HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

It's not exactly like spring's first robin, but the last football game of a long season is about as welcome. It's a sure sign that, regardless of what happens during the rest of January and into February, spring can't be too far off—the football season seems to get longer each year, until game time almost laps over into spring training time.

Super Bowl Sunday climaxed the long season. We don't count the Pro Bowl, coming up Sunday, because there will be no questions answered in that game — just another couple hours of headknocking to add another red line or two to weary eyeballs.

The real razzle-dazzle football season must have ended a couple of weeks before Super Bowl Sunday, however, because there didn't seem to be as much enthusiasm exhibited, on the part of telecasters and tube viewers alike. (One viewer, a big fan we know, even fell asleep three or four times during the Redskin-Dolphin contest). It was as if the announcers were saying, "Well, here's the last one that counts for anything. Now let us go on into something new," and the viewers saying, "Okay, throw one more at me, and then let me settle down for a few Sundays before you start something else to keep me glued to this idiot box the way I have been for the last five months."

One avid football fan says even his television set is riddled. But he'll get the red out by next September!

Comes now, again, a proposal that there should be enacted a "Code of Ethics," to be used as a guideline by our public officials. Our friend out on Bluff Creek says the original code of ethics was enacted thousands of years ago, and the way he understands it, the code was carved into stone the first time—called The Ten Commandments.

There are many big (and mostly phony) tears being shed publicly these days by groups and individuals of all sorts, over the supposed plight of the criminals we have locked up. It seems they're not being treated right, they're being isolated from society, their sentences are too long, they are not allowed freedom of movement and action, they're not being educated, they're not being rehabilitated (whatever that word means in this age). In short, the squallers lament, they're being treated like "criminals!"

The public has been told so many times that the plight of those who have acted outside the law is not their (the criminals') fault, that it is a wonder we don't start believing it more than we do. We're told that the blame should lie on the laps of society, that we all should be held accountable. We're told that those who break our laws are no different from the rest of us, but that they just have different "life styles," and should not be faulted for that reason.

There's word out that there will be proposals made in legislatures and in the congress toward shortening sentences for many criminal offenses, and probably eliminating actual sentences in some instances, and a general overhaul of methods of charging, prosecuting and sentencing those who break the laws. Proposals, also, to remodel all the jails and prisons (which, granted, should be done in many cases), and to make conditions generally more comfortable and more desirable for those who claim to have committed offenses against society. In other words, to change the

Annual Junior Livestock Show Not Affected Greatly By Snow and Slush

Melting snow and slush, aftermaths of the mid-week snowstorm which covered North Runnels last week, had no material effect on the annual Winters Junior Livestock Show Saturday. Bright sunshine and moderating temperatures afforded exhibitors reasonable conditions to show their livestock, and large crowds filled the show barn and arenas for what has been termed one of the biggest shows of its kind in the area.

Brother teams, or brother-sister teams, took many of the honors in the show. Douglas and Donald Rogers had the overall grand champion and the reserve grand champion swine of the show. The top swine was a Hampshire and the reserve was a Duroc.

Bill and Kathryn Bredemeyer, brother-sister team, had the champion medium wool Southdown and crossbred in the lamb show. Randall and Darrell Kurtz showed the champion fine-wool; and Mitchell and Jeff O'Dell had the reserve champion fine-wool.

The Bredemeyer brother-sister team also showed the reserve champion Southdown and the Kurtz brothers had the reserve champion crossbred. Kyle Tatom won the reserve champion medium wool.

In the steer show, the grand champion was shown by Charley Alderman, who entered a heavyweight Charolais. Mitchell O'Dell showed the reserve champion steer, a lightweight Charolais.

Showmanship awards were won by Bill Bredemeyer, sheep; Martha Pritchard, swine; John Spill, steer; Kyle Tatom, lamb; and Rex Marks, overall.

The annual show was open to young exhibitors, members of Future Farmers of America, 4-H Clubs, and individuals, from the Winters and Wingate Independent School districts.

The Winters Livestock Association sponsored the annual livestock show.

'72 Cotton Crop Practically In The Warehouse

For all practical purposes, the 1972 cotton crop is in the warehouse. Only a few more bales remain in the field, according to cottonmen, but will have to wait for favorable weather before they can be stripped and brought in.

As of Monday, 8877 bales had been brought in to the Winters Warehouse. There may be a few bales on cotton gin yards yet to be ginned, however.

Although below the expectations and hopes of cotton growers, production in 1972 still was above that of last year, by a considerable number. There were only about 5100 bales brought in to the Winters Warehouse from the 1971 crop.

Defensive Driving Course To Be Offered Here By Police Department

A Defensive Driving Course, presented by the National Safety Council and sponsored by the Winters Police Department, will be offered here January 30-31, and February 1.

Those completing the course will be eligible for a 10 percent reduction in automobile insurance. Chief of Police Joe Stevens said.

Cost for registration for the nine-hour course will be $8, which will pay for all materials to be used in the course. Any person with a valid driver's license may take the course, it was understood.

A minimum class of 25 must be signed up for the course, Chief Stevens said. Those who are interested in taking the course are asked to sign up with the Police Department no later than Friday, January 26.

Classes will begin at 7 p. m. each evening, at the Winters Community Center. There is no examination required at the end of the course, it was explained. Instructors will be Lou Hargaves and Douglas B. Clark of the San Angelo Safety Council.

Following presentation of the Defensive Driving Course, the San Angelo Safety Council will submit certificates to the Texas Safety Association for validation for the 10 percent reduction in automobile insurance.

The National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course credit is applicable to bodily injury, property damage, medical payments and collision coverages where those coverages are afforded, according to information from the Safety Council. There is no minimum or maximum age for those taking the course.

Additional information regarding the course may be obtained from the Police Department when registering. Chief Stevens said, but he urged that all interested sign up as soon as possible so that plans can be completed.

One director was re-elected and three new members of the board were named in a board member election for Valley Creek Water Control District Tuesday, January 9.

H. O. Polk was re-elected to a two-year term, and Milton Jackson, Mardell Shedd and John Bird were elected to two-year terms on the board.

Voting boxes were at Wingate and Norton.

Members of the board whose terms had expired were Polk, C. J. Cornet and Joe Conrad. A vacancy also was caused by the death of a board member, C. J. Lynn.

Members of the board who have additional time to serve on present terms of office are Hugo Vogelsang, chairman; Frank K. Antilley, vice chairman; Adolph Minzenmayer and Ed Poehls.

The board will meet for re-organization on the third Monday in February, Vogelsang said.

Valley Creek Water Control District, located in the western part of Runnels County, and also situated in Nolan and Taylor counties, is authorized for 20 water-retaining dams on Valley Creek and its tributaries. Sixteen of the structures have been

Winters Records 15 Below Zero

A low-temperature record for Winters probably was reached last Thursday night, as the mercury dropped to 15 degrees below zero—a drop of 30 degrees from the low of 15 recorded for the previous Tuesday night.

This is thought to be a record low for Winters, and old timers say they can remember of no other time when the temperature plunged so low here.

Thursday night's record-breaking low followed a heavy snowstorm which hit Winters and North Runnels County Wednesday night, dumping from 4 to 8 inches of snow in the area. Snowfall in Winters was officially recorded at 5.5 inches, although up to 8 inches of snow was reported for some parts of the immediate area.

The snow which fell Wednesday night followed two or three days of sub-freezing weather, with light drizzle, sleet and rain. There was no accompanying winds, and no heavy drifts were reported. There also was little or no wind Thursday night when the low of 15 below was recorded by Roy Rice, official U. S. Weather observer.

On the previous weekend, Winters and North Runnels had been on the edge of a sleet, rain and snow storm which all but paralyzed Abilene and areas to the north and west. Traffic conditions did not become hazardous in this immediate area until the middle of the week, after light freezing rains had fallen before the snow came.

Although schools in areas to the immediate north had been dismissed earlier in the week because of weather and road conditions, schools in Winters and Wingate continued to operate until Thursday, following Wednesday night's big snowfall. No school had been planned for Friday, designated as a teachers' work day, so only one day was missed.

The temperature began to climb Saturday morning, and continued upward over the weekend, with spring-like weather greeted Monday morning.

Although the temperatures were low, and the snowfall was heavy, causing much inconvenience, there reportedly was no heavy loss of livestock in the area due to the weather. Moisture content of the snow—51 inch — was beneficial to the small grain and pasture lands.

Mails into Winters were delayed for some time, and truck freight was practically nonexistent, but the situation was beginning to return to normal after a couple of days this week.

During Cold Weather

Livestock Death Loss Not High, Gain Reduction Economic Factor

Death loss of livestock due to the extreme cold weather and heavy snows in the region last week is reportedly little above normal loss, according to stockmen, but the reduction in gains and loss of weight in surviving stock will be an important economic factor.

A few stockmen of the area have reported loss of stock during the cold weather, but this loss is said to be minimal compared to losses reported in areas to the north and in the Panhandle, where losses were said to be upwards of 12-14 percent, and in one instance, 27 percent of one herd.

Because of the difficulty of getting feed to livestock in pastures during the time the heavy snows blanketed the country, and frozen-over tanks caused a water shortage in some cases, much of the stock suffered extreme loss of weight, stockmen said, and this loss will be felt for some time to come. This loss, affecting entire herds, could be greater than if death losses had been slightly higher, some concluded.

During the time the snows covered pasture feeding areas, many stockmen had to pack down the snow so thrown feed would not be lost.

Provision of adequate water became another problem, as the temperatures hovered at the near-zero and below marks, and stockmen were kept busy breaking ice on tanks. One loss was reported when a steer walked out onto a frozen-over tank, and broke through to drown. As long as the ice-covered tanks remained free of snow, there was little danger of livestock venturing onto the slick surface; however, once the snow covered the ice, animals were more inclined to walk out onto the surface, risking a breakthrough.

The low death loss for livestock in this region also has attributed to the short period the extreme weather conditions lasted. Had the below-zero temperatures continued for a greater length of time, or had the winds increased, loss could have been expected to be much higher than it was.

Two Trustees Up For Re-Election

Two members of the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District, whose term of office expire in April, have signed as candidates for re-election.

Billy Joe Colburn will be a candidate for re-election to Place No. 6, and J. P. Dry, president of the board, will be a candidate for re-election to Place No. 7.

The school board election will be April 7.

WINTERS WONDERLAND—

This is a scene in southwest Winters Thursday morning followed the heavy snowfall Wednesday night of last week. Official recording was 5.5 inches, but upwards of 8 inches was reported in immediate areas. Exposed from school for the day, kids made the most of a day off combined with heavy snow to build many snowmen and even snow-block houses, and improvised sleds from ladders, boards, and other flat objects, with sledding conditions made better by a thin sheet of ice on the streets. By Sunday, with temperatures moderating, most of the snow had disappeared. (Staff Photo)

An Old Ax To Grind

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

At home, there has been increasing uneasiness over the rising demand for energy fuels in the face of declining reserves. The huge demand stems from expanding industry, power generation, and an estimated 118 million motor-driven vehicles—nearly 50 percent more than were in use ten years ago. The big question of fuel reserves is the measure of time it would take to use up known reserves at present consumption rates. A decade or two ago, natural gas reserves were rated adequate for twenty years; now the ratio is estimated at about eleven years. The crude oil ratio of reserves to production has dipped from about twelve years to less than nine. This does not include Alaskan North Slope oil, which is unavailable until a pipeline is built.

The answer to the shortfall in petroleum reserves is more exploration and production in this country, and/or removal of import allocations to permit entry of greater quantities of foreign oil. There is some concern over a possible East Coast fuel shortage this winter in the event of prolonged severe weather, and revision of oil import rules may be necessary to alleviate this situation.

C. R. Pinkertons Honored At Coffee On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Pinkerton were honored at a surprise coffee at their home December 28, on their 25th wedding anniversary. Hosting the affair were the couple's son and daughter.

In the party room, a two-tiered white and yellow cake centered the table, which was laid with white lace. Silver and crystal appointments complimented the setting.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton were reared at Newcastle, and were married Dec. 28, 1947, at Graham. She is the former Bettye Ruth Blanton. They moved to Winters in 1952. For the past 20 years, Mr. Pinkerton has been engaged in oil field welding and pipeline contracting.

Approximately 25 guests attended the surprise party. Out of town guests included Mrs. Ed Pinkerton of Newcastle; Mr. and Mrs. Benny Graves of Gering, Nebr.; Gary Pinkerton of Dallas, and Mrs. Jim Hatler and children of San Angelo.

Silence is one of the hardest arguments to refute.

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — Over recent months changes have taken place within the oil industry that will have far-reaching repercussions in future years. For one thing, no longer will oil companies operate abroad as sole proprietors, making royalty payments to their host countries on oil produced. The picture of supply and demand in oil and natural gas is also undergoing change, and it would appear that steps must be taken if an adequate supply of energy fuels is to be ensured for the years ahead.

EXPORTERS OF PETROLEUM

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is a group of eleven nations producing substantial amounts of oil within their borders. Foreign firms are usually involved with many major U. S. companies holding concessions, either singly or in consort. For many years, oil-rich countries were content to permit foreign operators to extract crude oil against payment of per-barrel royalties or taxes. But as material wealth transformed economies, particularly in the Mideast, the winds of nationalism brought a shift in attitude. Libya imposed strict terms relating to oil output, exploration, and even the personal lives of oil company personnel. The OPEC group began to stir restlessly, and about a year ago member countries began to demand permission to become part owners of internal oil operations.

BUSINESS PARTNERS

The Arab countries accounted for some 30 percent of Free World Petroleum output and were thus in a strong bargaining position. Negotiations were begun and continued for nine months before a steelment was reached in October 1972. The agreement was between five Arab OPEC members and certain U. S. and foreign companies. Undoubtedly this first pact will set the tone for agreements with other member countries. Although not fully revealed, provision has been made for five Persian Gulf states to pay about $1 billion to nine U. S. and foreign oil firms for 25 percent ownership of petroleum production. In ten years this will be increased to 51 percent. The effect on the companies involved could be many-faceted. As their share of output declines, efforts will be made to busy earnings from other sources, such as refining and marketing.

WIDER SCOPE FOR OPEC

There is also the possibility that the OPEC Arab nations could become active in other industry phases. Saudi Arabia has indicated that it would guarantee the U. S. enough oil to meet future demands in return for removal of import restrictions, with profits from this arrangement to be invested in the U. S. domestic oil industry. Another proposal would have OPEC refined products sold to independent U. S. marketers, bypassing the large international oil concerns.

P&W Department
Launches Study
Of Peregrine Falcon

Austin — Peregrine falcons migrating along the Texas coast can expect to have their privacy invaded for years to come, but it's for their own good. Th more man knows about these birds the better chance he will have to save them from extinction.

Heading up the prying is John Smith, a biologist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department who received much assistance from biologists Phil Evans and Gary Waggener. This year Smith enlisted the aid of 50 individuals from different organizations to help him in the first phases of a peregrine study.

These organizations included the U. S. Air Force, Audubon Society, Texas Ornithological Society, Colorado College, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Welder Wildlife Refuge, Corpus Christi Museum of Natural History, Laguna Atascosa National Wildlife Refuge and Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Those helping in the project traveled a total of 3,269 round-trip miles and spent 225 hours looking for peregrines. In all, 139 peregrine falcons were spotted, 16 of which were determined to be duplicate sightings. Smith says the peregrine falcon migration is still in its infancy and, so far, only raw data have been accumulated. Several years of data will be required before any trend can be determined or predictions on the fate of the peregrine can be made.

Peregrines migrate down the Texas coast each year from Canada. For centuries falconers have prized these birds because of their beauty and great speed. Conservationists have been alarmed in recent years because of declining numbers of peregrines due to the widespread use of DDT. The poison affects eggshell thickness so that parent birds sometimes accidentally break the shells while trying to hatch their young.

However, Smith says a distinction must be made between the conditions of the Alaskan-Canadian population and that of the United States population because they are independent of each other.

The United States population has experienced a drastic decline in recent years due to pesticides and there is only a small number of breeding pairs remaining. The U. S. population is basically a non-migratory one.

On the other hand, the Alaskan-Canadian population is migratory and it is this population that was surveyed on the Texas coast.

The Alaskan-Canadian population is also on the endangered list but for a different reason. This population is listed, not because of decline, but because the pesticide level is increasing

Use the cardboard rolls that come in waxed paper and foil boxes for storing the electric cords to small appliances. Cut the rolls in pieces and write on the outside what the cord is for. ROY CALCOTE 1001 Main Street Ph. 754-4905 44-tfc

AUSTIN — Texas got a fast-starting legislature, a new governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House all in eight action-packed days.

Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde and William P. Hobby Jr. of Houston were inaugurated as governor and lieutenant governor in spectacular ceremonies Tuesday (Jan. 16).

Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty won election as House speaker without opposition as the legislature convened January 9. The 31-year-old son of former Gov. Price Daniel (who now serves on the State Supreme Court) announced appointment of House standing committees four days after his election, and immediately referred bills for hearing.

Outgoing Gov. Preston Smith offered some good financial news to the arriving legislators. His $9.7 billion biennial budget proposal estimated a $300 million surplus for lawmakers to use in expanding programs or revising school finance formulas.

Governmental reform proposals backed by Daniel will be among the first bills to get House hearing. The House, with a minimum amount of opposition, promptly adopted the thick set of procedural rules the new speaker urged.

Smith in his swansong to the Legislature, advised that lawmakers move immediately to establish the constitutional revision commission directed by voters last November. He submitted as an emergency matter appropriation of funds to pay the commission's expenses.

The outgoing Governor further advised legislators ought to consider tackling the tough school finance system overhaul in a special session.

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Smith named former Gov. Allan Shivers of Austin, former Ambassador Ed Clark of Austin and Dr. James Bauerle of San Antonio as University of Texas System regents. A. G. McNeese of Houston was named chairman.

Other Smith appointments included: Mrs. Wilmer Smith of Wilson, Richard A. Goodson of Dallas and Clyde H. Wells (re-appointment) of Granbury to the Texas A&M University board of directors; Edwin R. VanZandt of Beaumont as chairman of the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation; Dorsey B. Hardeman, formerly of San Angelo, as chairman of the Texas Water Rights Commission; Robert S. Rowland of Houston and Ernest S. Sterling of Tyler to the Texas Southern University Board of directors; former Sen. Joe Christi of El Paso to Texas Aeronautics Commission; former State Rep. Joe H. Golman of Dallas to the Texas Cosmetology Commission; Kent R. Hance of Lubbock to the West Texas State University board of regents; and Scott Hardy of San Antonio as Texas Film Commission chairman.

New Governor Dolph Briscoe designated former White House aide Robert L. Hardesty, 41, as his press secretary and special assistant.

Robert S. Johnson will head the new Texas Commission for the Deaf staff.

Jack H. Dillard will serve as

COURTS SPEAK

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the murder conviction of Walter Lee Morris in the shooting of a Sherman police sergeant.

The same Court affirmed a two-year probation sentence of a Houston youth for wearing the U. S. flag on the seat of his blue jeans, although it agreed two sections of the law on obscuration of the flag are unconstitutional.

In a new ruling on contributory negligence laws, the Supreme Court held damages should be paid to the children of a woman killed in a collision with a negligent driver even if her husband was also partly to blame for the accident.

The High Court ordered a new trial in a suit by the widow of a man killed in a truck-train wreck at Floresville.

SENATORS DRAW FOR TERMS

Sixteen state senators got four-year terms in a drawing which may decide the political futures of some. Fifteen others, not so lucky, drew two-year terms and must face voters again in 1974.

Four-year terms went to Bill Braecklein of Dallas, Ron Clower of Dallas, Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, Robert Gammage of San Antonio, Mike McKinnon of Corpus Christi, Bill Moore of Bryan, Walter Mengden Jr. of Houston, Jack Ogg of Houston, D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur, O. H. Harris of Dallas, Grant Jones of Abilene, Bill Patman of Galveston, Max Sherman of Amarillo, Tati Santiesteban of El Paso, and A. R. Schwartz of Galveston.

Two year terms were drawn by Don Adams of Jasper, A. M. Aikin of Paris, H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Chet Brooks of Houston, Jack Hightower of Vernon, Raul Longoria of Edinburg, Bill Meier of Fort Worth, Peyton McKnight of Tyler, W. E. Snelson of Midland, Jim Wallace of Houston, Nelson Wolff of San Antonio, Mrs. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth, Charles Herring of Austin, Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, and John Traeger of Seguin.

City's Un-Paved Streets Will Get Caliche Surface

The City Street Department will begin within the next few days a program to caliche-surface all the un-paved streets in town, it was announced this week.

Many of the dirt roads in town are in poor shape, especially since the wet weather, and plans are to rework the surface and then put a hard-coat of caliche on each street.

This work will begin as soon as weather permits, and all non-paved streets will be included in this project.

Paved streets also are being studied to see what will be needed to make repairs, it was stated.

Four Winters Men Visited John Deere Plants In Iowa

Four Winters men visited the tractor plant of John Deere Co. in Waterloo, Iowa, last week, and also toured the harvester and plow works of the company at Moline, Ill.

G. W. Sneed, manager of Mansell Bros., Winters John Deere dealer, and Weldon Mills, O. C. Hill and Robert Holder, left Austin by chartered jet Monday of last week, and returned Thursday. They were guests of the John Deere Co. in the "Fly-In '73" program for dealers and customers.

MOVIES

"Play It Again, Sam" Woody Allen's hit Broadway comedy, "Play It Again, Sam," now comes to the motion picture screen, showing in Technicolor Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the State Theatre.

For Allen, "Play It Again, Sam" is a premeditated step forward in his multi-faceted career. "Sam, is not that crazy, formless comedy I usually do, like 'Bananas' or 'Take the Money and Run', he says. "It is dialogue comedy."

Allen, who wrote the play as a showcase for himself, repeats on the screen the stage role of the timid movie buff whose wife leaves him. Friends get him a succession of blind dates to lessen his despondency, but his lack of self-confidence foredooms each to disaster. In a series of fantasies, Humphrey Bogart tutors him on ways to bend women to his will.

Those key performers whose collaborative effort generated electricity on Broadway are reunited in the Arthur P. Jacobs production which Herbert Ross has directed for Paramount Pictures.

Jury Concludes Dominguez Sane, Trial Date Set

Rudolfo Dominguez of Winters, charged with murder, was declared legally sane by a jury in the 119th District Court Monday in Ballinger, and date has been set for his trial.

Dominguez is charged with the August 12 murder of James DeBerry of Winters. The incident occurred on the lot of Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co. in Winters.

District Judge Glen R. Lewis set a trial date of February 26.

The jury in the sanity hearing consisted of eight women and four men.

PRIVATE WESLEY CROUCH

S. S. Does Not Endorse Private Insurance Plans

Some private insurance companies have been sending misleading advertisements to Medicare beneficiaries in the Winters area, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager, in an effort to sell them health insurance to supplement their Medicare protection.

Talbot said that the promotional literature distributed by these companies has been deliberately designed to give the reader the impression that the company is in some way connected with the Social Security Administration, or that it has access to the Federal agency's records.

One company used a window envelope that was almost identical to the one social security uses to send out benefit checks, Talbot remarked. He went on to say that only careful reading of the fine print in the advertisement revealed the statement that the company was "not an agency of the State or Federal government."

Talbot stressed that the Social Security Administration does not endorse any privately-sponsored insurance plan designed to "supplement" Medicare benefits. He also emphasized that private insurance companies do not have access to social security records, which are confidential by law.

Talbot indicated that most private insurance programs supplementing Medicare offer valuable additional protection and advertise honestly in their sales literature. "However," Talbot said, "a few companies have engaged in practices which clearly are intended to mislead Medicare beneficiaries."

Those persons who are confused by material they get in the mail should contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3508) in San Angelo, Texas, or see the

Cold Weather Causes Breaks In Water Lines

Several serious water line breaks, and many frozen and broken feeder pipes serving homes and businesses resulted from last week's extremely cold weather.

The City Hall reported that some main water lines had frozen and burst during the cold weather. These lines had been buried deep enough for normal winter temperatures in this area, but apparently were not deep enough to withstand the minus 15 degrees experienced last Thursday.

Many water pipes on private property were reportedly frozen and burst as a result of the cold weather.

The City Water Department this week was working to repair all damaged water mains. There were not reports of damage or trouble at the city's water plant.

Some Blessings Derived From Cold Weather

C. T. Parker, Runnels County agriculture agent, said the cold weather in this area has not been without some blessings.

The boll weevil population for 1973 probably will be lower, not only because of the extreme low temperatures, but because of the length of time the cold weather has remained in the area, Parker said.

Also, Parker said, the screw-worm problem should be diminished to a great extent for this year. The cold weather drove the flies farther south, where they were concentrated, and more easily treated, he said. Most of those which do return north in the spring and summer probably will be sterilized, cutting the danger considerably, he said.

The cold weather should also kill many other insect pests, he said.

Regarding the boll weevil, Parker said the combination of the boll weevil spraying in the fall, and then the long period of cold weather, should reduce this problem for the coming crop year. He also mentioned another system which may be recommended for this year, in an effort to partly eliminate the boll weevil problem: a "trap crop." Under this method, which is under study, he said, two rows of cotton are planted around a field, very early, and then heavily treated. Early boll weevils would be attracted to this "trap crop" and be eliminated, cutting down the population field-wide.

Never forget that death on the highways takes no vacation.

Make-up for the days missed will be announced at a later date, Superintendent of Schools Carroll Tatom said. Students had missed one day before Christmas because of weather conditions.

Winter Dove Season Offers Unusual Challenges

Austin — Texas dove hunters will go through some unusual rituals this year — preparations for cold weather.

Due to an experimental split dove season with a winter segment running Jan. 6 through Jan. 21, hunters can think about parkas and Thermos bottles of hot coffee instead of insect repellent and iced tea.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials stress the word "experimental" when referring to the split season since next year the season could very likely revert to fall-only.

The late segment of the seasons should offer a different experience for dove hunters, and colder weather is just part of it. Doves have different habits in the winter than those exhibited during the fall. They concentrate into flocks, and the net results are spottier shooting and more searching.

There should be a few complaints of small, immature birds, though, since most of the winter kill should be composed of mature birds. Once hunters have found the doves, the action should be lively.

Hunters have been hoping for a winter season for years, but biologists say that until now they had no way to evaluate the effect of such a season on dove populations.

Now, harvest surveys and banding programs will enable them to determine the origin of doves present in Texas during January and the effect of a late season on the overall harvest.

A portion of the dove population in Texas during the winter is comprised of migrants from other states, and these may have been hunted quite heavily prior to arriving in Texas.

Biologists will be keeping a close eye on the winter kill to determine if a winter season may adversely affect the breeding populations in Texas and other states.

Until they are sure a winter season won't be detrimental, Parks and Wildlife Department officials say they cannot prudently approve a permanent winter season.

Mr., Mrs. Briley Celebrated 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Briley were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday, January 13, with a surprise party in their home, 407 S. Frisco.

Hosting the party were the three children of the couple, Carlo Jo of the home, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby J. Briley of Winters, and Miss Beverly Briley of Victoria.

The party table was laid with a white cloth, centered with a silver coffee service and crystal punch bowl. Other appointments were of silver. A white wedding cake, decorated with pink roses, inscribed "Happy 25th Anniversary," graced the table.

Serving were Misses Beverly Briley, Jeannette Briley, Melissa Briley and Mrs. Bobby (Connie) Briley.

Approximately 50 guests attended.

No Other Word for It
Originally a trademark, the word "cellophane" was declared a generic term by court decree in 1941. It had proven so appropriate to the product that no other word could describe it.

Virgin Forest
The most extensive virgin forest in the world today is the Amazon Valley forest extending from the Atlantic coast into the foothills of the Andes and from Bolivia through Colombia, Venezuela and the Guianas.

Canine Hearing
Tests show that dogs can tell apart sounds which are so close in pitch that the average human being is not able to tell the difference. Experiments conducted on dogs show they can distinguish between musical notes one-quarter-note apart.

Garden of Eden
Most scholars agree that the garden of Eden was somewhere in the vicinity of the Tigris-Euphrates valley. Some locate it about 100 miles north of Baghdad; others believe it was located on the site of the sacred city of Eridu in Babylonia near the Persian Gulf.

One by one we are moving out of the warm comfort of our homes to see what the ice and snow did to our crops, stock, and most of all who had the most busted water pipes. Those who had running water the past week were the ones that had an ax in one hand, a bucket in the other and walked a quarter of a mile to the stock tank, cut the couple of inches of ice and ran back up to the house before the water froze solid in the bucket. Once again a reminder of the good old days and of our conveniences today.

We're proud our seeds have earned the trust of farmers like these ...

Monroe Graham recorded yields of 4000 pounds with Pioneer 848 and 4100 pounds with Pioneer 8417. With yields like these, Pioneer brand hybrids have proven themselves for Monroe Graham, Route 1, Tuscola, Texas.

Dennis C. Poe planted Pioneer 846 for his sixth season last year and recorded a yield of 4480 pounds. He reports, "I have been planting 846 since 1966. I haven't seen any maize that will beat it. It can withstand drought." This year will make seven seasons of Pioneer 846 for Dennis C. Poe, Route 3, Winters, Texas.

Because we were the first company to commercially produce hybrid corn and with 17 years of work on sorghum, we know a lot more about hybrids and how to make crosses that really yield. We've had longer to test and re-test our varieties. We've stuck with some of our early crosses, and we keep developing new ones to fit every growing condition imaginable.

For Central Texas we recommend these sorghum and forage varieties ...

Pioneer Brand 846 — excellent drought resistance — MDM resistant — a full season hybrid — our most popular sorghum variety

Pioneer Brand 848 — excellent grain quality — short, strong stalks — good roots — excellent thrasher — full season hybrid — good resistance to smut and MDM

Pioneer Brand 988 — sorghum sudangrass hybrid for pasture, greenchop, hay or hayslage — ready to cut or graze in a little more than a month — regrows again and again all summer with adequate moisture and fertilizer

When you choose a hybrid for your land, choose one from the company that started it all ...

Accent On Health

By J. V. PEAVY, M. D.
Commissioner of Health

Children in Texas who seldom have an opportunity to receive treatment from a dentist will benefit in 1973 from a new Medicaid program of the Texas State Department of Health and Texas Department of Public Welfare.

Welfare families with children will be eligible for the dental program when it begins early this year.

The State Health Department will administer the program. Initially, the program will be for children under the age of six years—approximately 100,000 children in Texas. Beginning on July 1, the program will be expanded to cover all welfare children up to age 21—more than 300,000 children.

The program has dual goals. In addition to the dental program, Medicaid Title XIX funds also will be used to provide a medical screening and treatment program. The medical screening services will be highlighted in next week's Accent on Health.

The two segments of the program—medical and dental—will share centralized administrative, data processing and fiscal facilities. However, operation of medical and dental programs will be under separate directors.

The dental program will operate under the Health Department.

ment's Division of Dental Health in Austin. It has been described by the Division staff as "a tremendous challenge and a meaningful opportunity to provide for the needs of many children who have been disadvantaged for so long a time." Limited portions of this target population have received services in programs of local public health dental clinics, and others undoubtedly have been seen by dentists who volunteered their services.

Dentists under the new program are selected on a volunteer basis. Any Texas licensed dentist who wishes to participate may do so by completing a brief application with the Division of Dental Health and filing a fee schedule with his dental association. Once an application is accepted, the dentist's name will be provided to the local and county offices of the Department of Public Welfare. Welfare social service staff workers called caseworkers will determine the eligibility of consumers for services under this program and enter names on a section of a dental invoice.

Once a child is found eligible, a dental appointment can be arranged. In consultation with a caseworker, the family designates its present dentist or chooses a dentist from a list of those participating.

Once the choice is made, the caseworker arranges for an appointment and then follows through so both the consumer and the dental invoice get to the dentist. The voucher serves as a treatment record as well as a payment voucher.

The dentists treat the patients in the same way that he treats his private patients. His services most likely will include an oral examination, diagnosis (including radiographs as needed) and whatever corrective or preventive treatment is indicated up to a specified ceiling amount. Should more extensive treatment be needed beyond this maximum, a toll free call can be made while the patient is in the dental chair for instant authorization to continue.

As the initial treatment is made, the dentist fills in the dental invoice which has sections for oral examination findings, treatment given and recommendations for further treatments on subsequent visits.

The dental invoice is audited in the central control office on its receipt and processed for payment of the normal fee-for-service based on private practice charges.

In five high-consumer population counties, a special pilot project is planned to determine the feasibility and effectiveness of using specially-trained dental Community Services Aides in the program. These aides would assist in the welfare and consumer areas. However, they could go beyond this to provide basic oral health maintenance instructions to families in their homes. Dental advisory and peer review committees will review and monitor the dental program with an eye toward bettering the services to provide the best possible dental care for the less fortunate children of the state.

What gums up our budgets is yearnings outstripping earnings.

The Year That Wasn't

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (CEF)

It's true enough that 1972 wasn't the greatest year of all time. But then look on the bright side. Think of all the rotten things that could have happened but didn't.

The United States didn't resume the bombardment of North Carolina.

President Nixon did not make George Allen his new secretary of Defense.

Nobody made a film musical of "The Pentagon Papers." Not every country in Africa had a revolution, although the names of both of those that didn't do not come immediately to mind.

John Wayne did not run for political office.

Sargent Shriver Jr. did not turn out to have a record of arrests for selling pornographic coloring books to kindergarten and forget to tell George McGovern about it.

Clifford Irving did not write a book telling about how he wrote the book that told about how he faked the other book in the first place.

Despite the wave of stock scandals, influence peddling, antitrust suits, charges of international espionage and paper shredding that afflicted American business, not all U.S. companies were involved. Ajax Shoe Repair on Cedar Lane in Teaneck, N.J., escaped absolutely unscathed.

President Nixon did not make Don Shula his new secretary of Defense.

No grand jury subpoenaed all of Ann Landers' notes and letters from readers.

Even though 18-year-olds were allowed to vote, being older than 30 did not become a felony.

Bobby Fischer and Mark Spitz did not let success go to their heads.

South Vietnam's President Thieu did not order his armed forces to shoot down all American planes carrying U.S. troops out of the country, although this may have been because American advisers have not yet taught the Vietnamese to shoot anti-aircraft guns yet.

"The Dean Martin Show" was not televised daily.

The pandas given to President Nixon by the Chinese did not turn out to be communist spies in inscrutable disguise.

The astronauts of Apollo missions 16 and 17 completed their exploration of the moon without discovering one McDonald's.

George McGovern did not leave his wife to run off with Shirley MacLaine.

President Nixon did not make Woody Hayes his new secretary of Defense. Happy New Year.

H. D. Agent's Column

Although rice is one of America's leading agricultural crops, per capita consumption of rice in the U. S. lags far behind many other nations of the world. Last year, Americans ate about eight pounds of rice per person. This comes to only about a cup of cooked rice per week. In some countries, per capita rice consumption is estimated at a pound of rice per day!

Americans may not be the world's biggest rice eaters, but they still love rice. And the reason they love rice is because it is such a natural mixer. It provides the perfect background for their tasty, colorful foods, while retaining its own subtle flavor and unique texture. All casserole-bound foods—meat fish, poultry, cheese, eggs, and vegetables—receive an appealing boost when combined with tender, fluffy rice.

Try these recipes featuring "plentiful" rice, and you'll understand why rice farmers and rice lovers proclaim "it's an ill wind that blows a lot of good—especially when it comes to rice!"

Happy Homemaking

To stiffen bristles on a broom or scrub brush, dip up and down in a solution of hot water and baking soda.

In icy weather, always carry along a book of matches in your purse. When the lock on the car door freezes, just heat the tip of the door key with a lighted match. It just slips right in the lock when slightly heated.

Before grilling a steak or even a hamburger in the stove broiler, put some water in the drip pan under the broiler rack. Fat drops into the water with no smoke, no sizzling fat, no charred odor, and the drip pan is a cinch to clean.

If matches prove too short to avoid burned fingers when lighting candles on a birthday cake, try lighting a soda straw and using it as a taper to light the candles.

When hanging curtains on a flat rod, it is easier if a table knife is inserted in the end of the rod so the curtain will slide easily over the knife handle.

system so that those who are unlucky enough to be sentenced will have it as good inside as they would find it outside—or better.

Most everyone will agree that the whole system needs a bit of overhauling, but not to the extent that some proposals would go. But it seems that in all this hullabaloo about prison reform and criminal rehabilitation, we have tended to blame society as a whole for everything, that the law-abiding public seems to have been forgotten. The general idea of criminal law and the incarceration of those who deliberately break those laws are tools for the protection of the general public. Were it not for these preventative measures, we'd be living in a jungle. It seems to most people that the first thought should be toward protection for the public, by making things so rough and tough on those who would act outside the law that they would have a second thought before acting.
