Regents approve increases in tuition, student fees

by LARA M. CAMPBELL
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Board of Regents approved changes in student fees, including increases in tuition and student housing during the board's May 14 meeting.

An increase of two dollars per credit hour was confirmed, bringing tuition up from $24 to $26.

The raise comes after the 72nd Texas Legislature approved tuition increases for public universities beginning with the Fall 1992 semester.

Students who registered in the 1993 spring semester have been billed for the tuition increase.

During a special session of the 72nd legislature in August 1991, tuition increases were approved.

Tuition can only go up during each fall semester by $2 per credit hour, with a maximum of $32 to be reached by 1996.

"With all the cutbacks, excesses are out," said Don Cosby, Tech vice president for fiscal affairs. "(These increases) will allow us to continue to fund services and people to provide those services."

Student housing will also increase by more than 3 percent to counter the cost of placing call waiting in the residence halls and the cost of retiree insurance programs for housing and dining employees.

Jim Burkhalter, director of housing and dining services, said the installation of call waiting in the residence halls will cost $2 per month for a double occupancy room.

One-third of the student housing increase results from the university's having to pay insurance premiums for retired employees, amounting to $150,000, Burkhalter said.

Also approved by the board were increases in the student services fee and the general use fee.

The student services fee will be raised from $7.45 to $7.80 per semester credit hour.

The increase will allow for a counselor to be added to the Counseling Center and aid in paying for increases in campus transportation costs.

The fee increase also offset the cost of state mandated salary increases.

General use fees will increase from $10 to $12 per semester to fund building maintenance.

"The primary purpose for (the money generated from the increase) will be used to address deferred maintenance to campus buildings," Cosby said.

Overall, the fee increases add up to a $46.20 increase for a 12 credit hour course load.

In addition to tuition and services fee raises in the fall, parking fees also will rise. Parking fee raises were approved in March.

Revision of Student Code of Conduct approved for 1993-94

by KRISTIE DAVIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Board of Regents approved during a May 14 meeting a revision of the 1993-94 Student Code of Conduct after the code came under question following the Pi Kappa Alpha/Fashion Board incident last fall.

The questionable statement in the 1992-93 student code cited harassment as "including but not limited to conduct or expression intended to be derogatory to another person's race, national origin, religious beliefs, gender, sexual orientation, or physical disability and that could reasonably be construed as insulting, disparaging, or reasonably calculated to incite violence."

The 1993-94 code simply states, "harassment," without citing specific types of harassment.

The code was challenged last semester when Pike and Fashion Board members questioned the constitutionality of sanctions leveled against the organizations for their October "Party in the Projects."

Pike and Fashion Board members argued that the code violated their First Amendment rights after the organizations' members were found guilty of harassment for participating in the party.

The sanctions against the organizations were dropped after an Attorney General's opinion recommended the code be rewritten so as not to be in violation of the First Amendment.

After six weeks of reviewing the code this spring, members of the Code of Student Conduct Committee sent their recommendations to Associate Dean of Students Michael Shonrock who reviewed the recommendations and submitted them to Vice President for Student Affairs Robert Ewalt.

Shonrock said the decision to delete the specific examples of see Conduct page 3

Hutchison re-emphasizes cuts in spending at final Lubbock rally

by LARA M. CAMPBELL
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Five days before the run-off election for the U.S. Senate seat between Democrat Bob Krueger and Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, the GOP candidate made one final campaign stop in Lubbock.

During her visit, Hutchison emphasized her desire to cut government spending and decrease taxes.

"We don't have a deficit in this country because Americans are taxed too little," Hutchison said.

"We have a budget deficit because government spends too much."

Hutchison also voiced her opposition to the Btu tax, which covers almost all forms of heat content-based energy fuels.

She said the Btu tax would hurt Texas by costing the state 55,000 jobs.

"We want someone from Texas who will fight for Texas," Hutchison said.

Attending the rally were several members of the Texas Tech College Republicans.

Nathan Ziegler, a junior English major, said he felt Hutchison is strong on fiscal issues.

"I feel the majority of Tech students are fiscal conservatives and I think Kay will represent us well," Ziegler said.

Hutchison said one of her campaign goals is to promote small businesses in Texas.

"The three enemies of small business and job creation are taxation, regulation and litigation," Hutchison said.

She added that she also opposes new payroll taxes because they could cause many small businesses to close their doors.

Hutchison said she would support lowering capital gains taxes because it would encourage investment.

"Her policies allow small businesses to prosper," Ziegler said.

"I think the majority of Tech students will get their jobs in small businesses when they graduate, so (Hutchison) will represent Tech well."

Other students said they liked Hutchison's attitude about college age students.

"I like her stance on young people," said Homer Hensley IV, a sophomore international economics major. "She cares about the help she gets from her student volunteers."

Lottery success questionable

CASEY WESTENRIEDER

Like most college students two days before the beginning of summer school, trying to pack in as much vacation as possible, I was up Monday night practicing my putting watching Married With Children on ABC and about to throw my putter through the wall when Ted Koppel came on.

Usually I get bored with Nightline because I think Koppel is a flaming liberal. But the topic was relevant to my new beat at The UD so I sat down and watched. Gambling was the topic and lotteries were included.

According to the report, 48 states condone gambling in the form of lotteries or casino-type gambling.

This Nightline was different than most of the editions because this show actually kept the reporter's opinion out of the story. Obviously Ted was not reporting.

The show told both sides of the "gambling" issue and all the cities and states across the country that have either hit it big with gambling or crapped out because of it.

It seemed the biggest problem with taking risks was not in the actual gambling, but in who was gambling. If you are a poor and living in the slums of Bigtown, USA, you had better look out because the lottery staff in your state is targeting you.

What a joke.

Everyone who has a television or radio or drives a car and has two eyes and a quarter to scratch with, can buy a lottery ticket just as easily as the poor man living in the ghetto. We all watch the same public television, listen to the same radio stations and see the same billboard advertisements.

I like the Texas Lottery, but there are a few things I still don't understand.

Where is all the money going?

The Comptroller's Office said more than $580 million already has been deposited in the state's general revenue fund, but where is that money when small-town schools are having to collect aluminum cans to stay alive?

One of the big plugs in favor of the Lottery back in 1991 was the creation of new jobs.

Where are these jobs?

The Comptroller's office boasts the fact that they only need 186 employees, compared to the 1,000 in California and 776 in Florida. In actuality, the Lottery jobs were "contracted out" to a company called G Tech, according to Carmen Luevanos of the State Comptroller's office. And, where is G Tech?

"They're based somewhere in Rhode Island, I think,"

Luevanos said.

I'm happy for the Red Lobster employee who struck it rich and I want to see the Lottery produce high revenues for the state of Texas. But, I don't want the Lottery to turn into the Lootery while lawmakers and politicians sit on the money trying to decide where it will go.

And if you think that low income folks living on the wrong side of the tracks can be bit by the gambling bug, don't bet on it — you could lose the pot.

The UD returns rested and full of news

KENDRA CASEY

As the graduating seniors walked across the stage last month and into the rest of their lives I felt left behind to do the dirty work.

So, here we are...welcome to summer school and a new edition of The University Daily.

In all hopes, each of you are already familiar with the fine product (debated in and about) we produce.

If not, you soon will be.

Faithful UD readers can expect that this first issue will look and read much like the ones from previous semesters with a few changes we hope will put bigger smiles on the faces of the Texas Tech community and keep you writing letters and reading the Far Side. (To avid crossword junkies and Calvin and Hobbes groupies: hibernate until the fall semester rolls around when these UD features return.)

Each section of The UD will include regular weekly features that focus on interests of the Tech community, for example the Weekender list will return, along with Tech Talks, the Police Blotter and Campus Briefs.

As editor I should do my community duty to update our readers about some news and events you might have missed during our spring/summer hiatus.

- The Tech baseball team was shafted by being denied the right to play in the NCAA regional tournament.

- Lady Raiders coach Marsh Sharp signed to her championship team nationally recognized juco player Connie Robinson.

- The Board of Regents met to discuss among other things tuition increases and changes to the Student Affairs Handbook just days after most Tech students left Lubbock for the summer semesters.

- Bob Krueger and Kay Bailey Hutchison hit the campaign trail again to collect votes in the Saturday run-off election.

- Lubbock Mayor David Langston called for petitions to repeal the half-cent sales tax that would have funded the Department of Defense Finance and Accounting Center.

In the meantime, Lubbock Congressman Larry Combest is attempting to get the ball rolling on securing an earlier decision date for the center's future location.

- The NBA playoffs started. (In all hopes, the Bulls will end their winning streak and Scottie Pippen will find a new job.)

- Lubbock residents still have to make the 20-minute trek to the strip to purchase liquor.

Stay tuned to The UD for more details and updates.

Finally, for those of you concerned about the changing of The UD guard, let me address a couple of commonly asked questions I have already encountered:

Q. Are you (the editor) a liberal, and will The UD continue to be filled with that liberal trash?

A. None of your business, and yes (we LOVE Bill Clinton).

Q. Are you (the editor) conservative, and will The UD continue to be filled with that conservative garbage?

A. None of your business, and yes (Rush Limbaugh is our hero, and you CAN'T annoy the media regardless of who you vote for).

Let us know what you think. In fact, I don't have any doubts that you will.

Kendra Casey is the editor of The University Daily.

harassment because harassment can be defined in a variety of ways, from sexual harassment to phone harassment.

Associate General Counsel Glenda Robinson said the code was questionable because of a Supreme Court decision made in July. The Court ruled that hate speech was considered to be free speech and is protected by the First Amendment.

In the case, R.A.V. v. St. Paul, the city of St. Paul, Minn., attempted to prosecute individuals who allegedly put a burning cross on a black family's lawn.

The Court voted unanimously that the prosecution violated the First Amendment.

A new section defining abuse of the university's discipline system also was added to the student code.

According to the revised code, students and registered student organizations are subject to disciplinary actions for abusing the discipline system.

The revised handbook is scheduled to be available in time for freshmen orientation.

Tech grad named transportation director

AUSTIN (AP) — El Paso's district engineer, Bill Burnett, has been named executive director of the Texas Department of Transportation.

The unanimous selection announced Tuesday by the Texas Transportation Commission takes effect Oct. 1.

Burnett, a 22-year veteran of the department, is a graduate of Texas Tech University, and has served as resident engineer in Pecos, Midland, and Odessa.

The current executive director, Arnold Oliver, is retiring.

Diffie concert canceled due to lack of ticket sales in Hub City

by JULIE HARRIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Country music recording artist Joe Diffie, scheduled to perform at Country Live Thursday, will not be bringing his Honky Tonk Attitude tour to Lubbock.

The concert was called off Tuesday by Diffie's manager due to lack of ticket sales, said Country Live Manager Scott Kenyon.

"It is very unfortunate that Lubbock didn't show enough (support) in ticket sales to appreciate someone like Joe Diffie," Kenyon said.

"Lubbock concert-goers typically buy tickets at the door or just a couple of days before a concert," he said. "(Diffie's) management just got cold feet, thinking no one would show up."

The concert was originally scheduled for the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, but was moved to Country Live last week.

Kenyon said the organization of the concert at Country Live was out of his hands from the very beginning.

"We were not selling the tickets, and we had no contract with Joe Diffie," he said.

"The only thing we had to gain from the concert was money made from liquor sales. It was out of my hands from the word go."

Kenyon said he would contact KLLL-FM to work out compensatory arrangements for Thursday.

"We will at least honor all free concert tickets KLLL gave away," he said.

"We have Stallion, our in-house band which is very good and we will have no cover charge Thursday night."

Kenyon said he was looking forward to Diffie and his band being in town, and had arranged an autograph session for this afternoon.

"If the opportunity ever arises for me to bring someone this big to Lubbock, I can guarantee that they will be here," Kenyon said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Memorial Day was more like labor day for rock star Jon Bon Jovi, whose wife gave birth to a baby girl.

Stephanie Rose Bon Jovi arrived Monday at a Red Bank, N.J., hospital, the first child for the 32-year-old singer and his 30-year-old wife, Dorothea.

The couple wanted no further information released, said Lauren Murphy of Mercury Records.

The birth came during a break in Bon Jovi's tour schedule, which began last year.

Tech falls short of NCAA tourney berth

Even with a 43-15 overall record and wins over nationally ranked Texas and Arizona, the Texas Tech baseball team was still left out of the NCAA postseason tournament.

The tournament pairings were announced on May 24 and Tech was not one of the teams chosen for the 48-team tournament.

Only three Southwest Conference teams made it into the tour-namment, Baylor, Texas and Texas A&M. Both the Aggies and the Longhorns will compete at the College World Series.

Tech finished the season with an 11-7 conference record, but lost the first two games in the SWC tournament in Austin. Tech lost in the first round to eventual tourney winner Baylor and Texas A&M in the loser's bracket of the four-team tournament.

Raider tracksters prepare for NCAA meet

Three Texas Tech track members will participate in the NCAA Track and Field Championships this week.

Rodrigo Zelaya, Brit Pursley and Brent Schott will make the trip to New Orleans with Zelaya looking for his third straight All-America honor.

Zelaya won the Southwest Conference Championship in the javelin.

Pursley will compete in the pole vault, trying to improve on his no-height at the SWC Championships in Austin. Schott's best time was a 59.09 in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, while placing fourth in the SWC Championships.

The men also tied for the most points scored by a Tech team at the SWC Championships with 55, while the women's track team scored 11 at the meet.

Mitchell receives Coach of the Year honors

Texas Tech women's golf coach Jeff Mitchell has been named the NCAA West District Coach of the Year for 1993.

Mitchell, who just completed his third year as coach of the Red Raiders, won the yearly honor over 30 other coaches in the 10 states that comprise the West District.

Tech had a banner year in 1993, advancing to the NCAA regionals for the first time in the program's history. The Raiders finished fourth at the SWC Championships and advanced to the West Regionals in Tucson, Ariz. Tech finished 15th in the NAAs with a 916 over the three rounds.
