Opening Of New Eastland Theatre Set for Feb. 13

Opening of the new Majestic Theatre in Eastland, originally set for Feb. 14, was changed hurriedly last week to Feb. 13 when it was discovered that the first date conflicted with an attraction at the Eastland High School auditorium.

The attraction to be shown in the Majestic opening was changed from "The Razor's Edge" to "Margie" starring Jeanne Crain. Finishing touches were being put on the theatre this week. The big sign was turned on for the first time and work continued on the marquee.

Aubrey Van Hoy, Eastland manager for Interstate Theatres said Thursday that the Lyric Theatre which has been the No. 1 show-house of the chain there for many years, will be shut down for remodeling after the last show on Feb. 12.

The Lyric will have a concrete floor laid in it, and other work will be done. When it reopens, it will have western programs Friday and Saturday, reshows of outstanding movies Sunday and Monday, and first run pictures Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Matinees will be held only on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Henry Hines is visiting her daughter and family, Major and Mrs. L. D. McDaniel of Lejuine, N. C.

Why don't they put sausage in sausage any more? I reckon, you could call that "sausage" remark.

And, come to think of it, all the sausage I've seen lately could stand a little more sausage in it, too.

The Republicans have backed down on their original intention of reducing the luxury taxes. The folks back home protested against the tax being lowered on fancy luggage, perfumes, furs and whisky before the income tax on all of us is reduced.

Last summer Grover Sellers inquired, "What business are you in, Mr. Sellers?"

After Sellers said that he was attorney general, the citizen asked, "Are you a candidate for something?" and was given the reply, "Yes, I'm running for governor."

The voter who did not call his own name during the brief conversation, was Bill McCraw, himself former attorney general and once a candidate for governor. (This is bound to be just the way it happened because Bill told me about it himself.)

The smiling, confident young man entered a New York taxi. He stepped up to the manager's desk. "Good day, sir," he announced. "Has your bank any need of a highly intelligent, college-trained man?"

"What kind of a position are you seeking?" asked the manager.

"Well," mused the young man, "I want something in the executive line. A vice-presidency, for example."

The manager put down his pencil. "I'm really very sorry," he said, sarcastically, "but we have twice vice-presidents."

The young man waved a hand. "Oh, that's all right," he stated, happily. "I'm not superstitious!"

FEEDING THE FIVE THOUSAND

LESSON TEXT—John 6:25-35, 56-58. MEMORY SELECTION—I am that bread of life.—John 6:48.

Bread! The cry of the hungry peoples of the world for bread has reminded us anew that it is the simple and elemental things of life which are of most importance. Bread, water, light—such things man cannot do without. How significant then that our Lord declared himself to be the bread of life (John 6:35), the satisfying water (John 4:14), and the light of the world (John 8:12).

Our lesson does not deal with the feeding of the five thousand, but the story of that miracle of our Lord is the background for the discourse on the bread of life which is assigned for our study. It is one of the most delightfully simple, yet unforgettably profound, portions of Scripture.

I. The Bread of Earth and the Bread of Heaven (vs. 25-27).

They sought Jesus not that they might receive spiritual blessings, but because they were hungry for food. The bread of this earth, bearing the imprint of a human maker, would soon leave them hungry again, and eventually they would die. The bread of heaven, bearing the seal of the Father (v. 27), would soon satisfy them for all eternity.

Note the folly of those who labor for the reward which this world can give, but who neglect their eternal welfare (v. 27). How foolish, too, is the Christian who spends his whole life and his talents in the pursuit of money and invests little or nothing of time or ability in the service of God!

II. The Work of Men and the Work of God (vs. 28-33).

Entangled as they were in earthly things and desires, they seemed for a moment to reach out toward the things of God. Jesus had been talking about everlasting life and the bread from heaven; they wanted to know what they could do to merit and receive it.

It is quite typical of man even to this day that he thinks there must be some way that he can come through to eternal blessedness by way of his own works. We shall see how effectively Jesus dealt with that folly!

The only work that man can do to meet God's first demands and inherit eternal life is to believe in Christ (v. 29). Men want to add up works of penance, works of charity, deeds of righteousness, character development, the observance of religious traditions and ceremonies, the offering of prayers, and so on without end. Jesus sweeps aside all this with one brief word, saying in effect, "It is not a question of do, it is a matter of believe."

Works is not the answer in any spiritual need, but faith in Christ. We must trust God and believe in the One whom he has sent; then we are ready to go out and do his will!

They (yes, and we too) must now face the alternative.

III. The Way of Death and the Way of Life (vs. 34, 35, 56-58).

One could wish that the request made in verse 34 could be taken at face value, but the fact that they later turned away and left the Lord indicates that this was again a desire for physical bread. There was probably a vague desire of charity, life, too, but not enough to make them follow through with appropriate action. How much they were like folks today who want the benefits of Christianity, but who will not take up the cross.

There is here a bold contrast between the things of this earth, which, as we use them, perish (and, alas, we perish with them), and the things of God which are of eternal value and power.

Which shall it be, reader, for you? Are you willing to go on day after day on the way of death, or will you today take Christ, who is the day of life?

AROUND THE HOUSE

When it is necessary to carry a pair of scissors in your purse, stick the ends into a cork. This will hold the blades together and protect your purse from the points.

If a washer on the faucet is not replaced, long usage may cause some damage to the seat. Then either the entire faucet must be replaced, or the seat must be dressed, a tiresome job and one that requires some skill.

While slipcovers are still damp, iron just the founces, then work the damp slipcover over the chair. Saves ironing and produces a better fit.

When doing embroidery work, wind thread on metal adhesive plaster spools. Insert in spool case and leave end of thread sticking out. In this way you can find the color you want without opening the spools. No more tangled thread, either.
