Basketball News

Gorman High School both boys and girls played our high school teams last Friday night in the local gym before a large crowd of fans.

The first game was between the B boys. This was a thrilling game from start to finish with Gorman leading at the half by 10 points but our boys came back in the last half and outplayed their opponents and the final score was 27 to 23 with Gorman the winner.

The High school girls played the second game. With Gorman's height and close guarding, our smaller girls could not make their field goals but kept them in the running with their points from the foul line. They sank the larger part of their free shots. The final score was 28 to 17 in Gorman's favor.

"The Reality of a home in Heaven", indicated the futility of the life of this man of God.

Our high school boys played the Gorman boys in the last game and this was a well played game. Our boys showed improvement over the other games and it is expected that they will give their opponents some trouble in future games. The final score was 18 to 41.

Both boys and girls will enter the tournament to be held at Gorman this week end.

The Olden teams will play Carbon in the local gym Friday night.

The Carbon Junior boys and girls entered the Junior tournament held in the Eastland gym last week end. Both teams went to the finals in the consolation bracket. In their first games the Eastland boys defeated our boys by a close score of 17 to 13. Our girls lost to Eastland 25 to 22.

Saturday both teams defeated Moran. The boys score was 13 to 14 and the girls score was 30 to 22. The final games were played Saturday night. Our boys played one of the best games of the season, but was nose-d out by Seranton 14 to 15 in a thriller. Our girls played a good game but Olden proved too much for them. Ain't It So

A woman wears a diamond ring to show she's married; a man wears last year's clothes.

For speedy growth, there's probably nothing like what comes in both ears and is rushed out of the mouth.

Having a party so you can snub certain folks by not inviting them is okay, if you're entirely sure they would have come if you had invited them.

A man is a large, irrational animal who demands home atmosphere in a hotel and hotel service at home.

The Great Teacher

Lesson for January 28, 1951

WE HEAR a lot about a "better world." God pity the poor lout who thinks the world as it is, is all right! And may God stab awake those who are afraid to try to make this world better. If you want to see a group of people who are not afraid, and are really working at this, go to your nearest Sunday school. There you will find teachers of religion. They may be doing a good job or a poor one; but anyhow they are trying. And when one of these teachers succeeds, even a little, in what they are all trying to do, the world has already been made a little better.

Greatest of Teachers

EVERY Sunday school teacher, or any other sort, for that matter, should study the methods of Jesus to see what good teaching can be. His object was not to teach science or history. The only technique he taught was the most important of all—the technique of fine living. His object was to teach "what we are to believe concerning God, and what duties God requires of man."

In short, his subjects were Faith and Life, not separately but welded into one.

Down Where We Live HIS method was always simple. He did not use long words, he did not "put his hay on such a high shelf that only intellectual giraffes could reach it," as Billy Sunday expressed it.

So the good teacher today never teaches over the heads of the class. This means he has to have a good imagination, has to make believe to himself that he is one of the class instead of the teacher.

Jesus could surely have taught more profoundly than he did. Indeed, he said at the end of his days, "I have many things to say... but ye cannot bear them now."

Truth in Pictures THEN Jesus taught in pictures; we call them parables. The best-loved and remembered parts of his teachings are the stories he told. Every one of them was simple; they were about the kinds of people his listeners knew or had often heard of.

The good teacher will always use illustrations. But the best ones will come right out of the experience of the pupils. Jesus never quoted from a book his hearers had not read.

A teacher, looking over a Sunday school lesson, may find it full of suggestive ideas; but it is generally better to pick out one truth and illustrate it in several ways, as Jesus did when speaking of the Kingdom of God, than it is to try to bring out everything that could be brought out, and so confusing the class.

Making Them Think NOW some teachers, trying to be simple, succeed only in being dull. The good teacher must keep the class awake, otherwise no one can learn anything. There is a good motto which might be borrowed by all Sunday school teachers: "Nothing that is not interesting; not everything that is interesting; nothing merely because it is interesting."

Jesus gained attention and interest in various ways. One was the "cryptic" nature of his teaching; that is, it was often puzzling. There was often something that sent listeners away thinking: Now what did he mean by that?

Confucius once remarked: "I give my pupil one corner of an idea. If he cannot get the other three corners for himself, I do not want him for my pupil." So Jesus often gave out one corner of a truth and let his hearers (and ourselves!) wrestle out the other three.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Nearly any kind of ring is best cleaned with a toothbrush. Soap and water will do the job, unless the ring is badly tarnished, in which case try using bicarbonate of soda. Just dip the damp brush in the bicarb and scrub the ring; then rinse the ring when you're finished.

Rub a little castor oil or mineral oil lightly over the leaves of house plants to keep them looking green and to stimulate growth by cleaning the pores through which the plant breathes.

Ivy growing in water will be helped considerably if you keep a small chunk of charcoal in the water.

To make a homemade glue, soak some tapioca in water. This is particularly good to give children when they want to paste in scrapbooks

Stumps of candles and candles ruined by summer heat can be melted down and made into new candles by pouring the molten wax into an empty cold cream jar or a cardboard milk or cream container. If the cold cream jar is used, the candle can be burned right in the jar. With the cardboard carton, it's a simple matter to tear the paper aside once the wax gets hard. In either case, though, put a piece of string in the middle for a wick, and tie a weight to the bottom of it to keep it from rising while the wax is still in a fluid state.

Grind luncheon meat and sweet pickles together for a sandwich spread; moisten with mayonnaise or creamy salad dressing. In making the sandwiches use one slice of whole wheat bread and one slice of white bread

Farm Youngsters Taught Value of Good Grooming

FARM mothers teach their daughters from childhood that "pretty is as pretty does," points out the Rural Home editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. "Getting an early start is as important in learning beauty and grooming lessons as in most other things," she writes. "The little girl who always brushes her teeth after every meal and loves her splash in the tub before bedtime is the one who grows up to have a pretty smile. "She'll be known for her dainty freshness. And her own children will love her because, she always looks so good and smells so sweet!"

Tooth brushing is a habit with 8-year-old Alice Jane, daughter of Mrs. Doyt Galloway of Van Wert county, Ohio. Mother and daughter enjoy spending a few minutes together each day keeping up their good looks. Alice Jane knows the right method for brushing to give clean, white teeth and healthy gums. Her own little footstool by the lavatory makes it easy for her to climb up and look in the mirror to watch the brushing.

Some historians say that passage of the fugitive slave law peeved the Northerners to such an extent that they helped more slaves to freedom between 1850 and 1860 than the total number that escaped during the entire period of our government previous to 1850.

Frozen Lemon Pie
Is Toothsome Dish

FROZEN lemon pie is a toothsome dinner dessert for the family that's been working hard all day, says the Country Cooking editor of Capper's Farmer.

Graham cracker crumbs are crust and topping for the chilled yellow filling, she writes in the nationally circulated farm magazine. Pie-shaped pieces are made by cutting diagonally across the refrigerator tray in which pie is frozen.

The dessert which will be an ever-popular family favorite, serves 8, the Capper's Farmer expert advises.

FROZEN LEMON PIE

2 eggs, separated 1 c. evaporated
1/2 c. lemon juice 1/2 c. milk, whipped
1/2 c. sugar 1/2 c. graham cracker, cooky or cake crumbs

Beat egg yolks; add lemon juice and piece of rind sliced from lemon and all but 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Cook over low heat 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove rind and cool. Beat egg whites until stiff; add remaining sugar and fold into cooked mixture. Add whipped evaporated milk. Line refrigerator tray with waxed paper. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup of the crumbs. Pour in lemon mixture; sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Freeze with temperature set at coldest. Serves 8.

Nepal, Gurkha Homeland, Guards Doorway to India

The independent Kingdom of Nepal has marshaled its best known "natural resource" — the fierce Gurkha soldier — to guard isolated mountain ramparts adjoining Tibet, where invading Chinese communist troops are on the march.

Nepal, a small country some 500 miles long and 100 wide, is a rectangular "buffer state" wedged between India and Tibet along the awesome heights of the Himalayas. Pro-Western in its ties, the ancient kingdom is now being subjected to a menacing propaganda barrage from communist China.

As the homeland of the Gurkha warrior caste, Nepal has contributed thousands of the famed tribesmen to the British and Indian armies. All are volunteers, and they have won many decorations for bravery and efficiency in two world wars and innumerable lesser campaigns.

Traditionally this mountain kingdom has been known as a land "where nearly every man is a soldier." Since 1768 the various tribes of Nepal have been ruled by the warlike Gurkhas. Upper class titles are modeled on Western military rank. Although the nation itself has lived in peace for many years, Nepal maintains a standing army estimated at 50,000—relatively large in proportion to a population of less than seven million.

It is a country of remarkable geographical contrasts. In the south bordering India is a malarial belt of lowlands, annually ravaged by monsoon floods from silt-laden rivers which rise in the mountains and empty into India's sacred Ganges. Beyond the lowlands are the Siwalik mountains and farther north are the great Himalayas, including many towering but unnamed peaks. Mt. Everest, highest mountain in the world at 29,002 feet, rises majestically at Nepal's northern border.

Wide Range of Temperature Makes Hot Water Ideal Heat

Hot water is a flexible heating medium.

The temperature of water used for heating can be varied as the outdoor temperature rises or falls.

Thus in mild weather the controls which automatically govern the temperature of the water in the boiler can be set for 90 to 100 degrees.

In more severe weather it can be advanced to 120 to 150 degrees. During extreme weather, a temperature of from 180 to 200 degrees may be utilized when and as required.

Changing the temperature of the heating medium in accordance with outdoor temperature has two advantages. First of all, it prevents the discomfort due to overheating. Second, it saves fuel because it prevents the waste which results from overheating.

It is during the mild weather of early fall and late spring that the flexibility of hot water is most appreciated. By circulating water at a low temperature, the radiators or other heat distributors will be just barely warm to the touch. Thus the discomfort resulting from overheating caused by a sudden rise of outdoor temperatures will be prevented.

Thrombosis Fatalities

Coronary thrombosis, contrary to popular impression, is not usually fatal immediately or within a short time.

Results of a study by a leading insurance company show that 70 per cent of a group of persons who had had one or more coronary attacks were still alive at the end of five years, 50 per cent at the end of 10 years, and 43 per cent at the end of 12 years. The study traces survivorship among 540 men for whom life insurance disability benefits were approved because of heart conditions.

Alaska's Brooks Range Explored by Scientists

A majestic graveyard of 300 million years ago is the great Brooks range of northern Alaska, forming North America's northern rampart and perhaps the least explored under the American flag.

A systematic paleontological exploration of parts of these mountains has been in progress during the past two summers, conducted by a United States geological survey party led by Arthur L. Bowsher, Sr., Smithsonian Institution paleontologist on detached duty with the survey.

The area where these mountains now exist was once the bottom of ancient shallow seas, during the long, temperate, quiet era of earth's history known as the Mississippian, when the dominant form of life—at least the most abundant—consisted of crinoids and their relatives. This was the heyday of these curious animals, which were, for the most part, attached by stems to the sea bottoms. Their skeletons were composed of tiny plates of calcium carbonate very similar to chalk. Thick limestone strata of the Brooks range are made up of broken fragments of the skeletons. In other sections, however, the crinoid remains are excellently preserved.

The crinoids were found by the geologists in great variety, for the most part representing species hitherto unknown to science. At the time represented by the fossils, the climate was probably somewhat warmer than at present, and the animals were apparently able to enjoy favorable living conditions for as long as 30 million years. Life on the land was already well established, and there were many primitive fishes in the seas.

Hitherto, there has been little geological explanation of this region.

Synthetic Spearmint Oil Made from Orange Peels

Synthetic spearmint oil for flavoring has been produced from orange and grapefruit peels. It was announced at the 118th national meeting of the American chemical society held in Chicago.

The new product will supplement and partially replace the natural material, according to Dr. Carl Bordenca, of the Southern Research Institute, Birmingham, Ala., who reported the research work leading to the perfection of the process.

Manufacturers of chewing gum and other products using spearmint flavoring will welcome this new source of supply, since the availability and quality of natural spearmint oil have been variable in past years as a result of the seasonal nature of production and the dependence on crop conditions, the report said. The new process also will solve a problem for the citrus canning industry, for whose by-product orange and grapefruit peels only a limited demand exists at present.

Carvone, as the synthetic spearmint is called, occurs in natural spearmint oil to the extent of 65 per cent and is indistinguishable in odor and taste from the natural material, Dr. Bordenca declared. Partial substitution of carvone for the natural oil has already been accepted for certain uses, he said.
