HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Winters Public Schools are always open for visitation during regular school days, and parents and others are invited by the school administration and faculty to visit at any time. Contributive cooperation between the administration, faculty and the public, for the welfare of the entire school, is eagerly solicited and accepted by the professional school personnel. The schools are operated by the public, for the benefit of the public, providing a system of education which attempts to prepare all children of all people to take their rightful places in the community, the state and the nation. The schools do not represent a closed segment of society; in other words, the Winters school is not an island unto itself, but is an open part of the whole community, working in full partnership with the rest of the community for a continuing educational process. The schools believe that parent participation in education maintains highest educational levels and promotes scholastic achievement on the part of students.

Your interest—whether or not you have children—is needed to continue and improve education for those who will lead tomorrow. As a parent, you are the external agent who creates within your child a desire for knowledge. He may go to school, but only your encouragement, enthusiasm and support can spur him to achieve his potential.

In view of this, everyone is being invited to take advantage of the special occasion of Texas Public Schools Week, March 5-9, as an opportunity to visit the schools, view some of the accomplishments of the students.

Blizzardettes Named To Girls' 5-AA All-District Basketball Team

Winters Blizzardettes Landa Walker and Becky Dean headed the all-district list for 5-AA girls' basketball which was selected by the coaches at a meeting last week.

Completing a phenomenal high school career by being named to the all-district team for the third time, Miss Walker is generally recognized as the premier guard in this area. She has been the backbone of a tough Winters defense for the four years she has been eligible and is the top rebounder in the district.

Deer Weigh More In Panhandle

AUSTIN—Preliminary results from a Parks and Wildlife Department study of deer weights and antler development have revealed a very curious thing: the average size of buck whitetails increased the farther away from Central Texas the kill was made.

The department made a study of locker plants across the state during the 1972-73 deer season and collected data from 1,800 deer killed.

The information was placed on a computer, interpolated with a complicated mathematical formula and transferred to a map of Texas.

The pattern looks much like the expanding ripples in a pond after a stone is tossed in. The smallest field-dressed weight was from deer killed in the Edwards Plateau which averaged 70 pounds.

The largest average weight was 1708 pounds for whitetail bucks killed in the Panhandle.

Likewise the largest does were taken in the Panhandle, 71 pounds; but the smallest in the Trans-Pecos, 49 pounds.

Interesting information but how will it be used?

Such qualitative information will be used with quantitative data from ongoing surveys of the number of deer killed and range surveys. The total information will relate to how effective the department's deer management programs are in a particular area.

This year's survey is a pilot program and has no basis of comparison. Next year's data will make it more significant.

If the size of deer killed in the Edwards Plateau increases in the next few years, it may indicate that the department's deer management programs are being effective in the area.

Conversely, if weights stay the same or decline, it may be an indication of poor range and too many deer and perhaps a more liberal harvest should be considered.

Recommendations of the National Water Commission as they relate to agriculture would depopulate rural areas, destroy productive capacity and drive down farm prices, claims Agriculture Commissioner John White.

The Legislature paid special tribute to new World heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman of Houston.

Attorney General Hill has been called on by the Senate to drop appeal of the Texas legislative redistricting case.

TRAFFIC OFFENDER BILL OFFERED

Governor Briscoe in a special message gave his endorsement to legislation to remove habitual traffic offenders from Texas streets and highways.

The bill, backed by the Texas Association of Insurance Agents, provides for revoking drivers' licenses of persons convicted of four specified major driving violations or 12 moving traffic violations in a five-year period. It also provides for felony fine and probation for habitual offenders who drive without licenses.

57 MILLION MORE ASKED FOR WELFARE

The State Board of Public Welfare wants $57 million more in state funds than recommended by the Legislative Budget Board's no-new-tax budget.

Board members said Nixon Administration programs are demanding more state money. They cited amendments transferring to the federal government aged, blind and disabled programs which had been administered by the state.

"The increased cost to Texas to make up for withheld federal funds may be so prohibitive that some programs will be lost entirely and others may be cut back severely," said Welfare Commissioner Raymond Vowell. He cited medical aid, child care and personnel services.

The Board approved a $695 million state spending program for 1974 which would mean an overall budget of about $1 billion. The LBB budget proposal, said Board staff members, would reduce welfare spending overall by $150 million, considering lost U. S. aid.

COMPARATIVE NEGLIGENCE BILL ADVANCES

A bill to permit accident victims to collect damages though they were partly at fault moved through the House of Representatives in spite of warnings it might raise insurance rates.

The legislation, backed by Texas Trial Lawyers Association, would set up a so-called comparative negligence system. Juries would find percentage of fault and award damages in proportion to negligence of the parties to accidents.

Among other measures approved by the House was Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s proposal to require speakership candidates to disclose their campaign financing.

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Briscoe named former Sen. Joe Christ of El Paso to fill vacancy on the State Board of Insurance created by Senate reelection of Ray Kilpatrick who had been appointed by former Gov. Preston Smith.

Brisco also announced these appointments:

Judge Tom Coleman of Houston as chief justice of the First Court of Civil Appeals at Houston; Mrs. Carmen Hicks of Bandera to Bandera County River Authority; William Garland Button and Cam F. Dowell Jr. of Dallas (reappointments) and G. C. Morris of Austin to the East Texas State University board of regents; R. B. McGowan Jr. of Pecos (reappointment) to the Pecos River Compact Commission.

Ms. Cathy Ward of Austin was designated state Republican speaker's bureau director.

NINE HUNDRED WANT TO HELP REWRITE CONSTITUTION

A selection committee to pick a 37-member commission to rewrite the state constitution soon found too many people want to help.

The six top officials on the committee went to work late last week trying to reduce the list of 900 nominees or volunteers for commission membership to 37.

(Ed. Note: The 37-member commission was announced over the weekend.)

Members of the commission must make their recommendations for constitutional reform by November. The legislature will convene as a constitutional convention next January.

SHORT SNORTS

The Senate confirmed Joe D. Carter's reappointment to the Texas Water Rights Commission.

OPEN MEETINGS BILL AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

The open meetings bill encountered a swarm of suggested amendments during a four-hour hearing before the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

School board and university regents representatives proposed changes which Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena accepted, in the main, as "good faith" attempts to make the bill workable.

Some amendments also were proposed by media representatives.

The measure went to subcommittee. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby who attended part of the hearing, said he is hopeful of Senate passage.

NEWSMEN'S PRIVILEGE BILL

Hearings on the "free flow of information" bill, commonly called the newsmen's privilege bill, has been set for March 15 at 2 p. m. in the Lieutenant Governor's committee room.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION?

Treasury Department agents' questions about state government, bank charters and water districts provoked Texas legislators their major topic of conversation last week.

At least four House members and three Senators reported being interviewed by the Treasury sleuths on a variety of topics. Some took the inquiries seriously, while others treated them as a joke or a "fishing expedition."

Regular state investigatory agencies were not taken into the federal investigators' confidence.

"I feel safe in saying we haven't been contacted," said Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Sens. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas and Robert Gammage of Houston were among senators who talked freely of their questioning.

Rep. Lane Denton of Waco said he had also been queried about a number of subjects late in January but declined to provide details.

Mauzy said he had been informed the Treasury Department has a special task force on corruption of public officials. He said an agent identified as R. R. Caldwell told him he was a member of a task force that conducted an investigation of Louisiana state government which resulted in convictions of some officials.

According to Mauzy, the agent spent more time asking him about creation of special water districts in Harris County than anything else. He said he was also questioned as to whether he knew anything about how bank charters were awarded, if he had knowledge of legislators taking bribes, how state colleges acquired land and let contracts and if state purchasing is done on competitive bids.

Some legislators joked that one of the T-men wore a Nixon tie clip and didn't ask any questions about Republicans.

There may have been more kidding if legislators didn't remember another federal agency — the Securities and Exchange Commission — that bared 1969 stock dealings by high state officials which led to conviction of former House Speaker Gus Mutscher for bribery.

Legislators questioned recently were assured they weren't under investigation.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court agreed the family of a pilot killed in a crash at Dallas six years ago should collect damages due to an admittedly-faulty propeller.

A Harris County doctor won reversal of a life sentence for killing his hospital partner in the Court of Criminal Appeals. A controversy over immunity granted a key prosecution witness was cited in the reversal.

The Court of Criminal Appeals refused the appeal of two truckers who sought exemption from a law against carrying explosives. The Harris County men were sentenced to 25 years for possession of a bomb.

Illegal Oystering Nets Big Fines

AUSTIN—Eight oyster boat crews recently had a costly run-in with the law.

Game wardens A. G. Cook of Seabrook, Ralph Bishop of High Island and B. J. Heitman of Port Arthur caught the boats systrering in closed waters in Trinity Bay.

Some waters are closed to systrering by the Texas Health Department because poor water quality may make the oysters unsuitable for human consumption.

The wardens wrote 23 citations. Nine pleaded guilty and paid fines totaling $2,236.50. Fourteen other crew members made bond for a total of $3,500.

Rep. Lynn Nabers On Penal Code Sub-Committee

Representative Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, has been named chairman of a sub-committee faced with the highly important job of holding public hearings on the revision of the Texas Criminal Code.

The appointment was announced Wednesday by Representative Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee. Other members of the key sub-committee are Representatives Terry Doyle, D-Port Arthur, vice chairman; Sarah Weddington, D-Austin; Craig Washington, D-Houston; Felix McDonald, D-Edinburg; Wayland Simmons, D-San Antonio; and Ben Grant, D-Marshall.

The revision is provided in House Bill 514, sponsored by Representative Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville.

Nabers said that the sub-committee would begin conducting its public hearings Monday, Feb. 26, and would continue holding such meetings for the time required to allow every interested witness to testify for or against the proposed Criminal Code revision.

Nabers stated that the passage of this Revision will be the first such revision of the Penal Laws of the State of Texas in over 100 years.

Nabers stated that with this cross-section of support, he felt very optimistic about the passage of H.B. 514.

Texas Gets Federal Fisheries Funds

AUSTIN—Texas came away with one of the largest slices of the Federal Aid to Commercial Fisheries pie.

The Lone Star State, along with Alaska, California, Florida, Louisiana, Massachusetts and Puerto Rico, received the maximum amount of aid, some $228,000.

The Parks and Wildlife Department must obligate the money to specific commercial fisheries projects prior to June 30, 1974, to prevent reversion to the treasury.

As with other federal aid, the State of Texas must first furnish 100 percent of the total funding of a commercial fisheries project. The $228,000 in federal money represents a 75 percent reimbursement.

Accent On Health

By J. V. PEAVY, M. D.
Commissioner of Health

It apparently first began in Rumania in mid-September of 1971 and was soon epidemic in other parts of Eastern Europe, but was first clearly identified as a separate strain of the influenza A virus at the World Influenza Center in London in February, 1972. That is how this new strain of flu virus came to be known as the England, or London, flu.

Since that time, the London flu has spread to far reaches of the world, including the United States and Texas. Although the clinical disease was relatively mild in most countries of occurrence, widespread outbreaks struck Russia, Germany, Australia, Korea, Malaysia and Singapore.

Localized epidemics have struck almost all sections of the United States. In reports to Texas health officials, the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Georgia, indicates that pneumonia and influenza mortality (deaths) reported from 122 U. S. cities is above the epidemic threshold for the third consecutive week. However, the regional area encompassing Texas has shown a decreasing incidence of mortality in this and the Northeastern states but section of the country. Surveillance data suggests that influenza occurrence is decreasing continuing in the Midwest and Far West, and is considerably higher in the Pacific and Middle Atlantic states. At the end of January, 1973, a provisional total of some 12,663 cases of influenza and influenza-like infections had been reported to the State Health Department. This is less than half the number of cases reported at this same time in 1972 during the Hong Kong flu epidemic outbreak in Texas. Because of the difficulty in making exact determinations of the different flu strains, health authorities do not know exactly how many of these cases were London flu.

However, confirmed cases of influenza A strain, thought to be the London virus, have been found in areas scattered all across the State of Texas. Confirmed cases have been reported from Littlefield, Childress, El Paso, Fort Worth, Galveston, Linden, Tyler, Austin, and San Marcos.

Since the statewide surveillance of influenza cases began in 1968, a systematic surveillance of absenteeism reported from industry and the public schools in major population areas has been one of the key indicators of the prevalence of influenza cases in any given area. At the present time, the statewide surveillance on absenteeism indicates no unusual activity. Each week, state health officials check the 12 most populous areas on a routine basis for absenteeism in selected industries, schools, and for cases reported through emergency rooms at certain hospitals.

Above normal absenteeism was reported in schools and industry in Amarillo, Brownsville, and Dallas during the second week of January, but since that time absenteeism has fallen off and is reported as normal across the entire state.

"The severity of influenza in Texas at this time does not appear to be a great problem," said Dr. M. S. Dickerson of the State Health Department. "It is largely determined by the level of a person's immunity. The majority of our population already has some immunity from prior exposure to related influenza viruses."

There has been a steady but not a dramatic increase in flu during the first four weeks of January, 1973, with 4,105 reported cases the first week, 6,576 the second week, 10,110 cases the third week, and 12,663 reported cases the fourth week.

During the past two years, the State Health Department has been working to implement a fairly effective reporting system from across the state, and as a result we now know better than we ever have before in what areas and in what amount flu-like illnesses are occurring in the state," said Dr. Dickerson.

"When the State Health Department knows through its absenteeism indicators and its statewide reporting system that flu is occurring in larger than expected numbers in a given community, then we work with local health officers in the affected area to distribute kits to proper authorities to get specimens from as many locations across the state as we can.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — While we are not yet very far into 1973, it looks as though it would turn out to be the third year of strong production and sales for the auto industry, with a good profit performance as well. The upslant in industry sales was started a couple of years ago by several favorable government actions, and then intensified by rather than receive a lot of specimens from one given area," said Dr. Dickerson. "This allows us to help control the outbreak more effectively."

Influenza derives its importance from the rapidity with which epidemics evolve, the height of the attack rates, and the seriousness of complications — notably bacterial pneumonia. Incubation period is short, usually 24 to 72 hours. The period of communicability is probably limited to three days from the clinical onset of the disease. Influenza is generally a self-limited disease with recovery in two to seven days.

The symptoms of flu include fever, chills, headache, sore throat, and generalized aching. Patients are urged to get plenty of bed rest, drink plenty of fluids, do not come in contact with other persons, and see their physician for treatment.

the economic rebound following the auto strike and the business slump of 1970.

This year the possibility of labor dislocations again looms since contracts are expiring. A prolonged or massive stoppage of operations due to a strike would, of course, have an adverse effect on 1973 results. Apart from this, however, prospects are bright. Sales are extremely high and output appears destined to post a sizable year-to-year increase. Demand is expected to remain heavy, aided by the generally improving business climate. The most recent devaluation of the dollar and the subsequent revaluations of some foreign currencies can be viewed as positive factors for domestic auto makers.

1972 SALES SPARKLED
During calendar 1972 U. S. dealers sold a record-smashing total of 9.3 million domestic-make cars. This volume, in fact, surpassed the previous all-time sales peak of 8.8 million in 1965. 1972's sales, moreover, were further swollen by some imports specifically manufactured for the American market.

As a result of the excellent sales activity of 1972, the industry went into 1973 with one of the lowest inventory positions in several years. Thus the stage had been set for full-scale output in the initial months of the current year. Output for the first quarter, in fact, is expected to mark a 16 percent gain over the year-earlier period.

TACTICS MAY CHANGE

In recent months the industry has had several mini-strikes, i.e., small walkouts of short duration at one plant or at a few plants. This is a different tactic from the historically larger and vaster disputes that could paralyze an entire company. These mini-strikes do, of course, restrain production and hurt earnings. It has been suggested recently that when the main contracts with the United Auto Workers run out next September the union will not resort to a massive strike such as in 1970. Whether this proves true remains to be seen. However, it has been shown by previous experience that a big or protracted strike not only retards the financial progress of a firm but also drains union coffers to the point where sizable borrowings are necessary.

Your Social Security

Beginning in July, 1973, new changes in the law extend Medicare coverage to beneficiaries who have been entitled to disability benefits for at least 25 consecutive months. For those with a shorter period of entitlement as of next July, coverage begins with the 25th month of their entitlement to benefits, explained J. M. Talbot, social security manager.

Enrollment will be automatic and will include both hospital and medical insurance coverage. However, those who do not want the medical insurance, for which a monthly premium will be deducted from their check, may decline it by filling a notice with social security prior to the beginning of coverage, said Mr. Talbot.

Coverage is extended to disabled workers at any age, and to disabled widows, widowers, and mothers at age 50 or over who are entitled to monthly benefits. It is extended to disabled children age 18 and over who became disabled before age 22 and are entitled to benefits.

Coverage is also extended to disabled railroad retirement annuitants.

If the disability ends, Medicare coverage ends the month after the notice of termination of benefits is mailed by social security.

If you are one of the persons over 65 who missed out on your prior enrollment periods for Medicare doctor bill insurance, here is a message for you. Until April 2, you will have another chance to enroll as we are in a new general enrollment period. If you take advantage of this opportunity, your insurance will be effective July 1.

RALPH NOVAK'S NATIONAL SCENE
Don't Take Me Out--
By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (CEF)

Unbeknownst to anybody, even Chris Schenkel, all of the major league baseball players are already in spring training.

This year, though, things are a little different. Instead of working on batting, fielding and pitching, they are working on their picketing and threatening, in preparation for Opening Day of the 1973 players' strike.

"We got a real good chance to go all the way this year," said players' association chief picketer Stan Kowalski as he took a break from doing his daily laps around the electronic calculator. "This is a whole new collective bargaining season and I think we have all the tools to make it to Utopia.

Kowalski says that the club owners are doing a lot of bluffing right now—such as warning that they will replace the whole 1973 schedule with halftime shows left over from the 1972 National Football League season. But Kowalski says the players have countered that argument by saying they can all go into another business, such as fishing or playing mumblety-peg.

"We have our rosters all set—the demand rosters, that is," Kowalski said. "First of all, we think the minimum salary for a big leaguer should be $175,000 a year, since the price of comic books has gone up so much. Second, we want the owners to hire people to do all the trivial work for us—things like running bases, rubbing our hands with dirt and taking showers. And third—and most important—we want them to get rid of all those people in the stands who make a lot of noise while we're working."

Kowalski insists the players are already in shape to hold out "indefinitely or until May 1, whichever comes first."

"We've been working on endurance in our workouts and I've especially concentrated on my hurt-looking expression," he says. "You've got to get that old sympathy."

Kowalski hit .132 last year, driving in one run and grounding into a record 113 double plays in 46 games but he scoffs at a suggestion that he take a pay cut from the reported 46-year, $18 million contract he signed.

"I'm worth every penny of it and more," he says. "After all, ain't nobody in the league gets his cap off faster when they start playing the national anthem."

The owners are rumored to be planning to place an ad in the New York Times asking the fans to buy tickets for games even during the strike to show their support for the free enterprise system. But Kowalski isn't worried.

"We can top that easy," he says. "We're going to get all the players on the Lawrence Welk show to sing our marching song, 'Don't Take Me Out to the Ball Game.'"

Members of the Junior class of Winters High School met with other junior students of Taylor County schools Wednesday at Jim Ned High School, Tuscola, for a "Career Day."

The students were to meet and talk with representatives of colleges and universities, and gain some insight on requirements and offerings of the different schools.

Normally, only senior students are included in these Career Day meetings, but because they are usually held in the spring, school administrators felt the current senior had already made plans for college, whereas juniors needed the information before entering their high school senior year.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham Gardner of Winters, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Paul Dudley of Comanche.

Groomsmen were John Graham Gardner Jr., of Pittsburg, Penn., and Tom Joe Dudley of Comanche.

Mrs. John Graham Gardner Jr., of Pittsburg, Penn., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Ralston Allison of Houston, and Mrs. John Kite of Tucson, Ariz.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a gown of candlelight pure silk organza and appliqued with white imported Swiss Guipure lace. The moulded bodice was fashioned with a wide oval neckline and long tightly-fitted wrist length sleeves. A narrow fold of the organza accented the waistline of the gown. The slim skirt of back-eathered fullness swept to a wide chapel length train. Her veil of Brussels lace mounted over a tiny coil gently framed her face and fell in soft folds below her fingertips.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the Dallas Petroleum Club, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John Graham Gardner. In the house party were Mrs. Jerry Van Loh, Mrs. Walter P. Evans III Mrs. W. Bruce Twombly, Mrs. Bruce W. Coggin, Mrs. William J.

Cafeteria Will Observe National Nutrition Week

National Nutrition Education Week falls on the same date as Texas Public Schools Week, March 5-9, and the Winters School Cafeteria will observe the week by special emphasis on Nutrition Education.

Mrs. J. B. Whitlow, food supervisor in the Winters school cafeteria, attended the executive board meeting of the State School Food Service Association in Fort Worth last week, and said the meeting was focused on the poor nutrition among students today.

Mrs. Whitlow said, "When we think in terms of education, we envision a classroom of students in various stages of the learning process. However, Nutrition Education may not necessarily start nor end in the classroom."

School Food Service personnel should, of course, be well aware of the importance of good nutrition, Mrs. Whitlow said, and no lunchroom worker should have to be encouraged to avail herself of every possible opportunity to learn more about it. Nutrition is her business and unless she knows her business, she can neither be successful nor render accented service.

The Winters School Cafeteria uses as a guideline the "Type A" pattern suggested by the Department of Agriculture, and it isn't always easy to follow this pattern and at the same time meet the rising cost of food, Mrs. Whitlow said. Nevertheless, the child and his needs are kept foremost in the minds of the cafeteria personnel in Winters.

and meet the teachers and administration. Special displays of materials and educational aids, in addition to projects completed by students, will be on view.

This is an opportunity for parents to show their children they are interested in what is being done.

One of the problems which Congress will have to get around to one of these days is to determine what it can do to help establish a national energy policy that encourages vital development of domestic oil and natural gas supplies, seeks ways to utilize our coal deposits, and encourages orderly development of conventional as well as nuclear electric generating stations. It is likely that the problem will be submitted to some sort of study group charged with the responsibility of submitting its evaluation and recommendations.

The problem is that a congressional study can take quite a little time and often leads nowhere. John Quincy Adams participated in a congressional study in 1821 to determine how the United States might convert to the metric system of weights and measures. Although it's been "studied" repeatedly, 152 years later we still haven't gotten around to adopting the metric system. Unless action is a little faster on the energy policy question, we may all be living in some pretty dark and uncomfortable caves.
