SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - An Italian transport plane crashed Thursday while carrying blankets and other emergency goods to besieged Sarajevo, and a U.N. official said there was no sign that the four crew members survived.

U.N. officials suspended humanitarian flights to the city pending an investigation of the crash. But Fernando del Mundo, a U.N. spokesman in Geneva, said there was no indication the plane had been hit by gunfire.

The crash and apparent loss of its four crewmen dampened spirits raised earlier in the day by the arrival of the top U.N. peacekeeping official to discuss the latest agreement on curbing ethnic fighting around Sarajevo.

Leaders may pull plug on rail system

AUSTIN (AP) - Railroad Commissioner Bob Krueger said Thursday that the state should quickly "pull the plug" on the high-speed rail project if it can't be shown to work properly and pay for itself.

"I think very often the charitable thing, if somebody is really in a terminal situation - and I had it with my own mother the charitable thing is finally to pull the plug," Krueger said.

Rep. Ed Kuempel, R-Seguin, said he's ready to take such action and suggested that the Legislature be given a second chance to look at the project during the 1993 session before the authority takes any further action.

Clinton picks up AFL-CIO backing

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bill Clinton, once scorned by some unions as a right-to-work governor from a low-wage state, declared himself a protector of American workers Thursday as he picked up the endorsement of the AFL-CIO.

"I know we have not always agreed and will never always agree on everything," Clinton told leaders of the 14 millionstrong labor federation. "But we share a common commitment to the working men and women and their children and the forgotten middle class."

Many union leaders had been leery of the Arkansas governor because he comes from a rightto-work state and has a spotty record on various labor goals.

Texas Tech's Student Association has a full calendar planned this semes-

SA President Chris Loveless said his goal this year is to prepare and represent students on issues. He said he wants to hear students' opinions on matters affecting the university, such as budget cuts, possible course fees or the three positions opening on the Texas Tech Board of Regents.

"The student voice is bigger than we think it is," said Loveless. "The (Texas) Legislature really does listen to students. We need to exercise our opportunity (when meeting with legislators in January),"

Loveless is working on forming a speakers bureau. The bureau will train students to talk about issues concerning them and the Texas Tech campus. He said this will allow students to share their perspective with more people.

On Sept. 10 Loveless will meet with the Lubbock City Council to ask for support from the city. Lubbock voters can influence how the Legislature rules on matters concerning higher education, he said. Higher education is not a top priority of the Legislature, Loveless said Tech is a vital part of Lubbock because its students bring hundreds of millions of dollars into Lubbock. Budget cuts not only hurt Tech, but also Lubbock businesses. If enrollment drops because of higher tuition, Lubbock's economy will be affected in a negative way, he said.

The Student Association also is planning a Community Day.

Gas leak prompts evacuation of Thompson Hall

Students, faculty and staff evacuated Thompson Hall for about 30 minutes Thursday morning when a natural gas leak was identified by a campus police officer.

"The natural gas leak occurred sometime during the night, and became noticeable in the morning due to its odor," said Arnie Smith, safety assessment officer for the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center.

The leak occurred in a small valve on the fourth floor of Thompson Hall, which houses Texas Tech's student health center.

It was reported to TTUHSC Safety Services at 7:30 a.m. and rectified an

"We evacuated the building as a routine safety precaution," Smith said.

"Anytime there is the possibility of an explosion, evacuation is standard operating procedure. The leak was nothing really traumatic, but there is always potential when you don't know the source."

Kitchen hints that work

I have encountered some strange items while perusing the aisles of the grocery store. I may not know every brand of hominy on the shelves — my grocery trips arise only once per semester — but I would guess I have seen a good half dozen. I also am not a gourmet cook nor do I have the income to become one, so my grocery list is meager at CHARLES best. It usually consists of bread, deli meat, mayo, POLLET lettuce, potatoes, tuna, hot dogs and several cans of pork

The first four items are obviously for sandwiches. I learned very quickly that buying sliced meat from the deli is cheaper than packaged meat, not to mention it tastes better. Lettuce only serves as a filler.

Potatoes are the greatest single vegetable ever invented. Or created. Or grown. Or whatever the vegetably correct terminology is. They can be eaten in number of ways. First, you have your standard baked potato. Second are the ever popular french fries. The list meanders through potato salad to scalloped potatoes to a hearty portion of stew to my personal favorite use the revered potato. A fried potato sandwich.

Although novels could be written about the potato, the list must go on. Tuna is another multi-use food product. Sandwiches, salads, casseroles. There is even Tuna Helper for the culinary impaired. But it's much too expensive and not as daring for me.

I view the experience of cooking as a undiscovered country begging to be taken apart, shaken up and rebuilt in a new form. A survey of my cabinet stock reveals one can of tuna (only in spring water, naturally), the Walton family size box of Minute Rice and a bottle of some generic barbecue sauce. I wonder how that would taste? That's enough of a sketch of my kitchen habits without upsetting your stomach.

The hot dogs and pork and beans are for only one reason — beanie weanies. The single greatest canned food item, but just as easy to make at home without the cost of a high-dollar brand name.

One tantalizing treat that I have already endured and hence will never ingest again is that of the dreaded Ramen Noodles.

I was tempted by that devilish marketing scheme known as the BARGAIN. It's been about two years, but during my Ramen Noodle phase, they were six for $1. One grand dollar. That's it. In exchange, the purchaser is provided with three hot meals a day for two days. Just add water. I caved in to the omnipotent BARGAIN and bought five bucks worth.

For the next 10 days, I was in a dilemma over which flavor to whip up. Oriental? Beef? Chicken? By day seven, I had learned there really are no flavors, the Ramen Noodle people just wanted different colored packages.

THIS JUST IN. A SPECIAL BULLETIN:

Well, gang, I have returned from medical hiatus. That's right, the ol' UD punching bag is back ... and thinner then ever before. How thin, you inquire. You'll just have to read my upcoming columns in Texas Tech's daily paper to find out. This is not to say that I'm working at the paper again. I'm just a concerned citizen with a voice (and a sick sense of humor as I have been told). Soon my new 'n improved mug shot will grace the opinion page of this paper.

I will give you a brief glimpse into a column in the works tentatively "Back Off of The UD."

It has come to my attention that the grumbling about the paper that usually take hold of the campus in late October has already reared its ugly head. I'm writing about the supposedly biased opinions of the paper, the lackluster articles, and the over all poor quality of what people refer to as "the rag mag."

It seems to me that the majority of the naysayers are either politically ignorant, biased themselves or have no idea about how a paper works. They just spout off like Marilyn Quayle at a NOW convention, and are unwilling to do anything about it. No contributions to the editorial page, and they certainly don't bother to apply to the paper. They just sit on their apathetic butts mumbling about things they have no desire to change. More about this later. Sincerely, Kirk Baird-Parks.

at the Houston convention. It was a classic of the misrepresentations, the hollow promises, the brazen falsehoods that have made people have become so politics, take a

If you wonder

George Bush's

acceptance speech

close look at

The big news in the speech was the promise of an across-the-board tax cut. Everyone likes the idea of paying less in taxes. But the Bush plan was so hollow that it collapsed at once when analyzed - not only by the Democrats but by conservative economists.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Nixon, told The Boston Globe: "We're not likely to see any tax cuts out of this. It's just to fill up the space until the election."

The Bush plan calls for tax cuts to be matched by cuts in federal spending. But Stein pointed out that the president also demanded a constitutional amendment to balance his president thinks he was unpatrithe budget, and any spending cuts would have to go to reducing the deficit. "You can't sell the same spending cuts twice," he said. Moreover, some of the particular cuts proposed by Bush — in medical care for the elderly and the poor have no chance of enactment, and he negotiated end to the war in El knows it. In fact, his budget this year called for increases in Medicaid Nicaragua. spending.

But my favorite passage in the Bush speech was this one: "From Angola to Central America they (the Democrats) said, 'Let's negotiate, deliberate, procrastinate.' We said, 'Just stand up for freedom.'"

The purpose of that passage was of course to make the Democrats look unpatriotic. Bush was using the tactic pioneered by Richard Nixon and Joe McCarthy. But in the examples he chose he turned the record exactly backward.

In Angola, the consistent American policy through the Carter, Reagan and Bush administrations was to help negotiate an end to the brutal civil war. The policy was brought was to a successful conclusion — an admirable conclusion by Hank Cohen, Bush's assistant secretary of state for African affairs. Cohen must be surprised to hear that

In Central America, the Reagan policy, created by Al Haig, was to stoke up war. Bush's assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, Bernard Aronson, turned that policy around. He aimed for a Salvador and a political solution in

The peaceful policy worked with crucial help from Jimmy Carter at the Nicaraguan election. Aronson, too, must be surprised to know that Bush disapproves of negotiation.

Then there was Bush's statement that Bill Clinton had "raised taxes and fees 128 times" as governor of Arkansas. Dan Quayle first used that figure. It has the delusory precision of Joe McCarthy's claim that he had the names of 155 or 163 Communists in the government.

But the figure had been examined by Michael Kinsley in The New Republic, and exploded, before the convention. Kinsley showed that the list produced by the Bush-Quayle campaign was, as he put it, "hilariously shoddy."

One item listed as a "tax increase" was a 1987 law lengthening the Arkansas dog-racing season. Why? More days, more revenue from the state gambling tax. Another was a $1 increase in court costs imposed on convicted criminals. And so on.

There have been about as many tax cuts as increases in Clinton's years as governor. And Arkansas is 49th among the 50 states in per capita state and local

The word carpenters who put together the Bush speech surely knew the 128 figure was phony. The put it in there anyway, and Bush used it.

Does that matter? Maybe I am naive, but I think it does. Hyperbole is to be expected of politicians. But deliberate lies? I think that kind of politics has brought this country close to disbelief in its own political system.

When an incumbent president makes such a speech, the purpose is to distract the voters from his record. But as Bush spoke, the real world reminded us of the record. The dollar fell to a record low against the German mark. The stock market dropped sharply. And the largest number of Americans in a decade filed new unemployment compensation claims.

Students will have a choice of visiting nursing homes, painting houses around the city or volunteering at the South Plains Food Bank or the Salvation Army.

"This will be an opportunity for the students to see what they are paying for (in fees)," Loveless said.

Students Day will take place outside the University Center. Campus service representatives will talk with students and answer any questions students may have about available services.

Michelle Sutton, Student Association internal vice president, said, "Last year they had it in April or May and no one came because by the end of the school year, what's the point. So, this year they decided to have it in September."

Loveless and Sutton encourage all students to attend the Student Senate meetings this year. The first meeting will be 8 p.m. Sept. 10 in the UC Senate room.

This summer, the Student Association accomplished three important goals on behalf of Tech students. In May, Tech's administration asked the association to research the possibility of opening more class sections. The association focused the study on basic classes that a majority of students take.

For example, the association discovered that communication studies courses had a 365-student limit. However, 395 students had enrolled for the courses, and 747 were projected to enroll.

"At the same time, the administration asked the deans, particularly Arts and Sciences, to do a report on what the pressure points were, and those two (studies) came out exactly the same," Loveless said. The administration was able to funnel money into more classes and raise the student limit for communication studies to about 600.

Loveless said they considered opening more Spanish I classes, but it would have created a greater need for more Spanish II classes.

I understand the financial crunch now," Loveless said. "The administration worked extremely well with me, and I was really happy about that."

In all, 32 more sections of various classes were opened.

The Student Association also worked on allowing students to park in front of West Hall. He said the association received so many complaints when Tech made it illegal to park in front of West Hall that its officers realized something needed to be done.

Workers coaxing victims of hurricane out of homes

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Building inspectors and social workers went door-to-door Thursday, trying to coax more people out of their hurricane-ravaged and possibly dangerous homes and into military tent

More rain fell on the area smashed by Hurricane Andrew on Aug. 24, making busy roads slippery and weighing down soaked, sagging ceiling materials exposed by the storm. At least four homes collapsed overnight because of the rain, Homestead Police Maj. Chuck Habermehl said.

No new injuries were reported. Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton joined the long line of politicians visiting southern Florida, flying to the heavily damaged Homestead Air Force Base that President Bush promised to rebuild even though some Democrats in Congress are opposed.

The rain, which forecasters said would pick up again this weekend, dampened some of the earlier optimism about the huge relief and rebuilding effort that has brought nearly 34,000 military personnel to southern Florida

'Today, I was hoping to see the progress I'm hearing about, but it was hard to see," Linda Shelley, secretary of the Florida Department of Community Affairs, said after a helicopter tour.

Residents she talked to complained of not enough ice, water and toilets and too many mosquitoes. The Air Force helped Dade County with aerial spraying. State officials asked pool companies to volunteer to clean up stagnant swimming pools where mosquitoes have started breeding.

The White House announced that the Small Business Administration had speeded up its handling of loan applications from hurricane victims in Florida and Louisiana, reducing the usual 30-day processing period to seven days.

The state Department of Labor reported Thursday that 60,000 homes had been destroyed in Florida, leaving 250,000 people homeless. It said 86,000 people were thrown out of work by the storm. More than 400,000 people remained without electricity.

Other federal and local agencies have produced widely varying estimates of the number of homes destroyed.

State officials also said 1.9 million meals had been served at 110 sites. As of Thursday, the hurricane was blamed for 46 deaths in Florida, Louisiana and the Bahamas. Damage in Florida has been estimated at $20

Five tent cities in Homestead and Florida City with room for 3,800 people were up, but only a few hundred people used them Wednesday night. The Army said seven more could be built, bringing the capacity to 20,000 people.

Proper decorations make residence hall living fun

BY SANDRA PULLEY THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Thousands of Texas Tech students live in boxes.

Housing and Dining Services calls these places four-walled living space rooms, but for the next semester, residents will call them home.

Luckily, Tech's housing office offers bulletins and manuals to help students transform their undecorated rooms into aesthetically pleasing and practical domains.

According to the "Designs for Living Research Manual," available from hall resident assistants or the housing office, students should choose room decorations for their aesthetic and maintenance value, cost efficiency and safety.

"You can use the elements of design like contrast and harmony when arranging your room," said Denise Hostick, coordinator of housing design. "Right now, there is a new emphasis on environmental themes in decorating."

Hostick said residents may paint their rooms with university approved colors. The housing department will provide paint, rollers, and other painting supplies for students who fill out

What is the Gospel?

Gospel means good news. The good news is that "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, and that He was buried, and that He was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures."

You see, God in His Justice could not ignore our sin, but God in His love desired a right relationship with us. So God sent His Son to die in our place, for our good.

The Bible says, "For God so loved the world, that he gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

Tape of Diana labeled invasion of privacy

LONDON (AP) — A tape of an intimate phone call purportedly between Princess Diana and a male friend was banned from the national phone network Thursday as an invasion of privacy.

Since newspapers published extracts from the 23-minute tape nearly two weeks ago, more than 90,000 people have called telephone lines set up by The Sun newspaper to listen to the voices.

The Independent Committee for the Supervision of Telephone Information Services, a watchdog group, said that listening to the voices and "the silences and stresses, is to obtrude significantly into a person's privacy more than is the case where the words are merely read in cold print."

The tape, said to be recorded by an amateur radio scanner 2 1/2 years ago, was published amid increasing speculation that Diana and Prince Charles may separate or divorce.

Newspapers said the tape was of Diana, 31, talking to a bachelor friend, James Gilbey, 35.

During the call, the woman describes her marriage as "torture," and the man says, "I love you, I love you."

Ozzy returns to San Antonio after decade

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ozzy Osbourne, the British heavy metal performer who urinated on the Alamo when he visited San Antonio a decade ago, is returning for a concert next month on his "No More Tours" tour, a promoter says.

Jack Orbin, president of Stone City Attractions, said Wednesday that Osbourne will appear at Freeman Coliseum on Oct. 5.

Osbourne, former lead singer of Black Sabbath, was arrested for public intoxication after a Feb. 19, 1982, show at the Convention Center

He relieved himself on the Alamo's Cenotaph memorial the day of the concert. Osbourne said afterward he intended to defile important public places. "The White House is next," he said.

Family atmosphere promised at Labor Day Riverfest '92

Drug-free family fun in the park on Labor Day is the goal of this year's Riverfest '92. The festivities will take place Monday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Buddy Holly Park. Live music, square dancers, food booths, arts and crafts, and a kiddie area will be provided.

All the proceeds benefit Talking and Listening to the Children, an organization that provides emotional support for school-age children of divorced

Carter looking to avoid volleyball's sophomore jinx

THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The sophomore jinx has hit many players in many college sports. For Texas Tech women's volleyball sophomore setter Ginger Carter, she hopes to avoid that jinx.

"I am ready to get going," the Arlington High School standout said. "If we are going to win conference, this is the year."

Carter conveys the confidence that this 1992 Red Raider squad has as to finally getting that elusive Southwest Conference title.

The Raiders are picked to finish second in the SWC, but that should not stop this team from taking advantage of a rebuilding year at Texas.

"Texas lost four starters along with their good passers. They have some new players," Carter said.

Tech opens its season against the University North Texas in the first game of the Oklahoma Tournament at 5:30 p.m. today in Norman. On Saturday, the Raiders will face Northern Arizona at 10 a.m. and the Oklahoma Sooners at 7:30 p.m.

Carter said she feels less pressure in her second year of backing up starting setter Rochelle Kaaiai.

"If I mess up it is OK, where last year I felt like I couldn't," she said.

Even though the Raiders won the Tuesday scrimmage with West Texas State, Carter said she feels the team can improve on that performance.

"(Head coach Mike Jones) wanted everybody to play and it (the scrimmage) told us what wouldn't work and what would," she said.

Houston (0-0) at Tulsa (0-0) Skelly Stadium (40,385) Tulsa, Okla.

A tough test for the Cougars and

But the situation is a little bit differ- Bengals have given A&M trouble be- time. Louisiana Tech has a tough their new quarterback, the player to be good season, hoping to prove last year was not a fluke.

> Rice (0-0) at Air Force (0-0) Falcon Stadium (52,153) Colorado Springs, Colo. What a tough way to start off a promising season for the Owls.

Air Force comes into the game after a tough loss in the Liberty Bowl and may finally have a chance at that elusive Western Athletic Conference title.

> Tulane (0-0) at Southern Methodist (0-0) Ownby Stadium (23,783) Dallas

Both these teams are bad, but look for SMU to grab its first opening game since the Mustangs were given the death penalty.

WORK SMARTER. NOT HARDER.

ngineering student? Smart. Math or science major? Also smart.

On tests, you probably run equations over again to make sure they're right. So you're working harder.

You don't have to do that anymore. Not when you use the TI-68 Advanced Scientific or TI-85 Graphics Calculator, with their last equation replay feature - and many other smart functions.

We've spent years with and educators like your professors to develop the TI-68 and the TI-85. That's why they're so highly recommended.

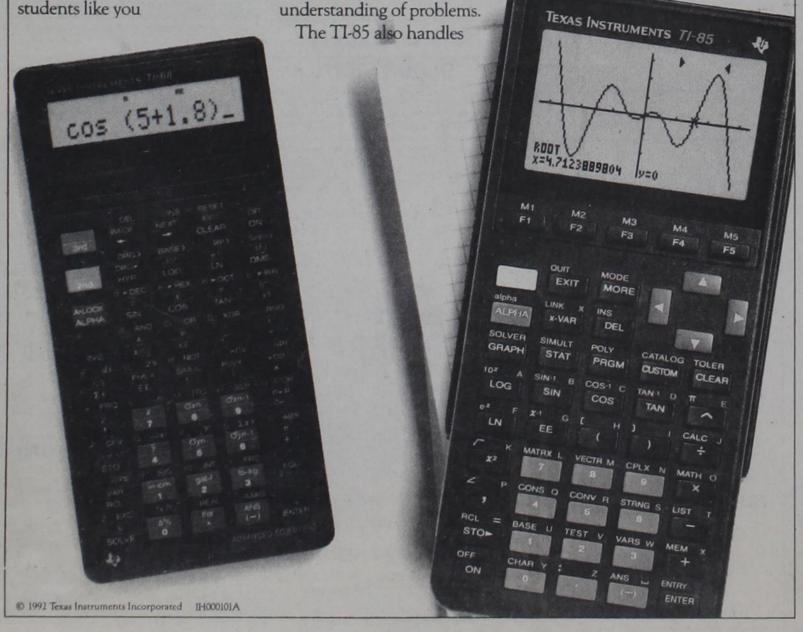

For engineering students, the TI-68 solves up to five simultaneous equations, has complex number functions and offers formula programming,

The TI-85 builds on the power of the TI-68 by adding a wide range of graphing capabilities. Math students can handle calculus problems more easily. And technical students can see the functions for a better understanding of problems.

complex numbers. Matrices. Vectors. Lists. Strings. Plus, it offers a powerful one-equation SOLVER.

Try a TI-68 or TI-85 at your local TI retailer today. And start working smarter. Instead of harder.
