DAY'S END—A young trail rider tends his horse after "poundin' leather all day long," as the Winters Riding Club Tuesday afternoon ended the first lap of their trail ride to Coleman, where they were to take part in the parade before the annual Coleman Rodeo opened Wednesday night. The Winters riders left Winters early Tuesday morning, and bedded down at Hords Creek Lake Tuesday night. They made the rest of the long ride to Coleman Wednesday. This has been an annual event for the Winters Riding Club for many years.

There is a movement afoot to attempt to acquire the old depot of the Abilene Southern Railroad, and convert it into a museum. This idea has been going around for quite some time, but there has been a bit more thought and talk about it of late, perhaps generated by the Bicentennial celebration, and the sudden realization that something should be done to preserve some of the remaining remnants of our physical heritage.

The "movement" hasn't built up much steam yet, but with a little stoking of the fires, the idea could

Many towns around the country have acquired old depots for this purpose, and it seems a logical suggestion. Albany, for instance, has had a museum in their abandoned depot for a number of years, and visitation is said to be quite high.

After all, what better place or building could be found for a museum than an old depot, which lived through the era of the railroad? Much of this country was opened for settlement with the coming of the railroad; and these depots were the centers of most of the activities of the towns and smaller cities in the early days. Through conversion to museums, these old buildings could regain to some extent their important role in the community life.

If, through some stroke of good fortune, Winters could acquire its old depot for a musem, it would require more than a little work and effort to carry out the plans. A museum—or any other worthy project, for that matter—would not "just happen." The responsibility of completion and continuance would fall on the shoulders of us all.

It can be done, if we want strongly enough for it to be done. Just talking about it won't make it happen, though. And it should be done while interest in the Bicentennial is high—a few months, and the idea probably would died from lack of interest. Many people are ready to begin if they are just given the go-ahead by the rest of us.

To Spend $2,000 For City Meeting Place

The City Council Monday night appropriated $2,000 to be used for remodeling the south section of the second floor of the City Hall, with plans to use the room for council meetings.

Buford Baldwin, city secretary, said the kitchen, which is located about the middle of the second floor, will be partitioned off from the planned council meeting room. It is hoped that the north section of the second floor, and the kitchen area, can be remodeled in the near future, he said.

In other action, the council accepted the resignation of Don Reese, who has been serving as city attorney. Reese will move from the city, it was stated.

The council also authorizes sending four firemen to firemen's training school, to be held July 20-25 at Texas A&M University.

Baldwin also said Texas Cablevision Co., of San Angelo, is "on schedule" in their project to bring cable television to Winters viewers. He said crews are surveying for installation of cables throughout town, and expects work to begin soon on erection of a receiving tower in Winters. The schedule calls for completion in October, Baldwin said.

This line includes the stations of Abilene, Tuscola, Bradshaw and Winters. In a related application The Texas and Pacific Railway Company is seeking authority to acquire and operate Abilene & Southern Railway track from milepost 0.0 to milepost 7.31 near Abilene, Texas.

REASONS FOR PROPOS-ED ABANDONMENT:

The reasons for this proposed abandonment are that the stations located on this section of line do not produce sufficient inbound or outbound traffic to allow the Applicant to operate these stations profitably. In accordance with the Commission's regulations (49 CFR 1100.250) in Ex Parte No. 55 (Sub-No. 4), Implementation National Environmental Policy Act, 1969, 340 I.C.C. 431 (1972), any protests may include a statement indicating the presence or absence of any effect of the requested Commission action on the quality of the human environment.
