21 Indictments Against New Haven Directors Returned

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Twenty-one indictments against the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad system, during the period in which the Interstate Commerce Commission of the United States said the road was looted, were returned today by the federal grand jury.
The list includes some well-known men, among whom are William Rockefeller, Robert W. Taft, Theodore N. Vail, and George F. Baker, charged with violating the anti-trust law.
Each of the twenty-one men indicted is a millionaire.
The complaints specifically named the late James P. Morgan as the conspirator.

INQUISITIVE DOZEN RECEIVE INSTRUCTIONS

District Judge Jno. W. Goodwin arrived from Brownwood Monday at noon, and at one-thirty the grand jury received the charge from the court and was put to work.
It will be remembered that on account of the rush of work on the farms of this county Judge Goodwin granted a petition presented to him by the farmers asking that a recess be granted, and Judge Goodwin granted the petition and dismissed all the juries and the grand jury until this week.
The first two or three days of the present term of court were devoted to disposing of a few cases, on the non-jury civil docket on the docket, both civil and criminal will be passed on this week, some tried and others continued.
The docket is light, but there will be plenty to keep the court busy this week. Recent disturbances over the county will give the grand jury a busy week, and matters will be brought to their

GERMANS DECLARE NUMBER OF GAINS

By United Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 2.—An official bulletin issued here this morning by the German government claims that the Germans have advanced north of Ypres and have advanced west of Lille to Laventie. The marsh west of Lille was accomplished, it was declared, in the face of a determined opposition of the Allies, who were, however, unable to stop the Germans.
The official press bureau today, declares, "Progress of the battle in Northern France is highly favorable. The French have been driven across the Aisne river near Soissons and west of Verdun."
Letters received describe the fighting between Nieuport and Ypres as probably the fiercest of the war.
"The Germans have forced their way southward by repeated night attacks. Toll of both sides is great."

MEDICAL MEETING TO OPEN TUESDAY MORNING

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, the greatest meeting of the Fourth District Medical Society of Texas is scheduled to open its two-day session in Ballinger. Ballinger physicians who have been instrumental in arranging a program for the occasion declare that the meeting in Ballinger will be the greatest ever conducted in the history of the Society. With physicians attending from all the larger cities of the state as well as the towns within the district, indications point to the fact that the Ballinger meeting will surpass anything known by the members of the Society.
The meeting will be called to order at 9:30 in the Carnegie Library auditorium, by the president, Dr. John W. Ellis of Lampasas. Rev. W. B. Adkins, pastor of the Ninth Street Baptist church will deliver the invocation. Judge Marcellus Kleberg will welcome the visitors to Ballinger in behalf of the citizenship, while Dr. T. E. Mangum will extend the glad hand in behalf of the Runnels County Medical Society. The response will be delivered by Dr. R. M. Cochran of Coleman.
The general medicine session will begin at 1:30 of the afternoon in the auditorium. A number of interesting papers are on the program for the afternoon's session, including the address of President Ellis.
Late in the afternoon, a tour of Ballinger in automobiles will be a feature of the entertainment, after which a banquet will be tendered at the Central Hotel in honor of Dr. Paul Gronerud of Chicago, a visitor to the meeting. Dr. Gronerud is one of the foremost

ALLIES ARE DRIVING BACK THE GERMANS, IS CLAIM

By United Press.
PARIS, Nov. 2.—Despite the German's determined resistance, especially between Dixmude and Lys, the Allies are driving the enemy before them, said this afternoon's official communique telegraphed here from Bordeaux.
The most violent attacks of the Germans are in the vicinity of Arras. All of them failed, the communique declares.
The German bombardment of Rheims, Argonne, and the heights of the Meuse were generally ineffective, it is stated.
The Germans captured Messines after a series of desperate bayonet charges, heavily supported by their artillery.
After sanguinary fighting Arras, the Germans were driven back leaving thousands of dead men behind.
The French are gaining in the vicinity of the Vosges Mountains.
In direct contradiction to the Berlin announcement, the French are today claiming that the German night attacks near Vailly have been repulsed.

WHO WAS TO BLAME.

A young lady, her cheeks flushed with indignation and her eyes flashing fire, burst in on her parents and demanded in no uncertain tones that papa immediately go and liek a certain "smart" young man in town.

"Why, papa, he flirted with me. He asked me 'which way little one?' and offered to follow me. I want him whipped. Oh if I were only a man!"

Mamma naturally got dad's hat and told him where the old six-shooter lay hidden away. But papa didn't take the hint.

"Daughter," he said, calling the girl to his side, "no one on this earth is more interested in you than your old dad. No one quicker to rise in your defense. But listen, daughter. This very incident has led me to study you and this is what I have learned.

"You go down the street scantily dressed. You deliberately expose as much of your person as is necessary to appeal to the carnal instinct of man. You lovely neck, a large portion of your well developed breast, your arms and by means of a slit, transparent skirt, a goodly share of your lower limbs are exposed to view. Then when you pass a man, or a group of men you giggle, toss your head, and perhaps remark to your girl companion that this is the slowest town you ever saw. And if some man accepts your challenge you want him shot.

"Not long ago I was in a town, and wanted a glass of beer. I came to a big building along the side of which in big black letters was the word 'saloon.'" I stepped inside to find that it was some other line of business, but one which is often run in connection with a saloon. I called for a glass of beer and the proprietor looked at me seemingly in doubt as to whether to shoot me, call the police or kick me out in the street.

"Daughter, I was a stranger in that place; I didn't know that man or his business. In only was guided, or rather misguided, by his sign. The man who accosted you is a stranger here and daughter as I have said before, I have studied your ways."

HUMANITY CONGESTS BALLINGER STREETS

The streets in Ballinger presented an unusual scene last Saturday afternoon, and one never presented heretofore in the history of the town. Of course Ballinger has entertained larger crowds, but never before were there as many negroes on the streets as visited this old town Saturday.

At several different times Saturday afternoon traffic was blocked on the main streets by vehicles, and it was almost impossible for one to make his way along the sidewalks.

Any one that is familiar with the colored race of people, and especially that part of the race that helps to make up the population of the cotton growing states, know that Saturday is a holiday that they look forward to from week to week, and the same is true with some white people. Last Saturday impressed that fact upon the minds of the citizens of Ballinger when the streets were made speckled with colored folks mixing with the whites.

RING OF THE FISHERMAN.

Used by the Popes to Seal Documents of the Holy See.

The ring of the fisherman used by the pope exclusively to seal documents of the holy see shows an engraved figure of St. Peter, the first bishop of Rome, standing in a boat and flinging with two hands a net into the sea.

In 1809, when the French occupied the city of Rome, Pius VII, then pope, was ordered by General Radet to surrender the fisherman's ring. The pontiff refused. He feared that by means of the sanction of the ring the French government would be enabled to issue dangerous documents.

When finally forced to surrender it the pope altered the engraving or stamp with the view of making it useless to his enemies. This seal thus defaced was forwarded to Paris by the French general in command at Rome, Pius VII. In the absence of the fisherman's ring, made use of an iron seal engraved with the figures of Sts. Peter and Paul and inscribed with the words, "Pro Anno Piscatoris" (in lieu of the fisherman's ring).

The fisherman's ring was kept in Paris until Napoleon I. was overthrown, when it was returned to the sovereign pontiff. The ring is used only to seal briefs. The bulls, more important documents, are stamped with the leaden seal of the ancient parchments. —Indianapolis News.

Why the Earth Cannot Explode.

The theory is frequently advanced that planets and even suns sometimes explode and that the earth may some day blow up like a bombshell. No celestial body the size of the earth could possibly explode. If the entire molten interior of our globe could be replaced with nitroglycerin and detonated the explosion would not lift the earth's crust. In other words, if we assume that the crust of the earth is from fifty to a hundred miles in thickness it would require something much more powerful than even nitroglycerin to burst the shell. It is necessary only to do a little figuring to see that the pressure of the earth's crust at a depth of from fifty to a hundred miles far exceeds the pressure exerted by the most powerful high explosive.—Hudson Maxim.

BELIEVES TURKEY WILL BOTHER ENGLISH EGYPT

NEW YEAR'S IN CHINA.

When All Debts Are Paid and the Whole Country "Painted Red."

New Year's is the national pay day in China. All accounts must be squared up at that time, and the man who can't raise money enough to pay his debts has to go into bankruptcy. The laws are such that the creditor can enter the debtor's house and take what he pleases if there is no settlement. To prevent such action families club together and make all sorts of compromises to keep up the business reputation of the clan.

New Year's is a great day for the pawnbrokers. Their shops are crowded with people who want to redeem their best clothes before the new year. There are crowds, also, who want to pawn other things in order to get money to pay their debts. Pawnbrokers receive high rates of interest, in which they are protected by the government.

The Chinese paint the whole country red, figuratively speaking, on New Year's day in more senses than one. Red is the color which with them denotes good luck and prosperity, and all the New Year cards and invitations are on paper of that color. Every child gets its New Year's present wrapped in red paper, and red inscriptions are pasted over the doors of the houses.

These inscriptions bear characters paying for good fortune, wealth and happiness, and they are posted on each side of the outer doors of the houses. New pictures of Chinese generals are put on the front doors, and the houses are-scoured and made clean.—Exchange.

A PAINTERS' PARADISE.

Capri's Quaint Inn, Where Poor Artists Can Get Free Board.

Capri, beautiful in itself, offers an irresistible invitation to artists, since it has an inn where any one, by painting a picture on the wall, can get free board.

To the lovely island of Capri, with its perennial summer, its blue grotto and its lemon groves, came some fifty years ago a ruined artist. He opened an inn and died rich. In his will, leaving the inn to his heirs, he made these conditions:

"The charge per day, two bottles of red Capri wine included, is never to be more than 6 francs.

"If any artist is too poor to pay he shall paint a picture upon some wall space, receiving all the accommodation accorded to those paying the highest price.

"If any German artist shall come to the inn he shall be accommodated and shall receive the amount of his fare to Germany upon his promising never to return to Italy."

The inn is conducted today on these conditions. Its walls are covered with paintings. Now and then a German artist gets his fare home.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Fair Exchange.

It was Mrs. Malloon's birthday, and she felt a trifle disappointed that there was no gift beside her plate. It was the first time in twenty years that her husband had forgotten the occasion. Mr. Malloon smiled at her frankly.

"My dear," he said, "I have been so busy lately that I have not had time to buy you a birthday gift, but I'll give you the cow."

She thanked him graciously. "Daisy is a beautiful cow," she said.

Two months later Mr. Malloon's birthday came round. When he appeared at breakfast his wife greeted him with a radiant smile. "My dear," she said, "I have been so busy lately sewing for the children that I haven't had time to make you a birthday gift, but I'll give you the cow."—Chicago News.

Three Ages.

The Berlin botanical gardens, says Lustige Blatter, are wonderfully beautiful, but to small children they are a forbidden paradise. Boys and girls under ten are not permitted to enter.

Herr and Frau Muller found this out to their disappointment when they planned to take their little Paul on a Sunday trip to view the beautiful gardens. Nevertheless they gave their young hopeful a few instructions and started out. At the gate the porter stopped the young Muller. "How old are you?" he inquired. Paul answered, "Six for the electric; really eight; for the botanical gardens, ten."

The Stoning of Hamilton.

Alexander Hamilton was stoned by a New York audience in the summer of 1795. While at a public meeting he was speaking in favor of the Jay treaty, which had just been negotiated by John Jay between the United States and England. Dr. Francis in his "Old New York" says that among those who did the stoning was the famous Edward Livingston, together with many other "leading citizens."

Warriors Are Using Arms of American Invention

BY CARLTON TEN EYCK
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Whether they know it or not the European soldiers fighting the battles of the Kaiser, and the Czar, the President and the Kings are using instruments of American invention, or, at least, arms which had their origin in the United States and which in some cases, have been improved abroad.

Colt, Gatling, Hatcherkiss, Winchester and Maxim are names familiar to every school boy when applied to revolvers, rifles and even to quick-firing guns of larger calibre. These men, aroused to their inventive genius by the Mexican and Civil Wars, perfected the art of killing men to a remarkable degree. The guns used at Liege and Antwerp are the descendants of those first used at Buena Vista and Gettysburg.

Each one of these inventors worked under conditions which might be called romantic. None of them was brutal enough to sit down and figure out a way to kill many human beings at once—which is precisely the result achieved by the terrible engines of destruction today.

Dr. Gatling, for example, had a noble purpose in mind when he devised the rapid-firer which bears his name. It was during the Civil war. A regiment of worn-out, starving soldiers was passing by. Gatling was moved to compassion. He thought that he could invent a gun which would make many soldiers unnecessary by using one weapon to do the work of a hundred men. His machine gun was the result. It could fire 1200 shots minute but the United States government was just as slow to adopt a new military invention in 1861 as it is today and Gatling's invention was thrown into discard.

But Gen. Benj. F. Butler bought twelve of them at his own expense and the successful use of them in 1862 persuaded the government to adopt the invention.

The Colt revolver had its origin on a sailing vessel which carried Samuel Colt, then twelve years old, to Calcutta in 1826. Colt was bored to exasperation by the voyage. To while the monotony he started whittling in true Yankee fashion and finally evolved the rough pattern of a revolver. When he got back to the states he followed up the idea. He submitted it to the government ten years later. The authorities at Washington laughed at him until General Zachary Taylor—like Butler in the Civil War—introduced a thousand of the weapons for his cavalrymen, to be used in Mexico. Success followed and the Colt "gun" became famous the world over.

Hatcherkiss was riding in a railroad train in 1875 when the idea of the magazine rifle which bears his name came in his mind. Some years before he had devised the murderous Hatcherkiss shells and a "revolving cannon." But the masterpiece he sketched in fifteen minutes on the margin of the newspaper he was carrying at the time. The value of that rifle was appreciated almost immediately for the governments of this country, France and England adopted the weapon.

Although strictly speaking not an inventor, Winchester had enough mechanical ability to see possibilities in a "volcanic" rifle which some unused Bay State genius evolved. Winchester founded the factory and capitalized the invention until today the Winchester rifle scarcely needs all the advertising which is given to it.

Perhaps the most versatile of the Quintette of American firearm inventors is Hiram Maxim, who is not to be confused with his brother Hudson, another genius in the inventing of apparatus for the fine art of killing. Hiram's inventiveness was given a bump in the right direction when he was bowled over by an old-fashioned muzzle-loading rifle. Like Newton, he profited by the blow and thought out a way to make use of the force. The Maxim-Nordenfelt rapid-firing gun which makes the recoil serve as a power for re-loading followed from his wonderful brain. He also invented the

There are but a few of the great names in the history of American military and naval inventions. ### NEW YEAR'S IN CHINA.

When All Debts Are Paid and the Whole Country "Painted Red."

New Year's is the national pay day in China. All accounts must be squared up at that time, and the man who can't raise money enough to pay his debts has to go into bankruptcy. The laws are such that the creditor can enter the debtor's house and take what he pleases if there is no settlement. To prevent such action families club together and make all sorts of compromises to keep up the business reputation of the clan.

New Year's is a great day for the pawnbrokers. Their shops are crowded with people who want to redeem their best clothes before the new year. There are crowds, also, who want to pawn other things in order to get money to pay their debts. Pawnbrokers receive high rates of interest, in which they are protected by the government.

The Chinese paint the whole country red, figuratively speaking, on New Year's day in more senses than one. Red is the color which with them denotes good luck and prosperity, and all the New Year cards and invitations are on paper of that color. Every child gets its New Year's present wrapped in red paper, and red inscriptions are pasted over the doors of the houses.

These inscriptions bear characters praying for good fortune, wealth and happiness, and they are posted on each side of the outer doors of the houses. New pictures of Chinese generals are put on the front doors, and the houses are-scoured and made clean.—Exchange

A PAINTERS' PARADISE.

Capri's Quaint Inn, Where Poor Artists Can Get Free Board.

Capri, beautiful in itself, offers an irresistible invitation to artists, since it has an inn where any one, by painting a picture on the wall, can get free board.

To the lovely island of Capri, with its perennial summer, its blue grotto and its lemon groves, came some fifty years ago a ruined artist. He owned an inn and died rich. In his will, leaving the inn to his heirs, he made these conditions:

"The charge per day, two bottles of red Capri wine included, is never to be more than 6 francs.

"If any artist is too poor to pay he shall paint a picture upon some wall space, receiving all the accommodation accorded to those paying the highest price.

"If any German artist shall come to the inn he shall be accommodated and shall receive the amount of his fare to Germany upon his promising never to return to Italy."

The inn is conducted today on these conditions. Its walls are covered with paintings. Now and then a German artist gets his fare home.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The matter has been put up to the grand jury, and that body has been instructed to leave nothing undone to bring about the punishment of the guilty parties.

Pranks were played by Hallowe'en prowlers Saturday night that are not considered pranks, but are criminal, and will be so considered by the court. Property was destroyed and life endangered by the boys who were out for a good time.

The grand jury has been supplied with a list of names, and are at work on the matter, and it is probable that indictments will be filed against the boys. However, those who have suffered a loss by the destruction of property are inclined to let the matter drop if they are reimbursed for damage caused. Just what view the court will take of the matter is another question but it is believed that those who do the right thing to make amends for the devilment will find that the court will be much easier on them.

WAGON HOOKED TO PASSENGER TRAIN

Among the pranks played by the ghosts Saturday night was one that caused a wagon to be demolished, and no doubt afforded much amusement for those who perpetrated the dirty work.

A wagon was pulled upon the railroad track and hooked on to the back end of the midnight passenger train, while the train was standing at the station. When the train pulled out the wagon was trailing behind, and rattled over the cross ties until the speed of the train caused it to take a tumble and go into the opening of a culvert on Eight Street.

We failed to learn the name of the owners of wagon, but it is claimed that the wagon was a fairly good wagon, and was good for many days.

This was no doubt funny to the boys, but the real fun is to come.

attention that will probably take some time to investigate.

Judge Goodwin only called special attention to two matters in charging the grand jury. He called the usual attention to the local option law, which he is required to do by the law. He said that it was the duty of the grand jury to look into the violation of the local option law, and to find bills where the evidence justified it.

In calling the grand jury's attention to the attempt to run the negroes out of a certain neighborhood in the county, Judge Goodwin did not mince words in saying that the abiding negroes were entitled to the same protection of the law as the white man. He was inclined to the opinion that the recent disturbances and the report that whitecaps were attempting to run the negroes out of the county was a little overdrawn, and did not amount to much, but he impressed upon the grand jury the importance of going into the matter thoroughly and bring the guilty parties to justice and remove the blot that had been placed upon the county's fair name by the report that had been circulated over the entire state.

The following named gentlemen make up the grand jury for the present term: Jo Wilbeth, foreman; Scott H. Mack, J. T. Hardegre, S. A. Mathis, Wm. Smiley, James Clayton, Lynn Stokes, K. O. Berry, R. A. Dickinson, Henry Vandevanter, Will Martin, M. B. Parmer.

MISCHIEF MAKERS
DESTROY PROPERTY

Just as was predicted, Hallowe'en prowlers went beyond the mere fun of building pumpkin-faced ghosts and playing harmless pranks. They left behind evidences of their visits that will require money to remove.

Despite the fact that the officers were on their job, the prowlers played pranks that will be classed as violations of law by the grand jury that convenes today (Monday.)

Reports from the Wallthall community states that the Wallthall school house was badly damaged by some one Saturday night. The window lights were broken out, the screens cut, the door removed from its place and carried away.

In Ballinger the devilment was confined to the removing of signs blocking the streets with rubbish, upsetting vehicles, removing gates, etc.

Postmaster Erwin says his gates were taken off and were found swinging to telephone poles. He has reported the matter to the officers, and says he will authorize the officers to push the prosecution if the gates are not returned. He has the proper information to convict the boys, but says he will give them an opportunity to return the gates.

"Don't sleep in hot rooms."
"Don't avoid the fresh air."
"Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Overeating reduces your resistance."

Y., who are manufacturers of Jell-O, advertised as "America's Most Famous Dessert," and Jell-O Ice Cream Powder, are among those who have recognized the gravity of the cotton situation, and they have bought at 10c a pound one bale of cotton for each of their twenty salesmen in the cotton growing states.

Their stipulation that the purchase should be made direct from the planter led to some interesting developments, which are described in letters from the merchants authorized to conduct the transaction. A typical case is described by Fielder & Brown, wholesale grocers of Sparatanburg, S. C., in a letter in which Mr. J. F. Brown the writer says:

"I have bought a bale of good middling cotton for your friend Mrs. Fanny Beiter, P. O. Moore, S. C. She is a white woman, has one child and is a tenant under a tenant, Mr. Wm. Baily. Baily plowed her land and she paid him in work. The premium paid on this bale will certainly help her through the winter."

A Night of Terror

Few nights are more terrible than that of a mother looking on her child choking and gasping for breath during an attack of croup, and nothing in the house to relieve it. Many mothers have passed nights of terror in this situation. A little forethought will enable you to avoid this. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Keep it at hand. For sale by all dealers.

COTTON YIELD PER ACRE
25 POUNDS MORE THAN 1913

Waxahachie, Tex., Nov. 2.—That the cotton crop of Texas this year will exceed that of 1913 is indicated in a report issued today by the United States Department of Agriculture, which shows 25 pounds more per acre than last year. The acreage this year is estimated at 12,052,000 acres, or 5 per cent less than last year. On this basis of calculation the total yield for 1914 will exceed that of 1913 by 55,000 bales and will be around 4,000,000 bales.
