

LETTERS.

Such a little thing—a letter,
Yet so much it may contain;
Written thoughts and mute expressions,
Faint of pleasure, fraught with pain.

LONE HOLLOW;
Or, The Peril of the Pennoys.

A Thrilling and Romantic Story of Love and Adventure.

BILL," "FISHER JOE" AND OTHER STORIES.

CHAPTER XXVI.—CONTINUED.

He paused. She made no attempt to interrupt him, and he proceeded:
" When you put in an appearance at Lone Hollow I realized that my chance of winning the heiress was lessened. I knew how you hated me, and I felt alarmed. I wished you away, and where but in this house—" was as startling as the appearance of a ghost.

Lura saw her mistake the moment she crossed the threshold. She rang for Lucy, the colored maid, who, assisted by Miss Joyce, succeeded in conveying the fainting woman to a bed in another part of the great house.

After a brief examination he regarded her gravely, and said:
" Had a fracture here that will necessitate the utmost quiet for at least a fortnight."

the widow and those who might choose to call themselves her friends.
Mrs. Penroy was far from well, and was at the present time confined to her room with a sudden severe cold.

OFFICIAL CORRUPTION.
The Shameful System of Politics Introduced by the Republican Party.
If a down-trodden subject of Great Britain, the blind worshiper of stars and garters, were to ask a free-born American to point out the controlling factor in our political system; the power that brought men into prominence and gave them the chief places of the Government, how would the free-born American answer him?

to make: "Oh, yes, I suppose there is a good deal of corruption in politics.
But then you can't help it. It has always been so. And of course the reports are greatly exaggerated. And then, we seem to be getting along pretty well. I guess there's no great harm done."

homa in big, big blocks must com-

—The operations of the trust affect the price or the supply of sugar in of the organization will not permit the people to forget that the trust was scheme is illegal and that the combination is enabled to control almost the entire business in the United States and to suppress competition in prices by the high duties on imported refined sugar.—N. Y. Times.

Only One Thing Lacking.
The Herald notices with much pleasure that most of the Administration newspapers speak in the highest terms of the late Postmaster Pearson, of New York City. Mr. Pearson's devotion to duty, his scrupulous regard for the public service, and his consistent opposition to the spoils system and its creatures are fittingly praised. In short, nothing is lacking from these panegyrics save a concluding remark in some such fashion as this: "Though a Republican, though an appointee on previous occasions of both Republican and Democratic Presidents, and though almost universally desired by the people of New York City as his own successor, he failed of reappointment under Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States, who was elected on a platform pledging him and his party to an honest and consistent support of Civil-Service reform."—Chicago News.
Whither We Are Tending.
The eloquent Patrick Henry said:
"We can only judge the future by the past."
Look at the past—
When Egypt went down, 3 per cent.
of her population owned 97 per cent.
of her wealth. The people were starved to death.
When Babylon went down, 2 per cent.
of the population owned all the wealth. The people were starved to death.
When Persia went down, 1 per cent.
of the population owned the land.
When Rome went down, 1,800 men owned all the known world.
For the past twenty years the United States has rapidly followed in the steps of these old nations. Here are the figures:
In 1850, capitalists owned 37 per cent.
of the Nation's wealth.
In 1870, they owned 63 per cent.—
Boston Progress.
The Battle Not Yet Ended.
Warner Miller declares that the battle for protectionism is not yet ended.
Warner Miller is correct. The striking cotton-mill operatives of New England, the dismissed iron-workers of Reading, the half-starved coal-miners and half-paid foundrymen of Pennsylvania, the disappointed and disgusted wage-workers of all industries, in all parts of the country, who have been told so often by the demagogues of protectionism that high tariff means high wages, are almost unanimously in accord with the opinion of Warner Miller. And the agitators of the West, who, failing to discover the promised home markets for their products, and discovering, in its stead, that in almost every legislature the spirit of monopoly is striving to cut off and restrict access to the markets of our own country for our own producers, are coming to the same opinion. Warner Miller is correct.—Chicago Globe.

ROAD NOTICE. STATE OF KANSAS, Office of County Clerk, April 8, 1889. Notice is hereby given that on the 8th day of April, 1889, a petition signed by L. Becker, and 23 others was presented to the Board of County Commissioners of the county and State at a public hearing for the change of a certain road, described as follows, viz:

HUMBLE BEGINNINGS.

Great Men Who Rose from Scarcity and Poverty to Celebrity.

It will be recollected that one of Sir Walter Scott's sayings was, that "Whatever might be said about luck, it is skill that leads to fortune."

There can be no doubt of this as a general principle. Few self-indulgent and apathetic men do well in any time of life.

Prof. Heyne, of Gottingen, one of the greatest classical scholars of his own or any other age, was the son of a poor weaver, and for many years had to struggle with the most depressing poverty.

The elder Ope, whose talent for painting was well appreciated, was originally a working carpenter in Cornwall, and was discovered by Dr. Wolcott—otherwise Peter Pindar—working as a Sawyer at the bottom of a saw-pit.

Amenius Saccophorus, founder of the Mystic Philosophy at Alexandria, was born in poverty, and originally earned his subsistence by carrying sacks of wheat—whence the latter part of his name.

ECONOMICAL LIVING.

Men Who Eke Out an Existence on Three Dollars a Week.

While some people who imagine they are poor are squabbling over whether or not they can live on $20 per week others of whom I have knowledge are living on $3 a week.

With a good set of stakes and a line the rows can be made straight; and as nearly, or quite, all the seed drills are provided with markers that will seeding one row mark the next, with care in getting the rows straight at the start, they can be left so.

One cold day during the war a fugitive slave was standing before a fire in Washington, warming himself.

The mortality of the Chinese residing in New York is greater, in proportion to their number, than that of any other race, though most of them, says the New York Sun, eat American food.

A burglar, arrested in Boston, had on his breast an India ink picture of a gravestone, on which was marked "In memory of my father and mother."

TOILET ACCESSORIES.

The Latest in Gloves, Hosiery, Neck-Wear and Dress Trimmings.

Gloves for morning walks and general wear are of dressed kid corded on the back—not widely embroidered—and fastened smoothly on the wrists by four large gilt buttons; they are either tan-colored, gray or black.

Black hosiery will remain in favor for general use, but colored stockings are again chosen to match house gowns and full-dress toilets.

For the neck are finely plaited collarettes of crepe or silk muslin, lisse, India silk or lace, in colors or white, turned down around the low-throated bodice and falling in a jabot almost down to the waist line.

IN STRAIGHT ROWS.

A System of Planting That Will Reduce the Work of Cultivation.

It is an item to reduce the cultivation as much as possible—or rather, to reduce the work of cultivating.

With a good set of stakes and a line the rows can be made straight; and as nearly, or quite, all the seed drills are provided with markers that will seeding one row mark the next, with care in getting the rows straight at the start, they can be left so.

The Position Was Open.

One cold day during the war a fugitive slave was standing before a fire in Washington, warming himself.

The mortality of the Chinese residing in New York is greater, in proportion to their number, than that of any other race, though most of them, says the New York Sun, eat American food.

A burglar, arrested in Boston, had on his breast an India ink picture of a gravestone, on which was marked "In memory of my father and mother."

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

Salt dissolved in alcohol will remove grease spots from cloth.

Pulverize about equal parts of common salt and alum, put the mixture on cotton batting, and apply same in the cavity of tooth and relief will generally follow.

Umbrellas will last much longer if, when they are wet, they are placed handle downward to dry.

Onions are about the best nerve known. No medicine is really so efficacious in cases of nervous prostration, and they tone up a worn-out system in a very short time.—Green's Fruit Grower.

An inflamed bunion should be poulticed, and larger shoes worn. Iodine twelve grains, lard or spermaceti ointment half an ounce, make a capital ointment for bunions. It should be rubbed on two or three times a day.

For dyspepsia pour one quart of cold water on two tablespoonfuls of un-slaughted lime, let it stand a few minutes, bottle and cork, and when clear it is ready for use.

Salt Fish with Cream.—Soak a pound and a half of fish over night. Simmer an hour and a half, then drain and shred. Melt one large tablespoonful of butter and mix in it a tablespoonful of flour; then, add a quart of hot milk and the fish. Add the beaten egg and serve.—Good Housekeeping.

Granulated Wheat Gems.—Stir two and one-half cups of fine granulated wheat slowly into a liquid, formed of one cup of water and one cup of milk, seasoned with a saltspoonful of salt; then beat rapidly until the arm is weary, and fill very hot iron gem pans, well buttered, giving the batter a beating while filling and bake immediately in a hot oven.—Boston Cook Book.

Considering that the chief causes of sleeplessness are mental worry and the want of a due amount of exercise and fresh air, the suggestion is made to sufferers to observe the ordinary rules of hygiene relating to such matters, to take food and drink in moderation, and to avoid of an evening the use of tea, coffee and tobacco.

A savory and seasonable dish is codfish balls, made as follows: Pick fine one quart of codfish, let it simmer on the back of the stove fifteen minutes, drain off the water, then boil gently fifteen minutes; also boil six good-sized potatoes, mash fine to mix while hot with the fish; season with salt and pepper, add a teaspoonful of butter; lastly, beat three eggs well and stir through the fish and potato, drop into hot lard from a spoon or form into balls and fry; lay a napkin on the platter to absorb the fat.

THE COMPLEXION.

Suggestions for Ladies Who Wish to Have a Transparent Skin.

Those who possess a good complexion, and those desirous of possessing such, know that the winds are to be guarded against as much as possible; therefore, they never go abroad unless veiled.

To keep the pores of the skin open there is nothing that will do this work as well as soap and water. Rain water is the best where it can be conveniently used. Have the water quite warm, and with some white Castile soap make a suds, with which wash the face thoroughly, then rinse in warm, clear water, and dry on a soft towel.

It is particularly important that the blood be kept in good condition to insure a healthy skin. Impure blood will soon destroy the finest complexion. A teaspoonful of the flower of sulphur in a cup of milk, taken the first thing in the morning for three successive mornings, then omit three mornings, then take it for three more mornings, is claimed to be a wonderful purifier of the blood.

"Sweet Home."

"There is no place like home" runs the old song, and we know how true it is. Go where you will—encounter men in whatever circumstances we may—we shall be apt to find that a reference to their homes will immediately secure their attention, and will give you favor in their eyes.

The impressions made in the home are lasting. A mother's words never pass from the mind. A father's counsel remains fresh so long as life lasts.

How important, therefore, that the home be maintained intact as long as possible—a haven of loving counsel, of peace and joy to the growing children. How sad when death invades, when the fire goes out on the hearth, and the family is scattered. What the children will by the death of a parent only those realize who have grown up without that love and advice which a parent alone can bestow.

No doubt tens of thousands of parents have found premature graves, who might have lived years of usefulness, had they but known what to do.

There are tens of thousands of parents to-day in agony of mind through fear of death from kidney disease, who do not know they are doctoring only symptoms—much as wakeness, nervousness, dizziness, feeling one day an all-gone one another, dropsy, weak heart action, pneumonia, neuralgia, fickle appetite, etc., while the real trouble is poisoned blood caused by diseased kidneys.

Doctors publicly admit that they can not cure advanced kidney disease; they are too timid to use Warner's Safe Cure because it is so advertised a remedy, consequently, unless you use your own good judgment, secure and use Warner's Safe Cure, a specific, which has proved itself in tens of thousands of cases to be all it is represented, your home, through your death, will be broken up and your loved ones deprived of that which money can not purchase or friends supply.

Already too many loving parents, noble, kind and true, have gone to premature graves through ignorance of their condition and the bigotry of physicians. It is time to cry a halt, and we beg of you, for the love of your home and the duty you owe yourself, to give this matter your careful and conscientious consideration.

The Climate of Australia.

Night in Australia! How impossible to describe its beauty! Heaven seems, in that new world, so much nearer to earth! Every star stands out so bright and so particular, as if fresh from the time when the Maker willed it; and the moon, like a large, silvery sun—the least objection to which is it shines so distinct and so still. Now and then a sound breaks the silence, but a sound so much in harmony with the solitude that it only deepens its charms.

An Appeal for Assistance.

The man who is charitable to himself will listen to the mere appeal for assistance made by his stomach, or his liver, in the shape of divers dyspeptic qualms and uneasy sensations in the regions of the gland that secretes his bile.

WIFE—"Why were you so long at the front door last night, John? Why didn't you sing out?" Husband—"That was just the trouble. I couldn't strike the right key."

There is nothing so valuable to us as health, but we do not realize this until we are deprived of it. How many of our readers awake in the morning with dull pains in the back and head, and find it a hard task to perform daily duties!

WEALTH, after all, is a relative thing, since he that has little, and wants less, is richer than he that has much, but wants more.

This is the age of wonders and the average American citizen is no longer surprised at any thing. If you want to experience that sensation, however, just write to B. F. Johnson & Co., 1009 Main street, Richmond, Va., and hear what they have to say of the success of some of their agents.

THE GREAT DAY. Celebration of the Washington Centennial at New York.

A Great Crowd and Magnificent Street Pageant—President Harrison's Address—Services at St. Paul's Church—The Old States in Line.

New York, May 1.—The moment the centennial exercises at the sub-treasury began yesterday the military parade started up Broadway from Pine street on its triumphant march with General Schofield commanding.

The parade was led by Major-General J. M. Schofield, accompanied by his staff and corps of aides. The right of the line was given to the West Point cadets, 400 strong, who were followed by the regulars under Major-General Howard, and these constituted the first division.

Delaware—750 men, Governor Benjamin T. Biggs commanding and staff; First regiment, Colonel George W. Marshall.

Pennsylvania—500 men, Governor James A. Beaver commanding and staff; second brigade, Brigadier-General John A. Wiley.

New Jersey—700 men, Governor Robert S. Green commanding and staff.

Georgia—35 men, Governor John B. Gordon commanding and staff; the militia being the Governor's personal guard only.

Connecticut—500 men, Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley commanding and staff; Fourth regiment, Colonel Thomas L. Watson.

attended to me with the most courteous kindness, omitting no attention that could make my stay among you pleasant and gratifying.

I have realized that there was that in this occasion and in all these interesting incidents which has made it so profoundly impressive to my mind which was above and greater than any living man.

The occasion and all its incidents will be memorable, not only in the history of your city, but in the history of our country.

The committee having in charge the execution of the program, the most of this demonstration, evidence of their confidence in my physical endurance.

I congratulate you to-day as one of the instructive and interesting features of this occasion, that you have seen the great thoroughfares, dedicated to trade, have closed their doors.

Let me add a thought due to our country's future. Perhaps never have we been so well equipped for war upon land as now, and we have seen the time when our people were more smitten with the love of peace.

At St. Paul's Church, the centennial exercises yesterday were conducted by Rt. Rev. Henry C. Potter.

At eight o'clock the committee on States escorted the President from the State Avenue Hotel, accompanied by the Chief Justice and members of the Cabinet.

The following was the order of exercises in the church: First, recessional hymn; second, "Our Father, etc.;" third, Psalm lxxvi.

CHICAGO, May 1.—After the close of the centennial fireworks display on the lake front last night a rush was made to get into the park, where a terrible crush resulted.

GUTHRIE, I. T., May 3.—The surveyors employed by the Town Council finished their work in laying off the city yesterday, and the marshal immediately proceeded to clear the streets of the frame houses and tents that obstructed them.

The harbor was literally alive with sailing craft of every description. In and out the main channel of the harbor boomed, as the Dispatch sped her course.

Rear-Admiral Jouett went on board his flagship, the Chicago, at seven o'clock. The general formation of the line was a column consisting of the naval division, the revenue division and the yacht division in the order named.

At eight o'clock the ships were dressed "rainbow fashion," with the flag of the Secretary of the Navy at maintop of the Chicago and the flag of the Admiral of the Navy at the mainmast of the Boston.

It was 11:15 when the start of the Dispatch to the Killa was announced by guns fired from the fort.

Then another report from a cannon set every one in action. This was the signal for the Chicago to cast anchor and prepare to move.

Those on board the many vessels, with heads uncovered, gave hearty cheers at the Dispatch steamed slowly by.

As the Dispatch came opposite the Chicago the entire fleet of over 400 steamers blew their whistles.

At 12:30 when the Chicago had got well into the river she fired a signal gun and the real naval parade began.

NEW YORK, April 30.—At seven o'clock yesterday morning the President, accompanied by his family, left the White House for the Metropolitan Opera House to review the naval demonstration.

CENTENNIAL BALL. The Metropolitan Opera House the Scene of Unequaled Splendor—How the Quadrille Was Led Off—An Overcrowded Room.

NEW YORK, April 30.—In the minds of many of those who thronged New York in honor of the Washington inauguration centennial the greatest event of all was the grand centennial ball which took place at the Metropolitan Opera House last night.

The harbor was literally alive with sailing craft of every description. In and out the main channel of the harbor boomed, as the Dispatch sped her course.

THE CLOSING SCENES. The Centennial Celebration Closed With a Grand Civic Parade—Thousands of Adopted Citizens in Line.

The harbor was literally alive with sailing craft of every description. In and out the main channel of the harbor boomed, as the Dispatch sped her course.

Rear-Admiral Jouett went on board his flagship, the Chicago, at seven o'clock. The general formation of the line was a column consisting of the naval division, the revenue division and the yacht division in the order named.

At eight o'clock the ships were dressed "rainbow fashion," with the flag of the Secretary of the Navy at maintop of the Chicago and the flag of the Admiral of the Navy at the mainmast of the Boston.

It was 11:15 when the start of the Dispatch to the Killa was announced by guns fired from the fort.

Then another report from a cannon set every one in action. This was the signal for the Chicago to cast anchor and prepare to move.

Those on board the many vessels, with heads uncovered, gave hearty cheers at the Dispatch steamed slowly by.

As the Dispatch came opposite the Chicago the entire fleet of over 400 steamers blew their whistles.

At 12:30 when the Chicago had got well into the river she fired a signal gun and the real naval parade began.

As Mr. Hart's remark on the other side of the street in his Washington retreat a complacent smile overtook and softened his features.

The scenes in the supper room can not be described safely in a newspaper. Never since the palace of the Tuileries was invaded in 1789 by the sans culottes have such startling contrasts been witnessed in similar circumstances.

CHICAGO, May 3.—The organization of the American Live-Stock Commission Company was completed yesterday at a meeting here.

CHICAGO, May 3.—All doubt that the lunatic Robert Burns was murdered by attendants in the Cook County insane asylum was removed when a post-mortem examination showed that the poor fellow had two ribs broken, his breast bone smashed, and had suffered injuries apparently from a series of kicks.
