Leaflets prelude airdrop to Bosnians

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The U.S. military launched a major relief effort in besieged eastern Bosnia, dropping a million leaflets saying airdrops of badly needed humanitarian aid were on the way. But Bosnian officials said Sunday that some of the messages missed the mark.

Local officials said residents feared the bundles of food and medicine also might not land in the intended villages.

Ham radio operators in the beleaguered eastern town of Cerska were issuing urgent reports that rebel Serbs had overrun seven surrounding villages.

In another development, the Observer newspaper reported in London that Russia has agreed to supply $360 million worth of arms, including sophisticated missiles, to Serbia and Serb-controlled areas of Bosnia and Croatia. Such an agreement would violate a U.N. arms embargo.

FBI confirms bomb caused explosion

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI confirmed Sunday that a bomb caused the explosion at the World Trade Center.

James Fox, head of the New York FBI office, said agency explosives experts came to that conclusion. "We are prepared to say at this time that it definitely was a bomb in the opinion of the FBI," he said on WCBS-TV. The investigation could take several months, he said.

"We aren't going to complete this crime scene investigation for some time," Fox said. "You've got some drug dealers upset with the U.S. government, it could be terrorists upset for other causes. We're not speculating at this point."

Also Sunday, Police Commissioner Raymond Kelly told a news conference that there had been 40 telephone calls claiming responsibility for the blast.

STATE

Agents killed during gunfight with cult

WACO (AP) — A fierce gun battle erupted Sunday as law officers tried to search the compound of a heavily armed religious cult near Waco. At least four federal agents were killed and at least 14 others injured.

An undetermined number of the Branch Davidian religious sect were believed to be injured and at least one killed, law officers said. However, there was no specific information and none had been taken to hospitals by late afternoon.

Agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, aided by National Guard helicopters and local law enforcement, mounted a frontal assault on the sect's fortified compound.

Two of the three helicopters were hit by gunfire and one was disabled.

Leaders seek to improve Tech's image

by JULIE ANN ANDRES and SANDRA PULLEY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech and city leaders exchanged ideas Friday about revitalizing Lubbock neighborhoods, increasing cultural sensitivity and recruiting Tech students through citywide internship and partnership programs.

Possible improvements in the Overton neighborhoods were discussed by the 16-member delegation, which met at the University Medical Center's McInturf Conference Center.

The Overton communities are bounded by University Avenue, Fourth Street, Avenue Q and 19th Street.

"Texas Tech wants to be a major part of the community and not an island unto itself," Tech President Robert Lawless said. "By being an integral part of the city we can improve Lubbock's quality of life."

Lubbock Mayor David Langston said improvements are needed on Tech's "front door" because the conditions in the Overton area could give potential students and other city visitors a negative opinion about the city and campus.

"When people come to see Tech, those first impressions are hard to shake," he said.

The Overton areas were included in an enterprise zone package that was approved by the Lubbock City Council and Lubbock County Commissioners earlier this month.

Enterprise zones are created to help encourage growth in economically disadvantaged areas by giving tax incentives to residents and businesses located within the boundaries.

Allowing children from the city's low-income areas to interact with Tech students also would help motivate them to pursue education opportunities after high school.

"A lot of children in this community don't know what Texas Tech University is," Councilman T. J. Patterson said.

"When I worked at Tech in the '70s, we would bring the kids to the business tower and let them ride the elevators. These kids are the future graduates and I'm putting all my hope in them."

To bring Tech into the mainstream of community activities, Tech Executive Vice President and Provost Don Haragan suggested an open house that would allow Lubbock residents to view Tech's research and teaching activities.

Lawless said Tech and the city also can work together to improve racial sensitivity.

Racial tensions increased last semester when members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and the Fashion Board sponsored a "Party in the Projects" mixer in which minorities were said to have been ridiculed.

"At least one thing the racial incidents last October did was give a wake-up call for us to be more active and public in announcing multicultural efforts," Lawless said.

Langston said, "Events of recent months should be a call to address these problems."

Students' travel abroad funded through competitive scholarships

by SANDRA PULLEY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Traveling to foreign countries and studying abroad may be less expensive with a Texas Tech scholarship offered by the Office of International Affairs.

"We are trying to give scholarships to the people that will be the best representatives of Texas Tech in a foreign country," said Mike Turner, a student assistant in the office. "Many students just do not know that there are many opportunities to study abroad."

The scholarships are funded through a $1 fee paid by Tech students each semester.

Studying abroad can become expensive because students have to pay for airfare, housing, meals, tuition and additional expenses, Turner said.

"Even with the scholarship, the student will have to pay some of the costs out of their own pocket," he said.

"The scholarship can at least help defray some of the costs for airfare and meals."

Summer, which is the most popular time to study abroad, is also the most expensive time. Airlines, museums and hotels often raise their prices during the vacation season, he said.

Turner said students can receive a scholarship for foreign study through Tech programs or programs sponsored by other groups. Tech offers exchange programs in France, Britain and Mexico and a semester program in London. Tech also arranges student exchanges through the International Student Exchange Program.

Most courses taken at accredited foreign institutions are transferable to Tech, but students should consult their academic

Official name change kicks off week-long celebration

by JULIE HARRIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

An unveiling ceremony and balloon release will mark the official name change of the College of Home Economics to the College of Human Sciences today as Human Sciences Week gets under way.

"Celebrating the Challenge of Change" is the theme of Human Sciences Week, which begins today with a scholarship convocation honoring endowed scholarship donors and recipients at 10:30 a.m. in the human sciences building, room 169.

"The change in name broadens the scope and communicates a more comprehensive view of our mission and programs," said Elizabeth Haley, dean of the College of Human Sciences.

Following the scholarship convocation will be an awards luncheon from 11:45 to 1:30 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. The heritage of home economics/human sciences will be honored and outstanding students in the college will be recognized at the luncheon.

A ceremony unveiling the college's human sciences sign will follow the luncheon at 1:45 at the front entrance of the human sciences building.

Nationally recognized guest speakers will give presentations throughout the week, including Pia Mellody of Mellody Enterprises Inc., Henry P. Conn of A.T. Kearney Inc., Pauline Boss, a professor at the University of Minnesota, and Lynne W. Scott, an assistant professor at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

The heritage of home economics will be celebrated beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Texas Tech Museum. A reception and exhibits, co-sponsored by the Women's Council of the West Texas Museum Association and the College of Human Sciences, will follow the celebration.

Betty Mills of the museum's clothing and textiles department will present "Threads from the Past," the fashion memories of early faculty and friends of the College of Home Economics.

A human sciences reception featuring the HI-TECH Fashion Group style show will begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the human sciences building's EI Centro room.

The Child Development Center will sponsor a "Race for Kids" on Saturday, with proceeds going to the center. There will be a 5-km individual race with a $10 entry fee and a 5-kilometer intergenerational relay with a $25 entry fee. The grand prize, donated by Southwest Airlines, will be a trip for four to Sea World in San Antonio.

Mass Comm Week begins 22nd year

by JULIE HARRIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's annual Mass Communications Week begins today, featuring a series of informative speeches, seminars and panel discussions from professionals in the mass communications field.

This year's week, "Beyond the Boundaries," will kick off with a bowling party at 7 p.m. today at Imperial Lanes, located at 3632 50th St.

A $5 fee will include bowling for one hour, shoe rental, snacks and a variety of door prizes. The cost will be $2 for those wearing a 1993 Mass Communications Week sweatshirt.

The annual week began in 1971 to allow mass communications students to explore career possibilities by coming into contact with established professionals in the field.

"Mass Communications Week is really for the students, to bring a professional perspective on the job market," said Amy Canales, a student director of public relations for the week.

The event, which has grown in prestige and size, has attracted an increasingly large audience from off campus since 1971, Canales said.

Kristin Weathersby, director of the 1993 Mass Communications Week, said, "We have the opportunity to hear from leaders on the cutting edge of the globalization of mass communications."

All speakers are scheduled to lecture in the University Center Allen Theatre. Panel discussions will take place in the mass communications building, room 111.

Rick Perez, director of programming for TNT-Latin America of Atlanta, Ga., will give the keynote address at 9 a.m. Wednesday on the future of paid and basic cable in Latin America.

A lecture, titled "What's a Nice Girl Like You Doing in a Place Like This?" by Jane Arst, president of Arst Public Relations Inc. of Bellevue, Wash., will follow the keynote address at 10 a.m.

Advertising speaker J. Bart Johnston, brand manager of 7Up brands of Dallas, will present "7Up: see WEEK, page 3

Economic stimulus package 'heaven-sent,' Babbitt says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the half-billion dollars in new funding that President Clinton has recommended for the Interior Department won't be going to innovation. It's needed instead to keep bridges and dams from collapsing and Indian reservation schools from closing.

Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt, who inherited an agency with a multibillion-dollar maintenance backlog, says the money in Clinton's economic stimulus plan is "heaven-sent."

And for those in Congress who have warned that some situations at Interior have reached crisis levels, the money couldn't come soon enough.

"Years of mismanagement and bad policy have jeopardized the future of our resources," said Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House natural resource committee that oversees the Interior Department.

"Unless we act decisively and quickly, our children will be deprived of much of what makes us love our country," he warned recently.

The 72,000-employee department is charged with managing the nation's hundreds of millions of acres of public lands, from national parks to Indian reservations.

Clinton has proposed $460.2 million in new short-term economic stimulus funding for the agency. Most would go to repair longstanding problems at national parks and Indian reservations.

Some $9 million is set aside just to fix bridges on public lands managed by Interior that have fallen into such disrepair that they've been cited for safety violations.

Another $250 million is set aside to help the National Park Service alleviate a $4 billion maintenance backlog by repaving roads and repairing park facilities that have been scheduled for such work for years.

Half of the proposed $100 million in new spending for the Bureau of Indian Affairs will be used just to keep reservation schools from shutting down this year. The allocation was needed after the department underestimated enrollments for the schools by more than 5 percent.

Beyond the short-term stimulus package, Clinton also proposes to spend $82 million over five years on high-risk dams on Indian reservations.

'Petite fireball' Joy White promising newcomer in country music

THE FAR SIDE

By GARY LARSON

by BETH RASH
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

MUSIC REVIEW

Between Midnight and Hindsight

Artist: Joy White

Background: Newcomer to country music scene from Arkansas whose voice resembles Patty Loveless and Emmylou Harris. Some of her songs are written by country greats such as Marty Stuart and Kevin Welch.

She's "all red hair and red lips, sass and fire." And then some.

Country singer Joy White gets these compliments and more from Sony/Columbia Records publicist Holly Gleason, who adds to this description of White by saying, "She's the kind of woman country singer who can make her man walk the line by sheer force of will."

Country music lovers will be wise to catch on to the new sounds of newcomer White and to look for great things from the "petite fireball" in the future.

All of these recommendations are apparent on White's debut country album, "Between Midnight and Hindsight," which showcases the Arkansas-born singer's talent with songs written by established country singers and songwriters like Marty Stuart, Kevin Welch and Bobby Braddock.

The 11 songs on the album range from the saucy, upbeat sounds of "Little Tears," to the current cross-over type of country music found in her first single, "True Confessions," and finally to the traditional slow country ballad of "Cold Day in July." Her voice and energy are reminiscent of early Patty Loveless albums and her singing style is similar to classic Emmylou Harris tunes. Judging from her picture on her album cover, White even looks a little like star Pam Tillis, who sang her way to stardom with songs like "Let That Pony Run." White's album, dedicated to Gail and Gene White "a.k.a. Mom and Dad," is produced by Nashville's Blake Chancey and Paul Worley.

The music offers no surprises, yet is easy to listen to and even sing along with. Highlights on the tracks include some of White's own compositions, such as "Bittersweet End" and "It's Amazing."

White's last thank you before dedicating the album to her parents is a piece of gratitude to "the Lord above for giving me the gift of music."

With the quality and class her first album emanates, White could be right. She seems to have the gift of music, and she will have much to look forward to, including a long, successful career in country music.

Look for her to join the ranks of low-key singers like Mary Chapin-Carpenter and Trisha Yearwood. White doesn't possess an extremely unique sound, but she could sneak up on superstars one day with a sultry, slinky tune like "Let's Talk About Love Again."

"Norm? This is Mitch. ... You were right - I found my drill."

Technician takes break from daily medical routine to collect, donate South American artifacts

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—For decades, Charles Robinson quietly slipped away from his 9-to-5 job at the University of Kansas Medical Center to talk to witch doctors and collect poisons. As an audio-visual technician, or "a glorified shover of equipment," as he puts it, Robinson pointedly avoided attention, keeping his vacation avocations quiet. Now, however, his secret is out.

On display at the Clendenning History of Medicine Library at the medical center is an extensive collection of blow guns, headdresses and other artifacts from Robinson's yearly voyages deep into the Amazon jungle.

"If I start talking about all this, people think I'm absolutely nuts," he said. "So I usually keep quiet, or else I have to drag this stuff out to prove it."

Robinson is donating his collection to the University of Kansas. It will be moved to the Museum of Anthropology after modernization is complete, some time in 1994, officials said.

"I don't want this split up after I kick off," said Robinson, a gravelly-voiced 59-year-old bachelor who lives in Kansas City, Mo. "It's getting harder and harder to find good stuff every time I go down there."

The "good stuff" includes strikingly colorful arm bands and headdresses made from eagle and parrot feathers by the Gaviao and Yanomamo tribes in Brazil.

Young Democrats to turn club into 'safe sex haven' to benefit SPARC

by JESSICA SMARTT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Young Democrats plan to transform the Kitchen Club into a safe sex haven, complete with ribbons and 'safe sex on the beach' drinks.

The organization is sponsoring a benefit for the South Plains Aids Resource Center at 8 p.m. March 9. Cover is $3, and all proceeds will benefit SPARC.

At the party the Young Democrats and SPARC will hand out condoms along with instructions on how to use them properly.

SPARC will also have information available about AIDS and offer free HIV testing.

Most condom failure occurs because people do not know how to use them correctly, said Todd Klein, a member of Young Democrats.

"AIDS is out there killing people," said Klein. "Prevention is the best way to eliminate it."

Randy B Jeffrey, president of Young Democrats, said his organization realized that SPARC needs the support of the community.

"A lot of local organizations stay away from helping SPARC because of the stigmas associated with people who have AIDS," said Stan Slaton, former president of Young Democrats. "We wanted to stand up for what is right," he said.

"It is important for people to reach out to people with AIDS and give them support."

"AIDS has been so ignored by the past two administrations that it has reached a point of critical mass. If we don't do something about it, we're all going to suffer," Slaton said.

SPARC is a non-profit organization that depends on donations for support.

It provides many services to people who are HIV-positive and people with AIDS.

SPARC has support groups and counseling available for its 207 clients. Volunteers assist the clients with prescriptions, financial aid and home health care.

The volunteers also provide transportation and free temporary group homes to clients who can no longer afford to support themselves and have a food pantry for clients who cannot afford food.

SPARC also offers free confidential AIDS screening.

Raiders split weekend games with Lobos; fall to 9-2

The Texas Tech baseball team lost its first games of the young season this weekend, splitting games with the University of New Mexico in a three-game series played in Albuquerque.

The Red Raiders, which had begun the year 8-0, suffered in the hitting department Saturday in a 12-0 loss, with Lobo pitcher Chris Baum only allowing four hits in a complete game.

With a win Friday, a sandwich between the loss Saturday and a loss in the series opener on Thursday, Tech fell to 9-2 on the year. Mitch King, Mike Kinney, Clint Bryant and Chris Benham all had hits, but Tech was not able to put together any sort of offense and committed three errors during Saturday's game and a total of seven in the series.

John Macatee was tagged with the loss, giving up eight runs on eight hits in four and one-third innings of work. Kevin Hannah and Eric McLaughlin relieved Macatee but combined to give up six hits and four runs in the last four innings. On Friday, a three-run home run by George Kilford vaulted Tech to a 12-5 win, as the Raiders pummeled three New Mexico pitchers for 17 hits.

J.J. Varney picked up the win, going six innings and giving up five hits, while Hannah came on in relief to pick up a save.

Tech will return home today to take on the Oral Roberts Titans in a single game at Dan Law Field beginning at 4 p.m. weather permitting.

Tech sports roundup

Men's tennis

The Texas Tech men's tennis team defeated Northern Arizona 5-1 on Saturday to up its overall record to 9-2. The winners in singles events included Juan Gutierrez, Clint Graf, Shay Coker and Ty Anderson.

Winning combinations in the doubles were Thomas Cook/Graf, Eric Guzman/Gutierrez and Coker/Jason White. On Friday, the team was not as successful with New Mexico routing the netters 6-1.

Saturday to defeat Tulane's Danielle Dilloff in a singles match, 2-6, 6-3 and 6-3. Gilreath and Debbie Biswell defeated Tulane's Ashley Stowe and Lara McNeely, 6-3 and 6-0 in doubles action. On Sunday, Tech's Jennifer Brennan, Biswell, Christy Davis, Gilreath and Renna Rhodes all won their singles matches. That gave Tech five points entering doubles play, prompting the Tigers to forfeit the remainder of the match.

Women's tennis

Texas Tech's women's tennis team helped its cause over the weekend by winning two of three matches in the Tulane Quadrangular tournament. The Red Raiders began the weekend with a bang, thumping Southern Mississippi 9-0.

On Saturday, Tulane defeated the Tech women, but the Raiders regrouped on Sunday to beat Memphis State 8-1. Sunday's victory gave the Raiders an overall record of 11-5. For Tech, Sheri Gilreath rallied the Border Olympics this weekend in Laredo, placing ahead of Southwest Conference teams Houston, SMU and Rice. Tech's final team total of 923 trailed Arkansas' tournament-leading total of 899.

Collin Stoops placed highest for the Raiders with a three-day total of 224, tied for third place. Also for Tech, Michael Ashy, David Wiley, Chris Mathis, Chris Anand and Lance Lokey all placed.

Mavericks drop 24th straight to Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks remained winless on the road this season, losing their 24th straight game Sunday as Reggie Miller scored 31 points, leading Indiana to a 110-96 victory.

Dallas, losers of 10 straight games, hasn't won since beating Indiana on Feb. 5. The Mavericks (4-48) have won only one game each month of the season and are on pace for the worst record in NBA history.

Indiana, which won for the fourth time in five starts, opened slowly before moving ahead to stay in the second quarter, building its lead to as many as 20 points in the third period.

Derek Harper led Dallas with 26 points.

Lady Raiders maul Lady Frogs 103-74

No. 9 Tech overcomes slow first half to take 21st victory of season

by LEN HAYWARD
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Walking away with big victories and scoring more than 100 points is something No. 9 Texas Tech has done a bunch of this season. But in Saturday's 103-74 win over Texas Christian, the Lady Raiders took a while to get going in front of 5,812 fans at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Tech overcame a slow start in the first half to open up leads as large as 31 in the second half, but in the first half the Lady Raiders had trouble shooting and getting their offense going.

But thanks to a blistering offensive show in the second half, the Lady Raiders posted their fourth 100-point game this season.

With the win Tech upped its record to 21-3 and 11-1 in the SWC, while the Frogs remained winless in Southwest Conference play at 0-12 and 9-15 overall. The Lady Raiders also maintained their first-place tie with Texas with the win. The Lady Longhorns, also 11-1 in league play, defeated Rice 76-53 Saturday.

"We really didn't play well at all during the first half," Tech coach Marsha Sharp said after the game. "I thought we were taking the easy way out on a lot of situations."

The Lady Raiders opened up a lead of 22-10 after a 9-2 run capped by Noel Johnson layup with 11:18 remaining, but TCU countered by scoring eight unanswered points, cutting Tech's lead to 22-18.

"We really didn't execute well in the first half," Johnson said after the game.

Johnson scored a career-high 22 points and was 2-of-5 from 3-point land.

Tech expanded the lead after TCU made the initial run, outscoring the Lady Frogs 17-9 in the last 10 minutes of the half.

"I thought we came back and played a little bit better in the second half," Sharp said. "We had some people who really played well, and we made some better decisions with the basketball."

The Lady Raiders came out quickly in the second half and opened up a 21-point lead after Sheryl Swoopes hit pair of free throws to make the score 62-41.

Swoopes had 32 points in the game, the 54th time in 56 games that the Tech All-American has scored in double figures in her career.

"We didn't execute the things well that coach Sharp wanted us to," she said.

Tech finally opened up its biggest lead of the game after sophomore guard Nikki Heath made both ends of a one-and-one to make the score 103-71, with 1:36 remaining.

The Lady Frogs Kim Altman then came down the court and hit a 3-pointer with 15 seconds left on the clock to make the final score.

Also scoring in double figures for the Lady Raiders was freshman post Michi Atkins, who had 14 points, including a perfect day from the charity stripe where she was 6-of-6.

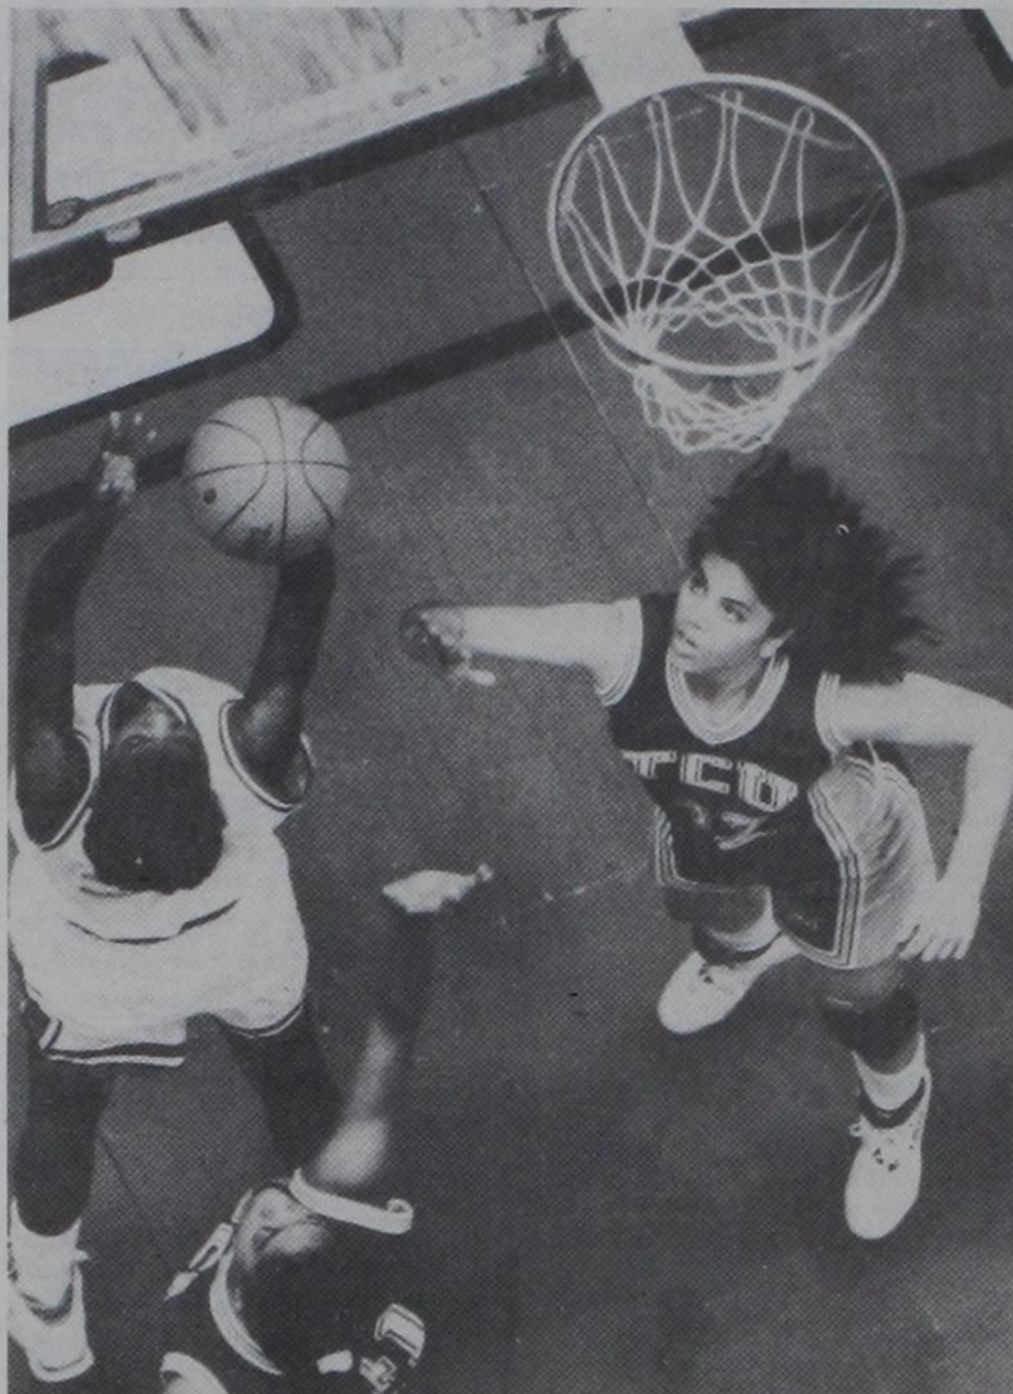

Tech will now prepare for its game against the Texas A&M Lady Aggies Wednesday at G. Rollie White Coliseum in College Station.

Award created for Associate AD McHaney

Texas Tech Associate Athletic Director Jeannine McHaney was honored on Saturday for her work on behalf of women's athletics at Texas Tech.

McHaney was presented the first-ever "Jeannine McHaney" award at halftime of Saturday's Tech-Texas Christian women's basketball game. The honor will be given every year to someone who has contributed "in a significant way to the women's athletic program at Texas Tech University."

The award was created by the High Riders, a spirit organization that has supported Tech women's athletics since 1976. High Rider co-founder Nancy Neill Hughes presented the award to McHaney.

Tech wins second straight against Frogs

by CASEY WESTENRIEDER
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

FORT WORTH—Texas Christian proved a worthy adversary but failed to slow down Lance Hughes and Texas Tech as the Red Raiders defeated the Horned Frogs 87-77 Saturday at Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

Hughes led Tech with 23 points as the Raiders made 68.2 percent of their field goals and 71.4 percent from the free-throw line and improved their record to 14-7 and 5-7 in the Southwest Conference.

The Horned Frogs, playing before a home crowd of 3,434, slipped to 5-19 overall and 2-10 in league play. It was TCU's second lost to Tech this season.

Tech held the lead in the first half but never pulled farther than six points in front of TCU before going into the locker room at halftime with a 40-39 lead.

The Frogs came back in the second half and jumped out to a four-point lead when coach James Dickey decided to give his team a pep talk.

"I just challenged our guys if they wanted to win the game or not," Dickey said about TCU lead. "I asked them, 'How bad do you want to win the game? Are you going to go to decide to play any defense?' I singled out some guys individually and challenged them personally and I thought they came back and responded."

The Raiders responded with Will Flemons making two free throws and Koy Smith, who finished with 19 points, hitting a field goal to tie the game at 46-46.

After TCU's Allen Tolley gave the Frogs a two-point lead, Lenny Holly nailed a three-pointer, giving the Raiders the lead.

The game was not yet over, but Tech would not relinquish the lead again.

In the final 1:32, the Frogs hurt themselves as six TCU fouls eliminated three key Horned Frogs.

Tech capitalized on the errors with a point per foul to finish the game with a 10-point victory.

Tech also ran into some foul trouble in the second half, but the Raiders managed to hold the lead after Will Flemons picking up his fourth foul with 8:01 left.

"That proves to everyone in our league that Tech doesn't have to have Will Flemons on the floor to be successful," Flemons said after the game. "Those guys stepped up and played like juniors and seniors instead of freshmen."

But when Dickey put Flemons back into action with 5:35 left to play, the Paducah senior delivered with four more points to finish the game with 22.

"I thought we did an excellent job of getting the ball to Will in the crucial stretch when we put him back in the game," Dickey said. "We had two big possessions where we just got him the ball inside and he scored. And that's what we have to do. We have to recognize situations."
