TYPING—Mrs. Gary Blake is the instructor for the Typing I and II classes in the adult education program being conducted by Winters Public Schools in cooperation with Texas State Technical Institute, Sweetwater Campus. The school provides facilities for the several classes, and TSTI pays the teachers. There are 24 adult students in the typing class.

BOOKKEEPING CLASS — Mrs. Lanham Bishop teaches the two classes in bookkeeping in the Winters-TSTI adult education program. There is no tuition charge for the adult students, some of whom have said this is one of the best programs to have been started for adults in the Winters school system.

Elm Creek District To Collect Taxes

For the first time, Elm Creek Water Control District, which was organized several years ago, will levy and collect taxes. The Runnels County Tax Collector's office will be the official collecting agency for the area of the district which is in Runnels County, and the Taylor County Tax Collector will handle the collections for that portion located within Taylor County.

The Elm Creek district taxes will be identified on tax statements as Water District No. 3.

Tax rate for the district will be 25 cents per $100 valuation for 1975.

This tax money will be used to acquire right-of-way and easements for building of water retention dams on Elm Creek and its tributaries, for flood control and soil and water conservation.

PP&K Contests Set Saturday

The annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition, for youngsters 8 through 13 years of age, will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, October 4, on the Winters football field, Dale Whitecotton, of Dale's Ford Sales, sponsor, announced this week.

The Winters Jaycees, who are listed as co-sponsors of the event this year, will conduct the competition.

Something new has been added for the Winters PP&K contests this year, Whitecotton said. In prior years, only boys have been in the competition. This year, he said, at least one girl already has registered as a contestant, and more could be signed up before the October 3 deadline.

Trophies will be awarded 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in the local competition in each of the six age groups. Youngsters compete only against others of the same age. There is no body contact; an entrant's size is not as important as his ability to punt, pass and place-kick for distance with accuracy.

Winners can continue up through the Zone, District, Area and Division contests to the National Finals. It's possible that one or more of the local winners could wind up in the finals, which will be held at the Super Bowl in Miami Jan. 18, 1976, Whitecotton said.

CB Radio Owners To Meet Saturday

All Winters operators of Citizen Band radios are invited to a meeting of CBers in the Winters Community Center, Saturday, October 4, at 7 p.m., for an informational meeting.

Members of the Taylor County Citizen Band Radio Association will meet with the Winters group, and explain some of the requirements and advantages of CB radio operation. Also, several Winters city officials will be on hand to discuss plans.

Area Receives $32,814 Grant

Congressman Bob Krueger has announced that Callahan, Coleman, Concho, McCulloch, Runnels and Brown counties have been granted a General Community Programming grant totaling $32,814 from the Community Services Administration in Washington, D.C.

The grant, which will begin October 1, and run for three months, will provide referral and social counseling to some 500 families.

In addition, it will assist 40 families in securing FHA or other loans, and provide employment service for 150 youths.

TO ARIZONA

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jacob have returned home from a trip to Wilcox, Ariz., where they visited with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gerhart, and Mr. and Mrs. John Flanders and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wiegand and family, and the John Dunlaps. While in Arizona they went on a fishing trip to St. Carlos at Coolidge Dam.

Salvation Army Drive To Start

The annual drive for funds for the Salvation Army will begin Tuesday, October 7, with a dinner in the Winters Community Center for team workers who will conduct the drive.

Ted Meyer, Winters Service Unit chairman for the Salvation Army, announced the appointment of Mrs. Larry White and Mrs. Buddy Miller as co-chairman for the drive.

Goal for this year is $1200, for North Runnels County, Meyer said.

The local committee is made up of Meyer, Wes Hays, treasurer; Chief of Police L. C. (Doc) Smith, welfare secretary; Mrs. Emma Marks, Mrs. Lillie M. Young, Mrs. W. W. Wheat, of Wingate; Mrs. Chester McBeth of Crews; and F. R. (Phil) Anderson.

Funds raised during this drive will be used to help the less fortunate help themselves, Meyer said. This aid will be given in the form of groceries, clothing, shoes, utilities, rent, medical aid, or any other aid deemed necessary by the local committee.

Assn. Directors Set Rules for Horse Show

In a meeting Monday night, directors of the Winters Livestock Association set rules for the horse show which will be held in conjunction with the annual Junior Livestock Show in January.

The horse show will be held on Sunday afternoon, January 11, preceding the livestock show Monday, January 12. The livestock show has been changed from Saturday to Monday this year, to give exhibitors more time to prepare animals for the showing. Also, Monday, January 12, is a students' holiday and teachers' work day, and students would have more time to participate.

The horse show will include classes for halter, reining, pole bending, barrel racing, and possible other classes. It will be open to students residing within the Winters or Wingate school districts, and who are members of either or both the Future Farmers of America or the 4-H.

Directors also made some minor changes in rules for the annual Junior Livestock Show.

Those interested in entering the horse show may contact the Winters vo-ag teachers or the county agent before December 15, which will be the deadline for entry.

Directors of the Livestock Association also stressed the importance of the membership drive, which is in progress at this time. Family memberships in the association will admit entire families to the annual barbecue, which has been planned for November 3.

Postal Service Begins New Consumer Service Program

A nationwide Consumer Service Program, designed to improve and broaden the quality of mail service, has been announced by Winters Postmaster H. M. (Jiggs) Nichols.

Beginning October 1, the U. S. Postal Service introduced a program at the Winters Post Office and other offices across the nation to encourage mail users to register problems they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified and which postal managers attempt to expeditiously resolve.

The Consumer Service Program reflects Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient, as well as speedy and reliable," Nichols said.

"Good service is a far broader concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," the Postmaster General says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Postmaster Nichols urged customers in the Winters community to bring their inquiries and complaints to the attention of postal managers. And if people feel their problems have not been properly handled, he said, they should see him personally.

To make it easier for a customer to make a suggestion or complaint about postal service, the new consumer service card will be available from letter carriers and at post offices, Nichols said. As the service card is reproduced on Page 10 of this issue of The Enterprise.

According to Postmaster Nichols, the card is two postal cards with carbon paper between them. "One copy goes to me or a station superintendent so work can begin on the problem" he said. "The other goes to Postal Service Headquarters in Washington for cataloging and analysis. The cards will help management spot problem areas and trends and take corrective action if necessary."

Enrollment High For Education Program

Enrollment in the adult classes being offered by Winters Public Schools in cooperation with Texas State Technical Institute, Sweetwater Campus, has been relatively high, according to School superintendent Bill Graves.

There are 93 adults enrolled in the five courses being offered, Supt. Graves said; 24 in the typing classes; 32 in to classes of bookkeeping; 12 in the auto mechanics course; 13 in the welding course; and 12 in the nurse's aide course.

Social Security Rep Plans Visits To Winters

Jo McCullah, social security representative for the San Angelo Social Security office, has scheduled her October visits to Winters.

She will be at the Housing Project Office on Mondays, October 6 and 20, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Anyone who wants to file a claim for benefits, get information, or transact other business with the Social Security Administration may contact her at this time. Persons who are unable to meet with her are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Winters may call toll free by dialing "Operator" and asking for "Enterprise 2058."

Mrs. Lanham Bishop is instructor for the bookkeeping class; Stanley Blackwell is instructing the welding class; Arnold Thormeyer is the auto mechanics instructor; Mrs. Gary Blake teaches the Typing I and II classes; and Mrs. Jimmy Stubblefield is teaching the nurses' aide course.

Classes meet two nights each week, and Supt. Graves said it is planned to complete all courses by Christmas. He said if enough interest is shown, the program will be offered again during the second semester, possibly with some additional courses. There is no charge for the course.

J. J. Swatchesue Receives High Masonic Award

John J. Swatchesue of Winters has been awarded the designation of Knight of the York Cross of Honour, it was reported today. This honorary degree, highest in the York Rite of Freemasonry, is conferred only on those who have held the highest office in each of the four bodies of the rite. Swatchesue becomes one of the comparative handful of about 400 of the over four and a quarter million Freemasons in North America, the Philippines and Australia to qualify this year.

Swatchesue served as Master of Winters Lodge of Masons in 1943; High Priest of Winters Chapter, Royal Arch Masons in 1970; Master of Winters Council, Royal and Select Masters in 1970; Commander of San Angelo Commandery, Knight Templar, in 1974. He was elected to membership in Texas Priory and his election confirmed by Covert General of the Order on September 24.

There are sixty-eight Pories of the Order with a present membership of 10,000.

Blizzards To Ballinger Friday Night

In a continuation of a decades-old rivalry, the Winters Blizzards travel to Ballinger Friday night for the first of the season's District 6-AA conference games.

Winters has a 2-2 record in non-conference play, while the Ballinger

Bearcats have played only one common opponent in this pre-district warmup: Coleman defeated Winters 49-0, while Ballinger beat Coleman 20-7 the following week.

Winters lost to Clyde 33-0 in the opener; beat Merkel 13-7; lost to Coleman; then defeated Eldorado last week 13-8.

Ballinger opened the season against the Brady Bulldogs, taking that contest 20-7; they hit Reagan County 14-0, and then downed Ozona 31-6, before defeating visiting Coleman last week.

Blizzard Coach Jimmy Stubblefield said the first of the week that Doug Williams, who received a knee injury in the Eldorado game last week, is "questionable" for this week's classic. Otherwise, the Blizzard squad is in shape and ready for this annual get-together between Winters and Ballinger.

The Bearcats, who tied Hamlin for district honors last year, but lost 10-7 to the Pipers for the crown, have 11 starters and 17 lettermen back from last year. They had a 9-1 record for the 1974 season.

Friday night's game will begin at 7:30 p.m. under the lights at Ballinger. All district games will begin at 7:30.

KRUEGLER'S KOLUMN

By CONG. BOB KRUEGER
21st Texas District

Sometimes the actions taken by Members of Congress are designed more for "home consumption" and for how they hope actions will look to their constituents, rather than for genuine formation of national policy. The passage of a major energy bill (H.R. 7014) by the House of Representatives which it has been working on since July is an example of this attitude.

Although I have been working on this bill in committee and on the floor since February, I am frankly deeply disappointed with the final result, and those who voted for many of its objectionable provisions and for final passage did so knowing that the bill cannot become law and is certain to be vetoed. They wanted, however, to be able to tell the people back home that the Congress had passed a major energy bill and then try to blame the President for vetoing it. It is the same attitude of confrontation politics that many Members elected to Congress said they would try to avoid once they took office. But this attitude exists both in Congress and in the Administration in both Republican and Democrat parties and wherever it occurs, it does not, in my judgment, contribute to good national policy.

The part of the bill to which I take strong objection is the oil pricing provision. The Congress voted to pay producers five different prices ranging from $5.25 to $12.50 for the same product. That kind of irrational approach seems to me indefensible and is certain to be vetoed. Nothing in the bill was done to decrease our heavy dependence on foreign imports which now constitute about 40% of the oil we use. Were the bill to become law, it would make our nation weaker rather than stronger.

The bill gives the Federal Energy Administration power to require cities, states, and businesses to convert from the use of natural gas to oil or coal as a boiler fuel to produce electricity. Ninety-five percent of the electricity in Texas is produced from natural gas. That means that one unelected individual has power virtually to control and potentially shut down the operations of our state, since there is no way to change quickly from one fuel to another. The cost of conversion would cause Texas alone to spend $18½ billion just to change equipment. We would then need to improve railroads to deliver our coal and make other expensive alterations.

There is authority in the bill for the General Accounting Office to audit the books, not only of oil companies, but of individual service station owners and I can't imagine why, considering the invasions of privacy already practiced, anyone would wish to enlarge federal encroachments in this way and to give such impetus to bureaucracy and paperwork.

The bill requires all cars produced in this country by 1985 to average 28 miles per gallon in country and city driving. Such a provision is clearly unrealistic. On the floor of the House, some of the proponents of that provision argued that cars producing 28 miles per gallon already exist. I, in turn, pointed out that they themselves did not choose to buy them and drive them and I couldn't see why they would require the American people to buy cars which they themselves were unwilling to buy.

The list could go on, but the pattern is clear. Sometimes Members of Congress, like any other group, get tired and, in their fatigue, are willing to support almost any sort of policy just so they can report to others that they have "done something." In this case, the balance of power which our Constitution wisely set up will have to be exercised by the Executive Branch when the bill is vetoed. After that, perhaps there will be a possibility of compromise by the majority of the Congress and the Francis and Sheila Allen of Fort Worth have many fond memories of Content, where they lived with their parents, who were both doctors, from 1904 to 1910. And their mother, Dr. D. Emery Allen, had the distinction of being the first woman doctor in the county, as well as the first to graduate from a Texas medical school.

Although the little drug store has been removed from the front yard, the Allen sisters have restored the green house where their parents lived and dispensed medicine. Dr. James Walter Allen was a surgeon as well, and his wife's special interest was in diseases of women and children.

Together or separately the doctors administered to the medical needs of the country folk and did a typical "horse and buggy" practice, often going fifty miles on a call.

Dollie and Nellie were the names of the mares that pulled their buggy, and the lady doctor often rode a bicycle when there was no one at home to help her harness the team. She carried a bucket to gather chips for the fire as well as to feed the horses. One day, one of the ponies was disappointed because she had no feed and picked the doctor up by the back of her collar and shook her. The protection of a heavy corset helped her escape injury.

On one occasion when a man, partly intoxicated, came to the door and asked for the doctor, she replied, "I am the doctor."

"One of them damn she doctors," he sputtered. Dr. Allen, the former Daisy Emery, had wanted to be a doctor since she was four years old. She won over the objections of her father by threatening to get married and enrolled in Fort Worth University over the disapproval of the board members by pointing out that rules for admission did not read "men only". She graduated cum laude in 1897.

She took a serious look at her given name when she was in medical school. Daisy didn't sound dignified to her ears. So she changed her name to Frances D. Emery about the time she squared her shoulders to hide any "Ugh!" she felt when she began dissection.

After medical school she went to Washington D. C. for an internship and residency, returning in 1901 to private practice in Fort Worth.

Following her marriage to Dr. J. W. Allen of Fort Worth in 1903, the couple went to Vinson, Okla. to practice medicine but six months later when fire destroyed their home and most of the town they moved to Content.

They spent two years in Goldsboro before moving to Newark in Wise County in 1912. They had volunteered as medical missionaries, but their assignment to take charge of a hospital in China came after Dr. J. W. Allen's death in 1913.

With her daughters, Frances and Sheila, Dr. Allen returned to Fort Worth, joined the Fort Worth University medical department faculty and resumed her private practice. She was well established as a physician when the university closed in 1917. She was always active in medical societies.

Continuing in private practice, she served on the staffs of Harris, All Saints and St. Joseph's hospitals. She gave freely of her time to the City County Hospital and the Wesley Community Center.

Dr. Allen never left the house without her hat, gloves and purse—always a big one jamful of things including a few emergency medical supplies.

An early motorist, Dr. Allen cranked her own car and made a case study of it. Even after World War II she would don overalls to dive under her balky car and point out to a mechanic why it wouldn't run.

In 1948 — she was 72 then — she and her daughters tripped to Europe. In their first letter home the girls wrote, "We're having a hard time keeping up with mother."

Always fond of animals, Dr. Allen would turn her medical skill to their needs. She once picked up a pigeon, struck by a car, with its breast torn open. Home, she sewed the pigeon up and, after some days of care, watched it fly away well.

Failing eyesight and a heart condition caused her to slow down on her medical practice but she never actually retired. She died in 1958 at the age of 82, after more than 50 years as a doctor.

Oldest Letter

The letter "O," which has remained unchanged for nearly 4,000 years, is the oldest of all letters in the 65 alphabets now in use.

The first systematic weather reports in the United States are attributed to the Reverend John Campanius Holm, chaplain of a settlement near present-day Wilmington, Delaware, who began making regular observations only 24 years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620.

So great is the difference between lighted and shadowed spots on the moon that an unprotected person would burn in the searing sunlight or freeze quickly in the shadow of a rock.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Two hundred and fifty Texas liberals met here recently to talk 1976 presidential political strategy and threatened to challenge the new presidential primary bill.

The group, led by Democratic National Committeewoman Billie Carr, said winner-take-all provisions of the primary law — designed to help presidential aspirations of U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen — may tend to deprive minorities of delegate strength.

Ms. Carr indicated the primary act would be challenged under the Federal Voting Rights Act, designed to protect minorities.

Liberals, determined to make things tough for Bentsen and Alabama Gov. George Wallace in the 1976 primary, remained undecided what course of action to follow.

They will meet again October 25 and November 22.

Ms. Carr urges filing of uncommitted delegate slates for national nominating convention seats from all 31 senatorial districts.

Others prefer lining up behind one of the serious liberal presidential contenders, and still others want to file delegates for a "favorite person" like former U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough or Ms. Carr.

Meanwhile, the liberals heard sales talks from representatives of six potential presidential candidates.

Trial Postponed

Impeachment trial of District Judge O. P. Carrillo by the Senate has been postponed until October 6 — perhaps later.

The trial had been scheduled to resume Sept. 29, but Carrillo's trial in Corpus Christi on income tax charges lasted longer than expected.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he consulted with attorneys for all parties and the Senate's legal counsel and concluded that the "wisest course of action" is to put off the impeachment hearing for at least another week.

Appointments

Sidney E. McKinney of Abilene has been named to the Industrial Accident Board by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Briscoe also selected these members for the Motor Vehicle Commission: Robert Lee Ragsdale of Austin, John N. Cleveland of San Angelo and James M. Carnes of San Antonio.

The Governor reappointed to the Texas Judicial Council Dr. Abner V. McCall of Waco, W. St. John Garwood of Austin and Hugh M. Patterson of Houston. He appointed to the Texas Historical Commission Katharyn Duff of Abilene, Joe J. Fisher of Beaumont and Mrs. Mary Moody Northern of Galveston (reappointment).

George F. Dillman of Richardson was re-elected Texas Tourist Development Board chairman.

George Works, Wichita Falls newspaperman, was appointed House Speaker Bill Clayton's press secretary.

Tourist Trade Booms

The state's $4.8 billion tourist industry rushed toward new records in spite of inflation during the first eight months of 1975.

Response to travel advertising rose 80 per cent January-August, and attendance at tourist attractions climbed five per cent.

Courts Speak

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed conviction of three for the murder of a Houston service station attendant because their statements to police incriminated each other.

The same Court affirmed the life sentence of a Lewisville former airline pilot for killing an aged woman cousin from whom he was due to inherit $400,000 worth of land.

Galvestonian Shearn Moody Jr. lost an appeal to the State Supreme Court to get back money from a trust fund he signed over to an insurance firm.

A longer sentence cannot be given on retrial than on initial trial even where the second is probated, the Court of Criminal Appeals held in throwing out a five-year probated sentence of a Terry County man retried on check fraud charges.

The Supreme Court said a life insurance firm cannot deny benefits due to misrepresentation after it has required a physical examination.

Vote Unmonitored

The U. S. Justice Department won't monitor the November 4 Texas constitutional revision election under terms of an agreement between state and federal officials.

The Federal Voting Rights Act extension makes all Texas elections, election law changes and redistricting matters bearing on voting rights subject to federal supervision.

Texas has sought unsuccessfully to delay implementation of the law, but the November vote will escape supervision.

In exchange for the exemption, the state will distribute more than 100,000 Spanish-language copies of the proposed new Texas constitution at supermarkets, courthouses, libraries, churches and meeting places of Spanish-speaking organizations.

Spanish copies of the revision document were to be widely distributed in Spanish-speaking areas anyway, under original state plans.

The state apparently will press its appeal of a federal district court decision that Census Bureau officials didn't have to hold a hearing on validity of their determinations that Texas falls under the Voting Rights Act by virtue of low participation in the 1972 presidential election.

AG Opinions

A county judge can spend county funds to hire as his secretary a county commissioner's daughter, Atty. Gen. John Hill stated in a recent opinion.

In other opinions, Hill concluded: Neither a legislator nor his firm may contract with the state or a county on projects authorized or funded by the current legislature.

The director of a public health district may receive compensation in addition to his regular salary for performance of an authorized autopsy.

Blizzards Edge Eldorado 13-8

In a final-seconds "cliff hanger" Friday night, when all scoring was done during the last five minutes of the football game, the Winters Blizzards defeated the Eldorado Eagles 13-8, for their second win of the season.

The first three quarters were scoreless, with each team trading the ball and failing to reach pay dirt—until the Blizzards, with five minutes left on the scoreboard clock, put the first numbers on the board. Quarterback Jeff Russell hit Kevin Marks with an aerial for 17 yards and a touchdown, to go out front. Marks kicked the extra to make it 7-0.

With this slight lead, the Blizzards dug in and held the Eagles for a few minutes, but with 19 seconds left, Eldorado's Eljio Rodriguez snagged a 13-yard pass from QB George Factor, then Alan Hall of the Eagles ran over for the two extra points, and it seemed that Eldorado would go away winner 8-7.

The Blizzards ran back the ensuing kickoff, and a 15-yard penalty against Eldorado set the stage for a 44-yard return by Jimmy Chapman, and gave the Blizzards one more chance to come out winners.

With 8 seconds left on the clock, QB Marvin Moore hit Tony Johnson with an aerial, as Johnson headed for the goal line marker, barely clearing that obstacle to put the Blizzards ahead. Attempt at conversion failed, and time had run out, with Winters taking the honors 13-8.

In the Eldorado encounter, Jimmy Chapman wrote up 90 yards for 13 carries; Marvin Moore, 40 yards for 12 carries; Jeff Russell, 27 yards, 4 carries; and Tye Rougas, 25 yards in 6 carries.

Coaches' special honors were handed out to several Blizzards for action in the Eldorado game. Jack Fairey and Gary Schwartz divided the "Big Hit" award. Grades to players were: Chapman, offensive back, 76 percent; Rogers, offensive lineman, 63 percent; Rougas, defensive back, 72 percent; and Schwartz, defensive lineman, 70 percent. Jimmy Chapman was given two extra stars for outstanding effort in this game.

MRS. O'CONNOR'S WEEKLY COLUMN

To Refreeze or Not To Refreeze

Whether or not to refreeze defrosted food is a problem plaguing many homemakers—especially during hot summer months. Under certain conditions, frozen foods thawed before they are needed may be safely refrozen to prevent loss, Mrs. O'Connor stated.

Fruits, vegetables and meats may be refrozen if they have not completely thawed, or if they were thawed for a short time and remained in a household refrigerator.

However, thawing and refreezing usually results in loss of quality and flavor. Refrozen vegetables may become soft and mushy. Such fruits still may be satisfactory for cooking, although they've lost their raw fruit appeal.

The process of thawing and refreezing in itself does not make fruit, vegetables or meats unsafe—but thawed foods spoil more rapidly than fresh foods and may become unsafe to eat. Foods probably not worth refreezing are those that reached temperatures of 40-45 degrees F. after passing through the slow temperature changes that occur in a home freezer when operation has stopped.

Mrs. O'Connor explained that because low-acid foods, such as vegetables and meat, spoil rapidly after they have thawed and reached a temperature above 45 degrees F., it isn't advisable to refreeze them.

Acid foods—most fruit and fruit products—are likely to ferment after they have thawed and reached a temperature above 45 degrees F.

However, while slight fermentation of acid foods may change or spoil flavor, it does not make them unsafe to eat, she noted.

America's favorite compact car. Our basic compact, '76 Nova, makes even more sense than the 3 million Novas that preceded it. And Concours, the brand-new model featured here, is our highly practical approach to compact luxury.

Chevette

Enough car for practically anything. It offers room for six at a sensible price. This year, more than ever, its deft blending of mid-size economies, plus room for the average family, makes Chevette a size whose time has come.

There's much more to see at your Chevy dealer's. Caprice, Monza, Monte Carlo, Camaro, Corvette, Chevrolet wagons—something for everyone in 1976.

PASTURE—Robert W. Long, left, assistant secretary of agriculture for conservation, research and education, and Mel Davis, national administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, look at some of the grasses which have been seeded on the Chadbourne Ranch. C. O. (Conda) Richards, executor of the ranch, explains the grazing program of the ranch. Hasrvey Kahlden, right, conservationist with the local SCS office, has worked with the ranch administration in adopting profitable range practices and soil conservation practices. Sec. Long, Davis, and other state and federal agriculturists and conservationists, toured the Chadbourne Ranch last Wednesday. (See story on Page 10)

Asst. Ag Secretary "Pleased" With Chadbourne

Robert W. Long, assistant U. S. secretary of agriculture for conservation, research and education, was impressed with what he saw when he visited the Chadbourne Ranch northwest of Winters last Wednesday, and inspected some of the range management and conservation which has been a No. 1 project of the ranch for several years.

Sec. Long said, "This is what we came to Texas to see and we are very pleased with what we have seen," after a tour of the ranch, accompanied by C. O. (Conda) Richards, executor of the ranch, and state and district Soil Conservation Service officials and personnel.

Mel Davis, of Washington, D. C., administrator of the Soil Conservation Service, described his impression of the range work that has been done on the Chadbourne Ranch as "Excellent!"

The group of federal and state agriculture and conservation officials had visited the Midland-Odessa area Tuesday before stopping at the Chadbourne Ranch Wednesday afternoon. Edward E. Thomas, of Temple, state conservationist, was host for the group on their Texas tour.

Harvey Kahlden, conservationist with the Runnels County Soil Conservation office, accompanied the group on the tour, and explained some of the work which has been accomplished with the SCS and Chadbourne Ranch cooperating.

Greeting the federal and state visitors were C. O. Richards, Mrs. Richards, and their son Brian. Richards is a grandson of the late Conda Wylie, who died Jan. 6, 1969. The ranch was taken over by the present management at that time.

The ranch had its origin when G. G. Odom and W. T. Odom and others established Odom-Lockett Land and Cattle Co., on the site where the headquarters is now located, in 1874. They had more than 1,000 acres near old Fort Chadbourne. The land was divided in 1886. Ruins of the old fort join the present headquarters site.

Richards said that the ranch had cooperated with the Runnels Soil and Conservation District for several years, and many range management practices have been accomplished during those years. Sec. Long said that it was a pity that many tax payers could not see first hand how well some government cost-shared programs work, successfully with greater returns to society through the improvement of such rangeland than the small amount invested.
