Dam Nears Completion; New Quarry is Opened

Engineer Claud Livingston reported excellent progress here during the past week on the dam and water reservoir. The masonry work proceeded fast during the week and with plenty of rock to work with it will only require about one week more to complete the masonry work. A new quarry has been uncovered and Sunday men started getting the first rock from this new location. Mr. Livingston could not say Sunday how successful the operation would be and was fearful that the stone was not up to standard and could not be taken from the quarry in large pieces due to capping. This same trouble was experienced in other quarries at first and later the stone was removed in pieces as large as could be handled. During the week another wing of dirt embankment was completed and rip rap placed on it ready for concrete to be poured.

With good working weather prevailing it will only be a short time until the complete project is completed and ready to turn over to the city. When the masonry spillway is complete only 2 gaps of dirt embankment are to be filled in and rip rapped and the job will be over with the exception of cleaning up. Night crews will be run this week moving dirt and filling in on the lower side of the new part of the dam. The entire crew working on the project is well organized and with plenty of machinery on the location the only delay will come from poor rock or from weather.

W. O. Woolsey, general superintendent for Brown & Root, spent several days here, leaving Sunday. He made a careful inspection of the project and expressed himself as being satisfied and expects the job to be completed in short order.

Many people visited the location Sunday to see the progress of the dam and found full crews going ahead with the work. So much time has been lost with rain and muddy grounds that no time is being lost by the engineer in charge to complete the job while the weather is ideal for working.

Other city departments made good reports for last week. At the city hall some repair work was being done. The floor in the auditorium which is peckering from being vided by a leak is being torn out and the contractors will lay new flooring. Paul G. Silber, architect, has condemned several items which will be repaired and made to meet all requirements of the original contract before the building is finally accepted by the city. Dirt is being hauled to the grounds about the city hall preparatory to landscaping the yard about the building. Furniture is being repaired and refinished to be put in the office of the city health department and shelving and other furniture is being placed in the work shops, the meter room and water department.

At the water plant repairs have been completed to the broken suction line. The tunnel has been refilled in the dirt embankment and rip rap replaced. Sprays have been installed in the irrigation line and drain cocks for freezing weather. These lines are being used to irrigate grass planted on water project and on grass lawns at the pump station.

The health department made one visit and established a quarantine on Hutchings Avenue for one case of infantile paralysis.

The street department dragged all the down-town alleys and the end of Eighth Street where the pavement ends. Twenty-seven loads of dirt were swept and hauled from the pavement during the week. Ten loads of rock were raked up and hauled from the dirt streets in town.

Other departments reported routine work with much being done by each.

Paul and Wanda Beard, children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beard, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Heywood, of Paint Rock, this week.

Wix Currie and Horace Gustavus spent the week-end here, visiting relatives. The boys are students at Simmons University, Abilene.

Santa Fe Employee Seriously Hurt Here

Thomas A. Davis, for a number of years gardener for the Santa Fe park here, was seriously injured Saturday morning when he fell from a motorcar near the Santa Fe section house. An ambulance was called and he was rushed to the Halley & Love Sanitarium where an examination disclosed he was in a critical condition.

Saturday afternoon Davis was taken to Temple to be placed under care of railroad company surgeons and word received here Sunday afternoon stated he was in a very dangerous condition. Mrs. Davis left immediately for her husband's bedside.

Davis was on the motor car Saturday with the rest of the section gang and when a short distance from the section house he fell and rolled a considerable distance from the tracks. When other employees reached him they found him bleeding from the mouth and nose and in an unconscious condition. He remained in the local hospital until removed to be placed on the afternoon train without regaining consciousness and it was feared that his skull had been fractured and he had blood clots on the brain.

J. J. Beck, Santa Fe agent, stated Monday morning that he had just heard from the hospital and the doctors reported Davis was resting well but held little hope for his recovery.

Relatives Sunday were trying to communicate with a son, Sam Davis, who recently enlisted in the United States marine corps and after a period of training is due to disembark tomorrow at Port au Prince, Haiti.

The injured man has been making Ballinger his home for many years. For the past five years he has been employed as gardener at the Santa Fe park, and in the winter works with the section crew out of Ballinger.

Legion Show Starts "Tiger Woman," And Pal Must Die At 7:45 Tonight

"She Loved the Other Man," the eleventh annual American Legion show here is the big entertainment feature tonight and tomorrow. The auditorium was being heated Monday morning and made ready for the big first night crowd. Big heaters were placed in the auditorium so that it could be made comfortable in case of bad weather.

A dress rehearsal Sunday completed production and all details are in shape as far as the post is concerned. Advance sale of tickets is the best ever reported on the day of a post show here. A large percentage of the reserved seats having been sold in advance. Three hundred seats on the right and left wings of the hall will be placed on sale at general admission tonight, these selling at 25 cents for children and 35 cents for adults. No one will be turned away as the house will accommodate all who desire to witness the performance.

An audience for Tuesday night also is assured since the Farmers & Merchants State Bank will be host to the faculty and football squad of the Ballinger high school, and the First National and Ballinger State banks hosts to the pep squad. The Pat Williams Post will entertain the Boy Scout troops and Camp Fire Girls units. A large number of additional seats also have been sold for this performance. There are plenty of seats left for this show, however, and there is little danger of a complete sell-out.

The show is a light comedy, especially suited for amateurs and has a strong cast of players. Specialties will be offered between the acts, a male quartet singing Southern and humorous songs, and Miss Mada Jane Tittle caricaturing and cartooning. An orchestra directed by Ernest Moody will supply the musical interludes and the overture. Stage settings are courtesy of King-Holt, and the feminine costumes are furnished by The Hub. The curtains will part promptly interludes and the overture. Stage settings are courtesy of King-Holt, and the feminine costumes

The city of Ballinger gradually is getting the streets in good condition. The installation of a new water distribution system during the summer left most of the unpaved thoroughfares in bad shape as ditches were refilled with loose dirt and much rock and dirt left in the streets. Many loads of rocks and soil have been hauled off and during fair weather drags and maintainers have been operated full speed to smooth the grades. Most of the streets inside the city limits are in fairly good shape now and with a few more weeks of fair weather all will be ready for traffic.

Apparently most of the citizens are trying to cooperate with the local firemen to eliminate hazards by inspecting their flues before freezing weather. A number of cases have been reported by firemen where defects were found and which are being repaired by the owners. Others have removed much trash and refuse from their homes and garages and burned it. Such cooperation will have its effect and this will result in a lighter fire loss at the end of the year. The firemen appreciate this cooperation but realizing that the movement has not been general are still urging that all residents attend to this routine before it slips their memory.

Citizens of Ballinger are asked to join in a union service Wednesday night at the First Methodist Church. The auditorium should be packed for this occasion as all denominations of the city will be represented. Singers representing the various faiths gathered at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon and arranged the musical program, assuring those who attend that Thanksgiving service a fine chorus for the anthems and songs of praise. Everyone has much to be thankful for this year and should join this service in spirit of praise, giving thanks to the Giver of all things.

Do not forget when you attend the Thanksgiving service Wednesday night at 7:30 to take an offering for charity. No public collection will be taken but all money placed in the plates will be turned over to the local charity board for use in attending to the needy here this winter. If everyone does his part even making only a small donation the total sum should be sufficient for long time. These collections usually are small, however, and the board is forced to canvass the city to raise sufficient funds for its treasury.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Jago Goldstein, Academy of Medicine

EPILEPSY

Epilepsy is a disease of which the ultimate cause or causes still remain unknown. The disease is chronic in nature, the brain being the seat of the disorder. Epilepsy may exist in either severe or mild form. Clinically three grades are recognized and designated as the grand mal, petit mal, and the so-called psychic epilepsy.

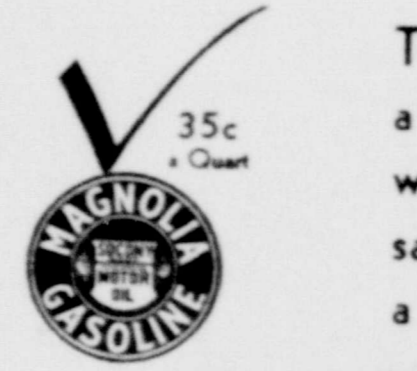

These grades are differentiated principally on the degree of loss of consciousness and of convulsion that the afflicted one suffers. In grand mal the loss of consciousness is complete and may last for several minutes. In petit mal the loss of consciousness may resemble a momentary faint.

The convulsive seizures in epilepsy are often very violent. Because of this the patient is liable to injure himself grievously. The suddenness with which the seizure sets in causes the sufferer to fall without warning.

During the period of unconsciousness, when the muscles are rigid and there are many convulsive movements, the epileptic is liable to bite and injure his cheeks and tongue.

Little can be done for the sufferer during a seizure to minimize its severity or to shorten its duration. Something, however, may be done to keep him from injuring himself. Thus, tight clothing should be loosened, and a pad of some sort, in an emergency made out of a tightly folded handkerchief, should be inserted between his teeth.

A true cure for epilepsy is still unavailable, though a number of drugs are used with much benefit to the sufferers. The treatment of epilepsy, however, involves much more than drugs, and each case needs careful and individual study.

Contracts have been awarded to build a dam for no good reason. The Beaver then becomes a hat. Now is there any sense in that?

SUNDOWN STORIES

THE CLOCK'S MAGIC

By Mary Graham Bonner

It had been a long, long time since the Little Black Clock had taken the children to see the Grandfather Clock who had given him the magic in the first place. They wanted to hear him tell again about the time when the Little Black Clock had accepted the magic.

So the old Grandfather Clock, who, too, could not longer tell the ordinary, regular time, told them about the day when the Little Black Clock had first felt he could not bear to go on and tell the usual time. He had felt he wanted to be able to turn the time backward and have lovely things happen all over again.

"I knew," the old Grandfather Clock told the children, "a fine maker of magic. He had quantities of it but he would give it to very, very few."

"I managed to persuade him to give me some for our Little Black Clock, and the magic maker said that he would have to take his choice about accepting the magic which would allow him to turn the time backward or forward, or keeping the usual time."

"He decided, as you know, in a second. So the magic was put into his works and he agreed to let his hands always point to seven o'clock when people were watching him."

"My great-grandfather and his great-great-grandfather had been styled as young clocks. We had been in the same shop and I wanted to do something for the great-great-grandson of my old friend.

"But it was only during the past year that he was able to share his adventures with others."

"That was because he asked me about it one time—and well-do you want to stay a little longer, or come back tomorrow night and hear that story?"

"We do," John and Peggy answered.

"You've heard it all before, but I suppose you want to hear it again."

"Yes, please," the children answered.

SPORTS

Every Ballinger football fan is wondering what Lampasas has up their sleeve that has made such a successful year for them. The team has not been scouted and about all the information available is hearsay at the present time. The success of the team, however, has hinged around two brothers, one playing fullback and the other end. This fullback weighs 130 pounds and no defense has stopped him this year. Other coaches of teams that have played Lampasas this year state that he is as good as anybody's college fullback and that the entire offense is centered around him and a passing attack to his younger brother.

A defense will be created this week which will try to stop this big fullback and with Jones in good shape backing up the line and Reese to support him it is expected his going will be harder than at any other time this year. Reneau will be needed in the game badly, however, to stop the passing attack which is expected. The Lampasas offense is from spin plays and other tricky formations and it is hard to tell who has the ball and where it is going. The Bearcats will center their defense on every man playing his position and none pulling to head off anything at another place on the line.

Coach Wright has not taken stock of his club yet but most of the men are apparently in pretty good shape following the hard contest with Winters. Reneau has some badly crippled ribs and is the only doubtful man on the team Monday. It is thought that he may be able to start the game, however, with proper protection for the injured ribs.

Brady's offense worked fine against the Lampasas team and they were able to pile up a score of 20 points, however, they could not stop the Lampasas running attack. Remember that Brady's defense held us to three first downs which indicates that the Bearcats will have to be much better than they were Armistice Day to stop the onslaught of the Lampasas team.

The two teams will divide receipts 50-50 after expense is out and the winner will get a chance the following week to play Junction in the first sectional game triets 11 and 12.

In case the special train is run to Lampasas there will be a large number of pep squad girls who will not be able to pay their way on the train and already several have been taken care of by one local firm. Others will be expected to see that two or three get to the game as the rooting squad will be needed and lots of help to the boys in waging a bitter fight for 60 minutes.

As the roll was called each member answered by "What Club Work Means to Me." New officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Ralph Vancil, president; Mrs. Robert Chandler, vice president; and Mrs. Irwin Mathis, secretary.

A beautiful bouquet was given Mrs. Bill Mathis, out-going president, as a token of appreciation for what she has done to help make the club a success.

The club then adjourned to meet again the fourth Thursday in November.

BRANDENBURG MEN ARE WARNED TO WAKE BERLIN

(By Associated Press)
BRANDENBURG, Germany, Nov. 24.—To show local residents what they would be up against in Berlin, the provincial governor ordered large posters put up in all labor offices throughout the province of Brandenburg. The posters read as follows:

"Do not go to Berlin. There are 348,410 unemployed. Among them are 75,188 metal workers, 29,290 unskilled laborers, 35,607 clerks and 5,707 technicians. If you go, you will become one of them."

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation
When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely. The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles. So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

Insurance Clerk's War Play Here as a Talkie

"Journey's End" is the attraction today and tomorrow at the Palace Theatre. This Tiffany-Gainsborough all-dialog picture is an adaptation, said to be absolutely faithful, of R. C. Sherriff's play. Sherriff, you know, is the young London insurance clerk who wrote a play to be performed by the male members of his rowing club. The entertainment committee didn't care for it, but a year and a half later it was discovered by James Whale, who finally brought it to the attention of Maurice Browne, who, in turn, eventually got together enough money to produce it professionally—and thereby made fortunes for several people.

"Journey's End" is now produced by arrangement with Maurice Browne and through him were the services of Colin Clive obtained for the leading role of Capt Stanhope. Clive was loaned from the stage production of "Journey's End" in London for eight weeks, and in that time made the round trip from London to Hollywood and put Stanhope on celluloid.

Others in the cast are David Manners, Ian Maclaren, Anthony Bushell, Billy Bevan, Thomas Whiteley, Charles Gerrard, Jack Pitcairn, Warner Klingler and Robert A'Dair.

Bebe Daniels Coming in "Lawful Larceny"

"Lawful Larceny," Radio Pictures production starring Bebe Daniels, opens at the Palace Theatre Wednesday for two-day run.

According to advance notices, the picture is as intriguing as the title, presenting Miss Daniels in a new role—that of a wife whose husband tumbles from the "straight and narrow."

Kenneth Thomson, stage favorite, plays opposite Miss Daniels as the husband. Lowell Sherman, debonair Lothario of "He Knew Women," enacts a featured part. He also directed the picture.

"Lawful Larceny" was adapted to the screen from a stage play by Samuel Shipman.

The cast includes Olive Tell, Purnell Pratt, Lou Payne, Bert Roach, Maude Turner Gordon, Helene Millard and Charles Coleman.

LISTEN! LISTEN!

Don't you hear that Mission Sunday school band? They are going to have a Christmas fruit tree. Won't there be many little hearts go pit-a-pat! Come on everybody, let's help with a few pennies.

We go every Sunday evening at 3:00 o'clock. We study the Bible and exchange views on this, that and the other. We are doing our best to make every child's heart glad. With the cooperation of everyone who can help a little it will be a success.

Bring or send your pennies or fruit by December 20 to the Retold filling stations, which is across the street from the oil mill, c/o E. L. Sargeant. Be here everyone of you. These mission workers are looking forward to having a good time. So come over and join or visit us. Let's help those children push the battle against sin, gain the victory, and reach the eternal shore and find a great reward. We as a band of little folks think we deserve some praise for being so courageous. We are taught to pray in our Sunday school. How about you grown-up people? And we are taught to love everybody. Doesn't that sound good. And also we are taught that God loves a cheerful giver. Be on your watch—your purse strings might get fastened. We don't mean our town hasn't always been a liberal town and they won't forget us at this stage of the game. Say, Ballinger is no slacker town and the grown-up people are not going to let any of our little mission workers' names fail to be called on the Christmas fruit tree.

Separate Returns Allowed in Texas

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The United States supreme court today ruled that the husband and the wife may file separate income tax returns from the states of Texas, Arizona, Louisiana and Washington.

The government's contention had been that the husband alone must file returns for both.

LOCAL HUNTERS RETURN FROM SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Joe Neff, A. B. Stobaugh and R. R. Williams returned Monday from a hunting trip in the Chisos mountains bringing back three big bucks, one for each hunter.

The Ballinger men report a fine time and a wonderful hunt. Other game aside from deer was plentiful. Mr. Neff captured and brought back alive a javalina which he intends to feed and raise if possible. He stated that they captured several but most of them died soon after they were taken. The one he brought back to Ballinger is eating alright and apparently in good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Reese have returned from Galveston, where they resided for the past several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Gregory, of Stamford, visited relatives and friends in Ballinger Sunday.

Feeding the Pullets for Winter Eggs

(Written by W. S. Caudle, Ballinger)

I have practiced the following method for two years. That ought to prove something. At least the practice has given me plenty of winter eggs from my pullets.

During the first six weeks I feed a good commercial mash. Then I gradually change to a home-mixed growing mash, the composition of which is as follows: 14 lbs. bran, 30 lbs. corn meal, 24 pounds grey shorts, 10 lbs. alfalfa and bone meal, 8 lbs. meat and bone meal, 10 lbs. ground oats, 8 lbs. dried buttermilk, one per cent each fine charcoal and oyster shells, one-half of one per cent fine salt.

The growing pullets thrive and do well on this mixture. It is $1 less per 100 pounds than any commercial mash. I keep this mash before them all the time. A mixture of wheat, oats and milo is kept before them all the time in hoppers. When they have reached the age of five months, I change gradually to a good commercial mash.

Drinking water is also kept before them continuously in galvanized water troughs with automatic float valves.

Upon reaching the age of six or eight weeks I put all the pullets in my combination laying house. The pullets are kept alone, apart from the hens. A double yard system is maintained, keeping green feed growing for them constantly. Wheat and oats are sown for winter green feed. In spring, sunflowers, sudan grass and hegari are sown for summer green feed.

I have 400 pullets hatched March 3, March 28 and April 30. These pullets were producing 85 eggs the latter part of August. I expect them to be laying close to 75 per cent later this fall. This is a simple system. Any one can adopt and practice it. Good stock, good feed, good houses and good management are the requirements.

SMALLER COTTON CROPS

Mean

BIGGER COTTON PRICES

Reduce your cotton planting—devote a part of your acreage to the cultivation of a vegetable garden if possible, to dairy cattle, to hogs and poultry. And don't overlook to plant plenty feed—why not create a one year, or two year feed supply.

Results—your table freshly supplied from your own farm; stable branches of farming on which to rely when the cotton crop fails, or low cotton prices—enrichment of the soil through livestock herds and crop rotation—a SURE year-round income instead of uncertain one season profits.

Surely these are sufficient reasons for adding variety to your farming activities—it certainly is the most practical, in fact the only way, to raise the price of cotton.
