BOSTON—One of the little-known curiosities of Boston is the "hidden house" in an angle formed by two streets on Beacon Hill. Entrance is through a low doorway into a long covered passageway.

Button, Button?
GADSDEN, Alabama.—(AP)—Man's eternal search for his collar button has brought Will Norton, farmer, a unique experience. After hunting for a highly-prized gold button he had lost Norton was notified it had been found in the eraw of a chicken he sold the day before at the curb market.

A few good misses in the chorus are apt to aid the opera in making a hit.

SAPIRO-FORD SUIT SETTLED

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 16.—Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 damage suit against Henry Ford was settled today, Sapiro announced.
Sapiro sued Ford for libel as the result of the articles in the Dearborn Independent, Ford's magazine, alleging Sapiro was engaged in co-operative marketing as a part of the Jewish conspiracy to obtain control of American agriculture.
The suit was settled today on the basis of a new statement which Sapiro announced had been issued by Ford in addition to his recent apology for the anti-Jewish utterances appearing in the Independent.
No money was involved in the settlement Sapiro asserted.

DETROIT, July 16.—Retraction of all personal charges against Aaron Sapiro and the indorsement of the co-operative marketing associations are included in the terms of the settlement of the Sapiro-Ford libel suit, according to William Gallagher, of Detroit, counsel for Sapiro.
Gallagher said the settlement as to the costs of the suit was a personal matter between the parties.
The retraction and indorsement, he said, will be issued publicly and probably through the Dearborn Independent.

12 DEAD; 119 HURT IN VIENNA RIOTING

LOS ANGELES WATER MAINS ARE BLASTED

(By Associated Press)

PACIFIC FLYERS SAFE IN HAWAII

(By Associated Press)
HONOLULU, July 16.—The long silence after they had sent out calls for help yesterday on their California-Hawaii flight, was explained here today by Emory Bronte and Ernest Smith, the aviators.
The men said their trailing wireless antenna was torn by the sea waves when their plane was forced down near the surface of the water by failure of the gasoline pump. This, however, was soon started working again, and the flyers continued to the Island of Molokai where they landed when the gasoline supply gave out.
The plane was totally wrecked.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wooten have gone to Temple to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Holliday, of Abilene, are here spending the week-end with relatives.

The New PALACE Theatre

MONDAY and TUESDAY

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, July 16.—A single dispatch received direct from the riot torn city of Vienna yesterday afternoon declared the situation there was improving.
News from points near the frontier confirmed the seriousness of yesterday's rioting.
These dispatches estimated the number of dead at 12 and the injured at 119.

Reports agree that the uprising grew in alarming proportions because workmen from the suburbs surprised the police and spread agitation through the center of the city before measures were taken to control the movement.

VIENNA, July 16.—An official communique issued today said yesterday's rebellion had been suppressed.

The communique states that twelve persons were killed and 119 were injured in the disorders.

Opium Smugglers Use Eggs
SCERABAJA, Java.—(AP)—Dutch authorities in the Island of Java have discovered a new trick for smuggling opium. They were struck by the extraordinary number of "salted eggs" passing through the customs. Opening one of the eggs, they found the inside had been blown out and the shell filled with liquid opium. About $1,250 worth of opium was confiscated.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Baker have gone to Corpus Christi, San Antonio and other places in South Texas, where they will visit friends and relatives.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS

A very large crowd attended the revival service conducted by Rev. Sidney W. Smith at the Ninth Street Church of Christ
last night and heard the lecture
theme, "The Holy Bible, What is it Worth to Us?" The evangelist declared that the American nation was losing the Bible's influence, quietly drifting away from its teaching and will soon
forget the ways of the true God.
He said that in some points the textbook of the schools taught contrary to the Bible, in regard to the formation of the earth, and the many thousand years coming to where it could be inhabited.
The Bible teaches that in six days God created everything. The evangelist favors school very highly but pleads for a change in the textbooks.

Commercial Air Lines Cover Europe

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, July 16. — Berlin within a few years has become the largest airport for civilian flying in the world.

In much the same manner as Chicago is a railway crossroad of North America, Berlin is the aerial junction point for Europe.

Germany, prevented by the Versailles treaty from military flying, has concentrated her energy on civilian aviation, and the development of comfort and security.

Air passengers from London stop in Berlin, en route to Moscow. Southbound travelers from Scandinavian countries transfer here for a trans-Alpine hop via Munich to Milan or Rome. Points as far apart as Madrid and Helsingfors are brought within 29 1-2 hours of each other by an air route thru Berlin.

The former drill grounds of the imperial army, the Tempelhofer Field, have provided a starting and landing place within 15 minutes from the commercial heart of Berlin. Alighting at the aerodrome from an omnibus of the "Lufthansa," which picked him up at his downtown hotel, the passenger is greeted by "air boys" and escorted into an administration building with spacious restaurant terraces, a postoffice and rest rooms, to which soon will be added hotel accommodations for 80 guests.

Top—An omnibus meets all arriving airplanes and within 15 minutes deposits passengers at downtown hotels. Lower—Interior of a German passenger airplane, showing comfortable appointments.

Aerial departures are called out with the regularity of railway schedules. The passenger is conducted to his plane and a few moments later is on his way through the air in vehicles with Pullman-like appointments. A passenger arriving here finds awaiting him a bus which deposits him at his hotel.

German commercial planes this summer will cover 34,770 miles per day. Of this total, 12,810 miles are over German territory.

All European capitals can be reached from Berlin within one day. The air train for Moscow leaves at 3 a. m. and arrives in the Russian capital—665 miles distant as the crow flies—by 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Railroad trains negotiate the same distance in 45 to 54 hours. From Berlin one flies to Cologne in four hours; by rail it takes 10 hours. The stretch across the Alps from Munich to Milan is covered by airplane in three hours; the railway schedule calls for 14 1-2 hours.

The airplane traveler's guide and time table issued by the Lufthansa has 200 pages, showing 80 individual air lines in daily operation in Germany.

No less important than passenger traffic is freight delivery. This applies especially to mail and to perishable goods, such as flowers, caviar, oysters, early vegetables and fruit. Approximately 7,000 pounds of air mail are carried monthly on the national and international Lufthansa lines.

Flying is no longer a novelty or a luxury. Public officials have helped to establish confidence in this mode of travel, in which the average speed is 100 miles an hour, by using it extensively. Captains of industry negotiate quick business deals by traveling the cloud route.

Fatal accidents are almost unknown to the German Lufthansa. During 1926, when 83,000 passengers were carried, the record of safety was more than 99 per cent.

World's Feet are Crooked, Says Shoe Designer

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 2.—The relationship between a woman's head and her feet is very close, says Andre Perugia, who has just arrived in this city from France.

Perugia, the Italian whom Paris acknowledges as king of shoe styles, intends to show American manufacturers that they, like most of the world, are giving women shoes that are built on the wrong principle.

Straight lasts for crooked feet are all wrong, he believes, and all normal human feet are crooked, says Perugia.

American women who think their feet are different from those of the rest of the world are on the wrong foot, he declares.

In a period of mannish clothes, shingled heads and masculine hats, fashion has not been able to "Adamize" feminine feet. The shorter skirts and shingles get, the more dainty and interesting become women's shoes, says this man who makes them what they are today.

Snake and lizard skin shoes were his idea. Half the modern shoe styles which have captivated Paris come from Perugia's brain. The science of shoe construction interests Perugia.

Four years ago Andre Perugia was struggling to pay his expenses in a little shoe shop in Nice. His shoes caught the attention of an important Paris dressmaker who gave an exhibition in Paris of 500 Perugia models. The Italian designer soon afterward opened up the Paris shop, which from the time of its installation has dictated French shoe styles.

His workmanship is often attributed to his skill, acquired during the war, as a constructor of airplanes. In that metier he mastered the art of applying fabrics to surfaces.
