WOMAN STAR WITNESS IN DAUGHERTY HEARING

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Mrs. Roxie Stinson, of Columbus, Ohio, the divorced wife of Attorney General Daugherty's confidential friend, Jess Smith, who committed suicide a year ago in Daugherty's apartment, was again the star witness today before the Daugherty investigating committee.

The committee made an effort today to establish new lines of inquiry involving liquor cases and other matters pending in the department of justice and over which Daugherty had control.

Mrs. Stinson told the committee yesterday of business deals in which she and her husband and Daugherty were associated, and she declared that they made "big gains" by moving to Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—How the American marines cleared the Teapot Dome reserve of trespassers after the oil reserve had been leased to Harry Sinclair was described today to the Senate oil committee by Major General Lejeune, commandant of the marine corps. He said that the order for action in clearing the area was issued by Acting Secretary of Navy Roosevelt. The orders were issued in June, 1922.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt followed General Lejeune on the stand and testified that the request for clearing Teapot Dome came from former Secretary of Interior Albert Fall, who was quoted as saying that the president wanted "squatters" ejected from the dome lands as they were about to take oil upon which the government would get no royalty.

BRIDWELL SELLS THE PAIR TO MRS. McAULEY

T. F. Bridwell has sold his racket store known as The Pair to Mrs. W. L. McAuley. The inventory has been completed, and the business turned over to the new owner, and Mr. and Mrs. Bridwell are retiring.

Mr. Bridwell is interested in the wholesale oil business with O. A. Bartlett, and aside from devoting some time to that business, he says he does not know what he will do. "Have no plans to announce for the present," said Mr. Bridwell.

Mrs. McAuley has been living in the city for several years, moving here from the McAuley Ranch near Maverick. She is a pioneer in this county. While the business is in her name her children, LeRoy, and Misses Ruth and Mamie will be in charge of the store.

The Value of Life is the title of a moving picture to be shown at the Library by the Modern Woodmen of America Saturday night. It is free and every one is invited.

MAN AND GIRL ARRESTED HERE

A man by the name of Fred Sharp and a girl by the name of Ida Allen are in custody of the sheriff here, and officers in Fannin county have been notified of their arrest.

Sheriff Flynt placed the man in jail late Wednesday afternoon and is holding the girl in custody at the jail, pending further instructions from Fannin county authorities.

The man and girl were apprehended at a farm home near Winters, where they had been living for a short time, and the arrests were made up on strength of a warrant from a constable at Ladonia, Texas, alleging that Sharp had disposed of mortgaged property and eloped with his sixteen-year-old niece.

In a letter to the local sheriff the constable at Ladonia stated that the man and girl left Ladonia last fall, and the first news of their whereabouts was disclosed in a letter which the girl had written from Winters. The letter stated that the man and girl were uncle and niece.

Sharp claims that he and the girl were married in old Mexico some time ago, and that they are now man and wife, but says that the papers showing that they were married had been destroyed, according to the sheriff.

LITTLE ERROR IN COTTON FIGURES

In a report sent out by the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association Tuesday, The Ledger stated that the Farm Bureau had handled more than 181,000 bales of cotton and the average price realized was twenty-five cents a pound. This was an error in that all the cotton had not been sold, and the twenty-five cents per pound represents the amount advanced to the members of the association on what cotton has been sold and the total amount advanced. Not until all the cotton is sold can it be determined what the average price realized amounts to. O. C. Sykes, secretary of the local bureau, says that the Farm Bureau has not sold any cotton as low as twenty-five cents, middling basis.

WEATHER THREATENS TO CUT NUMBER OF OFFI- CERS COMING FRIDAY

While it was expected that there would be about one hundred peace officers here Friday to attend the second meeting of the district sheriffs' association, the weather is threatening to cut the attendance. Most of the visitors from over the district were scheduled to come to Ballinger in autos, and it is feared that the rain and prospects of rain will interfere with plans for the convention.

A feature of the entertainment program consisted of a barbecue on the court house lawn, but this has been called off on account of the weather condition, and the feed will probably consist of a turkey dinner with Sheriff Flynt as host.

An officer from Dallas and one from Austin are due to be here, according to letters received by Sheriff Flynt, and officers as far away as Fort Stockton and Stamford have written that they would be here.

MAN ARRESTED FOR BORROWING AUTO

Bill Barnhill, of the Winters country, was arrested by Sheriff Flynt Wednesday on a misdemeanor charge. Barnhill, it was alleged, used an automobile belonging to another party without the party's knowledge or consent, and damaged the car.

Under the law it is a misdemeanor to use, move, or in any way interfere with the automobile of another without the owner's consent.

RADIO CONCERT IN BALLINGER'S HONOR

Radio Station WFAA, Dallas News and Dallas Journal, staged a thirty minute concert Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 4:00, in honor of "Ballinger's Homecoming." This is supposed to be a silent hour for Station WFAA, but a special program was arranged for the occasion, presenting the Georgia Comedy Entertainers, a vocal quartet, and several fans happened to tune in at the 3:30 hour and picked up the musical numbers in a clear and distinct tone.

The fans who listened in enjoyed the program, but we are all guessing just how Station WFAA got us down for a "homecoming" celebration. Evidently the News-Journal announcer got his radio wires crossed and got Ballinger down where he should have had some other town. It was a dandy good program, however, and Ballinger is under obligations to Station WFAA for the honor conferred even though it was misdirected.

HORSE POPULATION

The Ballinger man who a few years ago predicted that the auto would replace the horse on the farm will probably find in recent figures sent out by the government some grounds to show that he was not such a bad guesser after all. Uncle Sam's figures show that there were only 18,263,000 horses in the country at the beginning of the present year as compared with 21,555,000 in 1918. This shows a loss of three million horses in six years.

Within the space of four hours—between four and eight o'clock Thursday morning, there was a variety of weather which should suit everybody. A heavy sprinkle of sleet, almost large enough to be classed as hail, fell about 4:00 o'clock. The sleet was followed by rain. A few minutes after sun-up the clouds drifted away and a bright sunshiny day broke forth, only to be followed within less than an hour by heavy clouds from the North which brought a shower of snow-flakes. By 10:00 o'clock the sun peeped out again, with a winter wind keeping the natives busy dodging around the corner.

Paper Is Made From Refuse of Sugar Cane

The manufacture of paper from bagasse, the dry refuse of sugar cane after the juice has been expressed, has often been advocated, but never accomplished on a commercial scale. The increased cost of wood pulp has stimulated experiments for solving this problem. It has long been known that excellent paper can be made from sugar cane fiber, but the difficulty has been to preserve the fiber intact while extracting the juice for sugar making. The present machinery cuts and tears the fiber so that the bagasse is fit only for fuel.

Some time ago there was organized in Cuba a company which has constructed a large plant to make a practical test of a patented process for expressing the juice and conserving the fiber and pulp for paper. The fiber is separated from the pulp by machinery, and then by evaporation the water is eliminated, leaving the dry fiber and pulp containing the solids and sucrose, from which sugar is made. The fiber and pulp are then baled separately for shipment to the United States, where the sugar is extracted by diffusion.

By this treatment the fiber is uninjured and can be used in making high-grade paper at a considerable saving, as compared with the cost of wood pulp. The residue from the pulp is also suitable for low-grade paper. It is claimed that the preliminary tests have proved successful and that, in addition to preserving the bagasse for paper manufacture, a larger percentage of sucrose is obtained than is possible by the old methods of extraction in sugar houses.

"Hornbook" Used Before the Days of Printing

A hornbook was the alphabet-book or primer for learning to read in universal use in England before the days of printing, and common even down to the time of George II. It consisted of a single leaf set in an oak frame, covered with a thin sheet of transparent horn as a protection, whence its name. The leaf contained on one side the alphabet, in large and small letters, also the Lord's Prayer and the nine digits, together with a large number of monosyllables.

The frame had a handle, and this was generally provided with a hole for a string, by means of which the hornbook could be suspended from the pupil's girdle. The back of the frame was ornamented with a rude sketch of St. George and the dragon.

Hornbooks are now very rare. Frequent allusions to them are found in the older writers.—Detroit News.

Young, but Gallant

Little Jackie took the church collection very seriously, and every Sunday morning he saw that his penny was ready.

One day, just as the sidesmen began to take the collection, Jackie noticed that a guest in the family pew was not duly provided.

Sliding along the seat he whispered: "Where's your penny?" "I didn't bring one," replied the lady. Time was short, and the matter was urgent, but Jackie came to a decision with great promptitude.

Thrusting his penny into the lady's hand, he whispered: "Here, take mine! I'll pay for you, and I'll get under the seat."

Charged the Camera

Once during an African hunt, says Mr. E. M. Newman in the American Magazine, a charging rhinoceros gave us some trouble. Two camera men in my party were filming him, but being photographed seemed to bore him, and he headed directly for one of the cameras. The man, relying on the hunter who was with us, kept on turning; but the hunter did not fire quite soon enough. The rhinoceros crashed down dead on top of the camera. Fortunately, the camera man had jumped aside just in time.

The second man filmed the whole scene, and it made a great picture when we recovered the smashed camera from under the beast, saved that film and combined it with the other.

City of Capua

The city of Capua of ancient Italy opened its gates to Hannibal after the Battle of Cannae, 216 B. C., and the army there went into winter quarters. Capua was the most luxurious city in Italy, and Hannibal's army was greatly enervated as a result of its residence there. When the Romans regained possession of Capua, 211, B. C., they scourged and beheaded the surviving senators who had not poisoned themselves before the surrender of the city. Only two persons, it is said, escaped: one, a woman who had prayed for the success of the Roman arms, and the other a woman who had secured some prisoners. The word "Capua" became a synonym for luxury and self-indulgence.

RETURN FROM IRRIGATION HEARING AT AUSTIN

Irrigationists and anti-irrigationists who have been connected with the court proceedings growing out of the irrigation litigation, returned from Austin Thursday at noon where they went to attend the hearing of the injunction suit in the irrigation contest case which is on appeal in the Third Court of Civil Appeals. The case was submitted Wednesday. It required about three hours for the attorneys in the case to submit briefs and present arguments, and the court will probably render a decision at an early date. The case was advanced on the docket, and in view of that fact it is believed that an early opinion will be forthcoming.

Those attending the hearing were Judges A. K. Doss, O. L. Parish, and Paul Trimmer, and C. A. Dooze, W. B. Cobb, Stuart L. Williams, and several citizens from Bronte.

THE VALUE OF A LIFE

What is the value of a life? Is it worth little? Is it worth much? Life cannot be bought, life cannot be sold, life cannot be given away. What would you take for your life? By special arrangement with Head Clerk J. G. Ray, Rock Island, Ill., the local camp of Modern Woodmen of America has booked a two-reel feature story, "THE VALUE OF A LIFE," which will be shown in the Carnegie Library auditorium on March 15th at 7:30 o'clock.

This story portrays the fight made by George Gray, a member of that organization, to overcome the inroads of tuberculosis which were threatening his life. The scenes are laid in Colorado, at the foot of Mt. Cedar, not far from Pikes Peak, where nestles the Sanatorium which the Modern Woodmen have established as a life-saving institution for its tuberculous members. The gradual return of Gray to health and his return to his home is strikingly portrayed in one of the best educational films of the day. No admission is charged for viewing this film and the public is cordially invited to be present. 13-31d

McLEAN STARS IN OWN PRODUCTION

Douglas MacLean, whose work during the past year ranks him as one of the screen's foremost light comedians, makes his debut as the producer of his own starring vehicles in "Going Up," his latest comedy production, which comes to the Fo-to-sho Theatre Friday.

To those in the motion picture industry, Mr. MacLean's advent into the production field is significant. To the average picture-goer the importance of the move and its effect on his forthcoming production may require some explanation.

Mr. MacLean's decision to produce his own vehicles and to continue appearing in the star roles was the result of his determination to offer the motion picture public the very best productions from every angle.

"No star can hope to succeed and to remain in public favor with bad pictures," says MacLean. "By forming my own production company and surrounding myself with the best, most capable and experienced aids that can be obtained, I feel I am insuring myself against the sort of pictures that have been the undoing of many a star."

"Under my new arrangements, I will be able to secure the best story material available, regardless of how little or how much it may cost, and to convert such material into the finest possible screen entertainment. I feel that 'Going Up,' which is the first picture produced by my new organization, demonstrates quite satisfactorily what we will be able to accomplish."

FOLLIES GIRL DISCUSSES THE ETERNAL FEMININE

"Woman's chief ambition is to please man," says Allyn King, one of the two celebrated Ziegfeld Follies beauties who is appearing in the support of Richard Barthelmess in the First National production, "The Fighting Blade," coming to the Maeroy Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

"We have been taught that Adam ate an apple to please a woman," continues Miss King, "but, take it from me, ever since Mother Eve's time her descendants have been laying awake nights trying to devise means of pleasing the sterner sex. And when you see a woman spending hours in making her toilette, don't think she is doing it to win a woman's approval. She might like to arouse the envy of her sisters, but isn't doing it to please them. What she wants is to hear man remark: 'How stunning you look.'"

"There is no such thing as the new woman. There is such a thing as the eternal feminine. The girl of today may have more freedom of action than had the girls of yesteryear, but her thoughts and her whole life are shaped as were those of her mother and, before her, her grandmother. The only difference is that mother and granny, as girls, may have been more frank in their admissions. Perhaps that is why we were all startled when a recent graduating class at Vassar admitted that their goal in life was matrimony. Show me a girl who does not entertain that thought just as much as our mothers did and I will show you a freak."

Today at the Maeroy is being shown a Western feature with Lester Cuneo, "The Devil's Ghost," written and directed by Henry McCarty. Also round 11 of the popular H. C. Witwers stories, "Fighting Blood," is a part of the program.

Subscriptions to Y. M. B. L.

"In every city and community there are one or more individuals and business institutions that are responsible for the development and progress of their community. In Ballinger can be found many who believe that their town is great, and who also believe that it can become even greater. This is only evidenced by the moral and financial support which the following subscription list from various individuals and business firms is shown.

"That an opportunity might be given all who would care to become a member of the league, or in any way contribute to its activities, various committees have been very active in canvassing with a hope that none would be overlooked, but should your name or firm fail to be represented on this list, you will know if it is your fault, and should it be the fault of a representative of the League, you will do all a favor by calling the secretary's attention to same.

"Since January 1, 1924, the Y. M. B. L. has not been collecting on the 1924 budget, other than various individual members who have paid for January, February and March. Beginning at once a representative of the League will call on you for the purpose of collecting on the budget. This one collection will include the three first months of the year, and hereafter only regular monthly collections will be made.

"The individual membership to the Y. M. B. L. at present is 176. Subscriptions from all sources to date are as follows:
