Mitchell said she believes "women have fewer opportunities in the traditional non-female disciplines... (and) are expected to work for less compensation and receive inadequate mentoring." Sorell will be a panelist for a discussion titled, "Contemporary Dilemmas of Women in Higher Education," and said her general focus will be discussing some of Tech's exit interviews.

The Women's Studies Council conducts very specific interviews with women that resign from the university to take another job or to retire, Sorell said.

"The purpose of the exit interviews is to find out what factors contribute to women leaving Texas Tech," she said.

She also said Tech is particularly low in the number of female assistant professorships, and said Tech is about 7 percentage points male administrators.

Brady looking for a few good students

by JENNIFER GOOCH THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

As one of his first duties as the 1994-95 Texas Tech Student Association president, Zach Brady is looking for more than 150 students to serve on about 30 university and Student Association committees, councils and advisory groups.

"Texas Tech students enjoy an unusually high level of influence — that is, their opinions and ideas are given honest consideration by the faculty and the administration," Brady said. "These committees are your opportunity to provide input to many decisions that will affect student life."

Brady said he is looking for undergraduate and graduate students to serve on the committees. "We need a lot of graduate representation," he said. Applications for committee appointments are available in the SA Office, University Center, room 230. They are due by 5 p.m. April

Brady said selections will be announced May 4 in the SA Office, and said there will be a reception for the selected members in the

GUN CONTROL NEEDED MORE THAN EVER

To the editor:

I am writing this letter because I am mad, disgusted, sad, disappointed, and sick to my stomach. First of all, allow me to share with you the tragic event which I witnessed on Saturday, April 9.

I was in Houston visiting a friend and we had just left the AstroArena. There were around 150-200 kids around the parking lot area waiting for their parents to pick them up (they had been to Astroworld for the day). We drove out of the parking lot and were making our way to the access road. All of the sudden, we heard a sound like 7-10 firecrackers going off. A group of four boys were running toward our car, while 40-50 or so kids ran in the opposite direction. The four boys were trying to escape by running across the street, and one of the boys had a gun in his hand. We stared at them, horrified, as they ran straight toward us, behind our car, across the street, and continued running. We made our right turn onto the access road, and about 75 feet up the road was a boy lying face down on the sidewalk in a pool of blood. His arms and legs were flailing - his body was in shock and he was having a seizure. His head was wet with blood, and there was blood spurting from his head.

Standing next to him was a young girl his age, screaming and horrified. Two cars and a security guard had already pulled up to help, and I screamed to my friend to keep driving. One more car and two more people in the way would have just prevented the police and paramedics from doing their jobs. Later on the news we learned that three suspects were in custody and one more was being searched for. All were ages 15-16. Four people were wounded — two in the leg, one in the foot and the one boy in the head. All victims were ages 14-16. I never did find out if the boy lived or died, but if he did live, he will probably be retarded or brain dead. Chalk up one more victim in the name of "gang violence."

Now PLEASE don't start to think "well, that's Houston for you." If you have been watching the news at all recently, you know there have been two severe shootings in Lubbock this week. Sadly, many of the victims of all this violence are children. BA-BIES! Folks, what kind of a wake up call are we waiting for? Action is way past due.

I am a regular citizen, with no money to run for public office or lobby congress, but I really want to make a difference and I don't know how to do it.

It is not fair that all of us have to live in fear. No, I don't expect everyone to hold hands in the streets and sing folk songs, but to walk to your car at night free of fear of being carjacked would sure be a treat. How much longer can we ignore this problem and most importantly, WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT IT??

I plan to write my congressman/woman, Bill Clinton, the President of NRA and anyone else who has the power to change this insane situation. However, I personally think these people are totally out of touch with what goes on with us, the average, everyday, "real" people. Most average people, let alone the pampered public officials, have never and will never witness an event as the one I did (not that I would wish these nightmares on anyone!) My point of this letter is to try to show you the reality of the situation as witnessed by an average person like yourself.

I realize that "guns don't kill people, people kill people," as the saying goes. Parents must teach their children that guns are real and killing a human being is not the same as playing Mortal Kombat.

I also know that if kids have to fight, they should be receiving black eyes, and not putting each other on the "critical condition" list, or worse yet, killing each other.

STIRRING UP REAL CONTROVERSY

To the editor:

Reading The University Daily and its feeble attempts at "controversy" would be amusing if it were not so pitiful. Controversy apparently means printing an article about the pagan ritual of sandal wearing or the harmful effects of watching Star Trek. How sad.

What I propose is real controversy, a book burning in the free speech area. The Holy Bible would make a nice sacrificial lamb (pun intended). Although this would certainly generate controversy, I doubt it would be allowed, thus confirming my conclusion that the zealot-right of this campus have warped if not completely destroyed the First Amendment.

How could anyone possibly oppose to the exercising of my expression on such an instrument of oppression and intolerance as the Bible? Granted, some egalitarian concepts have come from this book.

One needs only to mention the High Riders and the point is

I encourage all those who have an opinion on this subject to write in The UD and be heard, especially those who share my beliefs that it's time to make a

SHARON M. STEINMAN: THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Randy DuRoss has trouble hanging A&M runner Saturday. The Red Raiders will play on to the ball after an attempt at picking off a Texas Rice this weekend in Houston in a SWC series.

Thomas says farewell to Piston fans

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — It couldn't have been the NBA farewell Isiah Thomas had planned. But his exit — hobbling off the court with a torn Achilles tendon — seemed to sum up the Detroit Pistons' season.

Thomas flashed his well-known smile and was philosophical after his last home game, a 132-104 loss Tuesday night to Orlando. "Me, as an athlete and a basketball player, when it's all said and done, I wanted to leave everything on the court," he said. His mother, Mary, was in the stands for the four-minute ovation that greeted her son. Thomas grinned and waved. He trotted to halfcourt for a melodramatic bow at halftime when the big-screen

TV showed career highlights. Then, less than a quarter later, he limped gingerly off the court after landing badly from a jump.

"It felt like I got shot with a cannon," Thomas said.

What really happened was he tore the Achilles tendon in his right foot and was to undergo surgery Wednesday night. The injury will keep him out of the World Championship of Basketball this summer in Toronto.
