Gore Blames High Tariff With Part of Depression

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, July 23.—United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, addressed the Texas legislature today, blaming part of the depression now existing on the high tariff which has interrupted international trade.

The blind senator said an Oklahoma farmer told him the farmers did not need rain but good rabbit dogs.

Gore said a farmer would break his back trying to lift fifty cents worth of oats.

PASTOR RECALLS EARLY DAY AT CAMP MEETING

(By Associated Press)
GAINESVILLE, Tex., July 23.—Memories of his early days as a struggling young circuit rider were recalled by Bishop Hiram A. Boaz of Houston, presiding officer of the North Texas Methodist conference, south, as he engaged in a revival meeting at Dexter, 25 miles northeast of Gainesville.

Bishop Boaz preached twice daily to his rural audiences, accepting invitations of the laymen to chicken dinners and enjoying the quiet atmosphere of the isolated village of some 200 persons.

The bishop had a pulpit roughly constructed of timbers, covered with a brush arbor, and his congregation sat on board benches in the open air.

C. H. Fitch, of San Angelo, was in Ballinger Wednesday looking after business for the American Automobile Association. A campaign is being started here for members in a local club and the first member was signed up Wednesday afternoon.

Christoval Program Ready for Baptists

Rev. E. D. Dunlap, pastor of the Park Heights Baptist Church, San Angelo, was here Wednesday afternoon in the interest of the Baptist encampment to be held at Christoval, August 7 to 16. Rev. Dunlap is devoting much time to advertising the encampment and expects one of the largest crowds ever to attend that gathering.

A good program with some of the outstanding workers of the denomination in the state to be present, besides plenty of recreation and entertainment, will attract many.

Joe Trussell, of Brownwood, is in charge of the music and his wife will be at the piano for all song services. Three hundred song books will be furnished by a Dallas man and the music will be a big feature of the encampment.

Recreational activities will be directed by playground experts. Croquet, water sports, tennis, etc., are to be enjoyed daily with plenty of room provided for everyone.

In commenting on the program, Rev. Dunlap had the following to say:

"One of the strongest programs that can be arranged is in line for you at the encampment this coming session, August 7-16. Some of those that you will hear on the program are: Dr. I. E. Gates, First Baptist Church, San Antonio; Dr. R. L. Powell, San Angelo; Rev. R. E. Day, Big Spring; Dr. A. E. Prince, Brownwood; Rev. P. F. Squires, Coleman; Rev. M. M. Fullmer, Ozona; Dr. M. E. Davis, Brownwood; Dr. N. A. Moore, Abilene; T. C. Gardner, Dallas; and J. N. Barnette, Nashville. There will be many more on the program as good as these.

"Big Chief" T. C. Gardner and J. N. Barnette are almost a whole encampment themselves. You will have a chance to hear each of these almost every day. With such men as these and many other pastors and workers from all over this part of Texas and from the South, the inspirational side of the encampment will be the best ever.

"There will be a 'Pastors' Retreat every day when the pastors will meet, discuss and pray for the work of Texas and Southern Baptists. These meetings led by pastors who love God and a lost world will be a treat to all present. You cannot afford to miss the inspiration and old-fashioned religion of this meeting on the Concho."

All Road Work is Progressing Fast

G. M. Garrett, resident engineer for the state highway department, returned here Wednesday afternoon after a trip of inspection to road projects in Rannels, Coleman and Concho counties.

A surveying crew from the Ballinger office has been placed in Coleman county to survey the route from Rough Creek, 4 miles south of Novice, to a mile north of Novice. This stretch of road is to be improved soon after the survey is completed, the right-of-way accepted and plans made for the construction. A contract is due to be let on July 30 on the first stretch of improvement on highway 9 in Coleman county when grading and drainage structures will be contracted for the city pavement in the town of Coleman to Rough Creek near Novice.

The only work under way in Concho county at present is the finishing of the bridges over Kickapoo Creek and Frog Pond on highway 9 between San Angelo and Brady. Cement work will be completed on these two spans Saturday of this week unless some unforeseen obstacle is encountered.

Bids are being asked by the state highway department on grading and drainage structures on highway 9 from the Rannels county line to a point 6.5 miles south of Paint Rock, total distance being slightly over 10 miles. Bids on this work will be opened by the commission on July 30. Bidders can see plans at the office of G. M. Garrett here or in the state highway department offices at Austin. All preliminary work has been completed on this section of highway 4, including deeds to additional land needed for right-of-way, which have been signed and delivered to County Judge O. L. Sims.

Good progress is being made by Brown & Root in laying base on highway 4 in Rannels county. Caliche is being placed on South Seventh Street, the extreme north end of the project. This company expects to start operation of rock crushers next week for the first treatment on the south end of this road in this county.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS REACH NEW YORK SUNDAY

Miss Georgia Singletary received a letter from her mother Thursday which was written from New York Sunday. Mrs. Singletary stated that she and Mrs. Blair reached that city feeling fine and that they were receiving plenty of attention. They sailed Wednesday afternoon for France and expected to make the trip in about seven days.

Arch McCoy, of San Saba, and Linsey McCoy, of Richland Springs visited here Thursday with F. D. McCoy. They were on their way to Christoval to attend the pioneer encampment.

W. D. Scales is transacting business in Dallas this week.

Hawks Sets Record In Havana Flight

(By Associated Press)
HAVANA, July 23.—Captain Frank Hawks, American aviator, landed here today from New York at 11:08 Eastern standard time, retaining the record broken Saturday by James Goodwin Hall. Capt. Hawks refueled at Wilmington, Delaware and Miami, Florida. His flying time was 7 hours 36 minutes, and elapsed time 8 hours 3 minutes. Hall flew non-stop for the same distance 8 hours 3 minutes.

Rail Engineer, Off Duty Is Amateur Stradivarius

Dan Waters, locomotive engineer, for 40 years has been "resting up" from each run by building fine violins. Many of them are in the hands of famous musicians.

(By Associated Press)
HARVARD, Ill., July 23.—Running a railroad locomotive and building fine violins are not the average person's idea of allied arts, but Dan Waters has made them mix happily for some 40 years.

Now at the age of 70, with 53 years of rail service behind him, the fiddler has turned his full-time attention to what has been his avocation for two-score years. During that time he has built 191 violins.

A violin which he bought for his daughter started Dan on his manufacturing career. He was dissatisfied with its tone, and decided he could build a better one himself. He did.

He bought textbooks written by Stradivarius, Guarnerius and the Amatis, studied them at the end of his day's labors, and equipped a workshop in his basement. Many of his violins are the hands of expert musicians throughout the United States.

Waters has considerable talent, too, as a violinist. He has won innumerable prizes in old fiddlers' contests.

He plans to visit Ireland this fall, and intends to go over to Germany to see the shop of Wilhelm Daurschmidt, from whom he orders his supplies.

Seven Power Conference Adopts Plan and Adjourns

Benefit Program Plans Perfected

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 23.—The seven-power conference to discuss the German financial crisis today formally adopted the plan to recommend a three-month extension of the Reichsbank July 15 by the Bank for International Settlements for one month, and will recommend that the private banks of the seven nations maintain existing German credits.

It was suggested that the Bank for International Settlements create a committee to study German credit needs and arrange other loans as necessary. Expected permanent action will be taken later.

The aid granted is less than Germany sought. The Reich had asked for long term credit of about $370,000,000.

BERLIN, July 23.—The Reichstag steering committee today voted down the proposal for a special session, thus assuring the Brüning government continuance in power.

Theo. Matthesen, of Olfen, attended to business in Ballinger Wednesday.

Judge and Mrs. J. W. Powell left Thursday afternoon for Lampasas where they will visit relatives and friends for the next two weeks.

Miss Norma Harris, of Lampasas, has returned to her home after a ten-day visit here in the J. W. Powell home.

Miss Carrie Cate, James Cate and Lon Looney, of Paris, Tenn., have returned to their home after a two weeks' visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Greer.

Murderer of Dry Agents is Arrested

(By Associated Press)
FT. WAYNE, Ind., July 23.—George Adams, former convict and reputed bootlegger, was captured early today after killing John J. Wilson, 40, and Walter M. Gilbert, 33, prohibition enforcement agents.

Wilson and Gilbert ordered a load of liquor from Adams, attempting to arrest him when he arrived.

Bill Permitting Bridge Company To Sue Texas Passed by Senate

Crews is Expecting Big Crowd Tonight

The good-will trip of the Ballinger boosters to Crews tonight will be the last opportunity to help 4-H Club boys in their effort to attend the short course at College Station. All who can take the course will be at the college next week.

Crews citizens have sent word that all plans have been perfected for the Ballingerites' visit and the more who come the better they will like it. The meeting will be held in the open air at the school building. Lights have been strung for the band concert and other program features tonight.

Charles Coombes, president of the Rannels County Fair Association and moving spirit in the excursions, said Thursday morning that he was extremely anxious for the Ballinger crowd to be large for this trip. It is the first trip of any distance from town but with roads in excellent shape this should not be considered as a difficulty. The caravan will leave here at 7:30 p. m. and the program at Crews will commence promptly at 8:30.

Features for tonight have been welded into one short snappy program that will be new and enjoyable for Ballinger people as well as those of Crews and vicinity. Harry Lynn and Neil McAlpine will give the program its final climax tonight with a rip-roaring "rube" farce comedy skit. This act will be fast and furious in dealing out laughs to the audience. Other numbers will make up a well-balanced program. Special renditions will be presented by the Ballinger Band and a chorus of young women.

Following the entertainment program and short talks the meeting will be given over to a social hour in which 4-H Club boys will sell ice cream and cake to make money for expenses to the A. & M. short course next week. Local citizens are asked to go prepared to patronize the ladies in their undertaking and enjoy the home-made products offered for sale.

AMARILLO GETS FASTER AIR EXPRESS SERVICES

(By Associated Press)
AMARILLO, July 23.—Letters mailed in Amarillo shortly after noon will reach New York City the following morning when the new service of the Transcontinental-Western Air Express line goes into effect Monday.

The new schedule, which offers the fastest West-East mail service in the United States, cuts six hours from the old schedule, and makes New York exactly 14 hours and 54 minutes removed from Amarillo.

Inauguration of the improved service Monday also will mean air mail to the east twice daily, and to St. Louis three times a day. The regular night mail plane will leave Amarillo at 12:45 A. M., a passenger plane, going by way of Oklahoma City and Tulsa, will leave at 7 a. m., and the regular passenger-mail plane will go east at 2:21 p. m. A night mail plane and regular passenger plane, leaving at 1:27 p. m., will continue on the run to the west.

Low Price Hurts Operators

LULING, Tex., July 23.—(AP)—Recent reductions in the price of crude oil are playing havoc with independent operators in the Darst Creek, Bruner and the old Luling oil fields.

Some of the independent operators here will be forced out of business if present conditions continue for many weeks, since 20 cent oil will not pay lifting charges on oil in the Luling fields. A temporary shutdown is not feasible on account of water encroachment.

Sam Baker is back on the job at the Ballinger State Bank after a pleasant three weeks' vacation. Mr. Baker stated that it was the most enjoyable vacation he had ever taken and that he felt fine after the rest and recreation.

Be wise and advertise.

Restoring Old Cemetery

Drought Improves Wool

RICHMOND, Ky., July 23.—(AP)—The 1930 drought resulted in practically eradicating stomach worms from sheep, sheep growers say. Excellence of fleeces clipped this spring is attributed to that fact.

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, July 23.—The Senate today passed with one dissenting vote the bill by Senator Jake Loy of Sherman granting the Red River Toll Bridge Co. or its receiver permission to sue the state for alleged failure of the state highway commission to fulfill its contract. It is claimed that the commission owes $80,000 to $150,000 on this contract.

Senator Loy said he was assured the toll bridge company would ask for dissolution of the injunction closing the Denison-Durant free bridge when allowed to sue. The bill was sent to the House where it is expected to be passed.

The toll bridge argument involved the governors of Texas and Oklahoma. Gov. Sterling sent state rangers to keep the Texas end of the free bridge closed according to injunction issued from a federal court, after Gov. W. H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray had had the barriers on the Texas end of the bridge removed. Gov. Murray then had the road on the Oklahoma side of the parallel toll bridge plowed up, forcing motorists to detour to the Preston bridge.

The House later passed a similar bill, details alone differing, but neither measure can yet go to the governor. Representative Elbert Barron of Sherman, one of the authors of the House bill, predicted the Senate would pass his bill immediately. It is believed certain Gov. Sterling will sign the measure.

In a short time Runnels county farmers will commence harvesting a big feed crop. Many are planning where they will store their feed as most intend to keep it on the farm and at the present market only a small amount will be sold as it is harvested. The need for bigger barns in this section is seen this year after a big yield of small grain has been threshed and most of it held by the owners for a better market. Now comes the marketing of grain sorghums and some corn which need granaries to be properly stored. If the crop this year is all used on the farm for the feeding of livestock many predict that the yield will last for two years.

Many Baptists from all sections of West Texas are preparing to go to Christoval in August to attend the encampment there and use that also as a vacation trip. Christoval with its abundance of shade and cool running springs offers an attractive place for people to gather and enjoy every comfort of outdoor life. The years of experience in operating the encampment there has caused every part of the life of the gathering to be developed including spiritual, social and recreational. The crowd this year will be large due to the many successful encampments held and the program that is being offered this year.

The irrigation project in Coke and Runnels counties is attracting much attention and many will attend the gathering of land-owners at Oak Creek next week. This project has been considered for many years and engineers have studied it from many angles and every plan has been reported as good. The location of the dam about Robert Lee on the Colorado River is the best so far and one that is favored by all people of the district. The site will impound a lake which when full will take care of all land in the district in dry years and will furnish water for many thousand acres of land in the two counties. The preliminary surveys have been made and the matter is now going to be up to those who own land in the district. The plan if finally complete will water many acres in this county in one of the richest and most fertile sections of the farming district.

PUTNAM FARMER HAS NEW WAY TO KILL HOPPERS

PUTNAM, Tex., July 23.—A new method of poisoning grasshoppers is being advocated here by Robert McKinney, a cotton farmer, who says his method is not only more effective than any other he has tried, but less expensive. McKinney's formula is to mix one gallon of water with three tablespoonfuls of calcium arsenate, and mix thoroughly with it enough black strap molasses to sweeten. Afterwards he catches a few of the hoppers, kills them and saturates the carcasses in the solution, then drops them on the ground at the edges of the fields. Hoppers immediately swarm to the dead ones to feed, taking in the poison. McKinney says that by using this formula he has not lost as much as a row of cotton, while others in the vicinity have lost entire fields.

SUNDOWN STORIES

INDIANS' RAINY DAY

By Mary Graham Bonner

John and Peggy noticed that the fire was out, but breakfast was already waiting for them. Such delicious bowls of meal as they had!

And then the Indian children showed John and Peggy the treasures that they kept hidden away and only took out at special times.

There were some wonderful beads, arrow heads and bones of strange shapes and some fine tools.

All the time the patter, patter continued. The rain had put out the fire, but did not seem to come down into the house. It slid off the slanting bark roof, but the sound was wonderful.

To Peggy it sounded like music, and John wondered if anyone had ever had such good luck as to it held by the owners for a better market. Now comes the marketing of grain sorghums and some corn which need granaries to be properly stored.

Later on the patter, patter stopped, and then they saw the Clock in the distance coming toward them.

The Indians had thrown aside the wild animal skin that made their door and were busy attending to many things now that the rain had stopped.

They were building the fire again, but the Clock only beckoned to John and Peggy, and then he whispered, "I'm going to turn the time even further back than I turned it now."

"I thought you might like to see the Indians build a home in the springtime."

They hadn't time to answer before he dashed off again. But the wise Clock knew there was only one answer to that suggestion.

And now some of the Indians were chopping, chopping. Great trees were coming down to serve as poles and bark was being peeled off young elm trees.

The Indians were very busy.

HOW'S your HEALTH

THE CHILD'S APPETITE

The eagerness of the average parents to have their children grow as strong and be as healthy as possible gives rise to a number of behavior problems, among which is the child's refusal to eat. The child may refuse to eat one or more individual items of food, as for example, eggs, spinach, vegetables, or milk.

Again, the child may eat only when coaxed, threatened or spoiled. The child may also eat sufficient food but dilly-dally at the table.

Children even more than adults crave attention. Their desire is so strong that they will endeavor to secure attention by any means, good or bad.

It is a rare child that doesn't soon discover meal time to be an excellent opportunity. The child observes the eagerness and anxiety of the parent, and trades and barbers on it.

For the anxious parent easily falls victim and offers bribes of praise and approval, at times even favors, to have it eat the food set before it.

Nor is the situation much altered when the parent frets and fumes. Though this is less pleasant to the child, it still serves to keep it the center of attention.

Many of the feeding problems of children can be prevented by a wholesome attitude of indifference.

ence. Let the parent appear to say, "Here is your food. If you do not eat it, you and not I will suffer." There should be no anger in this position; it should be simple and "matter of fact." At times there is as much senseless insistence on the part of the parent as there is opposition by the child. Suppose the child doesn't like coddled eggs. What of it? Eggs can be served in other ways. Let it go. Insistence may lead to a complete objection to food in any form.

MOVIES

Screen Comedian Uses English in Fifteen Tongues

Leon Errol, moving picture comedian, speaks fifteen languages—all of them English. Errol's stage career in comedy has taken him all over the world and given him an endless number of personal anecdotes and a whole range of dialect knowledge. Each of his anecdotes, from New South Wales, New Zealand, England, Ireland, Wales; South, East or West United States, Australia, and English-speaking provinces everywhere, he relates in the proper vernacular. Errol, in his travels, made a study of English idioms and provincialisms. He can speak the English of Oxford, Soho, Colorado and the Bronx, as well as the brogue of the Irish, the burr of the Scotch, the patois of the Louisiana deltas or the synthetic Bostonese of Hollywood.

In his second picture, "Finn and Hattie," Errol, who made his first hit on the screen in "Only Saps Wood," uses the idiomatic expressions of middle-western United States. Much of his time, he reveals, is given to instructing Milti Green in the same provincialisms. Milti, who appears with him in "Finn and Hattie," which closes a two-day run at the Palace Theatre tonight, was born in Brooklyn.

"Finn and Hattie" takes Errol from his middle-west home to Paris. The story is from the comedy novel by Donald Ogden Stewart, and in addition to Errol and Milti Green, the cast includes ZaSu Pitts, Lilyan Tashman, Regis Toomey, Jackie Searl and Mack Swain.

Heading the cast is Richard Arlen, who was the hero of "Burning Up," "The Border Legion," "The Santa Fe Trail" and others.

The romantic feminine lead is played by Mary Brian, recently seen in "The Royal Family of Broadway" and Arlen's sweetheart in "Burning Up."

Eugene Pallette is a lusty-throated mustang hunter and a six-shootin' fool from the badlands. He was in the S. S. Van Dyne murder mystery films as Sergeant Heath, and has since played in nearly a dozen features.

Louise Fazenda is the ranch cook with whom Pallette carries on a love affair. She was in "The Desert Song" and "Gold Diggers of Broadway."

William Boyd, the big bruiser politician-lawyer of "The Spoilers," is the leader of the gun mob from an Eastern city which invades Arlen's town.

William V. Mong is the old prospector who becomes a victim of the gangsters' violence. He entered motion pictures in 1916, playing one of the leading character parts in "The Connecticut Yankee." He has appeared in such films as "The Big Trail," "In Gay Madrid," "The Girl Said No," and "Murder on the Roof."

Gay Oliver, who is said to have played in more pictures than any actor in Hollywood, is Posey Meed, the sheriff in the picture. Among recent films in which he has made character portrayals are "The Devil's Holiday," "Burning Up," "Anybody's War," and "Love Among the Millionaires."

PROFESSOR BELIEVES JUNIOR COLLEGES WILL GROW FAST

(By Associated Press) STEPHENVILLE, Tex., July 23.—Being his belief on years of experience in the public schools of Texas and his 12 years as administrator of one of the leading junior colleges in the nation, J. Thomas Davis, dean of John Tarleton College—and former president of both the American and the Texas Association of Junior Colleges, predicts that the college movement is due to bring about something similar to a revolution in the educational system of the United States. Dean Davis said that the movement was gradually gaining ground and that he believed the next few years would see considerable changes in the present college system.

John Tarleton dean, the junior college is due to absorb the last two years of the traditional senior high school work and also the first two years of undergraduate work in the senior college, making the junior college embrace a full four-year unit in the educational system. According to this plan, junior high schools would care for the first two years of high school work, senior high schools would be eliminated, the junior college would cover a period of four years and the senior educational institutions would care for the specialized fields of advanced and technical learning. This is the plan that Dean Davis sees as an ideal educational system. He doesn't think it will be wholly adopted anytime soon, but believes it to be the inevitable end of the junior college movement. Other prominent educators join him in his belief that junior colleges are scheduled soon to play a very important part in education. Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the University of Texas, says that as an ultimate objective, fifty or a hundred years hence, he favors the high schools' absorbing the junior college and the freshman and sophomore years of the senior colleges. This system would leave the junior college out, but the change made in the high school system would be about the same as Dean Davis favors. Dr. Charles C. Seelman, president of Southern Methodist University at Dallas, believes that the municipal junior college of the public school system will experience an extensive development within a few years and that the independent junior college does not have such a bright outlook. As to Dean Davis' ideal educational system plan, Dr. Seelman did not comment.

King Zog Has Nest Egg For Albanian Reforms

(By Associated Press) TIRANA, Albania, July 23.—King Zog, uncrowned ruler of this feud cursed land, just has obtained a nest egg with which he hopes to help save his people from further traditional private wars. It is a loan of $20,000,000 from Italy, but a loan couched in such terms that it may easily become a gift. No interest is charged, no definite time set for payment. In fact, Albania will not be expected to turn back any of the money unless the country gets to a point where its revenues reach $10,000,000 annually. Last year's income was $6,114,000. The money is to be used for public works and cultural and business expansion. This summarizes the general program of the king. He hopes above all to educate his people to the point where they will see the futility of the system of private vengeance which has hitherto been their greatest handicap to progress. It is a system of blood feuds even more deadly than the family affairs which used to keep the mountain folk of Kentucky and West Virginia in a ferment. The feuds stand in the way of national unity. They are constantly springing up and killers are seldom punished. The Albanian code obliges the nearest relative of a murdered man to destroy either the killer or, if the latter has fled, the nearest relative of the slayer. When the second murder has been committed, the nearest relative of the victim must take up the cause. Thus the feud gathers mass and momentum like an avalanche. Albania is dotted with the blackened ruins of homes because it is also part of the code to burn down the killer's house. It is possible to stop the endless chain by buying off a murdered man's family, but only if the relatives are willing to take the blood payment. This custom has grown, however, until there now

MOON OF DELIGHT by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Because Juanita Diotti knows she was a stowaway on the ship where Umberto, his employer, had found her, Juanita Basara's fear of exposure keeps her a prisoner in his New Orleans gambling house. Divitt and his wife, Molly, are kind to her and the dealer, Gabreau, Conchita's son, nearly kills Umberto when he forces his embraces on Juanita. The Turkish diva, Conchita, who she sells cigarettes has intrigued Adrian Fouche, who persuades his friend, Eric Ledbetter, who had lived in Turkey, to speak to her in Turkish. In their party are Kirk Stuard and his grandmother, Mrs. Belaise. As Ledbetter tests with the veiled Juanita, a newcomer, Smokey Basara, of Mexico City, joins the group. Juanita, frightened, is about to run.

Chapter 8 A KISS IN TIME. HE man beside Adrian Fouche caught Juanita's hand, babbling softly in the strange tongue. He turned to the newcomer. "It was just saying, Señor," he observed, "that she is beautiful as an houri and fragrant as the jasmine flower, and in spite of loyalty to the noblest sheik in New Orleans, I could love her to distraction. This is the prologue to the raising of the curtain on the most glorious spectacle this side the Bosphorus." Señor Basara smiled, his glance leaving Juanita an instant and traveling about the room. Juanita

Juanita left a kiss on Ledbetter's astonished cheek. lowered her face, closing her eyes. Ledbetter began again his soft jargon. Adrian spoke now in a fiery aside. "I didn't bring you here to hold her hand and make love. I brought you to make a date for me. You said you could pull off her veil in a way that looked accidental. Now do it." Illness shot through Juanita. Ledbetter had released her hand and she drew from him, her eyes encountering Kirk Stuard's. Stuard had been dividing his interest between their by-play and Mrs. Belaise's game. He was looking at Juanita now, smiling friendly. The exchange of glances lasted only an instant, yet a swift course had entered Juanita when she looked again at Ledbetter. She had felt that she would fall if she tried to move. She knew now that she could not fall before those friendly, smiling eyes. She could move now—she could get away. But there was Divitt watching her. Quickly her hand moved over her tray. She selected a rose and, bending over Ledbetter, thrust it through his buttonhole, then lightly, swiftly, left a kiss upon his astonished cheek—a kiss through the mesh and spangles of her veil, yet nevertheless, a kiss. She was gone. Molly was smiling at her where she stood in front of the cashier's cage. "Honey, that was great. Eric Ledbetter's got a million, and this is his first look-in. I thought for a minute you were going to frost him. What's the matter?" "I'm ill. I can't stay." Molly saw the dilated eyes, the hands that trembled at the edge of the tray. She set the tray on a table. "Go to your room, I'll send Conchita to you." Juanita slipped out a side door into the court. Juanita stood a dazed instant leaning against the cool stucco of the house, then she stumbled up the dark stair and into her room locking the door, taking off her veil so that she could breathe. For a deadly instant her heart had stopped. Now it was beating in

CHICAGO MAN LEASES BIG TEXAS SALT LAKE

(By Associated Press) CRANE, Tex., July 23.—The 1,130-acre Cowden salt lake has been leased for 20 years to Max Omo of Chicago, who says he will employ 20 workers. This is the first recent attempt to commercialize salt lakes in West Texas, though many years ago the vast salt lakes in Pecos, Culberson and other counties were scenes of bitter salt wars, and the Cowden lake was the cause of the Buena Vista battle, waged over the right to the salt. Omo is now selling salt from this snow-white lake and soon expects to have salesmen on the road. He says the salt has only slight impurities. The salt on the lake forms in layers of one inch to several feet in thickness and Omo estimates there are in the lake now 10,000 tons of it, with salt being deposited after each rain. Once trails ran to this lake from Mexico and ox wagons made laborious journeys for the salt. Many have operated the lake. The lake has always been considered valuable from the time Juan Cordova secured it in a grant from the King of Spain.

Businesses Which Help Build City

H. H. Hardin The H. H. Hardin Lumber Company started doing business in Ballinger about a quarter of a century ago. The first yard here was known as Hardin & Bateman and operated under that name until in 1916 when the yard changed to H. H. Hardin & Co. After one year under that name the Company was dropped and since then has been known as H. H. Hardin. Tom Caudle came to Ballinger from Winters in 1922 as local manager and has been at the head of the Ballinger yard since then with the exception of one year spent in Coleman. The yard is one of many operated in Texas under the above name and offers many advantages to builders in their lines. Free building plans and other helps are offered to everyone. Estimates on any size job is made at anytime without cost on their products and in recent years they have furnished the material for many local homes and other types of building. Their line of lumber is very complete with a supply being carried in the local yard at all times to meet any demand here. In addition to the lumber they carry a complete line of brick, cement, builders' hardware, fencing and other items usually found in a lumber yard. A carpenter's shop is operated in connection with the yard where tools are furnished free to anyone needing them. This shop is in use almost constantly and is of great help to those not able to own a complete line of tools for all types of work. The yard is conveniently located on Hutchings Avenue where people can drive from the pavement into their gravelled yard. Mr. Caudle, local manager here, is one of the outstanding civic workers in the town. Since coming to Ballinger it is doubtless if there is anyone here who has served the general public in more ways or has spent more time in the successful staging of local affairs. He is president of the Ballinger school board at present, is active in the American Legion, Masonic lodge, chamber of commerce and his church.

(By Associated Press) GALVESTON, July 23.—Two specimens of the world's most vicious fish have fallen before the efforts of local exponents of Ike Walton.

A 17-pound barracuda was caught recently from the steamer Kingfisher at Herald Bank, 35 miles off Galveston in the Gulf, the second time such a fish has been caught here. The first was caught a short time ago.

The barracuda, known as the "tiger of the sea," is one of the most dangerous fish that swims. It is very rarely seen in these waters and never close to shore.
