Some Tech students just don't know about Lawless

CHRIS WALTERS UD columnist

When I read about the resignation of President Lawless last week, I was ecstatic. Then someone asked me, "Why do you dislike him?" I thought about it for a while, and finally said, "Umm, I don't know. He's just...you know, I don't like him. Down with the establishment!" This was hardly a convincing argument, and I knew it. The fact is, I don't know enough about Lawless to say anything good or bad about him. And as I spoke with others about this, I realized that lots of Tech students share this same problem — we don't know our president very well at all.

So I decided to perform a highly scientific survey, designed to test our awareness of Lawless and his position. This survey is so scientific that there is no plus or minus error percentage. What you read next is exactly how the students on the Tech campus feel:

1. What do you think the president of Tech does?

This question received the most telling responses. No one knows for sure what he does. Several people said he was a public relations figure for Tech. Other responses included, "He takes the blame for everything," "He gets free stuff," "He signs lots of papers," "He's the same as a CEO," "He attends football games," and "I didn't know we had a president until he resigned."

2. Who do you think would make a good president? Some responses: "My dad." "Sheryl Swoopes." "Not a businessman." "Jackie Chan." "An ex-football star." Several people nominated professors and employees of Tech, including Gary Bell, Evans Curry and Janet Wright. 3. Are you aware that when I refer to "president," I mean the president of our school and not of the United States?

29 percent - Indignant ves 41 percent- Yes

18 percent - No

12 percent - Don't know

4. Have you taken political science before?

82 percent - Yes

18 percent - No

5. Do you vote?

65 percent - Yes

35 percent - No 6. What's your fondest memory of President Lawless?

Apparently people misunderstood the meaning of the word "fondest," or sarcasm is far more rampant than I'd imagined. Almost everyone gave a negative memory of Lawless, which is ironic considering almost everyone thinks his primary job is public relations. Negatives included the commuter lots/class schedule issue, the anti-gay letter on Tech letterhead incident and his reaction to the "Party in the Projects" incident a few years ago. There were a few somewhat positive remarks, though. One girl, an ex-Aggie, remembers that when she met him at a special get-together he patted her on the shoulder and said, "I'm glad you're not going to A&M." 7. Did you ever get to go inside his office?

6 percent - Yes

88 percent - No

6 percent - Don't know

8. Do you think that even if he is the president of the university, that office is just way too big for one person, since it's about six times the size of a dorm room on campus?

65 percent - Yes

23 percent - No

12 percent - Don't know

9. Do you think President Lawless has ever ridden the Citibus around campus? 12 percent - Yes

82 percent - No

6 percent - Don't know

10. Would you like to have a name like "Lawless?"

Subway demands payment from cult

TOKYO (AP) - Tokyo's main subway company demanded on Thursday that a cult pay $1.4 million to cover the costs of cleaning up after a nerve gas attack that killed 12 people.

It was the latest in a series of claims against the Aum Shinri Kyo cult, whose leaders have been accused of masterminding the attack last March 20. Commuters fell gasping and bleeding on the subway platforms, and more than 5,500 people were sickened.

Victims of the gassing have sued the cult for damages. The cult's assets and property have been seized by the authorities and are being liquidated.

The company, Teito Rapid Transit Authority, which operates four of the five subway lines where the sarin nerve gas was released, asked the cult to reimburse the cost of cleaning the subway cars and replacing workers' uniforms, company spokesman Fusao Koike said.

The company also is requesting compensation for losses suffered while the subways were not operating.

Just how non-traditional am I, UD staff reporter you may ask? (Or may not, in which case, all I have to say is "nyah, nyah, nyah to you.") Well ... hopefully, it is obvious from my mugshot that I'm not exactly decrepit.

On the other hand, I'm no spring chicken, whatever that means. Let's just say that I was born in that nether region between the "Baby Boomers" and "Generation X." (I know — it's a stupid term.) Which brings me to the point o' this little dissertation. I'm having a bit of an identity crisis, see, and I can't decide which of the two aforementioned genres to aline myself with. If I decide to be a "boomer," then I have to decide who my heroes are. Hmmm ... how about Bill Clinton? There was a lot of noise about him being the first boomer president.

Still, I don't think I could idolize someone whose idea of a really hip song is "Don't Stop Thinking About Tomorrow" by Fleetwood Mac. I mean, he might as well say he likes Lawrence Welk or Boxcar Willie or someone like that.

OK, so much for the baby boomers. Let's look at that Gen-X thang. That looks a whole lot hipper than a bunch of clowns cheering for the president because he occasionally wets the mouthpiece of a saxophone. How about that wild music? (The kids call it "grunge.") I dig that heaps. From what I can tell, the band members never wash their hair, don't follow any musical rules and sing exclusively about how depressed they are and how lame everything is. (I'm just glad they're not on that dope.) Hey, I'm hip to that! The world sucks! Count me in!

The pop idols are pretty cool for the X-ers. How about that Quentin Tarantino? Is he zany or what? I just loved that scene in "Pulp Fiction" where John Travolta blew that guy's head off. What a rush!

And I love the way they dress. Bigger is better, is what I say. I tried getting a whole new wardrobe at the thrift store, but all the good stuff was taken.

So instead I went to the mall and paid $200 to look like I shopped at the thrift store. I got some really cool khakis that are about five sizes too large. Then I bought some of those Doc Martens and a couple of flannel shirts. I feel cooler already!

OK, now that I look like I've been subsisting on a steady diet of heroin for the past two years, I have to get hip to the cool TV shows. Quick, which one is better — "Party of Five" or "Friends?" Or should I just get cable and watch MTV all day?

Ah, well. Enough of this snot-nosed rambling.

I guess I had better stop before I draw the ire of some pompous English major. Maybe that's the point of this column: Lighten up! It's all a joke! This column has nothing to do with credit card abuse or being an emotional Kleenex. It's obviously about global warming!

Read between the lines, and if you don't get it, well, just call me care of The UD at 555-TWIT.

Christian rockers to grace Hub City

■ Group to open for Michael W. Smith

by Brian Lacy

The University Daily

Lubbock will feel the recent wave of popularity surrounding contemporary Christian music Saturday with the arrival of the "I'll Lead You Home" tour, featuring Michael W. Smith and opening act Jars of Clay.

The 7:30 p.m. concert at the South Plains Fair Grounds on Fourth Street is following a trend of the marketability of Christian concerts among college-age students, said Woody Van Dyke, general manager of KJAK-FM (92.7), the radio station sponsoring the concert.

"Contemporary Christian music is music in America today, and the reason is that people are looking for something different than what the main-ticket outlets, Van Dyke said. stream is offering," Van Dyke said.

O'Donnell buys movie star's home

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — Comedian Rosie O'Donnell is stepping in where Madonna feared to tread, buying the mansion that Helen Hayes called home.

O'Donnell is paying $770,000 for Pretty Penny, the 22-room, threestory home along the Hudson River 20 miles north of New York City, real estate agent Dale Lydecker said Thursday.

He said others who had looked at the house included Madonna, but she decided the brick wall around the property wasn't enough to guarantee her privacy.

Hayes, the First Lady of American Theater, bought the house in 1931 with her husband, playwright Charles MacArthur.

He died in 1956, she in 1993.

Their guests at the house over the years included Moss Hart, Richard Rodgers, Jimmy Durante and Katharine Hepburn.

Hayes once said the mansion's name came from a friend's remark: "This place must have cost a pretty penny."

Widow plans to create Buddhas

from Catholic saxophonist's ashes

NEW YORK (AP) - Saxophonist Gerry Mulligan's first wife and only son aren't real thrilled with his widow's plan for memorializing the jazz great.

Franca Rota Mulligan plans "to have his ashes blessed ... and then made into little Buddhas," his first wife, Arlene, told the Daily News. Her son; Reed Mulligan, 39, Mulligan's only child, pointed out that his father was Roman Catholic, not Buddhist.

Mulligan died Jan. 20 at age 68.

SUNDAY

He said his father's widow told him the Buddha statues would be put "in her Buddhist shrine in her spare bedroom."

He called the plan "just a little too weird."

Franca Mulligan's only response was: "This is a private matter and it will remain a private matter."

Tournament talk has started, but the No. 9 Lady Raiders are only concerned with one thing-beating Rice.

"Rice is a real tough team," Tech senior forward Melinda White said. "They are really good, but people don't know that they are."

White and the Lady Raiders travel to Houston to take on the Owls at 2 p.m. Saturday at Autry Court.

Tech heads into this weekend's contest after a week off. The break followed the team's first conference loss to Texas Saturday in Austin.

The Lady Raiders, 22-3 overall and 12-1 in Southwest Conference play, are tied with the Lady Longhorns atop the SWC. A victory over Rice would assure Tech of at least a share of the last SWC title.

Tech coach Marsha Sharp said her team is focused on the matter at hand and wants to forget about the loss to

The Eagles return to Dan Law Field today and are scheduled to take on Texas Tech at 3 p.m., beginning a four-game series between the two teams. Tech and Eastern Michigan (2-4) are scheduled to play a doubleheader starting at noon Saturday and a single game at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Women's golf stumbles in Arizona

The No. 17 Texas Tech women's golf team finished 17th in the Chris Johnson Invitational Wednesday at the Randolph Park North Golf Course in Tucson, Ariz.

Southwest Conference rival Texas captured the team title, shooting a three-day total of 875, while the Red Raiders fired a 939.

Janice Moodie of San Jose State won the individual portion of the tournament, shooting a 213. Tech's highest finisher was senior J.J. Rorie, who tied for 38th with a total of 230.

"All in all, we didn't play very well," Tech coach Jeff Mitchell said. "We really shot ourselves in the foot on the greens with our chipping and" putting. We played well tee to green by hitting the ball well, but we just didn't take advantage of the situation. We'll work hard on our short game."

Mitchell said he was pleased with the efforts of freshman Brooke Lowrance. Lowrance and senior Tracy Thomson tied for 47th after shooting 232.

Junior Tamara Parker shot a 246, and freshman Beth Covington came in with a 250.

Tech's next action will be March 15 through March 17 in the Fairwood Invitational hosted by Louisiana State.

Mitchell said Tech's third-round score of 303 will help in the team's preparation for its next tournament.

"It's a nice way to respond," he said. "It will help us a lot from a mental standpoint. It should be incentive to work hard."

Women's tennis ready to face TCU

The Texas Tech women's tennis team returns to action Saturday, hosting Southwest Conference foe Texas Christian. The two teams square off in the Athletic Training Center beginning at 10:30 a.m., 30 minutes later than the original time of 10 a.m.

Tech, which picked up a pair of wins against Texas-Arlington and Arkansas-Little Rock Feb. 16 and Feb. 18, respectively, is 8-7 overall, 3-5 in the spring and 0-2 in conference play.

The Red Raiders have lost to Southern Methodist and Houston in their first two conference matches, but head coach Kathy Vick said she is expecting a strong performance from her team.

"Everyone is anxious for the challenge and ready to go," said Vick, whose team has been off for two weeks. "We don't have a conference, win, but we've played teams we are capable of beating. The key is going to be our singles play."

Vick said freshmen Erica Simmons and Lauren Spears are playing well, and junior Erika Fisher and sophomore Carmen Clark are improving each week.

The Horned Frogs enter the showdown with a 5-2 record and an 0-1 mark in conference action.

"TCU is kind of an unknown," Vick said.

"I hope that it is a good weekend for us. We need to have everybody playing with intensity."
