HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Whatever individual or group coming up with the idea of "Doctors' Day" did a great service for the entire community. Too often we take our medical people for granted. True, they are "in business," so to speak, but that business is so unique in its application that it bears no resemblance to what we call "commerce."

As for taking our medical people for granted, most of us have grown up with the idea that they should be constantly at our beck and call; they should drop everything and attend to our every want and wish. We tend to forget that they are human and individuals, as are we, and have their problems and grown weary, as do we.

So many times, when the rest of us become immersed in our individual problems, no matter whether physical, mental, familial, or even financial, the advice of our non-professional friends is to "Go see your doctor!" It most of the time helps, too. But what about the doctors, after we have run them ragged and tending our aches and pains, real and imaginative? Do we tell them "Go see your doctor?" Probably we ignore them, if the truth were known—until we need them again.

So the special day Tuesday is little enough expression of our appreciation... it should happen 365 days each year.

Another group deserving of our recognition and consideration—the wives of the doctors. It must take constitutions of iron and unique personalities to be wives of doctors; to accept and put up with the irregular hours, the demands of the public on their husbands, and all that goes with it. They deserve something special, too.

Anyone find a brown leather coat in the vicinity of the football stadium after the game Friday night? Mrs. R. Pat Miller of Eastland has written that she laid the coat on top of a car as she was getting ready to leave, and did not miss it until she got home. She said if the finder will return it by mail she will pay all expenses.

In a postscript, she said, "Your football team 'Never said Die,' and your band was superb."

Ellis Zane Moore reached Blizzard Field Friday night just in time for the kickoff of the Winters and Eastland football game. He would have made it for the coin toss and the pregame announcements, but stopped on the way to order an aqua-lung, to add to the long list of equipment he loads up to take on house calls.

About an hour and a half before the football game, Ellis was called to check on the source of an unusual amount of water underneath a house on the west side of town. He made a couple of dives beneath the floor (used the Australian crawl) (Continued on page 5)

Doctors Honored Here Tuesday

Communities without medical facilities, such as hospitals and doctors to staff them, have little prospect for growth, State Representative Grant Jones of Abilene, said Tuesday, and he congratulated the community of North Runnels County for making plans to provide better facilities, and he said the community is fortunate in having medical, dental and optometric doctors.

Rep. Jones was principal speaker at the special "Doctor's Day" event co-sponsored by the Winters Chamber of Commerce and the Winters Lions Club, during the regular noon luncheon of the Lions Club.

Honored at the special noon luncheon in the Community Center were C. T. Rives, Doctor of Medicine; H. H. McCreight, Doctor of Medicine; T. L. Russell, Doctor of Dental Surgery; and Z. I. Hale, Doctor of Optometry. The four doctors were presented plaques "In Appreciation for Your Dedication and Unselfish Service to the People of the Winters Area."

Wives of the doctors were presented gifts, and were recognized for the parts they have played in their husbands' careers.

Nurses and technicians who work with the local doctors also were recognized at the luncheon.

Rep. Jones said we are "living in tumultuous times, times of change," and that most of the things that have happened to mankind have happened in the span of two lifetimes. Because so much has happened in recent years, those present "are living in history," he said. He drew a comparison of the present civilization to that of the civilized Romans and Greeks, who became too "laxadaisical," and allowed their civilizations to disappear. He reminded that the human race can stand adversity better and progress faster under those conditions than under affluent conditions.

"We are in the greatest revolution and explosion of knowledge man has ever known," Rep. Jones said, and probably in no other field have changes happened so rapidly as in the field of medicine. He said the knowledge of medicine and related fields had progressed so fast and so far that "specialization" had become necessary. However, he pointed out, the "family doctor," who looks after the health of the peoples of the communities, must have a deep knowledge of all specialty fields. Therefore, he said, they must spend much of their time studying to keep abreast of scientific advances.

Rep. Jones said we sometimes "expect too much from our doctors," and that the special recognition day was an appropriate way to extend our thanks and appreciation.

Regarding the doctor-patient ratio, he said that on a national level, there is one doctor for every 600 persons. In Texas, he said, this ratio is much wider, with only one doctor to every 900 persons. He said there are hopes of providing a better ratio of doctors to patients, with plans for more medical schools throughout the state, instead of confining them to the present areas.

Carroll Tatom, superintendent of the Winters Independent School District, made the awards, and told the honorees that the recognition was an attempt to express the "gratitude of the people of the community for your dedication." Tatom said that in addition to caring for the health needs of the people of the community, "You have responded to the needs of the youth of the community," and have become civically involved. He pointed out that all four doctors being honored were veterans of the Armed Services, having served in times of war.

Dr. C. T. Rives has practiced medicine in the Winters community for 28 years. He served with an anti-aircraft unit during World War II.

Dr. H. H. McCreight has practiced here 18 years. He served in the U. S. Marine Corps during World War II.

Dr. Z. I. Hale has been in Winters 20 years. He was an aircraft pilot in the U. S. Air Force during World War II.

Dr. T. L. Russell has been in practice here about 12 years. He was in the U. S. Army during the Korean War.

Gene Wheat, president of the Lions Club, presided at the luncheon, attended by 125 members of the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, and guests from all parts of North Runnels County.

J. W. Bahlman introduced Rep. Jones. State Senator David Ratliff of Stamford had been scheduled to speak, but was called to Austin on State business and was unable to attend.

Sid Anderson, Winters agent for Mobil Oil Co., has received a special award for his many years of service with the company.

At a special dinner in Abilene last week, Buck Young, area representative for Mobil, presented Anderson a watch in recognition of his 38 years of service as consignee in Winters. He also received a diamond tie tack.

Anderson came to Winters as Mobil consignee from Ardmore, Okla., where he had been in the dry goods business.

Cotton Stripping Slow, 428 Bales In

Stripping of the 1971 cotton crop continues to be slow because of the weather.

Ras Gideon, manager of the Winters Warehouse, said only 428 bales had been received by Tuesday morning. He expects light receipts for some time.

Most farmers who still have cotton are waiting for a killing frost to knock the leaves, instead of defoliating. Also, some of the fields still are too wet for cotton strippers. Much of the cotton, which appears from a distance to be heavy, will be light on production; rains have caused plants to grow big but weather conditions and insects have cut production of bolls.

Rep. Lynn Nabers Supports Rayford Price For Speaker, Seeks Reform

Brownwood, Texas — Calling reform in the Texas Legislature one of the most vital issues in state government, Representative Lynn Nabers today said he would support the election of Representative Rayford Price of Palestine for House Speaker.

Representative Nabers said the past session clearly spelled out many of the inadequacies of the Legislature, and the need for reform in State Government.

Nabers said he believed Rep. Price has proposed a sensible platform of reform recommendations that can insure that elected officials speak for their constituents and do not become the unwilling pawns of self-serving cliques who use veiled threats to subvert democratic processes.

"It's time to restore the balance of power that the spirit of the Texas constitution demands," Nabers said, "and I am convinced that Rep. Price has the leadership talent and integrity to do this."

The Winters Blizzards wind up the 1971 football season Friday night, meeting the Cisco Loboes on Blizzard Field. Kick-off at 7:30 p. m.

A pre-game program, "Iwo Jima Flag Raising," has been planned by the Blizzard Band.

Friday night's game will be a District 8-AA conference game, and will be the last time these two teams will meet in district play, due to the realignment of districts for the next two years. Cisco will remain in their present district, which has been re-designated 9-AA, and Winters will move back to their old district, to be 7-AA.

Going in to this last game, Winters has a 4-2 district record and a 2-1 non-conference record. The Blizzards have a cinch on third place in the district, regardless of the outcome of this week's game.

Cisco owns a 1-5 record for conference play, and a 0-3 score for pre-district.

Common opponents of the two teams have been all the other District 8-AA teams. They had no common opponents in pre-conference contests.

In District 8-AA, the Blizzards have scored 103 to opponents' 115, and 57 to 59 in pre-district. The Loboes had only 18 points to 110 before conference, and 70-217 in district.

COUNTY AGENT PARKER'S COLUMN

Livestock Producers
Livestock producers in Runnels County who are interested in actual in-depth field training in artificial insemination and pregnancy determination are encouraged to register now for one of the seven clinics being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the American Breeders Service.

The clinics are in different areas, but the one Runnels County would be interested in is in San Angelo, November 9-12th.

According to County Agricultural Agent Parker, the clinics offer detail information on management of the breeding herd covering nutrition, disease prevention, selection and records in addition to training in artificial insemination and pregnancy determination. Participants receive a comprehensive manual on AI and numerous Extension publications and papers on breeding and herd management.

A certificate of certification is awarded to each student at the completion of the four-day clinic, adds Parker.

Registration fee for the AI course is $125 while the training in pregnancy determination is an additional $100. Registration is limited to about 30 at each of the seven clinics. For advance registration contact John Quinn, Route 2, Box 250, La Grange—78945, phone 713-249-3033 or Jimmie Travis, P. O. Box 232, Weatherford 76086, phone 817-594-7020.

Extension Service personnel conducting the clinics will be Dr. John R. Beverly, animal reproduction specialist, College Station; Dr. Jerry J. Cowley, area livestock specialist, Westaco and Dr. Randall D. Grooms, area livestock specialist, Overton.

Winter plants:
Examine closely any plants brought into the house for the winter as they may carry scale, an assortment of bugs, an occasional cutworm and other pests.

County Agricultural Agent C. T. Parker suggests the plant be cleaned and checked for pests before being brought inside.

The cleaning operation should start with a yard bath for the plant. Sturdier plants can be sprayed with a garden hose and the more tender varieties may require a sink spray.

Dusting all surfaces of the plant with an all-purpose dust such as rose or tomato dust will aid in the control of the pest problem. Next, with rubber gloves to protect your hands, hold the soil in the flower pot and dip the plant head first into a malathion and water mixture. Then turn it over and dip in the entire pot. The malathion and water mixture should be the same ratio as you would mix if spraying the mixture onto the plant.

If you suspect cutworms, knock the plant out of the pot and inspect the soil, says Parker. The dip or dusting method will take care of the other pests.

If you have insect problems in your home, then take action against these unwanted pests. Some of the most troublesome pests are earwigs, crickets, pillbugs and certain cockroaches.

Using insecticides as a preventative measure is not recommended because of the possibility of an adverse effect on the environment. Parker says to use insecticides only when you know you need them.

A chlorodane or diazinon spray applied to the outside foundation of your home will keep out most of these unwanted invaders. To control pests inside the home, use an approved commercial household formulation of insecticide.

Spraying is the best method of killing the pests. Treat the outside walls and foundation from sill to soil and about five to six inches of soil next to the foundation. Be sure and give cracks and crevices extra attention.

Also treat along edges of sidewalks and driveways. If a sprayer isn't available, then a sprinkler will do. For treating window sills and thresholds, a paint brush makes a good applicator.

Read the label of the insecticide before application and follow the manufacturer's recommendations he added. Do not treat plant foliage with the spray.

Parker encourages farmers and ranchers to spray their cattle for lice in the fall instead of waiting until they are noticeably infested.

Treating cattle for lice now is effective because of mild weather, shorter hair on cattle and a smaller lice population, explains the county agent. The low population found now is the source of this winter's population.

"Louse control should not be put off until cattle are infested," he warns. "By winter the cattle have suffered greatly, and a heavy population of lice is more difficult to control than a light one."

The key point in effective lice control is to make thorough applications. If one animal or even a part of an animal is not treated, the lice could be a source of reinfestation for the herd.

Dipping is the most thorough way to treat cattle, but sprays are effective if applied with special attention to the brisket and flanks. The entire body should be wet to the skin. High water pressure and a coarse stream is best for penetrating the hair. Spray at close range and treat only a few cattle at a time. Before buying insecticide for spraying cattle, read the label on the container completely, urges Parker. Pay particular attention to warnings and restrictions listed on the label and check on waiting periods, especially if some treated cattle may go to slaughter.

Pink bollworm larvae are now present in cotton fields in Runnels Co. These larvae can be separated from boll weevil larvae which are also found in bolls by the presence of legs on the pink bollworm while the weevil larvae is a legless C-shaped white grub. The full grown weevil grub is about 1-4 inch long while the full grown pink bollworm is 1-2 inch long.

Considerable damage to later bolls has been caused by the pink bollworm is 1-2 inch long. Considerable damage to later bolls has been caused by the pink bollworm larvae in some fields. However, should large numbers of these larvae overwinter, damage by this pest will be greater in 1972. To prevent overwintering, field should be harvested cleanly and completely, to take as many pink bollworms as possible from the field to the gin. The larvae will be destroyed during the ginning process.

Piles of green bolls left in the field should be taken to the gin after these bolls have cured sufficiently. All bolls left in the field should be buried to hasten decomposition. Shredding of stalks and turning stalks under to a minimum depth of 6 inches will also aid in preventing pink bollworm larvae from overwintering.

Hungry insect pests could be devouring your stored grain. County Agent Parker, says that unless grain was treated with malathion or pyrethrin at the time it was stored, it should be checked every four to six weeks for insect infestation. The possibility of infestation is increased when grain is stored for longer periods of time.

Parker recommends that bins be checked at regular intervals until the temperature of the grain mass is below 60 degrees. Insects become less active at lower temperatures.

To take the temperature, use a grain probe to draw up samples from down in the grain mass.

Areas disturbed while taking the temperature samples should be retreated with the malathion or pyrethrin to maintain the protective barrier.

If the investigation reveals the presence of pests, a commonly available grain fumigant should be used. Be sure to follow the directions on the label, advises Parker.

Bins should be kept tight for the best protection. Follow all safety precautions when fumigation. Use a gas mask and fumigate alone.

Striper Program Moving Forward

San Angelo—The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is stepping up its efforts to establish striped bass in the state's inland waters.

This week an additional 2,200 stripers were stocked in E. B. Spence Reservoir near San Angelo, continuing the department's program of releasing hatchery-reared fingerlings instead of highly vulnerable fry.

Ted Lowman, inland fisheries coordinator, said more stocking programs of this kind are needed to give the species a firm foothold in Texas. "We're going to do all we can to obtain more stripers for stocking and research during the coming year," said Lowman.

This will mean, Lowman explained, some negotiation with eastern states which have been suppliers for stripers stocking programs throughout the United States. "We will probably try to work out some swaps to increase our allotment," he said.

While striped bass are basically a saltwater species, they spawn in freshwater streams. When it was discovered some years ago that they thrive in freshwater impoundments, several East Coast states began experimenting with stocking programs.

Texas has received approximately a million stripers fry per year for the last three years and has achieved an unprecedented survival ratio of 20 percent of those being reared to fingerling size and successfully stocked in public waters. Spence Reservoir is already producing stripers up to three pounds in weight. Summer rains have raised the water level there and biologists feel that the fingerlings released this week will have plenty of forage.

It is hoped that the program can be accelerated to at least five million fry per year and include experimental work on possible hybridization of the species.

The fingerlings are from seven to eight inches in length and weigh about four ounces. Under the right conditions, stripers in large inland lakes grow past the 15-pound mark and are voracious feeders. They are valuable not only as a sport fish but also as a predator to keep forage fish populations in check.

Stripers Show Good Weight Increase

Robert Lee—Striped bass in Spence Reservoir near Robert Lee must be finding things in the lake to their liking.

The stripers caught in Texas Parks and Wildlife Department nets averaged an approximate one pound increase over what they weighed three months ago.

Test nets in Spence Reservoir yielded 27 of the stripers which have been released into the waters each year since 1969.

Two of the fish weighed more than four pounds each, and the fish averaged 3¼ pounds each. The biologists hope that someday anglers in Texas will face the prospects of hooking a ten or 15-pound stripers.

CJC Students Get Ready For Trip To Macy's Parade

Four Cisco Junior College students from Winters are among the 110 boys and girls of the CJC Band and Wrangler Belles preparing to make the trip to New York to appear in the nationally televised Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade on Thursday morning, November 25. The Macy's parade, which is the nation's most prestigious event of its kind, will be on the NBC Television Network and will also be carried on CBS-TV. Students from Winters in the group are Janet Schwartz, Judy Foster, Troylene McKnight, and Troyce McKnight, all in the Wrangler Band.

The CJC band will be one of only fourteen bands in the entire nation appearing in the parade, and the Wrangler Belles will probably be the only girls drill team to be featured. The CJC group is also the only performing group from Texas in the 1971 parade. The Belles will do a featured performance at Herald Square, adjacent to Macy's, and the performance will be carried live in its entirety by NBC-TV.

Cisco Junior College is currently conducting a large-scale fund-raising campaign to help defray expenses for sending the group to New York via chartered airliner. A goal of $6000 has been set for the participation of the community of Cisco in the campaign, and the college is also hoping to raise another $2000 to $3000 from the local communities in which the boys and girls in the Band-Belles live.

Persons desiring to help send the CJC Band and Belles to New York may mail their donations to Dr. Leland Willis, President, CJC, Cisco, 76437.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By BILL BOYKIN, Texas Press Association

Austin, Texas. — A blue-ribbon study commission has come out strong for state constitutional revision and widespread restructuring of the state and local government system.

The Texas Urban Development Commission, winding up an 18-month study which enlisted the services of experts and laymen, handed its 200-page report to Gov. Preston Smith.

Smith, commending the body for charting "a clear course for those in government to act on," announced appointment of a 17-member, permanent Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. The latter will follow up on the report of the study group headed by Arlington Mayor Tom J. Vandegriff as chairman and Dr. Earl M. Lewis of Trinity University in San Antonio.

"The Texas Constitution," said the Commission, "should be thoroughly changed to allow state and local governments to exercise more initiative and to be more responsive to current and future demands but at the same time free to be truly responsive to changing needs and emerging problems."

Among 50 major recommendations were the following: —State government should begin moving toward a new organizational and management system and consolidation of urban services in about 20 existing agencies.

—The governor should have more power over budgeting and appointments and removal of state governing boards chairmen.

—Local governments should be reorganized to meet specific local needs and granted greater fiscal authority through additional revenue sources and property tax overhaul.

—Growth of special purpose districts must be checked.

—Urban growth planning programs and coordinated land planning should be launched at all levels of government.

APPOINTMENTS

George E. Stanley of Port Arthur was named to the Veterans Affairs Commission, succeeding the late Charles C. Ford of Longview.

Governor Smith named 10 members of the Criminal Justice Council executive committee and designated L. O'Brien Thompson of Amarillo as chairman.

Smith appointed an 18-member study committee on traffic reorganization.

Lawrence L. Jester has been designated district engineer of the State Highway Department's Atlanta district on retirement of G. A. Youngs.

William G. Reid of Austin will serve as general counsel for the recently-established Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes named committees to study the system of state licensing and examining boards and retirement benefits for employees of public educational institutions.

BONDS SOLD
Continuation of the veterans land program was assured by sale of $20.8 million in bonds.

The low bid of 4.48943 per cent effective net interest was submitted by a group of 50 investors. The constitutional ceiling on interest rates is 4.5 per cent for the program.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the sale means the program can operate until almost the end of 1972 when Texas voters will have a chance to pass a constitutional amendment to raise the interest rate ceiling to six per cent.

The Veterans Land Board is constitutionally authorized to sell another $70.7 million in bonds. More than 43,500 Texans have bought land under the program.

A NEW GOVERNOR

Texas will have a new governor briefly in December—when Sen. W. E. (Pete) Snelson of Midland takes over as chief executive for the day.

Snelson, as president pro tempore of the Senate, is third in line for the governorship. Governor Smith and Lieutenant Governor Barnes will absent themselves from the state December 4 so Snelson can have the honor of serving as governor. He represents 35 counties of the 25th senatorial district.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Court of Criminal Appeals upheld Texas' abortion law, and said the state has the right to prohibit operations, in a decision conflicting with a June 18, 1970, three-judge federal court ruling at Dallas.

The Court of Criminal Appeals also reversed a Waco marijuana conviction due to improper questioning of witnesses by the prosecuting attorney.

State Supreme Court heard arguments in a suit seeking to nullify University of Texas acquisition of a 588-acre Odessa site for the new UT-Permian Basin campus because of the proximity of oil and gas equipment and a potential safety hazard.

AG OPINIONS

The governor can commute death sentences to life imprisonment even though convictions are on appeal, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded: —A new "surtax" on misdemeanor and felony convictions ($2.50 to $10) cannot be assessed for offenses committed prior to last August 30, date the law went into effect.

—Issue of tax cancellation certificates are authorized, and should cover all tax certificates showing no taxes due which had been previously and lawfully issued.

—Computation of actual interest expense incurred and to be recovered as an item of selling price on long term federal water contracts shall be made by applying the cumulative average effective rate to only that portion of the "direct cost" of the facility which is attributable to Texas Water Development Fund money.

PESTICIDE DECISION PUT OFF

The new State Pesticide Advisory Committee delayed its decision on banning DDT for household uses.

No recommendation was made because the Environmental Protection Agency has not made its official ruling on DDT, committee chairman Dr. Perry Adkisson of Texas A. & M. University said.

The five-member committee will meet again December 7 to consider the matter. Texas Department of Agriculture, charged with administering the state law on pesticides, asked advice from the advisory panel authorized by the Legislature this year.

HUNT INVITE "DISAPPEARS"

State legislators and officials who had been invited to hunt on state game management areas found the invitations suddenly withdrawn after newspapers publicized them.

Parks and Wildlife Department Executive Director James U. Cross issued the invitations, although other would-be deer hunters are required to draw for the limited number of free permits in the areas. PW Commissioners doubt special exceptions could be made for state officials and legislators, so the bid was unceremoniously taken back. One commissioner called for Cross' resignation over the incident, but the new director said he plans to stay on the job.

POOL MEET SLATED

Complaints about the new Texas catastrophe pool insurance plan will be aired at a public hearing here December 7. The State Board of Insurance announced it will "consider all aspects" of the plan approved by the Legislature for 14 seacoast counties this year. Texas Association of Insurance Agents will offer testimony and stress "positive steps" that can make the pool work as intended.

SHORT SNORTS

Attorney General Martin lambasted the new state code of ethics for public officials as a "virtual mishmash" and predicted a court effort by one or more political subdivisions to invalidate it.

An experimental fusion machine, which may help revolutionize energy-producing mechanisms, has been dedicated at the University of Texas.

State health authorities rechecked September rabies tests after a faulty lab check came close to letting a case of the deadly disease escape detection.

Three railroad union legislative boards have merged into a single United Transportation Union, Texas Legislative Board to represent 12,000 railroad and bus line employees on legislation.

Deer hunting, one of the state's biggest businesses — involving 510,000 "customers" who spend about $88 million in two months on 37 million acres of leased land—gets under way this weekend in most counties.

Governor Smith declined the request of New York Attorney Roy Cohn for a special investigating committee to look into Attorney General Martin's probe of the $228 million Moody Foundation, saying he has no authority to name a committee with subpoena power.

HEALTH COLUMN

Back in 1915, the Texas Health Department became the instrument for enforcement of the McNealus Anti-Pollution Act. That act was designed to "preserve the purity of our water supplies." Today Texas has more sewage treatment plants than any other state and ranks at the top in total number of public drinking water supplies.

Drinking water supplies serving communities, common carriers, food processing plants and parks are subject to thorough inspection of health officials. Plans for new systems as well as improvements and expansion of existing systems are reviewed for health hazards and compliance with Health Department rules and regulations. Water utility operators are examined by the Health Department and, where qualified, are issued a certificate of competency.

"The quantity and quality of drinking water in Texas is in excellent condition, at least for the moment," says C. K. Foster, Director of Sanitary Engineering Division of the Texas Health Department. "It's in much better condition now than 10 to 15 years ago, due to expansion and extension of facilities, and public awareness."

In Texas every community with a population of 10,000 or more now has an approved public water supply system, as do many smaller communities.

Travelers may have noticed that some communities have a sign posted at their city limits announcing that their municipal water supply has been approved by the State Health Department. This sign indicates that the water supply does more than meet the minimum requirements of a public water supply and State Health Department regulations.

Today there are some 450 public water supplies across the state that have been approved by the State Health Department and certified as meeting high environmental health protection standards. Health officials say these systems serve approximately 90 percent of the population of Texas. They have achieved what amounts to a blue-ribbon award for health protection and excellence. These 450 systems, while serving most of the population, represent only a small portion of the approximately 3,000 public water systems in Texas. The remainder are generally in accordance with the minimum standards set by the State Health Department.

The World is full of people making good livings, but poor lives.

he says, did a lot of digging and bailing, and replaced a length of water line which had sprung more leaks than he had stoppers for.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Vacationers: Beware!

To give his family a summer-time treat, Ernest piled them into a trailer and drove to a nearby lake. Renting space in a trailer park, he settled down for two carefree weeks.

But on the day of departure, Ernest came down with a galloping case of poison ivy. In fact, it was so severe that he determined to claim damages from the management of the trailer park.

"The poison ivy was growing right there on the premises," Ernest charged in court. "It was up to them, as owners of the land, to get rid of it."

However, the court decided that Ernest had no legal kick coming.

"The city dweller who chooses to spend his vacation in the great outdoors," said the court, "must assume the risks of the outdoors such as mosquitoes, snakes, poison ivy, and other natural conditions not found in the urban communities."

Still, even in the "great outdoors," the vacationer does not assume risks he could not reasonably foresee. In another case, a camper in Yellowstone National Park was bitten by a rambunctious grizzly bear. The Park rangers had reason to suspect that a dangerous bear was at large, but they had given the camper no special warning about the situation.

Accordingly, a court held the federal government liable for the accident. The court said the camper should have been given enough facts "to provide an opportunity for an intelligent choice as to whether he wished to incur the risk."

Nor does a vacationer assume the risk of outright negligence by those in charge. Thus:

At a lake resort, a woman bather cut her foot badly on a fragment of glass just offshore. Early that morning, the cleanup man had found and removed several broken bottles on the beach nearby. But he had neglected to find out whether any of the glass had found its way into the water.

The woman later sued the owner of the resort for damages and the court ruled in her favor. The court said her injury was not due to any hazard of the

Improved Outlook For Bank
Stocks

Wellesley Hills, Mass., November, 1971. Bank stocks have been trending upward since mid-August when the Nixon Administration announced Phase I of the new economic game plan. However, these issues are still well below the peak reached early last spring. The decline from that high was brought about by generally lower second-quarter earnings. Third-quarter results have been mixed, but have been better on the whole than those of the preceding period.

Banks have been caught in a profits squeeze, since costly sources of funds have not been offset by interest earned on loans. Besides the over-all market decline, there have been other factors causing bank stock prices to falter, including prospective large write-off of loan losses and sluggish loan demand due to the slow economic recovery. Although 1971 fourth-quarter results may be flat, the new program should bring better operating earnings over the next year.

The Floating Prime
The wage-price freeze of Phase I did not include interest rates. Thus far, Phase II has made no mention of restricting these rates either. However, a ceiling has been very much implied, which is one reason the banking industry was so reluctant to reduce interest rates in October. Fear is that the new rate will turn out to be the new ceiling. In an attempt to prevent this, First National City and Irving Trust have chosen to tie their prime rate to that of commercial paper. This, at least in theory, should eliminate some of the political pressures of movements in the prime.

The break from the old method, which began in the early 1930s, has been under study by many bankers for some time. The floating prime, still in experimental stage at both First National City and Irving Trust, will probably become industry-wide in the near future. A floating prime rate will allow banks to adjust more quickly to money costs and demand conditions. This should permit a fair return on investments and do away with some of the wide operating earnings fluctuations of the past few years.

Economic Rebound For 1972
The new economic program should bring a substantial economic expansion in 1972. Strong loan demand could come from several sources, including the stimulus of the investment tax credit as industry borrows for increased capital expenditures. From the consumer standpoint, elimination of the auto excise tax and acceleration of the increase in the personal exemption and standard deduction should spur retail buying. With a strengthening economy likely to stimulate loan demand still further, bank earnings should make some solid gains next year. Hence, the Research Department of Babson's Reports is currently recommending the following bank stocks:

American Fletcher, an Indianapolis bank-holding company has had a good growth record in recent years. Diversification into related fields under sound management enhances future prospects. Net operating earnings for the first nine months were below those of a year ago, and full results will probably lag behind those for 1970. However, 1972 should see considerably better earnings.

Citizens and Southern National Bank is a leading regional bank centered in the rapidly growing southeastern sector of the country. The company is well managed and aggressive, as is indicated by its excellent record in recent years. Earnings will show a slight improvement this year over 1970, with an even better gain next year.

Western Bancorporation is a leading West Coast multibank holding company. Earnings during the first nine months of 1971 were below those for the year-earlier period (before deducting an extraordinary item in 1970 representing the losses incurred by the United California Bank, a subsidiary in Basel). But Western Bancorporation should experience more prosperous operations from an expected economic rebound in 1972.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Last spring attention was focused on what many scientists and also environmentalists proclaimed a "serious public health problem" resulting from pollution of waters by the industrial discharge of mercury. This highly toxic metal turned up as a fish contaminant in the waters of at least 17 states, including Texas.

A portion of Lavaca Bay was closed to the harvesting of oysters when samples taken by the State Health Department indicated a mercury density in excess of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration guideline of 0.5 parts per million.

That situation has changed dramatically in the past year and a large portion of the bay has now been reopened to oyster harvesting.

Excessive mercury densities are still being found in some Blue Crab collected from Lavaca Bay. Therefore, Texas health officials recommend that Blue Crab taken from Lavaca Bay not be used for human consumption until further notice.

The oyster is perfectly safe to harvest and eat when taken from approved harvesting areas. State health officials say their surveillance program of mercury pollution in Texas, underway since 1968, has shown a steady and consistent reduction in mercury densities found in oysters taken from Lavaca Bay.

Evidence that mercury may not be the sustaining health hazard scientists and public health officials once thought was brought before the American Public Health Association annual meeting last month. A team of Detroit researchers reported that the amount of mercury in the environment has actually decreased during the past 60 years and that mercury now presents no health hazard.

The researchers based their conclusions on studies of several samples of preserved human tissue going back to 1913.

This data would seem to indicate a continual cleansing of the environment from mercury pollution instead of accumulation of the deadly metal. Health authorities say mercury accumulations in vital tissues can cause brain, nerve, eye, liver, and kidney damage, as well as severe birth defects.

The Detroit team had a possible explanation for the sudden decline in mercury levels in humans around the turn of the century: the decline and disappearance of the use of coal for heating, which gives off mercury when it is burned.

Canned Pears:

From the time the first pearly white pear blossoms appeared centuries ago, pears have been one of the miracles of nature. To pear lovers everywhere, it is one of the most delicious fruits known to man.

Canned pears capture and preserve the original flavor and juiciness of the fresh fruit, just for pear lovers! Canned pears are one of the most versatile of all fruit, too, and they are in plentiful supply this month. They are chilled for breakfast, luncheon or dinner dessert, or as an accompaniment to meat and poultry dishes. They combine with gelatins and other fruits in desserts and salads and are a refreshing addition to dairy products.

Set your mouth just right for this Pearadise Coffee Cake:

- 1 can (16-17 oz.) pear halves
  - 1-2 cup milk
  - 1-4 cup sugar
  - 1-2 tsp. salt
  - 2 T. butter
  - 1 pkg. yeast, active dry or compressed
  - 1-4 cup warm water
  - 1 egg, well-beaten
  - 1-2 cups sifted flour
- TOPPING:
- 2 T. brown sugar
  - 1-4 tsp. cinnamon
  - 1-4 tsp. nutmeg
  - 1 T. butter

Drain pears, reserving syrup. Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt and 2 tablespoons butter. Dissolve yeast in water. Stir in water. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Add egg and flour. Beat with electric mixer on high speed or by hand until smooth. Spread dough evenly in greased 8 inch square pan. Slice pear halves thin and arrange over top of batter. Sprinkle with mixture of brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Dot with butter. Cover and let rise in warm place, away from draft, until double in bulk (about 40

If a flat tire, empty gas tank or dead battery stalls you on a dark road at night, you can make a warning signal by stretching a long sheet of aluminum foil along the back and side of your car nearest the road. Pears are a great accompaniment for meat. Serve them, cut side up, filled with cranberry orange relish to accent poultry entrees. With lamb, broil mint jelly-filled pear halves. Ham takes to apple jelly or orange marmalade-accented pear halves. Sprinkle pear halves with grated sharp cheese and broil briefly to accompany steak.

Cranberry Pears are so perfect with ham, chicken, roast pork or turkey. Try them on your Thanksgiving menu! (Especially since cranberry juice cocktail is also reported to be in plentiful supply this month!).

In saucepan, pour cranberry juice cocktail over drained canned pears—as many as desired. Bring to simmer and reduce liquid to about half. Chill pears in syrup for fullest color and flavor enhancement and serve chilled.

Eastland Overruns Winters 52-0 On Blizzard Field Friday Night

Eastland's Mavericks stam-peded past the Winters Blizzards in a 52-0 scoring fest Friday night on the Blizzards' home ground.

The Mavericks took the opening kick-off and had to punt to the Blizzards after gaining only eight yards in three downs. Winters went to work on their own 44 yard line. Lee Choate picked up a first down on a thirteen yard carry, and Jerry Mack Jackson got another on a carry of 17 yards to the Eastland 20.

In three carries Choate moved to the 11, where his field goal attempt was blocked by Craig Lund. The Blizzards only had the ball for one more series of downs in the first quarter, but the defense was containing Eastland's offensive effort, and the quarter ended 0-0.

In the second quarter Lund went to the air. While the Mavericks were putting 28 points on the scoreboard, the Blizzards were being strictly contained in their own end of the field, making only one first down in the period.

In the third quarter Eastland scored on touchdown passes of 75 and 70 yards and on a 40 yard run up the middle by Rueben Gaeta. The Blizzards managed an offensive spurt early in the quarter, moving from their own 41 to the Eastland 24 on carries by Jackson, Choate, and Mathis and a pass from Steve Tatom to Keith Paschal. Then the drive was halted by a Maverick interception. On their next possession, following the Eastland touchdown, the Blizzards moved to the Maverick 45 and then lost the ball on a fumble. After the third Maverick touchdown of the period, Winters began play from their own 21; they picked up three first downs to the Eastland 23 on carries by Jackson and Tatom. The third quarter ended with the score Eastland 49 and Winters 0.

The only scoring of the final period was a field goal by Eastland from the Winters 26; a previous field goal attempt from the Winters 26 had failed. The final score was 52-0.

Runnels Roads Included In 1971 FM Program

The Texas Highway Commission has approved additional funds for the 6.3 miles of Farm to Market Roads in Runnels County as part of the 1971 Texas as Farm to Market Road Program.

District Engineer J. A. Snell of the Texas Highway Department said the estimated cost of this work is $74,800.

The work authorized for this county is part of 304.3 miles of new construction and additional financing for 177.1 miles of FM and RM Roads previously designated and constructed in stages. Estimated cost of the program Statewide is $20.9 million.

Texas has some 40 thousand miles of paved secondary roads under State-maintenance in the Farm to Market system.

Of the new construction in the program, 290.8 miles are new roads being added to the system. Of this total 192.8 miles or 66 percent are school bus routes and 178.6 miles or 61 percent are rural mail delivery routes. Originally intended to get Texas farmers and ranchers out of the mud and to provide for movement of agricultural produce to markets, the FM system also now affords city dweller and rural resident alike access to hundreds of new lakes and other recreational areas in the State.

In addition, the FM system supports the movement of goods and workers to the many new industries now operating in smaller cities and towns in Texas.

AROUND THE 8-AA FOOTBALL LOOP

The skein has run out for six of the eight teams in 8-AA, so far as results of the district race are concerned—that was really decided some time back—and there's not even much argument about lower-ladder position.

The big moment of decision is to come Friday night at Eastland when the Coleman Bluecats meet the Mavericks to decide the district championship. Each of these teams has a blemish-free district record, and the winner Friday night will represent 8-AA in bi-district play the following week.

Eastland kept their district and statewide No. 1 standing Friday night, completely melting the Winters Blizzards 52-0. With that contest, the Mavericks ran their district score to 320 points, while opposition through the six games has been able to gain only 26 points among themselves. The continued win-record of the Mavericks leaves no doubt about their strength and cunning.

Coleman slaughtered Ballinger 28-0 in a one-sided 'Cat-fight' in South Runnels Friday night, to keep their tie standing with Eastland in the district. The Bluecats have run up 229 points through six district games, while their defensive unit has allowed only 19 to the opposition. Except for their one 6-13 loss to Brady in pre-conference play, the 'Cats have a record to be reckoned with.

Friday night's Eastland-Coleman game will be the No. 1 game in the district, and although Eastland's record and high-scoring toughness makes them odds-on favorites for the win, Coleman is calculated to give them some tough plowing. In any event, no matter what the outcome, District 8-AA will have a strong representative to send on to post-season play.

Elsewhere about the district Friday night, Clyde edged the Comanche Indians 14-8. Defensive see-saw was played all during the first half, then the Bull dogs got on the board on an intercept. In the final quarter Clyde went over again, before Comanche could manage a TD and a run for the extra two. That's the way the game ended.

Hamilton entered the win column Friday night, taking the Cisco Lobos 29-22 in a hard fight, to spoil Cisco's homecoming. This game saw scoring in all quarters, and stats suggest that if another 12 minutes had been played, it could have been another story—it was that close.

There will be little change in the District standing after the games this week are completed. Winters will retain the No. 3 spot, whether or not they have a win over Cisco. Ballinger plays Comanche, and will keep the No. 4 position, regardless Clyde and Hamilton are paired to see which will be in the cellar at the end.

HERNDONS TO ANSON
Mr. and Mrs. Bud Herndon planned to leave this week for Anson where they will make their home. They have lived on a stock farm two miles south of Winters for the past 24 years but recently sold their property. He said he was not going to retire, but would "try to raise a few more cows" at Anson. They previously had lived at Anson before coming to Winters.

Mrs. Roy Rountree, Mrs. D. L. Milner, all of San Angelo, and Mrs. Pyburn Brown of Winters.
The rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bob Smith, the bridegroom's parents, at the Ramada Inn in San Angelo.
Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home at 701 Koberline, San Angelo. After December they will live in Rosemont Apartments on the campus of Angelo University.
The bride is a graduate of San Angelo Central High School. She was a member of the National Honor Society and French National Honor Society, and was in the Math Club, French Club, and Science Club. She presently is a sophomore at Angelo State University, majoring in math with English minor. She also is employed at B-W Merchandise.
Mr. Smith is a graduate of Winters High School. He was a member of the National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll. He was in the Winters Blizzard Band, and on the annual staff. He is a sophomore at Angelo State University, with a major in math and a minor in chemistry. He is employed in the arts and crafts shop at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

Moorman Company Will Hold Open House in Comanche

The Comanche Division of the Moorman Manufacturing Company, Quincy, Illinois, will host an open house Saturday, Nov. 13, 1971. Comanche personnel will be assisted by representatives from Moorman Headquarters in Quincy in showing its expanded manufacturing and warehousing facilities to the public. These improvements will make it possible for Moorman's to more adequately serve the increasing demands for its products in the Texas and New Mexico areas.

The foundation of Moorman's business has always been based on the following:

"At Moorman's we believe the grain and forage grown by American farmers and ranchers is the finest livestock and poultry feed produced in the world."

"But, in these wonderful feeds there is more meat, milk and eggs than livestock and poultry can extract without special nutritional help."

"The Moorman way of serving farmers, ranchers and livestock feeders is to supply research-proven products made with carefully selected and processed ingredients. We also help stockmen fit these products into carefully planned programs which will best fulfill individual feeding goals. We further provide the services of a conscientious and well-informed counselor for on-the-spot guidance to help insure the most profitable use of products and programs."

"It has always been the basic Moorman philosophy to supply our customers with products and services for greatest economy of production and maximum profits. This is Moorman's contribution to America's producers of meat, milk and eggs."

This statement has been a keystone in the Moorman marketing plan for many years, and it is implemented by Moorman men as they counsel with their customers and prospective customers about their individual needs.

All interested persons are invited to attend this open house on November 13th between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Farmers Home Administration And Commercial Lenders Seek Farm Loans

Temple, Texas, Nov. 9—Texas farmers will be able to tap the largest supply of supplemental credit in history this year through the Farmers Home Administration, State Director Lynn Futch announced today.

"We project that more than $81 million will be available to Texas farmers in fiscal year '72, as a result of cooperative efforts between the Farmers Home Administration and commercial lenders," he stated.

The cooperative effort involves having the commercial credit source and Farmers Home Administration make simultaneous loans to a borrower, with the private lender having first claim on the security.

"The farm ownership program is aimed to reach $30 million—$15 million of government money, with private lenders participating at a level of $15 million," Mr. Futch continued.

"Projected figures for the farm operating loan program is $51 million of which $22 1-2 million—triple last year's figure—comes from regular commercial lenders."

Lending levels of FHA farm programs are also higher because of a substantial boost given the Farm Ownership Program by President Nixon when he announced that national funding would be $350 million this fiscal year, $82 million above 1971 levels, Mr. Futch said.

The President also said the nationwide farm operating loan program would be raised to $350 million from its present $275 million level if the Congress would approve legislation changing the program from an appropriation basis to an insured basis.

If this legislation is passed, Mr. Futch said, notes of farm borrowers for operating purposes would be sold to investors who, in turn, would be insured against loss on the notes. The investors' money would replenish a revolving fund and would be available for more loans, as is the case now with farm ownership loans.

"It will continue to be our policy to assist people in finding the credit needed to begin farming or to help finance farm operations," he said. "We therefore commit government funds only when we cannot involve private money to serve agriculture's credit needs."

"To assure this, county supervisors of the Farmers Home Administration are required to contact another lender with respect to every application for farm ownership or operating funds."

"We are pleased with the fine cooperation extended by banks and other credit sources to make this plan work," he concluded.

Food and Fiber Abundance Week November 15-21

Texans can be assured of highest quality and bargain rate prices for Texas-produced food and fiber, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said. White is co-chairman of the Food and Fiber Abundance Week, November 15 to 21, which is being promoted by all agricultural groups in the state to reassure the consumer of the quality and abundance of food and fiber.

Governor Preston Smith, is White's co-chairman, has proclaimed the week as Texas Food and Fiber Abundance Week, and called attention to the agriculture abundance provided for consumers.

"The consumer really never had it so good as now. Never before in the history of the world have so many and at such bargain rates as we now enjoy from our food and fiber," White said.

He noted that the consumer uses less than 17 percent of his spendable income for food. "This is due to the production efficiency of our agricultural producers," White said.

The food and fiber industry is an $18 billion business, "the most basic and important facet of our economy," he said.

White said recent unwarranted attacks on the quality of food

"is pure fabrication." He said there may have been rare instances of contaminated food, "but this happens so few times that a big-to-do is made over it, leaving the consumer with the impression that food is becoming impure."

He continued: "No one in this state has to worry about buying contaminated food from a grocery store. You can be assured of the highest quality of food. This is as it should be. But this hasn't happened by accident."

The entire food industry—from the producer to the processor and retailer—sees to it that the highest quality standards for food and fiber are maintained at all times," he said.

The consumer can also be assured of the abundance of food and fiber. "What is sometimes referred to as a 'burdensome surplus' is in fact our greatest blessing," he said.

White noted that the ability of agriculture to produce so much has "pauperized agricultural producers." He explained that too much production has helped to cause depressed farm prices. "Farmers today are getting in price what they received 20 years ago. This will have to change in the future if agriculture as we know it today is going to survive," he said.
