LEGAL NOTICE
ORDINANCE

An Ordinance declaring junked vehicles a public nuisance and establishing procedures for the abatement and removal of junked vehicles or parts thereof as public nuisance from private property or public property.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Winters, Texas,

Section 1. Not less than a ten (10) day notice given to the owners or occupant of the premises declaring that vehicle is a public nuisance and that it must be removed and abated within ten (10) days, and further that a request for hearing must be made before expiration of said ten (10) day period, such notices to be mailed by certified or registered mail with a five day return requested to the owner or occupant of the premises whereupon such public nuisance exists. If the notice is returned undelivered by the United States Post Office, official action to abate said nuisance shall be continued to a date not less than ten (10) days from the date of such return.

Section 2. A public hearing prior to the removal of the vehicle or part thereof as a public nuisance to be held before the governing body of The City of Winters, or any other board, commission, or official of The City of Winters, as designated by the governing body when such hearing is requested by the owner or occupant of the premises on which said vehicle is located, within ten (10) days after service of notice to abate the nuisance any resolution or order requiring a description of the vehicle, and the correct identification number and license number of the vehicle, if available at the site.

Section 3. After a vehicle has been removed it shall not be reconstructed or made operable.

Section 4. A notice shall be given to the Texas Highway Department within five (5) days after date of removal identifying the vehicle or part thereof, said department shall forthwith cancel the Certificate of Title to such vehicle, pursuant to Article 1436-1 Vernon's Texas Penal Code as amended.

Section 5. This ordinance will not apply to (1) a vehicle or part thereof which is completely enclosed within a building in a lawful manner where it is not visible from the street or other public or private property, or (2) a vehicle or part thereof which is stored or parked in a lawful manner on private property in connection with the business of a licensed vehicle dealer or junk yard.

Section 6. The administration of this ordinance will be made by a regularly salaried full-time employee of The City of Winters, except that the removal of vehicles or parts thereof from property may be by any other duly authorized person.

Section 7. Junked vehicles or parts thereof may be disposed of by removal to a scrap yard, demolished, or any suitable site operated by the City of Winters for processing as scrap or salvage which process shall be consistent with Section 3 of this article, or the City of Winters may transfer such vehicle or parts thereof to another, provided such disposal shall be only as scrap or salvage consistent with Section 3 of this ordinance.

Section 8. Authority to enforce: any person authorized by The City of Winters to administer the provisions of this ordinance may enter upon private property for the purposes specified in this ordinance to examine vehicles or parts thereof, obtain information as to the identity of vehicles and to remove or cause the removal of a vehicle or parts thereof declared to be a nuisance pursuant to this ordinance. The Municipal Court of The City of Winters shall have authority to issue all orders necessary to enforce this ordinance.

Section 9. Nothing in this ordinance shall effect statutes that permits immediate removal of a vehicle left on public property which constitutes an obstruction to traffic.

Section 10. This ordinance shall take effect and be enforced after its passage and publication.

Passed this the 20th day of September A. D. 1971.—WADE W. WHITE, Mayor.

Attest: Buford Baldwin, City Secretary. 28-2tc

HEALTH COLUMN

Cleaning Up Car Exhaust

One cartoon shows a downcast couple sitting on their elegant apartment terrace surrounded by skyscrapers. The source of their melancholy is made clear by the man, who moans to his wife, "Every little breeze seems to whisper emphysema."

Air pollution pervades the lives and invades the lungs of people of all ages and incomes—in the city as well as the country. Everyone has to breathe to live.

Car exhaust is the chief cause of air pollution. Pollution is one of the concerns of Nicholas Johnson, an FCC commissioner, who extols the virtue of bicycles in a recent issue of the Saturday Review. "By comparison, the bicycle is a model citizen," he says. "It does not kill or maim; it does not pollute; it does not deplete natural resources; it makes no noise; and it takes up a great deal less space."

Car exhaust, he says, creates almost 900 pounds of pollution for every person each year. One million acres of land is paved for highways each year, and there is now a mile of road for each square mile of land. The concrete used in our interstate highway system, Commissioner Johnson claims, would build six sidewalks to the moon. But cars are clearly here to stay. Cleaning up car exhaust will be one of the activities during Cleaner Air Week, the last week in October. Across the country, tuberculosis and respiratory disease associations will participate in the week's events. Efforts will be made to have drivers test car emissions and check air pollution devices. Midtown areas in some cities will be closed to all polluting vehicles for at least part of each day.

Cleaning up car exhaust is a matter of life and breath.

"Pedodontics" is a big word with a simple meaning—the care and treatment of children's teeth. A major part of pedodontics is preventive dentistry, and preventive dentistry for the very young is the one great hope for a realistic solution to our dental woes.

If a child's teeth are properly cared for up to age 15, a strong foundation has been laid for minimizing dental troubles in later years.

At about 6 months of age the four front teeth—two upper and two lower—begin to peek out. These front teeth are incisors, the cutting teeth. By age 7 to 11 months, four more teeth, upper and lower, start to come in. These are the lateral incisors at either side of the central teeth.

Then Mother Nature wisely skips a few spaces in order to properly shape the jaw. In 12 to 16 months, the back teeth or molars, come in. Then the cusps show to fill in the space between. At about 24 months, the second molars come in.

Up to this point all teeth which have erupted are primary teeth, and although temporary they are vital. They help shape the face, help the youngster learn to speak distinctly, and help him nutritionally.

While all this has been going on, the permanent teeth are slowly developing in the jaw bone so they can come forth at the proper time.

The first permanent teeth to erupt are molars—sometimes called "six-year" molars simply because they emerge at about age 6. Because they do not replace the first teeth but come in just behind them, these molars tend to confuse parents who think they are also temporary teeth.

This error can lead to unfortunate consequences. Since the "six-year" molars are permanent teeth, they will not be replaced if lost.

Family dentists strongly emphasize the importance of watching for the six-year molars. They are important to the structure of the mouth. The manner in which they interlock with their opposite teeth will determine the eventual shape of the jaw, facial contour and regularity of alignment of other teeth.

Because of their importance, these first permanent teeth are often referred to as the "keystone of the dental arch."

The strength or weakness of adult dental health—barring loss of teeth through accidents—can invariably be traced to habits of preventive dentistry learned or left unlearned in childhood. And when it comes to preventive dentistry, the pedodontist is a child's best friend.

HEALTH FOR ALL WINGATE

BIKING IS BACK
Car exhaust is the chief cause of air pollution.

Experiments to ban cars from congested areas of cities have been hailed with joy by pedestrians. Eventually, all cars may be banned from cities. But that time may be far off. In the meantime, bicycles are coming back.

Sales of bicycles have doubled in the last decade. Bikes are now selling at the rate of 7 million a year. Many bike-store owners report that 80 percent of their sales are now to adult riders, whereas only five years ago, 90 percent of their sales were for children's bikes.

Local groups across the country are pressing for—and getting—bike lanes. In Davis, California, where bike lanes were built just a few years ago, there are 24,000 people and 20,000 bikes. In Greater Miami, Florida, 100 miles of bikeways have been built in the last five years. And more are coming, says the Mass Transit Administrator for the state, because of the "tremendous interest." In Tacoma, Washington, the City Council voted to prohibit all cars on a five-mile scenic route for the summer. Two nights a week and every weekend, Central Park in New York City is closed to cars and bikers take over. The trend is clear.

Even in Los Angeles, bike riding is on the rise. Charles Johnson, who is in charge of the bike detail for the city's police department, says, "Because of the traffic, because of the smog, because of the price of gas, you are going to have hundreds and hundreds of bikes in the streets."

Bicycles are one way to cut down on carbon monoxide and other noxious pollutants in car exhaust. To find out more about other ways to curb air pollution, check with your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Texas will have a branch office in Mexico to promote its industry and tourism.

Ford Will Offer "Most Attractive, Best Performing, Safest Cars" In History

A completely redesigned Torino and Thunderbird, featuring major under-the-skin changes and increased interior room, highlight Ford Division's 1972 product story.

"For 1972, we will offer the most attractive, best performing, safest and cleanest cars in our history," said John Naughton, Ford vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"Pinto and Maverick should continue their growing appeal to small car buyers. Mustang's leadership in the sporty compact segment should remain firm."

"We think the Torino's new styling and engineering advancements will spur our intermediate sales in 1972 while the big Ford should continue its steady climb on the sales charts," Mr. Naughton said.

"Thunderbird for 1972 creates a new elegance combined with an improved ride and increased interior seating room and luxury."

Ford Division's most changed offering in 1972 is the Torino. The popular intermediate features new dimensions, sheet metal and chassis in its greatest change since it was introduced as the 1962 Fairlane.

A fresh front-end treatment highlighted by a new grille marks the 1972 Ford LTD. Composed of a one-piece center section flanked by separate outer sections, the grille emphasizes the long elegant look of the 1972 Fords. The new front bumper is designed with a center bar to protect the grille.

Torino from the more luxurious Gran Torino models.

Front and rear styles are new for the 1972 Ford. All models feature egg-crate design center and side grilles with a center protection bar, and a restyled rear deck lid. The LTD series has a distinctive grille and rear end treatment that sets it apart from the rest of the Ford line.

An electrically operated sun roof and an electric rear deck lid release are offered as options for the first time on the Ford line. Attractive rear bumper guards are standard on all LTD models except the Country Squire. Front and rear bumper guards will be available on all other models.

In keeping with the announced policy that Pinto would not change for several years, the 1972 Pinto sedan is virtually unchanged but offers refinements to further owner enjoyment. The only exterior difference is the rear window of the Runabout model which extends eight inches longer than on the '71 version, improving rearward visibility and adding a sportier appearance.

Pinto features several interior improvements such as carpeting as standard equipment. The seat back latches and headlight dimmer switch have been relocated for easier accessibility.

Performance of the optional 2000-cc engine is upgraded and the rear springs and shock absorbers are modified for a better ride.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Doctor in Doubt

"I did my best."

So said a doctor not long ago when a disgruntled patient sued him for malpractice. It seems that the patient had been suffering for eight years from a surgical wound that would not heal.

Now, demanding damages, he told the court:

"I realize that the doctor did his best. The trouble is, his best was not good enough. After all these years, he must have realized his own limitations. What he should have done was to send me to a specialist."

The court agreed, and the doctor was held liable. The court said that when a doctor has (or ought to have) serious doubts about his ability to handle a case, he has the legal duty to send the patient to someone who is better qualified.

A similar duty rests on other practitioners of the healing arts. Take this case:

A druggish healer, treating a man who had severe abdominal pains, gave him a vigorous massage and a strong laxative. Result: the man died from a ruptured appendix. In due course, his widow sued the healer for malpractice.

At the trial, he insisted that he had used the best treatment according to his own school of thought. Nevertheless, the court ordered him to pay damages. With plain signs of possible appendicitis, said the court, he should have turned the case over to a regular doctor.

Of course, the mere fact that a treatment is unsuccessful does not mean the doctor was at fault. In another case a boy's broken leg, set by the family doctor, healed with some permanent stiffness. The family, claiming damages, blamed the doctor for not calling in a specialist.

But the doctor explained: "This was not an unusual case. I have often handled similar fractures, and there was no special reason for me to expect trouble with this one."

The court decided this was a legitimate defense, and dismissed the case. Noting that medicine is not an exact science, the judge said no one would dare to be a doctor if he had to guarantee perfect results every time.

Chevrolet adds distinctive appointments to Luxurious 1972 Caprice Coupe

The 1972 regular Chevrolets have added distinction plus strong emphasis upon quality. There is a new squared-off look to the front with a lower grille and individualized headlights. This luxury Caprice has a special large grid grille, full length side moldings with a color insert plus exclusive interior appointments. All regular Chevrolets have stronger front and rear bumpers. Variable ratio power steering and power brakes with front discs are standard. Turbo Hydra-matic transmission is standard on regular V8 models. Introduction date for all 1972 Chevrolets will be Thursday, September 23.

Chevrolet Has "Limited Changes To Refinements, Car Improvements"

Detroit—Quality is the keynote of the Chevrolet Motor Division's 1972 product program.

John Z. DeLorean, general manager, pledged that the 1972 models scheduled for public introduction September 23 will be the best in Chevrolet's history.

"From the luxury Caprice to the economy Vega," DeLorean said, "we have limited the changes in our 1972 models to refinements and product improvements, while we concentrate on building each car better than ever before."

"Every one of our car lines is designed to meet the consumer emphasis on maximum value and quality in an automotive purchase."

"By providing with our 1972 models a better, more trouble-free way to see America, we hope to stimulate new public awareness of the individual freedom for enjoyable family travel offered by the automobile."

He said new manufacturing and assembly and quality audit procedures and motivational programs to stimulate added pride of workmanship among Chevrolet's 100,000 employees are among steps toward improved quality.

DeLorean also said the division is implementing new programs to guide Chevrolet dealers in giving improved customer service.

The full-sized Chevrolet for '72 has new front and rear styling. It also has heavier, stronger bumpers that extend farther away from the body sheet metal as part of the improved bumper impact protection.

Chevelle, Monte Carlo and Camaro have front end styling refinements and all car lines including Station Wagons, Nova and Corvette have engine, chassis and durability improvements. An anti-theft warning system becomes standard on Corvette.

Chevrolet's newest car — the top selling Vega — keeps its promise of styling continuity. Improvements include addition of a glovebox and the availability during the model year of an optional Turbo Hydramatic three-speed automatic transmission.

Chevrolet continues to offer the industry's widest assortment of station wagons in 1972. Big Chevrolet-styled wagons have the Glide-Away disappearing tailgate; the mid-size Chevelle-styled wagons have dual-action appearance of the five vinyl roof colors and a single, wider white stripe on optional whitewall tires.

Here are details by car line: Chevrolet: The industry's top selling car line has a new tailored look to the most luxurious car Chevrolet has ever built.

The hood is squared off and the low-set grille is flanked by individualized twin headlights and recessed front fender lights. Mounting of the license plate on the right front of the car gives the grille a more open look.

The increased front and rear bumper protection on Chevrolets for 1972 is provided by a bumper-within-a-bumper design. Heavy gauge beams reinforce the bumper and are firmly attached to the frame. Important clearances are increased between the bumper and body sheet metal.

Turn signals are built into the front bumper and traditional Chevrolet triple taillight units are built into the rear bumper. A horizontal resilient strip to cushion slight impacts is standard on Caprice bumpers and optional on others.

The nine Caprice, Impala, Bel Air and Biscayne models feature rounded glass and body contours with emphasis upon passenger visibility and interior roominess.

There is added body insulation in 1972 to reduce interior sound level for a quieter ride. The power flow-through ventilation system has outlets built into door pillars for more accurate control of air flow.

HEALTH COLUMN

Of all diseases, tuberculosis is probably man's oldest and most puzzling enemy. It remains a major public health problem in many states today, including Texas.

"Texas is recorded as having the third largest total of new, active tuberculosis cases in the nation last year," says Dr. James E. Peavy, Texas Commissioner of Health.

Today, with careful diagnosis and conscientious drug treatment, the chances of curing tuberculosis are very good, no matter what the stage of the disease. Great advances in treatment have brought TB under medical control. But don't get the idea that TB is now a rare disease. It isn't.

Tuberculosis affects 37,000 new patients each year and kills over 5,000 people. In 1970, Texas recorded 2,889 new cases of the disease, placing behind only New York and California in the number of new cases reported. At the beginning of 1971, there were nearly 20,000 cases on the TB register in Texas being kept under surveillance.

Today, over 300,000 people in the United States are under medical care or supervision for TB. More than 100,000 of these have active cases of the disease.

"That's why medical and health authorities view the situation with concern," Dr. Peavy said.

The highest incidence of new cases in Texas occurred in the very large cities and in areas near the southern border.

... about your SOCIAL SECURITY

You may now telephone your social security office to file a claim or get information. Or, if you are already a beneficiary, you can phone to change your address or make any other report, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager.

Use of the telephone may save you a trip. Talbot especially urged that beneficiaries use the telephone to report changes that affect payments, such as a marriage, death, or change in earnings of a beneficiary. The telephone is faster; the time saved includes that usually spent looking for a parking space and waiting inside the office for a personal interview.

It works this way. Say you want to apply for social security payments or Medicare. The application will be filled out with information you furnish by telephone. Then, the application will be mailed to you for signature and return. If documents such as birth certificates are needed, you may mail them with your application. These documents will be returned to you, Talbot said.

For more information, contact the Social Security office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.

OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

Up in the Panhandle of Idaho is Pend d'Oreille, the state's largest lake. Its tributaries provide boating waters from the western boundary of Montana completely across the state and into Washington.

Pend d'Oreille is a fabulous lake with 111 miles of shoreline. It flows between towering cliffs that rise 1000 feet above the surface of the lake. Water depth is another 1000 feet.

Pend d'Oreille compares in surface size with some of our Texas lakes, like Whitney, Falcon or Livingston. But that is where the comparison ends. It has different fish and the method of fishing for them is different.

There are a few black bass in the water, but Lake Pend d'Oreille is famous for its lunker trout—Kamloops by name. I learned the unusual story about this lake on a very enjoyable visit up there only recently.

Something like 400 million years ago a small lake was created by the upturn of geology. This lake was first seen by white men about 1800 when they went into the area to compete with the Indians in fur trapping. These French-Canadians named the lake after the Indians, who wore ear pendants. Hence the name Lake Pend d'Oreille.

For many years this lake provided wonderful rainbow trout fishing, plus Kokanee, that small land-locked salmon which virtually infests the impoundment. Although the rainbows were beautiful and productive fish, some of the sportsmen came up with the idea of stocking it with Kamloops from British Columbia. This was done around 1941.

The Kamloops is an outside rainbow itself, but it had gained this enormous size in its own waters in British Columbia. At first it was not known whether they would even reproduce in the waters of the Idaho lake. But they did. And with the millions of Kokanee for food fish they began to take on size.

By 1945 one was caught that weighed 32 pounds eight ounces. This was a new world's record. The next year, the largest fish caught was a 31-8. But in 1947, an angler took out a 37 pounder on rod and reel, a record which still stands. Top fish in 1969 weighed 31-7.

These fish, as well as the Kokanee, usually are taken by trolling in big waters, although many are taken on rod and reel. The Kokanee, which produces something like our sand bass, and usually weighs about the same, are taken on trolling rigs behind big boats. The creel limit on them is 50 per day for sports fishermen. Commercial fishermen can take 200 a day for the first five months of the year.

Those fishing boats usually are equipped with two motors... a large one for getting there fast, a small one for trolling. Reels are carried on the back of the boats in outriggers.

Most of the boats also are equipped with "fish finding" devices. Schools are located, and their depth determined with this electronic gear. Then, with 20 pound test line on saltwater equipment they troll through the schools and it is no trick for them to catch the limit in an hour or so once they locate the school.

Like the Texas coast there also are party boats, where tourist fishermen can have all the fun they want pulling in these little salmon, with the everlasting hope they may net one of those big Kamloops. Non-residents pay $5 for a 7-day license. Full information is available from the Chamber of Commerce at San Point, Idaho.

Home Sewing Trends Increase

COLLEGE STATION—The old saying is that "clothes make the woman," but retail fabric sales are booming and the saying might be changed to "women are making the clothes."

This is the word from Becky Dunlap, Extension clothing specialist at Texas A&M University. Almost one of every three garments worn by women and children are being made at home, and the market for fabrics is expected to increase about seven to ten percent annually for the next several years.

Take into account the fact that home sewn garments cost 50-60 percent less than ready-to-wear clothes, and it is easy to see why home-sewing is becoming more popular.

The average family income of home sewers is $9,500 a year. More than one-fourth have incomes of $10-15,000 annually.

Recent figures say that 44 percent of all sewers are less than 30 years old; and 16 percent are under 20 years old. Pattern companies estimate that some 45 million home seamstresses make about 500 million garments a year, according to Miss Dunlap.

Consumers spend more than $400 million each year on sewing machines, an average of $200 per machine.

Miss Dunlap attributes this increased popularity to several factors, with one of the most important being that many women use sewing as an outlet for self-expression and creativity. Increased leisure time and the desire to save money also contributed to the renewed interest. A national magazine estimates that 85 percent of American teenage girls sew some of their own clothes.

Color Schemes Require Planning

COLLEGE STATION—Color is one of the most exciting and least expensive mediums in interior designing, reports Jan Slabaugh, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist at Texas A&M University.

Colors create moods that provide atmosphere and tone for your home, she explains. And they can reduce or enhance scale.

Before selecting a color scheme for your home, the specialist says to first plan carefully. Determine the colors which are suitable for you and your family. You may have to confine your favorite colors to more private quarters, such as the bedroom or den.

Consider degree of exposure when planning a color scheme. Where there is not adequate light or warmth in a southern room, cool colors aren't necessary. The same rule can apply for northern exposures. Cool colors should be used only if there is strong exposure.

Remember scale in the use of color. Darker shades tend to reduce scale. If you have a large, overwhelming area, for example use darker, warmer shades to give warmth and reduce scale. A small room can also gain spaciousness by using lighter, cooler shades.

Next, consider use of the room. Rooms with limited use can be brighter and bolder in color, but could be very tiring with an all-day living pattern. Neutral backgrounds are the safest and most successful approach for furnishing. Mrs. Slabaugh says. They are less tiresome and act as good foils for furnishing, fabrics and accessories. Strong colors can be used in accents and accessories. This way, color schemes can be changed with little cost.

Remember, color has lasting influence in your life, the specialist points out. Select colors which you know will bring out the best in you and your family, and create a happy, desirable atmosphere.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Most Federal Court Dockets are overburdened with a backlog of cases. It would be a good assumption that the Federal District Judge sitting in Huntsville, Alabama, would have plenty to do without meddling into the affairs of Butler High School in that City.

U. S. District Judge, H. H. Grooms, showing that unerring eye for grave and weighty issues of national importance, which seems to distinguish much of our judiciary these days, has outlawed the use of the Confederate Flag as the school's banner and "Dixie" as their fight-song.

Dr. Max Rafferty, Dean of Troy University in Alabama, had this to say about the Court's action, "Their Flag, for lo! these many years, has been the same Stars and Bars under which so many thousands of their great, great grandfathers fought, and their song—no surprise considering their school's geographical location—is 'Dixie'."

A few students, out of the school's enrollment of 2,000, found the old Flag and the song "offensive." The Federal Judge decided to take away from the great majority of the children their right to enjoy the symbols of their ancestors' gallant struggle.

Sure, the Civil War was over a long time ago and there is no need to continue to fight it but it is no wonder that the kids in Butler High School are a little up-tight about the decision.

This is not the first time that judges have decided to stamp out symbols of a vanquished cause. The Irish fought for 500 years to save their harp and shamrock from similar unwarranted action. The Scottish Highlanders had to hide their tartans after the battle of Culloden. The Jews down through the centuries have seen the sacred emblems of their faith confiscated and destroyed by courts in Europe.

Dr. Rafferty's comments go further. "We are watching this ancient evil operate in our own land, casting its long shadow over our own children. In the past decade, we Americans have been told by judges where our children must go to school what they may wear in class how they may behave and what they may or may not read. And from here on, it appears even the school songs they sing are to be controlled by the courts."

The State of California has its Bear Flag. Our State of Texas has its Lone Star. Both are more than just a State's adopted colors. Both are symbols of historic significance. Is it possible that now such symbols may be forbidden by those who find them to be "offensive?"

For that matter, and following the same absurd reasoning, may not some court even find the Stars and Stripes to be "objectionable?"

In the early days, as our pioneers pushed Westward, "Dixie" was hummed around thousands of open campfires. As the wagon trains fought their way across a raw and savage continent, the song cheered and soled a people. There remains romance in the whanging banjos in a summer twilight aboard paddle-wheel steamboats. It meant something to the people.

The Bars and Stars of the Confederacy holds a respect by the people of the South, as a symbol of a heroic lost cause. There are few, if any, in modern days who hold this banner in any deference to the Stars and Stripes. They do hold history in respect. They know it floated blithely on the morning breeze at first Antietam. It was carried through Shiloh's gloomy woods and Chickamauga's seltudes. The song of "Dixie" burst from hoarse throats and laboring bodies at Cold Harbor and at Chancellorsville.

When at last the Civil War ended bloody on the heights of Gettysburg, the song echoed like a solemn requiem over the defeated hopes of the greatest

Junior Lutherans Install Officers

Officers were installed at a meeting of the Junior Lutherans of St. John's Lutheran Church September 19, in the Lutheran Educational Building.

Mrs. Elby Miller was installing officer.

Officers installed were Leslie Dunlap, president; Kathy Bredemeyer, vice president; Pamela Holle, secretary; Laurie Pruser, treasurer; Toby Gerhart, reporter.

Officers of the Junior League were also installed at this time.

A contest will be held—boys vs. girls—in selling napkins and Christmas cards. Members made gifts to be used as prizes to be given at the booth at the church's Halloween carnival.

Mrs. Edward Bredemeyer is the new leader for the Junior Lutherans, and Mrs. Dan Miller and Miss Estella Bredemeyer are teachers.

Mrs. Archie Austin and Mrs. Edgar Minzenmayer provided refreshments and Mrs. William Hord served to thirteen members and six adults.

"lost cause" in the annals of our Nation.

To ban "Dixie" as a school's fighting song and to prohibit a flag as a part of a school symbol, is banning history itself. This little song and the banner is part and parcel, warp and wool of the great tapestry which is the American story.
