Yeltsin calls for new elections

MOSCOW (AP)— President Boris Yeltsin on Thursday called for early presidential elections for next June, amid growing signs of government impatience with hard-liners barricaded inside the parliament building.

Yeltsin ordered Interior Ministry police to "secure" public safety after accusing his opponents of distributing dozens of guns to anti-Yeltsin demonstrators.

Yeltsin ordered parliamentary elections in December after disbanding parliament Tuesday, which plunged Russia into political crisis. Yeltsin had also said he would call presidential elections but gave no date, leading to accusations from critics that he was trying to establish a dictatorship.

In an attempt to reassure Russians that he is committed to democracy, Yeltsin announced Thursday that a presidential election would be held six months after the new parliament is chosen.

The June 12 election would come two years ahead of schedule.

It was unclear if Yeltsin, elected in 1991 for a five-year term, would run again.

Amtrak crash inquiry begins

SARALAND, Ala. (AP) — An investigation into Amtrak's deadliest wreck focused Thursday on a tugboat operator who radioed to authorities that he was having a problem with a runaway barge.

The barge had struck a railroad trestle over the foggy backwaters of a bayou just before the train carrying more than 200 people plunged off it and exploded, killing at least 44, early Wednesday.

"The fact is, he was lost," Coast Guard Capt. Michael Perkins said of the pilot of the tugboat MV Mauvilla.

"While he was trying to gather up his barges, the train came along and the accident occurred."

A giant crane stabilized the Sunset Limited coaches before divers resumed their search for bodies Thursday.

The body of a 5-year-old girl was found floating about 100 feet from the submerged car of the Los Angeles to Miami train, said one of the divers, Mark Lampkin of Orange Grove, Miss.

At least two people were missing.

The tugboat pilot, Andrew Stabler, has been questioned by the FBI and his vessel impounded.

The barges were moored a quarter mile from the crash site 10 miles north of Mobile.

Perkins said that Stabler radioed in at 3:06 a.m. Wednesday — 12 minutes before the train crash — that he had struck a bridge, but mistakenly thought he had hit a span on the Mobile River.

Instead, he was on Bayou Canot, one of several bayous, streams and creeks that feed into the river at its delta.

U.S. Transportation Secretary Federico Pena told "CBS Morning News" that Perkins radioed only that a barge had come loose.

Depot District clears zoning obstacle

City Council unanimously approves change; clears way for entertainment development

by JAYSON BALES
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Depot District developers cleared a major hurdle Thursday when the Lubbock City Council approved a zoning change, leading the way for new development in the district.

Council members unanimously approved the zoning change in the area north and south of 19th Street and east and west of Avenue G.

The zoning change allows "shared" parking in the Depot District and eliminates a rule requiring bars to be separated by 600 feet.

The zoning change also is non-conforming, so business expansion can take place without a new zoning change.

Bill D'Alessandro, associate developer for the Depot District, spoke to the City Council about the requested zoning change.

"We do have five to six people that are looking at potential development by the end of the year if the zoning passes," D'Alessandro said.

"That would give us about nine businesses in that area."

Councilman Victor Hernandez expressed concern about current property owners, safety in the area and the cost to the city.

Private security will be provided to help the Lubbock Police Department, D'Alessandro said.

Developers are working with property owners in the area to purchase their property and help them relocate, he said.

Financially, the city of Lubbock is only being asked to help in the improvement of public areas in the district, D'Alessandro said.

Councilman T. J. Patterson said the development of new business in the Depot District would greatly benefit what used to be a "depressed area."

D'Alessandro said, "When we went into Stubb's (restaurant) initially, it was an abandoned building serving as a crackhouse."

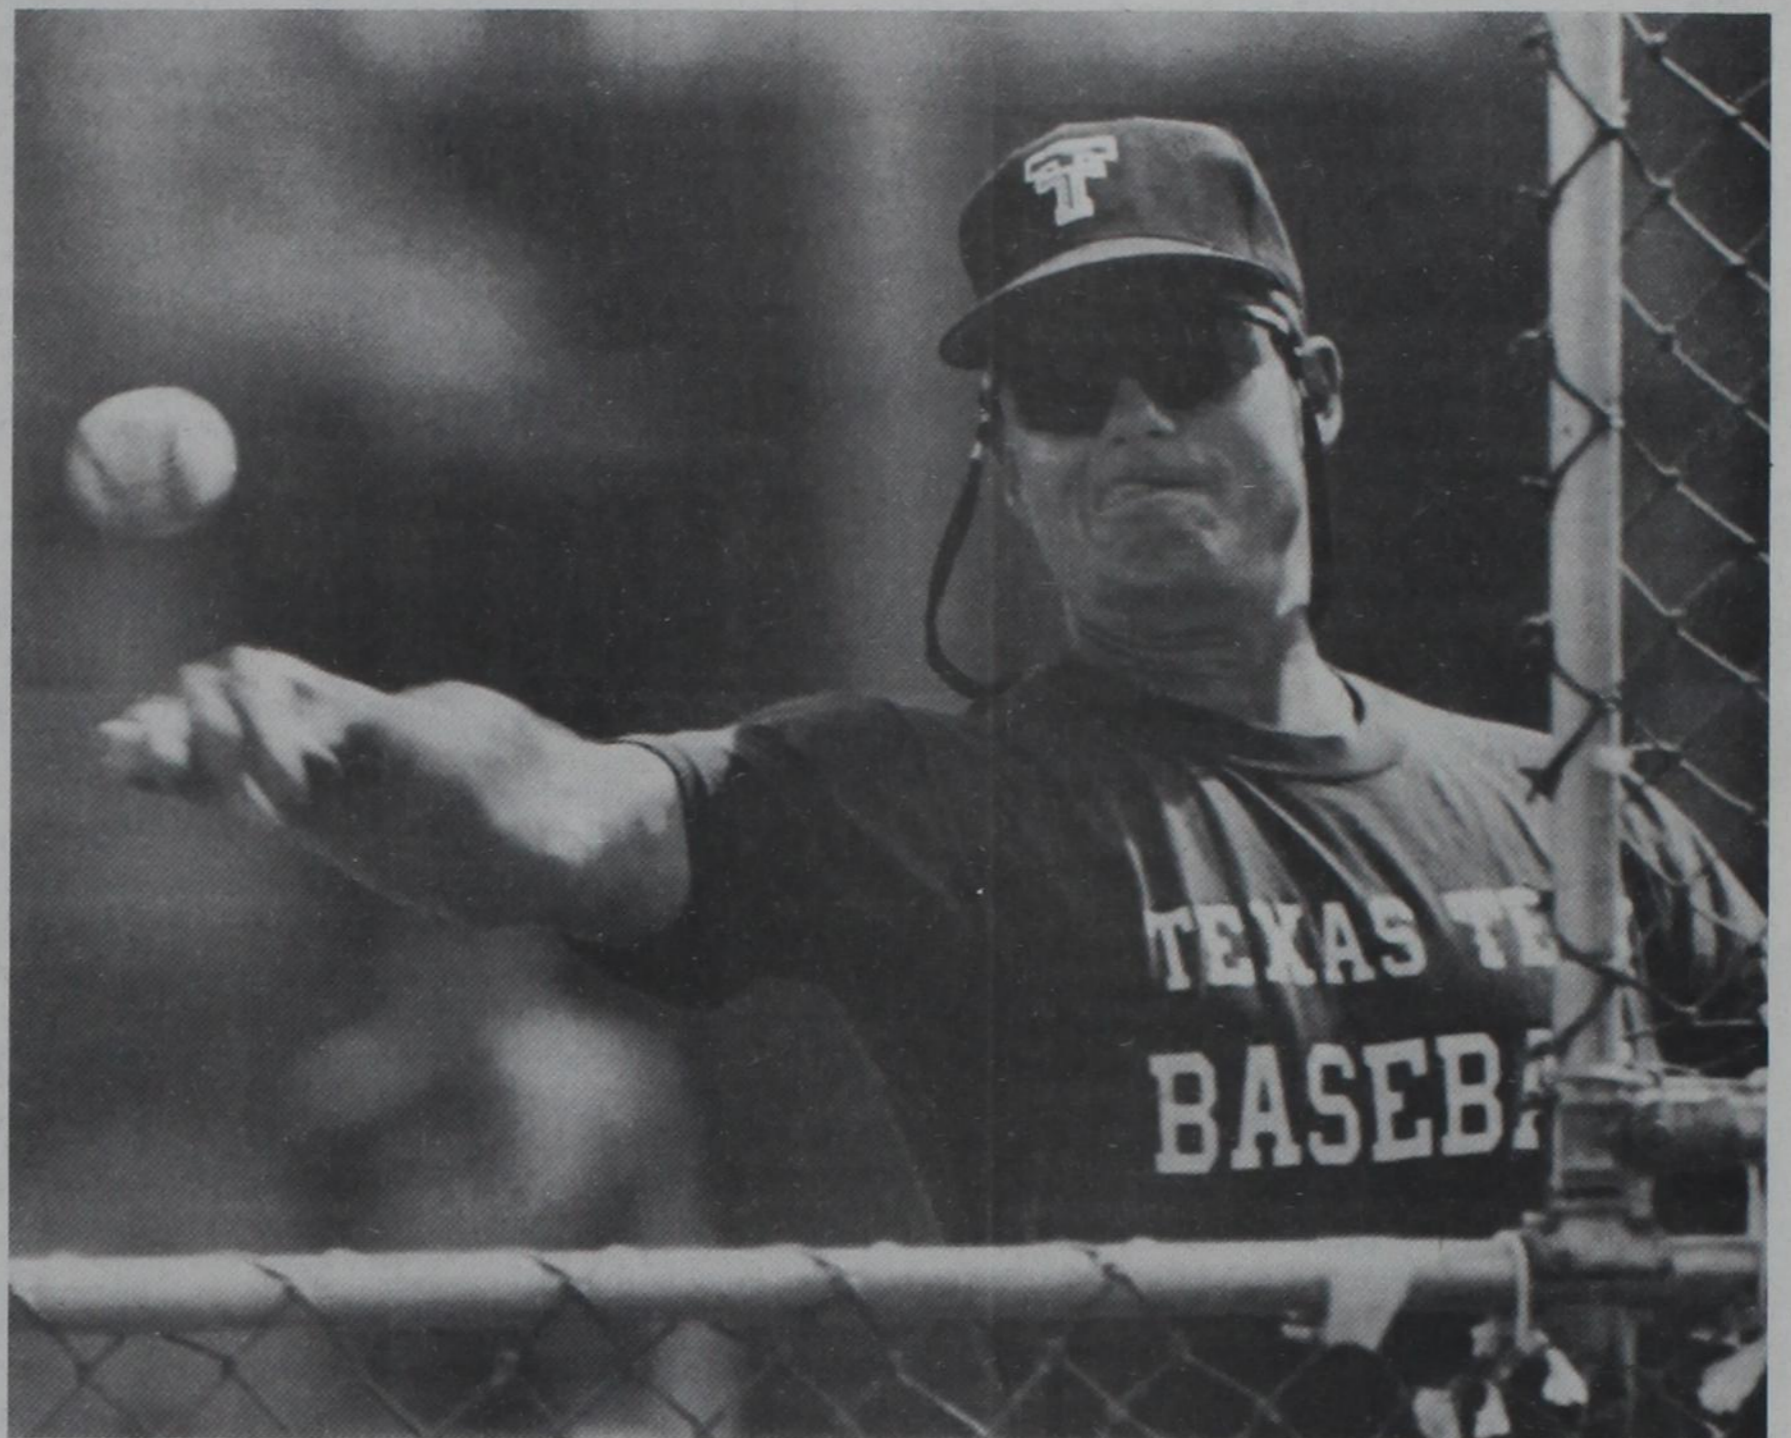

He also said renovations would increase property value and would generate more taxes for the city of Lubbock.

Mayor David Langston said the council members were excited about the development of the Depot District.

"I want to congratulate the people who put this together," Langston said.

"To me this meets several of our qualifications for goals of the city.

"It will enhance our opportunity to attract tourists and conventions to our city."

Cheney to visit Lubbock

by NY LYNN NICHOLS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Former Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney will address guests at a dinner Saturday honoring Congressman Larry Combest, R-Lubbock.

A reception at 6 p.m. will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Tickets for the dinner cost $50 a person.

Cheney served as secretary of defense from March 1989 until January 1993.

He directed Operation Just Cause in Panama in December 1989 and operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm from August 1990 through most of 1991.

President Bush awarded Cheney the Medal of Freedom on July 3, 1991, for his leadership in the Persian Gulf.

Cheney and Combest met in the 1970s when Cheney was White House chief of staff and Combest was legislative aid to Sen. John Tower. The men continued working together while serving in the U.S. Congress.

"From working with him in Congress, I know the thought process he goes through, and I have tremendous confidence in his decisions," Combest said.

"If Dick tells you something, you can believe it."

"There is no one I know that I have more confidence in, or respect for — period — than Dick Cheney."

Cheney is a senior fellow at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C.

He also serves on the board of directors for various companies and lectures across the nation about numerous issues.

Cheney's government service began in 1965 with an internship in Wyoming's Legislature. He also served on the staffs of Gov. Warren Knowles and Congressman William Steiger, R-Wisconsin.

Cheney joined the Nixon Administration in 1969, serving in positions on the Cost of Living Council, the Office of Economic Opportunity and in the White House.

Enrollment brings good, bad news

by JENNIFER GILBERT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

During his annual state of the university address Thursday, Texas Tech President Robert Lawless discussed with faculty members long-term goals, faculty salaries, new Board of Regent members and enrollment.

"As of the 12th day of class, the enrollment is at 24,148," Lawless said. "We are down 67 students from last year's 12th day enrollment of 24,215."

"The good news is, we are up 290 freshmen students and the bad news is, we have a decrease of 130 with graduate students," he said. "There is also a decrease in transfer students."

The last legislative session put a cap on the amount of doctorate hours at 130.

Lawless said Tech is at a steady enrollment rate and had good class rank and better overall Scholastic Aptitude Test scores than last year.

Horn Professor David Knaff also said he has noticed a significant change in students during the last five years because of higher admission standards.

"I think maybe we have students who are a bit more serious than before," he said.

Lawless said, "Last year was a fantastic year for the faculty, students and alumni of Tech. Our mechanical engineering department was invited to a national vehicle challenge and came out in first place, our school of law ranked the highest in Texas for bar exam results and our faculty was recognized for numerous national accomplishments."

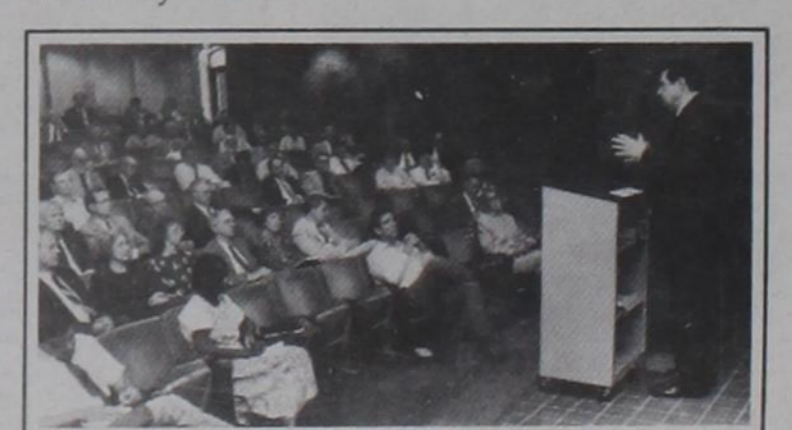

Lawless also said research grants were at an all-time high at $23.4 million.

"Six members of our administration were recognized in Forbes magazine in the list of outstanding chief executives for universities," he said. "We were only one behind the University of Texas-Austin."

Lawless also said the legislature increased funding for wind engineering, the leather research facility, biotechnology development and small business development.

"Another project of priority is the enhancement of the Southwest Collection and the Health Sciences Center's library," Lawless said.

"One of my goals is to get the libraries accepted into the National Association of College and University Libraries."

THE HEALTH CARE CRUNCH

by CHRISTY EVERETT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Editor's note: The following is the third story in a three-part series about health care in the United States.

Health care will most likely be a hot topic of conversation in Lubbock and on Capitol Hill now that both parties have formally announced their respective proposals.

According to information from the Republican Party, the goals of their proposed health care plan are "to provide universal health insurance coverage, restrain runaway health care costs and to preserve the quality and choice of jobs."

The proposal would provide federal vouchers for individuals who could not afford coverage and who are ineligible for Medicaid and Medicare coverage. The information stated that savings could be achieved by antitrust and medical liability reform.

According to the information, the party would like to work with the Clinton administration to "achieve the goals for the good of all Americans." In a comparison of the two proposals, the Republican Party accused the Democrats of being against small businesses, and said the Democratic proposal would result in lost jobs.

Congressman Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, said he believes the Democratic proposal will cause many small businesses to go under.

"This should not be a test," he said. "Businesses should not be forced to shut down because they cannot afford health care."

Combest said he believes the Democratic proposal will increase the amount of bureaucracy in the government, instead of cutting down on administrative costs.

Nathan Ziegler, a junior English major from Lubbock and president of College Republicans, said the major difference between the two plans is the overall principle difference between the two parties.

"The Democratic Party plays 'big brother' government, with more intrusion into free market places," he said.

Ziegler said the two proposals are probably aimed at solving different problems in the area of health care. He said he believes the changes suggested by the Democratic plan will not provide incentives for quality in the system.

"A lot of the people who support the democratic idea have good hearts but are blind to how the real government has failed in almost everything it has taken on," he said.

Ziegler said he believes the party in power will control the changes in the health care reform, but said that the Republicans will be able to have some input.

"The more educated the people become about health care, the more aware they will become of the downfalls of the Democratic plan," Ziegler said. Combest said he believes a mid-ground compromise will be reached and that substantive changes also will help with the difficulties of malpractice.

In Clinton's words — taking a risk for peace in the east

WILLIAM SAFIRE

What does President Clinton think of the muttering on the right in Israel that when Likud comes back into power, Monday's agreement with the PLO would be abrogated?
 "It concerns me, although our information is that Mr. (Benjamin) Netanyahu has been quite careful about his comments."
 "Israel is a democracy, and historically democracies have honored the commitments that their governments have made with others along their borders, even with a transition government," President Clinton said in an interview on the eve of the signing of the first pact between Israel and the PLO.
 "But I think to ensure that, what we have to do is make this agreement as popular as possible in Israel," he said, "and I mean popular in the deep sense."
 "I don't mean some fleeting poll numbers. The people of Israel need to feel this agreement enhances rather than undermines their security."

He is not troubled by Prime Minister Rabin's unwillingness to put his name on the treaty.
 "I think the fact that he's coming is a major step. I don't want to put myself in his mind," he said, and then did:
 "First he wants to give the Foreign Minister (Shimon Peres) credit for the work he did. ...And secondly this is psychological. This has got to be still a difficult thing in Israel. So I'm not troubled."
 I am.
 Perhaps Rabin personally thinks Peres deserves the honor; maybe he doesn't want to upset Israelis politically by going all the way; or it could be he doesn't want to put Yasser Arafat diplomatically on the same level as a head of state.
 Whatever the reasons, this is Rabin's historic deal and his name belongs on it. He cannot take everyone else overboard unless he jumps himself.
 The gamble on the new Arafat will succeed if Israeli public opinion believes it is succeeding, which depends on (1) future PLO discipline, (2) new treaties with Israel's neighbors and (3) strong new American military, economic and diplomatic support. Clinton is asserting the third.

You can get 'hard time' for stealing school ice cream?

by Bob Herbert

As crimes go, it was one of the great ones. No gunshots, no victims writhing in pain, no hysterical witnesses.
 Supposedly a box of ice cream bars was taken. But weary investigators, perspiring in the Southern heat, were uncertain even about that. Some of the evidence melted. The rest of it, presumably, was eaten.
 The only thing noteworthy about the case was the astonishing sentence ultimately imposed on the alleged perpetrator, a 17-year-old boy.
 Three years, said the judge. Three years' hard time.
 Three hideous years in prison for stealing ice cream.
 The lunacy started on a Sunday back in July in Thomaston, a small town in central Georgia. Seventeen-year old Dehundra Caldwell, his 15-year-old brother, Marcus, a juvenile whose name has not been released, were on their way to play basketball when they stopped by the Upson-Lee Middle School.
 Dehundra Caldwell said they went into the school through an open door to use the bathroom.
 An employee discovered Dehundra inside the school and called the police. All three boys were arrested.
 The law enforcement authorities in Thomaston are not quick. Some still believe that Poirot is a billionaire from Texas. But they're pretty tough to fool once they get their investigatory apparatus rolling.
 After careful study, they concluded that the boys had broken into the school. This was serious, they told themselves.
 Dehundra was charged with burglary. The two younger boys were charged with juvenile offenses.
 Investigators do not know for sure who took the Snickers ice cream bars, which were discovered missing from the school cafeteria. But that never mattered much. What mattered was upholding the law. In Thomaston, there is no such thing as a minor offense. Once it was discovered that ice cream was missing, all necessary forces were mobilized to ensure that somebody pay, and pay dearly.
 A statement was taken from Dehundra Caldwell, who had never before been in trouble with the law. He confessed to entering the school. The law enforcement elders of Thomaston congratulated themselves for bagging a dangerous felon.
 Only then was young Caldwell assigned an attorney, a man named Richard Bishoff. That was not a cause for celebration.

It was more like getting a lump of coal in your Christmas stocking.
 Bishoff, at least in this case, kept his talents carefully hidden. He didn't even advise his client to object to an agreement, explained in advance, under which he would plead guilty to burglary and be sentenced to three years in prison.
 The sentence was handed down by Superior Court Judge Andrew Whalen on Aug. 23.
 No probation. No community service. No first-offender status. Three years hard time.
 Bishoff, the attorney, was not even in the courtroom with his client when the sentence was imposed. He said in an interview yesterday that at the time of the sentencing he was busy with another case.
 "I had a trial starting at 1 o'clock," he said. Another lawyer filled in for him at the sentencing.
 I asked Bishoff if Judge Whalen (who has not been available for comment) was aware that only ice cream had been taken from the school.
 Bishoff replied, "I don't know what the judge did or did not know."
 Dehundra Caldwell served 10 days of his three-year sentence. By that time the media and the NAACP were on the case and Thomaston was in danger of becoming a laughingstock. Even the Chamber of Commerce was concerned.
 An arrangement was made for Dehundra to be freed on $15,000 bail and now he's back in school. A hearing will be held on Oct. 15, when Judge Whalen plans to rule on whether his first sentence was unduly harsh.
 Of course it was. But there are other questions. Why weren't alternatives to a criminal charge explored? And what do we do about the felony conviction that's a permanent part a Dehundra's record?
 More importantly, what do we do about a criminal justice system that readily opens up a cell for Dehundra Caldwell while waving goodbye to murderers and rapists because of overcrowding?
 And the scariest question of all: How many Dehundra Caldwells are there that we don't know about?

PARKING PROBLEMS

To the editor:
 It's obvious that parking at Texas Tech is a problem. Not only are parking stickers expensive, they don't guarantee you a place to park.
 Many students choose alternatives to avoid commuter parking such as walking, taking a Citibus, riding bicycles or parking off campus on side streets.
 I decided that parking off campus was my best alternative. So for three weeks, I have parked in a dirt parking lot that maintains 30-40 cars. On the corner of Main Street and Avenue X, this lot now bears "NO PARKING" signs. Last Friday, Sept. 17, patrons of that lot were undoubtedly shocked to find tickets on their cars. Tickets for "parking on an unpaved surface."
 I tore my ticket up—as I do all parking tickets—and forgot about it until my mother called me furious on Wednesday evening. Only three business days after getting the ticket, she had received a letter demanding a payment of $30, or there would be a warrant out for the arrest of the driver of the car. (She received the letter because the car is registered in her name.) She contacted the city of Lubbock to investigate. The rude secretary told her it was against city ordinance to park on any unpaved surface — even your own front yard. He said it was the responsibility of all citizens to know the rules of the city in which they reside.

 (Possibly, we could argue that we are not technically residents, but temporary inhabitants of Lubbock. After all, they don't make us change the address on our driver's licenses or voter's registration cards.)
 So, I attempted to get a copy of the city ordinances. After being transferred nine times by people who had no idea, I spoke to a rude lady who told me there were 9,000 city ordinances, and I would have to be more specific. When I told her I was a new resident and simply wanted to make sure that I wasn't violating any laws, she said they were just ordinary city rules.
 I finally was told that copies of city ordinances could be found at any library or at the court house.
 I then spoke to an attorney who was very helpful in directing me. He told me to start by requesting an extension — 60 days if possible, but at least 30 days.
 So, I have gotten an extension. I am also writing a letter to the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal editor and to several city officials. The legal assistant I spoke with gave me hope that this might be reconcilable.
 Let me just point out that there are many homes — i.e. trailer parks — that don't have paved driveways, and that people attending the South Plains Fair will be parking on grass/dirt parking lots. Do you think that the city will issue citations to all of them? I doubt it. We should ask them if they have anything better to do than to pick on people who have little chance of knowing these obscure ordinances. Can you imagine 25,000 students trying to read 9,000 laws from one notebook in the campus library? I think it is obvious that the city of Lubbock is taking advantage of Texas Tech students like they so love to do. I think they are very unwise to do this because of it weren't for 25,000 students, Lubbock's economy would be drastically lower.

 For the others who received one of these ridiculous tickets, I encourage them to try and get it dismissed. Start by asking for an extension.
 For those who choose not to park in commuter lots, I give you a warning that you could get a ticket for parking anywhere else. Who knows what other obscure city ordinances there are that we haven't been warned about.

observing nature and our National Parks. Everything might eventually have to die at some point, but the old-growth has been living for thousands of years and offers spiritual enlightenment.
 I like to refer to the redwoods and sequoias as the "trees of mystery."
 Why deprive further generations the right to see such spectacles that will send chills through your body?
 You also believe our society is becoming increasingly lawless, which is an accurate statement.
 However, it's rather abnormal in my estimation, that the fourth and second amendments, as well as the Bill of Rights, will ever be abolished. In fact, this is the most insane proposition I have ever heard. Another thing is your idea of constructing more prisons and placing less emphasis on education.
 Locking everybody up is not the key — education is. Today our country has 90 million illiterate adults. I think it would be wise to concentrate on improving this statistic to hopefully weaken your chances of expanding your organization. It is a fact that education deters crime, so why spend less?
 I strongly suggest that you take some time to visit one of our many state or national landmarks and try to appreciate more than just greed.

Tech organizations work with city businesses for charity

by JENNIFER GOOCH
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech students and members of the Lubbock community are invited to take part in the Casino Night/Street Fair from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday in Greek Circle.

The event will benefit the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lubbock, Inc. and is sponsored by Tech's Student Association, Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic and area businesses.

"The focus of the event is to provide an atmosphere for Greeks to get together with other Tech students and the Lubbock community to help a very worthy cause," said SA External Vice President Zach Brady.

Four of the Greek lodges will host blackjack tables, roulette wheels, craps and poker.

"People can pay five bucks and get $100 worth of chips to be used at the casino," Brady said.

"The idea is to get as many chips as you can to use at an auction to buy items such as clothes, dinners, airline tickets and a basketball signed by the National Champion Lady Raiders Basketball team.

"The auctions are at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., so that people don't have to stay all day," he said.

All proceeds will benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

"We wanted the money from the event to stay local," Brady said.

Gayle Bursiaga, interim executive director of Big Brothers/Big Sisters, said, "I am really excited. The sponsors did a really good job of putting it together and hopefully this can become an annual event."

The street fair will consist of informational booths, Brady said.

"We will have things like CPR and fire department demonstrations," he said.

Amy Ausley, vice president of Panhellenic, said it is especially important for the Lubbock community to get involved.

"I think the community has a negative attitude towards Greeks — like all we do is party," she said.

"We want to show them that we do want to do some good for the community," Ausley said.

Buns Over Texas will cater the Casino Night/Street Fair.

All students and community members are invited to attend.

Texas Tech's Vietnamese International Student Association and residents of Weymouth Hall's seventh floor will present the first in a series of cultural events at 7 p.m. Friday in Weymouth's main lobby.

"They will talk about their culture, play some music, have a fashion show and then hand out some food," Weymouth resident assistant Steven Stratton said. "They will also field questions about Vietnam's cultural diversity and explain what kind of concerns the Vietnamese face when in America."

The event is part of the International Affairs Office's "Close Up" program.

"Every month we will present a program from a division of our office, like from the Chinese student association," International SA Adviser Christina Friedl said.

IS CREATION REALLY IMPORTANT?

Creation...is the basis of all real science, of true Americanism..., and of true Christianity. Evolutionism on the other hand, can be shown to be only a pseudo-science masquerading as science. As such, it has been acclaimed as the so-called 'scientific' foundation of atheism, humanism, communism, fascism, imperialism, racism, laissez-faire capitalism, and a variety of cultic, ethnic, and so-called liberal religions....The creation/evolution issue is, in a very real sense, the most fundamental issue of all."

Fair takes this city slicker back in time

LARA M. CAMPBELL

While the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo is impressive, it doesn't have that small-town feel to it.

My first experience with a small town fair was four years ago when a date took me to the South Plains Fair.

True, it isn't considered small-town by many, but when you come from the fourth-largest city in America, anything that happens in Lubbock seems tiny.

This year, the Panhandle-South Plains Fair will run from Sept. 25 - Oct. 2.

From the carnival rides that look like they will collapse at any second, to those huge stuffed bears your boyfriend can never seem to win you, everything about the fair has its own mystique.

I remember the first time I saw a pig was at the fair, and I was shocked they weren't these cute little pink things. They were big, hairy and, for the most part, smelled like hell.

Cows weren't dots out in a field, but were huge, looming beasts that ate more hay than I ever thought possible.

When I moved here, I thought Lubbock would have nothing to offer.

But, over the last four years, I have learned to appreciate the unique qualities a town like Lubbock has to offer.

Unlike in Houston, I don't have to fear getting shot at the McDonald's drive-through.

Perhaps that is why I enjoy the fair as much as I do. It is a part of Americana we city folks miss out on.

The fair can take you back to a time when you didn't have television as your main source of entertainment, and when local arcades weren't the hangout for every young boy and girl in town.

My grandfather still tells stories of his prize-winning livestock he raised as a teenager back in the 1920s.

He has a group picture of the San Saba High School Future Farmers of America with their winning ribbons. He and 40 other young boys stare into the camera, their pride obvious.

Now, 60 years later, I can walk up and down the rows of livestock at the South Plains Fair and see similar ribbons and young faces.

In a world that seems to be getting more harsh every day, it is comforting that for eight days each year, we have the opportunity to take time out to experience what our grandparents experienced.

And we can take time to smell the roses — or cow patties.

Parade, Tucker to kick off South Plains Fair

by MICHELLE ELIZARDO THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Panhandle-South Plains Fair will kick off its 76th season this weekend with a variety of food, fun and entertainment.

A Parade of Bands in downtown Lubbock will be the first feature of the fair, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

The parade will form at Avenue N and 13th Street, and march north one block to Broadway, turning east to the fairgrounds.

The fair is offering a full slate of activities throughout its eight-day run, said Steve Lewis, fair manager.

The free attractions on the Outdoor Stage will include: Glen Jaspering, the "man of a thousand sounds;" Popular Demand, a band harmonizing '50s and '60s music; country band Riverwind; and a South Plains College talent group.

Coliseum shows will begin with Tanya Tucker Saturday.

The fair will have about four dozen non-profit organizations with food concessions catering to fairgoers with selections ranging from hamburgers to enchiladas.

WALTER GRANBERRY: THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Let the good times roll

A worker installs track on a roller coaster ride Thursday in preparation for the Panhandle-South Plains Fair. The 76th annual fair, which attracts fair-goers from all over West Texas, begins Saturday.

The Livestock Pavilion will feature traditional livestock competitions, championship bull riding, harness driving, a horse show and sheep dog trail. Exhibits in agriculture, commercial, arts, flowers and women's buildings will cater to a variety of fairgoers' interests, Lewis said.

Aggie athletes' favorite pastime: eating

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — How much meat do the athletes eat when the athletes do eat meat? "I'd say a ton," said Myrt Davidson, dining room manager for the past 18 years at Texas A&M's Cain Hall.

Since Aug. 4, when the football team returned to campus, the dining room has gone through 1,967 pounds of red meat. In particular, A&M's student athletes have eaten 129 pounds of ribeyes, 379 pounds of T-bones, 146 pounds of sirloin strips, 193 pounds of tenderloin, 750 pounds of hamburgers and 370 pounds of flank steak. And so, since Aug. 4, the athletes have eaten 3,272 6-ounce chicken breasts, which amounts to 1,227 pounds.

Let's put that in perspective, using foods served at both Cain Hall and Commons dining hall for the regular student body. According to the Food Services Department, during one month the Commons will serve about 2,871 pounds of chicken breasts, 5,029 pounds of sirloin strip, 4,565 pounds of hamburger, 8,735 pounds of French fries and 1,100 pounds of bananas to 5,400 people.

Not all athletes are big eaters. Tennis players watch what they eat and tracksters eat light because "they don't want to run on all that food," Davidson said.

Baseball players eat like "normal people," she said.

Road trip continues for Tech with SWC opener against Bears

by LEN HAYWARD
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech is at the top of three out of four offensive categories in the Southwest Conference, but yet its record is 1-2.

The Red Raiders have been in the last two games they have played, but they have come up short both times — losing by big margins.

But, in both of those occasions, the Tech offense had trouble getting started in the first half, only to come back in the second half to give the Raiders a chance.

"There are times when we are playing defenses that are pretty good and a lot of people don't understand that," offensive coordinator Dick Winder. "It takes a while to adjust to the defenses and to playing the game itself."

In the first three games Tech has gained 1,441 yards in total offense, which converts into 480.3 yards per game. The Raiders also lead the conference in scoring averaging 39.7 points per game.

Tech now has to focus on SWC play, as the Raiders play Baylor at noon Saturday at Floyd Casey Stadium in Waco. The game will be televised by Raycom, KJTV channel 34 or Cox Cable channel 10.

Tech is trying to recover from two losses to Nebraska and Georgia, with the Raiders losing those games 50-27 and 52-37, respectively.

"I've got to think playing two good football teams early in the season is a blessing for us," coach Spike Dykes said. "We've been able to learn a lot about our team the past two weeks and see areas we need to concentrate on."

Winder said preparation for the Baylor game will be no different than any of the other games, but he said Tech might see something they haven't seen so far this season.

"We have to go with what they have done in the past, last year and the three games they played this year," Winder said. "We are a lot different offensively than a lot of teams, and we may see something early we haven't seen before."

Baylor also is in the top portion of the conference in the offensive categories, but the Bears have the same problem as Tech — the Bears are giving up more points than the offense can score.

The Tech defense has given up 403.3 yards per game, while the Bears have let teams run over them for more than 510 yards per contest.

"The offensive players understand that (the defense) is young," Winder said. "There is no bigger supporter of the defense than our offensive football team. A lot of these guys are great friends."

Since Winder has taken over as Tech's offensive coordinator, the teams have done nothing but improve, and this year seems to be no exception.

With an experienced quarterback, two good running backs, a senior-filled offensive line and a seasoned receiving corps, offense should be no problem for the team Saturday.

Bryon "Bam" Morris has gained more than 100 yards in the first three games, Robert Hall has the highest completion percentage in the conference and wide receiver

A current Texas Tech student I.D. is required.

Beating up on each other begins in SWC

LEN HAYWARD

The Southwest Conference opens its first week of play this weekend, with Texas Tech taking on Baylor and Texas Christian going against Southern Methodist.

The beating up on each other now begins officially.

The first week may determine a few things about the rest of the year, even though A&M is not playing a league-game this week.

There also are some good non-conference games this week, which may produce either more or less respect for the conference.

Southern Methodist (0-2)
at Texas Christian (1-1)
7 p.m. CDT
Amon Carter Stadium (46,000/natural grass)
Fort Worth

This was the game last year that gave the Mustangs their first SWC victory since receiving the death penalty and it also was the first conference contest for both teams last year.

The Mustangs are 0-2 after close losses to Wisconsin and Arkansas, while TCU is hoping to keep the momentum from a win two weeks ago against New Mexico.

This game will have lots of scoring, but the Horned Frogs defense might make the difference.

Houston (0-2) at No. 8 Michigan
1:30 p.m. CDT
Michigan Stadium (102,501/natural grass)
Ann Arbor, Mich.

The nightmare continues for the Houston Cougars, but after their first three games they should be more than prepared for SWC play.

But, this is a team that still is trying to adjust to new coach Kim Helton's system, so look for Michigan to win big.

In the process the Wolverines may relieve some frustration from the loss two weeks ago to Notre Dame.

The Wolverines are a top 10 team and Houston will have to play more than perfect just to have a chance.

Texas (0-1-1) at No. 24 Louisville (3-0)
3 p.m. CDT
Cardinal Stadium (35,500/artificial turf)
Louisville, Ky.

The Cardinals are probably the most underrated team in the country. Howard Schnellenberger is at the point where his recruiting is getting better and he is putting out better teams each year.

Texas is coming off a moral victory against Syracuse, but Louisville is a completely different team.

Give the Cardinals the advantage, because they seem to do better when they know they are looking for respect.

Texas has the ability to win, but this will be the best game nobody sees.

Iowa State (1-2) at Rice (2-1)
4 p.m. CDT
Rice Stadium (70,000/artificial turf)
Houston

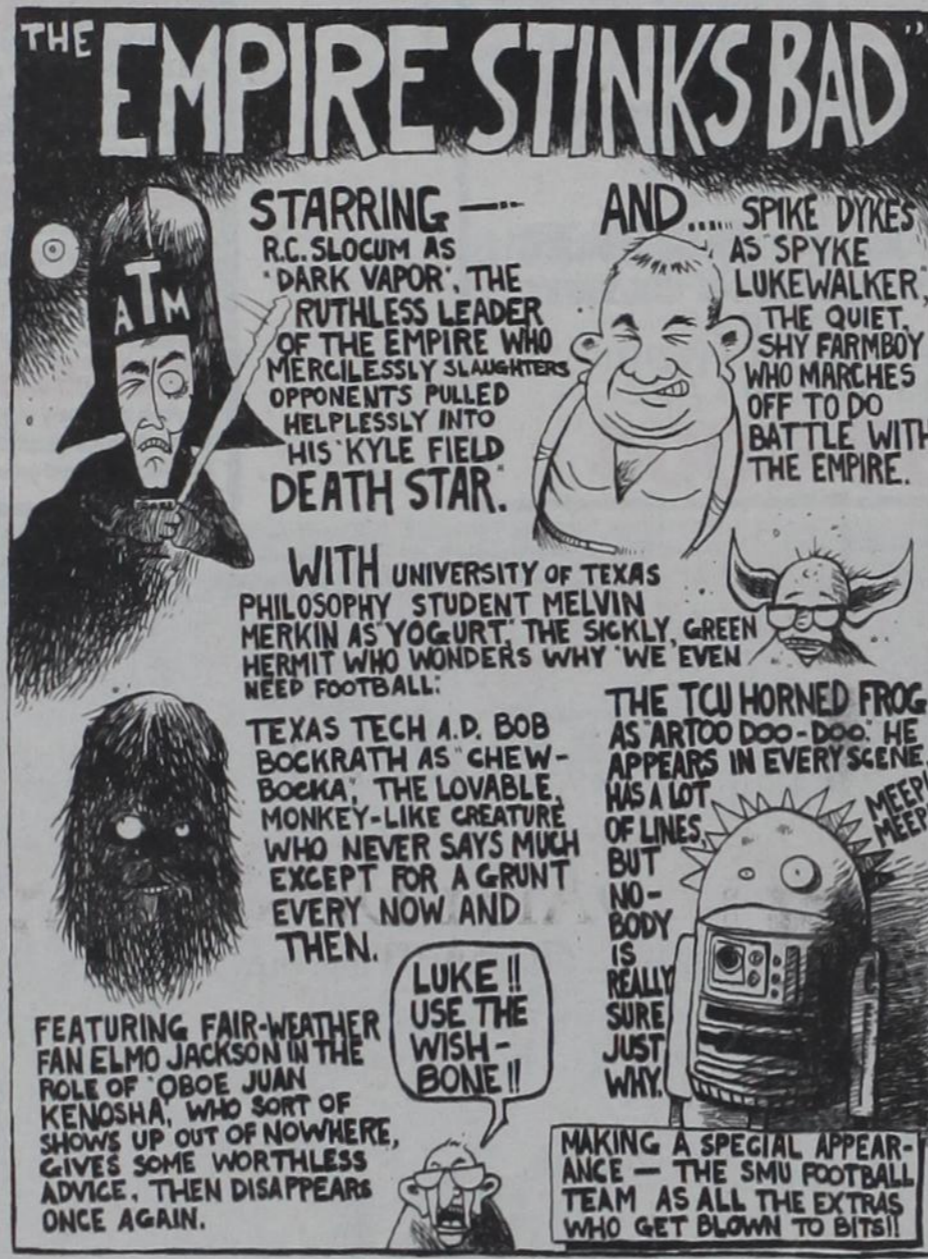

The Owls need to be stoned. They almost embarrassed themselves and the conference last Saturday against Sam Houston.

Rice has to get back on track because the Cyclones are just a little bit different caliber of team than Sam Houston.

Rice needs to have more offense to win this game, because Iowa State is primed and ready for a win.

But this game probably will end up like all the other Big Eight/SWC games — a loss for the SWC.

Lewis ready for matchup with Tech

by JAMES DAVID
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

There is a football player at Baylor who is more than eager for Saturday's matchup against Texas Tech.

Bradford Lewis, a senior fullback from Waco Christian, earned the starting job during two-a-days after three years of hard work and backing up Robert Strait.

"My hard work is finally paying off for me," Lewis said. "I knew that if I kept at it, I would get the chance to start."

Baylor is coming off of another come from behind victory last week at Utah State, and Lewis said the game was one of the toughest he's ever played in.

"Utah State was the toughest game of the season so far," Lewis said. "They played like a top 25 team and had a great offense. They have improved a lot since last season."

Lewis said that the key to Baylor's early success this season has been its running game. Baylor is second in the Southwest Conference in rushing, just behind Texas A&M.

Baylor's running game might present a problem for Tech's defense, as Tech is ranked 77th in the nation against the run.

"What we try and do every game is establish the running game early," he said. "Then we can switch to the pass if we have to."

Lewis is third in rushing on the Baylor offensive squad, behind tailbacks Brandell Jackson and John Henry, with 145 yards on 34 carries. Baylor's offensive style lets the fullbacks carry about as much as the tailbacks, and that suits Lewis.

"I love just being part of the overall team effort," Lewis said. "Although, I do like to score touchdowns."

Lewis said the Bears are looking better every week and fully expect to contend for the SWC title.

"The SWC is going to be a close race this year," he said. "Everybody's not just talking about A&M. They're also talking about Tech and Baylor."

Lewis said the Bears are adjusting well to new coach Chuck Reedy after Grant Teaff's retirement last season.

Baylor defeated Arizona in last year's Sun Bowl to send Teaff out as a winner.

"That was a very emotional game for us," Lewis said. "We were out to get some respect for the team as well as the conference."

Lewis thinks the logical progression for the Baylor program is to now win the SWC.

"We've shown we can play well and hang with non-conference teams," he said. "Now it's time for us to get after it in the SWC."

Lewis said he's only satisfied with his performance after a game if he knows he's done his best.

"My long term goal is to help the team win any way I can," he said.

Competition in volleyball drives Raiders' Bode

Middle blocker likes expanded role

by TARA HEARLIHY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Competition is Jackie Bode's favorite thing about volleyball.

"I really like competing," the sophomore middle blocker said. "The competition is exciting."

Bode, an undecided major who is considering political science, is from Katy High School and chose Tech over 62 other schools.

"I came to Tech because of the school. I knew a lot of people who were coming here. I knew Diane (Owens) and I knew she was coming to Tech," Bode said.

Bode had seven kills in Wednesday's match against Texas A&M.

For the season, she has 99.

In every game, Bode she said is motivated to play. "Sometimes I play really mad," she said. "I feel a sort of responsibility to get excited and be pumped up for a match."

Out of all the teams Tech plays, the Longhorns are Bode's competitor.

"I love to play Texas," Bode admitted. "I get so hyped and get such a rush. We always want to beat them."

Bode's career-best kill total in a match is 15. She hit this mark against Montana Saturday.

The sophomore said she hopes to improve her overall play this season.

"I want to improve my hitting, especially," she said. "I also want to improve in everything."

Bode says she feels more at ease playing this year.

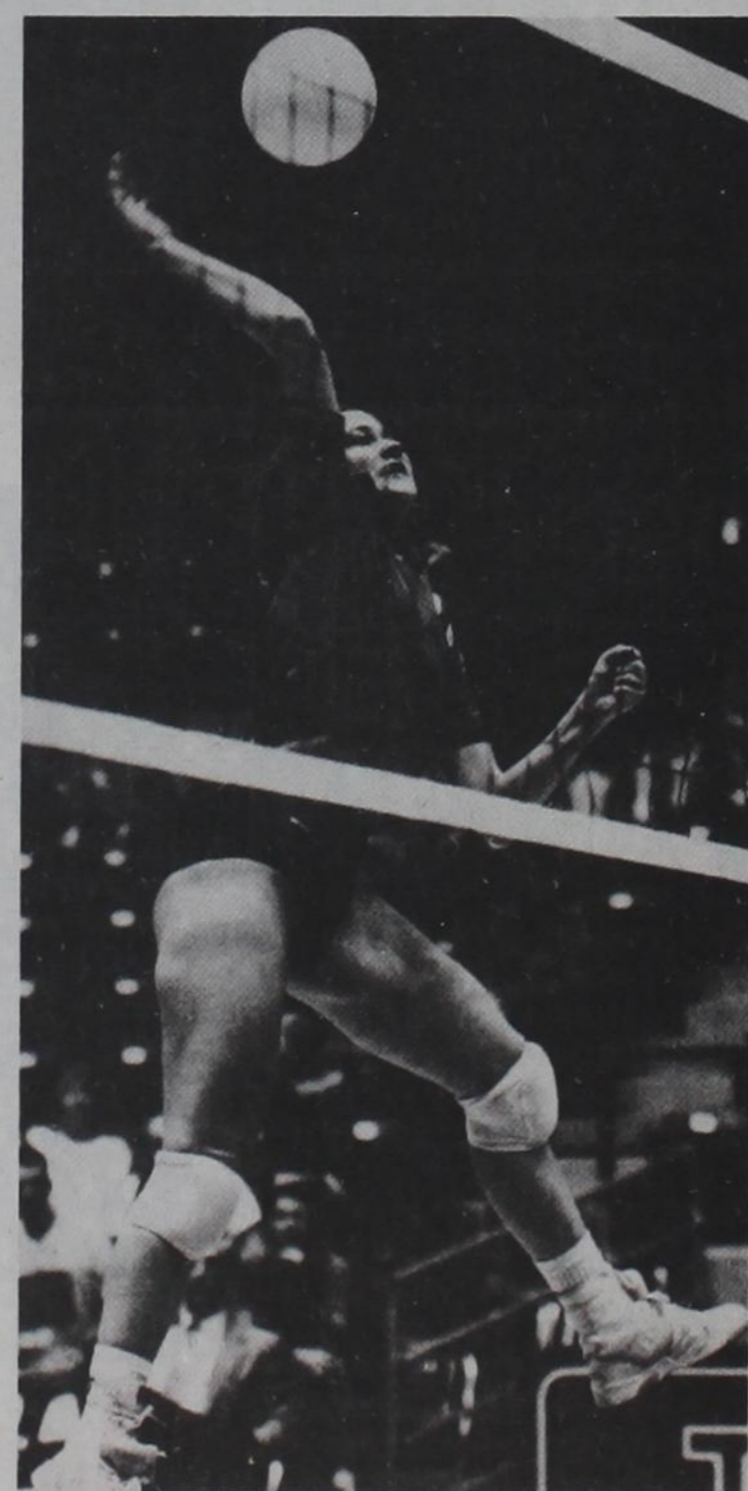

"It is easier because I am playing more. On the court I feel more a part of the team and feel like I have more responsibilities," Bode said.

Bode said she has seen a change in her playing from last season.

"I am more consistent. I think I play more responsible. I know I have a long way to go, though," she said.

Tech's supporters make Bode feel more at ease, she said.

"Everyone is so supportive here. I love the players and enjoy playing with them," Bode said.

Texas Tech middle blocker Jackie Bode hits a ball during the Red Raider Classic last week in the Coliseum. Tech is off this weekend, but will continue Southwest Conference play Wednesday against the Rice Owls.

Bode will help the Raiders take on Rice Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Student Recreation Center.

Tennis teams open season

The Texas Tech men's and women's tennis teams open their fall seasons this weekend at two separate tournaments.

The men open at College Station at the Texas A&M Invitational while the women travel to Lincoln, Neb., for the Cornhusker Invitational.

The field at A&M includes TCU, Rice, Texas A&M, Arkansas and Tech.

The starting lineup for the men consists of returning starters Juan Gutierrez, Clint Graf, Erick Guzman and Jason White. Newcomers on the traveling squad this week are Rogelio Guerrero, Tal Roma, Robert Barry and Clay Evans. Ash Ayers and Gerard Orriols are out with injuries this week.

On the women's side, all returning starters from last year are back so the outlook is good going into the season opener.

Starters are Jennifer Brennan, Lynne Jackson, Debbie Biswell, Christy Davis, Sheri Gilreath, Renna Rhodes, Erica Tarrillion and Erika Fisher.

The Cornhusker field includes Iowa State, Colorado, Nebraska, Creighton, Wichita State, Drake and Tech.

Lady Raiders to appear on ESPN2

The Texas Tech women's basketball team, on the heels of its first national championship, will have two games aired on ESPN2 this season.

The Lady Raiders' season opener against Stanford at 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 27 and a SWC tilt against Texas on Jan. 22 will be aired on the new cable network. Both games will be played in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Tech will open the exhibition season on ESPN, when they play Vanderbilt in the State Farm Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic on Nov. 20.

The Raider men will have three games aired on the two networks, with the Wisconsin game on Dec. 11 and the Houston game on Jan. 15 on ESPN.

ESPN2 will air the Texas game at 4:30 p.m. on Feb. 20, which will be played in the Coliseum.

"Having the women's games televised by ESPN2 is a big plus for our league and a big credit to the high competition level of SWC women's basketball," commissioner Steve Hatchell said.

Young players lead Longhorns in 101st campaign

by JAMES DAVID
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Texas Longhorns are poised for another run at the Southwest Conference title going into their 101st year of playing college football.

The Horns, at 0-1-1, are off to a slow start with an early season loss to No. 13 Colorado, and a tie against No. 12 Syracuse last week.

Their schedule doesn't get much easier this week as they will pair off against No. 24 Louisville in Louisville, Ky., on Saturday.

If the Longhorns can pick up the pace, they are expected to contend for the Cotton Bowl this season.

Redshirt freshman quarterback Shea Morenz won the starting nod just before the season opener against Colorado and has had a hot hand in passing thus far, with a completion rate of a little over 56 percent.

However, he also shares the dubious distinction of co-leading the SWC in interceptions with five, along with Texas A&M's Corey Pullig. A&M has played three games, though, to Texas' two.

The Texas offense returns five offensive and five defensive starters from last year's disappointing 6-5 season. Returning on the offense are split end Lovell Pinkney, tackles Troy Reimer and Blake Brockmeyer, running back Phil Brown and flanker Mike Adams.

Defensive starters back are defensive tackle Dominic Bus-tamante, defensive end Norman Watkins, linebackers Kevin Watler and Winfred Tubbs and corner-back Joey Ellis.

Coach John Mackovic is expecting strong things from his running and passing games this season.

"We expect Phil Brown and Curtis Jackson to give us a solid running game, and we have big-play receivers in Lovell Pinkney and Mike Adams along with Shea Morenz's throwing arm," Mackovic said. "If we can put together a solid unit, we'll develop some consistency throughout the season."

On defense, the Horns have been starting an assortment of freshmen, including five true freshmen who started against Syracuse. The five are Tony Brackens at defensive tackle, Bryan Johnson at defensive end, Bryan Westbrook at cornerback and Tre Thomas and Chris Carter at safety. Defensive coordinator Leon Fuller can't recall when the Longhorns have had to start so many freshmen.

"We expected them to play," Fuller said.

"We just didn't expect them to play so early."

The Longhorns have been forced to do so because of an assortment of early-season injuries.

The Horns will open conference play Oct. 2 against Rice in Austin.

Bears hope for return to bowl game with new coach

by TARA HEARLIHY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Baylor Bears opened the season with a new coach and many new players, especially on defense.

The Bears are 2-1 after beating Utah State last Saturday and Fresno State in their season opener. Baylor lost at Colorado 45-21 during the second week of play.

On Nov. 24, 1992, first-year coach Chuck Reedy became the 21st Baylor coach after being promoted from offensive coordinator.

Grant Teaff, the Bears former coach, resigned to take a job with the American Football Coaches Association.

Dr. Dick Ellis took over as athletic director after Teaff resigned during the summer.

The Bears finished last season in a tie for second in the SWC with an overall record of 7-5 and a 4-3 SWC mark.

After last season, the Bears lost 14 starters, four on the offense and eight defensive players, one punter and one kicker.

The Bears do have seven offensive starters returning along with three defensive starters.

While he was offensive coordinator Reedy helped to prepare quarterback J.J. Joe, a three-year starter, who completed nine of 23 passes for 151 yards against Utah State.

Joe has passed for 567 yards this year.

"What J.J. needs to do is execute and run the offense. He doesn't need to make that many plays himself, just get the ball to the right people and make good decisions," Reedy said.

Senior John Henry and sophomore Brandell Jackson complete the I-formation for the Bears.

Tailback/fullback Henry has 174 yards rushing this season, averaging 58 yards per game and four touchdowns.

Tailback Jackson has 269 yards rushing and an 89.7 average per game.

Senior fullback Robert Strait has two touchdowns and 116 yards this season.

The defense is led by senior defensive end Lamone Alexander with junior Scotty Lewis at the other end.

Owls trying to continue momentum gained from last season

by TARA HEARLIHY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Rice has proved there is life after all-American Trevor Cobb in their three games this season.

The Owls are 2-1, losing only to Ohio State in the season opener.

The team is led by coach Fred Goldsmit, who is in his fifth year at the helm.

Rice returns with 36 lettermen, with the offense having seven returning starters and the defense returning six starters.

They return to a team that gained Rice its first winning season in more than 30 years.

Senior quarterback Bert Emanuel, the Southwest Conference's offensive newcomer of the year and an All-SWC quarterback, guides Rice's offense.

Emanuel has completed 32 of 60 for 348 yards this season.

Rice receivers are headed by All-SWC junior Jimmy Lee and junior wide receiver Ed Howard.

Lee has 128 receiving yards and 179 yards on kickoff returns this year, while Howard has 11 catches for 117 yards.

Sophomore running back Yoncy Edmonds has to follow in Cobb's shoes, but he has proven himself.

"I really tried to keep from comparing anybody to Trevor," Goldsmith said. "He was so tough and was such a competitor. Yoncy will do that when he runs."

Edmonds has 277 yards this season in 60 attempts.

The Owls' defense was ranked second in the SWC last year in scoring defense and has allowed only 107 yards per game this season.

The defense is led by senior free safety Nathan Bennett, senior cornerback Sean Washington, and junior linebacker Emmett Waldron.

"We've got the best depth we've had in the secondary since I've been at Rice," Goldsmith said.

Rice's defense had a season-high nine quarterback sacks in the 14-13 win over Sam Houston State last Saturday.

The Owls will open the SWC season against Texas in Memorial Stadium on Oct. 2.

Cougars adjusting to new coach in 1993

by JAMES DAVID
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Houston Cougars have a new coach and a new look facing the 1993 season.

The Cougars new coach, Kim Helton comes to the Cougar program determined to turn things around from last season's dismal 4-7 finish.

The Cougars (at 0-2) have dropped their first two games though, to Southern California and Tulsa, and will play No. 8 Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday without starting quarterback Jimmy Klinger and wide receiver Sherman Smith. Klinger sprained his ankle against Tulsa on Sept. 11 and has seen little action in practice. This will cause freshman Chuck Clements to have to start in his first college game. Helton thinks the experience will be good for Clements.

Helton said he is not ruling out Klinger seeing playing time but stated he will not play if he isn't 100 percent.

Houston lost 18 letterman from last year's squad, including five starters on offense and six on defense.

The offense will still run the "run and shoot" pro-style offense that has been the Cougars trademark across the league for several seasons.

The defense must improve this season if the Cougars as a whole are to. Last year's offensive squad was able to average 34 points per game, but the defense couldn't keep up their end of the bargain.

"Defense is a turning point in many games, and we have to stop the opposing teams so we can stay in the hunt," Helton said.

Focusing on the offense, Helton thinks they have what it takes to win some ball games.

"This is an explosive team on offense," Helton said. "We have the quarterbacks, receivers and other skill people to have another good offensive campaign this season."

Houston opens SWC play Oct. 2 against Baylor at home.

Mustangs try for first win against Frogs

by JAMES DAVID
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Southern Methodist Mustangs are looking to improve on last year's disappointing 5-6 season but at 0-2 going into conference play this week, they need to jump start their team if they hope to do so.

The Mustangs will open their Southwest Conference slate with cross-Metroplex rivals Texas Christian in Fort Worth on Saturday.

The Mustangs have dropped two close non-conference games to Arkansas 10-6 and Wisconsin 24-16 and hope to drop one into the win column this week.

"We need to play four quarters instead of two," coach Tom Rossley said.

"We haven't made the plays in the fourth quarter when we've needed them. We're a young team that needs a win."

The Mustangs lost 28 lettermen from last season and are looking to new talent to fill the void.

Quarterbacks Ramon Flanigan and Mark Eldred, linebackers A h m a d Hayes and Wade Smith and defensive lineman Jason Evans are expected to make contributions this season.

Bright spots for the Mustangs early in the season include kicker John Stewart, who is leading the conference in field goals, hitting five out of six attempts.

Stewart has scored 16 of the Mustangs' 22 points this season, while wide receiver Brian Berry is second in the SWC in receiving with 14 catches for 180 yards.

On the defensive side, SMU is third in the SWC with an average of 365 yards per game total offense given up. The Mustangs are third against the pass and fifth stopping the run.

SMU players who are out for this week's SWC opener include defensive tackle Byron Bonds with a knee injury and quarterback Flanigan, who is still recovering from mononucleosis.

"We had two weeks to prepare for TCU," Rossley said. "I've got confidence in both quarterbacks, so I'll decide on a starter this week."

New look Horned Frogs try to improve on 1-6 league record

by TARA HEARLIHY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Christian hopes to end the 1993 season with a better record than last year.

The Horned Frogs finished 2-8-1 overall and 1-6 in the Southwest Conference. Coach Pat Sullivan begins his second season at TCU.

It is also the second season the Frogs have had a grass field.

The Horned Frogs have a different appearance on the field this year. Their helmets have gone from purple with white writing to a silver helmet with purple writing.

TCU has a very young squad this year, similar to last year's team. The Horned Frogs have only four seniors in the starting lineup at fullback, cornerback, flanker, and safety.

Sophomore Max Knake, who was TCU's backup last season and saw action in seven contests, has 43 completions for 68 attempts this season.

The Horned Frog defense has eight returning regulars led by Royal West on the left side. West had 68 tackles last year.

The linebackers showcase TCU's defensive program. They posted more than 100 tackles each last year. Junior middle linebacker Mike Moulton had 131 tackles and sophomore weakside linebacker Lenoy Jones had 188.

Aggies look for third straight SWC Championship

by LEN HAYWARD
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Respect.
That is all Texas A&M is looking for in 1993.

The Aggies got off to a good start against Louisiana State in the first game of the season, but Oklahoma's upset in game two demonstrated why many people are doubting this team. Now, people in the conference are realizing A&M can be beat, which might make the Aggies' trek to a repeat championship that much harder.

One thing that also has hampered the team is the problems with the NCAA, when most notably Greg Hill and Brian Mitchell were suspended for part of the season.

The Aggies are 2-1 after beating up on Missouri last week 73-0, but once again it is the defense that leads this team.

Sam Adams and crew lead the SWC in total defense, giving up 268 yards per game.

The Aggies are also second in quarterback sacks with 11, while Rice leads the conference with 13.

Dennis Allen has two interceptions on the season, while Aaron Glenn has played well on the defense this season.

Senior Jason Atkinson leads the linebacking corps.

The offense is something that is all together different—it abounds with inconsistency. Most people in Aggieland thought that sophomore quarterback Corey Pullig was the answer to the team's passing problem, but he has shown inconsistency this season.

Pullig has completed 57.6 percent of his passes, but he has five interceptions on the season.

He has only thrown for 476 yards for four touchdowns. He is third in the conference behind Baylor quarterback J.J. Joe and Texas Tech quarterback Robert Hall. Junior tailback Rodney Thomas is the workhorse on the offense with 428 yards on 64 carries, while the Aggies do not have a receiver in the top 10.

Even though A&M is 2-1, the Aggies are more than likely going to be the team to beat in the conference with a lot of experienced youth.

A&M will open the SWC season against the Red Raiders in Lubbock Oct. 2, with an off date this week.

NCAA denies Texas A&M's appeal

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M running back Greg Hill and linebacker Jessie Cox will remain penalized by the NCAA, the Kansas-based sports authority ruled on Thursday.

Texas A&M officials appealed the NCAA's decision to bar Cox from season play and Hill from the first four games in an afternoon conference call with NCAA officials on Thursday.

But the NCAA Eligibility Committee upheld a decision by the agency's eligibility staff to keep the two from playing.

"There was no information that was submitted that warranted a different result," said Max Williams, a NCAA official who chaired the conference call.

Hill was ruled ineligible by the university for accepting four payments totaling $1,400 for work he did not perform on a summer job in Dallas. Cox was ruled ineligible after being paid $3,000 from the summer of 1990 to the summer of 1992.

Both players were paid by a housing project owned by Texas A&M booster Warren Gilbert.

Texas A&M officials tried to show that Southern Methodist University players who sold textbooks they received as part of their scholarship benefits were given lesser penalties.

Hill could play again after sitting out the requisite four games. He was already barred from the 1993 Mobil Cotton Bowl.

"We are disappointed, especially for the young men and their families," said Texas A&M Interim President E. Dean Gage.

Cross country teams to compete at SMU

The Texas Tech men's and women's cross country teams will venture to Dallas this weekend for the SMU invitational at Southern Methodist.

The women are coming off of one of their best team performances in school history in San Diego at the Aztec Invitational hosted by San Diego State.

The men were idle for the most part last week, sending only three runners to race at Wayland Baptist.

Jill Williams is still out for the women with a heel injury, and Gunilla Andersson has the week off.

The UD's projected SWC Finish

1. Texas A&M
2. Baylor
3. Texas
4. Texas Tech
5. Rice
6. Houston
7. TCU
8. SMU
