HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The high price of meat seems to have everybody in a dither these days, with pronouncements by public officials; packers crying "It ain't our fault!"; attention-hungry politicians, squawking; labor unions squealing; and boycott groups lining up before the meat counters for the benefit of TV cameras.

What it all is boiling down to, really, is that the long finger of blame is being pointed toward the farmer-stockman, implying that it's all his fault—as usual. (If the consuming farmer-stockmen of the country all banded together to boycott products they thought were priced too high, the resulting storm from the politicians, labor unions and the like would raise such a dust the sun would be paled!)

The increase in the price of meat has helped to increase the gross income of farmer-stockmen, to be sure. Price on-the-hoof has shot up—but so have the prices of all things necessary to get a steer or hog to market; and so has the cost of restocking. There have been some, undoubtedly, who have come out way ahead because of the current situation, and some perhaps who have made a current "killing." But for most, there have been some lean years preceding.

We know of no farmer-stockmen who are starving, to be sure. But we know a good many who still owe for last year's crop seed, and who owe for the feed they poured into the livestock they have been selling, and even owe for the stock, and who will have to borrow money to restock.

No other calling does business the way a farmer-stockman does. He is at the mercy of many situations, after he has put in an entire year to get his product ready for market; and much of the work he has done during the year will be for nothing. (If he were paid a high union scale for every hour he works, the price of his product would skyrocket!) He realizes the chances he takes, but accepts it as a way of life—he has no other choice.

What it all boils down to is that everybody else seems to think the farmer-stockman is going to "clean up" in this situation (which as a general rule isn't going to happen), and in the eyes of many, there is something un-American in an affluent farmer-stockman; a "country man" is just not supposed to be on an equal basis with others. So the finger of blame will eventually rest on the farmer-stockman at the bottom.

It's true that down through the ages, the Bible has undergone many re-writings, deletions and additions of chapters and books, all the while retaining the basic meanings for the purposes of religion. The same probably has happened to the Koran, the sacred book of the Moslems, and possibly even the Writings of the Chinese philosopher and teacher, Confucius (K'ung Fu-tse), have been changed over the centuries, to meet the changes of language meanings, and to keep pace with changes in society.

Some even say that William

Junior High Band To To Cisco Music Festival

Approximately 107 Winters Junior High School Band musicians will participate in the annual Cisco Junior College Junior High Music Festival Saturday, along with about 3500 junior high students from many schools in the area. Bands, choirs and orchestras will be included.

The Winters Junior High Band, with 97 musicians on stage, will be in concert and sightreading contests, and 75 members of the band will be entered in solo and ensemble contests. Kirke McKenzie, band director, said.

There will be about 35 bands from Class AA schools, in addition to those of schools of other classification.

The Winters Junior High School Band won a sweepstakes award at the Cisco Festival last year, one of three Class AA schools to do so.

The Cisco Festival is conducted under the same UIL rules and conditions as high school bands, McKenzie said, although the contests are not under official sponsorship of the University Interscholastic League.

Trophies will be presented for Division I winners in sightreading and concert playing, and sweepstakes winners will be awarded special trophies.

Musicians in the solo and ensemble contests will receive medals.

The Cisco Festival runs for three days—Thursday, Friday, and Saturday—and judges will hear a new group every 20 minutes, McKenzie said.

Pianists who will accompany Winters students in solo and ensemble contests will include Becky Dean, Mary Kay Bauer, Kathy Colburn, Mrs. Billy Joe Colburn, Mrs. Tommy Russell, Mrs. Gary Boyer, Teri Stathem, and Mrs. Kirke McKenzie.

City Begins Retirement-Pension Plan, All Employees Are Included

The City of Winters has affiliated with the Texas Municipal Retirement System to provide all employees with a retirement and pension plan, Mayor Wade White announced this week.

The City Council Monday night authorized the mayor to sign contracts and agreements with the Texas System, and the plan will be effective from April 1.

Weekday services will begin at 7:30 p. m., with Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Speakers for the several services will be:

Sunday morning, Kenneth Green; Sunday evening, Tim Donahue.

"Bluegrass" Concert Here Saturday, Sponsored By VICA-DECA Clubs

The Shady Grove Ramblers of Dallas, Bluegrass recording artists, will present a concert here Saturday, April 7, at 7 p. m., in the high school auditorium.

The concert is being sponsored by the VICA-DECA Clubs of the Vocational-Industrial and Distributive Education department in Winters High School.

Advance tickets are $1.25 per

The plan provides that the City and the employee each pay into the retirement fund, at the beginning, five percent of the salary drawn by the employee, for a total of 10 percent. The fund is paid into the Texas System. All employees will be included, with new employees required to work for a period of 90 days before eligibility.

To be eligible for full retirement benefits, an employee must have worked a total of 15 years for the City of Winters, to retire at age 65. Graduated benefits will be paid on a computed basis for retirement at 65, or before, with less than 15 years service.

After one year of payment into the fund, if an employee leaves city employment for any reason, before retirement, he will be entitled to receive all payments he has made to the fund, plus interest. The City's portion paid for such an employee will be retained in the fund, and credited to the City, it was stated. It is possible, it was stated, for the City to build an "equity" in the fund, thus allowing a smaller percentage to be paid for each employee's salary than the initial five percent paid by the City.

Mayor White said the plan is very attractive from the standpoint of benefits for employees. Those employees who continue working for the City for a number of years will realize some big benefits from the plan. Even if an employee does not remain with the City until retirement, the plan is an attractive savings plan, he explained, and no employee will lose any of what he has paid into the fund.

Residents of North Runnels will be in line for some of the 45 million copies of the Society's 1973 leaflet, "Annual Checkup—It's a Lifesaver," as the Crusade gets underway. This pocket-size item includes a handy checklist to remind people of the ingredients of a checkup—and an appointment memo blank to remind people to have that checkup.

That's our plan of action, Mrs. Hodge said, "and the thinking behind it is very clear. Today, without learning one new thing from the research laboratories our physicians have the knowledge that could save 108,000 more cancer patients each year. But, early diagnosis and prompt treatment are the only way to achieve that goal."

Hardin-Simmons "Singing Men" At First Baptist Church April 11th

"The H-SU Singing Men is a group that is designed to go out and acquaint people with H-SU," said Tom Pack, assistant professor in voice at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene—and director of the group.

The Singing Men will appear in a special concert at the Winters First Baptist Church next Wednesday, April 11, at 7:30 p. m.

There will be no charge for the concert, and everyone is invited to attend this special program.

Formed in the fall of 1971, the H-SU Singing Men have sung at the Colorado Baptist Student Convention at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, the Kansas State Baptist Convention in Kansas City, and for the South Dakota Baptist Convention in Rapid City.

In June of 1972 they went on a two-week singing tour in Japan. They sang at the Texas Baptist Convention in Abilene and the New Mexico Baptist Convention in Glorieta in the fall of 1972. They have also performed for a number of local civic groups and churches.

The H-SU Singing Men, who are being used rather extensively in conjunction with H-SU's $5.5-million "Profile For Progress" campaign, have recently had their music recorded.

The new record album which was released February 16 is entitled "Tom Pack and the Hardin-Simmons University Singing Men." This album can be purchased at the Hardin-Simmons Bookstore in Moody Center or by mail by writing Byron Bryant, Hardin-Simmons University.

Cancer Crusade Is Now Underway—To Wipe Out Cancer In Your Lifetime

This April the American Cancer Society's annual educational and fund-raising Crusade is expressed in a great wish—"We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

Behind that wish will be a lot of hard work and the local pilot will be Mrs. Homer Hodge, chairman of the North Runnels ACS Crusade.

The local Crusade began this week with a kick-off meeting for workers, and all residences in the area will be canvassed, in addition to the businesses, it was stated.

"We'll try to make that wish come true in two ways," Mrs. Hodge explained, "first we'll be asking our friends and neighbors and families and absolute strangers to have annual health checkups including important Cancer tests; then, our volunteers will ask people to fight cancer with whatever they can afford, so that the American Cancer Society's vital programs of research, education and service to the cancer patient, can continue and expand."

Residents of North Runnels will be in line for some of the 45 million copies of the Society's 1973 leaflet, "Annual Checkup—It's a Lifesaver," as the Crusade gets underway. This pocket-size item includes a handy checklist to remind people of the ingredients of a checkup—and an appointment memo blank to remind people to have that checkup.

Three Elections Scheduled In Winters Saturday

Elections to name the mayor and two aldermen for Winters, two members to the board of trustees of Winters Independent School District, two members to the board of trustees of Wingate Independent School District, and three members to the board of directors of North Runnels County Hospital District, will be held in Winters and Wingate, Saturday, April 7.

The only contest will be in the Winters city election, with five candidates seeking two seats on the city council. Candidates in the other elections have no opposition, and in one instance, there are no official candidates listed on the ballot. The school district elections, at Winters and at Wingate, will be held in conjunction with the hospital district board election, using the same judges and election clerks. The City of Winters election will be held separately.

Winters City Election

Homer Hodge, candidate for mayor of Winters, has no opposition. The incumbent Mayor, Wade White, announced early he would not be a candidate for return to office.

In the race for city alderman, only one of the five candidates on the ballot is presently a member of the city council. Woodrow Watts, who is completing his first term on the council, seeks return to office.

The other candidates seeking the two seats are Mrs. W. H. Lockhart, Lloyd Gilbert, Salvador Esquivel and Monroe Dodd.

The two candidates in this race receiving the highest number of votes will be elected to the two seats on the council.

The City election will be held in the fire station.

Winters School Election

In the Winters Independent School District election, candidates have no opposition. Billy Joe Colburn is seeking re-election to Place 6 on the board of trustees, and J. P. Dry is a candidate for return to Place 7.

WISD trustees have been elected to specific places during the past few years.

Council Okeys Street Project, Including Paving and Seal-Coating

Winters City Council Monday night approved expenditure of up to $30,000 on a street "rejuvenation" program, with some new paving to be included along with seal-coating some of the presently paved streets.

Some of the new paving will be around the new housing project of the Winters Housing Authority, but there will be some other new paving undertaken, it was understood.

In addition, many of the already-paved streets in the city will be seal-coated, it was stated. Some of the streets scheduled to be repaired will be almost completely reworked, it was said, because of their condition. Others will need only a seal-coat to preserve them.

A hard, cold winter, plus a heavy increase of traffic in some areas, left the city's streets in poor condition, it was pointed out. The new seal-coating and paving program is expected to bring the streets back to normal.

Henry Neuman, paving contractor of Brownwood, has been contracted to do the paving work, and work is expected to begin within the next two weeks.

North Runnels Hospital District

Three incumbent members of the board of directors of North Runnels County Hospital District are up for re-election, with no opposition.

Candidates on the hospital district ballot are John W. Norman, E. F. Albro and George R. Hill.

Election will be held in the Winters Chamber of Commerce and in the Wingate School, along with the school district elections.

Wingate School Election

There will be no names printed on the ballot for the Wingate Independent School District, and write-ins will determine the election.

Members of the Wingate school board of trustees who are completing terms are Suvern O'Dell and Ronnie Poehls.

The election judge and clerks who hold the Wingate school trustee election also will hold the Wingate portion of the North Runnels Hospital District election. Voting will be at the Wingate School.

New Baseball Team Planning Season Schedule

The recently organized Winters Amateur baseball team, affiliated with the National Baseball organization, has scheduled 24 games with other teams in the league, which includes Winters, Carlsbad, Ballinger, Robert Lee and Miles.

The first regularly scheduled game will be Sunday, April 8, at 1 p. m., at Robert Lee.

All home games will be played on the Winters Little League field, instead of divided with Wingate, as previously announced.

The team is for young men from 16 years of age and older, and sponsors are being solicited, according to Lupe Lujano, manager, and Andy Reiss, who will coach the team. The National Baseball Organization, for amateurs, takes up where Little League leaves off, it was stated.

League winner will go to State playoffs, according to team managers.

Cancer Crusade Kick-Off Tea Last Friday

The North Runnels Unit of the American Cancer Society hosted a Cancer Crusade kick-off tea Friday at the Winters City Hall, for 33 people who will be working in the campaign in the area.

Mrs. Earl Roach, unit president, introduced Mrs. Homer Hodge, Crusade chairman, who presented a challenge to each worker present. She urged that every person in the area be contacted during the Crusade, and that each be informed about the symptoms of cancer, the importance of regular check-ups, and that early treatment of cancer is curable.

She said that many people in the Winters area have had cancer and have been cured or helped because of the treatments that are available through research.

Those residents who are not contacted during the Cancer Crusade may contact Mrs. Emma Marks at the Winters Chamber of Commerce office, it was announced. Memorials and special gifts may be given any time.

PLENTIFUL DRIED BEANS
Down through the ages men and women have belittled beans. In Aesop's "The Town Mouse and the Country Mouse," the Greek fabulist wrote, "Better beans and bacon in peace than cakes and ale in fear."

Then, there was the skipper of a U. S. destroyer in World War II. When his unit commander asked how long he could stay at sea with food on hand, he replied, "Have food for six months but last four will be beans and rice."

Chances are, you also have your favorite bean stories. Like the family that buys a new car: "The only way we can afford it is to eat beans for the next year."

Despite the joking, Americans continue to eat, enjoy thrive and "save" on beans.

Figures of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that the average person ate 6.4 pounds of dry beans in 1972. Figuring nine servings per pound, that amounts provides beans for more than one meal a week for every man, woman and child in the country.

Consumption of dried beans has been fairly stable in the last 40 years. In 1929 the per capita average was 7.8 pounds. In 1942 consumption shot up to 11.1. The low point was 5.9 pounds in 1970; 6.0 in 1971. In most other years, per capita consumption has hit a bit higher than the 6.4 pound figure of 1972.

It's no wonder dried beans have maintained their popularity. All of the many kinds of dry beans are substantial foods—protein hearty and good for energy. They contain B vitamins, especially thiamine and riboflavin. Some are a good source of calcium. They are real nuggets of mineral value for the iron they contain.

Dried beans, as peas and lentils, sometimes are considered a building food, an energy food and, to some extent, a protective food. Since fat content is low, they are useful in some special diets. A cupful of cooked dried red beans provides about 230 calories.

Another reason dried beans rate so high with many homemakers is that they team up well with meats and other foods.

THE SHORT AND LONG of it, Kansas City-Omaha's Nate Archibald, left, and Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar confront each other in a meeting of the National Basketball Association's two leading scorers.

When beans are served as a main dish a little meat or cheese usually is added to improve the flavor and nutritive value.

Dried beans also are versatile. Bean soup and baked beans of course, are American traditions. Beans serve equally as well as a main dish vegetable, in casseroles, salads, and chili dishes. And, don't belittle the bean sandwich.

Dried beans are an especially excellent choice for the thrifty family that appreciates economy, delicious eating and good nutrition. That's true now, as it has been down through history. And, they keep so well, it's a wise homemaker who has a substantial stock on hand in the pantry ready to use.

And right now, beans are on the plentiful foods list, so this is an unusually good time to buy, eat, and enjoy and save with dried beans.

How about trying this bean Meal-In-A-Dish:

Broil or fry to half-cooked stage several strips of bacon. Use the fat in preparing the cooked beans. Just before serving, cover the surface of beans in a casserole or heat-proof serving dish with bacon strips. Complete cooking of bacon and beans under broiler.

Or, for a meatless dish, dot surface with small cubes of a favorite cheese that will melt down into the beans. That provides nutritious eating with economy at its best.

IDEAL LAUNDRY

211 SOUTH MAIN

Austin, Tex. —The complex job of rewriting the 97-year-old State Constitution began officially last week with initial work sessions of the new Constitutional Revision Commission.

Commissioners outlined plans for a series of public hearings in 18 areas.

The hearings will be held between now and next fall in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, McAllen, San Angelo, Lubbock, Longview, Wichita Falls, El Paso, Amarillo, Abilene, Midland-Odessa, Laredo, Tyler, Lufkin, Beaumont - Port Arthur, Orange and Austin.

Chairman Robert W. Calvert, former Texas Supreme Court Justice, said the hearings may "determine largely whether people accept the final product."

The 37-member Commission heard advice from a large group of experts, then divided into seven sub-committees to study specific areas of the Constitution which one of the advisors labeled an "appalling" document.

Revision Commissioners received these key bits of advice: "Do the best job they can of streamlining the Constitution, but be prepared for the Legislature to 'water down their recommendations.'"

"Don't try to solve the problems but make clear who solves the problems."

"Sweep out detailed property tax provisions... get rid of the grants and loans prohibition and provide 'home rule' for counties."

The Commission will be backed up by a statewide advisory committee.

Revision drafts must be completed by November. The Legislature will convene January 1 as a constitutional convention.

OPEN MEETINGS

An amended version of legislation to strengthen state laws relating to the business of state government be conducted in public has been finally passed by the Senate.

A much-revised version of the bill to shield newsmen's sources of information meanwhile, advanced to the Senate calendar with Jurisprudence Committee blessing.

The Texas Joint Media Committee representatives and "Common Cause," the people's lobby, termed the open meetings bill as passed by the Senate an improvement over both present law and the Jurisprudence Committee bill.

One controversial section of the latter was amended to allow closed sessions on "negotiated contracts" only for gifts or donations to the government. The bill would allow private sessions of governing bodies to discuss purchase, exchange, lease or value of real estate — but not the sale of property. Also stricken from the committee bill was a provision for closed sessions with attorneys on "possible avoidance of litigation."

Remaining as exemptions from open meetings guarantees are a wide range of discussions of personnel matters including "employment evaluation."

The revised shield bills would allow forced disclosure of information and sources on mandamus by the State Supreme Court which could be sought by any individual to prevent "substantial harm or injury... or substantial injustice."

VEE REVACCINATION URGED

Texas Veterinary Medical Association called for immediate revaccination of all horses for Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE).

The Association said 100 per cent immunity can be established and reservoirs of the disease eliminated. It urged revaccination of all horses vaccinated in 1971; vaccination of all newborns, those six months of age and older and those coming into the state. Length of immunity is uncertain.

COURTS SPEAK

Persons who have sexual relations with wives or husbands of others can be sued for damages, the State Supreme Court held. The High Court turned down an appeal of a Dallas lawyer who lost his license after a jury found he asked a client for $500 more than his legal fee, alleged-

COUNTY AGENT'S
WEEKLY NOTES

GOOD SEEDBED NEEDED FOR PASTURE GRASSES

Forage producers in Runnels County are becoming interested in new grasses, several of which can be established from seed. In each case, good seedbed preparation is essential.

For instance, the techniques for easy establishment of Coastal Bermudagrass do not work when planting seeded grass. Several factors are critical to enhance rapid stands of seeded grasses.

Start with a good seedbed. This means plowing the area several months before grasses are to be planted to permit the soil to settle and become firm.

One or two rains will help settle the soil and dissolve clods and large soil particles.

Many of the new grasses contain 500,000 seed per pound. If planted in a rough seedbed, the small seeds frequently fall between clods and too deep to emerge above the soil.

Plant grass seed no more than one-half inch deep. In fact, planting the seed on top of the soil and using a roller or packer is satisfactory in most cases.

Adjust grass seed planters and drills before planting the pasture. A few minutes devoted to equipment maintenance and adjustment can mean the difference between a uniform stand and unsatisfactory planting.

USE CAUTION WHILE WELDING

Many farmers are busy now repairing machinery and making good use of welding equipment. Careful use of this equipment will make the job safe as well as more pleasant.

Some safety suggestions:
Never use a welder unless it is in a safe operating condition. Check the power supply cord as well as the ground and electrode holder cables for mechanical damage. Be sure the welder is properly fused.

Always stand on dry footing and keep the body insulated from the electrode and work to reduce the possibility of electrical shock.

Always wear a face shield or helmet to protect the face and eyes from welding flash and sparks. Goggles are not recommended.

If extensive welding is to be done provide protection from the heat waves of the welding arc. Burns similar to sunburn can occur from prolonged exposure. However welding burns are usually deeper and more painful, so keep the shirt collar button fastened and wear a long sleeved shirt.

Always work in a well ventilated space as some metals, such as galvanized materials, give off an abundance of fumes and smoke.

Following these precautions will help make your farm machinery repair job more enjoyable.

PLANT TREES SHRUBS NOW

Now is the time to find the best selection of trees or shrubs at garden centers and nurseries. Trees and shrubs are generally sold in three forms: ball or burlapped (B&B), container-grown and bare roots.

For the B & B type, a ball of soil, in proportion to the top growth of the plant, is wrapped in burlap and pinned. In handling, the plant should not be lifted by its stem or trunk. Rough handling can loosen the ball or soil and endanger the plant.

B & B plants are usually larger than container-grown plants of the same price. They are usually field-grown and may be better adjusted to conditions in your landscape.

Container-grown plants are continuing to gain popularity. The most common sizes are one and five gallon containers. Two distinct advantages of plants grown in containers are that there is less shock during transplanting and less chance of damage due to rough handling.

Metal cans are usually cut with special shears by the nurseryman so that the plant can be lifted out of the container with a minimum root disturbance. Some of the new plastic containers are designed to allow the ball of soil to slip out without cutting the sides. Plants should never be planted with the container intact.

Many fruit and nut trees as well as some shrubs and vines are offered for sale with bare roots or with roots packaged in sawdust or similar material. Such plants do best if set out during the dormant periods of late fall and winter.

Regardless of the type of tree or shrub you plant be sure to dig the hole large enough at least 1 1/2 times larger than the diameter of the ball or root spread. Set the plant at the same depth it grew at the nursery and work plenty of humus material into the soil. Tamp the soil and then water thoroughly.

Freeze Branding Requires Skill

Charles Alcorn and Stanley Blackwell, vocational agriculture instructors at Winters High School, submit the following suggestions for freeze branding animals. The information was provided by Elmer Krehbiel, Adult Education Beef Cattle Specialist, headquartered at Texas A&M University.

This method of permanent identification can be used on cattle, horses, swine, dogs and other species of animals which shed and regrow hair, according to Krehbiel. The freeze branding technique (cryogenic) changes the pigment hair cells (Melanocytes) or prevents hair regrowth. Normally, new hair will be white, which will not contain the normal pigment (color). On the other hand, the branding time can be extended, thus preventing new hair growth, which will result in a bare skin brand.

Some of the advantages of this method are that it is considered to be painless, no hide damage, no screwworm infestation and easier to read without clipping the hair later. However, it may take longer than hot branding, the initial cost may be more, and the procedures of application are more exacting.

Important factors that affect the development of legible brands are: (1) stage of hair growth (active growing periods are best); (2) hide texture; (3) temperature of irons; (4) adequate contact time. The branding techniques generally recommended are as follows: (1) use an insulated chest large enough for all irons; fold and insert wire mesh on the bottom to keep the irons suspended in the solution; (2) mix alcohol-type anti-freeze (1 gallon—25 animals) and dry ice (1-2 to 1 pound—animal); (3) place freeze branding irons in the solution; when the vigorous bubbling subsides and the handles frost up above the solution the irons are ready for use; (4) select brand location over a muscled area; (5) clip hair close; (6) wet clipped area with anti-freeze soluat regular temperature; (7) press the cold branding iron firmly against the animal until the branded area is frozen; (8) release the branding iron and press the edge of the branded site with your finger to determine if the entire area is frozen. If not frozen the iron may need to be reapplied in the same location.

The time required for a white hair brand will vary from about 30 seconds on a weanling calf to about 60 seconds on a cow. For a bare skin brand the time should be nearly doubled.

The brands are usually legible from the time of application. It generally requires six to ten weeks for the white hair to appear. A four-inch white hair brand may be legible for a distance of over 100 feet. Many breeders have experienced a 100 percent legible branding job with these procedures.

Cows Go For NK's Trudan 5

Innovative farmer Mike Egan reasoned that if a cow shows a definite preference for a particular browse, it would make good sense to switch to that variety. For his "consumer panel" test, Egan chose a standard sorghum-sudangrass cross which he planted right next to a field of Trudan 5, Northrup King's hybrid sudangrass.

In Egan's words, "There is no comparison. The cows stood between the two and ate the Trudan to the ground. The other grass stood tall, while the cattle went for that fine-stemmed Trudan."

Northrup King says Trudan 5 can be reentered sooner than many hybrids, and is most effectively used when fence lines want for that fine-stemmed Trudan gets ahead of livestock, the extra forage can be harvested for hay. Farmers report good haylage results with Trudan 5, they said.

Herbert Jacob of Route 2, Winters, is the local Northrup King dealer.

BUSINESS and the STOCK MARKET

by BABSON'S REPORTS INC.

DRUG STOCKS STILL POPULAR

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—So far, this has been a poor year for the majority of stocks on the major exchanges. Many of them are priced at their lowest levels in a number of years even though earnings in general are exceptionally good. Price-earnings ratios ranging from 8 to 10—usually symbolizing a bargain—are currently very common.

Throughout the generally unimpressive market however, there has been 1 group that has continued to retain its popularity, that being the drug industry. The stocks of several of the prominent companies in the field have regularly been on the daily list of new highs, and issues of most of the other important drug firms have held up very well. Among the special favorites of late have been American Home Products, Schering-Plough, Eli Lilly, G. D. Searle, Richardson-Merrell, Upjohn Merck, and Johnson & Johnson.

WHAT'S THE REASON

The drug industry has been one of the most popular stock market groups for a long time. Why is this? Because in practically all instances earnings of the outstanding companies have increased year after year, with managements obviously very capable and profit margins maintained at high levels. In other words, prudent investors look for proven winners and they usually find them in the drug industry.

FUTURE BRIGHT

Even though the pharmaceutical field has made great advances in the past, the future still seems to be as bright as ever. Among the many positive factors that should bring additional gains in coming years are strong overseas expansion and growth, higher living standards which result in further spending for medicines, a larger population, new drug products, broader medical insurance coverage, better diversification, and increased emphasis on nutrition and health.

There seems little doubt that the Federal Drug Administration will continue to scrutinize closely the drug industry and its products. And, from time to time, some companies will be forced to reformulate certain of their products or even remove them from the market. However, this has been going on for years without seriously hindering the industry's growth pattern and we do not look for any marked slowdown in the future due to actions of the FDA.

MAINTAIN HOLDINGS

The Research Department of Babson's Reports is optimistic about the future of the drug industry, feeling that all the stocks of the leading firms are attractive holdings for growth-oriented investors. This does not mean that the issues will not decline somewhat during weak markets because they undoubtedly will. Nevertheless, over a fair period of time they should continue to make good progress in spite of the current high P-E ratios at which most of them are selling.

Those investors concerned about generous income, however should avoid the drug group. For the most part the yields on such stocks are very low even though the drug companies frequently make small increases in their payouts. Most of the earnings are generally plowed back into the companies so as to foster further growth.

For those investors wishing to gain representation in this dynamic industry, Babson's Reports currently favors Pfizer, Richardson-Merrell and Morton-Norwich. The last-mentioned does not have as impressive a past record as the other two but it is one of the more reasonably priced stocks in the group and should give a better performance in the future. Both Pfizer and Richardson-Merrell are high class stocks that fully meet the qualifications of good growth issues. Pfizer is especially strong overseas, where it derives nearly one-half of its sales. Diversification is another one of the company's strong points. Richardson-Merrell is also fairly well diversified, and it has plans for expanding further in foreign markets.

Prospects For Cosmetics-Toiletries Firms

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., April, 1973. The American consumers spent approximately $3.9 billion in 1972 to cleanse, oil, cream, perfume, and otherwise "beautify" the human body. This is about 8 per cent more than was spent the previous year and provides evidence of a return to the industry's traditional pattern of growth. Over the long term the cosmetics-toiletries industry has expanded, on average, 8 per cent to 10 per cent annually. This rate was temporarily interrupted in 1970, when a faltering economy and slackened consumer demand held growth for the industry to a subnormal 4 per cent. Now, however, with the economy back on the track, record sales and earnings are the order of the day. With further gains for the economy expected for 1973, cosmetics-toiletries may well set new records again this year.

Optimistic Factors

Many signs point toward continued growth for this field. One of the most important is a favorable demographic trend. The population in this country is expected to rise from the present 210 million to 288 million by the year 2000. Most important is the projection that the 15-44 age group (significant buyers of cosmetics-toiletries) will then represent 44.5 per cent of the populace, up from a recent total of 41.4 per cent. Per capita consumption will rise for another reason. After a family's income reaches $5,000, cosmetics expenditures increase much faster than even drug-medicine outlays. With the average family expected to become increasingly prosperous, there should be a higher percentage of consumer spending on personal-care products.

The greater proportion of working women will also boost demand, since they spend more money on cosmetics than non-working women. A continuing flow of new products should further stimulate buying. Another plus factor is exploitation of foreign markets. Already, markets abroad represent a dominant part of total business for some companies. Certain firms report that their sales and profits grow more rapidly in their overseas markets than they do at home.

Some Problem Areas

Every industry has its difficulties at one time or another, and the toiletries-cosmetics

Sister of Local Resident Died In San Angelo

Mrs. Myrtle Mary Rogers, 76, of San Angelo, died in Rabb's Nursing Home in San Angelo at 2:15 a. m. Thursday, following an illness of several months.

She was a sister of Mrs. L. B. Miller, Sr., of Winters.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Friday in Spill Memorial Chapel, with John Morgan, Church of Christ minister of Ballinger, officiating.

Burial was in Northview Cemetery in Winters. She was born Myrtle Burrows October 30, 1896, in Mills County. She later lived in Refugio County, and then in Sherwood. She later moved to Oklahoma City, and to Winters in 1967. Since late 1971 she had lived in San Angelo.

She was married to L. L. White in 1916 in Mills County. In the early 1970s, she was married to Owen Rogers in San Angelo.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors are three sons, L. D. White of San Angelo, L. L. White of Edmond, Okla., and Harry D. White of Houston; a sister, Mrs. L. B. Miller Sr., of Winters; ten grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Goal Digger Club Meeting Monday

The Goal Digger Club met Monday evening in the home of Sheree Tekell. A sweet sale to be held Saturday was discussed.

Members present were Stephanie Dunnam, Susan Byrns, Keava Harrison, Emily McKnight, Teri Stathem, Sheree Tekell, Robbie Morrison, Gwynne Geistmann, Dana Davis, and sponsors, Christine Bishop and Connie Bahlman.

business is no exception in this regard. Increased regulation is probably the industry's Number One concern at present. While the 92nd Congress left regulation of cosmetics in the hands of the Food and Drug Administration, with no change in existing rules, cosmetics producers are faced with more extensive control of their manufacturing and marketing.

The widening of regulation, however, is not likely to affect significantly the long-term expansion of the industry. In addition to stimulation from the growth factors we have mentioned here, expansion of the industry should continue to be generally helped along by low capital costs and satisfactory labor relations.

Cues For Investors

Quite a number of investment issues of companies in the cosmetics-toiletries field are worth holding at this time. Among the "purer" concerns in this category are Avon Products, Chesebrough-Pond's, Gillette, and Revlon. For a speculative play in this group, the Research Department of Babson's Reports currently recommends purchase of Faberge, Inc. common stock, traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Sales and earnings have rebounded well from the poor showing of 1970 when the financial results were severely affected by phaseout of a distributor marketing system as well as by a considerable slump in the national economy. From a depressed 41 cent a share in 1970, earnings rebounded to $1.14 a share in 1971. An additional gain to $1.30 a share was recorded for the recently ended year of 1972. Prospects for the future are considered satisfactory on the whole, and are likely to be substantially enhanced by a venture into the motion picture industry and the proposed acquisition of Polly Bergen Company.

"One Is a Lonely Number"

Each year, 5,000 American husbands leave 5,000 wives for probably just as many reasons. And while misery may like company, "One Is (still) A Lonely Number."

In this all-too-contemporary drama, a young woman finds herself totally unprepared to survive the shock of a dissolved marriage. She is bright, pretty, educated, but for four years she thought of herself as more of an appendage than a separate person. During her period of crisis, she searches inside and out for the resiliency and the optimism to continue. Confused by the advice of friends and the attitude of strangers, she finds comfort and encouragement from a compassionate old man, a widower who knows loneliness intimately and too long.

Trish Van Devere and Melvyn Douglas star in MGM's "One Is A Lonely Number," filmed entirely on location in San Francisco and environs. The David L. Wolper production also stars Janet Leigh and Monte Markham. Stan Margulies produced and Mel Stuart directed the David Seltzer screenplay based on a New Yorker magazine story by Rebecca Morris. David L. Wolper is executive producer for MGM.

Theft of Credit Cards Is Big Business For Criminals In Texas

(This is one of a series of articles dealing with organized crime in Texas, and concerns credit card theft and mob infiltration into legitimate business.)

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by Atty. Gen. John Hill and Col. Wilson E. Speir, director, Department of Public Safety, compiled the statistics used. The series is part of a public education program developed by the Council, with assistance from law enforcement and judicial bodies.

For quick cash, there's nothing like the great American system of "putting it on plastic."

The "ready credit" way of life has changed family budgets throughout the '50 states. Families of hard-working, honest fathers, and also those of the less-than-honest "god-fathers."

Within recent years organized crime has gained a foothold in the legitimate business world in Texas. Credit card theft, criminal "monopolies," extortion and stock fraud are beginning to get their share of attention from law enforcement officials at all levels.

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council is mapping an all-out campaign on this relatively new organized crime endeavor in the state.

Credit card companies and innocent merchants are feeling the pinch of organized criminal rings as well as individual operators. Illinois recently completed an exhaustive three-year investigation into the criminal field. Estimates there are that illicit credit card practices cost companies in that state more than $20 million during the period under study.

There are no corresponding loss figures for Texas available at this time. But there is no doubt Texas credit card firms are being bled, as newspaper stories verify almost daily. In a North Texas City not long ago police officers seized between 500 to 700 credit cards and identity documents which had been stolen.

Credit card theft is an all too frequent occurrence, as court records throughout the state will show. The underworld price for a credit card ranges from $25 to $100—depending on its origin. Cards stolen from the U. S. Mails and bank cards go for the top price. Stolen cards procured by pickpockets and burglars are in the cheaper price brackets because their loss is more quickly noticed. These cards usually are good for a buying spree lasting from two days to a week. Typically, a thief will either purchase merchandise or sell the card outright.

Organized crime has eagerly reached into this type of professionalism, adding the aspect of collusion as it refines the process.

A credit card obtained through a fraudulent application is considered the "safest" by business crooks. Merchandise obtained with fraudulent credit cards is especially valuable to the thief's "fence."

Sealing and selling a credit card is a common means for a drug addict to obtain funds to support his habit. Fraudulent—and legitimate—credit cards often are used by criminals to do everything from settle a gambling debt to keeping his automobiles running.

Forgetful customers will go off and leave their credit cards at times, opening the door for dishonest employees to haul in the loot. This is especially true at service stations where such items as tires or batteries can be charged without knowledge of the credit card owner and later sold to a "fence" for cash.

Most Texans are credit card holders from one or more major companies. Each of these companies has simple reporting systems for lost or stolen cards. Every card holder should maintain his own file of card numbers separate from the cards themselves so that he will have this information for reporting in case his cards are lost or stolen. Missing cards should be immediately reported to the card issuing company to insure minimum risk to the rightful cardholder.

Four Men From Ft. Worth Charged With Theft Here

An early morning search and chase last Thursday, involving practically every law enforcement body in Runnels County, ended in capture of four Fort Worth men who were charged with breaking into Winters Piggy Wiggly store, and taking about $1500 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes and small radio batteries.

Two of the men, Richard Eugene Finch, 38, and Hollis Mooney, 31, both of Fort Worth, were ordered held without bond. Sam Leonardo Mooney, 41, and Charles Wayne Collins, 40, also of Fort Worth, were released on $10,000 bond set by Ballinger Justice of the Peace Oliver Petty.

Most of the cash was recovered, according to Winters Chief of Police Joe Stevens.

According to police reports, the break-in occurred about 3:15 Thursday morning. The burglars knocked a hole in the concrete tile wall on the northwest side of the Piggy Wiggly building. Knobs had been knocked off two safes in the front of the store. Glass was broken in an east door of the building, apparently broken by the burglars to escape when they realized they had been seen in the building.

An automobile, believed to have been used by the burglars, was found abandoned in Winters, and all law enforcement bodies in the county were alerted. Road blocks were set up throughout the area, and a search was mounted. Warning was broadcast over commercial radio, as police feared the unknown men would attempt to steal another car.

About 6:30 a. m., three of the men were captured about five miles south of Winters, and one man was caught about six miles south of Winters.

State Hatcheries Are Gearing Up For Larger Walleye Production

Austin—Bees are not the only creatures which start buzzing come the spring — Parks and Wildlife Department fish hatchery personnel and inland fisheries biologists are getting ready for one of their busiest times of the year.

Spring is when most native fish such as bass and sunfish begin their spawning activities. Department hatchery personnel hatch, raise and ship out the little fish to both public and private waters.

This spring is shaping up to be more hectic than usual.

Seven of the department's hatcheries are getting ready to produce walleye.

Eagle Mountain, Huntsville, San Angelo Number One, Dundee, Possum Kingdom, Medina and Tyler hatcheries hope to produce 15 million walleye eggs from Texas sources.

Homegrown walleye eggs will come from Lake Meredith in the Panhandle.

Work is also going on to negotiate with several states for fertile "eyed" eggs which are scheduled to arrive in Texas in late April.

Texas will get the eggs in trade for hybrid sunfish, channel catfish and forage fish such as threadfin shad.

Last spring, the department traded sunfish for muskie with Wisconsin.

Prime walleye production hatcheries are San Angelo Number One with a projected 2.9 million fry and Dundee with 2.8 million.

Walleye fry will be stocked in lakes Mt. Pleasant (Bundell) and Conroe. These lakes are new and little competition is expected from other fish.

Fry will also be placed in isolated coves on Fort Phantom Hill Reservoir.

Walleye fingerlings are slated for release in Lakes Canyon, Somerville, Belton, Medina, Garza-Little Elm, Corpus Christi, Diversion, J. B. Thomas, San Angelo, Twin Buttes, and Possum Kingdom in that order for priority.

These 11 reservoirs will be stocked with walleye for three consecutive years with the first fish scheduled for mid-April to mid-May of this year. The exact dates of the first stockings are yet to be determined because this year's severe winter could adversely have affected spawning in Lake Meredith and other parts of the country.

The Parks and Wildlife Department feels that these lakes represent the major ecological areas of the state and will offer some idea of what type of water will best support walleye.

Shakespeare had something to do with writing of the King James Version of the Holy Bible. In a question-answer column in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram recently, this question was posed, and the answer was: "Argument continues. Many biblical scholars say no. But some say yes. They cite the following oddity: Work to prepare the King James Version of the Holy Bible was completed in 1610, the year William Shakespeare was age 46. If you turn to the Book of Psalms in the Old Testament of that Bible, examining the 46th Psalm, you'll find the 46th word from the beginning is Shake and the 46th word from the end is Spear. Is that significant? Who knows?"
