HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Saturday, November 10, will be "Blizzard Band Day" in Winters—so proclaimed by Mayor Homer Hodge.

This special recognition of the Winters High School Band, and the things they have accomplished, and hope to accomplish during the next few months, is only a small example of the pride the people of the Winters School District have in their high school band. And they have a right to be proud of the band, because no other group has brought so much favorable recognition to the Winters area.

The band is known throughout the state as one of the best high school bands—regardless of classification—not only because of their musical and marching skills, but because of the character of the band members themselves. They leave a favorable impression wherever they go, and there is never a report of displeasure at their conduct from the places they have visited as a group. Rather, there have been many voiced and written congratulations to the band members, and the community as a whole, because of their conduct as ladies and gentlemen when away from home. This speaks well for the band program.

Saturday, the band goes to Brady to take part in the UIL marching contests, along with about thirteen other Class AA bands from this section of the state. This is the first step in the three-part trials for the sweepstakes band honor. Sight reading and concert performances will be judged next spring.

For many weeks now, the Blizzard Band has been in intensive training, developing and polishing intricate field maneuvers they will perform in Saturday's contest in Brady. It has been hard work for the entire band, and individuals have had to put in many long hours getting ready for the big event. They are not forced to do it; it has been inconvenient, we're sure, for many of them many times, to spend long evening hours on the practice field. They do it because they enjoy it, and because they want the band to win top honors. Saturday, they will not be competing with other Class AA bands, in the sense that one will be the winner of the event, and the others will take lower places. They will be competing against standards of performance, which is quite a different matter. These standards have been set high, mainly for the purpose of instilling in each band member and each band group a desire to be more than average; to go the limit; to do their very best.

The Blizzard Band has the backing of local people; this has been demonstrated in countless ways. Many will wish them luck when they leave for Brady Saturday afternoon; and there will be some who will watch them practice Saturday morning, and will be on hand to see them board the buses, and give them last-minute words of encouragement. But the best demonstration of backing and confidence would be an audience from Winters, on the sidelines during the band's performance in Brady Saturday afternoon.

So, if it is at all possible for you to get away Saturday afternoon, to follow the band to Brady for the contests and give them on-the-scene encouragement, they would appreciate it.

Our Bluff Creek friend asks, "Why is it that when we are against something, we are most often willing to fight? But when we are for something, we are not willing to stand up and be counted."

Blizzard Band To Brady For UIL Marching Contest

The 130-member Winters High School Blizzard Band, under the direction of Kirke McKenzie, will go to Brady Saturday for the first step in the three-part contest for a sweepstakes award. Bands will be judged on marching at Brady Saturday.

The other two steps of the sweepstakes competition will be in concert and sight reading, to be held in the spring.

The Blizzard Band will march at 5:24 Saturday afternoon in Brady. They will practice maneuvers on Blizzard field at 10:30 Saturday morning, and leave for Brady at 2:30. Parents and Band Boosters are invited to attend the practice session.

There will be 15 Class AA bands marching in the Brady contests. Bands do not compete against each other, but are judged individually on their performance, in trying for First Division ratings.

The contest will be held at Bulldog Stadium in Brady. The Blizzard Band will be the last Class AA band to march. The twirlers with the band will perform in contests.

Judges for the marching contests will be Larry Sparks of Denver City; Don Hanno of Fort Stockton; and Wes Hays Jr. of Holiday. Judges for the twirling contests will be Mrs. Kathy Parsley of Jacksonville, and Larry Raback of Grand Prairie.

Class AA bands in the Region VII UIL band contests will be Eastland, Comanche, San Saba, Clyde, Hamilton, Coleman, Balingier, Granbury, Cisco, Ozona, Breckenridge, Llano, Brady and Winters.

In addition to the 14 Class AA bands, there will be three Class AAA bands, 15 Class A bands, two Class B bands, and one Class CCC band. It is expected there will be well over 4,000 band students in Brady for the contests this weekend.

Two Members Of First Football Team To Be Recognized Friday

The football program in Winters High School got off to a staggering start 50 years ago, and two Winters residents who were on the first team roster remember taking their lumps in the first game they had ever seen—the first game they played in. In fact, one of those two remaining members was the first football "casualty" for Winters High School.

Gattis Neely and Rankin Pace who were members of the first football team in Winters High School, will be recognized during halftime activities at the Winters-Anson game Friday night.

Neely, who retired some time ago as vice president of the Winters State Bank, played right tackle on that first football team. Pace, who retired a few years ago as Winters postmaster, played guard and tackle on that team.

Pace and Neely, who were seniors at the time, recall that there were only 13 football uniforms available in Winters High School that first football fall. Also, the boys who went out for the team had to provide their own shoes. Pace and Neely had brogans, though, and took them down to Frank Pumphrey's Shoe Shop where cleats were made to the soles. They wore leather helmets in those days, when they took the trouble to wear headgear. Many times, players went bareheaded.

High school football, in those days, had not developed into the fine art it is today, according to Neely and Pace. Only one or two members of that first Winters team had ever seen a football game. So their performance was something to see, to say the least, according to them. In one game, after the opposing team had made one of the several touchdowns they were to make that afternoon, and had lined up for the try to kick the conversion, the Winters team was told to "block that kick!" Playing in the line, Neely knew he had to go through the opposing line and try to stop that ball as it came off the toe of the kicker. He went through, all right, but hadn't realized he was supposed to throw up his hands to knock the ball down... and the ball hit him squarely on the head—the leather helmet afforded little protection. He says he blocked the kick, all right, but he was a bit added as he lined up with the rest of the team to receive the upcoming kickoff... but he had learned a bit more about football that afternoon.

Pace was the first football casualty for Winters High School. But he didn't get his injury in a game; he had an arm broken during a practice session.

Players had to provide their own transportation most of the time when they played out of town. They also met opposing teams twice in the same season—the districts were not aligned and organized as they are today.

There were few regular football fields available in the early days, they said, and any likely level spot which was big enough was easily converted into a football field. Also, there were no bleachers—the fans stood along the sidelines. The first Winters football field was located in the area on the school grounds where the old gymnasium now stands, and was only a flat cache-covered open ground, "with plenty of rocks," Pace said. The field was situated east and west.

Neely recalls that the first football game played by Winters was against Merkel. The Winters boys had had only two afternoons of practice when they started that game—the first they had ever seen or played in—and Merkel won the contest 59-0. The Winters boys then went to Merkel for a game, and played on a muddy cotton yard field. Merkel won again, 42-0.

The first touchdown made by a Winters team was in a game with Ballinger, Nov. 8, 1923, and was made by Jim Fields.

The first Winters team was coached by Mack McComb and O. D. Sandford. Other team members, in addition to Pace and Neely, were Floyd Sykes, Gerald Knight, Othar Hilliard, Fannin Lowe, George Key, Charley White, John Barnett, Howard Faulkner, Bailey McCaughan, and Jim Gardner. Jim Gardner now lives in Coleman; he is a brother of John and Bernice Gardner, both of Winters.

Blizzards Host To Anson Friday

Still seeking a win in conference play, the Winters Blizzards Friday night will host the other District 6-AA "snakebit" team, the Anson Tigers. Kickoff at 7:30.

This will be the fourth conference game in the five-game district series.

The Blizzards did a better job in moving the ball in last week's bout with the Haskell Indians, Coach Chili Black said, and will be aiming toward a repeat of last year's win over Anson. Winters defeated Anson 34-6 last year.

The Blizzard squad is expected to be back to full strength this week, with the return of Ricky DeLaCruz and Donald Rogers, who were out of action because of injuries last week.

Against Anson, the Blizzards will be facing a basically good football team. All starters for the Tigers are seniors, and they have played better football this season than their 1-6-1 record shows. They have scored winning touchdowns on three different occasions, but have had them called back for some infraction.

In the quarterback slot for Anson will be Benji Adkins, one of the best throwing quarterbacks in the area for the past two years. He is tall and big, and has team-running experience.

Another threat the Blizzards will be facing will be Anson's Phil Hamrick, a good runner and the best all-around back the Tigers have fielded this season.

Larry Sprayberry, another Tiger back, is good and is expected to give some trouble.

On the Tiger line, they're all big seniors. Leading the line will be Freddy Galvan, 200-pound senior, and Keith Swinney, 155-pound senior, who is quick and good.

Coach Chili Black said the Blizzards will have to control the line to move the football against Anson Friday night.

In district action, the Blizzards and the Tigers have played two common opponents. Haskell defeated Winters 33-7, and downed Anson 29-12. Ballinger beat Winters 23-0, and squeezed by Anson 7-6.

In pre-conference competition, Winters and Anson played two common opponents. Clyde defeated Winters 36-7, and Winters 27-12; Coleman edged Winters 21-18, and beat Anson 16-6.

North Rannels Voters Follow Trend, Against Legislative Pay Increases

Voters in North Rannels were against proposals for a sharp increase in the salaries of Texas' legislators, and against annual sessions of the legislature, and followed the trend of voting across the state by voting against the proposals in the constitutional amendment election Tuesday.

Only the voting box at the Winters Community Center showed an almost even division on the salary-session amendment, with 73 ballots for the proposal and 74 against. The other two boxes in North Rannels, at the Winters City Hall and the Wingate box, showed definite disapproval of the proposals, also following the trend for overall county voting.

Turnout of voters was light, with only 686 voters in all boxes in the county.

Final returns for the entire county, and the three boxes in North Rannels, was as follows, for the nine amendments:

1. Legislative pay: County—for, 135, against 443 North Rannels—for 93, against 126

2. Homestead protection: County—for 436, against 142 North Rannels—for 135, against 48

3. Homestead exemption: County—for 423 against 214 North Rannels—133, against 50.

AROUND THE 6-AA FOOTBALL LOOP

The Hamlin Pied Pipers keep scoring toward the district championship, rolling up unbelievable totals each week, and with little chance of someone stopping them from here to the wire. The Pipers have scored 151 points in three district games, while holding opponents to 32.

In last week's encounter with the Stamford Bulldogs, the scoreboard was kept flashing like a sparkler, as TD after TD was added. 95 points were scored in that game, played at Stamford. Hamlin's Johnny Jones carried 26 times for 272 yards, and scored four touchdowns during the evening.

The offensive climate is indicated in the stats for the game: Hamlin rushed for 445 yards, and made 105 through the air. They made 25 first downs, completed 3 of 8 passes, and intercepted 2 Bulldog passes. Stamford had 20 first downs, 396 yards on the ground, and 78 in the air, completed 4 of 11 pass attempts, and intercepted none.

Over at Anson, the Ballinger Bearcats held onto their second place position in District 6-AA, squeezing out a 7-6 win over the Anson Tigers. Ballinger scored in the first quarter, and converted for 7. Anson came back in the second, scored, but failed to cross for the winning 2 point conversion attempt. From then on, it was defensive football, although Ballinger did threaten in the final, but were held. An 85-yard kickoff return by Anson

Very seldom do we know a couple who have been fortunate enough to observe their 68th wedding anniversary, but Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pumphrey were married 68 years ago on November 1. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bledsoe observed their 63rd anniversary October 23. The two couples were honored with cake and ice cream after the bingo party Thursday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the Wednesday Morning Bible Class. Miss Marguerite Mathis played the piano, and Mrs. M. G. Middlebrook led the singing. The Rev. Bob Sanders brought the message.

A covered dish supper was given Tuesday night in honor of Bee Perry, one of the nurses, who is leaving. She was presented a gift. She will be missed.

One of our Nurses, Betty Thomason, has returned after spending three weeks in England. She met her daughter, Donna, of New Orleans, in New York, and visited her son and daughter-in-law, who are stationed at Lackenheath Air Force Base in England.

The Sunday afternoon worship service was conducted by the Rev. Melvin Swoyer of St. John's Lutheran Church. Youth from the church sang several numbers.

The bingo champ banner hangs on Augusta Salge's door this week.

The Arts and Crafts Club wishes to say thanks for the nice materials brought to the home for their use.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindness at the loss of our dear mother, and for the flowers and food, and especially thank Dr. Rives and Dr. McCreight, and the staff of North Runnels Hospital, the funeral home for their words of comfort. May we be able to do as much for others. God bless each and everyone is our prayer. —The Family of Bettie Ann Helm. 1tp

Happy Homemaking

To prevent the bottom of a metal bread box from rusting and to allow air to circulate under the box, glue rubber washers on the four corners of the bottom of the bread-box.

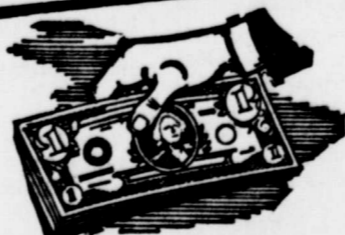

Black kid gloves can be cleaned by adding a few drops of black ink to a tablespoon of salad oil. Rub the mixture into the glove and wipe off the excess with a soft cloth.

When washing knitted garments, remove the excess moisture by placing the garment smoothly between two bath towels and then roll it all with a rolling pin. This way the garment is evenly pressed and dries without wrinkling.

To strengthen a plastic laundry basket, fit a section of rubber garden hose under the rim and lace it in place with a strong cord. This will hold up under a heavy load of wet wash and prevent the rim from breaking.

Farmers Urged To Use Conservation Practices in 1974

Farmers in the Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District who bring additional land into crop production in 1974 are being urged to use sound conservation practices.

Harvey Kahlden, district conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service at Ballinger ger said conservation measures not only protect the soil from erosion but also increases production.

"Some people are predicting farmers will bring several thousand acres of former 'set-aside' acreage back into crop production in Texas in the next year," Kahlden said. "This considered to be the best and quickest way to check food price increases."

"But it's also the quickest way to increase dust storms, sediment pollution, and other erosion problems unless sound conservation measures are installed," he pointed out.

"There is a lot of land in our Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District which can be used for cropland safely if managed properly," Kahlden said. "Yet there are other soils which are so susceptible to blowing or washing that they should never be used for crop production."

Kahlden said he hopes farmers will use soil survey information available from his office before putting new land in cultivation.

"Soil surveys have been made on all the land in Runnels County," he said. "These surveys show which soils are best suited for crop production and which soils are most susceptible to erosion. They can also show which soils are most productive."

SCS is giving top priority to helping farmers plan conservation measures on new land brought into cultivation. For information, contact the local SCS office at Ballinger.

TIPS OUTDOORSMEN

Removing Kinks From Line

Every time you load your freshwater reel, either spinning or casting, there will be kinks in your line. This regardless of how careful you are in winding on a new spool of monofilament.

But, there's a quick cure.

Climb aboard your favorite floater, crank up the power-house and spin out into the lake far enough from shore to permit release of the line slowly and completely down to the bare spool. Then, continuing to drive slowly, rewind until all of the line is back on the spool.

One point to remember is to trail only the line behind the boat—no lure on it, not even a swivel.

A 10 or 15 minute ride is sufficient to remove all kinks.

Follow the same procedure to remove line twists that result from trolling.

Watch What's Following

Want to know which lure interests the fish most?

Okay, after each cast drag the lure alongside the boat, or dock, or wherever you're fishing—and on past you—before you lift it out of the water. While doing so, watch closely to see if fish are following the bait.

It does happen. In fact it's amazing how many fish follow the lure right up to the boat, then dart away when they see you.

Anyway, it's a good inkling as to what lure interests the fish. Many a bass has hit a lure right alongside the boat, or just as the angler was about to bring the bait in for another cast. It's quite a surprise, too, because it's just not expected.

"Of course my friends and I are always eating. It's a way of life!"

But, if you want an even greater thrill, let it happen in the darkness of night. That'll scare the living daylight out of you!

WHAT HAPPENED TO QUALITY ICE CREAM?

Even wonder what happened to that country-fresh, old-fashioned, creamy tasting ice cream you found so pleasant in your childhood?

Fact is even though your favorite brands may have vanished over the years that kind is still available to those who want it. But in the intervening years a host of low priced, economy ice creams, as well as medium priced products, have come on the scene. You simply can't expect these to taste the same as the premium product.

The differences between ice creams, including those made by the same manufacturer, are about as contrasting as those between luxury and compact cars.

There are as many commercial formulas as there are brands of ice cream. The U. S. D. A. has recommended standards for the manufacture of ice cream and other frozen desserts, the quality, composition, and price of ice cream may vary from market to market.

The federal composition standards require that ice cream sold in interstate commerce contain at least 10 percent fat and no more than 100 percent "overrun" meaning no more than 50 percent air.

Economy ice cream often just meet these requirements, whereas the premium products generally have from 12 to 16 percent fat and a minimum of "overrun" or air. Some air is necessary so that ice cream will melt slowly and not be hard as a rock, but the amount of air does effect quality as well as the weight of the packaged ice cream.

In addition, premium ice cream has a higher content of milk solids, for better body and texture. Fresh or frozen fruits and whole nuts are used in premium ice cream, while dried or pureed fruits and broken nuts are used in smaller quantities in economy brands. A combination of sweeteners, such as corn syrup, cane sugar, and beet sugar is higher in the premium products.

Apparently ice cream of all qualities is enjoying a revival, as witness the number of old fashioned ice cream parlors springing up from coast to coast. Best of all, you can get the good old days ice cream but you will have to be willing to pay for it.

Strictly Fresh

The only boss in town who can honestly plead that he's busy on the links is the head of the sausage department at the local meat market.

Fellow across the desk is groaning about the rider which increases his company insurance. Doesn't know whether to keep it a secret, or tell his wife and hire a food-tester.

Keep your chin held high and you'll walk into a low clothesline.

The plant wolf is going to spend two weeks in July at the seashore.

What we'd like to see on the highway are a few more wreckless drivers.

AUSTIN—Over 200 leaders of industry and representatives of professions met in the capitol last week to review the new state laws governing campaign contributions, expenditures and lobbying.

Secretary of State Mark White and Attorney General John Hill discussed the major legal changes brought about by the "reform" legislation of the last Texas legislature.

"We are living in a period of general transition," the Attorney General told the business and professional men and women.

"My office has produced over 200 opinions so far this year — more than the total last year — and over 100 opinions are stacked up to be prepared."

White outlined his recent "campaign contributions and expenditures directives" at the meeting sponsored by the Texas Society of Association Executives.

Other speakers reviewed the details of the new lobby law and the sections of the penal code which affect campaigns and lobbying.

"H. B. 2—the new lobby law—is unconstitutional," stated Frank Maloney, Austin attorney.

"It violates both the first and fifth amendments to the constitution."

He cited federal cases which supported his opinion on the new Texas lobby law and other speakers pointed out that several AG opinions in this state to clarify sections of the campaign expenditures law and lobby law.

Political action committees for state businesses and associations are being formed as a result of the new laws.

Labor unions must go the PAC route in Texas now also, because they are prohibited under the new law from contributing to political campaigns.

Speakers on the program indicated that the Sharpstown scandal and Watergate investigations are going to make office holders, candidates and those who work and contribute to campaigns very wary about future political activities in this state.

"Until we get more information from the Secretary of State's office, and additional Attorney General's opinions, most representatives of business, professionals, labor and industry are going to be very cautious about participation in political campaigns," one spokesman for the group said.

"None of us wants to be the first 'test case' under these new laws," he concluded.

Others observed that it was going to be harder to get good people to run for public office because of the tough new laws, and predicted the strict campaign laws would make it easier for incumbents to remain in present offices.

Both Jack R. Martin, Houston, president of TSAE, and Gene N. Fondren, chairman of the TSAE Government Relations Committee, outlined the need for future briefings for state business and industry leaders on the new laws governing the mechanics of "Texas politics."

Details of the lobby law were explained by Austin attorney Gaylord Armstrong.

LEGISLATURE GETS REVISION

A proposed 13,500-word rewrite of the 97-year-old Texas constitution has now been handed the legislature for its consideration.

A blue ribbon, 37-member revision commission presented the document to legislative leaders last week with an urgent request that it serve as a starting point in the 1974 constitutional convention starting January 8.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. and Gov. Dolph Briscoe accepted the commission's redraft — which streamlined the much-amended 55,000 word 1876 constitution — in historic ceremonies.

Savings And Loans In Another Crunch

Wellesley Hills, Mass., November 1. Until recently interest rates had been climbing steadily with many short-term rates at record highs. In the past this scenario has spelled trouble for the savings and loan associations. Since the maximum rates of these institutions (along with commercial banks and savings banks) can pay on savings are set by federal regulatory agencies, the S&Ls find it difficult to compete for new savings during periods when yields are extraordinarily high.

This is what happened in the "credit crunch" of 1966, and again in 1968 and 1970. The impact on the savings and loan industry was dramatic in both instances. For example, deposit growth dropped sharply in both periods while the withdrawal rates were sharply higher. As a result, mortgage money not only became more expensive but in some cases was practically unobtainable. As far as earnings were concerned, most publicly held S&L holding companies reported lower results in both 1966 and 1970, and in some cases deficit results were recorded.

Some Important Differences
The savings and loan industry was somewhat better positioned to withstand the onslaught of high interest rates this year than in the past. First of all, many S&Ls were less dependent on so-called "hot money" or out-of-state deposits which tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than do local savings. Another important difference was that the S&Ls this year had a much larger percentage of their savings in certificates and special accounts rather than in regular passbook accounts. In a sense, this represented "locked in" funds since the depositor would have to pay a penalty if he withdrew them before the maturity date. Still another factor was that the S&Ls had considerable leeway to borrow from the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Squeezed Again

Despite these advantages and moves by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to help ward off another crunch, the S&Ls could not escape the competition of super-high interest rates unscathed. Consequently, disintermediation, the process whereby funds flow out of the savings institutions in search of higher yields, again became a reality. Thus, in July of this year, the S&Ls experienced a $291-million outflow and the August total reached $1.21 billion. While the latter figure was not a record, it was the third largest ever. The savings outflow, along with higher interest expense, resulted in higher mortgage rates and a shortage of lendable funds.

Is The Worst Over?

In recent weeks interest rates, especially those in the short-term sector, have declined rather sharply. While this downward move was partly due to a less restrictive monetary policy on the part of the Federal Reserve, it also reflected an optimistic attitude on the part of many professional money men that a major shift in the policy of the Fed was in the making. This assessment, it appears, was premature, since just recently Federal Reserve Chairman Burns indicated that a further loosening of the credit reins was not likely. At the same time monetary officials expressed doubt about any quick victory in the move against inflation. Therefore, we do not expect interest rates to drop much if any further over the near term. In fact, they could move upward again as the year-end approaches reflecting seasonal demands for money.

The August outflow may have been the worst that will be seen in the current crunch, but we do not expect a strong inflow of savings into the S&Ls over the near term. The result will be that most institutions will undoubtedly remain strapped for funds through the end of this year and at least into the first quarter of 1974. ...about your SOCIAL SECURITY

Many aged, blind, or severely disabled people in the San Angelo area who are in financial need can receive payments under a recent Federal law, J. M. Talbot, District Manager of the San Angelo Social Security Office announced today.

Under the new program, called Supplemental Security Income, the Social Security Administration will, beginning January 1974, take over the cash assistance programs for the aged, blind, and disabled which were formerly run by the State Welfare Department.

This new program is designed for those people who have little or no regular cash income and who do not own much property or other valuables. For example, owning a home of reasonable value will not rule out eligibility for this program.

Although supplemental income payments will not start until January, 1974, social security offices have started to accept applications in order to process them ahead of time and assure prompt payment.

Mr. Talbot suggested that people not receiving public assistance at the present, who think they may be eligible for this new Federal program, should get in touch with their social security office. The San Angelo office is located at 3000

Reports are currently advising clients to retain their S&L holdings, it is felt that new purchases should not be made until the outlook indicates a definite downturn in interest rates.

West Harris Avenue. People now receiving welfare payments will not have to apply again. Their payments will continue automatically at approximately their present levels. The maximum amount payable will be $130 to an individual, and $195 for a couple.

Mr. Talbot advised people who believe they will be eligible for the new benefit, to file their application as soon as possible. This will enable the Social Security Office to process the applications before the new program begins.

Keeping world's morale afloat

By Ralph Novak

NEW YORK (CEP)

Not many people are aware that there is such a thing as the World Morale Rating. But every afternoon at 5 o'clock, the daily rating is chalked up on a huge blackboard located in the remodeled torpedo room of a constantly roaming atomic submarine.

Theoretically, any rating from 1 through 99 is possible (0 and 100 being reserved for ends of the world of one kind or another) but in reality the rating has not gone above 37 since 2,812 years ago, when the ratings were carved on a rock that was continually rolled throughout Mesopotamia.

Recently, the rating has been hovering in the low teens as the WMR experts report a record total of 27,813 crises threatening the world with everything from the possibility of a world war over the Middle East to the chilling prospect of a breakup between Matt Dillon and Miss Kitty.

WMR survey reports show that 72 per cent of the people in the world describe the current situation as "eechh," 21 per cent describe it as "moldy," 5 per cent as "better than nothing," 1.9998 per cent as "liveable" and .0002 per cent as "peachy keen." (The survey also shows that all of the "peachy keens" were recorded by residents of the country of East Hibiscus, which has not yet been discovered.) A startling 94 per cent said they would like to move to another planet if space travel were possible, while another three per cent said they were moving anyway even if they had to swim for it.

The daily ratings are published in the WMR newspaper, "Think About It," but a WMR spokesman says they are not more widely publicized to avoid further demoralizing the population.

"There's enough bad news to go around as it is," he said. "So we try to soft-pedal the dissatisfaction by issuing press releases on such subjects as 'Transylvania Rating up Six Points Over Dracula Era,' 'Predictions of End of World Prove Unfounded,' and our series on past catastrophes, 'Things Could Be Worse.'"

The spokesman also defended the WMR against critics who say it is useless.

"People can't do anything about the weather, either, but they still want to know what the temperature is in Sydney and Montevideo, don't they?" he said.

And he added that he is optimistic that the WMR will soon be soaring.

"After all," he said emphatically, "things have to get better before they get worse, don't they?"

"Don't they?"

MIXED RESULTS UPCOMING FOR MOTOR CARRIERS

Wellesley Hills, Mass. — This year the motor carrier industry has experienced gains in revenues and profits over 1972 levels. Actually, tonnage figures for the first six months showed sharp increases in line with the continuing upsurge in economic activity. Historically, truck tonnage statistics have displayed a close relationship with the level and direction of business activity. Hence, with the economy's existing momentum and with tentative projections of a moderate advance in Gross National Product for 1974, it follows that truck freight transportation can be expected to post further increases in revenues at least for calendar 1974.

In spite of the favorable prospects, operating results for individual companies in the industry are not by any means going to be uniformly satisfactory. Moreover, where gains do occur, we do not anticipate the same rate of improvement for 1974 as has been the case thus far in 1973 over 1972. There are signs, in fact, that some deceleration has already begun. The industry was fortunate, however, in negotiating new labor contracts earlier this year without major stoppages. This has been a definite plus factor for motor carriers in 1973 and there is no doubt that it could prove helpful also next year.

PROFIT HURDLES

Our optimism for the trucking industry's stocks is somewhat tempered by certain major problems which must be solved in order for this sector of the economy to enjoy better profit margins. One element is the need for adequate rate relief if profitability is to be even maintained at a reasonable level. The delay in such required further rate relief is now producing some disappointing quarterly earnings reports.

This is a situation which will ultimately be corrected by the regulatory authorities, but until that time investors may wish to look at areas where earnings visibility is clearer.

COSTLY FUEL SITUATION

A second ominous factor is the petroleum uncertainty. Not only are prices of gasoline and diesel oil up substantially, but the tight supply-demand ratio could become disastrous. Some trucking companies have even arranged to import their own backup reserves. Still, the situation is likely to remain tense, particularly in view of conditions in the Middle East. Also, higher labor costs which were partially offset by way of an earlier 1973 retro-boost allowance are locked in for two more years of raises before the current pact expires.

INDUSTRY PLUSES

The trucking industry obviously has its share of problems, but at the same time it has some brighter spots. On the whole, we feel that the industry still has underlying growth potential. Among the favorable elements are expectations of an advance in revenues and in physical volume of goods shipped in 1974, productivity gains resulting from fleet modernization and more extensive use of double trailers where permitted by law, and increased use of computer technology. The trucking companies have been taking on a larger share of freight business at the expense of the railroads. In addition, the exodus of the population and business from core cities and urban areas is generating greater demand for the nation's trucking facilities.

Because of the aforementioned factors, most stocks of the trucking firms now appear temptingly depressed. The Research Department of Babson's Reports is of the opinion, however, that there are more promising near-term investment opportunities available elsewhere in the marketplace, and that it would be wise to defer new purchases of trucking stocks for the present.

Blizzards Lose Third District Game To Haskell, 33-7, Friday

The Winters Blizzards encountered their third stumbling block Friday night in district play, with a 33-7 setback by the Haskell Indians.

The Blizzards started off in fine fashion by taking the opening kickoff and driving 82 yards for a touchdown. They moved the ball down the field picking up 5 first downs with the help of some fine offensive line blocking and running by Bobby Joe Poindexter, Bill Pendergrass and Johnny Ray Liggins. Liggins climaxed the touchdown drive with a one-yard plunge with 3:20 left in the first quarter. Liggins also converted the point after and the Blizzards led 7-0.

On the following kickoff, the Haskell Indians took possession on their own 14 yard line. Or the first play from scrimmage Indian fullback Charles Alexander broke loose and rambled 86 yards for a touchdown. The point after attempt was good and with 3:02 left in the first period the score stood 7-7.

The game remained tied until almost the end of the second quarter with neither team being able to acquire any advantage. With 1:12 remaining in the first half, fullback Charles Alexander evaded several Blizzard tacklers and ran 70 yards for a touchdown. As the half ended, the Indians led 14-7.

As the third quarter started neither team was able to gain any momentum. With 8 minutes left in the third, the Blizzards were faced with a fourth down and 10 yards, and a punting situation. Bobby Joe Poindexter punted the ball to the Indians' halfback Randy Ivy, who took the ball on the Haskell 20-yard line and returned it 80 yards for another Haskell touchdown.

The Blizzards mounted various scoring drives in the second half, but were stopped by a pass interception.

The Indians late in the fourth quarter eventually tacked on two more touchdowns, putting the game out of reach. One of these touchdowns came on a 50-yard scoring play, again by fullback Charles Alexander.

The Blizzards played very well and aggressively throughout the game, but were again done in by the experience and break-away speed of the opposition.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Glenn Colburn, Ray Powers, Rodney Buxkemper, Johnny Ray Liggins, Bobby Joe Poindexter and Bill Pendergrass.

Once upon a time, people saved their money, thinking it would be worth more later.
