In regard to this interest rate on loans, and the anticipated activity of the cotton loan work again picking up, the ASC is encouraging farmers not to wait until the last few days prior to the final availability date, May 31, 1975, to put cotton in the loan. All cotton loans will have to be dispersed by 5 p.m. on May 31, 1975.

The Alcoholic And Business

This article is part of a series on "The Progression of Alcoholism" produced by the Alcoholism Council of San Fernando Valley, Calif. The stories are made available locally by the Central Plains MH/MR Center.

Alcoholism has been referred to as industry's multi-million-dollar headache. Conservative estimates credit 4,000,000 problem drinking employees with cost industry $6 billion annually. The loss consists of inefficiency, work days, accidents and new expenditures to train replacements for alcoholics who have become unemployable.

The safety factor may be the most glaring in the cases of drunk driving covered in a recent one of these articles, but the Los Angeles County Coroner's office, which must make autopsies for all violent or suspicious deaths, says alcohol is responsible for sudden fatalities in industry, boating, aviation, and in the homes and tool shops of private citizens.

Statistics show that five percent of all male employees suffer from alcoholism for between five and seven years before their problems are readily detectable. The alcoholic usually stands on a payroll until unable to function properly, and most are able to cover their illness until it is too late.

Yet the alcoholic can recover if he or family and friends detect his abuse of alcohol early enough to ask for help from service agencies.

Alcohol councils have counseling services for employees on how to deal with these delicate problems.

Practically every industry and large corporation in existence today is concerned deeply with the problem of salvaging problem-drinking employees. Many have departments offering aid to alcoholic employees. The human factor naturally plays a great part, but hard-core economics is enough to prompt such attention.

The president of a large insurance company recently reported that his company spends $3,500 to train a college graduate to become an underwriter. Loss of that man to alcoholism means money down the drain and the training of someone to fill his shoes.

Dr. C.I. Barron, medical director of Lockheed Aircraft, calls the traditional dismissal of a "drunken" worker a triple tragedy - to employer, employee and family, and to society. Barron directs a program credited with helping 60 percent of the corporation's employees who have drinking problems.

So vital is the detection and treatment of alcoholism to industry that the National Council on Alcoholism holds five two-day seminars on the disease and its problems annually in Detroit, St. Louis, Houston, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

From the many industrial studies comes the profile of the alcoholic employee:

Likely 35 to 55 years of age who has been on the job with a good record for 10 or 15 years.

The average alcoholic worker is absent about twice as often, reports late more frequently, has more lost-time accidents, produces less and makes more mistakes than the average worker. Industries with programs to help workers recover report that from 50 percent to 75 percent employed alcoholics are rehabilitated if they earnestly seek aid.

The American Management Association recently stated: "The business world now acknowledges four facts about alcoholism and the alcoholic: 1. Alcoholism is an illness, not a moral problem, 2. It can be treated, 3. The alcoholic is worth treating, 4. He himself is often the last to recognize or accept his problem."

This latter fact is often the first thing the helpful person at the Austin Council on Alcoholism is likely to tell someone who calls for advice on how to approach an alcoholic co-worker. Since alcoholics have certain personality traits, other advice given includes:

You hope a small reprimand for lateness or hangover will make him mend his ways. It won't. No matter what you say, the interview will be unpleasant. If you don't weasel, he will accept what you have to say.

Do not apologize for bringing up the subject, and don't get involved in discussing a man's "right to drink." Don't urge him to be moderate. Don't try to scare him. It won't work to predict that booze will kill him. He will tell you about a friend who drinks more than a quart every day and still functions.

And above all, don't let him avoid the issue; his drinking is causing office problems. Be wary if he quickly agrees to see a psychiatrist. It can easily be another evasion. Knock out the prop that if he finds out why he drinks too much he can adjust and return to drinking as he once did.

And tell him that just knowing he can't drink at all is a relief, as one learns in Alcoholics Anonymous.

Agriculture Day Slated For March 24

"Almost Everything Starts on a Farm" is the theme of American Agriculture Day March 24, sponsored in Texas by the Cowbelles, an auxiliary of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

The purpose of the recognition day is to help city dwellers to understand the importance of agriculture to the economy and the impact of domestically produced food and fiber on their way of life. Mrs. Wayne Owen of Lubbock, state president of the Cowbelles, explained.

To highlight American Agriculture Day in Texas, the Cowbelles will have their state convention with the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association in Austin March 23 to 25. Local industries and businesses around the state are planning various functions to honor agricultural producers.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White commended the program. "The Texas Department of Agriculture certainly supports this new venture and hopes that it is a success."

"Texas, despite its urban growth, is an agricultural state. One of every five working Texans is employed by some segment of the beef industry. Every dollar of cattle sales generates $2.82 in the Texas economy," White said.

"When a feedlot closes or a rancher goes out of business, our economy is hurt. Even though current financial losses increase daily, the damage is not evident to the masses of urban consumers because there are surpluses of beef cattle on the market and most cattlemen are hanging on," White stated.

"I've said before that for the present we are just going to have to eat our way out of the current beef crisis."

On Wall Street

By Bob Hill
Lentz, Newton & Co.

Cattlemen who hoped to see cattle prices improve this year and the worst of the current cattle-glut behind them in 1976, will have to take another look at overall cattle inventories and forget any real improvement for two, possibly three years.

Inventories of cattle and calves now stand at more than 132 million head, roughly 6 million more than the market can profitably handle. This is a three percent jump over a year ago, compared with a normal one percent annual inventory increase. Total losses to cattlemen in 1974 topped $2 1/2 billion, due chiefly to an oversupply of cattle. Disaster hit the feedyards because of high grain prices. Most cattlemen now agree that beef sales will not pick up until after the recession. That could mean as much as two or three more years of heavy losses, enough to wipe out many cattle raisers.

A partial liquidation is the obvious answer to the industry's problems. But obvious answers aren't always the best. There's a little obstacle known as the "profit motive." It doesn't do a bit of good for a cattleman to cut back on a breed herd that took him five years to build and leave himself unable to capitalize on higher beef prices with a good calf crop when the market does improve.

Cattlemen take the blame for overexpanding their herds in the early 1970's, spurred on by a healthy beef market. But this time they have been hit by several market disruptions which were not of their own doing.

First, the big grain sale to Russia triggered a 300 percent jump in U.S. feed grain prices. Then the Nixon Administration announced in July, 1973 that it was lifting price ceilings on beef. When the price ceiling came off, the price for beef plunged instead of climbing. Meanwhile inventories, which had begun to decline, began climbing again and a truckers strike forced inventories even higher. Surprisingly, through all of this, annual beef consumption in 1974 increased about six percent to 115.8 pounds per person and will hit 122 pounds per person in 1975, up five percent over last year. That compares to an average annual growth in beef consumption of two percent per person from 1960 to 1970.

MORE SOAK TIME

Electrogator utilizes a wide sprinkler water pattern to help prevent runoff, caused when too much water is applied to an area in a short time. Illustrated is the Electrogator wide pattern and competitive narrow pattern. If 1" of water is applied through both types of systems illustrated, with the same gallonage and traveling at the same speed, the Electrogator pattern will cover a much greater area, thus more time for that amount of water to be absorbed.

Should your wheat fail because of some natural disaster (wind, hail, unseasonable frost), you need to come to the ASC office, certify your wheat acres and request an appraisal of the failed acres, if you want to be eligible for any disaster payments in 1975. This action must be taken before any other

USDA Food Plans Revised

COLLEGE STATION -- The U.S. Department of Agriculture provides "Family Food Plans" to help families estimate their nutritional needs and plan budgets. Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist noted this week.

"The latest revision of these plans -- at low, moderate and liberal cost levels -- was released in December, 1974, using the most recent complete and reliable information," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

"For example, in the Milk and Dairy Products group, a family of four with two preschool children ages one and five, who uses the low cost plan would need 13 quarts and one cup of milk every week.

"Or they could use a combination of milk and dairy products that furnished the same amount of calcium as the 13 quarts and one cup of milk."

The specialist noted dairy products that provide an equal amount of calcium to one cup of milk include: one ounce of Swiss cheese; one and a half ounces natural cheddar cheese; one and a half ounces process cheese; one cup ice cream; one cup yogurt; one and a third cup creamed cottage cheese; one cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk; and one cup reconstituted evaporated milk.

"Actual cost of the milk group of foods will be determined by the local prices of the products and forms chosen. Generally, nonfat dry milk is the least expensive form," she said.

Flowering Vines For Home Landscapes

COLLEGE STATION -- One way to add color and variety to your home landscape is with annual flowering vines, says one expert in landscape horticulture.

"All that is needed to grow flowering vines is a wooden lattice, woven wire fencing or string to support the plants," says Everett Jenne with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "These vines can be used to shade a porch or add color and interest to a particular area."

Among annual flowering vines that are attractive in home landscapes are morning glories, cathedral bells, moonflowers, nasturtiums, canary birds, gourds, cypress vines and black-eyed Susans.

The morning glory is colorful with white, blue or red flowers. It grows to a height of up to 15 feet.

Start the vines in four-inch pots and transplant them two or three weeks after the usual last frost date. Be sure they are planted in a well-drained, sunny location, emphasizes Jenne.

"Don't plant morning glories in rich soil or use fertilizer, as this will produce vigorous vines but few flowers," says the horticulturist with the Texas A&M University System. Cathedral bells grow up to a height of 20 feet and produce bell-shaped, blue or violet flowers.

"These vines are free of insect and disease problems and can be planted either in a sunny or shady spot," says Jenne.

The moonflower vine is also tall-growing and produces large white fragrant flowers which open during the evening. It also has large heart-shaped leaves that provide a dense shade.

Nasturtiums are bushy vines that grow four-to-five feet tall and produce fragrant red or yellow flowers. They prefer a well-drained soil of low or average fertility.

The canary bird vine grows to a height of about eight feet and is closely related to the nasturtium.

Gourds produce few flowers but have colorful fruit. "The fruit ripens in late summer and can be used for fall and winter arrangements in your home," notes Jenne.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
 by Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A senator and a representative revived an old idea for a new reason — dividing big Texas into five states.

Sen. Bob Gammage, a Houston liberal, and Rep. Fred Agnich, a Dallas Republican, proposed a 1976 referendum on the big carve-

Gov. Dolph Briscoe immediately frowned publicly on their proposition, and few colleagues were expected to go along in the legislature.

Agnich recommended a division by population into Central, North, South, East and West Texas.

The late former Sen. and Rep. V. E. "Red" Berry of San Antonio regularly recommended dividing Texas, in the interest of bringing liquor-by-the-drink and horse racing to South Texas.

Gammage and Agnich want to increase Texas' clout on the national scene. With five states, they argue, the states of Texas could have 10 U.S. senators and a proportional increase in presidential electoral votes.

Sponsors claim the split-up is authorized by the articles of annexation of the Republic of Texas in 1845.

INTEREST BILL PASSES

Governor Briscoe is pondering whether to approve (or again veto) a bill which opponents in the Senate charged would raise interest further on real estate loans.

The bill (HB 351 by Rep. Ben Munson of Denison) would provide for spreading all interest charges, including "points" now paid in advance over the life of real estate loans. It also would permit loans of $500,000 or more for interim construction or real estate financing to individuals at greater than 10 per cent interest.

Briscoe indicated he may sign because the bill appears to be more specific on the type loan to which it applies than the 1973 bill which he vetoed.

APPOINTMENTS TROUBLES

Trouble over appointments flared like brush fires for the Governor in the Senate.

First, he had to withdraw the nomination of Bryan oilman Ford Albritton Jr. for the College Coordinating Board in the face of almost certain rejection. Then, some liberal senators opposed confirmation of Walter G. Sterling, 73-year-old Houston manufacturer and son of former Gov. Ross Sterling, as a University of Texas regent, after Sterling admitted a brief membership in the John Birch Society.

Meanwhile, Sen. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur had threatened rejection of Mrs. W. Smythe Shepherd of Beaumont to the Lamar University board of regents. About the same time, two liberal senators threatened to vote against former Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo if he is reappointed to Texas Water Rights Commission.

San Angelo and Charles G. Scruggs (reappointed) of Dallas. Gen. G. P. Dioso of Dallas was placed on the Midwestern University board. Homer Lee Bryce of Henderson, Joe Bob Golden Jr. of Jasper and James Irvine Perkins of Rusk were reappointed at Stephen F. Austin State University.

In addition, Briscoe reappointed Bernard G. Johnson to the Board of Regents for State Senior Colleges.

Wilmer Smith of Wilson, Grady C. Clark Jr. of Corpus Christi and Heino Stafel Jr. of Austin were reappointed to the State Seed and Plant Board.

J. D. Wendeborn of Laredo and James D. Keister of Amarillo were reappointed to the Texas Board of Physical Therapy Examiners.

UTILITIES BILLS SLOWED

Three bills to create a state utilities commission to regulate rates and services landed in a Senate subcommittee after a hearing which stretched over a week in three separate sessions.

Utilities spokesmen attacked the measures as unnecessary, a handicap to their attracting needed capital and no assurance of lower rates.

Proponents by the score urged the proposed new state agency to help them with their rate problems.

Indications are a bill will emerge from the Senate State Affairs Committee eventually, but Chairman Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan said the vote will be "pretty close."

SHORT SNORTS

A bill to prohibit discrimination against the handicapped passed the State Senate.

So did a measure adopting the Interstate Mining Compact, another prohibiting "child sale," and authority for all home rule cities to levy hotel occupancy taxes for tourist-recreational facilities.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said an audit uncovered a $3 million tax liability against a gas production company.

The Senate jurisprudence committee approved a bill providing that losers in libel and slander lawsuits pay reasonable attorneys fees and court costs.

MONDALE OUT

Senator Walter F. Mondale took himself out of the running for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination and added that the decision was final.

ON TAX REVISION

A $4 billion tax revision package has been proposed by seven Democratic senators. The plan, which they termed a balanced tax reform and relief package, calls for a variety of changes.

ON CHANGE IN SEX LAW

The director of the United States Office for Civil Rights says the Ford Administration will support Congressional efforts to amend the law prohibiting sex discrimination in schools and colleges.

COURTS SPEAK

The State Supreme Court has agreed to hear a $10.5 million lawsuit over a collision of two horses and severe injury of a 15-year-old rider.

The High Court also ordered a jury trial in a Port Arthur man's suit against a finance company which he claimed put out a false telephone report that his brother was dead.

A five year prison sentence of a 17-year-old boy for theft was reversed by the Court of Criminal Appeals because he was slapped and choked by a policeman before "confessing."

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Briscoe named board of regents members for three more institutions.

Appointed to the Texas Tech University board were Don R. Workman of Lubbock, Robert Lee Pfluger of

In need of a Pull...

It is fun to get out and romp with our children, to share in their joy. Sometimes it is even work to pull them on a sled. Afterwards you may be tired and bones and muscles ache, but you think fondly of the laughter, and squeals of delight and the love that shines in a child's eyes. Then you think it's all worth the effort, for they won't be young forever, and someday you will only have memories.

They won't be young forever and now is the time that they need a pull in the direction toward God. Now is the time that you can lead and share in the joys of their worship. Take your children to Church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

NATURAL GAS AND FEDERAL CONTROLS

The Senate Commerce Committee is working now on a bill that would have catastrophic consequences for all Texans and for nearly all Americans. The bill, authored principally by Senators Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, would extend federal price controls on natural gas to natural gas produced and sold within the same state. I can think of no better way to perpetuate a nationwide natural gas emergency, to cripple the economies of South and West and to create a perhaps unhealable rift between producing and non-producing states. Senators Stevenson and Hollings have proposed their bill as a means of dealing with severe and growing shortages of natural gas on the interstate market.

But the remedy they propose is like treating a man with a cold by locking him in a deep freeze, or like curing a headache by amputating the head. Price controls are the cause of the natural gas shortages, not the solution to them. The Federal Power Commission has since 1945 had the power to set the price at which natural gas produced in one state can be sold to pipeline companies that ship it to other states.

Virtually every expert who has made a serious study of the economics of the natural gas industry has concluded that the shortage of natural gas on the interstate market is artificial, and has come about solely because the government has set the price of natural gas too low.

Dr. Edward Mitchell of the University of Michigan, project director of the National Energy Project sponsored by the American Enterprise Institute, says flatly that: "The FPC price regulations have caused a huge shortage of gas."

Dr. Paul McAvoy of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology constructed an econometric model of gas policy, tested it, and discovered that "no matter how serious the FPC is about solving the natural gas shortage, it cannot do so with the perpetuation of present policies."

Dr. Charles Cichetti of the University of Wisconsin said: "I cannot help but feel that the current crisis has been created by government interference in the natural gas industry."

The artificiality of the natural gas shortage is clearly demonstrated by the fact that while more and more interstate pipeline companies have to curtail natural gas deliveries, causing much hardship, supplies of gas on the unregulated intrastate market are, by comparison, abundant.

The purpose of the Stevenson-Hollings bill is to reduce the sharp differential between the low regulated interstate market by setting a controlled price for all gas. This will, they maintain, end shortages.

But it is patently false to assume that lower uniform national prices will generate additional supplies. The opposite is true. Establishment of federal price controls on the interstate market has led to a substantial reduction in that market. Extension of controls would simply make a bad situation worse.

What the Stevenson-Hollings bill will do is redistribute the shortages. Shortages of natural gas will be extended from the states where they now exist into the states where, because of the interplay of market forces, shortages either do not exist or are only temporary.

Texas would be extremely hard hit by passage of this legislation. We Texans are the largest consumers, as well as the largest producers, of natural gas. Texans use 17 percent of the nation's natural gas supplies. Interruption of those supplies could throw the Texas economy into a tailspin, and cause a nationwide job loss of more than 900,000 jobs.

If approved by Congress, the Stevenson-Hollings bill would constitute the worst form of imperialism experienced by the South and Southwest since the dark days of the Reconstruction period.

The bill is in effect a power grab by the non-producing states who want to take from us a vital natural resource at a price they set -- a price below what it costs to find natural gas deposits and bring them to the pipelines.

Senator Stevenson made it very clear in hearings on this bill that he considers our natural gas "a national resource" that should be exploited without due regard for the consequences to the economy of our state.

It is imperative that we Texans make it very clear to Senator Stevenson and to the others who think as he does that Texas is not a colony to be exploited by the rest of the nation. We have rights, and we intend to protect them.

Soybean Acreage To Be Up Prices Somewhat Lower

COLLEGE STATION -- Soybean prices are expected to be somewhat lower in 1975, but producers are planning to plant more acres.

That's how the soybean situation looks to Dr. Art Gerlow, area economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Farmers will probably get about $6 per bushel for their 1975 crop of beans," points out Gerlow. "That's down some from record prices the past two years but still a good price."

The Texas A&M University System economist expects soybean acreage in the United States to jump more than four million acres to a total of 57,106,000 million acres. Some 47 percent of the national increase will be the Delta states, where a large amount of cotton land will be planted to soybeans.

"In Texas soybean acreage is also expected to take a sizeable jump -- from 275,000 to about 400,000 acres. This is an increase of about 45 percent," notes Gerlow. "A large portion of this acreage increase will be in the Gulf Coast area where soybeans are now being planted in rotation with rice."

In addition to the Gulf Coast, soybeans are also grown in Northeast Texas and in the High Plains.

According to the economist, soybeans yield about 25 bushels per acre on the average in the Gulf Coast while average yields in the High Plains are about 35 bushels per acre. Considering yields and production costs along with $6 soybeans, average income per acre should range from about $29 per acre in the Gulf Coast to more than $63 per acre in the High Plains.

Gerlow points out that there are numerous positive as well as negative factors weighing on the overall soybean market situation for 1975. "Carryover is down sharply -- 100 million bushels or 42 percent -- and total use is also expected to be up for the coming year. A short sunflower crop in Russia and a short peanut crop in India last year should boost foreign demand for U.S. soybeans."

On the other hand, U.S. consumption of soybeans could drop due to reduced feeding of cattle, hogs and poultry and increased imports of palm and coconut oil. On the foreign scene, an increase in the production of palm oil and Peruvian fishmeal plus a larger peanut crop in Nigeria and reduced feeding of livestock and poultry could put pressure on foreign consumption of soybeans.

"Overall, producers must keep a close check on both the domestic and foreign market situation and give special attention to management practices that will reduce their production costs," emphasizes Gerlow. "Input costs continue at a high level, so top management is essential for producing a profitable crop."
