Eleven Immortals
Lesson for February 20, 1949

JESUS BELIEVED in prayer, but he did not usually spend all night at it. When he did, we may be sure he had something of the greatest importance on his mind. One of these occasions was the night before he selected the twelve men he called Apostles. He had thousands of disciples, crowds followed him wherever he went. But it was important to have a few with whom he could live as an intimate friend. So from the immense number of followers, Jesus selected twelve closest friends. Before that fateful morning no one outside their villages had ever heard of them. But now their names are known—and eleven of them are honored—around the world.

Jesus Multiplies Himself
A GOOD executive, Jesus multiplied his own personality. A recent book has shown that Harry Hopkins during World War II lived in the White House as Roosevelt's personal companion, having given up his own ambitions and living helplessly to carry out the ideas of his chief. Without Roosevelt, Hopkins would have been little more than an inferior politician; and without Hopkins, many of Roosevelt's plans could not have been carried out. He enabled the President to be in two places at once. So it was with Jesus, as Mark tells us. Jesus wanted those twelve to be with him, and then to send them out.

He wanted these friends to know him as the crowds, and his enemies, never could know him. He wanted these men to absorb his ideas and ideals.

Raw Material
THE ASTONISHING thing about Jesus' choice of these twelve is his faith in them. Of course they had faith in him—who would not? But who would have faith in them? There was not a single "outstanding" man in the lot. Not one had education, not a man of them had held public office or was rich or famous for anything at all. The officers of any modern church might shake their heads over them.

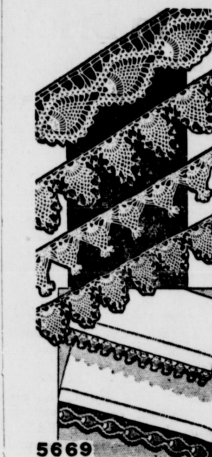

There was Peter, an ordinary fisherman, much given to profanity; there was Matthew, a crooked business man if ever there was one, for no publican could be honest and keep from starting there was Philip, as stupid a man as ever asked a foolish question; there were James and John, loud-mouthed (Jesus nicknamed them the Thunder-Boys—"Sons of Thunder"), greedy fellows who could not be satisfied till they had ebowed their way ahead of everybody else; there was Thomas the born pessimist, the defeatist... What could have gotten into Jesus' mind to select such men?

—And Judas Iscariot
THE SECRET of Jesus' choice was this: He selected his men not for what they were or had been, but for what they could become, filled with his spirit, transformed by his friendship. It is so today, as always. The Kingdom of God needs men and women, but the raw human material found in or out of the churches is too shabby and weak to build anything like the kingdom of God. "Twelve Immortals"—? Nay, but one is the immortal betrayer and suicide. Why? The reason was in Judas, not in Jesus.

The truth is that Christ will not force himself on any one, not even on an Apostle. Christ needs men, now, as he needed men then, to carry on his work in this world.
But he wants volunteers, never forced labor. The Christ of Glory can be served by the humble; but the free Christ can be served only by free men with open hearts. Judas may keep his heart shut if he will; Christ never forces his way in.

Household Hints

Bread crusts, left over after the preparation of certain dishes, should be dried and made into crumbs, then stored in the refrigerator in a covered jar.

When cleaning radiators with a brush, place dry newspapers under them, cover the dry papers with dampened papers and brush the coils downward so that the dust collects on the damp paper.

Baked potatoes should be carefully timed in baking and promptly served to avoid the loss of this vegetable's valuable vitamin C.

Pasture Rotation Controls Parasites

A few years ago parasites caused such heavy losses in sheep and lambs in the northwest that some ranchers were forced out of business. Research and investigation by veterinarians, sanitary experts, and sheep men pointed to overgrazing as the underlying cause of the trouble.

Rotation of pastures and reasonable growth of grass or sheep and lambs were vital to stop the heavy losses and avoid the devastating parasites. Some ranchers, who practiced frequent rotations and the feeding of adequate minerals the year around, were relatively free from parasite losses.
