Council hears plea for zoning change

Residents speak about new KMart

by JAYSON BALES
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Lubbock City Council members failed to reach a decision Thursday about a proposed commercial zoning change east of University Avenue, between 62nd and 66th streets.

Council members discussed a request from Douglas Maclay, a representative of Oakwood Baptist Church, for a zoning change for the construction of a Super KMart Center in the Bayless-Atkins neighborhood, east of University Avenue.

Lubbock Planning and Zoning Commission members advised city council members to approve the zoning change, Zone Case No. 2661-B.

During the public hearing, about 40 Bayless-Atkins neighborhood residents expressed their disapproval and their approval for the proposed zoning change.

Neighborhood residents who disapproved of the zoning change expressed concern about increased traffic, crime, litter and flood drainage.

Bayless-Atkins Neighborhood Association President Jay Temple said neighborhood association members support building the Super KMart Center.

"As a group, we have decided that this would be the best thing for our neighborhood," he said. "We feel that the KMart is a stepping stone in the way of progress."

Development Specialist David Goyette said KMart officials are building about 50,000 cubic yards of flood water holding capacity to help reduce flooding in the Bayless-Atkins neighborhood.

Neighborhood resident Lee King said a commercial zone should not be established in the residential area.

Citizens expressed their viewpoints to the city council, but the zoning change was not passed because only four council members attended the meeting.

Councilmen T.J. Patterson, Bud Aderton and Randy Neugebauer were not present during the meeting.

City council members will continue discussing zoning for the Super KMart during the Nov. 11 city council meeting.

Aristide calls for total embargo

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Haiti's ousted president, his hopes of returning to power by this weekend all but gone, called Thursday for a total trade embargo to force out the country's military leaders.

Jean-Bertrand Aristide said he would not waver in his fight to restore Haiti to democracy. He reiterated that he would not return until army commander Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras steps down, he said.

"One, he must leave," Aristide said at a news conference following a speech to the General Assembly. "Two, I must return."

Aristide, Haiti's first democratically elected president, was to return by Saturday under a U.N.-brokered agreement reached in July with Cedras, leader of the bloody September 1991 coup.

Sea breezes aid firefighters

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Stubborn strips of flame zigzagged through Southern California on Thursday as cool sea breezes helped firefighters gain ground against a firestorm that destroyed nearly 600 homes and burned 116,000 acres.

A procession of fire refugees walked through the smoke along a coastal highway into Laguna Beach, the posh coastal resort in Orange County half-gutted by a wall of flame that destroyed more than 300 homes.

Authorities blocked the Pacific Coast Highway, allowing residents to return only on foot or bicycle. Hundreds of people abandoned their cars to make the trip.

Hutchison may not appear before jury

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison will not voluntarily appear before a grand jury unless her attorneys can present their side of the case to the panel, her defense team said Thursday.

Attorney Dick DeGuerin of Houston asked State District Judge Robert Perkins to allow him to give a half-day presentation to the 12-member grand jury.

He accused prosecutors of misleading the panel in its investigation of Hutchison's tenure as state treasurer. Hutchison was indicted last month on charges of official misconduct, but the charges were dismissed because of a technicality. The investigation has been taken up by another grand jury.

DeGuerin also asked Perkins to explain to the new grand jury state laws concerning the conduct of public officials.

"We're not asking for special treatment, only fair treatment," he said.

The Travis County District Attorney's office said Hutchison was asking for special privileges.

Debate continues about Clinton proposal Lubbockites react to health care plan

by COLLEEN MCENDREE LOGAN
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Clintons announced their 1,300-page health care reform plan Thursday, signaling the commencement of what could be a period of lengthy debate.

"It's a very complex issue that's going to take many months to debate," said Keith Williams, press secretary for U.S. Rep. Larry Combest.

He said the goals of the reform are something everyone can agree upon, but said there are many negative aspects that need to be addressed.

For example, Williams said he disagrees with Clinton's idea to have a regional health alliance.

Randy Beffrey, president of Tech's Young Democrats chapter, said, "It (Clinton's reform) makes health care accessible to everyone. It still has little kinks that need to be ironed out."

Beffrey said he thinks Clinton's plan would make Texas a better place.

"Texas has a high number of indigent patients," Beffrey said. "I used to work in a hospital—you have a lot of people who put off things and hope it goes away and end up in the emergency room."

He said it costs the taxpayers more to help people whose ailments have become emergencies than it does to pay for preventative care.

Part of the plan may be funded through a proposed 75-cent-per-pack cigarette tax.

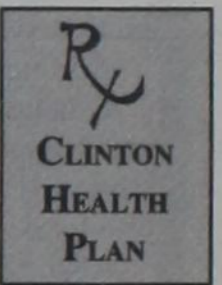

Nathan Ziegler, president of Tech's College Republicans chapter, said, "I think the president and his wife are going to do anything they can to have as much governmental power as possible. If this health care package goes through, we'll end up with a health care system with the compassion of the IRS and the efficiency of the U.S. Post Office."

Mary Alice McLarty, Clinton's campaign coordinator for Lubbock, said, "Everyone has to have some form of health care and, right now, we don't."

She said the insurance companies will cause the most opposition.

Ramona Ramanzani, vice president of the Young Democrats, said, "Most of the plan I do agree with, but nothing's going to please everyone."

She said she liked that fact that the plan will ensure that people who change jobs will not lose their health coverage.

German measles update

Pregnant women should consider staying away from Tech, Tyler says

by CHRISTY EVERETT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Students feeling the beginnings of a common cold may be suffering from symptoms of a more serious illness.

Several Texas Tech students have been diagnosed with rubella, or German measles.

The first student was diagnosed Thursday and lives in the Wall/Gates Residence Hall.

Dr. Cheryl Tyler, director of Student Health Services, said she believes the biggest problem associated with the virus concerns pregnant women and their unborn babies.

Although rubella is usually considered mild to moderate in seriousness, it can cause serious complications in unborn babies, Tyler said.

She said the German measles virus also can lead to mental retardation, neurological defects, deafness and heart problems in the infant.

Pregnant women should consider not being on the Tech campus for the remainder of the semester as protection against the virus, she said.

"I know this causes a problem with classes, but the dangers are serious," Tyler said.

She said pregnant students should immediately contact their physician to find out if they have an immunity to the virus.

In order to combat the problem of the virus spreading, Tyler said she recommends all students who have not had two mumps, measles and rubella shots to obtain one for $5 at Student Health Services in Thompson Hall.

She said she hopes that having students get MMR shots will decrease the number who get the virus and spread it to others.

Students can either make an appointment or come to Student Health for the shot, Tyler said.

She said all students who have not had their two MMR shots should receive a shot.

"The problem is that some students are not getting very sick and they do not know that they are passing it on," Tyler said.

Tyler said that Dr. Mike Kelly, Chief of the Bureau of Communicable Disease Control for the Texas Health Department, said he believes that 10 percent of Tech students do not have immunity to rubella. "One shot is not enough," she said. "With two MMR shots, the immunity should be very high."

She said the virus may be a problem on campus for the rest of the semester, unless a large number of students receive their shots.

LIBRARY FEE PROPOSED

by JENNIFER GILBERT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Student and Faculty senates met Oct. 12 to discuss a pending proposal that would add a library fee to tuition.

Student Senate President Jay House said the proposal was in the "very preliminary stages."

"No proposal has come to us (the Student Senate)," he said.

House said there were ideas to impose a flat rate of about $10 per student or to charge students by credit hour.

He also said library officials did not initiate the proposal.

Faculty Senate member and associate music professor David Payne said discussions about the pending fee began during the 1993 spring semester.

Payne said the increased costs of library journals was "certainly a part of the problem," but also said that library funding had declined overall.

"Library funding has suffered for maybe the past five years or so," he said.

Payne said the idea for a library fee came from library fee implementations made at the University of Houston and at Texas A&M University.

Payne also said Tech Student Association officers were "very reasonable" in their request for an explanatory list specifying how the proposed fees would be spent.

Jennifer Waddell, a junior marketing major from Lubbock and the Student Services Committee chairwoman, said, "Payne was wanting to install a fee because of the cuts made to articles and journals (in the library)."

"Nothing is definite," she said. "We met briefly and were not given enough information to initiate a fee."

Director of Libraries Dale Cluff said, "The library could always use funds."

Voting can be amusing experience

Jake Rigdon

Why should I vote in Tuesday's election about 16 amendments to the Texas Constitution?

I'm not exactly the prototype voter, although I am a registered Lubbock voter, and I do occasionally go out and place my opinions into the ballot box.

But every time I am unsure whether or not I am going to vote, I remind myself of a couple of antics some of my roommates have pulled.

During my freshman year at East Texas State University, my roommate during the second semester was black. He said he never voted because his opinion as an "African-American voter" didn't amount to jack. According to him, the white man was responsible for why Jessie Jackson was never voted into office.

Therefore, since his vote "didn't really count," he never voted. What a sorry excuse.

The black population makes up one of the biggest voting masses in the United States (the elderly make up the other huge chunk).

Then there was the time during the presidential election last year when I was living with two of my friends.

They were making fun of me because I had voted for Ross "I'm all ears" Perot. Both of them proceeded to imitate a "Saturday Night Live" satire that poked fun of the little billionaire.

However, upon asking if they had voted, both looked at me dumbfounded.

"Vote?" one asked.

"I didn't vote because I already knew Bush wasn't going to win," one said.

"I didn't vote because I already knew that Clinton was easily going to win," the other said.

And neither were registered to vote in Lubbock.

Believe it or not, something can be learned out of both of these small occurrences. First off, become a registered voter in Lubbock. Absentee voting can also help, but you actually have to pay attention to the issues way in advance.

Also, realize that your vote does count. If it didn't, then the very basis of our democratic system would be all for naught.

The simple solution is to become more aware of the issues because, believe it or not, someday these issues are going to affect you and everyone else.

What I told my past roommates is that too many people hold the same opinion on voting. The reason why many amendments, candidates, and proposals don't win elections is because too many people use the cop-out of "my opinion doesn't count, so I won't vote."

So when you are sitting at home on Tuesday, and you haven't voted for the proposed Texas amendments, I want this embedded in your brain.

If you are eighteen years or older and you don't vote, then I'll personally give you directions to the nearest airport so you can go to a country that doesn't need your vote or care about your opinion.

Nov. 2 ballot

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TEXAS CONSTITUTION

These proposed amendments will appear on Tuesday's ballot. Amendments receiving a majority of popular vote, will be amended to the Texas Constitution. The following information was obtained from the Texas Legislative Council's Analyses of the Proposed Constitutional Amendments and the League of Women's Voters Guide.

Wording on the ballot:

grant, to the owners of certain property in Fort Bend and Austin counties."

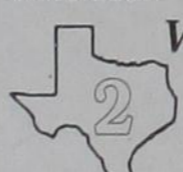

The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the issuance of $50 million of general obligation bonds for the recovery and further development of the state's economy and for increasing job opportunities and other benefits for Texas residents through state financing of the start-up costs of historically under-utilized businesses."

Additional information:

The amendment does not define "historically under-utilized businesses," but according to the "Analyses of Proposed Constitutional Amendments," the legislature probably intended to include businesses that are owned or operated by women or members of certain minority groups that may have been handicapped by discrimination, lack of funds or geographic location. Amendment 1 would authorize the legislature to provide direct financial aid to these businesses. If adopted, the legislature would have to enact enabling legislation because the amendment does not have enough detail to make it self-enacting.

Arguments for: •Businesses run by women or minorities traditionally have been denied conventional financing sources for reasons unrelated to their creditworthiness or potential for success. The amendment would give aid to worthy businesses that have been discriminated against in this way. •Assisting these businesses will create jobs, help develop businesses that supply service to the aided businesses and increase state tax receipts. •The legislature will be encouraged to adopt enabling legislation if they receive voter support for the amendment.

Arguments against: •It is unfair to provide assistance to certain businesses just because they are operated by women or minorities. Also, because of the economic recovery of the state's banks, sufficient private sources of funding should be available for any business that is likely to succeed. If this is true, the state should not take business away from private lenders or finance businesses that private lenders consider too risky. •Authorizing of bonds for these businesses will be a financial strain on the state and violates the state's traditional policy against state debt.

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment to promote the reduction of pollution and to encourage the preservation of jobs by authorizing the exemption from ad valorem taxation of real and personal property used for the control of air, water or land pollution."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment providing for the clearing of land titles by the release of a state claim in a fractional interest, arising out of the voiding of an interest under a Mexican land

Wording on the ballot:

The constitutional amendment repealing certain restrictions on the ability of corporations to raise capital."

Wording on the ballot:

Wording on the ballot: "The constitutional amendment to abolish the office of county surveyor in Jackson County."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment to modify the provisions for the redemption of real property sold at a tax sale."

Additional information:

This amendment would limit a former owner's ability to get his or her land or property back after it has been sold at a tax sale to pay back taxes. Article 8, Section 18, currently allows a former owner to purchase his land within two years after the sale. If this amendment is passed, the legislature could limit the right of redemption to six months for property other than residence homesteads and agricultural land. It would also remove a constitutional provision requiring the legislature to establish a procedure to provide for tax sales without a court suit.

Arguments for: •Tax sales without a court order would limit private property rights. •This would encourage investors and developers to buy property at tax sales without having to wait two years to get a clear title. •This would not affect agricultural lands and residence homesteads.

Arguments against: •Small taxpayers may lose their property and be deprived of a chance to recover from financial difficulties if the right of redemption is limited.

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing issuance of $750 million in general obligation bonds to augment the Veterans' Land Fund and the Veterans' Housing Assistance Fund and to fund the Veterans' Housing Assistance Fund II."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment providing that the trustees of a local public pension system must administer the system for the benefit of the system's participants and beneficiaries."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment permitting the denial of bail to certain persons charged with certain violent or sexual offenses committed while under the supervision of a criminal justice agency of the state or a political subdivision of the state."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment relating to the amount and expenditure of certain constitutionally dedicated funding for public institutions of higher education."

Additional information:

This amendment modifies the way in which the Higher Education Assistance Fund may be spent. It would extend HEAF funding to the Texas State Technical College system. It would also allow certain institutions to spend HEAF money on buildings used for both education and general activities. Texas Tech would get funding for construction at the Health Sciences Center, among other things.

Arguments for: •TSTC is the only public institution of higher education in the state that does not have a dedicated revenue source for capital expenditures and is deserving of the proposed funds. •Including TSTC in the institutions that receive HEAF funding would free general revenue funds for other purposes.

Arguments against: •TSTC is not a four-year institution like the other beneficiaries of the fund and should continue to receive appropriations on an as-needed basis. Including TSTC in the list of institutions entitled to receive HEAF funds would decrease the amount of funds available to other institutions.

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of up to $1 billion in general obligation bonds payable from the general revenues of the state for projects relating to facilities of corrections and mental health and mental retardation institutions."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment to permit the voters of a county to decide, at an election called by the commissioners court, whether to abolish the office of county surveyor in the county."

Wording on the ballot:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing up to a total of $100 million in bonds and notes to be issued or sold to finance the Texas agricultural fund for providing assistance to develop, increase, improve, or expand the production, processing, marketing, or export of crops or products grown or produced primarily in this state by agricultural businesses domiciled in the state."

Additional information:

The Texas Agricultural Finance Authority uses the Texas agricultural fund for loans to establish agricultural businesses. The Agricultural Diversification Board also uses funds for small business in rural areas.

Doctor says media should act responsibly with ads

by COLLEEN MCENDREE LOGAN
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

In the words of Dr. Alan Blum, "the daily newspapers are scared of alienating the drug pushers." Blum, who lectured Thursday at McInturff Conference Center, was not revealing a little-known alliance between reporters and drug dealers.

Instead, he was referring to the relationship between the media and the tobacco industry.

In his speech, titled "An Overview of the Tobacco Problem," Blum addressed the power of tobacco advertising in society.

He said the media are unable to resist the financial clout of tobacco companies and, as a result, enable the tobacco industry to bring recruits into the ranks of smokers.

"This issue is not about smoking," Blum said. "This is an issue about the source of the problem."

Blum said the sophisticated advertising campaigns are designed to catch the interest of young and impressionable children.

If a person does not start smoking before the age of 18, there is only a one in 10 chance that they will ever take up the habit, he said.

Adults are much more likely to buy bargain brands of tobacco products than children and teenagers are, Blum said. He said young people almost always buy name brand cigarettes.

Blum said about 68 percent of children who smoke are buying Marlboro cigarettes, and said Marlboro and Camel are the two most popular brands of cigarettes with young people.

"Let's throw away words like 'quit' or 'smoker,'" Blum said. "Let's focus on the pusher."

Blum said the media are guilty of two major crimes — accepting tobacco company advertisements and neglecting to accurately report the dangers of tobacco use.

He said one example of media neglect can be found in an issue of U.S. News and World Report that devoted only two or three sentences to smoking in their cover article about heart disease.

The issue had a cigarette advertisement on the back cover, which Blum showed the audience as evidence of the complicity of the magazine and tobacco company.

Blum said one reason tobacco companies are powerful and well-accepted is because of their efforts to "gloss over" their image.

Smokeless tobacco use leads to cancer, gum disease

by LESLIE WEEKS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The mouth was red and gapping, missing 10 or 11 bottom teeth, and the remaining gums had been replaced using a skin graft from the groin area.

Texas Department of Health Regional Dentist Dale Drennan used slides such as this during a speech at the McInturff Conference Center Thursday to emphasize the harmful effects of using smokeless or spitting tobacco.

Drennan said he began associating sores and lesions in the mouth with spitting tobacco as a young doctor in a small practice.

"I had older farmers and ranchers coming in with sores and lesions," he said. "I noticed the same lesions in kids from grade six and up as in the old farmers and ranchers."

Drennan said advertisers target the younger population because they are still impressionable.

"The youngest, first-time users are around the age of five," he said. "The average age (of users) is between 8 and 10."

Many children are exposed to tobacco by role models, Drennan said.

"Of 7,000 active major league baseball players, one-third to one-half will use smokeless tobacco products," he said. "The children are watching and those are their role models." Drennan said using smokeless tobacco products causes a variety of health problems.

"It's associated with several types of cardiovascular diseases," he said. "The blood pressure goes up and the heart rate rises."

Tobacco use definitely is linked with cancer, Drennan said.

"There are many carcinogens in tobacco," he said. "One can of snuff has three times the nicotine exposure of cigarettes."

Drennan said the nicotine damages the lining of the mouth and allows other chemicals to pass through.

Other negative effects include gum disease, tooth loss and cavities, Drennan said. "You can take out a perfectly good virgin tooth because of periodontal disease," he said.

Drennan offered several solutions to the tobacco problem.

"We should ban the use of smokeless tobacco in schools and athletic programs," he said. "We should prohibit the distribution of free samples and prohibit sales (of tobacco) to children under 18 years of age."

Drennan said the tobacco use by athletes during television sports should be discouraged.

"Spitting tobacco appears to be the final frontier as the nation moves toward a smoke-free society," he said.

Haunted houses, music highlight weekend

by LARA M. CAMPBELL
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

For 12 hours Saturday, Lubbockites will have the opportunity to experience art from several different cultures.

KOHM-FM radio 89.1 has organized the first Harvest Folk Festival at the Godbold Cultural Center, 2601 19th St.

Music, arts, crafts and even a haunted house, featuring masks by artist Jim Johnson, will be included.

The festival will celebrate several kinds of folk music, with music from Scotland, India, China and Ireland. Three stages will keep audiences entertained from noon to midnight.

Arts and crafts will be on display until 6 p.m. "This is a wonderful way to showcase the talent available (in this area)," said Sylvia Jones, station manager of KOHM-FM.

Jones said the idea for the festival came after KOHM-FM participated in the Lubbock Art Festival last spring.

Jo Hayes, a volunteer at KOHM-FM, asked musicians to perform at the booth the station set up at the festival. The performances were so popular, Jones said Hayes and Lanny Fiel, host of KOHM's "Roots" folk music program, decided to organize the festival.

"We hope this will become an annual event," Jones said.

While the Lubbock Art Festival focuses on the visual arts, Jones said the Harvest Folk Festival will focus on the musical arts.

The newly refurbished Godbold Cultural Center, which was the original St. Mary of the Plains Hospital, has been artistically restored and the festival will provide Lubbockites with a sneak preview.

"I think (the cultural center) will be a plus for Lubbock," said Eleanor Woodson, president of the West Texas Watercolor Society.

Woodson, a former professor at Texas Tech, said the society will display paintings from 15 artists and several will demonstrate their techniques.

"The folk festival will be a gathering of different groups that wouldn't normally get together," said Chester Marston, board member of the West Texas Music Association. "There will be a little bit of

L.A. Guitar Quartet kicks off UC Nightlife Series

by LARA M. CAMPBELL
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

When many think of classic music, guitars are not often the first instrument that comes to mind.

Some minds may be changed today when the Los Angeles Guitar Quartet brings their classical guitar sound to the Texas Tech Allen Theatre. The concert, which begins at 8 p.m., is sponsored by Texas Tech Cultural Events.

"The purpose for Texas Tech Cultural Events is to present quality arts and lecture series for a strong, well-rounded education for Tech students," said Mary Donahue, assistant coordinator of students activities for Cultural Events.

Cultural Events brings several guest speakers and art performances to Tech each year. The money for such activities comes from the Tech student services fees, grants and ticket sales.

The Los Angeles Guitar Quartet is the first performance in the 1993-94 Nightlife Series.

Members of the band include prize winning soloists William Kanengiser and Scott Tennant, seven-string virtuoso John Dearman and composer/guitarist Andrew York.

The Los Angeles Guitar Quartet plays a variety of music types, ranging from Renaissance and classical to contemporary styles.

The quartet returns to Tech for the second time and will perform works from the "Nutcracker Suite," "Introduction and Fandango" and a world premiere, "Varekena."

Another work that will be performed is Leo Brouwer's "Cuban Landscape with Rain." The piece has been described as "a musical portrait of a rain shower." "Landscape" has been in the quartet's repertory since the beginning of the group.

Kanengiser said a guitar quartet has advantages over a regular string quartet.

"There are all those strummers (guitarists) out there who have never heard classical music," Kanengiser said.

Tickets for the Los Angeles Guitar Quartet cost $8 for Tech students and $14 for others. Tickets are available at the University Center Ticket Booth and all Select-A-Seat locations. For more information, call 742-3610.

IS ABORTION WRONG?

One of the greatest tragedies of modern America is the tragedy of abortion. Over 1.5 million abortions are performed each year. Most abortions have nothing to do with the life or health of the mother; they are done because her desire for convenience, absence of distress, and her so-called happiness. Yet in reality she is jeopardizing her emotional and physical health.

At conception the fertilized ovum is a complete genetic package programmed for development into a mature adult. Nothing will be added except time and nutrition.

It is clear from the Bible that God regards the unborn baby as a living human being. It is also clear that the taking of innocent human life is murder, which God forbids.

Both mother and baby are victims of abortion. It's time to stop the abortion holocaust.

Job options available after college

by MEGAN CLARK
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Financial planner Bill Carter spoke to students Thursday about career possibilities and career options during a free lecture titled, "Career Opportunities in Financial Planning."

Carter is president of the Board of Governors of the International Board of Standards and Practices for Certified Financial Planners, and he was named "Rising Star" of Texas by Texas Business magazine and was named one of the "Dallas Dozen" by the Dallas Times Herald.

Carter has been active in national and international financial planning since 1977.

"Financial planning began in the late 1960s, but growth was relatively small," Carter said. "At that time, financial planning wasn't well known and people didn't know what it was about."

In the early, 1980s financial planning concepts became popular and jobs in the field grew at a rapid pace, he said.

Careers in the financial planning field include selling insurance, financial advising, working with a brokerage firm and teaching money management.

"There are new areas of financial planning available now," Carter said. "People can work for personnel departments of large companies or with banks and do consulting work. Being the go-between and wholesaling for a company is also a different way of getting out into the financial planning field."

Computer skills are necessary for students who want to be successful in the financial planning field, Carter said. He said good written and oral communication skills also are recommended, as well as salesperson skills and an awareness of trends and concepts.

"I also think traveling outside of the United States is also beneficial," Carter said. "It really makes a difference experiencing a different culture and seeing how other countries perceive the United States. Just reading the foreign press about the United States is enlightening."

Parents of nine discuss family values

by CHRISTY EVERETT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

"The Brady Bunch" was a popular 1970s television show about a fictitious family of eight, but in Lubbock Thursday, two real-life working parents with nine children discussed their methods for handling stress in the 1990s.

Richard and Linda Eyres spoke Thursday evening at the University Medical Center about balancing work and family.

As the authors of Lifebalance and Teaching Children Values, they have gained experience through personal trial and error, Linda Eyres said.

Teaching Children Values has reached number one on The New York Times best-seller list.

The purpose of the book, Lifebalance, was to create a personal balance between family and personal needs, Linda Eyres said.

She recommends a priority list to help control the stress that naturally occurs personally, as a family member and at work.

It is important to retain flexibility and spontaneity to add meaning and happiness to life, Richard Eyres said. He said the key term is serendipity, or the ability to find good things while looking for other things.

Richard Eyres used the examples of a beautiful sunset or an unexpected social opportunity as examples of "happy accidents" that should be accepted with excitement.

Students also must learn to handle the stress of attempting to balance social lives, families and grades, Richard Eyres said.

He said he advises students to stay in touch with family members to remain happy and to keep priorities in balance.

"It makes a big difference," Richard Eyres said. "If a student has the attitude that they are independent, it can lead to insecurity and stress."

Linda Eyres said she believes the transposition of certain phrases also can help students to help retain balance in life.

Two of her mottos for some of life's circumstances are, "don't just do something, sit there," and, "if something is barely worth doing, barely do it."

Longhorn shuttle system lessens parking burden during game

by JAYSON BALES
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Fans who want to avoid parking problems at the Texas Tech/University of Texas football game in Austin Saturday can ride a shuttle bus to Memorial Stadium.

The Capital Metropolitan Transportation Authority is operating a shuttle service to Longhorn football games at Memorial Stadium for the convenience of fans.

Buses will operate on two different routes, from the North Lamar Transit Center at North Lamar Boulevard and U.S. 183, and at Barton Creek Square Mall in Lot C near Montgomery Ward.

Capital Metro Public Relations Supervisor Julie Fernandez said the shuttle service runs about every 15 minutes to Memorial Stadium.

"It basically runs constantly," she said.

The shuttle service is an extension of Capital Metro's contract with Texas to run the university's shuttle service for students, Fernandez said. Although travel time on the shuttle routes takes about 30 minutes, there are great advantages to riding the shuttle instead of parking near Memorial Stadium, she said.

The shuttle service begins two hours prior to the game and runs for one hour after the game.

The number of people who ride the shuttle service differs each year, Fernandez said.

"We've been running this service 10 years," she said. "I think it has varied over the years, (depending on) probably just how good UT football is year after year."

This season, about 1,100 fans are riding the shuttle service each game, Fernandez said. The Barton Creek shuttle route uses 10 buses to take and pick up fans at the east side of Memorial Stadium. The North Lamar route uses 13 buses to deliver fans to and from the west side of Memorial Stadium.

Round-trip bus fare is $2 for adults, $1 for children ages six to 12, and free for children less than six years old.

RED RAIDER FACTS

AUSTIN BOUND
The Texas Tech Red Raiders (2-5) will attempt to keep their mid-season rebound alive Saturday in Austin when they tangle with the Texas Longhorns (2-3-1) at Memorial Stadium. Kickoff is at 12:07 and will be televised by the Raycom TV Network.

TRADITIONALLY A TOUGH PLACE TO WIN
The Red Raiders face the rugged task of winning in a stadium in which they have been on the high side of the score only once in the last 26 years. The lone victory came in 1989 when running back James Gray sparked a 24-17 victory. The Raiders used that to springboard to their most recent bowl appearance. The only other Tech triumphs in Austin were in 1955 (20-14) and 1967 (19-13). Texas has not lost at home this season (they are 1-0-1) and they lost at home last year only to nationally-ranked Mississippi State and Texas A&M.

THE SERIES
This will be the 43rd renewal of the series which began in 1928. Texas Tech trails 33-9 in the overall series and is behind 25-8 in SWC match-ups. The Raiders have won just three times in 24 trips to the Capital City.

THE COACHES
Dean of the SWC coaches is Texas Tech head coach Spike Dykes, (S.F. Austin '59), who is in his seventh full season with an overall mark of 37-37-1 and 25-22-1 in league contests. He took over the head duties two weeks before the Red Raiders' 1986 Independence Bowl game and has led the school to a SWC upper division finish each year. Dykes is 2-4 vs. Texas. UT coach John Mackovic is 8-8-1 in his second season at Texas and 52-44-2 in his ninth collegiate season.

RED RAIDER FACTS

LAST YEAR'S GAME
 Four first-half turnovers and an inspired Texas offense proved too much to overcome as the Red Raiders fell 44-33 in Lubbock. Jason Clemmons passed for 327 yards with one interception and no sacks but the running of Adrian Walker and the passing of Peter Gardere helped the Longhorns grab the lead for good in the second quarter. The Raiders crept to within 29-27 early in the fourth stanza before a pair of UT touchdowns put the game away. Lloyd Hill was a one-man show, catching 10 passes for 151 yards and three touchdowns.

SPIKE ON THE TEXAS GAME
 "Playing Texas is always a big game for us. Texas is sort of like us. They had a tough time with the schedule but they are doing well now. They've got some young players who are just starting to emerge. I look for a knock-down, drag-out type of game."

LLOYD HILL
 All-America receiver Lloyd Hill sat out the Rice game with a right knee sprain but should return for the Texas game. After setting the SWC record for career pass receiving yardage, Hill is taking aim at entering the NCAA's Top 20 all-time list. Lloyd currently is 17th in the nation in receptions and 18th in reception yardage. Here's a look at what Lloyd has done in the past against Texas:
 1990: Did not Play
 1991: 3 for 83 yards
 1992: 10 for 151 yards, 3 TD's
 Totals: 13 for 254 yards, 3 TD's

ROBERT HALL
 Quarterback Robert Hall continues to assault the Southwest Conference and Texas Tech record books. He has joined David Klingler and Andre Ware as the only players in Southwest Conference history to rank in the league's Top 5 in career total offense (third with 7,417), career touchdowns responsible for (third with 56), career touchdown passes (fourth with 41) and career passing yards (fifth with 6,916). He needs 264 yards passing to move past Chuck Hixson of SMU and into fourth in career passing. He needs 21 pass completions to establish his 11th school record; this one for career pass completions. Here's what Robert has done against the Longhorns in his career:
 1990: 11 for 26, 161 yards, 2 int., 7 rushes for 7 yards, 1 TD
 1991: 10 for 35, 194 yards, 1 int., 15 rushes for 29 yards,
 1992: Did not play
 Career: 21 of 61, 355 yards, 3 int., 22 rushes for 22 yards, 1 TD

Tech graduate receives Paris internship after winning award

by MEGAN CLARK
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

She has moved from Lubbock to Paris and left Wednesday for New Orleans to work on a Tom Cruise movie. It is all part of the life of Texas Tech graduate Tiffany Robinson.

In March, Robinson was awarded the 1993 Overall Design Award during Career Day at the Dallas Apparelmart and received a four-week internship at the Paris

Design Institute in Paris. She said her work competed against 300 other garments that had been designed by students from 19 colleges and universities. "I had never dreamed something like this would happen to me," Robinson said. "It was the chance of a lifetime."

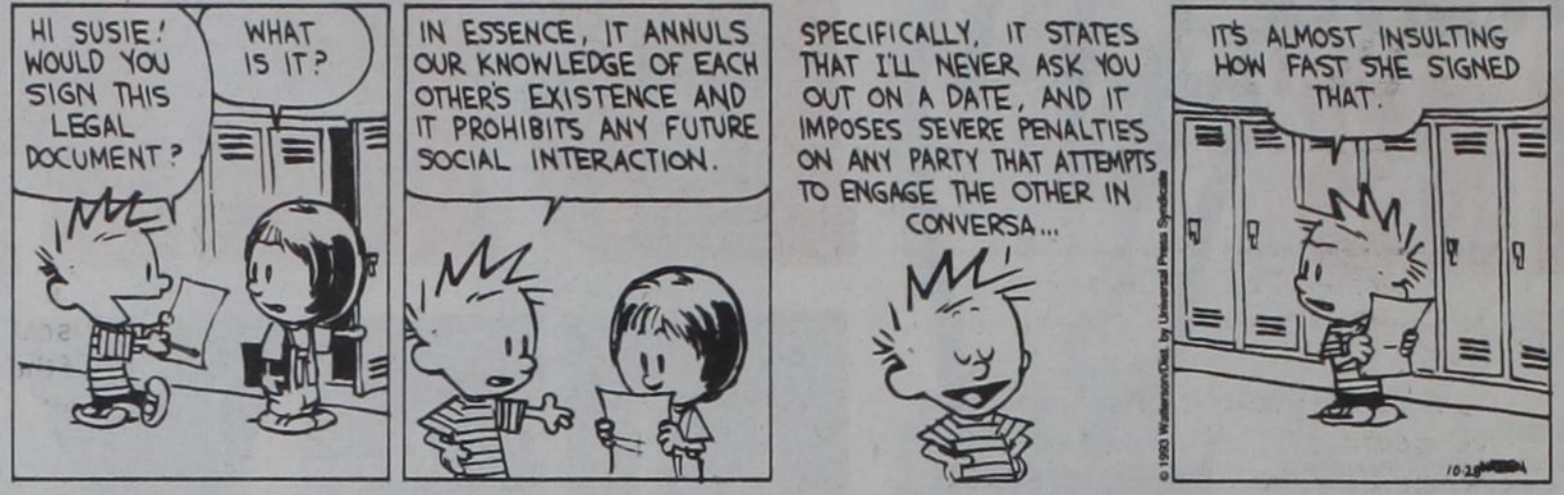

She spent four weeks in Paris taking crash courses in art history, fashion design and merchandising, and spent some time sightseeing around Paris.

Robinson also was able to visit famous design houses and style shows. The Paris interns also took a trip to Versailles. "I was able to see that designers can be more open-minded about fashion, that you can be as wild and creative as you can be," Robinson said.

After her return, Robinson worked as an intern in a sportswear firm in San Diego. She visited Texas Tech last week to talk to beginning fashion design students.

Tech looking for first victory against 'Horns since 1989

by LEN HAYWARD
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

After a week off, the Texas Tech football team now focuses its attention on winning its second straight game.

But that second win may be just a little bit tougher considering, who the Red Raiders are playing and where they are playing this Saturday, in Austin against the Texas Longhorns.

The last time Tech beat Texas was in 1989, and that was the last time the Raiders made an appearance in a post-season bowl game. That was the only time the Raiders have won in the capital city since 1967.

"We have a big order of business this week with the University of Texas," coach Spike Dykes said. "They really played a complete football game against SMU last week and they played with great confidence. Their offense was highly productive."

Tech has had a week to prepare for the Longhorns, who have an overall record of 2-3-1 and 2-0 in the Southwest Conference, and are still in the hunt for the Cotton Bowl.

The Raiders have a 2-5 overall mark, with a 1-2 record in conference play.

"It's going to be a tough game," senior split end Lloyd Hill said. "They are going to be fired up and ready to play."

Texas is fresh off a 37-10 victory over the Mustangs, last week in the Alamodome. The Longhorn offense is averaging 379 total yards per game and are led by sophomore receivers Lovell Pinkney and Mike Adams.

"First we have to stop the wideouts," sophomore linebacker Anthony Armour said. "Adams and Pinkney are their offense and we have to stop (running back) Phil Brown."

Adams has 343 yards receiving, while Pinkney, who stands at 6-5 and weighs 234 pounds, has caught 25 passes for 418 yards. Adams is also one of the top returners in the league, returning one punt for a touchdown this season.

"Adams is a great return man," Dykes said. "(Pinkney) is a good athlete and a very dominant athlete. We will have some problems getting him covered."

Tech's defense held Rice to 387 yards total offense in a 45-16 win on Oct. 16, including holding quarterback Bert Emanuel to 10 of 21 passing for 111 yards and 54 yards on the ground.

"We just have to play consistent," Armour said, who has 54 tackles this season. "We know all of their keys and we have had real good practices this week."

Hill will return for the first time after suffering a knee sprain in the North Carolina State game. Even though he has missed a game, he still leads the team in receiving with 36 receptions for 540 yards.

"Basically I want to prove to Texas, the players, coaches and fans that I can still do a lot and get some confidence," Hill said. "I want them to throw to me a lot."

Hill said he is hoping that his injury may give him more opportunities to get open because of the performance of Derrell Mitchell against Rice. Mitchell caught seven passes for 115 yards and one touchdown.

"We are going to use that to our advantage, they saw Mookie (Mitchell) did some good things against Rice," Hill said.

It's all mine

Texas Tech defensive end Byron Wright tries to be the first person to the ball in the Red Raiders' 45-16 win over Rice on Oct. 16. Tech continues its season against Texas Saturday in Austin.

Hill has had good success against the Longhorns catching 10 passes in last season's 44-33 loss for 151 yards and three touchdowns.

"This game means a lot to me," he said. "It is my senior year and I haven't beat them yet. I would like to beat them in their hometown."

Lady Raiders' Sharp ready to get down to business

by LEN HAYWARD
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

It's time to get down to business for the Texas Tech women's basketball team.

Saturday is the first official day all NCAA basketball teams can begin practice, and no one could be more happier to begin than Lady Raider coach Marsha Sharp.

"We start Saturday and we are real excited," she said earlier this week. "I am real excited about working with some of these kids and those two extra workouts help. I have not had a chance to see them as a group, it is an NCAA violation for me to see them just run up and down the floor."

The NCAA originally scheduled workouts to begin Nov. 1, but moved them up to Saturday, and this is some help to Tech, Sharp said.

The Lady Raiders open their season on Nov. 20 against Vanderbilt at the State Farm Hall of Fame Tipoff Classic in Jackson, Tenn. Other teams competing in the tournament include Ohio State and Tennessee, with both games being televised on ESPN.

Sharp

"We need every single practice to get ready for that week," Sharp said.

During those seven days from Nov. 20-27, the national champions will play the Cuban Nationals in an exhibition game on Nov. 24 at home and the home regular season opener against Stanford on Nov. 27.

Chemistry may be the key for this team that lost three seniors, All-American Sheryl Swoopes, Krista Kirkland and Cynthia Clinger.

But Sharp said she does not see a style change for the this season, even with some of the new players.

"I don't think we will have style change at all," she said.

"We can still run and we will be a little faster and quicker this season."

The Lady Raiders have been ranked anywhere from 13th-18th in some of the preseason polls, and Sharp said she agrees with the rankings.

"It is good to be where we are at this point and I think that is a good assessment," she said. "I would rather beat somebody and move up, then be ranked high and lose and move down."

AFC fans: keep Bills from Super Bowl

from going to the Super Bowl for the fourth consecutive time.

I would not be saying this if they had at least won one, but losing a fourth one is grounds for disbanding the conference all together.

If no one can beat the Bills in the playoffs this season, then all of you Cowboy fans can be prepared for another ticker tape parade in downtown Dallas.

The Bills are 5-1 right now, and are playing as good as Buffalo has ever played. That is what is so scary. They are probably going to go back to the big game and will likely embarrass the conference once again. Even worse, they are more than likely going to lose to the Cowboys.

There are any number of teams this season that have a

Tech's Martin suffers season-ending injury

by TARA HEARLIHY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

After not playing for a month and two weeks, freshman outside hitter Christine Martin had a chance to play against Houston Wednesday. Unfortunately, that chance disappeared after the fourth game.

Martin started the game, but sustained another injury to her right knee falling to the court.

"I came down on it wrong," she said. "I was hitting the ball and landed wrong."

"Her knee gave away," coach Mike Jones said. "She landed wrong." The freshman was carried off the court by senior middle blocker Erica Ruegg. Jones and Martin believe the new injury is more serious than the first.

"She hurt it worse than she did before," Jones said. "She won't play the rest of the year."

"It is much worse than what happened five weeks ago," Martin admitted. Martin said she felt ready to play after she added two inches of muscle to the knee.

"I passed everything," she said. "When we did the tests, my bad leg was stronger than my good leg. Some people said I went in to early, but I think I was ready." Martin said she expects to have surgery.

"I was too tense after it happened," she said. "The trainer tried to loosen it up, but I couldn't relax."

Jones said the loss of Martin will hurt the Raiders for the rest of the season.

"She has big effect when she goes in," Jones said. "Everything picked up (against Houston). Everyone played better. She doesn't make mistakes and she knows how to play the game. Her enthusiasm picks everyone up. When she went down, the whole team played down. I think that is the reason we lost the match. All of the excitement they had just deflated. It is hard to make excuses and I don't like to, but I think that was a real key factor."

The Raiders play Texas-Arlington at 7:30 Saturday in Arlington. Tech (10-11, 2-6) beat UTA (7-12, 3-2) in three games in Lubbock on Sept. 8.

"UTA is much better than how they played last time," Jones said. "I think they came here on a bad night."

The Lady Mavs were led by senior middle blocker April Lee who had nine kills.

Bills

Kansas City, Pittsburgh have best chance to dethrone Buffalo

chance to go to the Super Bowl from the AFC, most notably the Miami Dolphins.

But the Dolphins suffered a snag when they lost quarterback Dan Marino for the rest of the season with an achilles' heel injury (ouch!).

There went one team that could have challenged the Bills.

Four out of the five teams in the AFC West have a chance to go to the Super Bowl. But remember Denver is in this division, and we all know what happens when the Broncos go to the big game. At least the Bills made it close, once. The odds on favorite in this division is Kansas City, simply because of the fact that Joe Montana is in the same uniform.

But the key for the Chiefs is their defense. They have playing better than last year, just because of Montana.

Also remember that the Los Angeles Raiders have another former NFC quarterback (Jeff Hostetler) starting for them, which makes them a much more dangerous team.

San Diego has to find a consistent quarterback to go along with the tough defense and the Chargers could go back to the playoffs.

Now for everybody's favorite division, the AFC Central. Pittsburgh and Cleveland are the teams to beat and Cincinnati does not even have a chance. Both Pittsburgh and Cleveland play with tough defense, which is reminiscent of some NFC teams. Both teams should go to the playoffs.

But what about the Oilers? Yeah, what about them. There is so much turmoil on this team they are still trying to get everyone to the games on time. If the Oilers make it after what they have been through, they deserve to win the Super Bowl.

The AFC still plays the more wide-open game, but remember, offense wins games and defense wins championships. That is probably why Buffalo will never win a Super Bowl.

Oh, by the way, there are only two games going on in the SWC this week. A&M will maul SMU and Houston and TCU will probably tie.

Dickey, Raiders to begin workouts Saturday

by JAMES DAVID
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Basketball season is finally here. According to NCAA regulations, Oct. 30 is the first official day of basketball practice.

"I'm excited about Oct. 30th getting here. We're looking forward to getting into our daily routine," coach James Dickey said.

The Texas Tech men's basketball team is short one of its standout freshman players from last season, point guard Lenny Holly, the Southwest Conference Freshman of the Year, but Dickey isn't worried about that.

Holly may be gone, but Chad Collins is ready to step up and show what he's made of.

"It was a surprise (Holly's departure) for sure. Someone will step forward and pick up the slack," he said.

Collins, a 6-0 junior from San Antonio, is expected to fill the point guard position vacated by Holly.

"Collins has done a good job for us in the past," Dickey said. "I expect him to make a strong contribution this year."

Dickey said he feels Texas is the likely favorite for the SWC regular season crown.

"They're two-deep at every position. Then there are a lot of teams that have a chance at having a run against Texas," Dickey said.

Texas Tech is picked fifth in the 1993 SWC pre-season coaches poll, but Dickey said he isn't concerned about the team's ranking.

"I'm not too concerned about where we were picked. Just where we finish," Dickey said.

Dickey said with the departure of Holly and Will Flemons he can understand the teams low ranking in the pre-season polls, but he isn't overly worried.

Dickey said the team had a good offseason in recruiting and will field strong depth this season.

"We have two junior college players coming in that we expect to make immediate contributions, Mark Davis and Darvin Ham," Dickey said.

Dickey said the league will be balanced this season, and one of the team goals is to win the SWC and get back to the NCAA Tournament.

"We have three goals," Dickey said. "Win the SWC, go to the NCAA Tournament and win 20+ games."

The Raiders will host a fan appreciation day Sunday at 1:30 at the Athletic Training Center located south of Jones Stadium.

"We are looking forward to having all of our fans come out and meet the players and watch us practice," he said. "This is the student's team."

Dickey said he has been disappointed in the past in the lack of fan support for the team.

"The athletic teams are an important part of our university," Dickey said. "We have an exciting team that will be playing a demanding schedule."

The Raiders open the season on Nov. 20 against Fort Sill in an exhibition game in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Sports briefs

Women's tennis team to host Tech Quadrangular

The Texas Tech Quadrangular women's tennis tournament scheduled for this weekend has been changed from the Hillcrest Country Club to the Athletic Training Center on the Texas Tech Campus.

The Tournament will pit the Tech netters against the likes of Colorado, Texas-El Paso and Northeast Louisiana.

Matches will start at noon today with Tech squaring off against Northeast Louisiana. Afternoon matches will see Tech playing the Lady Miners at 3:30 p.m.

Saturday's action will kick off at 9 a.m. with Tech playing UTEP in doubles play.

The Raider Netters will play Colorado in singles action beginning at 10:30.

Admission to the Texas Tech Quadrangular is free.

Cross country teams head for SWC Championships

The Texas Tech men's and women's cross country teams will venture to Dallas this weekend for the Southwest Conference Cross Country Championships.

The women were picked seventh and the men eighth in the SWC pre-season poll.

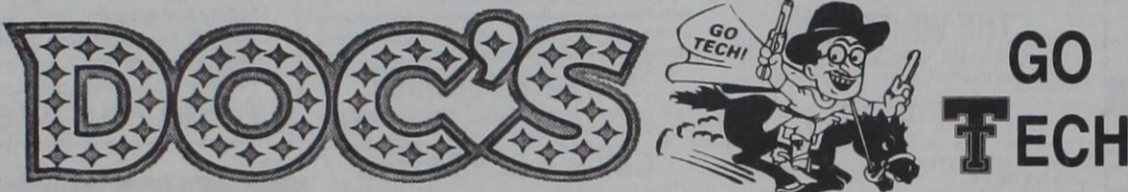

Since then though, both teams have registered impressive performances which discount their low early rankings.

The women will run a 500-meter course and the men will run a 5-mile course at Norbuck Park.

The women will start at 3 p.m. and the men will race at 3:30 p.m.
