

CARBON MESSENGER

Vol. 28 No. 4

Carbon, Eastland County Texas Friday, May 13, 1932

To Whom It May Concern

Since man was born to die, there is need that there be provision for a proper disposition of the body; the more, it is essential that each community secure and set apart a suitable place for the mortal remains of our loved ones. As you know, Carbon has such a place. But there is yet something more to consider. Such grounds must be regularly cared for. This has been done. Bro. L. H. Hill has been employed, and has faithfully done this work for the past ten years. The cemetery has been well kept during all these years. It is not for that this be overlooked. He deserves renumeration, and needs his pay. We take it, that all who have a personal interest, both here and elsewhere, in sacred places where the dead rest, appreciate the splendid service which Bro. Hill has so faithfully rendered, and will be glad to show their appreciation by a liberal contribution. The above is also signed by some of Carbon's most prominent citizens.

Signed—Carbon Cemetery Committee, W. A. Tate, Mayor; T. G. Jackson, City Health Officer; W. E. Trimble, Pres. School Board; C. J. Williams, Sec. School Board; A. H. Harrison, City Alderman; Z. L. Howell, Methodist Pastor; Mrs. C. J. Williams, Cemetery Sec. Treas.

THE GLAMOR OF THE OTHER MAN'S JOB

Most of us have a glamorous opinion of other people's jobs. The friends of a railroad man often envy him free railroad passes. He himself doesn't consider this much of a feature.

"In five years I haven't taken a trip on private business," he explains, "and on business trips I get my expenses paid by the company anyway, even if I didn't have a pass. So where's the saving to me? A pass doesn't mean any more to me than the ink in your ink-well does to you."

This matter of fact way of regarding what outsiders deem an envied privilege carries through every job.

Many men can remember when they looked forward to having a desk with shiny push-buttons and a private stenographer. When the dream finally comes true, they find that the carefree spirit of youth has been overtaken by the weight of new responsibilities, and that business is much more than pushing buttons and dictating clever letters.

Eighty percent of all jobs are routine, whether the work be that of a bank president or a chewing-gum salesman. Some jobs are pleasanter than others, of course. But those on the inside know that the frills and extras don't mean any more than stage kisses do to a matinee idol.—Exchange

WOMEN INVENTORS INCREASE

The number of applicants from women for patent papers has increased greatly in recent years. When the last detailed analysis was made, women were applying for patents at the rate of about 500 a year, but it is known to have increased considerably, since recently a large number of women have entered industrial life. As might be expected the highest percentage of inventions of the number studied a few years ago confined themselves to domestic services, but a great many applicants are now from the realms of metallurgy and other higher technical fields.

Jackson-Gustafsson

Mr. W. B. Jackson and Miss Mary Gustafsson were quietly married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lollie Bond at Eastland, Tuesday evening at 8:30, Rev. Z. L. Howell officiating.

Mr. Jackson is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Jackson of this place and Miss Gustafsson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Gustafsson of Cisco.

After a short honeymoon spent at various places, they will make their home in East Texas, where Mr. Jackson has a position with the Humble Oil Co.

Bridge's Central Span "Frozen" Into Position
 It is perhaps not a generally known fact, but the following incident actually happened, says the Washington Star. A certain bridge was under construction, and when the central span was lifted into place it was found to be slightly too long to fit into the supporting spans. The engineer in charge purchased an enormous quantity of ice, and, packing it around the steel members, caused contraction of the steel, eventually shrinking the entire structure and allowing the central span to slip into its proper position. The fact that the bridge was too long resulted merely from a day of unseasonably high temperature, which happened to correspond with the day on which the last member of the bridge had to be placed. The simplest solution would have been to delay placing the bridge until the temperature dropped, or perhaps inserting the member at night. The fact that the engineer thought of packing the cantilevered arms of the bridge with ice indicates clearly what a resourceful engineer he was. The bridge is the Zach bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis, and the engineer's name was James B. Zach.

is certainly worth the price

You know that a little powder now and then is well worth the money it costs. In fact, compared with the effect, the price is so trifling you hardly consider it at all. Yet the cost of electricity is just as moderate. Consider the examples below. They are typical. Where else does a penny buy more than in electric service? Electricity is cheap—use more of it.

Beans to Brag About

BEANS used to belong in the minds of many to warm meals and winter weather. The modern housewife, however, with her newer knowledge of dietetics, knows that beans contain a lot of protein, and uses them generously as a meat substitute during the warm weather. Here are some suggestions for combining beans with other summer foods:

Tested Recipes

New Potatoes with Stringless Beans: Choose very tiny new potatoes, scrape and boil or steam until tender. Toss with melted butter and finely chopped parsley and pile in center of a hot platter. Heat a can of small stringless beans, drain and season with butter, salt and pepper. Pile in a border around the potatoes. Hard-cook several eggs, cut in halves and dredge outside with paprika.

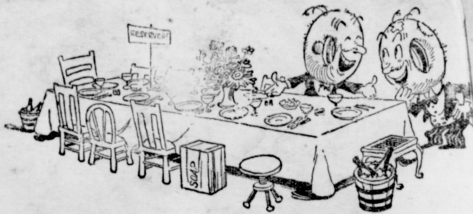

Insert at intervals in the string bean border.

Baked Beans Parmesan: Sauté one small onion that has been sliced and one diced canned pimiento in two tablespoons butter until golden brown. Add one No. 2 can of oven baked beans, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and three tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Heat thoroughly. Serve very hot, garnished with sweet shirkins.

Bean Salad: Cut cold rare roast beef in thin small shavings; drain one can of stringless beans and slice one cucumber very thin. Marinate the meat, beans, cucumber and contents of a can of artichoke hearts separately in French dressing thoroughly before serving. Then pile the beef in a lettuce leaf in the center of the plate. Surround with three small leaves holding a spoonful of bean, cucumber and artichoke heart respectively.

Are Your Tires planning a big blowout?

Bad tires are bad at all seasons... but at their worst in hot weather. A hidden weak spot in the carcass is likely to collapse under the increased strain of high speeds and blistering roads.

New tires are much cheaper than hospital bills, and even repair bills. If your tires have that guilty look, smooth treads... you'd better replace them before they make you the guest at a road-side blow-out party.

Home A Better Place

PROPOS of the fact that government statistics show that last year Americans consumed $652,000,000 worth of canned foods, the Columbus Evening Dispatch makes this editorial comment in behalf of the American housewife. The writer says, in part:

The American home is a better place in which to live and eat than it was before the Can-Opener Era. With all due respect to the traditions surrounding grandmother's cooking and the good old days, we venture the assertion that the modern meal is better in most respects than those consumed by former generations; and we'll stick to it, even if we have to leave town.

The food that comes in cans is prepared with greater thought for man's demands regarding taste and nutrition than was a vast portion of that which reached the table in the highly touted past. Also the canning industry has made possible the serving of fruits and vegetables out of season, when the system demands those things.

The housewives of the nation should be given some credit for recognizing that the canned goods are far better than anything they could produce from the raw materials. There were great cooks in the good old days, but it is a fallacious tradition that all women of grandmother's time were whites at the cook stove. The present era is the best we've ever known from a culinary standpoint, and the canners have helped immensely.
