Mrs. H. Stevens Died Wednesday In Sweetwater

Mrs. Henry Stevens, 85, long-time resident of the Hylton community, died at 7:45 a. m. Wednesday of last week at the Leisure Lodge in Sweetwater, where she had been living since November, 1970.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Thursday in Spill Memorial Chapel, with Hollis Swoford of Abilene officiating.

Burial was in the Hylton Cemetery.

Mrs. Stevens was born Ova Sliger, at Cookeville, Tenn., Oct. 28, 1887, daughter of Solomon and Catherine Mansell Sliger. As a small child she came to Texas with her parents, settling in Bell County. A year later they moved to West Taylor County, and then moved to the Hylton Community in Nolan County, where she had lived for nearly 75 years.

She married Henry Stevens, Aug. 11, 1908, at Eskota near Sweetwater. Mr. Stevens died May 8, 1963.

She was a member of the Wingate Church of Christ.

Survivors are several nieces and nephews and great-nieces and great-nephews.

Pallbearers were R. C. Watts Jr., John Bird, Less Sissom, Levi Robertson, Clarence Morris and Ed Kinard.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank my friends, neighbors and relatives for the visits, cards and flowers, during my stay in the Abilene hospital. I appreciate all the kindness and thoughtfulness shown me.

HEALTH LETTER
KIDS AND SMOKING PARENTS

Children want their parents to kick the cigarette habit. Now, a University of Louisville study of 2,000 children showed an astounding finding. Of those aged 7 to 12, some 72 percent said they would love their parents more if they stopped smoking.

That almost sounds like withholding love, a discredited parental tactic. Or a promise of extra love if the parents do what the kids want. Actually, the statement should probably read that children would really love it if their parents quit smoking. Kids are hurt—and puzzled—when their parents persist in doing something they know is bad for them. Children want their parents alive and well.

A word about the kids themselves. They have to breathe in the smoke from their parents' cigarettes. And new research suggests there is even more tar and nicotine in the smoke that drifts off the burning end of the cigarette than in the drag the smoker takes. There are also high levels of other damaging substances, like cadmium and carbon monoxide. If parents smoke, they inhale on each cigarette for about 24 seconds. The total burning time, in which toxic chemicals are released into the air, is 12 minutes. The pollution lingers for hours.

Parents who smoke at home can aggravate symptoms in some asthmatic children and even trigger asthma attacks. Researchers at the Mayo Clinic estimate there are 1.5 million Americans, children as well as adults, who are sensitive to tobacco smoke and can suffer

Proper Irrigation Important in Lawn Management

In most cases in Texas, lawns must have supplemental irrigation if they are to appear at their best. Unless that moisture is added correctly and in proper amounts, one can't expect to have the quality usually desired in a good lawn.

As with most things, proper watering is based on certain rules:

1. Water grass only when it needs water.
2. Wet the soil to about a 8-12 inch depth.
3. Don't sprinkle the lawn lightly every day just to cool things off. This practice results in a shallow root system.

The Soil

The type soil on which your grass is growing will determine how much watering is needed to obtain a moisture penetration of 12 inches. For example, a sandy soil holds 3/4 to 1 1/4 inches of water in the top foot of depth. Thus, large-grain soils (such as sand) must be irrigated more often than small-grain (clay) soils.

Depth of Roots

The depth roots grow depends on the moisture level in the soil. Grass with a normal root system gets water from the top 12 inches of soil and uses it at the rate of about two inches per week in the summer. Grass that is watered shallowly, but frequently, will not have a deep root system and will use water only from the top 2-3 inches of the soil. The remaining 9-10 inches of soil moisture is lost to the grass and wasted. However, lawns that are watered deeply but less frequently will develop

Ernest J. Adami Died Friday In Angelo Hospital

Ernest J. Adami, 83, former co-owner of Spill Bros. Co. and Spill Funeral Home, died Friday night in St. John Hospital in San Angelo where he had been a patient three days.

Services were held at 10:30 a. m. Monday at Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Winters, with the Rev. Patrick Ryan officiating.

Burial was in Lakeview Cemetery under direction of Spill Funeral Home.

Mr. Adami was born Dec. 9, 1889, in Brooklyn, N. Y. He moved to DeWitt County when he was eight years old, and in 1904 the family moved to Runnels County, settling on a farm east of Winters.

He served in the U. S. Army during World War I, a member of the 141st Band Squadron. He married Emma Olga Spill, Dec. 9, 1919, in Ballinger. She died May 8, 1973.

He worked for Spill Brothers Company after his discharge from the army, and later became a partner in the Spill Funeral Home. He recently sold his ownership to his son. He retired from active business in 1958.

Mr. Adami was a member of the Catholic Church, the V. F. W., and the American Legion.

Survivors are a son, Dr. Gilbert Adami of Denton; a brother, Oscar of Amarillo; two grandsons and a granddaughter. Pallbearers were George Pruser, Sr., George Pruser, Jr., Bob Pruser, August Stoeker, John J. Swatshue, Ernest Thormeyer, Joe Kozelsky, and George F. Lloyd.

WHS Band Records Are Available

The records made of performances by the Winters High School Blizzard Band have been received, Kirke McKenzie, band director, has announced.

Those persons who ordered records may pick them up at the Winters Municipal Swimming Pool from 1 to 6 p. m. daily, McKenzie said.

the water supply to a 12 inch depth takes:

- Sands—1 to 2 hours.
 - Clays—2 to 3 hours.
 - Loams—4 to 5 hours.
- These figures are based on a sprinkler that put out about one-third inches per hour.

Birthday Party For Tina Renee Martinez

A birthday party was held June 16 to honor Trina Renee Martinez daughter of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Ricardo Martinez of 402 Arnold Blvd., Abilene. The party celebrating her second birthday was held at her uncle's home, Juan Ibarra, in Wingate.

The birthday cake was decorated in the theme of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. This, together with candy, and grape punch, were served to the following children: Gabriel Ibarra, Rose Marie, Dianna, Vicky and Suzy Rodriguez; Yolanda Rubio, Steven Soto, Joe Valverde, Sylvia, Filiberto, and Dobbie Reyes. Others were Danny, Sylvia, and Sammy Ibarra, Enrique Garcia, Johnny Peyton, David Reyes, and Gracie Rodriguez. Cake was also served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Valverde, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rodriguez, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Ibarra and to Trina's grandmother, Maria Ibarra of Winters.

The party was ended with the breaking of a pinata, made in a "burro fashion." Candy and treats were passed out to the above mentioned. The pinata is a traditional Mexican custom in celebrating children's birthdays.

The Offshore Industry
Wellesley Hills, Mass., June, 1973. Offshore activity maintained a fast pace last year as the search for gas and oil grew more intense. Many areas throughout the free world are already producing, being explored, or awaiting exploration. As was expected, most companies within the industry registered good gains last year in both revenues and earnings. Furthermore, with demand expected to remain strong, utilization rates should hold at a high level and most firms are likely to chalk up further good advances in 1973 despite rising costs. The President's energy message to Congress earlier this year contained some good news for the offshore industry. Of primary significance was the proposal to speed up offshore lease sales. The Interior Department, in fact, plans to triple the amount of oil leasing along the outer continental shelf starting next year. Another favorable aspect of the message was the suggestion that an additional tax subsidy be granted in the form of a tax credit for outlays involved in extending exploration.

Three Important Considerations
One thing that has worried investors is the possibility that Congress may pass legislation eliminating or drastically reducing the tax advantage on foreign earnings that are not brought back to this country. The tax deferral on such income is important to many companies in the offshore industry, and with foreign operations expected to continue growing at a rapid clip removal of this tax advantage would have a substantial impact on both current and future results.

Another consideration is the investment tax credit. In an effort to slow the economy to a more sustainable rate of growth, it is possible the Administration may reduce that credit. Since the offshore industry is spending a considerable sum on expanding its equipment, any reduction in the investment tax credit would have an impact on reported earnings for many companies involved.

As a matter of fact, this large expansion program in itself has raised the question of possible future overcapacity when all the new equipment comes on stream. Hence, while the near-term outlook indicates a high utilization rate, there is some doubt about the longer-term supply-demand equation.

Tax Questions
While these concerns must be rated as future possibilities, they do not yet fall into the category of probabilities. It is, of course, difficult to determine what changes will occur in our current tax laws. Though President Nixon has reportedly rejected any sweeping revision of taxes on profits earned abroad by U. S. companies, his influence with Congress has doubtless been weakened by the Watergate scandal. So a change in this tax law must be considered a possibility. As for the investment tax credit, there has been recent speculation that a variable rate may be adopted. Because of the energy crisis, however, the offshore industry may get special consideration.

In summary, we feel that although the industry will do well for 1973 as a whole, there are some possible clouds on the horizon. In view of this fact and the present uncertain market atmosphere, we are recommending only the Offshore Company common stock as a buy.

Dale Sewing Club Meeting Tuesday
Dale Sewing Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jack Whittenberg. Quilt blocks were pieced. Present were Mesdames Raymond Knight, Quincy Traylor, Herbert Jacob, Ralph McWilliams, Clifton Davis, I. W. Rogers, Jack Whittenberg, Bill Mayo, Clifford Lehman, Ernest Thormeyer and Carl Baldwin. The next meeting will be Friday, June 29, in the home of Mrs. Clarence Hambricht.

IN APPRECIATION
We want to say thank you to each and everyone who helped us in any way in the recent loss of our home. A very special thanks goes to the Winters Police the Fire Department and the Young Men's Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church and to the many people who opened their homes to us. We will never be able to express the appreciation we feel for everything that has been done for us. —The Decks: Zeb, Pat, Tonya and Tony.
