

Dads Asked To Help Prepare Barn For Show

Thursday and Friday of this week were designated as "work days" to prepare the show barns and grounds for the annual Junior Livestock Show, scheduled for Saturday, January 11.

Members of the Winters Livestock Association, and fathers of youngsters exhibiting livestock in the show, have been asked to help prepare for the show, sponsored by the association. There is much work to be done, spokesmen for the sponsoring organization said, and it should be done as early as possible so that all will be in readiness for the show.

Almost 170 head of livestock have been entered in this year's show, expected to be the largest junior show ever here, and one of the largest in the country.

The show is open to all students and members of the Future Farmers of America and 4-H Clubs who reside within the Winters and Wingate school districts.

GARDEN CHECK LIST FOR JANUARY

1. Be prepared to protect tender plants against a sudden severe cold spell.
2. In Central and South Texas, continue to select and plant landscape trees and shrubs where needed in the landscape. In the northern portion of the state delay planting until late February or early March.
3. Winter annuals planted in November and December will need some fertilizer by mid or late January. Apply about one pound of 12-12-12 or equivalent per 100 square feet of bed area.
4. Prevent lawn damage by raking the fallen leaves and composting them.
5. Time to select and order gladiolus corms for February and March planting. In the lower Rio Grande Valley they can be planted in January.
6. Time to treat soil around hydrangea macrophylla plants to obtain the desired color. Refer to "Landscaping Notes" for January 1972 for full details.
7. Continue to select and plant roses in the central and southern areas of the state. For best results use Number 1 Grade bushes.
8. The following flower seeds can be started indoors for early spring flowers: Ageratum, Coreopsis, Cornflower, Madagascar periwinkle and verbena.
9. Don't be in a hurry to prune except in South Texas.
10. Encourage the 4-H Club members to start planning for the Landscape Demonstration Contest at State Roundup.

11. Good time to remove and destroy any bagworm pouches hanging on your favorite juniper and other shrubs. The eggs overwinter in the bag and will be ready to start the cycle again if allowed to remain on the plant.
12. Although we had lots of rain this last fall and early winter, many evergreen plants may need moisture especially those located beneath the roof overhand.
13. Still time to use a dormant oil spray for scale control. Be sure to read and follow directions regarding strength and temperature restrictions.
14. Lawns that have been overseeded with rye grass will need frequent mowing and adequate nitrogenous fertilizer to keep them attractive.
15. When planting bare-rooted plants be sure to cut back at least 1/3 to 1/2 of the top to insure success.
16. Better check the space between those proposed shrub plantings.

Accent on Health

J. E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Tuberculosis is still an active health problem in Texas, and it would be an even greater threat if it weren't for the State Health Department's Child-Centered Tuberculosis Program.

More than a half-million persons are examined annually in the Health Department's Child-Centered Tuberculosis Program.

State law requires an annual tuberculosis examination of all school personnel—teachers, custodians, food handlers, etc. It also recommends the examination of all first and seventh grade students and transfer students. Student TB tests are required in some of the more than 1100 school districts taking part in student screening.

During the 1973-74 school years, 71,280 first grade students and 84,144 seventh graders were tested in the program. In addition, tests were given 98,798 other students and associates of those who reacted positively to a tuberculin test. Add more than a quarter-million school employees to the number of students and associates and you have more than half-million persons.

Tuberculin skin tests are given by private physicians, at school and in Health Department clinics. Approximately 48 hours after being given, the tests are "read" to identify reactors.

Finding reactors is important, for a positive test indicates they have been exposed to someone with TB and have the TB germ in their bodies. Without treatment, these reactors could have unknown cases of TB or develop active disease at some future date.

While the child testing program isn't primarily for case finding—but to find children who need protection against tuberculosis—every reactor is followed up to see if an active case exists. A reactor is urged to contact his family physician for an X-ray, or to attend a Health Department clinic. During the last school year the number of new reactors—2160—was relatively small, attesting to the reduction in tuberculosis in Texas.

In Texas last year, for instance, only 2,224 new active cases of TB were found in all age groups.

Once a reactor is found in the school program, another phase of the program begins, usually by a TB investigator. Since a reactor means the individual has had contact with someone who has the disease, it is important that an examination be made of household members in attempting to establish the source of exposure. Usually it is a family member, a relative or a close associate—such as a playmate or housekeeper.

First and seventh graders were chosen by the Health Department for the child-centered approach for a reason. First graders have spent most of their lives at home, or in close proximity to their families, and therefore have limited contacts. These contacts can be easily traced, and the probability is good that an infection was obtained in the home.

Seventh graders, on the other hand, represent a higher risk age. And, it is at this point that they begin to move around more and begin their social activities.

By testing youngsters, discovering reactors, and tracing their contacts, it makes possible the earlier discovery of those with active TB. Early diagnosis of TB makes the disease that much easier to treat—and cure. In the past few years the severity of disease in those diagnosed for the first time has shown a percentage decline—demonstrating that the disease is being discovered earlier.

Another benefit of child testing is that it gives health authorities an index of the extent of the disease in each community. This is a meaningful indicator which will be used in followup activities. Time and money can be saved in TB epidemiology through this pinpointing of disease incidence.

It is responding to space-age treatment. People can be cured of TB, mostly without the long hospitalization of yesteryear. But, it is important to discover the disease early and begin treatment.

This Child-Centered Tuberculosis Program is giving the State Health Department a big lead on the disease in many cases. And, through testing of school personnel, the program helps assure that the school child is provided with an environment relatively free of the dangerous disease—tuberculosis.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN, Tex.—The men who will preside over the 1975 legislative session are busy preparing for action-packed days ahead.

Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, expected to be elected Speaker of the House of Representatives when the session convenes January 14, has more advance work to do than his Senate counterpart, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Clayton is just beginning the job of lining up the standing committees which process legislation. Obviously, the House will be operating under largely new leadership on the major committees.

The opposite will be the case in the Senate. Hobby has indicated he plans no shakeups in committee chairmanships there. Sen. Don Adams of Jasper will become chairman of the Senate administration panel, succeeding Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon who was elected to Congress.

Resignation of Sen. Jim Wallace as intergovernmental relations chairman to accept a judgeship appointment created another vacancy. Sen. John Traeger is vice chairman of the committee.

Both Hobby and Clayton rate these measures high on the priority agenda:

School finance reform, constitutional revision and proposals to create a state utilities regulatory commission.

Their ideas on the latter two vary widely, however. Hobby has advocated naming an elected citizens convention to draft a proposed new constitution, in the wake of the legislature's failure to agree on a revision plan during a 1974 convention.

Clayton would like to see the legislature make another try during 1975 at rewriting the constitution before handing over the job to others.

While Hobby has endorsed creation of an elected commission to regulate telephone and electrical services and rates, Clayton displays little enthusiasm for the proposal. As Speaker, however, Clayton says he would not try to dictate House policy on the issue.

HOME INSURANCE UP—Homeowners insurance rates are going up 100—an average of 12.3 per cent statewide. The State Board of Insurance, which already had ordered an average 8.8 per cent auto coverage rate boost, followed up with the finding that homeowners policies must cost more effective January 20.

Insurance firms are expected to receive $25 million in additional revenues from the building policies at new prices. Actually, rates vary by territories on extended coverage and homeowners policies. State wide fire insurance rates will go up 3.8 per cent for private homes and decrease 24.4 per cent for other types of buildings.

Board Chairman Joe Christie noted that policy holders can "shop for bargains" with companies offering discounted rates of from 10 to 30 per cent below the uniform state level.

RECESSION COULD COME—Some indicators point to a critical period ahead for the Texas economy, the Texas Industrial Commission director's year-end report warns.

Unemployment in Texas remains under five per cent—well below the national average in states experiencing a major industrial shutdown—but new business activity has begun to slow down, according to TIC executive Jim Harwell's report.

While new plant locations coordinated by TIC fell from 38 in 1973 to 30 this year and prospective industries seeking new locations dropped from 286 to 215, inquiries from businesses considering expansion or relocation increased 12 per cent to 2,440.

Harwell said businesses are becoming "extremely cautious" and wary of risk.

AG OPINIONS—The Board of Examiners in Basic Sciences may close part of a meeting while discussing confidential information about an applicant, Atty. Gen. John Hill said.

In a related opinion, Hill said the same agency can withhold from public disclosure records concerning a matter in litigation.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: "Jefferson County commissioners cannot ratify a contract for $900 worth of building supplies and labor made improperly by an individual member."

"Alcoholic Beverage Commission should limit information it makes public about private club licensing to the name of the applicant, location of the club and type license sought or held."

It's time your family stopped being just "Smith Harold" in the telephone directory.

The new edition of your telephone directory is going to press soon. If you have only a single listing, a lot of people are going to have trouble looking up other members of your family. Certainly, your wife deserves her own listing. And giving a teen-ager a place in the directory is a nice way of saying "You're growing up." To add or change a listing just call our business office. They can tell you how little extra an additional listing will cost. It's as easy as picking up the phone.

ECONOMY FARE WITH A FLARE

Looking for an intriguing, elegant, but not too expensive post holiday main dish? Beef chuck roast with mushroom stuffing is an inexpensive way to serve an expensive-looking, delicious, holiday meal.

In addition to being an elegant dinner, it allows you to capitalize on two important economic factors: beef chuck roast is a less expensive beef cut, and, according to the U. S. Department of agriculture, beef supplies are abundant now. This means that a beef chuck roast will probably be a good buy this holiday season.

But before you buy beef at any price, always make sure of its quality. Look for the shield-shaped USDA quality grade mark. The grade you're most likely to see in the store is USDA Choice. The Choice mark is your assurance that the beef is tender, juicy, and flavorful. Not all stores sell USDA graded beef.

Once you've found the store, ask the meat cutter to cut a 3-inch thick chuck roast from the rib end of the chuck section of the beef carcass. A cut this thick should weigh about 4.5 pounds. Make sure it is grade USDA Choice or USDA Prime.

Them ask to have the roast cut horizontally to make two chuck steaks, each 1 1/2 inches thick. At home, take a sharp boning knife and cut out the long slender blade bone in each steak, but leave the rib bone on the other side of each steak.

Then follow this recipe: 1/2 c dry red table wine 1/2 c salad oil 3 cloves of garlic, minced 1/8 tsp. each rosemary, marjoram, thyme Freshly ground pepper to taste 1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced, or 2 cans (4 oz. each) sliced mushrooms 6 tbs. butter 3 green onions, finely chopped 1/4 c finely chopped parsley For a marinade, mix together wine, oil, garlic, rosemary, marjoram, thyme, and pepper. Turn into a large shallow baking dish, add the beef chuck, and marinate in a refrigerator overnight. Turn occasionally.

For the stuffing, saute mushrooms in butter until golden brown (or saute the drained canned mushrooms). Mix in chopped green onions and chopped parsley. Spoon ample amount of mushroom mixture over one chuck steak and arrange the second steak on top. Tie both steaks together with a string. Warm the extra mushroom mixture over low heat to serve with the cooked meat.

Broil the stuffed chuck for about 45 minutes making sure there's a distance of 5-6 inches between the top surface of the meat and your element of heat.

Cook until medium rare. If the weather is suitable, a special flavor can be added by broiling the meat over medium coals for about the same time, allowing 20-25 minutes for each side. To serve, cut away the string and slice on the diagonal into strips about 1/4 inch thick. Serve additional mushroom stuffing on the side. Makes six servings.

Somebody's trying to take something that belongs to you.

Right here in Texas

In fact, somebody's trying to take something that belongs to all of us: freedom of speech. Somebody's undermining your right to communicate, to listen, to have all available information on a given subject.

Somebody's trying to tell certain Arkansas companies they may not advertise their services.

But advertising is just another word for communication. It is public information; it gives you a choice. It encourages new and better ways of doing things and helps continue the development of newer, better and more economical consumer goods.

Now, however, the right of certain Texas companies to communicate with their customers is in danger. This could ultimately have more far-reaching effects on free speech as we know it.

Right now, we want you to think very long, very hard and very deeply about advertising and about the good it does in America. We want you to think about its effect on business, on your own entertainment, on radio, television, newspapers and magazines, on your right to know.

We want you to think about the effect advertising has on your company's sales, and how the sales of your company affect your own life-style.

Right now, we want you to think very long, very hard and very deeply about the issue of free speech. Then we want you to write Governor Dolph Briscoe, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711, and your legislators and your friends and tell them how you feel.

The ball is in your hands. It's up to you not to drop it.

Advertising is everybody's business.

This ad appears as a public service of this newspaper.
