Pressure Saucepan
Saves Time and Fuel

IN A comparatively short time the pressure saucepan has won an assured place in farm kitchens, according to Laura Dalley, in an article in Copper's Farmer, one of the best known farm magazines.

It saves time and fuel. Many different foods may be prepared in a pressure saucepan. It is particularly good for those which need long cooking. "Pressure cooking," Miss

Dalley says, "preserves food value, color and flavor."

A few rules of operation are important:

- 1.—Never fill the pan more than two-thirds full.
- 2.—Be sure that steam flows steadily from vent before you close it.
- 3.—Wait until weight or pressure control jiggles or hisses or cooking indicator is at right position to your directions before you start counting time. Then reduce the heat and let cook for specified time.
- 4.—Reduce the pressure as each recipe indicates.
- 5.—After pressure is reduced, be certain to remove the weight, or lift the pressure control, before removing cover.

Some farm women are doing a limited amount of canning in their pressure saucepans, Miss Dalley points out.

Sharp Characters Act
At Ease With Others

WHY is a sharp character sharp and why is a sad sack sad? Why do some guys and girls seem at ease with others? Why do others with just as many assets seem to be beating their brains out trying to decide what to do with their hands?

It's all a matter of learning to control your outward actions, no matter how awkward you feel, says Holly Miller, whose column in nationally circulated Copper's Farmer is a popular feature among teen age boys and girls as well as their elders.

"The smoother you act, the smoother you feel," she counsels.

To be well-groomed may cost you an effort, but don't let it show. Mend your clothes by midnight oil, get up at dawn to press your suit, spend half an hour before your mirror getting your make-up right—if you must. Then forget your appearance.

"Boys, that means no fussing with ties and trying to make a cravat where there should be one. Girls, that means no peering in mirrors, no patting your hair, no pulling of clothes and straightening of stocking seams."

Among Miss Miller's suggestions for cultivating poise and ease are: Stand up straight; Look 'em straight in the eye; Avoid mannerisms; Don't talk with your hands.

"Beat your gums—but not so loud," she advises. "A shrill, loud voice is cordial to the spirit. On that same subject, resounding giggles and horselaughs are strictly for the birds."

Ain't It So

A soft answer won't turn away a hard-luck story. Philosophy tells us that men are what they think. But they're very seldom the men they think they are.

Man likes to go fishing because it gives him a chance to do nothing in particular without loading.

Income is the amount of money you spend more than.

Relatives are people who wonder how you manage to be so well off.

Many of the "bright" children of today should be applauded with one hand.

Eating Eels Not Popular

Prejudice against eels is denying Scots a valuable food, according to the recent report of a Scottish scientist who places eel fillets at the top of a list of ten nutritious fish foods.

Roasted, boiled, baked, stewed, fried, pickled, or in jelly, eel meat long has been enjoyed by many Europeans and Asiatics. The ancient Romans found it a great delicacy. An old French recipe calls for drowning the fish in wine, and then stewing it.

In Japan, eel eating has been regarded since ancient times as a remedy against summer lassitude, something like a spring tonic.

A cheerful Christmas note is the news that your Christmas budget can be made to perform wonders with little time and effort. Just write down the names of friends who smoke; then visit a neighborhood dealer. He'll be well stocked with gay cartons of mild, flavorful Camel cigarettes and pound tins of mild, mellow Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the National Joy Smoke. Both gifts come ready-dressed in colorful Christmas containers. You can even dispense with the usual fussing with cards due to the novel space provided for personalized season's greetings on the wrappings of both items. Your budget will like these modest gifts. And your friends are certain to welcome holiday-sent Camels and Prince Albert! (Adv.)
