Construction Plans Proceed On Highway

The Texas Highway Department is planning to proceed with the development of the proposed highway improvements on U.S. 84 in Muleshoe from East Sixth Street to West Eighth St. Since the Federal Highway Administration has recently approved the design proposed for this project, as has the State authorities, the Highway Department will begin work on the next phase of engineering necessary for the development of this project.

This proposed project will consist of the reconstruction of curb and gutter, grading salvage base, asphalt stabilized base and asphalt concrete pavement on the existing 80 feet of right of way. Since no additional right of way will be required, no relocations will be involved. All of the utilities have been relocated at the present time. The gas, electric and telephone companies moved their own lines at their expense so the city only had to pay for the moving of their water lines. Maps, drawings, showing geometric design, environmental studies and all other available data concerning the development of the project may be inspected and copied at the Resident Engineer's Office at Littlefield, Texas.

Editorial

The Democrats: Who?

Since Senator Edward Kennedy withdrew from the presidential derby in 1976, the larger of the two major parties has been hard-put to find both a consensus within the party behind a leader and a leader with the charisma to be a likely winner.

Representing congressional Democrats, Senator Edmund Muskie spoke on national television recently in reply to President Ford's election campaigning. But Muskie fails to go over with the masses.

Senator Henry Jackson has been trying almost desperately for four years to gain the chits and support for his party's nomination but hasn't captured the public's fancy either.

Admittedly, President Ford's image and support, so high in the very beginning of his White House occupancy, is now partly tattered. He may not be as difficult to defeat in 1976 as some had assumed. Also, the image of Nelson Rockefeller is being constantly assailed by congressional Democrats sniping at him with a vast mountain of private data and records, and Rockefeller's appeal in 1976 might therefore also be down.

Allowing for that, Democrats must still come up with a ticket appealing to minorities, which comprise the backbone of the party's strength, while at the same time appealing to enough of middle America to achieve victory at the polls. If Ronald Reagan and George Wallace head a third party effort (still a long shot but one being considered seriously by some), that complicates the problem.

Democrats currently have no obvious leading candidate; the party is still split, and whether Chairman Robert Strauss, detested by many militants and leftists, can restore order and produce harmony is a good question.

Kissinger's Burden

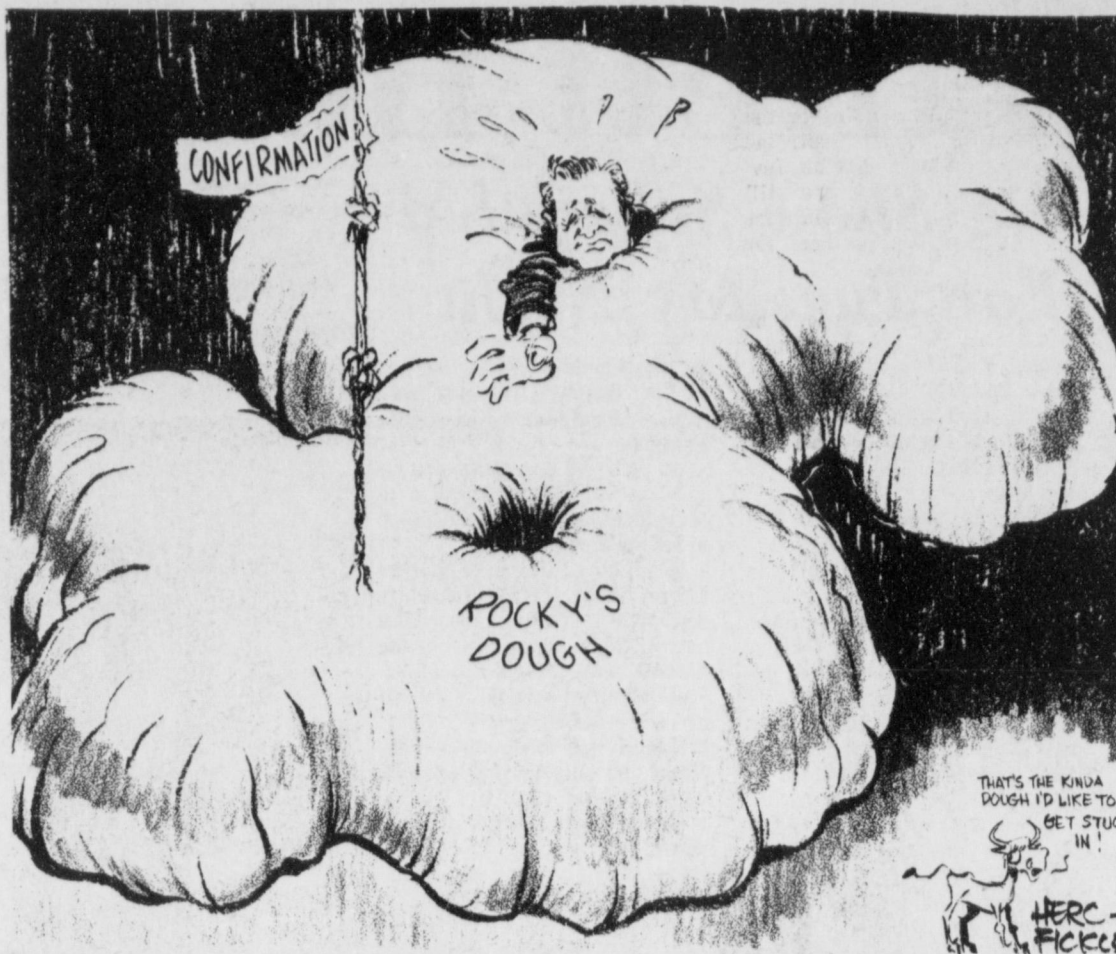

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, already the recipient of world recognition for his efforts to avoid war and bring about a peace settlement in the Middle East, continues to shoulder the immense burden of maintaining peace between Arabs and Israelis.

In his recent journey Kissinger succeeded in persuading key Arab leaders to accept a second-stage Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai—as the next step in what is billed as a peace settlement by successive degrees.

This was quite an accomplishment, although it probably only postpones the showdown, which will come when and if it becomes final that Israel will not withdraw from all or most of the land it seized from the Arabs in 1967, and that no solution to the Palestine refugee problem is possible.

Kissinger continues to achieve notable results and one can only hope he can, with President Ford's insistence behind him, persuade the Israelis to comply with U.N. resolutions and return most of the Arab lands seized seven years ago.

On each successive Middle East trip Kissinger staves off disaster for a time longer. Israel certainly has a right to exist, and the United States should tie security guarantees for her to Israeli compliance with U.N. resolutions. Only through that approach can oil prices be lowered, another Middle East war averted and Kissinger's success be made permanent.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A long struggle has been waged by many in Congress (for two years) to get the Pentagon to flight test a cheap close support aircraft, the Enforcer, which has been built and financed without government money or government planning and design.

For a long time the Air Force has been the most formidable bar to a test-by-misrepresenting the facts concerning the Enforcer and also by favoring a much more expensive close support aircraft it helped plan and finance with taxpayers' money.

The first strong pressure from Congress came from the House Appropriations Committee's Defense Subcommittee, which saw in the Enforcer the possibility of huge savings—and an aircraft the nation's armed services could buy in numbers, if flight tests show it to be effective.

More members of both houses have become interested. On the Senate side, Senator Strom Thurmond (R-SC) has been a leading advocate of tests and he has been joined by fellow Senators, Republican and Democratic. This past summer the stalling at the Pentagon had continued so long five Senators signed a joint letter to Secretary of Defense Schlesinger requesting flight tests.

Even though Schlesinger regularly talks about cheaper weapons and effective, inexpensive weapons, and warns that the nation could become a second class military power, he has done nothing to see that this promising, inexpensive air weapon gets a test.

In August the House Armed Services Committee got into the act. Its Research and Development Committee, headed by Illinois' Mel Price, held a special meeting to hear about the Enforcer—and how it had been misrepresented by Air Force spokesmen.

What the subcommittee learned in that session led to another meeting, demanded by Alabama's Bill Dickinson, who wanted House members of the Armed Services Committee to join in the appeal to Schlesinger.

That second session, on October 3rd, produced not the letter many wanted, but a memorandum from the committee staff, which may or may not produce a test. The memorandum, in effect, asked the services about their requirements, and to reevaluate the close air support doctrine accepted generally since 1971.

Meanwhile, the new Air Force Chief of Staff, aware his service was under heavy fire for misrepresentation of the facts and blocking a flight test, recently ordered a new top-level evaluation of the Enforcer's capability. That study group found the aircraft would do what its builders claim—and that it would probably cost about a million dollars a copy. (The Air Force's proposed close support aircraft seems likely to cost at least four or five times that much—built in similar quantities.)

The services are to report back to the House subcommittee by November 15th on their reevaluations; most observers feel they will stick to their own weapons. But the Army is torn over the issue; it recognizes that the Air Force possesses the close support role. And many Army officers are not happy about that, or the quality of close support the Air Force provides.

The top brass, however, is hesitant to start an all-out roles and missions fight, in view of past Army air projects which proved busts and the superior lobbying power of the Air Force. Meanwhile, a promising, much cheaper close support aircraft, designed at not a penny's cost to the government, waits in the wings only to be tested, and could probably save the nation billions.

MRS. MANUEL GARCIA

Mrs. Garcia Feted Stork Shower

Mrs. Manuel Garcia was feted with a Stork Shower, Thursday, October 3 in the home of Mrs. Marganto Lozano in Hawaii.

The serving table was laid with a white cloth accented with an arrangement of pink and green daisies. The traditional baby cake was a form of a baby girls dress.

The hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Marganto Lozano. Mrs. Manuel Garcia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Conteras of Muleshoe. Sgt. and Mrs. Manuel Garcia are stationed in Schofield, Hawaii while serving their over seas tour for the United States Army.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Your holiday dressing is a complement to a perfectly baked turkey or chicken. Most homemakers have their own secret addition to make their dressing a little different. However, this is a good basic recipe for a large crowd. It can be divided very easily -- 1/3 or 1/2 will probably be enough for the average family.

Dressing

- 2 c flour
- 2 c corn meal
- 2 t baking powder
- 1 t soda
- 1 t salt (if none in broth)
- 6 large onions, chopped
- 1 large stalk celery, chopped
- 1/2 lb. oleo or butter
- 9 eggs
- Pepper and poultry seasoning to taste
- Buttermilk

Combine all ingredients in a large mixing bowl. Make soft batter by adding buttermilk (amount can vary). Pour into a well greased baking pan. Bake at 400 degrees until well done. Remove from oven and stir to crumble. Pour broth or giblet gravy over the dry dressing until moist. Return to oven and brown. Keep hot until served with turkey.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa, I have one child who is two years old and I would like to have one more as I think an only child is usually very lonely and misses having a companion to play with. I had a rather difficult time when my first child was born and my mother is very much opposed to my having any other children. She helps me a great deal and I usually pay attention to what she says but I disagree with her about this. What do you think I should do?

J.B.--Pa.

Answer: I think parents themselves should decide on the number of children they desire for their family. I can understand how your mother feels--you are still her child, whom she is trying to protect from being hurt. However, the second child is usually much easier to bear than the first unless there are complications.

You and your husband are the ones to make the final decision.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa, Would it be proper for the mother of the bride to wear a long silk dress with a jacket at a noon wedding? It is a sheer print and very pretty. The bride is wearing a long dress.

Mother--Va.

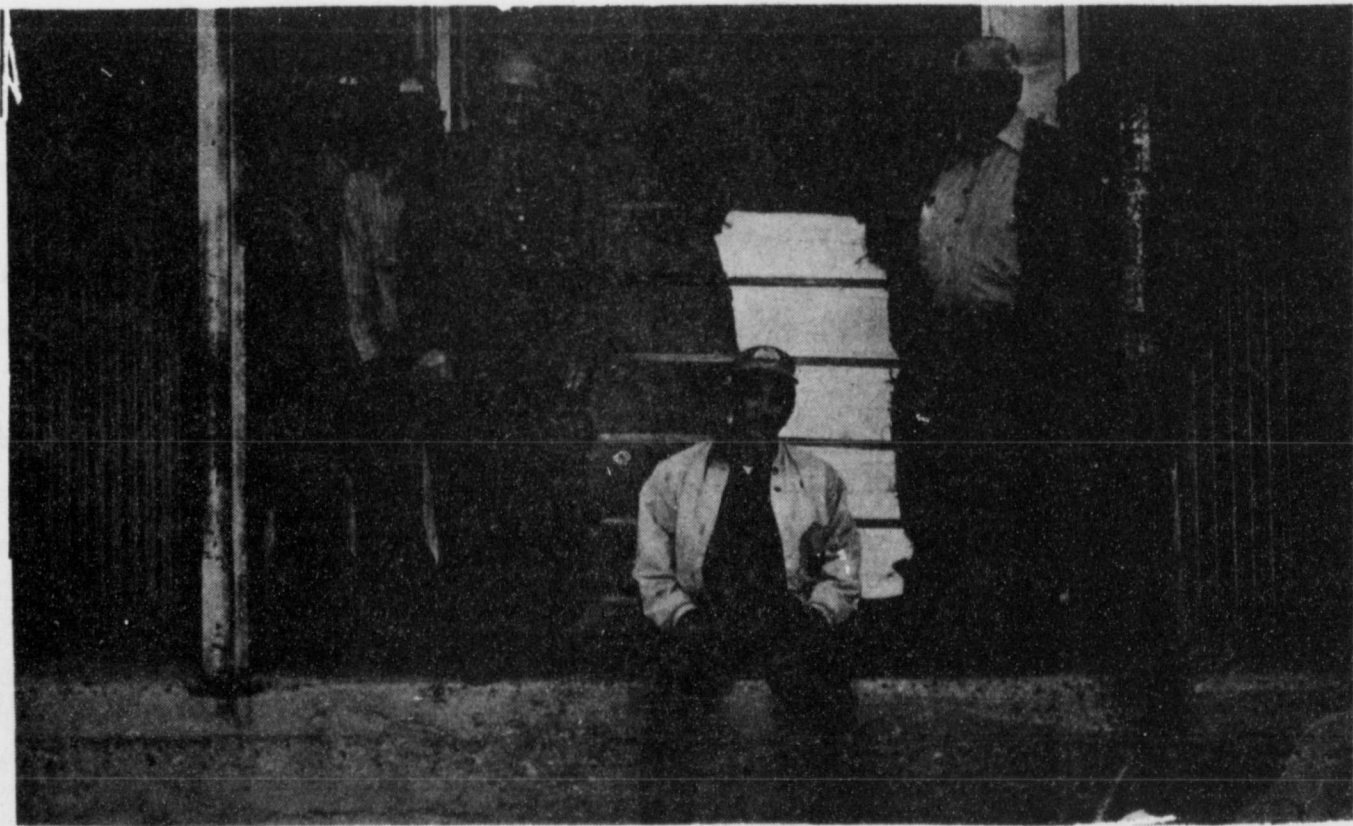

Answer: It sounds perfectly lovely for such an occasion.

Louisa.

The following little verse is worth remembering and applying to our lives daily to do our best for without friends, I am sure we would be losing something precious to own, and to make our own life happier. It reads like this, 'It isn't your years but how you have spent them. It isn't the cares that life may bring. It is the joys and dreams and friendships. These are worth remembering. I hope you will find comfort and faith in God and trust him in our daily lives and I hope that this little verse will be a help to you.'

On Wall Street

Gold is an emotional substance, not given to a logical or a common sense approach when it comes to the price it should be selling for on the market. It is truly a fear-prompted investment, purchased because the buyer is fearful that the dollar will again devalue (it probably will if the balance of payments keeps running into the red), that inflation will continue at a double-digit rate, that the U. S. will become a "bankrupt" country with the Arabs winding up owning the whole shooting match, or that disillusioned investors will flee the stock market for gold, thereby running the price of gold to over $300 per ounce.

Consequently, gold is extremely sensitive to rumor and idle gossip. The price of gold in London sank to $120 per ounce from $147 in the first week of July, then took off like a rocket before the month was over, hitting $160 before drifting back to the $145 level in late September. It has since climbed to $171 at the end of October, all as a result of rumors, first that the Ford Administration would oppose U. S. citizen ownership of gold next January, then that President Ford would suddenly permit Americans to own gold before January. There are many who feel that permitting Americans to own gold at this time makes little economic sense. In fact gold ownership will add to our balance of payments problems because the biggest part of gold purchased by American citizens once it becomes legal, will come from Europe or South Africa. This means more of our dollars will go overseas, compounding our balance of deficits problem caused by the present high price of Arab oil.

Gold coins are still the safest and wisest long term investment in gold, if you are determined to own the yellow stuff. For the short term speculators, gold futures offer the fastest action. For a high dividend return on your money plus a potential profit, shares of South African gold mining companies should be considered.

Prairie Chicken Hunting Slow

LUBBOCK—Green, uncut grain fields in the Panhandle and Permian Basin contributed to a low harvest of prairie chickens during the October 19-20 season.

The combination of dry weather last spring and winter, late rains and late, immature grain evidently reduced the birds' numbers somewhat and the harvest was hurt as a result.

Airman First Class Gary A. Murrah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Murrah, Rt. 2, Muleshoe, Tex., has graduated with honors at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the basic course for electronic specialists.

"It looks as if this year's hatch of young birds was not very good in Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum and Terry Counties," said Texas Parks and Wildlife Department project biologist Herb Kothman of Big Springs.

"Hunter success was down from last year even though many hunters used bird dogs and walked the large grasslands." Only 215 prairie chickens were checked through department stations at Plains and Lehman, down more than 50 percent from last year's record 456 birds.

The eight-county area of the Texas Panhandle which had a prairie chicken season showed a 17 percent decrease in the number of birds bagged.

Department project biologist Dick DeArment from Wheeler said that the Panhandle also did not have a very good hatch of birds this year.

A total of 232 birds was counted through the check stations at Allison, Canadian, Higgins, McLean and Wheeler. This is a modest drop from the 279 taken in 1973.

Rep. Clayton Adds Another Vote To Race

AUSTIN—Representative Bill Clayton added another vote to his lead in the race for Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives when veteran House member Bob Hendricks of McKinney announced his support of Clayton at a reception held in Wylie, Texas.

Representative Hendricks released the following statement: "I have worked closely with Bill Clayton over the past eight years. He is truly a dedicated and sincere servant of the people of Texas and his understanding of the needs of Texas is amazing. He will make our State a great Speaker."

Representative Clayton, who has released the names of 108 other pledges to his candidacy, is the acknowledged victor in the race for Speaker. Upon receiving Hendricks' endorsement, Clayton stated that he was honored to be able to count Hendricks, whom he termed "an experienced legislator with superb ability to deal with the important problems facing our State."

Hendricks, who is the present chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, represents Collin and Rockwall Counties.

ATTEND CHURCH

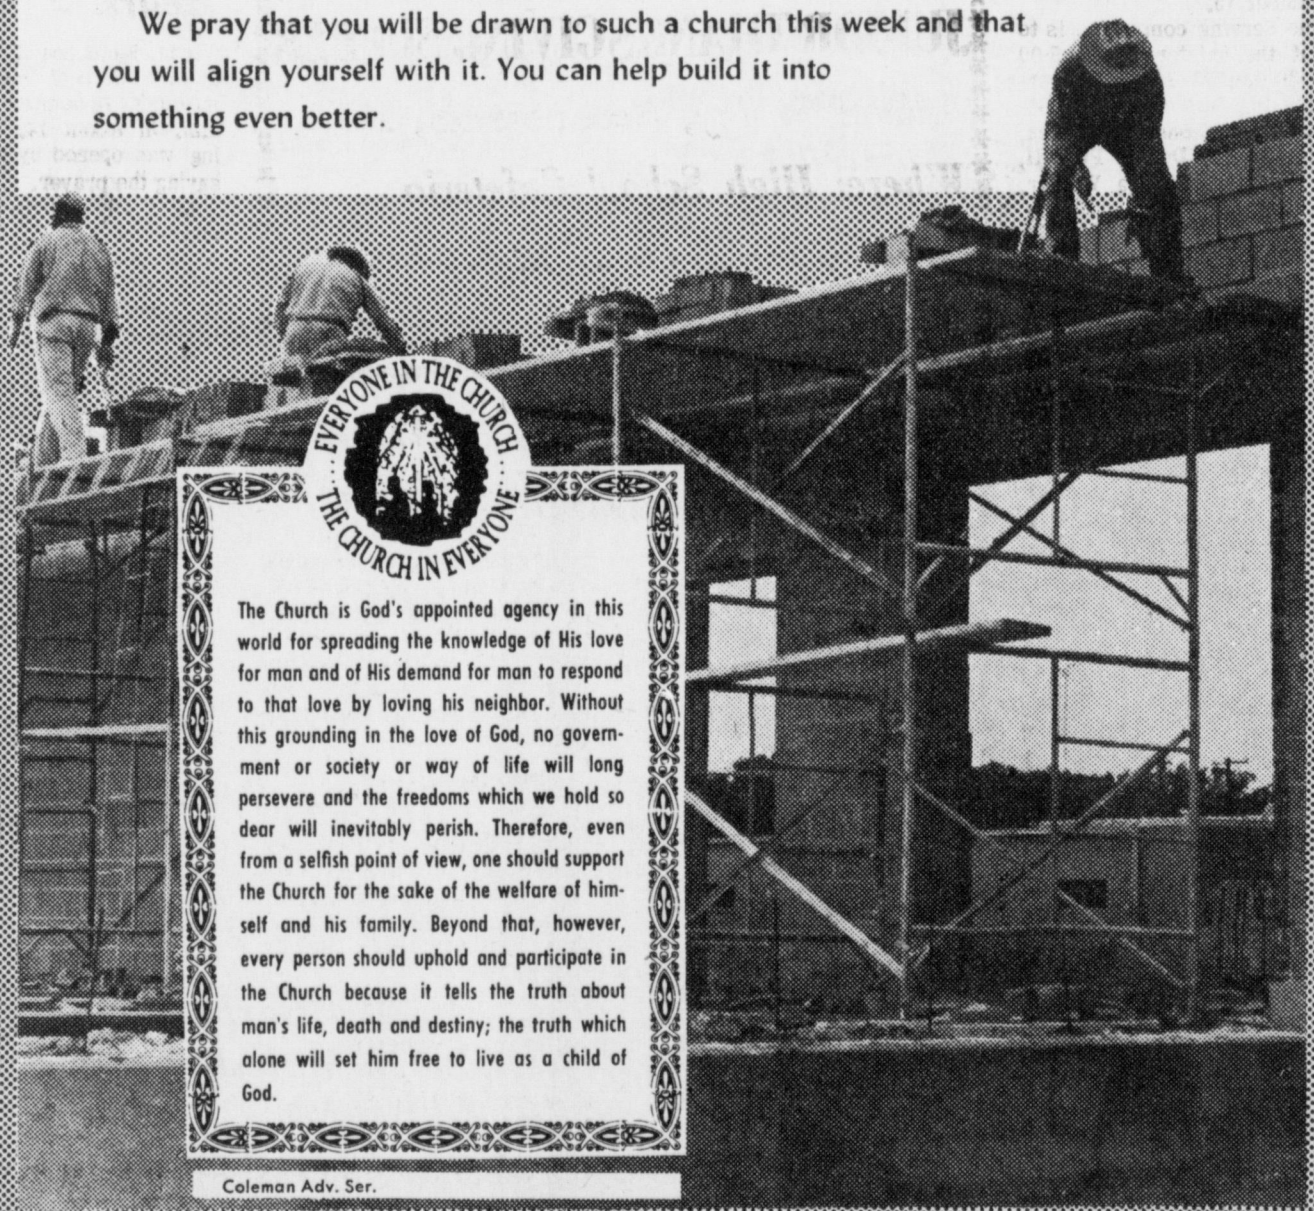

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

What Does It Take To Build A Church?

Perhaps you glance at the church on the corner once in a while and wonder what it would be like to visit during a service. What is it that draws those people to that particular building every week? What built that church?

The only possible answer is — the love of God. Their love of God prompted them to sacrifice and give so that the sanctuary might be built. The love of God compels them to meet there with others who serve Him. Their love of God compels them to "go, and tell others".

We pray that you will be drawn to such a church this week and that you will align yourself with it. You can help build it into something even better.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pioneer Natural Gas Foresees No Price Increase

The board of directors of Pioneer Natural Gas Company, at their regular meeting held here today, announced that the acquisition of new gas reserves to be connected to Pioneer's system has been progressing favorably. In the first six months of 1974 Pioneer acquired new gas supply equal to about 130 percent of sales during the same period and in the third quarter, acquisitions of an estimated 76 billion cubic feet were considerably in excess of sales for the period.

Late in December, a discovery well located on a six section unit in Wheeler County, Texas, was completed and potential for 34,000 Mcf of gas per day. The producer is estimated that an additional five wells will be drilled in the unit area, and Pioneer has 86 percent of the potential gas production under contract. In making the announcement,

K. Bert "Tex" Watson, Pioneer president, said, "Gas from these new sources will start flowing into the system around the end of the year. We forecast that the average cost of gas to the company will remain for the remainder of 1974. This would indicate that there should be no increase in the cost of gas served to Pioneer customers for this period as a result of the monthly adjustment based on gas costs."

Pioneer Natural Gas Company's subsidiary, Amarillo Oil Company, had a new multi-pay oil and gas discovery on its South Egan Prospect in Acadia Parish, Louisiana, approximately eight miles east of the Jennings Townsite Field which was discovered in November, 1973, by Pioneer Production Corporation, another subsidiary. The new discovery, which appears important, tested oil and gas from five separate sands between the depths of 10,165 and 10,900 feet. A sixth zone is indicated to be productive but has not been tested. The well has been completed for production from the Hayes sand, the deepest zone penetrated, and from perforations between 10,892 feet and 10,896 feet. On an eight-hour test it flowed gas at the rate of 2.2 million cubic feet and 52 barrels of condensate per day with flowing tubing pressure of 2,960 psig.

Pioneer Natural Gas Company's consolidated net income for the third quarter was $6,030,433 compared to $2,864,860 for the same period in 1973. Consolidated net income for the first nine months of this year amounted to $14,804,693 compared to $8,835,259 for the same period in 1973. Earnings per share for the nine-month period ending September 30 were $1.99 compared to $1.19 for the same nine months of 1973.

Watson said, "The excellent results for the third quarter and for the first nine months of 1974 are directly attributable to the continued increases in the income of our subsidiaries. In addition, due to the very dry weather through mid-August, the company did experience record sales for irrigation gas in the third quarter. In August, Pioneer delivered 10.5 billion cubic feet of gas for irrigation engines, exceeding the highest monthly irrigation sales in 1973 by three billion cubic feet." The directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of 24 cents on the common stock of the company, payable on December 5, 1974, to stockholders of record on November 15.

The report of third quarter operations of the company will be mailed to stockholders about the 15th of November. For additional information contact Bob Mills.

NEW FIND IS 3,600 YEARS OLD

In Central Lebanon, a group of archaeology students from the American University of Beirut has discovered artifacts 3,600 years old. These students have unearthed such items as pottery, painted bowls, bronze arrowheads, rods and needles. The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills farm discusses school kids and inflation or something like that this week.

Dear editor:
According to an article I read last night to keep me awake during one of the new season's television shows, inflation is hitting the public schools pretty hard. One big city school, in trying to hold rising costs down, said it is cutting out all the frills and even cutting back on janitorial services. In fact, the superintendent said "the halls may not be so clean and the sixth-grade classroom just may not get swept out at the end of each day," adding, "It's very sad."

I was discussing this with a neighbor and he said, "What's wrong with those people? A sixth-grader is at least 11 years old. He's big enough to handle a broom? If the room is dirty, why doesn't the teacher assign some pupils to sweep the thing out? Why when I went to school it was the pupils' job not only to sweep the room but to carry in the coal, start the fire and keep it going if they wanted to stay warm. Imagine kids so helpless they can't sweep out their own classroom in an air-conditioned, centrally-heated building."

"Look," I said, "you want to start a revolution. You're behind the times. You fixing to ask kids to pick up paper in their classroom? Kids who don't even pick up their clothes at home? You want them to pick at the school and shut down the whole educational process?"

He shook his head and said there's a lot of things these days he doesn't understand. He's not by himself. Take the whole problem of inflation. You ask an economist what the answer to that problem is, and he'll take a few puffs on his pipe and take fifteen minutes to tell you there aren't any easy answers, but he never does get around to telling you what the hard answers are.

What's the government hung on? You don't have to go to school to find out you don't like hauling off your own garbage. It's very sad.
Yours faithfully,
J.A.

AG FINANCE MANAGEMENT SEMINAR—Receiving a certificate signifying completion of an Agribusiness Finance Seminar is Jimmie Burgess (right) Manager, Fry & Cox, Inc. and Edwin R. Cox (center) Vice President of Fry & Cox, Inc. The award is presented by Dr. Wayne A. Thirty-six participants in the seminar were from Texas and surrounding states. They received updated information on accounting principles and concepts, financial statement and investment analysis, forms of business ownership, and general financial management. The seminar is offered to agri-industry personnel each year at Texas A&M, and is conducted by the Department of Agricultural Economics.

GSPA Defends Farmers Against Blame For Inflation

LUBBOCK TEX.—Daily headlines which rising food and grain costs for the inflationary problems in this country would imply a rosy financial situation for the American farmer.
But officials of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association say income going to the farmer from this season's crops will barely make ends meet because of drastic increases in production cost.
Elbert Harp, GSPA executive director, strongly disagrees with the idea that higher food and grain costs have caused inflation. "The higher food and grain costs are a result of inflation, not the cause of it. And the farmer is a victim of it, just like the consumer."
Harp puts the blame for the continuing inflationary spiral largely on the higher costs of petroleum products and energy, some as much as 300 percent this year," the GSPA official points out. "Those price increases are making it more and more expensive to produce agricultural commodities and transport them to market. The higher production costs result in a big bite out of farmer profits as well as the consumer dollar."

Earlier this year, the grain sorghum crop was estimated to be 900 million bushels, but after prolonged drought, aggravated by poor harvesting condition, early frosts and freezes and wet weather, the crop is now projected at 600 million bushels, at best.
The cost of producing grain sorghum early this year was $4 per hundred, based on aver-

"Costs of fertilizer, pesticides, farm equipment, fuel, oil, tires and other petroleum products have risen drastically, age yield. But with the crop yielding only about two-thirds of the normal yield per acre and in total production, the cost of production goes up proportionately so that even $6 per hundred will be barely adequate, even for the farmer with fair crops, Harp explained. Farmers with poor crops will have extreme financial hardship, he added.
"It takes only simple arithmetic to figure out that the results from multiplying $4 a hundred by the original 900 million bushels or by multiplying $6 per hundred by the current crop projection of 600 million bushels," Harp said. "The same comparison can be made of the individual farmer's operation to the national gross."

Farm Bureau Committee Will Compile Resolutions

Texas Farm Bureau's 41-member Resolutions Committee will meet in Waco Nov. 20 to compile a set of tentative resolutions on scores of issues from recommendations sent in from county farm bureaus annual meetings. The tentative resolutions will be considered by voting delegates at the upcoming TFB annual convention where they will be adopted, rejected, or amended. The state convention will be held Dec. 1-4 in Dallas.

Resolutions approved pertaining to state issues will become TFB's official policy for 1975. Those dealing with national issues will be forwarded as recommendations to the American Farm Bureau Federation for consideration by AFBF voting delegates at the national convention which will be held in January.

Action at the national convention will culminate Farm Bureau's annual policy development process which begins with input of ideas at county annual meetings and progresses through state deliberations to the national convention. County Farm Bureaus send voting delegates to the state convention with the number of voting delegates from each county based on the membership

Farm-Retail Price Spread Hits 10-Year High

AUSTIN—The difference between what the consumer pays at the supermarket for meat and what the livestock producer receives for his animals increased to the highest levels of the last 10 years during late 1973 and the first half of 1974.

This farm-retail price spread widened at a time when livestock prices were falling and retail meat prices remained at relatively high levels, said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

"Livestock producers continue to get the blame for higher red meat prices," White said, "but the truth is that many of these people are losing their shirts. They are paying higher prices for everything and getting less than ever in return."

The farm-retail spread is a measure of the charges for marketing, processing and distribution between the farm or ranch and the consumer's retail purchase. Spreads for meat include charges for transporting animals to packing plants, slaughtering and processing, packaging and shipping.

A recent U. S. Department of Agriculture report showed that between 1963-69 the spread for beef hovered between 28 and 30 cents a pound. It increased sharply to 45 cents a pound in 1973, a jump of about 50 percent.

Pork margins followed similar patterns with great year-to-year changes, ranging between 29-32 cents a pound in 1963-69 and widening to 38 cents in 1973, an increase of about one-third.

Several factors have contributed to the trend toward wider margins for red meat. These include sharp increases in costs of labor and other services. Hourly earnings of workers in meat packing and processing are three-fourths higher than they were in 1963. In the retailing sector, hourly wages are about 80 percent higher than they were in 1963.

Prices of containers, packaging, energy and rail freight rates have also

Family Land Heritage Draws 1,000 To Fair

AUSTIN—Despite the rains that soaked the State Fair grounds in Dallas, more than 1,000 people turned up at the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) Food and Fiber Pavilion Oct. 14 for the first annual Family Land Heritage Day.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe officially proclaimed the day, sponsored by TDA to honor Texas farmers and ranchers whose families have worked the same land for 100 years or more.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White paid tribute to the honorees, saying they were among the families who have made Texas Agriculture the giant it is.

People began lining up outside the pavilion before the 9 a.m. kick-off. There were oldesters in wheelchairs, babies in their parents' arms and a wide spread in-between of people whose roots stretch back to the early days of farming and ranching.

One honoree arrived with 20 members of her family to observe the ceremony.

During the morning people gathered in the pavilion lounge for coffee and doughnuts and a slide show, The Family Land

Heritage Album, made from old pictures belonging to Family Land honorees.

Another five-screen sound and slide show, "This Land of Texas," was shown in the main part of the pavilion.

Shortly after 1 p.m. the commissioner began giving certificates to 268 landowners and their representatives in the Pan American livestock arena.

Persons who did not attend will receive their certificates by mail. TDA is contacting individual county historical societies in an attempt to set up recognition ceremonies.

This year 562 families and individuals qualified. Family Land Heritage will be an annual event. Registration for the 1975 program will begin in the spring.

1. Drain oil. Remove old oil filter.
2. Clean mounting plate. Rub oil on filter gasket.
3. Spin on LEE Two-Stage Max Oil Filter. Air-rol.

Time: About 17 minutes

Single-stage filters don't always filter as they get dirty when you start cold or stop on the gas. LEE has two stages to filter oil that single-stage filters can miss. The LEE Max Oil Filter gives you a second stage for extended filtration over a broader range of driving conditions.

LEE AIR FILTER

1. Loosen and remove wing nut. Remove old air filter.
2. Replace dirty air filter. Wipe base clean.
3. Install new LEE Two-Stage Max Air Filter. Replace lid and tighten wing nut.

Time: About 2 minutes

Air filters waste gas as they get dirty and choke off air. But LEE saves gas because it has a second stage to stay cleaner longer.
