The past few years have shown the loss and hardship that accrue to our farmers by over-production of cotton, and underproduction of feed, underproduction of home gardens and underproduction of live stock.

It's time to right about face and to share in the profits that are being enjoyed by the men who are devoting at least one-half of their land to a balanced program of farming, and thus are living independent of the main crop.

With the wisdom and foresight of our farm customers and the assistance and encouragement of this bank we are looking forward to the carrying out of plans which will mark the beginning of a new era in the agricultural life of this section.

tribes inhabit the north bank of the Ogowe River, nearly to its source and are all cannibals. I lived amongst them for many years, but for safety Sand Banks and Island were the only safe camping grounds.

From Rose to Tan
After bidding a fond adieu to my brother, I had time to look around the good ship S. S. Angola. The last of the cargo was being stowed away and all hands were busy getting things ship-shape. The owners gave a last word to the Capt in, shool hands with all of us and departed. A few minutes only were spent is clearing the dock side and accompanied with a shower of seagulls we steamed out into the Mersey. Liverpool was soon left behind with her forest of ships, and as the shades of evening closed over us we were well

Sailing southward I could not make out much sign of life, only a few seabirds followed us while several large sharks patrolled the ocean and can be seen several miles away, as the back fin and tail every now and then shows out of the water like the sails of a small boat. The heat of the sun kept us under the awnings which were stretched aft and for-ward, but in spite of this the skin over my neck, arms and face began to peel off and I was gradually re-ceiving a tan which grew stronger, till I had lost all signs of the rosy complexion I had left England with. After rounding Cape three points down and leaving the Ashantee and Gold Coast behind us, we steamed to Bonny on the river of that name, one of the many mouths of the fa-

I was only eleven years of age when I entered the school, some of my schoolmates of the same age, but I believe the old idea in mixing the young Britisher with his brothers of every clime was to make him cosmo-

I was not long in the cottage when I could speak English, Portuguese and French and I also picked up their characteristics which are diametrically opposite to those of the slow young Anglo-Saxon. We were taught French, Latin, Greek, in fact, had a regular Oxford tuition by first class professors.

His Chosen Field

However, nothing my parents could say could stop my ardor for traver and I chose the West Coast of Africa which was the best field for adven-ture I had read of as the hinterland was practically unknown. Slavery was rife as well as piracy, the ani mals, such as gorilla, elephants, and many others were known to exist but their habits, character; tics, etc., had only been guessed at and the mis-takes made in the true description of the gorilla were many and I may say to this day he still bears a character he in no way deserves.

We will now say goodbye for ever college life and associates and transfer ourselves to the deck of the good ship Angola, which was a steel vessel built, regardless of cost, spe-cially for West Coast trade, used both steam and sail, classed A1 at Lloyd's and was the Commodore boat of many ships owned by Hatton and traders, in fact, by far the largest and richest on the West Coast

Their sphere of influence extended from Bonny Brass old Calabar, also up the Niger River as far as trade had any influence. Also all coast ports along Cameroons, etc., em-bracing Balanga, Eloby Island, Gaexactly under the equator. Ogowe River, later explored by Count de Brazza, whom I often met when older. (It is obvious that in his parrative Mr. Horn has run all his experiences together with only a vague reference to date. He probably arrived on the West Coast about 1871 or 1872 at the age of eighteen.

Gorilla-Land This river is the river I traded and hunted on for many years, is the home of the gorilla, in fact. Pongo was shipped from there and was sold by the captain of the Angola, Capt Thomson, whom I salled from Liverpool with for the sum of 6500 (five indred pounds sterling. # FORD

Long, hard use shows the value of good materials and simplicity of design

EVERYWHERE you go you hear reports of the good performance and reliability of the Ford. One owner writes-"The Ford Tudor Sedan I am driving has covered 59,300 miles through all kinds of weather. It is still giving perfect satisfaction."

Another owner describes a trip of 3217 miles in 95 hours over bad roads and through heavy rain and sleet in the mountains. "Throughout the entire trip," he writes, "the Ford performed excellently and no mechanical trouble of any kind was experienced. The shatter-proof glass undoubtedly saved us from serious injury when a prairie chicken struck the windshield while we were traveling at 65 miles an hour."

See the nearest dealer and have him give you a demonstration ride in the Ford. Then, from your own personal experience, you will know that it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

PRICES

(F. o. b. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at low cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment, on economical monthly terms, through the Authorised Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.)

Nine-Tenths Preventable

Nine-tenths of all diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural, easy and pleasant way. Get a bottle today from Weeks Drug Store.
