Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Quite frequently there appear in the columns of The Enterprise, short articles about students from Winters who are attending various colleges and universities. Primarily, these are announcements that certain individual students have been accorded special recognition for scholastic achievement or leadership, and are included on the honor rolls or "Deans' Lists," or who have been named "Outstanding Students" in the schools they are attending.

As a rule, these articles probably receive only casual notice from average readers. But for the students' families and friends, they are important announcements, and rightly so. Because they are special recognition reports, not only to the families concerned but to the entire community, that these students are progressing more than satisfactorily in their studies.

There is no quick way of determining how many of these articles have been published within the last few years, or even during the last year. We know that in many instances the information is not received for some reason or another. But we venture to say that of all those from Winters who are students or have been students of colleges and universities, the percentage receiving this type of special recognition is more than normally high, and that the percentage of those who perhaps missed the special lists by only a little, is higher still.

To many, perhaps, mention of this is not such a "big deal." But more serious thought on the subject reveals a simple fact of which this entire community should be proud: The large number of Winters' college students receiving special recognition is indicative of their educational background. Were it not for the solid high school training behind them, it is probable that the percentage would be much lower. Moreover, it is doubtful that the percentage of those students from Winters who enter and complete college training would be nearly as high as it is without their elementary and high school backgrounds.

All of which speaks highly of the Winters School system in particular, and the importance of the so-called "smaller" schools in general, against the claims of some that only the multi-thousand-student schools can properly prepare our young people for college and life.

The number of automobile accidents, and the overall cost of those accidents, is reflected in the cost of automobile insurance to individual drivers and owners.

Better drivers, defensive drivers, it is said, can contribute to a lower accident rate, which in turn would mean lower insurance rates.

Local drivers will have an opportunity to realize lower rates on their insurance—and perhaps become better drivers in the process—by completing the Defensive Driving Course to be offered here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Those who take the course—nine hours of classroom instruction—will be eligible for a 10 percent discount in the cost of their automobile insurance, if they are the principal drivers of automobiles owned by their families.

Those who take the Defensive Driving Course undoubtedly will be better drivers for their efforts. Insurance companies deal with experience—what has happened and what is likely to happen—and if they agree that such a driving course will serve to lower the accident rate, and thus the overall cost of insurance.

Dusty Nichols Named To Chair In State Band

Noel E. (Dusty) Nichols, senior member of the Winters High School Blizzards Band, Saturday won a highly-coveted chair in the All-State Band, during tryouts at Austin. He was named to the second chair in the baritone section.

Nichols, and several other Blizzards Band members, qualified for state tryouts by winning chairs in the all-area band in contests at Stephenville in December.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols, and is a member of the National Honor Society in Winters High School. He also is a member of several musical groups in high school.

Nichols will attend a state band workshop at Baylor University, Waco, Sunday, and then will go to San Antonio February 8, 9 and 10, for All-State Band rehearsals. On February 10, the state band will present a grand finale concert at the HemisFair Coliseum in San Antonio.

The All-State Band is divided into two bands, concert and symphonic, for the final concert. There are 225 high school band students in the band, representing all sections of the state.

Being named to the All-State Band for a high school musician is the equivalent of all-state honors in football, track or other activities. Kirke McKenzie, Winters High School Band director, said. Students in the state contests are from all classifications of schools in the state, and those from small schools must compete with musicians from the larger high schools.

McKenzie said this is the first time a member of a band under his direction has advanced to receive the highest high school musical honor in the state, although there have been other Winters students in the past to make the goal.

Several other Winters band members also competed in the contests at Austin Saturday. Trish Hill was named to the seventh chair in the flute section, missing the all-state assignment by only two chairs; there are only five chairs in the flute section of the state band.

Others from Winters who qualified for regional events leading to all-state assignments were Wesley Wharton, bass; Glenn Colburn, trombone; Marvin Clark, baritone; Paul Gerhart, clarinet; and Kay Schwartz, bass clarinet.

General Telephone Begins Program Of Facility Improvement Locally

In keeping with its stated policy of providing equipment and facilities when and where needed, The General Telephone Company of the Southwest has begun construction of facilities to improve service to residents in North Runnels, it was announced this week.

To bring improved long distance service to General Telephone customers in the Winters area, workmen have been on a construction project that includes placing underground cable along U. S. 83 from Ballinger to Winters, according to Jack Goss, San Angelo division manager.

It was expected the underground cable would reach Winters some time this week.

The first of several projects in the quarter million dollar program to improve outside plant facilities in the Winters area during 1973-74, the cable will replace the aerial open wire circuits now in use and provide for future growth Goss said.

Other projects included in the program call for the placement of underground cables from Winters to the Crews, Bradshaw and Wingate areas. These projects will replace aerial wire now providing long distance service to these exchanges. All projects are scheduled to be completed by July, 1973.

"In addition to the outside plant program, we have scheduled central office projects that will improve and expand the switching equipment in Winters," the division manager said. The majority of the equipment will be used to provide more efficient long distance service, he said.

1972 Was Building Boom Year For Winters: $757,125 In Construction

1972 was a construction boom year for Winters, according to figures on building permits issued by the City Secretary's office.

Permits for construction totaling $757,125 were issued during the year, for new housing, additions to established housing and commercial buildings, Buford Baldwin, City Secretary, said.

In addition, there was some construction in the Winters community not counted because it was not inside the city limits, and required no permits.

Farmers and Ranchers Feed About 80 Percent of Nation's Wildlife

America's farmers feed not only cattle, hogs, and poultry, but everything else that flies, swims, runs, or crawls on farm and ranchlands. An estimated 80 percent of the nation's wildlife.

Farmer encouragement of wildlife is on the increase. Working through Districts, such as the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation Service, the Soil Conservation Service assisted farmers, ranchers, and other landowners in improving more than 1-2 million acres of land and water areas for the benefit of wildlife during 1972. Also, more than half a million acres of other rural land was connected from crop or rangeland into wildlife and recreation areas.

Landowners have been helped to improve food, water, and cover for wildlife, thereby increasing wildlife populations even faster than stocking.

Sen. Grant Jones Is Vice-Chairman Of Ag Sub-Group

State Senator Grant Jones of Abilene (District 24) was named Wednesday of last week by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby as vice chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee on Agriculture.

Hobby named chairmen for all nine of the Senate standing committees.

He said he feels the assignments provide equitable representation for all geographical areas of the state.

"These appointments recognize the expertise of individual senators regardless of seniority," Hobby said. "However, the continuity of experience is an obvious asset, which is reflected in my assignments of senior senators."

"With substantive committee appointments, freshmen senators also will have a chance to make real contributions to the many complex problems confronting this 63rd Legislature."

The newly adopted Senate rules call for the nine standing committees while during the last legislative sessions Senate standing committees numbered up to 27.

For Lower Insurance

Driving Course Starts Tuesday

Drivers who complete the three-day Defensive Driving Course which will be held next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, will be eligible for a 10 percent reduction in automobile insurance, Chief of Police Joe Stevens said this week, urging as many as possible to sign up for the course.

Classes will be held in the Winters Community Center beginning at 7 p. m. each evening. The course is being presented by the National Safety Council and the San Angelo Safety Council, and sponsored by the Winters Police Department.

Sponsors asked that all who plan to enroll for the course register with the Police Department by Friday, February 26. A minimum of 25 students is required before the course is given, but there is no maximum number.

Cost for registration for the nine-hour course will be $8 for each driver, which will pay for all materials to be used in the course. Any person with a valid driver's license may take the course.

There will be no examination required at the end of the course, and the San Angelo Safety Council will submit certificates to the Texas Safety Association for validation for the 10 percent reduction in automobile insurance.

Instructors will be Lou Hargrave and Douglas B. Clark of the San Angelo Safety Council.

The National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course credit is applicable to bodily injury, property damage, medical payments and collision coverages where those coverages are afforded, according to information from the Safety Council.

There is no minimum or maximum age for those taking the course. However, where there is more than one driver of one insured automobile, only the principal driver will be allowed the 10 percent discount. If there are two vehicles in the family, both principal operators have to take the course to receive the discount.

The eligibility for the 10 percent discount is good for only three years, after which time the driver must take another driving course to qualify for further reduction, it was stated.

STOCK SPLIT CANDIDATES FOR 1973

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Stock splits may reach a new all-time high this year due largely to the expected continuation of a generally good stock market and to high corporate earnings. Last year a record 760 companies split their stock or paid stock dividends of 100 percent or more—topping the previous high of 698 for 1969. The largest number of splits last year occurred in the first half, and the same will probably be true this year.

WHY THE SPLITS

The primary aim behind a corporate decision to split the stock are to increase the number of shares available and to lower the price of such shares. Most managements like to have their stock actively traded, and in recent years the most popular price level for investor purchase appears to have been between $25 and $50 a share. Purchases can then usually be made in round lots of 100 shares, which is preferred by most traders. So when a stock reaches the $50-$100 area, it is generally regarded as a logical split candidate.

A split, of course, does not have to be on a 2-for-1 basis; it can be any multiple or percentage thereof. Also, there is no assurance that a stock will split when it reaches the $50-$100 range; many issues have sold at or above these levels for years without splitting. By the same token, many stocks have been split under $50 a share.

OTHER FACTORS

Recently there have been other factors influencing stock-split decisions. One has been government limitations on dividend boosts to 4 percent over the average payout in the past three years. This is unrealistically low for many firms. Thus, in order to sweeten the pot for stockholders, many firms have split the stock and then given a small increase in cash payment. A split by itself, of course, does not mean any additional income for the holder.

Another factor which has spurred stock-split activity over the past year or so has been the revised standards for listing on both the Big Board and the American Stock Exchange. For example, to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange a company must have a minimum of one million publicly held shares. On the American Exchange a minimum 400,000 shares is required for listing, and there must be a minimum of 1200 stockholders—up from the previous 900.

Listed below are several companies whose stocks appear to be in a favorable position to split or at least to pay an important stock dividend this year. They are all doing well and are currently near — and in many cases above — their high levels of the past twelve months.

American Home Products, AMP, Inc., Atlantic Richfield, Avon Products, Black & Decker, Burroughs, Chesebrough-Pond's, Digital Equipment, Dow Chemical, Emerson Electric, General Electric, Halliburton, Hewlett-Packard, McDermott (J. Ray), Merck, Morgan (J. P.), Motorola, Philip Morris, Schering-Plough, Searle (G. D.), Sears Roebuck, Signode Corp., Squibb, Standard Oil (Ind.), Upjohn.

GOVERNOR ANNOUNCES PROGRAM

New Gov. Dolph Briscoe swept into office last week laying down a wide-ranging program to the Legislature his second day on the job.

Briscoe emphasized the need for cooperation with legislators and other officials and said he intends to be "the most persistent lobbyist" lawmakers will see this year.

Tone of the Governor's inaugural address and initial legislative message (several supplements are promised to fill in specific details) appeared to impress legislators favorably.

Most criticism centered on Briscoe's get-tough law enforcement program which includes restoring the death penalty for murder of policemen or firemen, legalization of wiretapping as permitted under federal law and admission of oral confessions in criminal trials.

Briscoe's assertion that lowering of first offense marijuana possession penalties to misdemeanor status should await general revision of drug laws also brought some complaints. He planned to present his narcotics law revision to the Legislature this week.

Among the Governor's priority proposals:

Strengthening the lobby registration act and adoption of a new code of ethics, early creation of a constitutional revision commission, penal code revision, law to curb "fences" of stolen property and give the courts power to deny bail to dangerous offenders, requiring convicts to serve more of their sentences before becoming eligible for parole, more emphasis on vocational education and a requirement that spending bills be accompanied with long-range cost estimates.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Hobby named veteran Senators to head Senate committee, but he gave vice-chairmanships to freshmen.

Chairmanship assignments are: Administration, Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon; Economic Development, Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells; Intergovernmental Relations, Sen. Jim Wallace of Houston; Education, Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas; Finance, Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris; Jurisprudence, Sen. Charles Herring of Austin; Human Resources, Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena; State Affairs, Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan; and Natural Resources, Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo.

APPOINTMENTS

Gov. Briscoe named Mark W. White, 33, a Houston lawyer, as his Secretary of State, ending wide speculation.

Just before he left office, former Gov. Preston Smith named the new Texas Offshore Terminal Commission to plan a super-report. Members are Joe Albritton of Houston, chairman; F. L. Dellinger of Sugarland; R. H. Pruette of Baytown; Sherman S. Fricks of Deer Park; George R. Brown of Houston; Pete S. Miller of Galveston; H. H. Reynolds of Beaumont; Cap. William F. Fredeman of Port Arthur and P. Burgess Griesbeck of Austin.

Smith also named V. F. (Doc) Neuhaus of Mission to the North Texas University Board of Regents and Thomas F. Jenkins of Winnie and Dr. Frank L. Jennings (reappointment) to the Gulf Coast Waste Disposal Authority.

WELFARE LAW COST TOLD

New federal legislation may cost Texas another $66 million in fiscal 1975, a special study committee reported.

"Findings indicate consequences for Texas are of far greater magnitude than those which might be supposed from federal estimates thus far," the committee said.

The federal government will pay cost of adult welfare recipients, but relaxed eligibility for medical care more than offsets state savings.

The committee estimated adult caseloads will more than double under the federal program.

NEW PLANTS INCREASE

New plant locations in Texas rose last year to a near record total of 355, Texas Industrial Commission reported.

The total was 56 short of the 1969 record and was the second best in history.

Industrial expansions last year came to 316, up from 255 in 1971, but still short of the 1969 total of 505.

BRAZOS TROUT FISHERY DEPENDS ON FISHERMEN

Austin — Rainbow trout stockings in the Brazos River after the initial Jan. 17 drop will depend on the fishermen.

If there are good catches of the cold-water fish, the Parks and Wildlife Department may consider further drops.

The department will release 4,000 trout below Possum Kingdom Reservoir 25 miles west of Mineral Wells.

Another 2,000 trout will be released in the spring.

"The river below the dam is excellent trout habitat," said department Inland Fisheries Chief Lonnie Peters, "it's just a question of how many fish are caught."

Intensive creel checks will be conducted immediately after the drop and periodic ones thereafter.

"If only a few trout are caught," said Peters, "it would be uneconomical to provide the additional recreation."

Fishermen are reminded that trout must be at least eight inches long and the bag limit is five fish.

The Parks and Wildlife Department hopes to have a large turnout from the Dallas-Fort Worth area. A similar put-and-take fishery on the Guadalupe River near San Antonio has been a success since the first fish were stocked in 1966.

During the first three years of the Guadalupe rainbow study the harvest rate average more than 50 percent of the fish within 90 days of stocking. After three months, the trout became a real challenge to fishermen.

Public access to the Brazos should be good where State Hwy. 16 crosses the river.

PHASANT HUNTERS HAVE LITTLE SUCCESS

Wheeler—The pheasants were there, almost twice as many as last year, but foul weather and heavy ground cover kept them out of game bags.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Biologist Jim Dillard tallied only 2,000 birds during a nine-day Panhandle hunt Dec. 9-17. One out of every three hunters got a pheasant.

Snow, sleet, rain and fog kept farmers from harvesting grain sorghum and afforded pheasant plenty of cover.

Dillard said 63 percent of bagged pheasants were young-of-the-year birds.

Most Wildlife of Texas Survive Cold Spell

Austin—Texas wildlife seemed to fare better than domestic animals during the recent cold wave.

While thousands of Panhandle cattle were dying in the snow and ice, deer, quail and other wildlife appeared to be holding their own.

Some deer in West Texas died from the cold but Parks and Wildlife Department officials call it a "natural" winter die-off and not critical.

The western part of the state has had a heavy population of deer this year.

Food conditions have been declining in the past weeks and many whitetails with ribs showing have been reported.

The weak animals died when the snow covered what forage remained.

Few dead quail have been reported in West Texas.

An import from warmer climate, the nutria, took it on the chin.

Nutria were found dead on the San Saba, Colorado and Llano Rivers and around Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo.

Department information officer W. R. Long of San Angelo says that not enough of the pesky rodents were killed to be significant.

The deer were harder in East Texas and available food prevented any noticeable die-offs.

Food was still adequate to support the area's quail population.

It was a different story for game fish in Galveston Bay.

Large numbers of sand trout near Texas City and speckled trout and a few redfish in Galveston Harbor were reported stunned and floating on the surface.

Parks and Wildlife Department biologists say that these species are very likely to be affected by sudden cold.

Trout and redfish inhabit shallow water and are more vulnerable to cold. The fish crowd into deep holes during cold weather and the resulting oxygen deficiency is also fatal to them.

Biologists have yet to determine the overall extent of the kill and its effect on fishing this spring.

Farther down the coast near Rockport, department information officer L. D. Nuckles reports that only a few silver perch or yellowtails succumbed to the weather.

In the Hill Country, few deer were killed.

Quail and turkey made it through the three days of ice in North Texas with the help of a good broomweed crop.

Exotic game had a rough time, especially the species from India and Africa.

Losses of blackbuck, nilgai and aoudad are reported in Edwards Plateau ranches.

Parks and Wildlife Department biologists are particularly concerned about aoudad losses. The aoudad, or barberry sheep, is from the mountains of North Africa and usually a hardy animal. These are the first reported losses of the African sheep.

The department released 40 aoudad in the Palo Duro Canyon back in 1957. Wildlife biologist Dick DeArment of Wheel-

Carole Baker On Dean's List At ASU

Carole Barrett Baker of Winters was listed on the Angelo State University Dean's Honor Roll for the fall semester. She was included on the 3.00 to 3.45 grade average list.

Bruce Smith On ASU Dean's List

Bruce Ray Smith of Winters, was listed on the Dean's Honor Roll for the fall semester at Angelo State University, on the 3.50 to 4.00 grade average roll. A graduate of Winters High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bob Smith.

HEALTH LETTER

BETTER BREATHING CLUBS

Emphysema is a hard disease to live with. But emphysema clubs can help soften the strain. Emphysema is a chronic lung disease that makes breathing a struggle to survive. Then the walls of the lungs' air sacs stretch and tear, stale air gets trapped inside. People who have emphysema cannot force air out of their lungs. Their lungs get larger and inflated.

With advanced emphysema, even the simplest movements—like tying a shoelace—can be excruciating. As activities are restricted, living a normal life becomes more impossible. And, in addition to physical distress, there are psychological drawbacks. Many emphysema patients give up social activities and become isolated from the world around them.

Emphysema clubs try to change all that. They help provide the enormous comfort of others who know how it is. People with the disease not only find friends but they learn how to live easier with their condition. They find out short cuts to dressing and doing light household chores. They get to know how to clean a nebulizer and do exercises that help breathing. They learn what kinds of medical benefits are available to people with lung disease and what the emotional effects of living with a chronic illness are.

Many local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association across the country are sponsoring emphysema clubs. And they are trying to get the facts to others as well as patients. One of the facts about emphysema is that there is no cure for the disease, only ways to live easier with it. But there is a known cause: years of cigarette smoking.

See your local association for more facts about lung disease, cigarette smoking, and emphysema clubs. It's a matter of life and breath.

er is investigating the Palo Duro herd but the rugged terrain will delay any assessment of cold-weather damage to aoudad.

In South Texas, some nilgai antelope native to India are reported dead.

There are a few reports of dead fallow and axis deer.

Parks and Wildlife Department biologist E. L. Young of Waco speculates that exotic losses on ranches are from malnutrition.

The animals do not know how to forage with ice on vegetation.

Duck Trapping Project Yields Unusual Bird

Waco—Hybrid ducks are rarities in the wild but Parks and Wildlife Department biologists have come up with one of the unusual crosses.

Biologists are currently involved in a winter-long trapping and banding project on Lake Proctor near Comanche.

The department men had banded 382 mallards and the 383rd proved to be the product of a mixed marriage.

The beautifully marked drake was a cross between a mallard and pintail.

Good Politics Make Good Reading

By RALPH NOVAK

WASHINGTON (CEF)

A year's subscription to the Congressional Record costs $45, which is more than you have to pay to get Popular Mechanics, Mad, Seventeen or even Playboy. But it provides enough entertainment to make it worth the price.

The Record is the daily official chronicle of happenings in Congress, providing a valuable resource for students of government, historians and senators who are too busy running for president to keep up with what is going on in Washington.

The most interesting part of the publication, however, is the "extension of remarks" section. This is where members of Congress insert speeches they did not want to bother delivering in person.

They also use this section to make friendly comments about people in their constituencies, reprint newspaper articles they enjoyed reading and otherwise take care of their main business—making a few people happy here and there in order to pick up votes, all at a cost to the taxpayers of about $140 a page, $28,000 an issue and something like $5 million a year.

In a recent copy of the Record, for instance, we find Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, devoting a third of a page to congratulating an Ohio colleague, Clarence Miller, and his Miller Mashers, for winning the Capitol Hill Touch Football championship.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., took up nearly a page in praising Bill Bowerman, who had just been named head coach of the American Olympic track and field team and who, not coincidentally, comes from Oregon.

Rep. Ralph Metcalfe, D-Ill., inserted a page of tribute to John H. Johnson, a Chicagoan who is publisher of Ebony magazine. The tribute included a reprint of a long newspaper article on Johnson, which Metcalfe said "provides a source of inspiration to anyone who reads it."

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., spent a half page informing America that Yaroslav S. Stetko, the former prime minister of the Ukraine, had visited Buffalo; Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., used a half page to say nice things about golfer Lee Trevino; the House minority leader, Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., used 3/4 pages to pass on to posterity his voting record during the 1971 session; Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., took up six pages to give the names of all 5,000 signers of a petition on East Pakistan that had been signed four months before.

All in all, there is enough good reading here to keep you up until all hours. And if you wait long enough and sign a petition or something now and then, chances are that your name, too, will come into print. That, friends, is what is known as the art of politics.

County Agent's Column

Alternatives to Feeding Cottonseed Meal

Livestock feeding is in full swing in the county and producers are faced with paying a high price for a major protein supplement, cottonseed meal. What are the alternatives?

Parker suggests that cattlemen consider whole cottonseed as a substitute along with guar meal, castor meal, alfalfa hay, dehydrated alfalfa pellets and commercial dry supplements.

However, the price of whole cottonseed may increase due to pressure from the high-priced cottonseed meal, which is now more than $150 a ton.

In determining whether to feed whole cottonseed or the 41 percent cottonseed meal, consider the cost of each as well as handling and hauling costs. Feed the whole cottonseed if 100 pounds of it can be fed cheaper than a mixture of 35 pounds of cottonseed meal and 65 pounds of milo.

In feeding whole cottonseed or any of the other alternative protein supplements, the main concern is to provide the minimal amount of protein for livestock, points out the county Extension Agent.

Parker recommends feeding no more than five pounds of whole cottonseed per cow per day, since it contains 22 percent fat which is laxative to cattle. The five pounds is usually more than enough to meet the protein needs of the beef cow.

Since other protein supplements are also high-priced, he suggests combining these supplements with a high quality forage to minimize the amount of supplement needed. Forages can be tested for protein content so that the cattleman can determine the amount of supplement to feed along with the forage to meet the daily protein requirements of his stock.

Beef Carcass Data Service Now Available

Beef cattle producers now have an opportunity to participate in a new service that will enable them to obtain important value determining characteristics of the carcasses their cattle produce, announced Parker. The program is called the Beef Carcass Data Service and is a joint effort of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Parker, the service involves the use of specially designed eartags which the producer applies to those cattle on which he wants to obtain carcass information. When eartagged cattle are slaughtered, a meat inspector will remove the tag and attach it to the carcass. Then the USDA meat grader assigned to the slaughter plant will evaluate and record the quality and yield grade factors. This information will be sent to the Agricultural Marketing Service's Carcass Data Center in Washington, D. C. Once the data is processed and returned to the producer or eartag owner, he will be billed $1.50 per head.

Eartags for the new service, at 50 cents each plus 75 cents for the tool to attach the tag, may be ordered from Dr. Frank Parker points out that the Beef Carcass Data Service will provide producers with the following information: conformation grade, maturity, degree of marbling, quality grade, fat thickness, ribeye area, yield grade, hot carcass weight, and percent of kidney, pelvic and heart fat.

The new service can make a substantial contribution toward improving the genetic potential of breeding stock and improving feeding programs and management practices, believes Parker. The detailed carcass data obtained through this program can provide important guidelines in the production of high quality, meat-type cattle—those that combine thick muscling and a minimum of excess fat.

Your Social Security

Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Elliot L. Richardson, recently announced that the premium for the supplementary medical insurance part of Medicare will be $6.30 a month beginning next July 1, a $5.00 per month increase over the current level.

The supplementary medical insurance program complements the basic hospital insurance part of Medicare by helping to pay physicians' bills and a wide variety of other medical expenses in and out of the hospital. The costs are shared by the participants and the Federal Government.

About 22.5 million persons will be enrolled in the program in the coming fiscal year, including 1.7 million disabled persons under age 65 who are newly covered by recent legislation.

In addition, Medicare protection is extended to people who need certain treatment for chronic kidney disease. This protection is for workers insured under social security, for their wives or husbands and children as well as for people eligible for social security benefits.

The Medicare law requires an annual review of the cost of the supplementary medical insurance program and that the Secretary set a premium rate at a point estimated to be sufficient, together with the Federal contribution, to cover all expenditures that will be incurred during the following premium period.

Most of the anticipated increase in the cost of the program is attributable to continued increase in the use of physicians' services, the trend toward more expensive services, and an increase in the cost and use of hospital outpatient services.

The new premium rate also takes account of legislative changes in the Medicare program enacted in 1972. These include a change from $50 to $60 in the annual deductible and beginning July 1, 1973, coverage of certain chiropractors' services, speech pathologists' services, and the elimination of the home health agency co-payment.

Under a new provision of law there will be no further increase in the supplementary medical insurance premium. Secretary Richardson noted, until July 1, 1975 at the earliest, unless the Congress enacts another general social security benefit increase in 1973.

BROILER-FRYERS

"As American as fried chicken" is a phrase you hear often enough that it's surprising to learn the English started the whole thing. But it's an apt phrase just the same—chickens even beat the Mayflower here, and they quickly became standard livestock for the early settlers of our country.

Our traditional chicken cookery started with the English colonists of Jamestown. Mention of "fried chicken" can be found in writings as early as 1649. Later on, as the Virginia frontier expanded, taverns began to spring up. Most of them listed fried chicken as a specialty.

Maryland colonists refined the recipe to make "Chicken Maryland". An old recipe begins

If you travel much, it is a good idea to stitch or tape (for one-time emergency) a length of matching thread underneath a seam on skirts and dresses. It will be handy for a pulled seam or ripped hem. Many hotels and motels do have sewing kits in their rooms, but the thread is generally black and white.

A lightweight raincoat makes a wonderful garment bag for clothes that are hung in the car while traveling. You can snap the coat right over three garments without crushing them. It is much easier to get the garment you need than fishing it out of a garment bag. Also, if it rains, you are prepared with a raincoat close at hand. The raincoat keeps the garments clean and keeps off the sun's glare.

The vicuna, an animal that lives high in the Andes, has become almost extinct because its fine, soft wool is valued in making expensive coats. A U.S. law prohibits the import of products made from the vicuna and other endangered animals.

Retired workers and their dependents account for about 63 percent of all those receiving payments. The survivors of workers who have died, including children and their widowed mothers, aged widows and widowers, and aged dependent parents, make up close to 1-4 of all those receiving social security payments. Another 11 percent are disabled workers and their dependents.

Although social security is often mistakenly looked upon as a program for the elderly, Mr. Talbot said, over 26 percent of all beneficiaries are under age 60 and 15 percent are under age 22.

At the end of December 1972, 28.4 million men, women, and children were receiving monthly social security benefits, one out of every 8 Americans. Over a million persons were added to the benefit rolls during the course of the year, Mr. Talbot said.

Record Social Security Benefits Paid To Texans During 1972

A record $1,842,901,000 was paid out in social security cash benefits to residents of Texas in calendar year 1972, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager.

The social security checks delivered early in October, he noted, were the first to reflect the 20 percent increase in benefits enacted July 1, 1972. That July legislation also made social security inflation-proof, Mr. Talbot noted. Benefits will increase automatically in future years to keep them up-to-date with increases in the cost of living.

Further improvements in benefit provisions of the law, enacted in the Social Security Amendments of 1972, signed into law by President Nixon on October 30, will bring additional benefits to several million of the 28.4 million men, women, and children now receiving monthly social security checks, Mr. Talbot said. For example, older widows whose benefits on the average have been lower than those of any other beneficiary group, will receive additional increases with the checks they get early in February.

Many other changes will also affect benefit levels on into the future—benefits for men will be computed on the more favorable basis that has been true in the past for women. Higher benefits will be available for persons who work past 65.

A special minimum benefit for the low-paid, but regular worker under social security will assure a benefit of at least $170 a month. Further, people who work while they get social security checks will always be assured that the more they

"Return of Sabata"

"Return of Sabata," is the latest of the lively western adventure films built around the character of Sabata, a free-wheeling American gunslinger. Film audiences first met him in "Sabata," and were re-introduced in "Adios, Sabata." The goodbye was brief, and Sabata has returned to the screen in the person of Lee Van Cleef who also was the title role star of "Sabata." The picture shows Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the State Theatre. It is being released by United Artists, an entertainment service of Trans-America Corporation.

Once again the vivid imagination of Italian movie makers has been applied to a story of the American West in the period just after the Civil War. Director Frank Kramer, also known as Gianfranco Parolini, has teamed with producer Alberto Grimaldi and screenwriter Renato Izzi, the same combination responsible for the previous Sabata films.
