WITHERING HEAT IS SWEEPING OVER U. S.

Commission Reports in Comdemnation Hearing

Comdemnation proceedings were completed here Saturday morning and the three commissioners made a report shortly before noon. Two separate cases were heard by the commission in which the city of Ballinger sought to condemn two tracts of land, one of 10.67 acres from J. H. Wilke, case No. 1596, and the second, 14.15 acres from Mrs. A. S. Wilke, case No. 1597.

In the first case J. H. Wilke was awarded $100 per acre for the 10.67 acres and Mrs. A. S. Wilke was awarded $2,888.50 for the 14.15 acres. The first tract of land is situated near the lower dam on the east side of Elm Creek and the land owned by Mrs. Wilke is a narrow strip on each side of the creek.

As soon as the commission made their report, Frank C. Dickey, attorney for the Wilke interests, gave notice of appeal to the county court. Papers will be filed for the appeal as soon as they can be completed and the case will be given another hearing in the near future in this court.

In addition to the cash award given in the report by the three commissioners, the Wilke interests were given water rights for domestic purposes and it is the intention of the city to construct a cement causeway across the creek at the present location of the upper dam to allow travel over that road when water is backed up by the new dam.

The city has also purchased 23 acres from Mrs. Fannie Johnson of Bonham for which $3,000 cash was paid. These three tracts of land is all that will be needed to take care of the new water reservoir when completed.

At the beginning of the water project in Ballinger a larger dam was contemplated than is now under construction. The first plan called for a dam that would require about 136 acres of the Wilke land. It was impossible to agree upon a price for this amount of land and the city changed plans on the dam, raising the lower dam 7 feet and thereby making it necessary for a smaller amount of land for the reservoir. Wilke's attorneys then filed a damage

Coronation of County Queen is Climaxing Event Winters Fair

(Winters Enterprise)
Second Annual Live-at-Home Fair came to a dramatic climax here Saturday night when Miss Orlan Yeates was crowned queen of Runnels County to reign one year. Miss Yeates, merited the honor when the community of which she was princess was awarded first place for the best exhibit at the exposition. The victorious community is itself known as Victory. Miss Yeates received her silver coronet from the hands of Charles E. Coombs of Stamford, with princesses of 30 Runnels county communities thronging her court.

Miss Yeates was robed in regal white and purple and at the coronation succeeded Miss Isabell Richardson of Bethel, 1925 queen of the Live-at-Home Fair. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Yeates.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the queen was presented a loving cup by the prime minister, Judge Coombs, who is president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and a resident of Stamford. Miss Richardson presented flowers to her.

Others who took part in the ceremony were Robert Gaston, cup bearer; Billy Joe Bryant, crown bearer; Bettie John Curry, and Patsy Jean Patrick, train bearers; J. W. Dixon, Jr., and Fred Bedford, Jr., heralds; and Vernon B. Campbell, announcer. Arrangements were in charge of the Queen's committee, composed of Mesdames J. W. Dixon, M. E. Leeman, F. J. Brophy, R.

K. Russell, L. R. Gaston and Joe H. Payne.

The queen's community was awarded a $50 prize for winning first place in the community exhibits. Other cash prizes, $35 $25 and $15 went to Dale, Bethel and Oak Creek communities, respectively.

For first, second and third places in county exhibits, Taylor county home demonstration club council won $50, Coleman county council $35 and Nolan county $25.

Other communities having exhibits included Benoit, Hagan Hatchel, Baldwin, North Norton, Content, Wingate, Spring Hill, South Ballinger, Wilmeth, Poe, and Maverick.

A number of Winters merchants, likewise, had attractive booths. They included Winters Floral & Nursery Company, John Norman, Bennett Abstract Co., of Ballinger, Krauss Dry Goods Co., Payne Dry Goods, Shepperd & Bedford, West Texas Utilities, Kirk & Mack, Higginbotham and C. L. Green.

Boy Scout booths and the county health booth attracted much favorable comment. Each displayed activities of these all important organizations.

Seven schools were represented in the educational exhibit under the supervision of County Superintendent R. E. White. Approximately 200 students participated in the parade Friday, second day of the exposition, and more than one half of that number are members of the 4-H Clubs or vocational classes of the county.

Fair Executives To Meet Monday

Chas. Coombs, president of the Runnels County Fair Association, has called a meeting of the executive board of that organization to be held here Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the office of the Chamber of Commerce. All committeemen have been notified of the meeting and have agreed to be present to start the "ball rolling" for the coming fair which will be held on October 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 this year.

No further delays will be experienced in planning of the fair program for the coming fall. One of the first things to be done Monday will be the appointment of all standing committees and the securing of their acceptance. Mr. Coombs stated today that when the standing committees were appointed he wanted each chairman and member to accept the appointment and the responsibility for the work of that committee. Men who feel that they may not have time to look after the work will be asked to decline their appointment and another who feels that they can give some work to the fair will be named.

In addition to the committees, community chairmen will be named in every locality in Runnels county. These chairmen will be visited and an effort made to get the communities to plan their exhibits for this fall.

A committee will be named Monday to look after the printing of the catalogue and in-structed to rush work on it so that it will be in the hand of the printers at an early date and ready for distribution to fair exhibitors. The premium lists and awards will be carefully checked by fair officials and all needed changes made before the copy is ooked.

Officials of the fair feel that much work must be done at once to get the preliminary work of the county fair underway. A second meeting will be held by the committee at an early date to check the building and grounds and to begin booking a program for the attractions this fall.

Final Hearing On A. & S. Extension Set for July 24

(By Associated Press)
SAN ANGELO, July 19.—A hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the application of the Abilene & Southern and Texas & Pacific railways to build an extension from Ballinger to San Angelo has been set for July 24. Doss H. Berry, Manager of the San Angelo Board of City Development, has announced he will attend the hearing. Alfred Crager of Ballinger, representing the city of Paint Rock, county seat of Concho county, also will attend.

"To do whatever possible to secure the extension will be my intention," Berry said.

It was understood that the final oral hearing beginning July 24 will be the last step in securing the new rail connection with Abilene, Fort Worth and Dallas and other northeasterly points.

Exceptions have been filed by both San Angelo and the Santa Fe railroad to the examiner's report.

BALLINGER MAN RAISES BIG BUNCH OF GRAPES

R. L. Wiley had a large bunch of grapes displaying them down town Saturday which he raised at his place on Ninth Street. The single bunch weighed 2 pounds and 7 ounces and the grapes were very close together. The entire bunch was not so large but the closeness of the grapes made the total weight surprising. Mr. Wiley said that he grafted a California grape with a mustang vine and the first year it grew about 40 feet. The vine this year had two large clusters of grapes on it. The flavor of the fruit is delicious and was one of the largest bunches ever seen here. Mr. Wiley wished to save the grapes for display at the Runnels County Fair but was afraid they would not keep so long.

SUNDOWN STORIES

The Ocean Boat

By Mary Graham Bonner

The Little Black Clock told John and Peggy that he was going to take them for a trip under the ocean.

In fact, he said, they would take several trips there if they liked it. John was sure that he would, and Peggy thought she would like it, too.

"I've turned the time ahead," he Clock said, "and the boat is a fine submarine known as an ocean bottom-submarine tractor."

The boat had caterpillar wheels which would be useful when they wanted to crawl on the ocean floor. John was fascinated by it at once, and Peggy, who loved almost everything that John did, enjoyed it a great deal, too.

There was a searchlight in the nose of the boat, and the windows were of thick glass, it was run by electricity.

It was built so it could resist greater water pressure than any other submarine. There was a crew on board, but they paid attention to the running of the boat.

John looked around and saw the steering room and the motor room and the battery room and the engine room, and he saw how it could go quickly or slowly by means of a lever which worked the caterpillar wheels. He looked through the periscope.

Then the little Black Clock gave the children suits and helmets especially made for them so they would not feel the pressure under the ocean.

"I've turned the time ahead for this trip," the Clock said, "as this boat is very far advanced over the older ones. It can go so much faster down—oh, you'll see!"

But the old days were interesting, too. Then they believed that an old sea character known as Father Neptune lived in a most gorgeous coral cave and ruled the ocean kingdom.

"They thought that he caused all the storms and all he had to do was to speak and a storm could come up, and he could tell it to stop and it would!"

The submarine went along and the Clock pointed out ever so many sea fish. It was a wonderful sight.

VETERAN GETS MEDALS

30 YEARS AFTER WAR

SHANGHAI, July 19.—After waiting 30 years, Oscar Romahn, veteran of the Spanish-American war and the Boxer rebellion, has received his service medals from Washington.

Romahn, a Norwegian by birth, enlisted in the American navy for the war with Spain and was sent to Dewey's fleet. He served thru the Boxer rebellion, then left the service to join the Chinese Maritime Customs from which he recently retired after 25 years' duty.

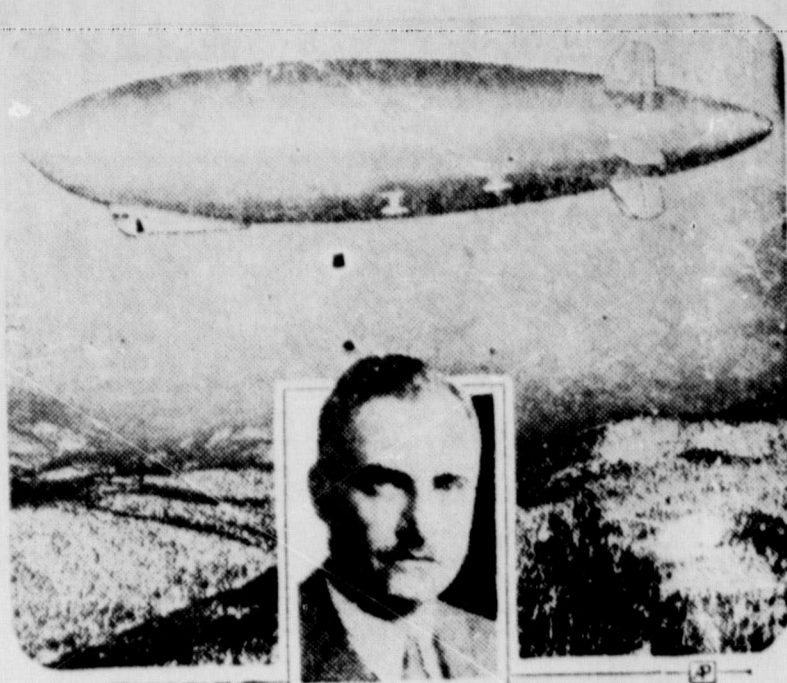

For two decades he bombarded Washington with letter striving to get his service medals. But they had been misplaced by some government clerk.

Ten years ago he quit his letter writing. He had given up all hope when the medals arrived.

The North Carolina museum at Raleigh hopes to assemble the complete skeleton of a mastodon from bones found in the state.

Proposed "Flying Tomato Can"

This proposed all-metal dirigible would have a speed of 100 miles an hour. Carl Fritzsche (inset) has laid the plans before congress.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 19.—A big brother of the world's first metal-clad airship, the navy's "flying-tomato can," is proposed for the army air corps.

Authorization to construct the giant, a ship with a speed of 100 miles an hour and gross lift of 100 tons is sought in congressional bills introduced by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan, and Representative Florence Kahn, California.

The all-metal dirigible would be 17 times as large as the experimental navy ship, ZMC-2, first flown last August, would outstrip any existing airship and be larger than the Graf Zeppelin.

Its cost would be limited by the bills to $4,500,000. While planned primarily as a transport ship, the measures would provide for the secretary of war to lease it to private parties for commercial demonstration.

Appearing before the house military affairs committee, Carl Fritzsche, president of the aircraft development corporation company, which built the navy metalclad, said the proposed ship could fly non-stop from Washington to Panama in 40 hours with a military load of 40,000 pounds.

As an outgrowth of the navy experiment, it would be constructed with a skin of metal strips as thin as a postal card, sewn together around a framework with seams caulked to prevent the escape of helium.

For army purposes it is proposed to make the ship available for reconnaissance, mapping, quick transport of staff headquarters and military supplies, and for bombing raids.

If construction is authorized, Fritzsche said, it would take two and one-half years to build the monster and in another year and at a cost of $3,500,000 a duplicate could be available. The navy metalclad cost $750,000 and has a maximum speed of 70 miles an hour with a cruising speed of 52 miles an hour. Where the proposed dirigible would carry 30 passengers and cargo, the navy ship carries a crew of three and has provision for a 707-pound load of passengers and cargo.

LONDON STAGE STARS TRY OUT NEW SCHEME

(By Associated Press) LONDON, July 19.—In an effort to bolster up a languishing theatrical season, an actor-manager combine has been formed comprising the leading actors and actresses of the London stage.

The organization is called the Famous Players Guild and is backed by financiers who wished to test theories of reducing the risk of theatrical production.

Each of the performers will be placed in a theatre where he or she will be star performer in every play, and virtually manager of the theatre. It is hoped that the system will create a following for the policy which each theatre will adopt.

Each star will receive a fixed salary and a pooling system will permit the actor-managers to share in the profits of all the houses.

Open Nares, Henry Ainley, who has had a long run in "The First Mrs. Fraser" and has just finished a command performance of "Hamlet"; Marion Lore, one of Britain's most popular comedienne, and Cedric Hardwicke, who created the role of the King in Shaw's "The Apple Cart," are the four stars who have joined the group so far.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by DR. JACOB GALESTON For the New York Academy of Medicine

To the public plastic surgery is synonymous with beauty surgery with the "lifting" of faces and the creation of mohanesque noses.

To the earnest surgeon, however, it is an important branch of his art and science through which unfortunate humans may be restored to normal appearance and function.

Plastic surgery came to public notice after the first war. It was, in a sense, a war necessity. So many soldiers suffered mutilation that it was natural for surgeons to attempt the reconstruction of jaws, cheeks, noses and the like. Their efforts were crowned with success, and plastic surgery has become an acknowledged and valuable branch of medicine.

Though of recent prominence, plastic surgery is as old as written history. It was practised in ancient India and in Egypt. The Greeks, too, knew and practised the art.

Like so many other branches of science, plastic surgery was neglected in the middle ages. In the sixteenth century, however, it reappears as witnessed by the publication of a book on the subject from the pen of an Italian surgeon.

What are the legitimate fields of plastic surgery?

Theoretically the entire body! Practically, however, the plastic surgeon is mainly concerned with the correction of unbecoming or crippling deformities. The plastic surgeon deals with the ugly scars and contractures resulting from burns, deformities of the nose and ears, harelip and cleft palate, large moles, portwine marks, and the like.

Frequently, too, the plastic surgeon is called on to reconstruct the human face disfigured by accident or operation.

To the lay person, the marvels achieved by this branch of medicine appear unbelievable. Yet there are hundreds of persons to whom like has been made more tolerable because the plastic surgeon has been able to amend the works of negligent nature or malignant fate.

46 POUND CATFISH IS CAUGHT FRIDAY

Joe Morrison and C. C. Howard of Roscoe returned to Ballinger Saturday morning after a night's fishing on the Colorado River about two miles above town. They did not have a fish story to tell but brought the catch along to let people see for themselves the kind of fish they catch. Their best one was a yellow cat that tipped the scales at 46 pounds and two smaller ones weighing eight pounds each.

The big fish was caught on a trot line and was landed by the two men without any trouble. The fish was on display here for some time and after it was dressed the head was still on display.

Star-Telegram Editor Says West Texas is in Splendid Condition

The following review of present conditions in West Texas was written exclusively for the Associated Press by James R. Record, managing editor of the Star-Telegram and the Record-Telegram of Fort Worth, who recently toured that vast area.

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, July 19.—West Texas no longer keeps all its eggs in one basket and West Texans didn't spend much money, relatively speaking in planting their 1930 crops.

Consequently that vast section is facing the fall with at least a little optimism, even in the teeth of low farm prices and over-production.

The farmer started the new year with a firm determination to make a cheap crop. He didn't know whether cotton would bring twenty cents or ten cents. So he began to cut expenses. He reduced his outside labor bill. He planted more feed and less cotton. He determined that his cost of production was going to keep step with the downward trend of the market. Therefore, the drop in prices will be discounted to some extent. In his economy, he was aided by his banker. The result is, West Texas has reduced its financial obligations even in spite of bad market conditions and will enter the fall in better shape than a year ago.

Bankers have stood shoulder to shoulder with the West Texas farmers this year. The supply of money has been ample to care for all necessary demands but the bankers, like the farmers, have been economical. They haven't made any reckless loans. Their customers have been warned to "live at home."

This advice, strictly adhered to in every section of the west, has resulted in West Texas building up a cycle of crops. There isn't a month in the year now that this section does not have money crop of some sort coming to the market. Production is no longer limited to the cotton in the fall or the wheat in the early summer. The cycle extends through the twelve months and consequently, the flow of money into West Texas is never checked intently.

Originally, West Texas was a one-crop section. The one and only crop was cattle. Then cotton came and now, diversification has brought an income through every month of the year.

With the improvement in general farm conditions, much virgin soil was put in cultivation in West Texas this year. The bulk of it was put into wheat and cotton. It is located in the North and South Plains. Each spring sees more and more of the ranch lands disappeared before the plow. The ranchman is rapidly being crowded off these two great areas, known as the North and South Plains. In another few years, the cattle will be restricted to the small ranches and to the highly-bred farm herd.

The wool and mohair districts haven't become stagnated by the drop in prices and by bad weather conditions but they have been set back. Lamb crops were reduced by bad range conditions of the winter but the herdsman, like the farmer, is living within his income this summer and will be ready to face the hardships of the approaching winter better than he was after last year's prosperity. He feels that the bottom has been reached in prices and that from now on, it will be an upward climb.

Oil territory is still feeling the efforts of the depression.

Railroad construction and highway building have been a factor in keeping business alive in many counties of West Texas. This activity shows a tendency to increase instead of decrease. At present, West Texas is enjoying a $6,500,000 railway building boom and new highways approach almost that much in cost.

Retail stocks of merchandise in West Texas are at a low ebb. Little buying was done last fall and winter and again this spring. However, it will be necessary to replenish stocks before the advent of fall and advance orders are now being placed. It is the first time in a year that the West Texas merchants has bought. But the bulk of the orders are being placed subject to September delivery, which means that they will be cancelled or curtailed if ago.

West Texas crops as a whole are promising. The final yield will depend upon the weather in the next thirty to sixty days. Cotton is small but is thriving in spite of the dry weather. Feed crops are made in some sections; in others, they are hanging in the balance. The wheat and oats harvested well, but the price is hardly enough to pay the cost of production.

Census enumerators were good to West Texas in 1930. Population has increased in every section—moderately in a few and marvelously in others. In the North and South Plains for instance, gains of two and three hundred percent in city and county populations were not uncommon. Cow camps of twenty years ago are cities of 20,000 and 40,000 people today.

The West Texas of today is no longer the crude frontier of ten and twenty years ago. It has first-class hotels, restricted residence sections, adequate transportation facilities; a network of paved pikes, clubs, factories, imposing public buildings, enterprising daily newspapers, strong banks, and a progressive citizenship. All is founded upon the work of the handful of cowmen, who pitched their camps and grazed their herds in the brakes of the few streams fifty years ago.

Greta Garbo Has Magnetic Personality, Says Charles Bickford

"When Greta Garbo walks into a scene she's got something no woman in the world has!"

Such was the observation made recently by Charles Bickford, who worked opposite the Swedish star in "Anna Christie," her first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking picture which is playing at the Palace Theatre starting Sunday. "I haven't any idea what it is, that something," said Bickford. "Call it sex appeal, magnetism or whatever you will, it is there just as plainly as the flame that leaps up when you put a match to a lamp."

"I was fascinated watching her and trying to figure it out. She is one person off the set, quiet, retiring and repressed. You could pass her by without knowing she was sitting there. But the minute she walks through a door into a scene, you can look at nothing else. She just lights up with that elusive and intangible something and dominates her whole surroundings. Her every gesture is compelling, her very glance hypnotic.

"She has that same fascination and sparkle on the screen," have noticed. And the funny part about it, I don't think she is conscious of it. It is simply her personality, a natural response to her dramatic instinct without an ounce of artificiality."

Clarence Brown directed the talking screen adaptation of the famous Eugene O'Neill drama with the supporting cast including George Marion and Marie Dressler.

"Free and Easy" Is Satiric Riot of Hollywood Comedy

Karl Dane had a narrow escape during the making of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all star, all talking comedy, "Free and Easy," now being shown at the Palace Theatre. In one of the scenes of this riotous Hollywood satire, Dane is "blown up" when a charge of dynamite is set off at the wrong moment. Although this accident was faked as a definite comedy gag of the picture, and was so arranged that when the explosion was over, Dane would be found submerged in the debris, when the final "take" was made, something went wrong and Dane had to duck

Mrs. Jack Rudd Honors Visitors
In complimenting out-of-town visitors on Thursday afternoon of last week, Mrs. Jack Rudd entertained friends with a prettily planned bridge party in her home on Fourth Street.

Miss Treva Gaunt of Dunkirk, Indiana, house guest of Mrs. D. C. Middleton, Jr., shared honors with Miss Dorothy Yates of Arlington, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Bruce.

In rooms gaily decorated with brilliantly colored summer blossoms dainty tallies marked places at four tables where a pink and green color theme was employed. Guest favors went to Misses Gaunt and Yates and game awards to Mrs. Floyd Carr.

A delectable frozen salad course with sandwiches daintily tied with pink and green ribbons was passed at the tea hour.

Included were: Misses Gaunt, Yates, LaVerne Sims, Ruth Holliday, Margaret Sturges, Frances Holman; Mmes. D. C. Middleton, Lula Noyes, Leonard Stallings R. W. Earnshaw, Winfield Wood, Garland Thomas, Charles Bailey, Robert Bruce, J. B. Striplin, Ben Sones of Fort Worth, Alex McGregor, Floyd Carr, Tommy Hall, Chas. Cheatham, W. B. Woody, Claude Stone and Troy Simpson.

Ruby Nance Celebrates Birthday

The spacious lawn of the Nance home on Eighth Street presented a festive appearance on Thursday afternoon when a large group of children were included by Mrs. Nance in the celebration of the eighth birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Ruby.

Games as old as childhood itself furnished happy entertainment until the serving of refreshments at a late hour.

Guests were: Ruby, Dorothy and Virginia Nance, Joe Simmons, Jr., in order to miss a falling rock about four times the size of his head.

"It certainly was realistic," Dane admitted, "but I'm not so keen on coming too close to nature." Buster Keaton, William Haines, Anita Page, Lionel Barrymore and a number of other stars composed the cast of this comedy riot.

NATIVES AND BRAZILIANS GET PORTUGAL'S JOBS

(By Associated Press)
LISBON, July 19.—To stem the tide of unemployment, the government has decreed that no jobs shall be given to foreigners, Brazilians excepted.

Foreigners in employment here may keep their places, but when they retire, die or are "fired," their places will be filled by Portuguese.

Unemployment lists are drawn up, and the home office will issue weekly figures. Foreigners of technical skill may be hired if the home office approves.

Bethel Program Is Big Success

More than 150 people were present Friday night at the ice cream supper staged at Bethel. The community sponsored the supper for the purpose of raising funds to send 4-H Club boys and girls to A. & M. College to attend the short course which begins the last part of July and continues over into August.

Ice cream, cakes, soda water and lemonade were sold to those present and the receipts were gratifying to those in charge of the program. In addition to the sale of drinks and eats, a popularity contest was staged to select the prettiest girl at the gathering. Misses Alma Lampe and Myrtle Crockett were the contestants and at the close the judges declared it a tie with each girl receiving 847 votes. Visitors cast their votes at one cent each and each young lady had plenty of supporters.

No set program was planned for the supper. C. W. Lehmburg, county agent, spoke of the "Short Course" explaining the benefits to be derived from club members attending the summer session and taking advantage of these courses. Frank C. Dickey spoke on "Community Cooperation" praising the Bethel community for the loyal support given every progressive move in the county. At the conclusion of his talk he was appointed master of ceremonies and introduced the county candidates present. Each candidate was given a few minutes in which to solicit the votes of the Bethel people and tell them of their qualification to hold the office they are seeking.

The girls' club of Bethel came to Ballinger Saturday to conduct a pie and cake sale at Piggly Wiggly store to raise money for scholarships at A. & M. The boys clubs started soliciting hens in their community to stage a hen sale and let the proceeds apply for the same purpose.

Mr. Lehmburg spoke highly in his praise of the entertainment at Bethel and of the cooperative work being done by club members there towards sending the largest delegation in the county to the short course. The exact number of those who will attend is not known at present and will not be until the hen sale is over and the treasurer reports on how much money is on hand.

Ballinger to Send Dutches to Angelo

Efforts of the officials of the West Texas Exposition at San Angelo to make the 1930 exposition Sept. 22 to 27, valuable to every county in the territory are being encouraged in Ballinger by C. W. Lehmburg, W. C. McCarver and J. D. Motley, members of the West Texas advisory board of the exposition.

The Ballinger members have just been advised by Preston Y. Chumley, assistant manager of the exposition, that their help will be appreciated in furthering interest in the exposition in this vicinity.

Selection of a duchess to represent Ballinger in the colorful ceremony which will surround the coronation of the Queen of the West Texas Exposition before the grandstand at the exposition site on Friday evening, September 26, will be the local members' first step toward furthering the 1930 program. The duchess will select her maid of honor and they will be privileged to select their escorts, making a total of four persons to represent Ballinger in the coronation ceremony. It was explained in a letter received by the local members from the Exposition offices in San Angelo.

The local members will select the duchess at once. Immediate selection of the duchess and maid of honor to represent this community has been urged in order that widest possible publicity may be given our part in the Exposition program, the local advisory board members explained.

Any resident of this community interested in becoming an exhibitor or in taking any part whatever in the West Texas Exposition is urged to communicate at once with the local members of the West Texas advisory board.

A feeder lamb show, agricultural show, horse show, official rabbit and cav show, West Texas band and test, rodeo events, horse races, and a terrapin derby are features of the exposition program for 1930 about which the members of the advisory board will be able to supply information to any local citizen.

THE NEW BAND CLASS, which is to begin class work just as soon as each member has secured an instrument, isn't as large as hoped for. New material is needed badly to augment the local organization—The Ballinger Booster Band and the High School Band. High school band contests are furnishing much keener competition each year and a larger band with fuller instrumentation is becoming a vital necessity to successful competition. Popularity and opportunity go hand in hand with the boy and girl who have had musical training, and those beginning now should be able to assist the high school band and orchestra by the latter part of the school year. Dues are only $4.00 per month and instruments may be purchased on the installment plan for $29.00 each and upward, according to quality. Better to start on the cheapest than not start at all. A few second-hand instruments in good condition are available at from $15 to $34. One Alto and Bass will be furnished free to talent.

Everyone interested at all in joining the New Class will kindly meet at the Moody Music Store Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, July 20th.

For further information, call Homer Carsey at 677, or call the Moody Music Store. 18-2d.

Do you need work? If you do, call for Mr. Hunt at 111 Eighth Street. 19-1d

RID OF BAD TASTE

Georgia Man Tells How He Takes Black-Draught When Bilious.

Valdosta, Ga.—In telling how Theford's Black-Draught has helped to keep him well, Mr. O. A. Aldrich, of this city, says: "Black-Draught is a good medicine. I began taking it when just a boy, for biliousness and as a laxative."

"When I get bilious, my mouth has a bad taste and I get dizzy, feel light-headed. A few doses of Black-Draught usually make me feel like new. It seems to cleanse my system of impurities, my head gets clearer, and the bad taste is gone from my mouth."

"I am a rather healthy, strong man, taking very little medicine, except for the dizziness I mentioned."

"It is good to know that there is a good laxative like Black-Draught to take and give quick relief. Thousands of other men and women find Black-Draught a great help in relieving common ailments due to indigestion, constipation and biliousness."

Theford's Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality, finely powdered, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery. Easy to take—no disagreeable after-effects. Price 25 cents. No. 220

Isle of Pines Says Nuns Have Maps

(By Associated Press) SANTA FEE, Isle of Pines, July 19.—Rumors persist that Sisters of Charity who operate a citrus farm near here, have come into possession of several ancient maps indicating the location of a long-hidden hoard which is believed to consist of church property of great value.

Santa Fe, once the capital of this island, was sacked and burned by Sir Francis Drake late in the 16th century, so history tells us, "by way of singeing the beard of the King of Spain."

For years the rebuilt town was a rendezvous of buccaners and pirates. A mango grove at the northern end was the scene of many wild revels when the swash-bucklers of the Caribbean came ashore to divide their blood-stained loot.

Sword blades flashed and pirate duels were fought to the death. Beneath those mangoes nine unmarked mounds testify that the dead were buried where they fell. Hallowed ground could not sepulchre those who followed the black flag.

On certain nights the Cuban sky is marked by what the "Pimeros" term "El Camino de Santiago" or the road of St. James. It is a sort of Milky Way, and when it appears the mango grove is avoided by country folks. They say that it heralds the arrival of restless buccaner spirits who come to hold ghostly revels on their old stamping ground.

Many believe that the Isle of Pines is the locale of Stephenson's "Treasure Island." Its landmarks correspond with those in the entrancing story which has kept more than one youngster awake at night.

Cuba claims 50 per cent of all treasure trove, and it is said that the government recently made a "find" of its own. This "find," rumor had it, was made by convicts at the Isle of Pines prison who, while quarrying marble, came upon the entrance to a cave which was filled with mysterious chests.

Nothing was heard of the chests after they had been sent to Havana to be examined, so the rumor went. Whether there was any truth in this story is doubtful, but it has served to revive interest in pirate caches.

Alfalfa Injures Orchards

suit in district court which is still pending for specific performance and at the same time secured an injunction on City Attorney C. P. Shepherd to stop him from proceeding with the condemnation hearing on the smaller tract. A hearing was held in Ballinger before District Judge E. J. Miller, who dissolved the injunction and the condemnation hearing was held here Friday and Saturday with the above mentioned results. After the injunction was dissolved Attorneys Dickey and Crager appealed it to the supreme court where it is still on appeal and has not been disposed of.

The three commissioners to hear the case who were appointed by County Judge Paul Trimmer were Lon Mapes, chairman, Dee Oliver and J. E. Fowler.
