Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Most golfers try for birdies (one stroke below par for a given hole), and among fair-to-middling-to-good amateurs, and all professionals, birdies are more than common.

But it takes more than an ordinary golfer to get not one, but two, DUCKS!

Last week, Bill Griffin was at Ponte Vedra, near Jacksonville, Fla., and played a few rounds on the Ponte Vedra Inn course. A water hazard on No. 1 fairway is a habitat for ducks. Driving for the green, Bill hit his ball a mite lower than he had planned . . . and it hit a Mallard drake in the head—dead duck!

On the following day—Wednesday—Bill was playing the same fairway, and came to the same water hole. Again, he hit low and, again, his ball went into the water. It was a "floater," and there was a possibility for a while of retrieving it. But a Mallard hen beat him to it and . . . GULP! . . . probably to avenge her dead mate . . . another dead duck!

On each occasion, Bill played out the round . . . other players allowed him to move the first duck one club-length away from the ball. There was some argument, however, at the club house when he started to tally up his score. Bill claimed he got a birdie on the first hole each time; but Hal Dry, who was playing with him, insisted that those birds were the wrong kind . . . they were adult ducks, he said, and could not be called birdies.

Bill, controller for Dry Manufacturing Division, Wallace-Murray Corporation, Winters, and Hal, a Wallace-Murray vice president and general manager of Dry Manufacturing, were in Ponte Vedra to attend a corporation management meeting.

It's slightly sickening to note the sack-cloth-and-ashes attitude of some of the leading vote-hungry politicians regarding this question of "clemency" for the many draft-dodgers who refused to obey the law of the land and fled to other countries. These politicians, and other would-be leaders, assume a pious pose, then beat their breasts and tear their hair over the plight of the thousands who ran away rather than contribute. In demanding these "persecuted" draft-dodgers be forgiven everything and begged to come home, these people shed crocodile tears and cry out that it is "immoral" on the part of the rest of the people to expect that the law be obeyed. They insinuate that all those thousands of men who did obey the laws, even those who have been killed in action, have only been advocates of the devil, and should expect no consideration.

If the draft-dodgers are to be granted forgiveness, then every man who has ever served in the armed forces, during or between any conflict, who has been convicted of desertion or going AWOL for even one day should have his record cleared; the gates should be swung open and every man who has ever been convicted of disobedience of military law released.

In fact, if this wholesale forgiveness for law violations becomes a trend, then any law becomes worthless, and we had better begin a search for a new set of values.

One City employee already spends full time working at the cemeteries, and the additional man will devote most of his time to the cemeteries, and other time working in other departments within the city.

Local Unit Will Observe National FHA Week Mar. 19

March 19 through 25 has been designated National FHA, and members of the Winters chapter of the Future Homemakers of America will carry out special activities and observances designed to share their experiences and achievements with family, friends and neighbors.

The 47 members of the Winters FHA chapter have scheduled a number of activities for this week, including: Sunday—attend church; Monday—publicize FHA; Tuesday—club meeting; Wednesday—color day; Thursday—do something special for your parents; Friday—pot luck supper, with parents as special guests; and Saturday—visit people in hospitals and rest homes.

The theme chosen for this year's National FHA Week is "Profiles of youth," to focus attention on what more than a half million young men and women are doing to improve personal, family and community living.

Kathy Wolford, president of the Winters High School chapter of the FHA, points out that several million young people have been challenged by the unlimited opportunities offered through membership in Future Homemakers of America over the 26 years since its establishment as a national organization for home economics students in the secondary schools. FHA gives them an opportunity to grow as individuals, to contribute to home and family living, develop leadership and cooperation, open doors of service to others, prepare for vocations or professions, make new friends, find new experiences, gain an understanding of others, make creative and constructive use of leisure time and, more importantly, be a part of the national organization of teenagers concerned with people, families and communities.

The Future Homemakers of America is a non-profit, self-supporting organization officially sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education, through the Division of Vocational and Technical Education and The American Home Economics Association. It encompasses two types of chapters: FHA chapters for students in homemaking, consumer and family life education; HERO-FHA chapters for students enrolled in home economics related occupational courses. High school home economics teachers serve as advisers to the 11,000 local FHA chapters throughout the country. National headquarters is in Washington, D. C.

Officers of the Winters FHA chapter are:

Kathy Wolford, president; Debbie Eoff, 1st vice president; Brenda Smith, 2nd vice president; Ruth Crenshaw, secretary; Rae Brown, treasurer; Kay Schwartz, historian; Mary Beth Jacob, parliamentarian; Debbie Lloyd, public relations; Cindy Wolford, song leader; Marilyn Mayfield, sergeant-at-arms; Becky Simpson, typist; Connie Giles, pianist.

Mrs. Cecil Hambricht and Mrs. Jake Joyce, home economics teachers, serve as adult advisers.

Wingate Cage Teams Honored With Banquet

Members of the Wingate Junior High Basketball teams were honored at a banquet Wednesday in the Wingate School cafeteria. Hosting the event were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stuart.

Miss Freddie Gardner, girls' basketball coach from Winters High School was guest speaker. She complimented the Wingate school system on the basketball program and for the many fine players from Wingate who have played for Winters.

During her talk, Miss Gardner gave the players the following points about the game: "Remember that basketball is a great sport and the fans are always great to cheer you on. A basketball player is a sturdy creature who comes in all shapes and sizes and each player always wanted to play every period of every game to the best of his ability."

Players were told to remember that they are always the personal representative of the coach and fans when they are on the court. To be a good player takes a lot of hard work and practice. Players should always play each game in such a manner they will be able to say, "We tried our best," Miss Gardner told the group.

Attending the banquet in addition to the basketball players were members of the school board and their wives, and the faculty and staff of the Wingate School. Miss Dianne Wilde was a special guest.

Several awards were presented to outstanding players: Alex Ochoa, most improved attitude; Phyllis O'Dell, most points scored; Patti Walker, defensive rebounds; Shelia Galloway, offensive rebounds; Gwen Smith, outstanding player; Melinda Hill, most improved player; Dianne Baize, best sport chosen by her teammates.

The 8th grade boys and girls were presented a merit award for their participation in the basketball program this year.

Winters Council Favors Providing Water For Rural Distribution System

Winters City Council Monday night enthusiastically voted a motion favoring providing water for the proposed North Runnels Rural Water Corporation.

Council now will consult engineers and attorneys regarding all aspects of the proposition. Mayor Wade White said, and this information should be available within a short time.

A sub-committee of the steering committee charged with planning the rural water distribution system met with the City Council Monday night, and requested that Winters make a study of the feasibility of providing water for the system, if built. Members of the council already had made studies of the proposition, Mayor White said, and were in favor of it if certain details could be clarified.

Representing the rural water steering committee were LaDell Davis, vice chairman, and C. T. Parker, secretary.

It was also explained that if the rural system is completed, and Winters provides the water, there would be no cost to the city for pipeline construction; the system would be under the control of the rural corporation, and financed by that organization. The city would provide only the treatment plant, which is more than adequate to handle the anticipated demand, it was stated.

The North Runnels Rural Water Corporation (not yet incorporated) was organized last spring, with a goal of providing water to rural residents of the area. The system would be financed through a long-term loan from the Farm Home Administration, and/or through Federal grants.

At the time of organization, a steering committee was named to work on planning, and work began immediately to sign up rural residents who would be interested in the proposition. Each resident was required to deposit a sum of $100 with the committee for each meter they would require. Two weeks ago, it was reported that 375 meters had been registered. Engineers have drawn preliminary plans for the system, and indications are that up to 400 meters could be serviced through the system.

All sign-up funds have been invested in Certificates of Deposit with The Security State Bank at Wingate. These funds will be used for administrative purposes when the organization is incorporated. In the event it becomes impossible to complete

When all preliminary surveys are completed, and a source for water is finally determined, the organization will officially incorporate, and then make application for loans and grants with which to build the system. It has been stressed that the corporation would be run by members—customers—of the system, and would not be in any manner connected politically or otherwise with the City of Winters.

WASHINGTON

"As it looks from here"

OMAR BURLESON

Congressman
17th District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Last week's hometown Lions Club bulletin ("THE BULLETIN") ends up with this quip: "We know how it is, so tell us like it ought to be."

Starting with this idea, we are reminded of a sign in the museum at the head office of the Union Pacific Railroad in Omaha, Nebraska. A faded photo of the sign stuck up along the right-of-way somewhere in Nebraska or Wyoming about a century ago reads: "NOTICE, trespassers will be persecuted to the full extent of 2 mungrol dogs which never was over sochible to strangers and 1 dubble brl shot gun which ain't loaded with sofa pillars. Damn if I ain't gettin tired of this hell raisin on my place, B. Griscom."

Of course, Mr. Griscom has long departed this life but he leaves a simplicity needed in our gobbledy gookish language of today, found particularly in government.

Good advice—state your position—make it plain; don't try to be elegant.

Some time ago, a certain city hired a consultant firm to make a survey on which to base an application for Federal funds for urban renewal. The report cost $12,000 in municipal tax money and it appears not to contain much more than could have been gathered by looking out the window of a ten-story building.

The document contains all the bureaucratic references dearly loved by those to whom it is directed. Someone in Washington will nod over it approvingly, throw it on a stack where it will remain until the Congressman from the area calls up and wants to know what the heck happened to it.

What it essentially says is "the core area of the city is suffering from disinvestment and needs to be looked at in the broad picture. If prompt actions are implemented within the suggested parameters, meaningful and relevant objectives may be finalized." This for 12,000 Bucks!

Of course, this is common to about everything else in our public life. New ones pop up every day. Until recently not many parents ever heard of "sibling rivalries" but they did know that healthy brothers and sisters squabbled and sometimes fought, tooth and toenail, and often got the seat of their pants warmed for doing so.

The Bible has a way of making things pretty clear. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard," says Proverbs. Sluggards are now "underachievers." No one cheats any more. Rather he is "ethically disoriented."

Genesis says that the people of Sodom "were wicked and sinners before the Lord exceedingly." This is pretty tough talk, so modern sociologists prefer to describe the Sodomites as having a deviate life-style, a confused behavioral pattern and maybe an alcoholic subculture.

Restraints and refinements are desirable but they were a little less observed in the 19th Century when Senator Beveridge was told that a corrupt politician should at least be given credit for gracious manners and a brilliant mind. His response was, "Yes, and like a dead mackerel in the moonlight, he shines and stinks and stinks and shines."

Senator Huey Long in his day made quite a few similar applications in describing some of his colleagues with whom he violently disagreed.

Another good one we often hear now is an "unmet need" which means anything a public official wants to spend money for. People who demand things they are not willing to work for and gain for themselves are exhibiting "rising expectations."

On and on it goes. The kid who hangs around a tough gang is now suffering from "an identity crisis and driven to seek the supportive approval of his peer group." This often excuses him from looting coin boxes, swiping cars and maybe right on up to robbing the First National Bank.

There use to be hobos and bums. Hobos drew the distinction that they would work when they were hungry but bums would not. In modern reference hobos are "itinerants" and bums are people suffering from "motivational deficiencies due to deprivation."

Maybe we can get along without the rough edges of Senator Beveridge but Mr. Griscom could make a real contribution if he were still around. He might even be elected President.

Martha SS Class Meeting Recently

Martha Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Alyce Compton. Mrs. Clara McAdams led the opening prayer, and Miss Eunice Polk presided.

Mrs. Vada Smith called the roll which was answered with selection of verse on Love and Faith. Pledges were made for Home Missions.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Clara McAdams, Pearl Jackson, Charis Poe, Enit Witcher, Alma Witkowski, Parrie Carwile, Vallie Brannon, Verna Bowin, Effie Kornegay, Lady Rodgers, Vada Smith, Thelma Mayo, Erna Marks, and Miss Eunice Polk.

Omelet Preparation
"When you have decided to serve an omelet, everything but its care must be banished from your mind," according to an old French saying.

A story about Napoleon relates his attempted failure—to make an omelet. "I have given myself credit for more exalted talents than I possess," the man who ruled an empire is supposed to have exclaimed. The omelet is native to France and was created long before Napoleon's time. Eggs were a main feature of the fifteenth century diet, and several kinds of omelets were served. Omelets all have basically the same ingredients, says Mrs. O'Connor, but vary either in preparation, cooking or serving so that a multitude of creations emerge from a simple beginning.

Basically each omelet serving calls for one, two or three eggs, a teaspoon of liquid for each egg, salt and pepper to taste and sugar, if desired. Plain omelets are prepared exactly like scrambled eggs, but are not "scrambled" during cooking. All ingredients are combined in a bowl, mixed until light yellow in color and then poured into a frying pan containing melted butter. Cooking always is over low heat. Plain omelets are also referred to as flat or French omelets. These omelets are tenderly compact in texture, moist and have a delicately browned bottom side. They may be served "as is," topped with cheese or filled.

Some of the liquids which may be used in the omelet preparation include whole milk, cream, half and half, evaporated milk, nonfat dry milk, water, mushroom liquid, tomato juice and other fruit juices.

A dessert omelet is a variation of the fluffy omelet. As soon as cooked to perfection, slide the lofty omelet into a warmed serving plate, spread with jelly, preserves or jam and fold in half. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve immediately. Dessert omelets may be served cut into wedges or slices.

Fluffy omelets require two bowls for the mixing stage. The egg whites are beaten until stiff, but not dry in the first bowl.

The yolks and seasoning are whipped to a light yellow in the second bowl and then folded into the egg whites. The mixture is poured into a frying pan or baking dish containing melted butter and cooked or baked until lightly browned and the top surface "springs back," when lightly touched. Fluffy omelets—often called "puffy" omelets—are frequently served as a dessert.

COUNTY AGENT PARKER'S COLUMN

Garden Check List For March:

Caladium tubers are now available in the nurseries and garden stores. Make your selections early to insure getting the colors you want. Do not plant out-of-doors until soil temperatures reach 70 degrees F.

It is time to dig and divide those summer and fall flowering perennials. Unless they are frequently divided, Chrysanthemum, Shasta daisy and similar perennials become crowded and fail to perform satisfactorily.

This is the ideal time to purchase and plant new perennials. Selections that are now available at garden centers and nurseries include phlox, thrift, Shasta daisy, hollyhock, platycodon, iris, and daylilies.

Fertilize azaleas and camellias as soon as blossoms begin to fade. Several light applications of an acid type fertilizer at 2 to 3 week intervals is better than one heavy application. Apply only on moist soil.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

Friday, March 10, 1972

A general application of lawn fertilizer with an 16-20-0 or similar formulation should be applied to all areas where established plants and lawns are growing. Use 3 to 4 pounds per 100 square feet of area beneath the branch spread of trees and shrubs. Fertilize lawn areas at the rate of 15 to 20 pounds per 1000 square feet.

Insects and diseases to be on the watch for include: Aphids—suggest malathion or diazinon; White fly—suggest malathion or diazinon; Pillbugs—suggest Sevin dust; Caterpillars—Sevin dust; Blackspot on roses—use Benlate, folpet or maneh.

Complete all pruning of summer flowering shrubs. Delay pruning spring flowering shrubs until after they flower.

Dahlia tubers should be planted in fertile well drained soil. Finish planting annual beds. Pinch back new shoots to encourage branching.

Gladiolus plantings should be completed this month.

Use Cascade petunias in hanging baskets for spring and summer accents.

Make sure any bare-root nursery stock purchased now is in good condition. Avoid plants with shriveled canes or excessive new growth. Buds should be soft and plump and roots moist and pliable.

Cut all established lawns as low as possible to remove dead material and to tear up any thatch that may have accumulated.

Before cutting any lawn, be sure to check the area for potentially dangerous objects hidden in the turf. Lost tools, toys and spray objects can become lethal weapons when hit by a rotary mower.

Are your ground cover beds overgrown? Pruning these back severely at this time, will induce new, compact growth and keep them looking attractive through out the summer.

Home Gardens

Soil insects can give home gardeners a lot of trouble, says Parker. Most common are wireworms, white grubs, cutworms, rootworms, mole crickets and stalk borers.

Applying an insecticide two to three weeks before planting your garden will eliminate most soil insect problems. Recommended insecticides include chlordane should be applied at three to six pounds of actual material per acre, while diazinon should be applied at two to two-and-a-half pounds of actual material per acre (broadcast). Diazinon may also be banded at one pound per acre.

Both insecticides are available in either the spray or granular form and should be incorporated into the top three to five inches of soil.

Home gardeners complain each year about root knot nematodes in their tomatoes, okra, beans and other vegetable crops. These microscopic worms may be the reason for sickly plants that do not respond to fertilizer or water. Nematode presence can be recognized by galls and knots on plant roots.

If nematodes have been a problem in the past, treat your garden this spring before planting, advises the county agricultural agent.

The most widely used chemical for nematode control contains dibromochloropropane—(DBCP). It is available at nurseries and farm supply stores. No special equipment is necessary for treating home gardens, explains Parker. Liquid materials can be applied with a quart fruit jar with a ten penny nail hole punched on each side of the lid—one to pour from and the other to let air into the jar, so the liquid will pour evenly.

Granular DBCP can be sprinkled by hand—using rubber gloves—into the open furrow. In either case, cover the treated furrow immediately to prevent chemical vapors from escaping into the air. Then sprinkle the soil lightly with water, adds Parker.

HORSE OWNERS WARNED

Horse owners have been warned to have their animals immunized for protection against another Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) outbreak this spring and summer.

A Texas Veterinary Medical Association spokesman said foals born since the 1971 epidemic and horses vaccinated under six months of age during the epidemic or afterwards are prime targets for exposure.

AG OPINIONS

A public school district can permit neighboring parochial school students to participate in its music (band) program, Attorney General Martin held.

In a flood of other recent opinions, Martin concluded: Parks and Wildlife Department is not authorized to appoint any game wardens, salaried or non-salaried, other than those permitted under the current state appropriations act.

A county is not required to pay out of its funds any portion of court costs due the criminal justice planning fund which are served out in jail by a convicted defendant. If a defendant pays part of the total court costs and serves out the remainder in jail, money collected is to be prorated among various costs including that due the Criminal Justice Planning Fund. No cost has priority over another.

Accrued vacation time of state employees is a vested right of those employees and of their estates. NEW CHANGES in the crop hail insurance program aimed at savings on premium costs to farmers were reported by the State Board of Insurance last week.

The new "stepladder policy" will enable cotton growers, for example, to buy insurance after July 1 at a drastically-reduced rate. Value of the coverage increases as the crop grows in value. Policies are cheaper after July 1 because hail usually ends with May and June.

OIL FROM THE NORTH SEA

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—It was two and a half years ago that a military coup in Libya overthrew the government and replaced it with one that was militantly socialistic. An immediate development was pressure on the foreign oil and gas producers there to curtail production and increase tax and royalty payments to the Libyan government. The threat of expropriation of oil properties became real, and Libya is now a very inconstant area in which to conduct oil operations.

At about the same time bids were opened for leases on the Alaskan North Slope. Involving a region long known for its strong oil potential, the sale attracted all major oil companies and netted the state of Alaska some $82 million. It was felt that drilling success here would assure the 48 continental states of a bountiful source of crude and relieve dependence on foreign sources. Enthusiasm was so great that pipe was ordered for a north-south trans-Alaska line and millions of dollars' worth of equipment was flown in. But, to date, no more than a few barrels of ceremonial oil have come out. The crude is there in quantity, but environmental questions have delayed the pipeline and meaningful output is unlikely until 1974 or 1975.

TURN TO THE CRUEL SEA

As it became evident that the Mideast must be considered prone to the whims of politics and that Alaskan oil would not be readily available, the search turned to another known large sedimentary basin with oil-bearing possibilities located mainly between England and Norway. To the south, in and offshore from the Netherlands, huge gas discoveries were made in quantities large enough to alter European economies. Natural gas had also been found in the English portion of the Channel. These discoveries were substantial enough to enable the British government to sponsor a residential gas-heating conversion program which has virtually eliminated the use of soft coal and the notorious London fog caused by burning that fuel.

CUTTING UP THE PIE

By treaty, the North Sea is divided in such a way that bordering countries are entitled to offer drilling rights in assigned sectors off their shores. Norway and the United Kingdom control the largest areas, and initial drilling successes have been in these parts. A year ago some 70 individual companies or combines held licenses for exploration or production in the North Sea. Operations are risky and difficult due to ocean weather conditions, but the technology of the new semi-submersible drill rigs will do much to negate the elements. These platforms are supported by huge submerged floats which are relatively unaffected by the motion of the sea, even withstanding 100-ft waves. A recent estimate predicts that in two years there could be twenty drill rigs at work and by 1980 sixty rigs could be in the area, half of which might well be active producers.

OIL GIANTS

Why is the North Sea crude worth going after? Though drilling is only in initial stages, several separate fields have been located. Present proven reserves are estimated roughly at five billion barrels, but the potential may be many times that figure—a real oil bonanza!

Evidence of the worth and extent of the basin was seen in the British sector, with a bid last August of $50 million for one ninety-six-square-mile block far to the north of current proven discoveries. The bidder had apparently developed seismic data promising favorable drilling results. While it is unlikely that U. S. oil requirements will be bolstered directly from North Sea production, American oil companies successful in the area should benefit, since they will be less vulnerable to political overtones rampant elsewhere in the oil-producing world. Hence, the Research Department of Babson's Reports advises investors to keep a close eye on North Sea operations.

Pasture Planting Time Here, Good Moisture Picture

Gerald Merz, Range Conservationist, with the local Soil Conservation Service assisting the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, said Pasture Planting time is here again. He said the moisture condition looks fine for grass planting this spring. It appears that Bermudagrass plantings should be limited to irrigated land, soils receiving extra runoff water or bottomland soils.

There are several hundred acres planned to be sprigged this year by cooperators with the Runnels S&WCD.

Merz said, in order to have a successful planting, the proper management is necessary. And more often than not, weeds are responsible for poor stands of Bermudagrass. Weeds grow faster, and overtake the newly planted sprigs, forcing the Bermudagrass to grow straight up rather than out and along the ground. Development of new sprigs can also be very slow because Bermudagrass is not able to compete with weeds for moisture, minerals, sunlight and spore.

To get Bermudagrass established quickly, land preparation is very important, the land should be completely free of weeds at the time of sprigging. The soil should be allowed to settle for several weeks before sprigging. If the soil is sprigged right after preparation, it should be rolled so the soil is firm. Only healthy, fresh, live sprigs should be used. The sprigs should be planted as soon as possible after they are dug. Keep the sprigs cool, moist and protected from the sun while they are being taken to the field. The sprigs should be planted in a firm, moist soil and covered not over 1 or 2 inches deep. Weed control, while the newly sprigged Bermudagrass is established, is very important. There is a chemical on the market that will effectively control weeds if applied before weeds emerge. The chemical kills weeds by entering through the root system of newly germinating weeds and grasses. Some of the weeds may emerge and appear normal but after a few days the leaves turn yellow and the weeds die. If you will consult with your local chemical dealers you will be given directions on the use of weed control chemicals.

Fertilizer is also important in the management of Bermudagrass. One thing to remember is that weeds will respond to fertilizer as well as the Bermudagrass. The soil should be tested and recommendations should be followed for best results.

Merz went on to say, that the Bermudagrass should not be grazed until well established. The grass should be at least 8 inches in height before grazing and stubble height of about 6 inches should be maintained during the growing season. Bermudagrass is a high producing grass under proper man-

You will hear more and more talk about boat safety—safer boating and safer boats—as time goes by.

Both the boater and the boat builder will be important factors of an intensified, many-sided campaign for safer boating. Also playing an integral part will be the manufacturers of the various items that belong on the safety list—the buoyant cushions, life-saving rings, life vests, lights (spot and signal) and even the anchors.

Under the new Boat Safety Act, no craft not constructed or equipped in conformance with Federal regulations can be operated on Federal waters.

Peter M. Wilson, executive vice president of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, pointed out at a boat dealers seminar in Seattle, Washington, recently that the boat owner himself has the primary responsibility to ensure that his craft is fitted out according to Federal regulations and thereafter maintained to those standards.

So, the boat owner is included too. Wilson told the dealers that in addition to their responsibility to make sure that the boat they sell meets all standards, they should provide a conversion ser-

"Plaza Suite" in Technicolor showing Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre, is the fifth Neil Simon work brought to the screen by Paramount Pictures and the association is one of the most successful in the entertainment field.

All of the previous projects have been immensely popular with audiences and critics and have been solid performers at the box office.

The Paramount-Simon relationship began with "Come Blow Your Horn" and continued through "Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple," "The Out-of-Towners" and now "Plaza Suite."

Coincidentally, each of the four previous films premiered at Radio City Music Hall and rank high on the list of the landmark theatre's top-running films.

When Simon's "Plaza Suite" opened on Broadway, many critics acclaimed it as one of the funniest comedies in years. In the stage version, the action was restricted to the confines of a single hotel suite. For Paramount Pictures' screen version, starring Walter Matthau, Maureen Stapleton, Barbara Harris and Lee Grant, Simon expanded the physical setups considerably. The wedding of the daughter of Matthau and Miss Grant in the third segment, takes place in a large ballroom at the Plaza Hotel and is a colorful scene with a large group of guests and an orchestra. The play had no actual wedding scene.

During two weeks of filming on locations in New York City, producer Howard W. Koch and director Arthur Hiller utilized such backgrounds as Central Park, Fifth Avenue, Riverside Drive, the George Washington Bridge, Sacks Fifth Avenue, Bergdorf-Goodman and other colorful sites.

NORTH COUNTRY is an outdoor, color, action-adventure motion picture about the exploits of modern-day Alaskan trapper, Jeff Graham.

This exciting film, shot entirely on location, follows woodsman Graham through one year of his life as he camps in the frozen wilds of the far north country trapping beaver, fox, and muskrat. In this true-to-life feature, Graham pans gold and serves as a backcountry guide over some of Alaska's roughest terrain to earn just enough to pay for what little he needs from civilization. Otherwise, he lives off the land, hunting only out of necessity.

None of the characters in "North Country" are actors. These are all real Alaskans portraying their real lives.

Ron Hayes filmed, directed, and appears in "North Country." He has masterfully captured on film this land's magnificent scenery, rare wildlife, and unique people.

NORTH COUNTRY, G-rated, is a Rainbow Adventure film, released by American National Enterprises, the company that brought you COUGAR COUNTRY. This is the unique motion picture firm dedicated to presenting only all-family entertainment to the public.

WCS Meeting At Church Tuesday

The Women's Society of the Christian Service of the First United Methodist Church met at the church Tuesday morning, to begin a Bible study of "Matthew." "Jesus Calls Us," a hymn based on the fourth chapter of Matthew, was sung, and Mrs. Roy Crawford pointed out that there were 18 hymns in the hymnal based on this chapter.

Several names of missionaries were read from the Prayer Calendar by Mrs. M. L. Dobbins, and Mrs. Crawford led a prayer for these workers. Reports were made of members who are sick, and cards are being sent.

Mrs. M. E. Leeman began the program with a discussion of the kind of teacher Matthew was, and also the type of church that he was acquainted with. Mrs. Sallie Gray explained the idea in Matthew that disciples are "a people trained for the Kingdom." Reading of selected verses from Matthew ended the session.

A covered dish luncheon followed with 28 members present. Guests attending were Mrs. Zeldia Evans, Mrs. A. D. Lee and Mrs. Charles Black.
