Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Inflation? Been around quite a while, according to some records. According to a yellowed clipping from the Ballinger Ledger (then a daily paper) of Jan. 17, 1910, anyway.

The clipping quotes a conversation between the late W. W. Poe, who farmed west of Winters, and a Mr. C. A. Doose: "Mr. Doose: Did I understand you to say that you had been offered $50 per acre recently for the land I sold you for $18 per acre five years ago?"

Mr. Poe: "I was offered $50 per acre for one section that I bought from you at that price, but I refused to sell as I do not know where I could buy any land as good at that price outside West Central Texas. I make good crops. I am satisfied here and from the price of land elsewhere I am sure that my land will be worth more than I was offered for it."

The clipping continues: Mr. Poe said that he averaged a half a bale of cotton to the acre last year (1909) and that he attributed the good crop to the facts that he used improved and selected cotton seed and intelligent cultivation of the land. He has 1100 acres in cultivation and received an average rental per acre last season of something more than $6. The best crops made in Texas last year were made in Runnels County. And those crops because of intelligent cultivation have advertised the county from one end of Texas to the other.

A federal court has declared unconstitutional the congressional redistricting plan drawn up by the State Legislature, and found acceptable a plan drawn up by a Dallas man, who was a plaintiff in the recent court action. Then, according to reports, glaring errors were discovered in the accepted and ordered plan, necessitating further court action to straighten out that mess.

The Dallas man reportedly said he drew up the plan in "three or four days" with help from his teen-age sons and a neighbor and a 50-cent U. S. Census publication. (A comparison with the high cost of paying legislators to do the same thing, perhaps?)

Our flabbergasted Bluff Creek friend said he could have done the whole thing a lot cheaper, with a map of Texas and a nickel pencil—and it would be just as fair to the people. Just draw a few lines across the map, and put district numbers in the different slices, he says. Then, if one district does not have as many people as another district, load the voters on buses and shuttle them around until (Continued on page 4)

Even An "Old" Fish

Highway Department's "Digging" Is Providing Links To Texas' Past

An 80-million-year-old fish fossil has been found in West Texas. Indian campsites near Austin. A Civil War powder mill near Marshall. And plans and specifications for the temporary State Capitol which burned in 1899.

All these things, and many more, have been found by the Texas Highway Department.

Everyone knows the Texas Highway Department provides important transportation links between modern cities and towns. Not so well known is the Department's role in providing links to the past.

Texas Highway Department crews have been responsible for finding more than 800 archaeological sites since the Department was organized in 1917.

They combine with the more than 4,500 sites currently cataloged at the University of Texas Archaeological Research Laboratories in Austin to give archaeologists a more complete picture of the State's colorful history.

Discoveries made by Highway Department crews include the remains of an Indian burial mound now on display in the Witte Memorial Museum in San Antonio, Inner Space Caverns on Interstate Highway 35 near Georgetown, and an 80-million-year-old fish fossil in West Texas.

Earlier, discoveries were made more or less by accident. Construction was stopped while the site was excavated. Today pinpointing archaeological sites and locating and restoring artifacts is an important part of highway building.

The Department has its own special archaeological section to find and explore archaeological sites before construction begins.

It was established in July, 1970, shortly after the Texas Legislature passed the Antiquities Code in 1969. The code establishes strict rules for control

Lions Seeking Children For Summer Camp

Applications for a summer vacation full of fun for handicapped children in the Winters area are now being accepted by members of the Winters Lions Club.

This unique Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville will open its first two-week session Sunday, June 4. Five sessions will be held this summer for youngsters from seven through sixteen years of age.

In the past years, Lions have sent over 13,000 youngsters to camp.

Elm Creek District Will Get $5,000 Appropriation

It is fairly certain Elm Creek Water Control District will receive a lump sum of $5,000 from the State General Revenue Fund, according to an opinion of Attorney General Crawford C. Martin this week.

The funds will be used for general operation of the District. W. M. Hays, chairman of the board of the District, said.

The appropriation had been included in the General Appropriation Act of the last session of the Legislature, but that portion of the act had been vetoed by Governor Preston Smith.

In an opinion issued to Robert S. Calvert, Comptroller of Public Accounts, Atty. Gen. Martin, in summary, pointed out that "The $5,000 item of appropriation to the Elm Creek Water Control District for the biennium ending August 31, 1973 . . . is valid in its entirety, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts has authority to issue a warrant in a lump sum of $5,000."

The Governor's veto message dated June 20, 1971, read, in its relevant part: "Therefore, by authority granted in me by Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I hereby veto each and all of the items appropriated for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1973, from Senate Bill No. 11, Sixty-Second Legislature, Regular Session."

The Attorney General's opinion stated further, "Pursuant to Section 14 of Article IV of the Constitution of Texas, the Governor has no authority to veto a portion of an item of appropriation; either entire item must be vetoed, or none of it. An attempted veto of a portion of an item is nugatory and of no effect, and the item attempted to be vetoed is valid in its entirety."

Hays said the District had applied for an appropriation to be used for operating expenses of the District. The District had no funds, other than voluntary contributions from sponsoring service organizations, to pay for bonds of members of the board, and for other expenses. The District receives no tax monies at the present time. Hays said, and without some source of funds would find it impossible to reach a position of applying for federal grants and loans to be used in making final surveys and for construction of water retarding structures within the District.

"With this appropriation," Hays said, "we will be able to continue working toward applying for the federal grants. Without some kind of funds, we are stymied."

The board of directors of Elm Creek Water Control District last year had sought the assistance of State Senator David Ratliff of Stamford, Rep. Grant Jones of Taylor County, and Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood.

Moore, Baldwin Retire From Fire Department

Two firemen, with a total of 45 years in the Winters Volunteer Fire Department, have retired.

Ellis Zane Moore, who has completed 24 years with the department, and Buford Baldwin, who had 20 years, 11 months and 22 days service, have ended their careers as volunteer fire fighters.

During the 24 years Moore has been with the volunteer department, he has served as president of the department, has served as assistant fire chief, and as Captain of a Company.

Baldwin has served as president of the Volunteer Firemen, as a member of the retirement board, and has attended fire fighting school at Texas A&M two sessions.

Baldwin said he was accepted as a member of the volunteer firemen on Jan. 9, 1951. The night was cold and sleet was falling, he said, and he had already gone to bed when the department president called and told him he had been accepted, and was to report to the fire station immediately. That was the first "call" of hundreds he has answered during the more than 20 years since.

Baldwin and Moore said the biggest local fire they have helped fight was the blaze which destroyed the C. L. Green Milling Co. plant here several years ago. Equipment and men from Ballinger, Abilene and Bronte were called in to help on that one. The biggest out-of-town fires they helped with were the Norton School blaze a few years ago, and the fire which destroyed a theatre in Ballinger, in addition to many big blazes which swept over hundreds of acres of rangeland in the area.

Human tragedy also has marked their long years of service, they said, as they fought fires in which several children and adults were killed.

Moore and Baldwin said they have enjoyed the many years they have been in the Department, and their association with the other volunteers. They said they will miss being part of "one of the finest volunteer fire departments in the country."

Subject of Mrs. Poe's Book Died In Mesa, Arizona

Goldie Richmond, subject of the book, "Angel To The Papagos," by Charlie (Mrs. George) Poe of Winters, died in a Mesa, Ariz., hospital January 13. Funeral was held Jan. 18.

Mrs. Richmond was 76 years of age and had been in the hospital almost a month.

She and her husband, Jim, formerly owned and operated a trading post on the Papago Indian Reservation at San Simon Village in Arizona. They had retired and were living at the Yucca Trailer Ranch in Mesa.

Mrs. Poe's book was about Mrs. Richmond's life among the Papago Indians.

Readers will remember Mrs. Richmond's feat of choking a lynx cat to death that had landed on the back of her first husband, Marion Tracy, while they were trapping on the Papago Desert.

"Angel To The Papagos" (Naylor Press) was written and published by Mrs. Poe a few years ago.

County Contracts To Remodel Courthouse Annex

Runnels County Commissioners Monday approved a contract with Cary Lumber Co. of Ballinger to remodel the Courthouse Annex.

The old stone building, which houses the Soil Conservation Service and ASCS offices, will be completely remodeled, with new ceilings, new windows, new doors, partitions, and a new floor. Cost of the project will be $24,974.

The building will be rented to the ASCS and Soil Conservation Service, and rental received will pay for the remodeling, County Judge Elliott Kemp said.

In other business Monday, the Commissioners employed Frank H. Carter of Brady as an appraiser to evaluate right-of-way land for work planned on FM 2011, which crosses the Colorado River in the south part of Runnels County, from Valley View to the Old River Road.

Federal regulations now require appointment of a certified appraiser for all such road work, Judge Kemp said.

Filing Deadline Few Days Away, Old Procedures Being Followed

With the February 7 filing deadline only a little more than a week away, and a court-caused questionmark regarding filing fees hovering over filing procedures, political action in Runnels County is beginning to thicken, however slightly.

The county race attracting the most attention is that for Commissioner of Precinct 1, which encompasses much of the southeast section of the county, along with a big part of Ballinger. There now are five candidates for that post, filed with the County Democratic Chairman Drury Hathaway, and one announced candidate who had not filed as of Tuesday.

Those officially filed for Precinct 1 are Oscar Proctor, now employed by the precinct, and Newman Smith, Coy Estes and Charles Bradshaw. Travis Barrett reportedly has announced his candidacy for that post, but has not filed officially.

Pat Pritchard, incumbent commissioner for Precinct 3, has filed for re-election, and County Sheriff Don Atkins also has filed for re-election.

Other offices in the county which will be filled this year have no officially-filed candidates as of this time.

Drury said procedures used in the past for filing and collection of filing fees are being retained—"until we receive further instruction"—even though a recent court decision declared requirements for filing fees to be unconstitutional. He said as County Democratic Chairman he is collecting a deposit toward the total fee. Total fee would not be determined by the County Democratic Committee until after the filing deadline has passed, he said.

Weather Holds, 4786 Bales In

Almost 500 bales of cotton from the 1971 crop have been received during the past week, bringing the total received at the Winters Warehouse to 4786; 4306 were reported a week ago.

With the weather holding clear, it is expected most of the cotton left in the fields will be stripped within the next few days.

For the area served by the Abilene Classing Office of the Consumer and Marketing Service, USDA, samples representing 28,000 bales were received in the Abilene office for the week ending January 21. Season total for the area was reported at 151,200 bales.

Grades and micronaire readings continued low, as they have been most of this season, according to the Abilene office report. The season is about 75 percent completed, they said.

Low Middling Light Spotted was the predominant grade and accounted for 36 percent of the classing at Abilene, with Strict Low Middling Spotted accounting for 33 percent. Fifty-seven percent was reduced in grade because of bark content. Staple distributions showed that 64 percent were staple 30, 20 percent staple 29, and 11 percent staple 31.

According to the report, prices continued good with a range from 22 cents for the lowest to 32 cents for the better. Around 80 percent of the current ginnings are selling for 28.00 and 30.00 cents per pound.

...about your SOCIAL SECURITY

Do you worry about what would happen to your children in case of your death? Are you planning for their future in case you become disabled? You should include social security in any provisions you might make.

Income from social security can be considerable—as high as $517 per month to a family of three. Check your social security record when making your plans because social security can properly be used as a base in any income provision program.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3508) in San Angelo, Texas, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.

Fish Needs Extra Care

Austin—The romance of making a meal from fish you've caught yourself should last well past the dinner hour.

Unfortunately, say Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials, unless the fish is properly cared for, disillusionment can set in with the first bite.

Like any other meat, the better the handling after the fish is caught, the better the likelihood that it will be edible. The trip from the water to the table (or freezer) should be as short as possible.

Small fish should be thoroughly cleaned and larger ones cut into steaks before packaging.

The fish should be washed well and doublewrapped in one of the commercial freezer papers before it is stored in the freezer.

All the air should be squeezed out of the package to prevent freezer burns.

Ann Holden, the department's home economist, suggests that fish be frozen at zero degrees or lower. And keeping frozen fish more than six months will probably affect the quality.

"Little Fauss and Big Halsy"

The thrilling sport of professional motorcycle racing is the background for Paramount Pictures' "Little Fauss and Big Halsy" starring Robert Redford and Michael J. Pollard. The Albert S. Ruddy Production, directed by Sidney J. Furie, shows Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre.

Producer Ruddy and director Furie go behind the scenes to explore the motives which produce the unusual breed of men dedicated to risking their lives in a perilous sport. The script by Charles Eastman centers on three young people who are part of the uncertain world of motorcycle racing.

All scenes were filmed on location in Southern and Northern California and in Arizona. Shooting was done in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Phoenix, and in smaller towns like Lancaster, Rosemont and Willow Springs. The production operated like a traveling road company, filming in a different town every few days.

"TOKLAT"

What's it like to make a wild-life movie where your production schedule is dictated by the whim of the animals you're filming? According to Gordon McLaughlin, young professional animal expert who worked with "Willie," the grizzly bear star of "Toklat," it's a lot like the military—hours of preparation followed by hours of waiting for the animal stars to "do their thing" and then a few frantic moments of camera hyperactivity.

Toklat was shot in the wilderness areas of Utah, Alaska and Wyoming, with the result that cameramen and directors hefting 60 to 80 pounds of equipment would have to chase their "stars" all over the wilds. What happens when the "stars" chase back? "With bears you run in a circle," says McLaughlin, "bears are not that fast and they'll tire after awhile" (or pick on something else, like the equipment—two complete cameras were devoured by Willie during the filming of "Toklat").

"With cougars," which appear abundantly in "Toklat," Gordon continued, "never turn your back on them, never run—if he does attack, you must face the cat, crouch as low as you can, then get up and catch him by the tail." Try that some Sunday afternoon—no, better still don't—let Gordon McLaughlin do the dangerous work. You can see the results in "Toklat!"

Officers for next year were elected. They are: Mrs. Charles Kruse Jr., president; Mrs. Marshall Wharton, vice president; Mrs. H. M. Nichols, recording secretary; Mrs. Joe Burroughs, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Howard Worthington, treasurer.

Members present were Mesdames J. S. Tierce, Sallie Gray, Lee Harrison, E. E. Thormeyer, Nadeen Smith, Audra L. Mitchell, Elo Michaelis, Max Lewis, Burroughs, Kruse, Roberson, and Wharton, and a guest, Mrs. J. C. Lacy.

CARD OF THANKS

We thank everyone for the care given us at the time of the pickup wreck. We can't find words to express our thanks for all those who were so kind in so many ways. The care that Dr. Rives and the nurses gave me cannot be equaled.—Charlie and Gladys Eubank. Itc.

Armadillo's Public Image Improving

Austin—The humble armadillo has made great strides toward public acceptance in the past few years.

Adopted by various clubs as a sort of hard-shelled mascot, the nine-banded armadillo seems to embody a "back to the earth" philosophy championed by many Americans — particularly the young.

* Armadillos are quiet, docile, clean and ecologically non-destructive. That is, unless the ecology of your garden or flowerbed attracts the armadillo in his nocturnal foraging.

* However, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials say that even in this age of armadillo awareness some quail hunters still shoot armadillos on sight because they believe they eat quail eggs.

This is not so, say biologists who have examined the contents of hundreds of armadillo stomachs. The 'dillos live almost entirely on insects.

MAKING LUNGS GROW

Can lungs be made to grow bigger and work better? Perhaps.

Normally, lungs grow at roughly the same rate as the body. An infant has tiny toes and tiny lungs. By the time he is full-grown, the surface of his lungs will increase 20 times, roughly the same as his body weight. The number of his air sacs—where carbon dioxide and oxygen are exchanged—will increase about ten times. At adulthood, each person has about 300 million air sacs in his lungs.

Now two researchers at the Philadelphia Veterans Administration Hospital are injecting growth hormones into rats to increase the size of their lungs. In six weeks, they increased the total lung capacity of the rats by 41 percent and stepped up lung weight by 28 percent. The actual number of lung cells did not increase. But the average size of the cells did. There was also a significant increase in the size of the air sacs.

The researchers — Drs. Jerome S. Brody and Wilfrido J. Buhain—reported their results at a recent meeting of the American Thoracic Society, the medical arm of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. They speculate that similar lung growth can take place in humans.

If such growth is indeed possible, the treatment of certain lung diseases such as emphysema, in which some of the air sacs are destroyed and the person must struggle to breathe, could be affected significantly. Only further research will supply any answers.

To find out more about how lungs grow and work, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association.

Local Students To All-State Band Tryouts

Three Winters High School students, members of the Blizard Band, attended the All-State Band tryouts in Austin last weekend.

The students had made all-district, all-region, and because of high performance in all-region band, making them eligible for the state tryouts.

Going to Austin were Lesli Bishop, senior, on percussion; Paul Gerhart, junior, clarinet; and Trish Hill, junior, flute.

Band Director Kirke McKenzie accompanied the students to Austin.

When a cancer patient goes home the American Cancer Society stands ready to help with the loan of sickroom supplies. The motto of the ACS is "please Call Us."

Home Town Talk--

everything is equal. At least a sort of precedent has been established for the busing idea.

Either that or draw the lines and then make some of the people move until all districts have an equal population. It is not considered satisfactory nowadays to have some people more equal than others.

The ruling of the unconstitutional of the present filing fee system of financing political party primaries is considered in some quarters as another step toward abolishment of the primary method of selecting nominees for elective office. Some would like to go all the way to the convention method altogether, thus stripping away what little power is left in the hands of the people and handing it to the politicians. There'll probably be many changes made within the next few years we've never even thought of up to now.

River Ferry Crossing To Get Marker

The site of the Ferry Crossing on the Colorado River at Ballinger will be marked with a historic marker in the near future, according to a letter received from the State Marker Committee and read at the regular meeting of the Runnels Historical Survey Committee Saturday at the courthouse in Ballinger.

The marker will be placed where the ferry crossed the river at the south end of what is now 8th Street in Ballinger, where the park is located, and near the Multiple Service Center, formerly a school.

George Garrett reported on the project of locating former schools and presented three maps to be placed in central locations in the county for the convenience of those who would like to assist in locating these schools.

Garrett requested that all information received be sent to County Judge Elliott Kemp and Rankin Pace, committee chairman.

Schools added to the list are Parramore, Goolsby and Dale No. 1, reported by Mrs. Ted Hantsche. Rube Whitley recalled that Herring in the east part of the county was combined with Kirby and moved a mile inside Runnels County. The combined school was called Herring.

Gene Virden recalled the Dry Hollow School, which he had never heard called anything but "Rat Den." He said the school was moved to Oak Creek in 1921, and a new building erected and given the name of Oak Creek.

Jeff Russell of Winters and Neuman Smith of Hatchel were visitors at the Saturday meeting of the Historical Survey Committee.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By BILL BOYKIN, Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Another federal court ruling—voiding the new political filing fee law—jagged State officials and posed the possibility of an emergency special legislative session soon.

While an earlier decision invalidating the old filing fee law was still on appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, three judges in Dallas knocked out a back-up statute passed last year.

If rulings stand, Texas will be without any method of financing its May and June party primary elections. The filing deadline is February 7. In the original 1970 decision on the old law, fees were declared unconstitutional because they were used for revenue-collecting and were an absolute requirement to get on the ballot.

Legislators in 1971 passed a law effective January 1, 1972, setting maximum filing fees amounting to four percent of a candidate's term salary. Another provision for getting on the ballot by pauper's affidavits of inability to pay, together with a petition signed by 10 percent of area voters. This, too, was invalidated by a federal court last Thursday.

State is now enjoined from implementing any fee system for financing the primaries.

Gov. Preston Smith and Secretary of State Bob Bullock have expressed hope courts will stay the latest order until the Supreme Court rules on the first case.

Circuit Judge Homer Thornberry advised party county and state executive committees to make new rules for carrying out the latest ruling.

Since there is no authority for state financing of the primaries, a special legislative session apparently would be necessary to provide for that before May. One suggested alternative is voluntary contributions to pay the election bill—an estimated $1.5 statewide.

OIL ALLOWABLE DELAYED
Texas Railroad Commission decided to delay setting the February oil allowable pending further study.

Major purchasers, the commission explained, report inventories are higher than needs, although crude stocks are at a four-year low mark.

Seven of 14 major crude oil purchasers requested a larger oil allowable factor for February. Two requested a small one, and five proposed to keep the January factor of 67.5 per cent of potential. The U. S. Bureau of Mines predicted demand in February would be 3,530,000 barrels a day, or 10,000 less than January.

MARIJUANA PENALTY DROP SUGGESTED

Two Texas task forces looking into problems of children and youth in preparation for a White House conference recommended the penalty for first offense possession of limited amounts of marijuana should be reduced.

The groups advised Gov. Preston Smith the penalty should be lowered from felony to misdemeanor status.

A total of 264 recommendations were made to Smith covering 16 areas of exploration by the steering committee.

Other proposals included:
—Mandatory sex education in public schools as early as possible.

—Opposition to capital punishment.

—Repeal of abortion laws.

—State funds for low cost housing.

—Drug education starting with kindergarten or at first grade level.

AG OPINIONS

Texans can claim refunds on part of car sales taxes paid between August 16 and December 10, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

Those who get refunds of the federal excise taxes (repealed August 16) can also put in for refunds of the state tax (calculated on the total amount paid for a car) averaging about $8.

In another recent opinion, Martin concluded:
—The Board of Pardons and Paroles has authority to hire two deputy rules-reviewing deputy compact administrators at $600 a year.

COURTS SPEAK

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld state marijuana laws against attack that they are unconstitutionally vague.

State Supreme Court found The University of Texas at Austin used "undue influence" on a 90-year-old retired professor to get him to leave valuable property to the institution.

The decision determined the old professor's home should go to an attorney who signed a $35,000 purchase contract for it, and that his other property, on his death, should go to a nephew.

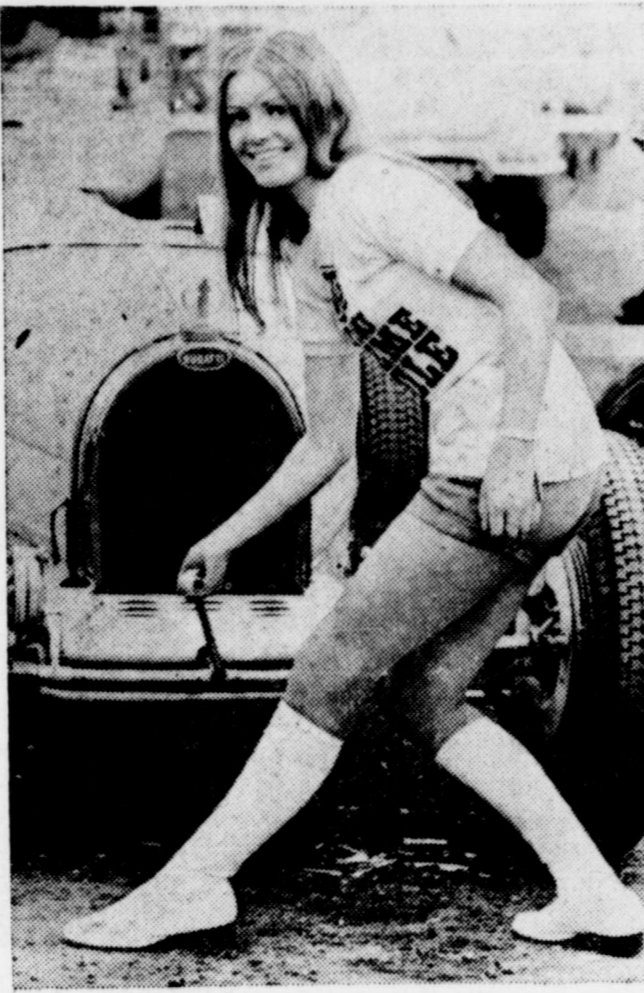

A February 16 hearing was set by the Supreme Court on a Houston barber's damage suit which involves a claim that freon cans should contain printed warnings they may blow up if attached to the wrong part of auto air conditioner. The barber was injured when a can exploded as he was attempting to "recharge" his air conditioner.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED

Robert H. Norris III of Dallas was named to the State Board of Architectural Examiners.

Gov. Preston Smith reappointed W. R. Dede Matthews of Bryan to the same board.

Thomas M. Maes II of Beau-

Frank M. Horlock Jr. succeeded C. Stanley Banks of San Antonio as chairman of the Texas Library and Historical Commission.

Jack Dale of Houston is chairman of the state committee planning the 1972 National Governors Conference in Houston.

DEMOCRATS IN QUANDRY

Just about the time a controversy over party rules appeared to be settled, Democrats found themselves with a leadership dispute on their hands.

State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Roy Orr of DeSoto accepted appointment as a Dallas County commissioner, setting the stage for the new wrangle.

Secretary of State Bob Bullock said he would not issue a certificate of appointment as a commissioner to Orr until he resigned his SDEC place because election duties of the two offices may prove incompatible.

Orr was quoted as saying he would resign, then that he wouldn't, then that he might in 30 days and again that he wouldn't.

Meanwhile, Gov. Smith asked William R. Anderson Jr. of Corpus Christi to seek the chairmanship. Anderson said he would agree to be a candidate, if and when Orr vacated the job.

RETROACTIVE PAY APPROVED

State employees and school teachers will receive retroactive pay increases for the September 1-November 13 period in mid-February.

The extra money represents pay raises approved by the 62nd legislature but stalled during the presidential wage-price freeze.

State officials have notified the federal pay board of intentions to go through with the raises that would have been granted September 1 had the freeze not been in effect. Since the pay board has until February 1 to challenge payments, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert said he would not accept retroactive payrolls until February 2.

HOG CHOLERA ATTACK PLANNED

State and federal animal health officers plan to send a task force of inspectors into South Texas to try and destroy in hogs.

Texas Animal Health Commission drafted stringent quarantine rules to restrict movement of breeder and feeder hogs in 54 counties to stop spread of the disease.

Success of the operation, according to Dr. E. S. Cox of the U. S. Department of Agriculture animal and plant health services division, could mean complete elimination of the virus in the U. S. Dr. Cox said the virus is not known to exist in this country outside South Texas.

SHORT SNORTS

Harlandale (San Antonio), Ft. Worth and Houston school districts will receive $574,186 to finance extensive research and development projects in career education.

Beer drinkers consumed the equivalent of 21.47 gallons for every man, woman and child in Texas last year, according to Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission figures.

R. G. (Randy) Pendleton, formerly of Andrews, resigned as director of the office of state-federal relations in Washington to run for state comptroller.

Texas Building and Construction Trades Council withheld endorsement of political candidates and angered former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, a senate candidate.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "self styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves—so why not.

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting, many of them end the same. On the short end.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H & R Block. We have all the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H & R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H & R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year. Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H & R Block.

Whopper Stripper Caught At Spence

San Angelo—The striped bass population in Spence Reservoir must not be doing too badly, if one specimen caught there this week is any example.

Tom Sawyer of George West caught a six-pound strip and hen left it for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials to study and identify.

The six-pounder is the largest recorded caught out of a freshwater lake stocked by the department. However, that fish was one of a group of stripers stocked in the Sabine River by Louisiana officials.

Stripers are anadromous fish—that is, they live in salt water but seek freshwater streams for spawning. It was discovered several years ago that saltwater is not necessary for the fish to survive and grow. They can be successfully stocked in freshwater lakes to provide another game fish for anglers.

Cold Weather Fishing Not Without Problems

San Angelo—Boating in wet, wintry weather presents problems, but most of them can be anticipated and solved, says the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Launching a boat in icy weather puts the sportsman in a frame of mind to step on the boat trailer and push, but boat trailers are often icy. Be sure you are wearing non-slip shoes, and be sure the line on your trailer winch is heavy nylon and not metal. If a metal cable breaks it can inflict a nasty wound. If you back into sand and the car sinks down, try pouring a bucket of water around each rear wheel. The sand will pack and the car may come right out.

If you need hot water quickly on a lake, use a shallow pan under the water discharge spout of your motor. It's quick and just as hot as you could heat over an open fire.

Matches will stay dry if you put them in a plastic shotgun shell then use another empty shell of a larger gauge for a lid. For starting fires nothing beats a short candle. Light it and you can build a fire with damp wood.

A tiny leak in a fishing boat is uncomfortable on the feet in winter. Use a piece of chewing gum, forcing the material into the leak or hole with the flat edge of a knife blade.

And always keep a change of dry clothes handy. Change into them when you get off the lake for a more comfortable ride home. Transport your fish in a sack between the grille and radiator of your car. The winter wind will prevent them spoiling until you reach home.

Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Inflation? Been around quite a while, according to some records. According to a yellowed clipping from the Ballinger Ledger (then a daily paper) of Jan. 17, 1910, anyway.

The clipping quotes a conversation between the late W. W. Poe, who farmed west of Winters, and a Mr. C. A. Doose: "Mr. Doose: Did I understand you to say that you had been offered $50 per acre recently for the land I sold you for $18 per acre five years ago?"

Mr. Poe: "I was offered $50 per acre for one section that I bought from you at that price, but I refused to sell as I do not know where I could buy any land as good as that price outside West Central Texas. I make good crops. I am satisfied here and from the price of land elsewhere I am sure that my land will be worth more than I was offered for it."

The clipping continues: Mr. Poe said that he averaged a half a bale of cotton to the acre last year (1909) and that he attributed the good crop to the fact that he used improved and selected cotton seed and intelligent cultivation of the land. He has 1100 acres in cultivation and received an average rental per acre last season of something more than $6. The best crops made in Texas last year were made in Runtels County. And those crops because of intelligent cultivation have advertised the county from one end of Texas to the other.

A federal court has declared unconstitutional the congressional redistricting plan drawn up by the State Legislature, and found acceptable a plan drawn up by a Dallas man, who was a plaintiff in the recent court action. Then, according to reports, glaring errors were discovered in the accepted and ordered plan, necessitating further court action to straighten out that mess.

The Dallas man reportedly said he drew up the plan in "three or four days" with help from his teen-age sons and a neighbor and a 50-cent U. S. Census publication. (A comparison with the high cost of paying legislators to do the same thing, perhaps?)

Our flabbergasted Bluff Creek friend said he could have done the whole thing a lot cheaper, with a map of Texas and a nickel pencil—and it would be just as fair to the people. Just draw a few lines across the map, and put district numbers in the different slices, he says. Then, if one district does not have as many people as another district, load the voters on buses and shuttle them around until (Continued on page 4)

on sites shown here are located on East Parsonage and Grant streets, and will be for the elderly. Other units for this part of the project will be located north of East Parsonage. Work also is being done on the part of the project located in the northeast section of town near the schools, which will be designated for low-income families. (Staff Photo)

Even An "Old" Fish

Highway Department's "Digging" Is Providing Links To Texas' Past

An 80-million-year-old fish fossil has been found in West Texas. Indian campsites near Austin. A Civil War powder mill near Marshall. And plans and specifications for the temporary State Capitol which burned in 1899.

All these things, and many more, have been found by the Texas Highway Department.

Everyone knows the Texas Highway Department provides important transportation links between modern cities and towns. Not so well known is the Department's role in providing links to the past.

Texas Highway Department crews have been responsible for finding more than 800 archaeological sites since the Department was organized in 1917.

They combine with the more than 4,500 sites currently cataloged at the University of Texas Archaeological Research Laboratories in Austin to give archaeologists a more complete picture of the State's colorful history.

Discoveries made by Highway Department crews include the remains of an Indian burial mound now on display in the Witte Memorial Museum in San Antonio, Inner Space Caverns on Interstate Highway 35 near Georgetown, and an 80-million-year-old fish fossil in West Texas.

Earlier, discoveries were made more or less by accident. Construction was stopped while the site was excavated. Today pinpointing archaeological sites and locating and restoring artifacts is an important part of highway building.

The Department has its own special archaeological section to find and explore archaeological sites before construction begins.

It was established in July, 1970, shortly after the Texas Legislature passed the Antiquities Code in 1969. The code establishes strict rules for control

Lions Seeking Children For Summer Camp

Applications for a summer vacation full of fun for handicapped children in the Winters area are now being accepted by members of the Winters Lions Club.

This unique Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville will open its first two-week session Sunday, June 4. Five sessions will be held this summer for youngsters from seven through sixteen years of age.

The Camp is free to eligible blind, deaf, mute or crippled children. Transportation to and from the Camp is provided by the local Lions. All requests for summer camp are handled locally by Lions.

For more detailed information about the Camp, interested persons may contact Rankin Pace of the Winters Lions Club. In the past years, Lions have sent over 13,000 youngsters to camp.

Elm Creek District Will Get $5,000 Appropriation

It is fairly certain Elm Creek Water Control District will receive a lump sum of $5,000 from the State General Revenue Fund, according to an opinion of Attorney General Crawford C. Martin this week.

The funds will be used for general operation of the District, W. M. Hays, chairman of the board of the District, said.

The appropriation had been included in the General Appropriation Act of the last session of the Legislature, but that portion of the act had been vetoed by Governor Preston Smith.

In an opinion issued to Robert S. Calvert, Comptroller of Public Accounts, Atty. Gen. Martin, in summary, pointed out that "The $5,000 item of appropriation to the Elm Creek Water Control District for the biennium ending August 31, 1973 . . . is valid in its entirety, and the Comptroller of Public Accounts has authority to issue a warrant in a lump sum of $5,000."

The Governor's veto message dated June 20, 1971, read, in its relevant part: "Therefore, by authority granted in me by Article IV, Section 14, of the Texas Constitution, I hereby veto each and all of the items appropriated for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1973, from Senate Bill No. 11, Sixty-Second Legislature, Regular Session."

The Attorney General's opinion stated further, "Pursuant to Section 14 of Article IV of the Constitution of Texas, the Governor has no authority to veto a portion of an item of appropriation; either entire item must be vetoed, or none of it. An attempted veto of a portion of an item is nugatory and of no effect, and the item attempted to be vetoed is valid in its entirety."

Hays said the District had applied for an appropriation to be used for operating expenses of the District. The District has had no funds, other than voluntary contributions from sponsoring service organizations, to pay for bonds of members of the board, and for other expenses. The District receives no tax monies at the present time. Hays said, and without some source of funds would find it impossible to reach a position of applying for federal grants and loans to be used in making final surveys and for construction of water retaining structures within the District.

"With this appropriation," Hays said, "we will be able to continue working toward applying for the federal grants. Within some kind of funds, we are stymied."

The board of directors of Elm Creek Water Control District last year had sought the assistance of State Senator David Ratliff of Stamford, Rep. Grant Jones of Taylor County, and Rep. Lynn Nabers of Brownwood.

FROM MONTANA

Moore, Baldwin Retire From Fire Department

Two firemen, with a total of 45 years in the Winters Volunteer Fire Department, have retired.

Ellis Zane Moore, who has completed 24 years with the department, and Buford Baldwin, who had 20 years, 11 months and 22 days service, have ended their careers as volunteer fire fighters.

During the 24 years Moore has been with the volunteer department, he has served as president of the department, has served as assistant fire chief, and as Captain of a Company.

Baldwin has served as president of the Volunteer Firemen, as a member of the retirement board, and has attended fire fighting school at Texas A&M two sessions.

Baldwin said he was accepted as a member of the volunteer firemen on Jan. 9, 1951. The night was cold and sleet was falling, he said, and he had already gone to bed when the department president called and told him he had been accepted, and was to report to the fire station immediately. That was the first "call" of hundreds he has answered during the more than 20 years since.

Baldwin and Moore said the biggest local fire they have helped fight was the blaze which destroyed the C. L. Green Milling Co. plant here several years ago. Equipment and men from Ballinger, Abilene and Bronte were called in to help on that one. The biggest out-of-town fires they helped with were the Norton School blaze a few years ago, and the fire which destroyed a theatre in Ballinger, in addition to many big blazes which swept over hundreds of acres of rangeland in the area.

Human tragedy also has marked their long years of service, they said, as they fought fires in which several children and adults were killed.

Moore and Baldwin said they have enjoyed the many years they have been in the Department, and their association with the other volunteers. They said they will miss being part of "one of the finest volunteer fire departments in the country."

Gospel Sing At Southside Church Sunday, Jan. 30

Out-of-town singers will be present, and all gospel singers are invited to participate in this program.

Plans are to have this type of program every fifth Sunday.

Everyone is invited to attend and bring a basket lunch.

Subject of Mrs. Poe's Book Died In Mesa, Arizona

Goldie Richmond, subject of the book, "Angel To The Papagos," by Charlie (Mrs. George) Poe of Winters, died in a Mesa, Ariz., hospital January 13. Funeral was held Jan. 18.

Mrs. Richmond was 76 years of age and had been in the hospital almost a month.

She and her husband, Jim, formerly owned and operated a trading post on the Papago Indian Reservation at the Papago Village in Arizona. They had retired and were living at the Yucca Trailer Ranch in Mesa.

Mrs. Poe's book was about Mrs. Richmond's life among the Papago Indians.

Readers will remember Mrs. Richmond's feat of choking a lynx cat to death that had landed on the back of her first husband, Marion Tracy, while they were trapping on the Papago Desert.

"Angel To The Papagos" (Naylor Press) was written and published by Mrs. Poe a few years ago.

County Contracts To Remodel Courthouse Annex

Runtels County Commissioners Monday approved a contract with Cary Lumber Co. of Ballinger to remodel the Courthouse Annex.

The old stone building, which houses the Soil Conservation Service and ASCS offices, will be completely remodeled, with new ceilings, new windows, new doors, partitions, and a new floor. Cost of the project will be $24,974.

The building will be rented to the ASCS and Soil Conservation Service, and rental received will pay for the remodeling, County Judge Elliott Kemp said.

In other business Monday, the Commissioners employed Frank H. Carter of Brady as an appraiser to evaluate right-of-way land for work planned on FM 2011, which crosses the Colorado River in the south part of Runtels County, from Valley View to the Old River Road.

Federal regulations now require appointment of a certified appraiser for all such road work, Judge Kemp said.

Lions' Chili Feed Now Scheduled February 10th

The annual Winters Lions Club Chili Supper, which was originally scheduled for January 21, will be held Thursday February 10, Gene Wheat, president of the club, announced.

Postponement from the originally planned date was caused by a wave of illness in the community, it was explained.

The chili supper will be held in the School Cafeteria, and tickets dated January 21 will be honored. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Lions Club, or may be purchased at the door.

The annual Winter Concert by the Winters High School Blizzard Concert Band will be presented Saturday, January 29, at 7:30 p. m. The concert will be held in the high school gymnasium.

This concert will be a formal affair for band members, and will honor all ex-Blizzard Band students.

In addition to the band's presentations, a film of the UIL Marching Contest also will be shown, Kirke McKenzie, band director, said.

Included in the program for Saturday will be "Bull Trombone" section; a special arrangement of "Amazing Grace"; "Instant Concert"; a variety pack of popular music; "Drums of America"; plus contest selections.

There will be no admission charge for this concert.

Filing Deadline Few Days Away, Old Procedures Being Followed

With the February 7 filing deadline only a little more than a week away, and a court-caused questionmark regarding filing fees hovering over filing procedures, political action in Runtels County is beginning to thicken, however slightly.

The county race attracting the most attention is that for Commissioner of Precinct 1, which encompasses much of the southeast section of the county, along with a big part of Ballinger. There now are five candidates for that post, filed with the County Democratic Chairman Drury Hathaway, and one announced candidate who had not filed as of Tuesday.

Those officially filed for Precinct 1 are Oscar Proctor, now employed by the precinct, and Newman Smith, Coy Estes and Charles Bradshaw. Travis Barrett reportedly has announced his candidacy for that post, but has not filed officially.

Pat Pritchard, incumbent commissioner for Precinct 3, has filed for re-election, and County Sheriff Don Atkins also has filed for re-election.

Other offices in the county which will be filled this year have no officially-filed candidates as of this time.

Drury said procedures used in the past for filing and collection of filing fees are being retained—"until we receive further instruction"—even though a recent court decision declared requirements for filing fees to be unconstitutional. He said as County Democratic Chairman he is collecting a deposit toward the total fee. Total fee would not be determined by the County Democratic Committee until after the filing deadline has passed, he said.

Weather Holds, 4786 Bales In

Almost 500 bales of cotton from the 1971 crop have been received during the past week, bringing the total received at the Winters Warehouse to 4786; 4306 were reported a week ago.

With the weather holding clear, it is expected most of the cotton left in the fields will be stripped within the next few days.

For the area served by the Abilene Classing Office of the Consumer and Marketing Service, USDA, samples representing 28,000 bales were received in the Abilene office for the week ending January 21. Season total for the area was reported at 151,200 bales.

Grades and micronaire readings continued low, as they have been most of this season, according to the Abilene office report. The season is about 75 percent completed, they said.

Low Middling Light Spotted was the predominant grade and accounted for 36 percent of the classing at Abilene, with Strict Low Middling Spotted accounting for 33 percent. Fifty-seven percent was reduced in grade because of bark content. Staple distributions showed that 64 percent were staple 30, 20 percent staple 29, and 11 percent staple 31.

According to the report, prices continued good with a range from 22 cents for the lowest to 32 cents for the better. Around 80 percent of the current ginnings are selling for 28.00 and 30.00 cents per pound.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The President was not expected to recommend new taxes in his State of the Union Address to the Congress last week. It possibly could come later but, of course, recommending new taxes in an election year is not the usual order of business.

On down the line we may be hearing more of the "value-added tax." The letters VAT will identify this new approach for raising revenues.

Actually the added-value tax is a sales tax slightly less painful because, if sometime adopted, it will be buried in the price the consumer pays for goods. The tax starts with the manufacturers. In each step of the process until the final item is ready for sale, a tax is added for increased value.

The concept is not new. Neither is the tax itself new in application since many European countries have had it for a number of years. The tax in foreign countries works against out exports since the tax is added above the price paid for our goods.

If this type of tax is proposed, it will probably be related to raising revenue for specific purposes. Since the courts in California and Texas have ruled that the property tax works inequality on school districts, the tax could be proposed to fund Federal contributions to public schools instead of the personal property tax. This, naturally, would make such a tax more palatable if it were an exchange for the property tax.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE
Winters, Texas
Friday, January 28, 1972

Such a substitution would brighten the hearts of property owners dizzy from the escalation of real estate taxes. Likely it would partly solve the dilemmas of mayors and school boards and inspire builders to respond to the housing shortage.

It is estimated that each one percent of tax levied by this method would produce $4 billion. It follows that if five percent were levied, $50 billion would be produced, even excepting from the tax certain essentials now exempt from most State sales taxes.

It is estimated that $20 billion raised in this manner would meet approximately 30 percent of the cost of the Nation's schools.

This type of tax has been studied by our Treasury officials for 20 years or more without any proposals for its enactment but since State Supreme Courts have ruled that school systems funded from property taxes are unequal and unconstitutional a great deal of impetus has been given to it. These decisions and the unhappiness of property owners build up pressures to further this idea of a new tax system.

There are arguments pro and con on this method of taxation. Eventually they will all be voiced and the development of any such idea will come slowly. The fact that States are in such a bind for ways to support public schools necessitates some answers not yet available. Since there is no choice but to look for other ways of financing schools, some way will have to be found to raise the money.

Some have already labeled such a system as a regressive tax since everyone would pay something, just as everyone has

Labor Outlook For 1972

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., January 27, 1972. In spite of the fact that the new year opened with continuing trouble on the docks and recurrent friction between labor and the Pay Board, 1972 will see far fewer tense situations than were noted in the past two years. For one thing, only about 2,800,000 employees are covered by pacts scheduled for reopening this year, compared with approximately 4,800,000 in both 1970 and 1971. Even more significant is the lack of pattern-setting industries involved, and surely none on the level of the steel giants that met unions at the bargaining table in 1971.

There will, as usual, be expiration or reopening of agreements in a fair number of fields, including machinery, retail outlets, communications, clothing manufacturing, chemicals, and building trades. But for the most part, settlements should be made without serious dislocation of management-labor relations or critical flare-ups over concessions. Perhaps the toughest conditions exist in the building industry, where outsized benefits may be negotiated, bringing the Pay Board into open fray with union forces. If the public good is threatened by a walkout—as in the case of the longshoremen — Congress will not hesitate to pass a one-shot restrictive law as it has in the past, even though this is an election year.

Phase Two Problems

There have been differences among the Pay Board's three factions since the initiation of Phase 2, with fault-finding over decisions and disagreements over the fairness of pay versus price rulings. This year, however, tensions should be somewhat reduced because of more relaxed standards. The Board has adopted rules which permit raises to be granted if they fell due during the wage-price-rent freeze period, although there is still a general guideline of 5.5 percent. Here again, however, there is considerable elasticity, and some wage hikes in both multi-year contracts and newly signed agreements are being allowed to surpass this yardstick limitation under special circumstances. There are still enough uncertainties and enough confusion to keep both employers and workers restless while Phase 2 is still operating.

Labor authorities are basically of the opinion that controls are illegal because they change terms included in an already accepted pact. More economists, politicians, and businessmen also have an uneasy feeling about the effectiveness of wage-price curbs, particularly in peacetime. President Nixon himself—despite brave claims that price increases can be reduced to 2 percent—3 percent a year within a reasonable length of time—has never really had confidence in such wage-price curbs. He has clearly recognized their failure in the past, and he has strongly hinted that he intends to terminate Phase 2 before the year is out. Since he generally goes through with his promises—and it is an election year—controls could easily be over and done with long before the deadline of April 1973 recently established by Congress.

New Labor Laws

It is the opinion of the Research Department of Babson's Reports that Congress will not enact any new "anti-labor" legislation this year, except—as we have noted—one-shot measures if they are really needed to protect the public. The solons simply are not of a mind to antagonize organized labor in an election year by passing any law that could conceivably be thought of as anti-union. If there is such action, it will not be taken until things are safe politically again in 1973.

There will be an increasing trend toward shorter-term labor agreements, insisted upon by unions in the hope of getting bigger raises after controls are eliminated. Over recent years the pattern has been three-year to pay sales taxes. These would argue that since it is not based on the ability to pay, it is not as fair as the income tax. Remember the income tax is more often referred to as a progressive tax.

There are two valid arguments against such an approach as it involves public schools. One is that the Federal Government with this method of contribution would further control our public schools. A second is the fact that like the sales tax the VAT would be easy to increase each time more tax revenues were needed.

To say the least, if such a tax is proposed, it will be a long and drawn out controversy.

PROMOTED—Randy Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis of Pearsall, was recently promoted to Assistant District Manager of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in Charlotte, N. C.

Davis is the grandson of Pete Davis of Winters. His parents are former residents of Winters, and he attended grade school in Winters, and graduated from Pearsall High School in 1960. In 1963, while a student at the University of Texas at Austin, he worked part time with Goodyear. He has since managed two retail stores for Goodyear, in Seguin and in Corpus Christi.

At 29, Davis is one of the youngest Assistant District Managers in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. retail division.

pacts with front-loading of the largest raise in the first year, smaller increases in the second and third years. But stress will be on brief contracts in 1972, with building pacts already averaging eighteen months instead of 1970's thirty months.

Biologists Not Worried Over Mule Deer Decline

Marathon — A decline in mule deer populations on the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area is not unduly worrying Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists.

The rugged and rolling area in the scenic Big Bend area of the state is the home of an estimated 1,900 mule deer — or roughly half as many as were counted during 1966.

But the decline is not permanent, wildlife specialists believe, and is not necessary indicative of a decline over the entire West Texas mule deer range.

Studies are underway to learn the cause of this decline. Biologists suspect it resulted from a combination of factors which include fawn mortality and range and weather conditions.

A remarkable lack of diseases among animals examined was noted by biologists during the past hunting season. Public hunts held on the 100,000-acre area resulted in good hunter success, and the animals taken were in good condition.

One of the newest findings recorded by department biologists is information which indicates desert mule deer do not reach their reproductive potential at as early an age as white-tailed deer.

Statistics show that "yearling" whitetail does are quite productive, while mule deer of the same age are less likely to produce offspring. At two years of age the whitetails still surpass the mule deer in reproductive potential, but the gap doesn't appear to be nearly as wide between the two species.

Biologists feel this knowledge will be useful in future mule deer management.

Aoudad Sheep Hunt Bigger Than Ever

Austin—Hunters killed a record number of aoudad sheep in the Palo Duro Canyon area of the Texas Panhandle during 1971.

Expanding sheep populations prompted the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to issue more permits for 1971 than for past years. The 147 permit-holders took 47 sheep in the special season.

The burgeoning sheep population is a success story which started with the experimental stocking of 44 animals in 1957. The sheep reproduced so rapidly a limited open season was held in 1963.

Aoudad, or Barbary, sheep are truly big-game animals. The males have massive horns and they can weigh as much as 300 pounds.

Total rehabilitation or the return to normal life is the goal of the American Cancer Society's Service to the Cancer Patient Program.
