make way for the widening project. West Texas Utilities Co., Lone Star Gas Co., and General Telephone Company also have moved their utility lines. Some buildings have been remodeled or moved back to give additional width to the right-of-way within the city limits, and the city removed the north water storage tower some months ago.

August Was Wet Month—7.44 In.

By reputation, August is a "dry" month, but more rain fell in August, 1971, in Winters and the surrounding area than during any single month except one since September, 1969. Only June of this year has surpassed August this year in amount of rainfall here.

Official US Weather Station figures compiled by Roy Rice of Winters show that a total of 7.44 inches fell in Winters proper during the past month. A total of 8.33 inches was officially recorded for Winters during June. Officially, Winters has received a total of 22.95 inches of rainfall during the first eight months of 1971, more than was received during the entire year of 1970, when only 20.11 inches was received.

One of the copies of the petition was said to already have the signatures of more than one hundred North Runnels County residents.

The hospital board previously announced that a bond election would be called within the near future. The petition, along with the support of the campaign to raise funds to purchase equipment for the proposed new hospital, indicates a solid interest in the proposal, members of the board stated.

Work Begins September 13

Bank To Remodel Interior

The Winters State Bank Wednesday afternoon announced an extensive remodeling project for the entire office area of the bank. Work will begin Sept. 13. No major structural changes will be made. Bank President Woodrow Watts said. However, upon completion, the interior of the bank will be completely changed, except for the work and business area, he said.

The lobby-door to the private office in the southeast corner of the building will be closed with glass paneling, and the wall on the present office in the northeast corner will be of glass paneling. Half-wall partitions will be built in the present open office area, and semi-private offices will be located in this area. The rail separating the lobby and the office area will be removed.

The entire bank, with the exception of the lobby area, will be carpeted, and floor-to-ceiling drapes will be hung on the east wall of the office area.

In addition, all ceilings will be rebuilt, and new recessed lighting installed.

Two privacy booths for safe deposit customers will be built on the south wall near the safe deposit vault.

Watts said the remodeling of the bank offices is in keeping with the policy of the bank "to keep in step with the times and to continue to offer better services to our customers and to the community." Facilities and services of the bank, he said, "must reflect the continued growth of the bank." Watts said deposits had reached another all-time high, with $7,550,000 on deposit as of August 31.

Business will continue as usual during the remodeling work, Watts said, and customers are asked "to be patient with the minor inconveniences which may result at times." When the project is completed, "we will have a bank the entire community can be proud of," he concluded.

Pledges to contribute to the North Runnels Hospital equipment fund continue to come in, with the total—in pledges and cash—passing the $34,000 mark this week.

Twenty-nine names were added to the list of contributors this week, with pledges totaling $5,680.00, bringing the overall total to $34,410.00.

In addition, a letter was received from J. B. Goss, Division Manager of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, stating that "General Telephone Company would be delighted to participate in this program and can be counted on for a contribution."

Ted Meyer, chairman of the campaign committee, said this week that "everyone in North Runnels County will be contacted within a few days, either by letter or in person, and given an opportunity to help in this program."

Meyer emphasized that all contributions, no matter what amount, will be appreciated—and needed—and will be acknowledged. He pointed out that "this is a community project, and concerns everyone in the community," and everyone will be given a chance to participate. He said a Memorial Fund will be established, and those wishing to take part in this may contact him for details.

Members of the Hospital Equipment Fund committee meet every Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce office to map plans for the drive.

Correction: In the list of contributors published last week, the contribution acknowledged for "Mrs. Wayne J. Little" should have been for "Mrs. Mayme Little."

Identification Cards May Be Obtained

Austin — Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that effective September 1, Texans will be able to obtain a special personal identification card.

The card, which was authorized by the 62nd Texas Legislature, is laminated and contains a color photograph of the holder. It is the same size as a Texas drivers license.

Information appearing on the card will include the holder's date of birth, height, sex, and eye color. Each card will have a special identification number issued by the DPS.

Speir said the cards should be of value to those persons who do not hold a Texas drivers license, but who need some sort of official card to help establish their identity.

In order to obtain a personal identification card, the applicant must appear at a DPS drivers license field office on or after September 1, execute a special application form, present a birth certificate or other document evidence of identity and date of birth, be fingerprinted and pay a statutory fee of $5.00. The special cards, which will be mailed from DPS Headquarters in Austin, will be dated to expire four years from the applicant's next birth date.

Also effective September 1, certain persons having military service connected disabilities will be exempted from drivers license fees.

Speir said those individuals with a 60 percent or more service connected disability will be entitled to the free drivers license provided they meet other requirements which apply to all applicants. At the time of application for a new or renewal license, the disabled veteran must present the DPS drivers license office an official communication from the Veterans Administration Regional Office showing that he is currently receiving compensation from the Federal Government in connection with a 60 percent or more service connected disability.

COUNTY AGENT'S WEEKLY NOTES

Recent rains in Runnels county have brightened range and pasture prospects. At the same time, the moisture has soaked down into the soil to some extent so that mechanical methods of brush control may be effective.

Soil moisture allows for greater success with such brush control methods as rootplowing, tree grubbing, and chaining, points out Parker.

Chaining can be especially effective when double chaining, in opposite directions, is done when soil moisture is plentiful. Control is more effective when tree trunks are four or more inches in diameter. Areas with large, half dead trees can be chained and then aerially sprayed in four to five years with good success.

Parker explains that good soil moisture makes chaining more effective since the chain will uproot the tree rather than break it off at ground level.

The county agent advises tree grubbing on areas that have scattered stands of brush plants. Uprooting plants that are crown sprouters is an excellent method of control.

As far as rootplowing is concerned, this practice should be limited to selected sites that require seedbed preparation, adds Parker. Although late summer and early fall is the worst time to plant grasses, these should be seeded following plowing. Fall moisture could boost the establishment of such grasses.

In areas that haven't been blessed with recent moisture, the only method of brush control is to treat individual plants with chemicals. In this case, the chemical or oil should penetrate the soil to the bud zone, points out Parker.

The time to protect trees in an area of new construction is before actual construction begins. Once a choice tree begins to decline due to construction, little can be done to alleviate the situation, points out County Agricultural Agent, C. T. Parker.

If soil around the tree will not be disturbed during construction, all that is needed is an adequate fence around the immediate tree area to protect against mechanical injury. This type of injury is usually due to carelessness on the part of truck and equipment handlers. A barricade will usually suffice.

Tree roots require air, water and nutrients to support the growth and survival of the tree. When the grade level is changed by raising or lowering soil surfaces, roots are unable to function properly.

A soil fill added around the base of a tree upsets the air and moisture relationship in the soil, and the functional root hairs die due to lack of oxygen. A simple agricultural tile system properly installed will provide the essential air exchange necessary for normal root growth and development. The system must be properly installed so excess moisture will drain away from the root zone.

According to Parker, terracing will usually provide satisfactory protection if the grade is to be lowered. If space is not available for a broad terrace, a retaining wall between the tree and the lower grade is effective.

It takes years to produce a good shade tree, and it is expensive and time consuming to replace one, reminds Parker. By planning ahead most construction damage can be avoided or greatly reduced.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Big Country TE/RD Ass'n. CRIES OF CONFRONTATION

Before birth, the fetus floats in a fluid-filled sac. At the moment of birth before the first cry, life hovers in the balance.

In the womb, the fetus grows in a liquid environment without using its lungs. Even the lungs, in fact, are filled with fluid. At the moment of birth, the baby is thrust face-first into another atmosphere filled with air. He must respond immediately or die.

The baby's blasting cry helps force the liquid from his lungs and allow his first breath. Without the first cry, there would be no breath, no life.

Cries are an essential part of a baby's existence from birth on. They communicate significant signals about his early progress, and well-trained ears can interpret these signs correctly. Now a cry analyzer has been developed by a team at the Wenner-Gren Research Laboratory in Stockholm that helps hospital personnel sort out cries of newborns that spell pathology.

The device, says the researchers, is most useful during the first two weeks after birth, since serious damage that happens during this period is often irreversible. The portable unit is the size of a small radio and has three meters, each of which continuously registers one kind of cry: normal, abnormal, or very abnormal. The unit may be able to pick up trouble before it becomes permanent.

A baby's cries reflect his confrontation with life, and the messages in those cries can be decoded. Living, for babies as well as humans at any age, is impossible without lungs that function properly.

To find out more about lungs and how they work, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

CUDDLING CAN HELP
Premature babies may crave even more cuddling than full-term infants.

"Premies" are secluded for days or weeks in sterile Isolettes. Slow learning and motor retardation is not uncommon among these infants, and many researchers believe that neurological defects cause the retardation. But a psychiatrist at the State University of New York at Buffalo believes that early sensory deprivation may contribute to—even cause — the impairments.

Dr. Norman Solkoff experimented with two groups of premature infants. One group was picked up only to be fed or burped and for diaper changes. The second group was fondled for five minutes every hour, day and night, for ten days. The results? The cuddled premature babies cried less than the uncuddled ones; they were more active and regained their birth weight faster. Eight months later, their performance was still far superior to the uncuddled premature babies.

However rich their early environment, though, the problem of premature babies is still unsettling. And one of the suspected causes of premature births is smoking mothers. According to the U. S. Surgeon General's latest report, pregnant women who smoke have more stillbirths and spontaneous abortions as well as more premature babies than nonsmokers. Smoking can retard and damage fetal growth.

Or try putting your talents to work on this attractive combination of fresh chopped Bartlett pears, orange, crushed pineapple and maraschino cherries.

TUTTI-FRUTTI JAM
3 cups chopped or ground pears (about 2-lbs.)
1 large orange
¾ cup drained crushed pineapple
5 cups sugar
¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries (3-oz. bottle)
¼ cup lemon juice
1 package powdered pectin

Sort and wash ripe pears; pare and core. Chop or grind the pears. Peel the orange, remove seeds and chop or grind the pulp. Chop cherries. Measure chopped pears into a kettle. Add orange, pineapple, cherries and lemon juice. Stir in the pectin. Place on high heat and stirring constantly, bring quickly to a full boil with bubbles over the entire surface.

Add the sugar, continue stirring, and heat again to a full bubbling boil. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; skim and stir alternately for 5 minutes. Ladle jam into sterilized jars and seal immediately. Makes about nine 6-oz. jars.

Try also this delicate Pear Butter—so good on breads, pan cakes and waffles. Use sound, ripe fruit and wash, remove stems, but do not peel or core. Slice into a large kettle and add a small amount of water to start cooking. Cook until very soft. Press through sieve, for fine consistency. To each cup pulp, add ½ cup sugar and spices, if desired—½ tsp. cinnamon, to 3 cups pulp. Cook until thick, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

Make your own jelly, jams, conserves, spiced pears and pear relishes — in combination with other fruits. "Can-a-pear" while supplies are plentiful.

FRESH PLUM CHUTNEY
1 c. light brown sugar, packed
1 c. granulated sugar
¾ c. cider vinegar
1½ teaspoons crushed red pepper
2 teaspoons salt
2 fat cloves garlic, thinly sliced
¼ c. thin sliced onion
½ c. preserved ginger, cut in thin slice
1 c. seedless white raisins
¾ c. fresh purple plums, halved and seeded (about 20 plums)
2 teaspoons mustard seed
Mix together sugars and vinegar in a large kettle and bring to the boiling point. Add remaining ingredients except free from blemishes—not misshapen, wilted or shriveled — and with good color for the variety. Bartletts should be pale yellow to rich yellow; Anjou or Comice should be light to yellowish green; Bosc should be greenish yellow to brownish yellow; Winter Nellis should be medium to light green.

Pears which are hard when you find them in the grocery store will probably ripen if kept at room temperature, but it is wise to select pears that have already begun to soften, to be reasonably sure that they will ripen satisfactorily. Avoid pears with slight weakening of the flesh near the stem, as this indicates immaturity and the pears will not ripen. Also avoid spots on the sides or blossom ends of the pears, which mean that corky tissues may be underneath.

Most good canning booklets or cookbooks give directions on how to can pears by either the "hot pack" or "raw pack" method. Follow directions carefully to insure proper sealing of jars.

FRESH PEARS
Capture all the delicious but-tery-like goodness of fresh pears by canning your own this month. It is not hard, and what better thing to look forward to during long, cold winter months than the flavor of "summery" fresh pears.

With fresh pears so plentiful this month, why not "can-a-pear"?

Whether you decide upon pears "as is" or in combination with other fruits for jams or conserves, the results will be worth many times the effort.

To start your "can-a-pear" campaign, look for fresh, ripe pears that are firm, clean and

FAMILY LAWYER
COMEUPPANCE FOR CREDITORS

Mrs. Olson was home alone when two husky men came to her door.

"We're from the appliance store," they announced, "and we are going to repossess your stove."

Despite her protests, they barged into the house, seized the stove, and carried it away—above any actual harm done. This is especially true when the repossessor resorts to personal violence. Thus, a court awarded punitive damages to a housewife after her sewing machine was repossessed at the point of a pistol.

In another case, a furniture dealer told a widow she could have extra time to pay for her purchases because she had to have an operation. But while she was in the hospital, he broke into her house and decamped with the furniture. Here, too, a court found ample grounds for awarding punitive damages.

Nevertheless, the law does not frown on the basic idea of repossession. By giving the creditor a simple and speedy remedy against the delinquent debtor, it can keep down the cost of credit teaching soot stains all over the rug. Understandably upset, Mrs. Olson determined to sue the store for damages. In court, the proprietor told the judge:

"Maybe my boys did get a little careless. I am willing to pay for cleaning her rug. But aside from that, she suffered no harm. After all, she was behind in her payments."

However, the judge held him liable not only for the rug but also for "punitive damages" — that is, extra damages imposed to teach him a lesson.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends who sent cards, gifts and other remembrances to our grandson, Danny Pate, when he was in Texas Children's Hospital for heart surgery and since he has returned to his home in Ft. Worth. We especially appreciated your prayers.—Mr. and Mrs. Wilma C. Davis. ltp for other consumers. Repeatedly, courts have found nothing improper when a repossessor towed away a car parked in front of a debtor's house or even in his driveway. As one court pointed out, the seller is merely taking back — "without force, threats, or even stealth," — what is rightfully his.

Record Size Shark Caught At Port Aransas Recently

Austin—San Antonian Timothy Torrence went fishing at a man-made reef in the Gulf of Mexico and hauled in a record fish—a 220-pound bull shark.

The 9-foot 5-inch shark was caught June 5 off Port Aransas after a two-hour and 15-minute battle. A 130-pound test line baited with the tail section of a jackfish was used to land the shark.

No previous record for bull sharks was listed by the Texas Game Fish Records Committee of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. In cases of sharks and sunfishes the committee decides if a new category is justified for each species.

Big Thicket Area Still The Same

College Station. — Contrary to recent reports, the so-called Big Thicket in East Texas is virtually the same today as it was in 1935.

William A. Smith, forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that scientific forest surveys of the East Texas Pineywoods conducted by the Southern Forest Experiment Station at New Orleans support this fact.

"Surveys have been made each decade since 1935," points out Smith. "The last survey in 1965 shows that the total commercial forest land acreage for Hardin, Liberty, Polk and Tyler counties (the area generally called the Big Thicket) was within eight-tenths of one percent of the acreage reported in 1935." In 1935 the four-county area had 2,116,000 acres of forest land compared to 2,100,000 acres in 1965. "This forest area has changed little in the past five years," he emphasizes.

"In reality, the survey figures represent a net increase in the Big Thicket forest area during those 30 years," explains the specialist. "Many thousands of acres of land were lost to water reservoirs, urbanization, and rights-of-ways during that period."

Smith finds it difficult to understand the claims of preservationists who say that the Big Thicket is being destroyed at the rate of 50 acres per day and that the area will be a "biological desert" in five years.

Says Smith, "These claims just don't fit the facts. The Big Thicket exists today because private landowners have done a good job of stewardship of the area for more than 100 years."

According to the specialist, timber has been harvested from the area at least once, and, in some cases, two to three times in the last century. "What some see as the forest primeval is, in reality, second, or even fourth generation forests."

He emphasizes the need to establish a park in a portion of the area to preserve its uniqueness. "A park of about 35,000 acres, covering 55 square miles, is more than adequate for biological studies and other restricted uses. The forest industry is the lifeblood of East Texas' economy. With proper management, it can continue without harm to the public interest."

There are two sides to every argument, but no end.

The wise man does at once what a fool finally does.

Idleness is only the refuge of weak minds.

After simmering in one spot on the freeway for 20 minutes, one question: Why do they call it the "rush hour"?

Signs in store windows reading: "Come in and browse" are utterly ridiculous.

People who don't believe in tipping should never eat in the same restaurant twice.

Anyone who tries to fix a bathtub drain has to be plumb crazy.

We don't have a suspicious bone in our body—knock on wood.

Some get that trim, lean look from diet and exercise; others are on commission.

The only thing more exasperating to start than a power mower is a new job.

It's easy to know all the answers if you don't bother to listen to the questions.

There is a certain relief in change, even though it be from bad to worse.

Texas FHA Loan Volume Largest In Nation In 1971

J. Lynn Futch, Texas State Director of the Farmers Home Administration, has announced that the agency extended credit to rural Texans in the amount of $155,456,817 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971. This credit was furnished farmers and rural residents through the many loan programs administered by the agency with rural housing leading the way with $72,302,453. Loans for community services facilities such as rural water systems and sewer systems, totaled $24,205,192. Credit extended to individual farmers and ranchers for operating expenses, capital purchases and land purchases totaled $58,949,182. This was the largest yearly volume of loans in the history of the organization, which has as its overall mission the development of rural areas.

Futch said that he was also pleased that there was a sizeable decrease in the percentage of loan delinquencies as compared to previous years. Due to the severe drought in the spring and early summer of this year, it is expected that the demand for emergency credit to farmers and ranchers this fall and winter will substantially increase the volume of farm loans in fiscal 1972, with all other programs also expected to be expanded. The program is administered in Texas through 144 county offices and the state office in Temple.

First United States Census was taken in 1790.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By BILL BOYKIN, Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—The Legislative Redistricting Board, its hands tied by a court order, has called for a staff research toward reapportionment of both the Texas House and Senate.

If the Board were permanently enjoined from action, the thorny reapportionment chore may be handed back to the Legislature in a special session this fall. Board was created in 1948 to redistrict where a legislature fails to do so in its first regular session after a decennial census.

Day before the five-member panel was to meet and begin work Senate realignment (a task left undone by the Legislature this year), an Austin judge entered a temporary restraining order. At the same time, Judge Herman Jones set a hearing for September 2 on a petition for an injunction.

Rep. Fred Head of Henderson filed the suit to stop Board action, contending 1970 census figures are not yet all in, and that reapportionment should wait until the 1973 Legislature.

On August 2 Judge Jones declared the House version of reapportionment by the Legislature this year unconstitutional. Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has promised an appeal to the Texas Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Martin who was named temporary chairman of the redistricting Board in absentia, left a message expressing hope that the panel will begin work "at the earliest possible date" on House reapportionment in event the High Court rules that is its duty.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, another member of the Board, also called for early staff attention to a House redistricting bill, although both he and Martin agreed Senate reapportionment is the first objective.

Board has 20 separate plans already submitted for rearing the Senate's 31 districts in line with the 1970 census and federal court rulings of substantially equal population for each.

"FREEZE" BRINGS SUMMER CHILL

The President's wage-price freeze continued to be the closest-watched and fastest-changing news event at the state capital. Gov. Preston Smith's proclamation to state agencies to disregard the presidential order and place pay raises for state employees in effect September 1 was quickly held invalid by Attorney General Martin.

Martin then went to Washington to plead for exceptions for state workers and school teachers who had been assured raises by legislative action and (in the case of teachers) valid contract well before the freeze order date, August 15.

Meanwhile, Texas State Employees Association filed a formal petition for exemption of 60,000 state employees from the order and hinted at court action if refused.

Teachers kept close watch on Washington announcements to see if subsequent federal agency rulings would permit their raises covered by contracts signed prior to August 15 to be granted September 1.

INFO OFFICES OPENED

Internal Revenue Service announced opening of nine offices in southern Texas to answer questions, study complaints and investigate alleged violations of the wage-price freeze.

Offices are located at IRS headquarters in Austin, Beaumont, Waco, Corpus Christi, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, Harlingen and McAllen.

Questions on new import duty surcharge will be referred to the office of Customs in Houston.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

Drownings Decrease From Last July

Austin—It may be coincidence, or it may be due to stepped-up educational efforts by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, American Red Cross, U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and U. S. Power Squadron. But whatever the cause, drownings are down from 131 during July, 1970 to 94 during July 1971.

"It's still too early to tell if our more than 1,000 hours of talks, slide presentations and water safety instruction are reducing water-related fatalities," said James U. Cross, executive director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "But I must say, a decrease of 37 drownings is heartening."

Cross said local governments, civic groups and safety associations ran water safety campaigns, and the news media were very helpful with their reminders to the public.

Gun Plugs A Must In Some Counties

Austin — A recent change in state hunting regulations allowing "un-plugged" shotguns for the taking of non-migratory game birds and game animals does not apply in all of Texas' 254 counties.

The regulation applies in counties which are under regulatory authority of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission except Uvalde County. The others are "general law" counties which have their hunting and fishing laws set by the Legislature.

Parks and Wildlife Department officials advise hunters to check with local department offices or the 1971 dove map distributed by the department to see if the county they plan to hunt is general law or regulated by the commission.

The commission recently removed the restriction calling for shotguns to be permanently plugged to three-shot capacity for non-migratory species except in Uvalde County. Migratory birds, which may be hunted only with shotguns plugged for a three-shell capacity, include ducks, geese, brant, coots, rails, gallinules, jacksnipe, woodcock, sandhill cranes, white-winged doves and mourning doves.

HEALTH COLUMN

One of man's most priceless possessions is his eyes, and help in conserving this treasure is on its way, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

This help is in the form of a federally-imposed requirement for impact-resistant lenses on eyeglasses. Thousands of Texans already wear them.

Effective December 31, all glasses and sunglasses sold in the United States must have lenses of laminated glass, heat-tempered glass or plastic. This seems like a simple solution to some of the eye injury problems. But it took years of effort by accident prevention experts to attain this ruling by the Food and Drug Administration.

Last year, reports the National Safety Council, there were 110,000 eye injuries in this country. It's obvious that only a fraction of this number came from broken lenses. Almost 11 percent of the injuries resulted in a permanent partial-blindness, which means that one or both eyes were damaged permanently. More than seven out of 10 persons suffering eye injury went through a period of blindness—even if only temporary.

While the impact-resistant lenses won't provide total protection from breaking, they will be a big step in the right direction. The FDA regulation will provide greater protection in tougher lenses. But they cannot be considered as providing an unbreakable shield against eye injury. The new regulation covers prescription and non-prescription glasses. If there is some reason why these impact-resistant lenses won't fulfill the visual requirements of a particular patient, regular lenses can be obtained.

The performance standard for impact-resistant lenses is based on American National Standards Institute specifications. Essentially, the standard requires that a given lens be capable of withstanding an impact test in which a 5-8 inch steel ball weighing approximately .36 of an ounce is dropped from a height of 50 inches.

Industry has long used the "shatterproof" goggles or glasses. It realized that tragedies resulting from lenses which have shattered into blinding slivers upon impact were needless and preventable.

One of the largest beneficiaries of the new regulation will be the average wearer of glasses—the athletic youngster, the outdoorsman, the handyman and do-it-yourselfer, the housewife and office worker. They run into situations every day which test the safety of their glasses and sunglasses. The new lenses will provide a better barrier against injuries to the eyes, says the Health Department.

Aransas Wildlife Refuge To Open For Bowhunters

Austwell — Deer, javelina and wild hogs will be fair game for bowhunters during the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge archery season September 17-30, according to Charles Ward, public use specialist at the refuge.

Ward said the gate to the refuge will open to hunters at noon, Sept. 17. All hunters must be out by 9 p. m. After the opening day, the refuge will be open at 5 p. m. each day of the hunt. All archers who show up will be allowed to hunt on designated portions of the refuge as long as they hold a valid Texas hunting license.

The standard fee of $1 per car will be charged, an information leaflet will be provided and a deer tag will be issued each hunter entering the refuge.

The bag limit has been reduced this year to one deer per hunter. Hunters may also kill one javelina and as many wild hogs as they can.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission had provided the framework for the early hunt by allowing a three-deer season for the Blackjack Peninsula in Aransas County from Sept. 1 thru Sept. 30 as listed in the Texas Hunting Guide. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service which administers the refuge, however, set the Sept. 17-30 dates of the hunt and established the one-deer limit.

Ward says there are plenty of deer on the refuge, and they appear to be in good shape. Mosquitoes, which plagued hunters unmercifully last year, are bothersome but aren't expected to be as numerous as last year since there is not as much standing water.

Camping will not be permitted in the refuge, but there should be sufficient camping just outside the gate along the road right-of-way.

More information about the hunt may be obtained by writing

Fertilizer Will Boost Forage

College Station.—Prospects for good grazing and hay from recent rains should please stockmen over the state. And they can boost forage production even more by applying fertilizer, says Al Novosad, pasture specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Perennial grass pasture should be fertilized now for increased fall production and quality. If pastures have not been fertilized since spring, plant nutrients—especially nitrogen—have been depleted, and an application now will correct this situation, advises Novosad.

There is still plenty of growing time over much of the state for good production from bermuda, Klein, buffel, love, bahia, and other grasses. Forage from these grasses can be utilized for grazing or hay or left standing and grazed after frost.

Soil moisture must be available for top production and at present is adequate over most

Advise Defoliation of Cotton in Wet Areas

College Station.—Cotton producers in many areas of the state may want to consider the use of a defoliant on their crop this year due to recent wet weather and prospects for more of the same.

"A true defoliant may be the answer this year for a more efficient cotton harvest," points out Fred Elliott, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This material will cause the plants to shed their leaves, thus exposing the green bolls to light and air so they will mature and open at a faster rate."

Defoliants are used with picker harvesting while desiccants are used with cotton strippers.

Defoliants are chlorate and organo-phosphorus types. One such product is DEF. These materials should be applied when about 60 per cent of the bolls are open, advises Elliott. If any green leaves are left on the cotton after the green bolls open, a light application of arsenic acid can be made to kill the remaining leaves. Desiccants should be applied when 75 per cent of the bolls are open.

Use of a defoliant will increase harvest efficiency, adds the specialist. At present, Texas is one of the leading states in harvest efficiency with a loss of only 9 percent. However, producers should continue to strive to cut losses because this means more cotton going to the gin and more profit.

Elliott also encourages producers to add an insecticide to the defoliant where boll weevil infestations are present in the fields. This will keep weevils from entering the diapause stage in which they overwinter and will thereby reduce the boll weevil problem next year.

counties although some still report a shortage. Also, prospects for additional moisture look good for the next two months, points out Novosad. A check of rainfall from 34 stations over the state, covering a 49-year period, shows the chances of receiving 2 inches of rainfall in September range from 50 to 80 percent in the eastern two-thirds of the state. This probability increases as you move from west to east. About the same probability exists for October.

With the improved moisture situation this year, the specialist believes that fall pasture fertilization will be a good practice. Most of the state enjoys a long growing season for perennial warm-season grasses, but lack of fertilization usually limits the production of quality forage in the fall.

In many areas, annual fall pasture fertilization should prove profitable. It is especially important this year, Novosad emphasizes, because of the short forage situation.

Dale's Ford Sales Sponsors PP&K Competition

Local boys, ages eight thru 13, will soon be loosening up their throwing arms and kicking legs for the 1971 Punt, Pass and Kick competition.

This year the local level of PP&K will be co-sponsored by Dale's Ford Sales, in conjunction with participating Ford Dealers in the area.

Nationally PP&K, now in its 11th year, is co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted nearly 7.3 million boys, ages eight thru 13, and participation this year is expected to top the 1 million mark for the fourth year in a row.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against boys their own age. Any boy eight through 13 years of age may register to compete at a participating Ford dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championships in their age group during the half time of the Super Bowl Game in New Orleans January 16, 1972. Winners will have their names permanently enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Boys, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register for PP&K at Dale's Ford Sales.

... about your SOCIAL SECURITY

"The prompt delivery of social security checks to more than 25 million beneficiaries is one of the vital jobs of the Social Security Administration," J. M. Talbot, social security manager, said today.

Most delays are due to a change of address which was not reported to the social security office. "Some checks are returned even though a forwarding address was left at the post office, because checks cannot be forwarded for an indefinite period of time," Mr. Talbot said.

The Social Security Administration uses the latest methods to insure the prompt delivery of benefit checks, but some checks are lost or delayed every month. Any beneficiary whose check has not come by the sixth of the month should notify the office promptly by calling 949-4608.

A signed form may be required before any action can be taken. In the majority of cases, if the check is returned because of an incorrect address, it can be remailed within 10 to 14 days providing the social security office is notified of the correct address.

The delivery of checks actually involves three different agencies. The Social Security Administration furnishes the amount, name, and address on the check to the Treasury Department. The check is printed by the Treasury Department and forwarded to the Post Office Department for mailing. Prompt notice of changes of address as soon as possible so we may forward your check without delay," Mr. Talbot said.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, Texas, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.

SOLID WASTE RECYCLING

By Babson's Reports, Inc.

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Unlike conventional waste disposal, recycling is for the most part a nonpolluting method. It involves such procedures as the extraction of reusable materials (from old cars, refrigerators, etc.), the conversion of garbage and sludge into fertilizers, and the breaking down of wastes by bacteria or chemicals. Recycling is expected to become a major industry during the coming decade. The cost of getting rid of solid waste—including recycling—will rise from the current level of $4.5 billion to more than $7 billion by 1980, according to a private survey. Expenditures for plant and equipment alone are slated to advance from $432 million to over $760 million by then. Thus, overall, the market could double in the ten-year period.

THE WASTE DISPOSAL PROBLEM

It was estimated that last year 46 percent of solid wastes (some 4.4 billion tons are produced annually in the U. S.) was disposed of by open burning, 16 percent by incineration, and 38 percent by landfill or dumping in the sea. Burning solid wastes is alleged to add some 11 million tons of pollutants to the atmosphere every year. Land dumping can create a further health hazard by contaminating ground water used for drinking, as well as by breeding rats and other pests.

Uppermost problem in urban areas is the growing scarcity of land-fill space. There is, too, the ever-increasing cost of conventional methods—open dumping, incineration, and composting. Moreover, about 75 percent of the refuse-burning incinerators maintained by the cities have no pollution controls, while 94 percent of the country's land-fill areas have been declared unsanitary by the U. S. Health Service.

PRINCIPAL POLLUTERS

Although the bulk of solid waste is accounted for by agriculture and mining, the major problem is that created by homes, institutions, commerce, and manufacturing industries. The public disposes of some 250 million tons of rubbish each year—while industry contributes around 110 million tons, (about one half of which is reused). These figures break down to approximately 5½-6 pounds of trash, garbage, and scrap generated by the average American per day. Fifty years ago an individual threw away a little less than 3 pounds a day. By 1980, the per capita disposal is expected to reach 8 pounds.

NEED FOR LEGISLATION

It is obvious that federal participation in waste control is urgently needed. The Solid Waste Disposal Act of 1965 was enacted by Congress when the waste problem outgrew local control. So far, however, funding has been modest. Only $90 million was appropriated between fiscal 1966 and 1970. Early use of the funds was for the collection of data on waste; then later, for development of recycling technologies by industry and universities. But recycling technology is still in the development stage, and federal, state, and local legislation is still a long-range objective. Once both public and private co-operation is assured, it is our opinion that recycling offers the greatest promise for restoring the balance to our ecology.

INVESTMENT IN RECYCLING COMPANIES

Several large companies such as Ogen, Monsanto, Carrier, Carborundum, and Litton Industries are involved to some degree in this emerging field. However, new and smaller companies have been formed to deal exclusively with the recycling question. Some of these are Trans-Union, American Hoist and Derrick, Brown's Ferris, SFM Corporation, Peabody Gullion, Neptune Meter, Proter Steel, and Rollins International.
