Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Winters has a problem, and a solution is presently nowhere in sight. The trouble is that we have too many "friends" running around loose.

A dog is supposed to be man's best friend... but a few of these friends can cause a rift in an otherwise pleasant relationship. And a friendship gone sour is something to behold.

For instance, when a pack of these friends of man get together and create disturbances and cause considerable damage about town and near town, tolerance begins to wear thin.

Many people have gardens and flower beds and lawns which they have worked hard to develop. It is disheartening to watch a pack of loose dogs—or even one dog—get into these gardens and flower beds and yards and do a lot of damage. They can't be blamed for being unhappy about it.

Also, there are people who try to raise sheep and other livestock near town. It is a constant fight to prevent packs of friendly dogs from destroying a flock of sheep. Within the past few days, one sheep owner lost three sheep, chewed up by dogs. This was not an isolated case; it has happened quite frequently. It can become quite expensive, to say the least, and these people cannot really be blamed for taking reasonable steps to prevent it.

There are even times when packs of dogs hit the downtown area, and quite frequently people are forced to wade through dogs to enter a place of business.

Not long ago, a pet kitten owned by a small child was pounced upon and killed by a pack of roaming dogs. It could have become serious if the child had attempted to rescue the kitten.

The problem seems to be that there are so many uncontrolled dogs here, some owned and some unowned. There are many strays—kicked off or roamed away from original homes, or born here and left to run wild. It is hard to tell the difference between an owned dog and one without an owner, however, especially if an owned dog is not wearing a collar or identification tag of some sort. However, collared and definitely owned dogs, if let run loose, can create problems, and have been thus observed.

The problem is not confined to damage to gardens, yards, and livestock, however. There are frequent reports of children being bitten by dogs, strays or whatnot. There also have been reports in other localities of children—and even adults—having been attacked by packs of dogs. This community can be thankful that such an incident has not occurred here—yet. Too, with so many unmanaged dogs in the community, there is a great danger of an outbreak of rabies. We all know what the results could be.

Few people could be classified as anti-dog; most, at one time or another, have owned dogs and are definitely pro-dog. But pro or anti, many are now beginning to question the wisdom of allowing the present situation to continue. Larger cities have provisions for taking care of this type situation, but it is difficult, for many reasons, for cities the size of Winters to manage it. Some feel, however, that stray and non-owned dogs could be eliminated in some reasonable manner. It would be much easier to control the owned dogs. It all boils down to an individual problem, in this situation.

Legislature Is Best Qualified To Carry Out Redistricting Chore

By OMAR BURLESON
Congressman, 17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Probably a lot of people are becoming a little weary of hearing about the big hassle over Congressional and Legislative redistricting. Although the matter is settled for the time, we are bound to hear more about it in the future and, particularly, at the next regular session of the State Legislature.

More strict reapportionment of Congressional Districts became necessary by a Supreme Court ruling in 1964. Frequently referred to as the "one man, one vote" ruling, its purpose was to make Congressional Districts more closely reflect the distribution of our national population. It was necessitated in part by the drastic shift of our population from rural to urban surroundings. Redistricting is the responsibility of State Legislatures. They are responsible for maintaining the integrity and continuity of Congressional Districts. The Constitution of the United States provided a census every ten years. The Supreme Court has told the States they must redistrict to reflect the "one man, one vote" ruling but, of course, there is no such thing as an exact proportion in every case. Even if a plan was "on the nose" today, it would be off next week. So what is "reasonable" should prevail. Out State Legislature did a good job of reapportioning Congressional Districts in its last session but it did not suit a three-judge Federal Court in Dallas. Not only did they void the action of the Legislature but "legislated" their own plan.

Senator Lloyd M. Bentsen expressed concern that the Court's recent redistricting plan for Texas disturbed further than necessary the political institutions of the State than is required by the Constitution. Acting as an amicus curiae (friend of the court) the Senator requested the Supreme Court to stay a decision rendered by the three-judge Federal Court in Dallas. He expressed the thoughts of many that the power of redistricting should rest with the Legislature as set forth in the Constitution and not with the Federal courts.

Certainly, continuity of Congressional Districts was not maintained in the Court's plan when it sliced Tarrant County and San Antonio in half; cut Knox, Haskell and Brown County in two and moved counties in and out of Congressional Districts with total disregard for "community of interest" and other practical aspects involved. The stay has been granted and the 1972 elections will be held in Districts drawn by the Legislature but what will happen when the Supreme Court reviews the case next Fall is anybody's guess. It is highly likely however that the Legislature's plan will be maintained for another two years, allowing for consideration at its next regular session in 1973.

The stay has accomplished one thing—it has given all concerned time for rational and less hurried thinking on the matter—a necessity when it comes to reapportioning a state the size of Texas. It will give our Legislature time to rework and, if possible, improve its plan to comply with the ruling handed down by the Federal Court, which has assumed jurisdiction over it.

In all reasonableness, it appears that the Districts as drawn by the Legislature will remain until the regular session of the Legislature when it may have to submit another for the Court's approval, as distasteful as that is to those of us who feel our Legislature is eminent-ly qualified to carry out its responsibility for redistricting under the Constitution.

Next week we will describe and characterize in a general way the 31 counties making up our 17th Congressional District.

Winters Steers Place High In Santone Show

Several steers shown by Winters boys won high places in the carcass division at the San Antonio stock show last week.

A Hereford steer shown by Scott King was named reserve Hereford champion in "on the rail" judging, after having gone to 5th place "on the hoof" in the Hereford class.

Mitchell O'Dell showed his steer to 3rd place in the Short-horn class, and his Charolais to 5th.

Rodney Richards' steer was 3rd place in the Charolais class.

Wayne Schwartz placed his Black Angus to 4th in on-the-hoof judging, and then to 2nd place Angus on-the-rail.

Stanley Blackwell, vo-ag teacher in Winters High School accompanied the boys to San Antonio. Winters boys will also show livestock in the San Angelo and Houston shows within the next few days.

No Shortage Of Gas In System, Says Lone Star

The brief cutbacks in gas deliveries to local industries during the recent cold spell were part of a program planned jointly by Lone Star Gas Company and its industrial customers, the company has announced.

These cutbacks in no way reflect a shortage of natural gas in the Lone Star system, it was stated. News reports from northeastern states Monday indicated a shortage of natural gas in those areas, and some distributing companies were reportedly refusing additional customers, or limiting customers to residential use only.

Marshall Wharton, manager of Lone Star's local office, said that curtailment, the term used to describe industrial cutbacks, is part of a program designed to guarantee gas deliveries to homes and businesses during unusually cold periods. It is during these brief periods that the local gas transmission system is pushed to its capacity, Wharton said.

Under contract agreements with Lone Star Gas, large volume industrial customers agree to be the first to reduce their natural gas usage should weather conditions become frigid, Wharton said. While Lone Star urges industrial customers to maintain standby fuel systems for these uncertain weather periods, many customers decide against them because temporary curtailment is less costly than an auxiliary fuel system, he said.

Wharton stated, "Curtilment does not mean there is a gas shortage in our system, for there is no shortage. It means that Lone Star Gas Company's distribution mains are carrying a maximum load and a service reduction to some industrial customers is necessary. Contractual agreements with industrial users permit curtailment so we can give residential customers the best possible service at the lowest possible cost."

Members Urged To Get Tickets For C-C Banquet

The Office of Admissions and the Baylor Chamber of Commerce co-sponsored the symposium.

The architect commissioned to develop plans for the new hospital is expected to have all plans completed by the end of March, and a call for construction bids is expected to be issued shortly thereafter, members of the board said.

The board also approved purchase of additional hospital equipment. An EK-5 Cardiograph, with cart, and a blood analyzer will be purchased.

The board called a directors election, to be held Saturday, April 1. Four directors will be elected for two-year terms. Candidates filing must present a petition signed by at least ten qualified voters.

Members of the board whose terms expire this year are Gilbert Smith, Audra L. Mitchell, Lynn Billups and Bobby Rogers. All have indicated that they would serve for another term.

Grant To COG For Training Area Police

A $17,028 grant to West Central Council of Governments, Abilene, for third-year funding of the regional police training program was among awards recommended by the Criminal Justice Council Executive Committee. Funding is subject to final approval of Governor Preston Smith.

The Criminal Justice Council oversees statewide law enforcement planning and administers funds from the U. S. Department of Justice for crime control projects in Texas.

The training program includes a six-week basic certification course for law enforcement officers and eight weeks of advanced and specialized courses.

Winters, as a member of WCT COG, has participated in the project, sponsoring one trainee in the program. Chief of Police Joe Stevens said.

WCT COG would conduct the advanced and specialized school while contracting with Texas Engineering Extension Service, Texas A&M University, to conduct the basic course.

Local governments in the West Texas regions are required to make an in-kind contribution of $37,840.

The WCT COG grant was among 41 applications totaling $3,060,770 considered by the CJC Executive Committee.

COUNTY AGENT PARKER'S COLUMN

Fire Safety is Year-Round Job:

Don't take unnecessary chances in trying to deal with fires. Property is replaceable, lives are not, warns county agent Parker.

"Can you hold a fire in check on your farm until the fire department arrives?" asks Parker. "It makes good sense to be equipped with fire fighting tools, and everyone on your farm should know how to use them."

An important tool is the fire extinguisher. It should be of adequate size and proper type for the kind of fire expected. Water, soda-acid or general purpose dry chemical extinguishers can be used to put out burning wood, cloth or paper.

But if you have a flammable liquid fire, don't use a stream of water, cautions Parker. It will splatter and spread the fire. Flammable liquid fires involve cleaning fluids, kerosene, gasoline and diesel fuel oil. Use a foam discharge and let it flow easily on the fire without splashing. Or use a dry chemical or carbon dioxide. Another good fire fighting tool is a garden hose, says the agent. Filled water buckets are also useful in spots in and around buildings.

In a fire involving electricity, don't use water type extinguishers. Instead, use carbon dioxide or dry chemical extinguishers because these non-conducting agents will prevent shock. Water might not put out an electrically fed fire and the danger of electrocution is a threat that should be avoided. However, water and water-type extinguishers are useful for electrical fires after the electricity has been shut off.

Parker advises placing extinguishers at fire danger areas. Kitchens, barns, machine sheds and storage tanks of gasoline and kerosene are places that should have an extinguisher.

"The best extinguisher in the world won't be ready to go into action when needed most unless it is checked and recharged regularly," Parker explains. "Follow the manufacturer's instructions on this. And don't wait for a fire emergency to read the directions on how to operate the extinguisher."

A portable extinguisher is effective while a fire is small. Your prompt and intelligent action can delay or stop the rapid spread of fire.

As soon as a fire is evident, check the safety of your family and call the fire department. For home safety, have ladders available to reach the highest roof tops and windows.

Be prepared for field and brush fires with pump tanks, sprayers, fire swatters, brooms and burlap bags with water to wet them.

Winter is time for Rat Control:

Eliminate costly rats and mice from your premises during the winter when biological conditions make a control program more effective. The reproductive rate of rats is slower in winter, and a shortage of food makes them more likely to take bait. Starving rats also die from diseases and hungry predators prey on them during colder periods. Cold weather drives rats indoors.

"Every rat getting room and board on farms and homes throughout the state is eating valuable food and causing damage. Rats also carry dangerous diseases which may infect both animals and man," points out Parker.

The primary species of harmful rats and mice in the state are the Norway rat, Alexandrian rat (commonly called the roof rat) and the house mouse.

To permanently remove the threat of rats and mice from buildings, remove their food, shelter and water, says the agent.

The rat's sources of food are spilled grain, livestock feed and pet food. Parker advises placing grain and feed sacks at least six inches off the floor to discourage rats from nesting in them. Keep garbage and refuse in tightly covered metal containers. All food stored should be kept in rat proof buildings, rooms or containers.

Rats and mice seek shelter in implement storage areas and places that have dense weed growth. They like wood and trash piles and old sheds that aren't used often. Such places should be either cleaned or destroyed. Buildings that are used for storage of feed or grain should be rat-proofed by sealing all entrances except doors and windows with hardware cloth or metal flashing. Fix any leaky faucets and other sources of water around grain storage areas, suggests the agent.

"Eliminating the habitat is a good start in a rodent eradication program. However, bait stations should also be set up in all areas where rats are likely to roam," Parker adds. Baiting is only effective if most other sources of food have been eliminated and the bait stations are continually supplied with bait.

Anticoagulant baits are effective and less hazardous to use than arsenic, strychnine, phosphorus and other highly toxic poisons. Anticoagulants break down the circulatory system and prevent blood coagulation. Water baits of anticoagulants can also be used where the rats' food supply cannot be eliminated.

Ready-mix baits containing warfarin, Fumarin, diphacinone, Pival, PMP, or Prolin are available under many trade names and are equally effective in controlling rats.

Water soluble baits are most effective when feed is available and the rat's water supply can be eliminated. Water soluble should be placed in a chicken fountain type of container.

Parker advises to check bait stations every afternoon for a few days to see if bait is being eaten. If the bait is gone, then increase the amount at that station. If there is no activity at a bait station, then change its location.

"The Omega Man" Gone are the days when Charlton Heston's neighbors in Beverly Hills would see him pacing in his garden in a coat of mail or a toga rehearsing lines for an epic film.

Heston who is usually seen in costume or uniform, stars in "The Omega Man," showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, a film in which he wears a shirt and trousers.

"The Omega Man" is set in 1975 after world-wide germ warfare has killed almost all of the Earth's population. Heston portrays a research scientist who thinks that he is the only man to have survived unscathed.

"The most extreme situations seem likelier if you make them seem as real as possible," Heston observes. This is exactly what he does in "The Omega Man," which is based on a popular novel by Richard Matheson.

"Because this man is dressed as we are," Heston points out, "we can identify more easily with the nightmare reality with which he must cope." In his struggle to survive, the character Heston plays becomes a monumental figure: the incarnation of man fighting to survive in a hostile world.

BUSINESS FAILURE TRENDS

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—While fewer businesses are going broke vs. a year ago, the number is still disturbingly high and sprts from time to time. Moreover, the sums involved are sizeable and rising. Government and private economists are keeping close tabs on these failure trends. What is behind them? What lies ahead?

NUMBER AND LIABILITY

In 1971, U. S. business failures totaled 10,326, down 4 percent from the three-year high of 10,748 recorded in 1970. In each of 1971's final six months, commercial and industrial casualties dropped below levels for the corresponding 1970 period. Even so, the number of business failures—though well down from the highs of the late 1950s and early 1960s—is still too large for comfort.

Dollar liability of business failures last year rose to a new record of $1.9 billion. The rate of increase for the year, however, was a mere 2 percent with the hefty 65 percent upturn that occurred between 1969 and 1970. If this improvement continues, dollar liabilities in 1972 may be held near the $2-billion mark.

BUSINESS CYCLE STILL RULES

Usually during the early and middle stages of a business recovery, the number of failures is relatively small and doesn't vary too much from month to month, or even from year to year. In such periods, consumer demand is accelerating faster than goods are being produced, and sellers are firmly ensconced in the driver's seat.

It is only in the latter stages of an economic up-push—when output is rapidly overtaking de-

That is the main factor in the higher average labor costs, and less ominous failures figures of recent months. The Research Department of Babson's Reports expects industrial production, GNP, retail sales, and other leading economic indicators to point more consistently upward as 1972 moves along.

However, both large and small businessmen should temper their optimism with more than just a dash of caution. For the cost of doing business will be rising between now and year's end, with heavier tax bites, selected price boosts. While improved volume will make for better profits, margins will be narrow. Lift your selling sights, yes. Expand plant and production. But keep a tight control on costs, and avoid going too

Management Area Created For Rare Texas Red Wolf

Austin — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has taken a step toward saving the rare Texas red wolf from extinction.

The commission passed a resolution commending landowners in six Southeast Texas counties for their voluntary efforts in preserving the remaining wolves.

The commission also designedly into debt. Scale your borrowings down to what you can repay even if you encounter reverses. But it you will need cash for expansion later this year, borrow soon for interest rates will work higher after midyear.

ated the six-county area as a "voluntary red wolf management area." The management area concept was suggested to the commission by an official of the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club.

The red wolf (Canis rufus) once ranged over much of the eastern half of the state, but now has dwindled to a small pocket of only about 100 animals. Guns, traps and poisons combined with habitat destruction to exterminate all but this tiny group of animals, biologists say.

Department officials fear the red wolf may join the gray, or timber wolf as a extinct species in the state if it is not protected. The only stable populations appear to be in Chambers and Jefferson Counties in the state's extreme southeast corner. The species appears to be losing ground in Brazoria, Harris, Galveston and Liberty Counties, biologists believe.

The resolution states: "The commission recognizes the efforts made by some landowners in voluntarily offering sanctuary to the species and their cooperation with the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife in handling deprecation problems without unilateral action . . ."

No Big Damage From Burr Fire At Winters Gin

No extensive damage has been reported from the cotton burr fire at the Winters Gin this week, according to Fire Chief Marvin Bedford.

Although fire in cotton burrs was spread over a wide area of the gin yard Monday afternoon and night, no vehicles were destroyed, and very little damage to the burr hopper was noted.

A wind change early Monday evening swept the heavy, acrid smoke to the south of the gin property, across the airport, and the flames of burning burrs could be seen for miles. It was expected that the fire would smolder for several days.

A bulldozer was used Monday night to cut fire lanes around the gin and the scale house.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Doting Parents

Ethel, hesitant about marrying Fred, decided to put a blunt question to his mother and father.

"I love you son," she said, "but I have doubts about his well."

They assured her that he was health. Tell me frankly, is he in perfect health. But, as they well knew, Fred was suffering from both tuberculosis and drug addiction. Ethel found out the truth shortly after the marriage and promptly got an annulment.

But she did not stop there. She followed up with a damage suit against Fred's parents. Grounds: fraud.

At the trial, the parents claimed they could not be expected to make unpleasant disclosures about their own child. Nevertheless, the court held them liable. The judge said their deceit was too deliberate and too important to be excused.

This is an unusual case. But it illustrates that doting parents do not have an unlimited right to favor their child at someone else's expense.

A comparable situation arises when parents are accused not of unfairly pushing a marriage but of unfairly breaking one up. For example:

A mother was sued by her daughter-in-law for alienation of her son's affections. It seems that the mother had waged a relentless campaign against the marriage, not so much because she loved her son as because she hated his wife. The court decided this too was outside the parental privilege and ordered the mother to pay damages.

IN FAIRY TALES a frog is frequently a prince in disguise. A curious young visitor to the London Zoo discovers that this gaily spotted frog is also a disguise—but for a litter bin.

Of course, the law does give parents a considerable amount of freedom to speak their mind. In another case, a youthful husband who was having marital difficulties went to his father for a man-to-man talk. The father urged him to get a divorce, and he did.

Could the father be held liable by the divorced wife for alienation of affections? A court said he could not, because his interference was within the reasonable limits of a parent's role. As one judge put it:

"Times of stress naturally bring parent and child together for counsel and advice. This, the law does not condemn."

Austin, Tex. — The complex question of financing May and June primary elections is heading for a final legal test.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert asked Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin for an official opinion on Secretary of State Bob Bullock's plan to pay for the party primaries with state funds.

Bullock forced the issue to a head last week by handing Comptroller Calvert $73 worth of initial pre-primary bills and asking him to pay them.

Calvert balked and took the matter to Martin for advice.

"I will not pay anything out of the treasury for this unless I have a written opinion from the attorney general or an order of the court," said Calvert. He added he does not think Martin will advise him to pay the bills submitted by Bullock.

"If the vouchers are, for some reason, not approved, I intend to place this question before the Texas Supreme Court at the earliest possible moment so that the entire matter of primary financing can be adequately, equitably and finally resolved," Bullock stated.

He moved with court authority to formulate rules for the primaries after a three-judge federal court January 20 struck down the filing fee law relied on to finance the spring elections. Gov. Preston Smith proposes to transfer to him more than $1 million for paying primary bills if the plan is finally cleared by legal authorities.

Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine accused Smith and Bullock of pre-empting prerogatives of the legislature, and said the governor should call an immediate special session to give lawmakers another whack at resolving the problem. Reps. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty and Jim Nugent of Kerrville defended Smith and Bullock and charged Price was trying to further his House speakership campaign. Daniel and Nugent are also seeking the speakership.

PRIMARIES CROWDED

A total of 55 candidates for statewide office entered the Democratic primary before the February 7 filing deadline. There are contests for every office on the statewide ballot except four judicial places.

Republicans fielded only 17 state office candidates — and seven of them are running for governor.

There are 10 Democratic candidates for governor, five for U. S. Senator, nine for lieutenant governor, three for attorney general, nine for comptroller seven for treasurer, two for land commissioner, two for agriculture commissioner and four for railroad commissioner.

Republicans have only one candidate each for U. S. Senator (incumbent Sen. John Tower), treasurer and railroad commissioner.

Former Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders of Dallas are the leading Democratic candidates for senator. Governor Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde and State Rep. France Farenthold of Corpus Christi will stir most of the action in the governor's race. Three state senators and a newspaper executive are battling for a runoff spot for lieutenant governor.

HOSPITAL FUNDS APPROVED

Loan guarantees with interest subsidies totalling more than $23.8 million have been approved by the Texas Board of Health for 14 Hill-Burton hospital construction projects. Another $450,000 was set aside for the Ranger General Hospital pending completion of a feasibility study of its new building program.

Subsidies were approved for Texas Medical Center Laundry Co-op Association, Houston; Scott and White Memorial Hospital at Temple; Henderson Memorial Hospital; Eastland Memorial Hospital; and Freeston Hospital at Fairfield; Heart of Texas Memorial Hospital at Brady; Decatur Hospital Authority;

Marshall Memorial Hospital; Bailey County Hospital District at Muleshoe; Red River County Hospital at Clarksville; Nocona Hospital Authority; King's Daughters Hospital at Temple; Richards Memorial Hospital at Rockdale and St. Anthony Hospital at Amarillo.

Twenty-six other applications will be considered at a March meeting.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court ordered a district court trial of an Andrews property owner's suit to force his local school board to tax bank stocks.

The High Court also held a 57-year-old woman who received a broken leg after being butted by a "Petting zoo" goat cannot collect damages from Six Flags Over Texas.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals reversed convictions of three El Paso men for possessing obscene material (girlie magazines) for purpose of sale.

For the second time, the Court of Criminal Appeals reversed lower courts and ordered a new trial for a man arrested with a truck load (567 cases) of cigarettes which had no state tax stamps.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals ruled out a suit by parents of a blind boy who drowned at a school for the blind swimming pool against the institution.

APPOINTMENTS

Robert B. Gilmore of Dallas was reappointed to a new six-year term on the Texas Water Development Board.

Governor Smith made these appointments to the Criminal Justice Council: Kent Hance of Lubbock, Harmon Schepps of Dallas, Mayor Ken Ritter of Beaumont, Mrs. Ray W. Wiloughby of San Angelo, 148th District Judge Noah Kennedy of Corpus Christi, W. E. Haynes Jr. of Laredo, Dr. I. T. Hunter of Tyler, Mrs. Carroll Koch of Quannah and Police Chief William Harold McGee of Texarkana.

Fred Toler of Austin was named executive director of the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education.

Theodore Ziller of Austin is new head of the Texas Highway Department Construction Division.

DRAFT LOTTERY CUT-OFF IS 200

A temporary draft lottery cut-off number of 200 has been set for the 1972 first priority group.

Col. Melvin N. Glantz, state director of Selective Service, said the number is subject to downward revision as manpower needs change. Local boards were authorized to reclassify all draft registrants of the first priority group for 1972 with lottery numbers 201-365 in Class I-H.

AG OPINIONS

District clerks are required to report to vote registrars felony convictions where probated sentences are assessed as well as other convictions, the attorney general has held.

In other recent opinions, the attorney general concluded: "Texas laws do not limit the number or amount of bail bonds a corporate surety may make." "State employees must work a minimum 40 hour week, but can be assigned to 10 hours a day, four days a week." "Law regulating sport of falconry applies to imported as well as native falcons."

PWC HEAD REPLACED

Governor Smith, in a surprise move, relieved Pearce Johnson of Austin of the Parks and Wildlife Commission chairmanship and appointed Jack Stones, Wells banker, to replace him.

At the same time, the governor designated Parks and Wildlife Department Executive Director James U. Cross to succeed Johnson as state-federal liaison in parks matters.

The action came soon after a federal circuit court of appeals threw out a lawsuit filed by

Johnson to block purchase of Mustang Island property for a state park. However, Smith's office said the shuffle followed a policy of rotating chairmanships and had nothing to do with the prolonged Mustang Island wrangle.

SHORT SNORTS

Bids on a proposed new $20 million highway department headquarters near the state capitol and governor's mansion will be taken in May.

The U. S. Supreme Court refused to delay single-member district elections in Bexar and Dallas counties this year.

A receivership hearing on First Fire and Casualty Insurance Company of San Antonio is scheduled in district court here February 18.

Additional spending of $970,689 in federal funds has been approved for 13 parks. More than half will go for Hidalgo County parks improvement and expansion: New Braunfels, Nacogdoches, Brenham, and Hallettsville will also get substantial shares.

Cigarette tax revenue increased $4.1 million — to $19.9 million — from December, 1970 to December, 1971.

A new state bank charter is being sought at Wallis, Austin County.

Governor announced action to implement food stamp programs in Willacy and Cameron counties.

HEALTH FOR ALL

A few years ago in Texas, emergency ambulance service was more or less a haphazard affair. Some communities and rural areas provided excellent coverage, but others provided only minimum equipment or less, and attendants with little or no emergency medical training.

Then the Texas State Department of Health moved to increase the quality and quantity of training and equipment, and the professionalism of emergency medical care personnel rose in Texas.

"Emergency ambulance care in Texas has improved considerably in the past few years and is continuing to improve," said Charles E. King, Director of Civil Defense and Traffic Safety, Texas State Department of Health. "The State Health Department is now responsible for assisting communities in the establishment and improvement of emergency medical care facilities, the training of ambulance personnel, and the maintenance of a State Registry, which encourages emergency medical care personnel to acquire and maintain a high level of proficiency."

The importance of properly trained ambulance attendants is evident from a study by the American College of Surgeons which reveals some 20,000 persons are permanently disabled as a result of improper handling.

After conducting a State survey to determine the need to upgrade the skills of ambulance personnel across the State, the State Health Department established an Emergency Care Attendant program designed to take the classroom as near to the student as possible. The first course was held in San Angelo in 1968. Now courses are offered which involve up to 72 hours of intensive and specialized training.

As of the first of 1972, these training schools have been attended by 9,585 students, with 6,766 of those successfully completing the course. Some 89 schools have been conducted across the state with students representing 556 Texas towns and cities, thus providing many of those communities with their first highly trained emergency care personnel.

Houston and Fort Worth now require by law all ambulance attendants to have completed Emergency Medical Technician training and be certified by the State Health Department.

DALTON CROCKETT
For
COMMISSIONER, PRECINCT NO. 3

TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT NO. 3:

I have filed for a place on the May 6th primary ballot as a Democratic candidate for the office of County Commissioner. I will certainly appreciate your careful consideration of my candidacy and your active support.

Most of you will recall that I served as Tax Assessor-Collector of Runnels County. I also served an unexpired term as 119th District Court Clerk; having been appointed by Judge O. L. Parish. Therefore, I am well acquainted with the county's affairs from the standpoint of finances.

A county commissioner is first a precinct officer and according to court rulings, a county officer; also a state officer. In order to serve all segments of the county, a commissioner must look at the county's best interest from every angle; not just from the community where he lives. If I am elected, I promise everyone that I will be interested in the county as a whole. I firmly believe that the time has come to take a good hard look at the cost of county government. We cannot afford to go along with every "new idea" that comes from Washington or Austin and saddle the expense of the various programs on the tax payers back.

For the past 13 years I have managed the Crockett Gin at Norton, Texas, as a partner. I already know most of you in this precinct and will try to see you before the election. Those who I have not met, I will be looking forward to seeing. If I do miss anyone, please take this announcement as a personal request for your vote and influence.

Do you really want your brother-in-law to know how much you earned last year?

Of course not. It's nobody's business but your own.

However, annually millions of taxpayers bear this kind of personal information to people who really shouldn't know. For what? Just so they can save a few dollars doing their income tax.

That's some price to pay.

You see, for only a few dollars more than it costs to do it with any amateur who might not know that work clothes in some instances are deductible, or that income averaging might save tax dollars, you can have your tax return done by a specially trained member of the H & R Block team with complete confidentiality. There are thousands of them in over 6,000 conveniently located offices. H & R Block's fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates.

Yes, we cost a little bit more than your relatives or friends or neighbors but when you think of what we deliver, you can't afford anything less than H & R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

We're putting our money where your mouth is.

A lot of people have been shooting at the telephone companies these days. And, in truth, we've had our hands full keeping up with the zooming demand for increased phone service. But General Telephone and, in all fairness, the other phone companies haven't been sitting around counting dimes. For some time now, we've been paying a healthy "phone bill" ourselves trying to make our service do everything you expect of it. And a few things you don't expect. During the next five years we'll be spending millions of dollars in the areas we serve upgrading and expanding every phase of our phone operation. From laying underground cables (an important, if invisible area) to customer contact service (an equally important, but highly visible area). But no matter how much we spend on equipment and expansion, it's what we do for you in your home or business that counts. Ladies and gentlemen, we're working as fast as brains, manpower and money can combine to make our service as efficient as possible.

Tips for OUTDOORSMEN

Fly fishing is often referred to as a lost art.

How could this be true when so many anglers have never found it? You can't lose something you don't have, any more than you can come back from some place you haven't been.

But those who don't fly fish sure miss a lot of fun.

Many an expert fisherman was brought up with a fly rod and reel in his hand. He knows the thrill that comes from popping a little bug on top of the water at a far distant spot, or dragging a fly across a quiet area in the lake, or the sudden tug of a trout as it tags that insect in a fast moving stream.

Fly fishing is an art. It takes time to master the technique, but it is a most rewarding outdoor pleasure.

Perhaps the reason why so few anglers are fly fishing today is development of the closed-face spinning reel. This device, which came into being in the late 40's has so simplified angling, and particularly the accuracy of artificial bait casting, that seldom do people try to master the art of fly fishing.

A beginner, with little or no experience and a very short period of training, soon becomes an adept angler with the spinning reel—especially the closed-face model. It seldom permits a backlash and—"birds-nest" and casts easily and accurately.

The open-face, bail-type spinning reel (which came to this country from France in the 20's) did much to introduce thousands to the pleasure of angling. But because it virtually simplified everything the closed-face gear tempted many to give it a try.

Seasoned fresh-water fishermen who have learned by experience to properly handle the old standby—the spool-type bait-casting reel—are in most cases "the lunker landers." The reason is two-fold. They have the expertise, the experience and also the gear that is designed to handle the larger fresh water fish with ease.

If you are dubious as to what rig you might like best, start with the least complicated—the closed-face spinning reel. It's the easiest to master, possibly the cheapest to buy, and can be used for most everything from the tiny perch to a five or six pound bass—and even does a pretty good job of landing the little speckled trout and the small kings in the Gulf of Mexico.

One thing we would heartily recommend is—when you make your decision as to the outfit you want to learn to use—stick with it until you master it well. Don't try to learn them all at once. You'll find that very frustrating. Keep in mind the old saying "Jack of all trades and master of none."

The Medical insurance portion of Medicare, Part B, is a completely voluntary program. It provides insurance coverage for doctors' care and many other health services, including outpatient hospital treatment. The plan offers supplementary coverage to the hospitalization insurance plan offered under Part A of Medicare.

The annual enrollment period for medical insurance opened January 1 and will run through March 31, 1972.

Many Americans who did not enroll in Medicare when they became 65 will have this opportunity to elect medical coverage. Those enrolling during this period will have their coverage begin July 1, 1972.

This enrollment period will be the final opportunity to enroll for many people born between October 1903 and September 1904. Most people born before October 1903 are no longer eligible to choose this medical coverage.

Over 19 1/2 million people are currently members of Medicare's medical insurance plan. The plan is financed by members' monthly premiums and matching contributions from the Federal Government. The basic premium is $5.60 per month, but a surcharge is added for late enrollment.

Once enrolled, members must pay the first $50 for medical services each year to meet the annual deductible. After the deductible is met, Medicare will pay 80 per cent of the reasonable and customary charge for all covered health services.

Medical and surgical fees, ambulance service, diagnostic and X-ray procedures are all covered by the plan. The coverage also provides for rental or purchase of durable medical equipment, if the item is medically necessary.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Bowling Suits

Number Thirteen lane at a neighborhood bowling alley really was unlucky. If a bowler happened to step on a certain spot in a certain board, the board would bend downward, causing the heads of two nails to protrude.

One evening a bowler stepped on the spot, snagged his shoe on the nails, and went sprawling. Painfully injured, he determined to claim damages from the owner of the alley.

At a court hearing, the owner protested that he simply had not known about any weakness in the board. But the court held him liable anyhow, in the light of evidence that the situation had existed for weeks.

Generally speaking, a bowler is entitled to protection not only against obvious hazards but also against hazards that an attentive management would notice.

But the bowling alley does not guarantee perfect safety. As in other places of public recreation, things can go wrong that are outside the scope of the management's responsibility.

Two examples are:

A bowler slipped on a dab of ice cream lying at the edge of the foul line. But no one knew how or when the ice cream had been dropped there. Result: no management liability.

Another bowler, reaching into the return rack for his ball, failed to notice another ball speeding back from the pit. Result: mashed fingers, but again no management liability.

Something more serious occurred recently when a bowler took a practice swing, behind the lanes, to get the feel of a new ball. He lost his grip and the ball slipped out of his hand, striking a glancing blow on another bowler's head.

Could the victim hold the management liable on the theory that it had failed to post special notices, warning its customers against taking practice swings?

A court said he could not. The court said this accident was so freakish that the management could not fairly be expected to take precautionary measures against it.
