HOME TOWN

Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

George Dolan of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram recently recounted the story of an early-day West Texas preacher who finally persuaded a town's character to walk the sawdust trail. They then adjourned to a nearby waterhole for baptismal services. As the preacher was lowering the convert into the water, his feet slipped on the muddy bottom and they both fell and went out of sight. The convert came to his feet in the shallow water, spluttering, "You're going to drown somebody with this bleepy-bleep foolishness!"

There is no baptism at the First United Methodist Church, for total immersion of persons being baptized. However church discipline calls for immersion for those who desire it. In such instances, baptistries of other churches are "borrowed" for the occasion, foregoing a trip to a nearby creek, lake or tank.

Recently, Bob Sanders, pastor of the First United Methodist, received a request for immersion, and the baptism at the First Baptist Church was borrowed. Even the baptismal robe worn by the preacher was borrowed. Following the services, Bob took the wet robe home with him for drying. But then Harry Grantz, First Baptist pastor, was called on for a baptism later in the day. . . but no robe. Harry finally found an old robe, but some of the buttons were missing. However, with the aid of safety pins and presumably some nails, he managed to close the gap, and proceeded with his baptismal duties without mishap. Now there is talk of a special fund-raising campaign to provide an extra robe to take care of such situations.

Harry also tells about a baptism service in which a youngster was scheduled to be immersed. The young person waded into the water wearing a T-shirt, with this message across the chest: "The devil made me do it!"

The old Bluff Creek farmer says he's taken the cost-of-living increases in stride, knowing full well there was little he could do about the situation. The crushing blow, however, was the news he read the other day that the price of caviar had risen about 20 percent over the past year.

Time was, a few years back, when many people were kept jittery over the possibility of a nuclear attack against the U. S. by a foreign power. International affairs then were classified as "unsettled," and the more the big-wigs talked about the possibility and probable results of such attacks, the more nervous people became.

It reached a point at one time that everybody and his neighbor was thinking in terms of fall-out shelters, how to build them, and what kind of materials to use, etc., and the safety such shelters might provide. A lot of "shelter" building companies sprang up over the country, and a lot of shelters were built and bought.

Then the people seemed to get over their initial nervousness—either because of the turn of international events or from plain boredom—and for several years, there was little heard about the subject.

Recently, however, the subject appears to have come up again, and information pamphlets and news releases have again started coming in from the Office of Civil Defense, U. S. Department of Defense. These pamphlets and bulletins tell you what to do in the event of a nuclear attack—if you are not fortunate enough to have a fall-out shelter built to the specifications.

Seek Legislation Dissolving Office Of Runnels County Auditor

The Runnels County Commissioners' Court is being asked to call on the State Legislature to abolish the office of Runnels County Auditor.

A resolution to that effect was presented to the Commissioners at the regular meeting of that body last week. The matter was tabled until the next regular meeting, which will be June 12.

The resolution was presented to the Commissioners' Court by County Judge Elliott Kemp, who said he was acting on his own behalf and for others, whom he did not name.

If the resolution is adopted by the Commissioners' Court, Judge Kemp said, a bill will be prepared for presentation to the State Legislature at the next regular session, which will be in 1975.

The resolution, as presented to the Commissioners, pointed out that the auditor's office is required by state statute, but is not an elective office nor responsible to the voters. Duties are to audit the various county offices charged with financial responsibility.

PROCLAMATION

Advisors, City Council Discuss Water Tower

An engineer to plan construction of a new water storage tower for Winters, and a financial advisor, met with the Winters City Council Monday night to discuss construction of the tower, and ways and means of financing the project.

The new tower would replace the old tower which was torn down during widening of North Main Street last year.

Billy Jacob of Abilene has been employed by the City as engineer on the project, and has been authorized to core-test the area where the tower will be erected. The new tower would be placed at the same site occupied by the old storage tower, except a few feet east.

George Busher, also of Abilene, has been employed as a financial advisor on the project, and made recommendations regarding financing purchase and construction. He estimated the new tower would cost from $115,000 to $130,000. He suggested two avenues of financing, neither of which would require a bond election: 1. issuance of certificates of obligation by the City of Winters; 2. or a general obligation bond.

Jacob and Busher will meet with the Council in July with complete plans for construction and financing.

Hospital Fund Now $69,617

The special fund to purchase equipment for the new North Runnels Hospital has grown to $69,617.16, according to Ted Meyer, chairman of the equipment fund committee.

SOIL WEEK—Runnels County Judge Elliott Kemp signs a proclamation, calling for observance of the week May 27 to June 3, 1973, as Soil Stewardship Week. They are, left to right, Douglas Cole, Cone Robinson, Jake Presley and Grider Hays.

Next Step In Elm Creek Project "Should Pose No Problems"

There should be no difficulty in clearing the next hurdles in the long efforts to build a flood control system in the Elm Creek Watershed, two officials of the Soil Conservation Service told members of the board of directors of Elm Creek Water Control District and officials of the cities of Winters and Ballinger in a meeting last Thursday.

Mike Woodson, chief of a survey team making a preliminary study of the proposed watershed project, and Si Richmond, SAC conservationist of San Angelo, met with the group. Woodson said that the preliminary study must be completed before the authority to develop a detailed plan could be obtained.

"I don't see any problem meeting several objectives of the project," Woodson told the group. He pointed out another public meeting will have to be held and if the proposal has sufficient public support he felt the Washington administrator of the SCS will grant planning authority.

"You have a real good project under the rules and regulations," Richmond said. "I can see no reason why the administrator won't give you approval. In fact I'll be disappointed if he doesn't."

Woodson said the study which has been in progress for the past few days should be completed in about a week. Then all the information available on the project will be assembled, including the objectives of the flood control plan, and will be sent back to the Elm Creek Water Control District for a public informational meeting.

If public support is again demonstrated, Woodson said, planning authority should be granted by about July 1. "Then we'll be able to start engineering surveys and detailed planning," he said, and predicted it would take about a full year for the plan to be completed.

In the planning stages for several years, the flood control project would include a series of water retention dams on Elm Creek to prevent flooding. Organizations involved in planning the project also hope to construct a multipurpose reservoir—on some site or sites on the Elm Creek Watershed, to serve as a municipal water supply for the cities of Winters and Ballinger. Such a reservoir project also would be sufficient to supply adequate water for the North Runnels Rural Water Supply system, which has been in the planning stage for some months.

W. M. Hays of Winters, chairman of the board of Elm Creek Water Control District, said that the district is primarily concerned with flood control and water and soil conservation in the watershed. Although the district will work toward multiple-purpose structures and will include such in their planning, the cities of Winters and Ballinger will have to carry a big share of the load of planning, and especially in financing.

The meeting last Thursday was required as a part of the report being compiled by the study group from the State Water Conservation Board. Richmond reviewed the objectives of the plan to see if the various sponsoring organizations agreed with them.

The specific objectives listed were: 1. watershed protection and flood control; 2. additional municipal water supply; 3. development of water-based recreational facilities.

Wilmeth Hit By Tornado Tuesday

While storm warnings were being televised for Mitchell County, and other counties to the north and west Tuesday night, tornadic winds and hail hit North Runnels County, which was not mentioned in the TV warnings, causing extensive damage to property and crops.

One home in the Wilmeth Community was completely destroyed by a twister, and other homes and farm buildings damaged. The Albert Plumley home was completely destroyed, with timbers and household goods scattered in a nearby field. A food freezer was found some distance from the demolished house. A few jars of home-canned food were the only items in the house left intact. No injuries were reported, as the family had taken refuge in a storm cellar. The family lost everything they owned, and steps were being taken by the community Wednesday morning to gather some things, including clothing, for them to start over.

The home of Roscoe Morrison in the Wilmeth Community received extensive damage from the twisting winds, and the side of a barn on the Bishop place was blown down. A sheetiron shed on the Albro place was blown away, and had not been found by Wednesday mid-morning. Three tractors on the place

Austin.—The first overall revision of the Texas penal code in more than a century is nearing final passage as the legislature plows through its last full week of regular session duties. House members promptly went to work on the bill after the Senate passed it last week. The revision is the product of a seven-year study ramrodded by the State Bar of Texas. Generally, the code pulls together the thousands of criminal laws scattered through the statute books. It groups felonies and misdemeanors into classes, ranging from most severe to minor offenses and fixes a range of punishment for each. Many separate statutes are consolidated into comprehensive sections, and laws covering a general attempt provision. The new code increases maximum penalties for certain crimes of violence. Murder without malice, for example, could carry a maximum term of 20 years compared to five under present law. Penalties for some other crimes were lowered. Minimum, as well as maximum, punishment is provided in each category of felony. One of the major changes in existing law is the definition of insanity as applied to defense in criminal cases. The new definition terms insanity as a mental disorder or defect that prevents one from conforming his conduct to requirements of the law. The old "M'Naghten rule" terms a person insane who does not know right from wrong or understand the nature and consequences of his acts. Lawmakers went into Friday and Saturday sessions in an effort to reduce the tremendous pile of unfinished legislation. Much of it will remain unacted on.

OPEN RECORDS BILL PASSED The Senate passed its version of open records legislation, returning it (HB 6) to the House for consideration of amendments. The bill would require most records to be available for public inspection and that copies be provided promptly at cost. An amendment would allow agencies to require prepayment for copying records of many pages. Exceptions are provided for private correspondence and communications of elected officials and information related entirely to personnel matters within the agency.

OIL ALLOWABLE RETAINED Texas Railroad Commission for the 15th straight month set the June oil allowable at 100 percent. Commissioners responded to soaring, record demands for crude oil. Purchasers requested 3.8 million barrels a day for June, an increase of 33,931 over May. Exceptions again were made for East Texas field, 86 percent, Kelly-Snyder, 76 per cent and Tom O'Connor, 70 per cent. Several other fields were limited to 80 per cent. EXXON announced plans to increase refining capacity by 350,000 barrels daily, due to additions to its Baytown refinery. A former commissioner, William Murray, said the city of San Antonio may not be able to get through the summer unless it can obtain additional oil for its electrical service.

COURTS SPEAK The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned a murder conviction of a Houston man because it was impossible to prove who actually fired the fatal shot in a motel shootout. The State Supreme Court held a druggist can be liable for refilling a prescription for eye drops that caused cataracts, but the drug company that made the drops cannot be, because directions indicated the medication was for short-term use, not for a year. Atty. Gen. John L. Hill's consumer protection division got permanent injunctions against Austin and Amarillo companies involved in illegal chain-referral sales schemes.

AG OPINIONS Atty. Gen. Hill held constitutional compulsory oil and gas unitization bill (HB 311). Hill also held that a person may be employed both as a University of Texas law professor and a researcher for the State Constitutional Revision Commission. In other recent opinions, Hill held: —A bill requiring the state comptroller to make sales tax reports to cities is constitutional. —A bank applying to be a county fund depository must submit along with its bid a statement of a legal rate of interest for time deposits of all amounts and lengths of time. A bid cannot be corrected later to include the information if it is first omitted. —MIA DAY PROCLAIMED Governor Briscoe has proclaimed June 3, 1973, as "National MIA Day" in Texas, and urges all citizens to rally behind their national leaders in the quest for a full and accurate accounting of all MIAs. He said that "the number of captured Americans recently released by the Communist leaders in Indo-China is only 30 per cent of those who have been listed as Prisoners of War (P. O. W.) or Missing in Action, (MIA), and the other 70 percent, or over 1,300 men, have not been accounted for by the Communists," and, "those who may be still alive endure secret captivity and its degradation and deprivations."

APPOINTMENTS Governor Briscoe named Reagan Houston of San Antonio to the State Highway Commission, succeeding Herbert C. Petry Jr. of Carrizo Springs. Other appointments recently announced by Briscoe include: —Robert Parsley of Houston to the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. —Jackie St. Clair of Victoria as commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. —Alan Erwin of Beaumont as director of the Office of State-Federal Relations in Washington. —Elroy Centeno of San Antonio and Gerald Brown of Austin (re-appointment) to the Texas Industrial Commission. —W. C. Newby of Atlanta as a member of the State Board of Barber Examiners. —Bolin Mahaffey of Corpus Christi as a member of the State Depository Board. —M. R. Sandidge of Tarpley and Daniel Tschirhart of Lakehills (re-appointments) to the Bandera County River Authority board of directors. —Rep. John Poerner of Hondo to the Southern Regional Education Board of Control.

Lag In Development Of Seabed Minerals

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., May 1, 1973. Several years ago it was fondly hoped that when the Vietnam war ended Uncle Sam could be persuaded to turn attention—and MONEY—to the effective development of our natural resources. This was before we were so pressed by the current fear of food shortages resulting from the devastating Mississippi floods, and before today's critical energy shortage had emerged. But even then it was widely recognized that we were neither fully nor sensibly capitalizing on the power resources under the land or the wealth of minerals under the sea.

In the National Interest

In agricultural production we are the envy of the world. Despite our blunders in the field of price supports—blunders which have cost us many billions of dollars these past thirty-five years—we have set scores of world records in agricultural output. In the process, we have also built up a sizable chemical industry turning to profitable use byproducts of farming once considered useless. Yet there is much to be done to make our land more fruitful and our use of agricultural wastes more productive and ecologically sound.

We should think more—and do more—about the mineral store within easy reach along our thousands of miles of coastline. Once we are entirely relieved of the Vietnam onus, we would be wise to enlarge upon the small beginnings so far made in exploring the seabed along our shores and extracting the mineral wealth encrusted there.

Need Is Pressing

In his energy message to Congress, President Nixon went on record in support of government subsidies to encourage more offshore drilling for oil to help ease our growing energy-supply crisis. Many were disappointed that he did not propose a larger role for the federal government in encouraging discovery and extraction of offshore minerals. The need for augmenting our mineral resources is pressing. We are steadily more dependent on foreign sources for the metals and minerals we need to keep us strong industrially and militarily.

Even the small beginnings in oceanographic studies already made suggest that a marine-minerals industry of huge potential could be developed. But exploration is costly and risks are formidable. Government encouragement via tax incentives or other subsidies would be required for us to mount an adequate exploration-development program.

Oceanographic Studies

We have already undertaken a number of studies calculated to help us fathom the secrets of the sea. On both the mainland coasts and in Hawaiian waters local capital has financed construction and use of deep-water submergence vessels for observation of the ocean floor. One such vessel was built for use of the Swiss oceanographer, Dr. Jacques Piccard, for his observation journeys beneath the Gulf Stream from Miami north to Nova Scotia.

On the West Coast somewhat comparable explorations have been carried out with the help of technologists from the U. S. Bureau of Mines and experts from the office of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Breakthrough Not Imminent

We need, however, to learn much more about the character and extent of the mineral cache beneath the sea, and how best to extract it. As things stand now, it is too costly to dredge up minerals from the seabed transport them to refineries and markets. To make this economically feasible, we will have to develop more know-how and more sophisticated machines and tools. Venture capital for this type of undertaking—which at best will not pay quick or big dividends—is hard to come by. Without more government help—and on a massive scale—the breakthrough we seek will hardly come till toward the end of this century. Only a huge NASA-type Washington involvement could possibly ensure any great strides within the next ten to fifteen years.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., who has been stung with attorney general's opinions holding several of his reform measures unconstitutional, asked Attorney General Hill for an opinion on the Senate changes in HB 1, a cornerstone of his government cleanup package.

Pecan Trees Should Be Sprayed To Kill Nutcase Bearer, Rosette

What could be an epidemic of nutcase bearers in pecan trees in this area can be forestalled by proper application of insecticides at the right time, County Agriculture Agent C. T. Parker warned this week.

Also, the County Agent said, pecan tree owners should spray to kill or prevent rosette disease, which afflicts many trees locally.

Parker said the proper time for spraying for the nutcase bearer will be for about 10 days, beginning May 26, to kill the pest. Spraying should be repeated in about two weeks to more effectively do the job, he said.

Spraying for rosette can be accomplished at the same time, he said. Even if tree owners do not spray for nutcase bearer, it would be a good idea for them to spray for rosette, because of the prevalence of the disease.

Parker recommends consult professional sprayers, if that is possible. For those who do their own spraying, he suggests the following formula for nutcase bearer:

80 percent Sevin dust, 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water; or 25 percent malathion, 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water. About 10 to 15 gallons to average pecan tree.

Spraying to prevent rosette disease, owners are advised to use 3 pounds of zinc sulphate to 100 gallons of water. This can be combined with the nutcase bearer spray to make one application.

Spray application should be repeated in about two weeks, Parker said.

Parker indicated that the pecan crop in this area would be about average, or maybe more, if tree owners will take necessary precautions to kill or prevent disease and insects. He also said tree owners have probably the rest of this month to apply poison to prevent honeydew drip from pecan trees. They should check with sprayers or carefully read instructions on packages of insecticides used, he said.

Little League Auxiliary Plans Year's Activities

The Winters Little League Auxiliary met in the City Hall Monday night, elected officers for the coming year, and planned fund-raising projects for the season.

Mrs. Lynn Billups was elected president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. Bobby Rogers re-elected secretary. Mrs. Jerry B. Whitlow was re-elected treasurer.

Various committees were named and projects were discussed. It was decided to have a Little League mothers' baseball game June 9, with the "Revived" Crazy Legs meeting the "Refreshed" Big Mamas.

Funds raised from special projects sponsored by the Little League Auxiliary will be used to purchase uniforms and other equipment for the boys' baseball league. It was pointed out that with the addition of two more teams this year, there was a big need for uniforms. Two of the teams have no uniforms at this time.

Capitol Report

BY REP. LYNN NABERS

The House of Representatives recently passed HJR 15, by Gene Jones, which proposes a Constitutional Amendment allowing for annual sessions of the Legislature and calling for a salary, of $15,000 a year for all legislators. Judging by the response to the referendum last November, it is doubtful that the voters in the state will support such a pay raise now. The last suggested pay increase was $8,400, and it is inconceivable that the voters would accept one of $15,000.

Also approved by the House was HB 946, by Representatives Hale and Kubiak, dealing with school financing. The bill proposes to set up a system of discovering the wealth of a district by six factors common to all districts. It is estimated that this plan will cost one billion, eight hundred million dollars in the next six years. In order to obtain this amount, the increase in taxes will be phenomenal. It is hoped that some alternate plan can be worked out which will be more reasonable. The bill is now in the Senate for consideration. Debate on the School Finance bill was cut off and many amendments on the Speaker's desk were never considered. It would seem that all debate should be heard when such a major issue is being considered. It was my hope that on this important piece of legislation, all ideas could be presented before the House for debate.

The 18-year-old rights bill was passed, but after much debate, the rights to purchase alcohol and obtain abortions were removed. However, the Conference Committee report put back the right to purchase alcohol, and the House and Senate will now vote on this issue again without the opportunity to amend.

Two Senate bills by Creighton have passed both houses and are now on the Governor's desk for signing. These bills would allow the voters of Comanche County to decide if they want to create hospital districts in precinct 4, and in precincts 1, 2, and 3.

cations they suggest. Also, steps are again being taken to organize Civil Defense units in counties and cities—a part of the effort which has never been too successful in some sections of the country.

Why this present "warning" period has come to the fore again is a mystery to many—except that perhaps there were some people on the payroll who needed something to do—or how long it will last this time, or how seriously it will be taken by the people—remains to be seen. Probably depends on how much publicity the subject is given for a while—how much the Civil Defensocrats push it.

dissolving the office of Runnels County Auditor."

The audit by an outside auditing firm was called for by the Commissioners in March, following disclosure of alleged discrepancies in the records of the Runnels County Tax Collector.
