Two Ocean Flights Start; Round World and Turkey

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 28.—Two monoplane flights began non-stop trans-atlantic flights from New York today.

Russell Boardman and John Polando started at 5 a. m. (EST) for Istanbul, Turkey, 5,500 miles away.

Eighteen minutes later Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn began a round-the-world flight, hoping to reach Moscow on the first leg, a distance of 5,400 miles.

The Herndon-Pangborn plane is slower than that used by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty but it has dual controls. They hope to stay in the air for most of the journey, taking turns at piloting. Herndon and Pangborn almost crashed in an attempted take-off ten days ago and were forced to dump reserve gasoline in Jamaica Bay.

Boardman and Polando hope to break the distance record of 4,912 miles set by Dieudonne Coste and J. M. Le Brix. They carried 718 gallons of gasoline, enough for a flight of 7,000 miles. They had difficulty in getting the heavily loaded plane aloft.

Weather conditions over the Atlantic Ocean today were reported favorable.

BOLL WEEVILS DO MUCH DAMAGE IN LAREDO FIELDS

(By Associated Press)
LAREDO, Tex., July 28.—Heavy infestation of the cotton fields in the eastern portion of Webb county by boll weevils has caused farmers to poison their cotton.

The heavy infestation by boll weevil followed the recent rains in the Laredo district, with the result that weevils and fleas in large numbers invaded the cotton plants after each rain. In most fields cotton picking is near at hand, but unless the ravages of the boll weevils are stopped soon the yield in Webb county will be light.

John A. Weeks left Tuesday morning for Abilene to look after business in connection with his store in that city.

Cotton Season in South Texas Opens

(By Associated Press)
SAN BENITO, Tex., July 28.—The 1931 cotton season in Texas has opened.

And in many ways it is reminiscent of the cotton seasons of 1913, and years before that.

For one thing, the price of cotton is about the same.

For another, the price of picking, the lowest since the outbreak of the World War, is about the same. Ginning prices have also dropped.

The season is starting about three weeks later than usual, and with prospects for a cotton crop about half that of last year. The acreage is cut about half.

Cotton picking prices in the Valley are 50 cents a hundred, as compared to prices of 75 cents, $1, and as high as $1.50 in the past few years.

Gins in the section have dropped prices from 40 cents to 30 cents a hundred pounds. Not all the cotton gins in the section will operate.

Burning Well Capped After One Life Lost

Truck Wagons Can Sell Off Pavement

A few weeks ago market square was established on Strong Avenue between Seventh and Eighth Streets but shortly after all produce wagons moved there to sell truck highway construction reached the city limits and work started on Seventh Street which necessitated that that street be closed to travel.

After a complaint was registered by the produce dealers regarding being placed on a closed street, the city commission decided to allow the selling of produce on streets off the pavement and a number of stands have been opened on Ninth and Tenth streets just off Hutchings Avenue.

This will be allowed until work on Seventh Street is completed and that thoroughfare again opened to traffic, at which time all wagons and trucks containing produce for sale will be ordered to move back to what is known as "market square."

The commission is anxious to cooperate in every way possible with those selling their fruit and vegetables here but at the same time desires to be fair to the local merchants. Chief of Police Lee Moreland stated Tuesday that while produce trucks were permitted in other sections of the city that daily inspections would be made and those occupying the places would be required to keep same clean and sanitary. Wagons and trucks will be required to move each evening and no one will be allowed to "squat" on a good location and remain there continuously, refilling his stand from another vehicle.

Produce wagons that visit the business section every morning and call on local merchants are permitted to park on main street while canvassing and delivering is being done, but cannot retail while parked on this street.

Many truck loads of watermelons and cantaloupes are being brought to Ballinger daily and are selling fast. A number of permanent stands have been set up just outside the city limits on highways and receive patronage from tourists and city people who drive out to make their purchases.

In the advertisement appearing in The Ledger of Monday announcing the opening of the Hillside Sandwich Shop, the location of the new business was omitted. The location is at the old miniature golf course across the avenue from the West Texas Utilities Co. ice station on Broadway.

T. J. McCaughan, of Norton, was here Monday afternoon looking after business in the office of the county superintendent. The Norton school, which opened Monday, will be in session for the next six weeks.

BAND LEAVES FOR BAPTIST PICNIC

The Ballinger Band left here early Tuesday morning in the baseball bus for Winters where they were to furnish music for the Runnels County Baptist Association picnic. The boys loaded up early and were out of town by 9.30 in order to be sure to arrive in time for the big basket spread at noon.

Besides the bandmen many other Ballingerites left during the morning for the picnic grounds, one mile east of Winters. A day of entertainment had been planned with all Baptist churches of the county cooperating. The band returned here in the afternoon in time to accompany the local good-time trippers to Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Thorp and family, of Seymour, spent the night here Monday and left with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thorp and family for Round Rock Tuesday morning to visit Mrs. Z. T. Thorp for a few days.

Prof. Lonnie Langston, teacher of Math in Texas Technological College at Lubbock, was here Tuesday visiting with friends.

Witnesses said three dry agents trailed the negro in an automobile into an alley. Ezzell and Agent J. W. Boyd walked in front of the negro's car and told him they were federal officers. The black began firing. Ezzell returned the fire. Both were killed.

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, July 28.—Underwood Nazroof, of Houston, vice-president of the Gulf Production Company, appeared before the Senate today as the first representative of a major company to oppose the new oil laws.

Nazroof said the proposed bills were efforts to restrict production to the demand "in the guise of conservation." He said that every attempt to artificially balance the supply and demand fails.

E. H. Eddel, independent operator in the Wichita Falls area, told the House today that the major companies were seizing most of the market outlets and making things hard for the independents.

MRS. BUTLER'S FATHER IS BURIED AT PROCTOR

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Burns Holt and Mrs. Charles Eyster returned Monday afternoon from Proctor where they had been to attend the funeral of H. P. Kay, ago 80, father of Mrs. Butler. Mr. Kay died Saturday night after being in feeble health for a number of years but without any serious illness. The funeral was held at the family residence Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kay had been here recently for a visit with the Butler family, returning home last week. A number of Ballinger friends join in condolences to the bereaved.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28.—Governor W. H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray announced today that if crude oil prices fall to reach $1 per barrel by Saturday night he will sign an executive order closing all but stripper wells in Oklahoma. The governor said he would use troops if necessary to enforce the proclamation.

The governor cited the loss in taxes from the low prices and depletion of the state's natural resources. He denied the move would interfere with interstate commerce.

CROPS IN EAST TEXAS ARE GOOD AT PRESENT

(By Associated Press)
LONGVIEW, Tex., July 28.—With crops in East Texas in the best condition in a number of years as the result of intense and more scientific cultivation and with five inches of rain having fallen over the greater part of Gregg and adjoining counties, one of the best yields in several years is expected.

Cotton, which has been well cultivated and kept clean, is now fruiting fast and it is estimated from 30 to 50 per cent of the forms are sticking. Many fields are white with blooms.

Cowboys to Meet

CANYON, Tex., July 28.—(AP)—The annual reunion of the T-Anchor cowboys will be held at Wrangle Park north of Canyon on Thursday, August 27. The T-Anchor reunion was first held in Hereford about ten years ago, and was moved to Canyon the second year in order to be near the old headquarters of the old ranch on which many of the leading men of this territory once worked as cowboys.

OIL FIELD TOWN IN FOR AGRICULTURE

(By Associated Press)
McCAMEY, Tex., July 28.—With the advent of stormy times in the oil industry Upton county is beginning to turn to agriculture—formerly almost scoffed at—for her program of development.

In recent years after discovery of the rich oil fields in this vicinity comment on agricultural possibilities of the area was met only with the response, "You're probably right, but I'm too busy now."

The trend now has changed, and citizens are turning more and more to agricultural pursuits in the soil along the Pecos river.

Mrs. Joe Fraser and two daughters, Frances and Betty Jo, of Fort Worth, are visiting Mrs. Fraser's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stroble.

Sheriff will Destroy Much Home Brew

For the past several months the local sheriff's department has been staging a large number of successful beer raids, making arrests and also taking a large amount of beer as evidence. This beer for the first half of the year has been stored at the jail and lately the hot weather is causing it to explode and at times sounds like a company of the national guard on target range.

Sheriff W. A. Holt and his crew of helpers Wednesday afternoon will cause many dry-months to water when they load all the beer into a truck, drive to a place on the Colorado River near the damp grounds and pour all the beer out. This announcement was made by the sheriff's department Tuesday morning and arrangements are going forward for the clearing out of all the beer from the jail and its destruction.

A large number of local people have applied for jobs with the crew and have offered to work for nothing and furnish the ice. Sheriff Holt states that he has plenty of help but that anyone who wishes to watch the destruction of the beer may do so. Some members of the department suggest that it may be dangerous to drink water from the river below here for several days. The beer in the jail seems to be made from almost every substance and judging from the looks and the explosions of the bottled product, may contaminate the river for some time.

The evidence to be destroyed is no longer needed according to Roy Hill, county attorney. All these cases have been disposed of and there is no further need to hold the brew here for evidence, and room is needed for future raids to be staged.

Three o'clock has been set as the time for the party Wednesday and the public is invited to witness.

Fog and Gales Await Anne And Charles On Tokyo Hop

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—An icebound trail that gales have blazed and fogs lined with peril awaits the flying Lindberghs on their 7,000-mile jaunt to Tokyo.

For fog, storm and ice menace the great circle course Colonel Lindbergh and his wife will take across the Arctic fringes of Canada and Alaska after traversing the Hudson bay country on their trip from New York.

Then—assuming that these barriers are surmounted—there lies ahead the threat of storm in the volcanic Kuriles, those Japanese isles of the Pacific that mark a path for gales heading northward and eastward.

Ottawa, Moose Factory, Churchill, Baker Lake—these will hear the roar of their plane as it heads to Aklavik, the Canadian government's station on Mackenzie Bay.

The journey to Nome will bring them to the start of the 900-mile jump to Karaginok, Siberia, thence to Petropavlosk on the eastern coast of the Kamchatka peninsula.

Many small villages dot the shore of Siberia south of East Cape and a probable supply of aviation gasoline is at Providence Bay, says R. L. Pollister, fur trading representative.

Sometimes the natives on the Siberian side come across the narrow stretch of water between the two continents to celebrate July with the America.

SUNDOWN STORIES

BUTTER AND EGGS

By Mary Graham Bonner

John and Peggy and the Little Black Clock walked along the field and then down along a dusty road where automobiles never came.

Along the side of the road were some tall plants with many little bright flowers. Their small leaves looked more like blades of grass, and their tall stems were almost half covered with yellow flowers tipped with orange.

It was fortunate that the Clock's magic allowed John and Peggy to understand all sorts of members in nature's family, for they began whispering in their delicate flower voices.

"Yes," urged the Little Black Clock, "do tell my friends John and Peggy about yourselves—first telling them your family name."

"We are called Butter-and-Eggs," they said. And the children noticed that the yellow of their flowers was the very color of butter and of eggs when they are scrambled.

"But we have other names," they continued. "Sometimes we are called Yellow Toadflax, sometimes Flaxweed."

"We are not in the least fussy and snobbish. There are some flowers who must have care and attention."

"It is not their fault. They feel better when they are petted, when they are given plenty of fresh water and when the earth is dug around them to make it easier for them to grow. And there are other flowers who like hot-houses."

"But we do not care about any fussing at all. We will grow where many other flowers will not grow—along dusty roads and in old fields."

"But we have traveled, oh yes, indeed! Shall we tell you about it?"

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Logan Goldstein, Academy of Medicine

BABIES IN SUMMER

Some 25 years ago an enterprising statistician established the fact that in New York city there was a direct correlation between the softness of the asphalt and the deaths of infants.

This astonishing correlation did not establish an effect of soft asphalt on babies' health. The simple fact was that heat softens asphalt—heat also taxes the babies' strength.

While older people find winter the most trying season, infants are taxed by the hot months.

One explanation is that babies have less body surface per unit of body bulk than do the adults, hence radiate their heat less readily.

Also, they are more liable to gastric upsets, also during the hot months food becomes spoiled more readily.

By observing a few simple precautions the young child can be made both comfortable and safe during the summer. Infants and babies should be let alone as much as possible. They should not be handled unnecessarily.

They should not be exposed to contamination or infection by being indiscriminately handed around.

Babies should be protected against insects, particularly the dirty house fly, and this precaution should affect not only the babies themselves but their utensils and food.

Every effort should be made to keep the child cool. Its clothing should be light in weight and color and should fit loosely.

While the child should be kept outdoors, it should be protected against direct rays of the sun.

Three or four spongings with cold water will keep the baby comfortable, and in the very hot days, added comfort for the child can be secured by wiping its head and face every hour or so with a cool, moist cloth.

Care should be taken that the child has plenty of cool, not cold, water to drink. It can't speak up to say, "I'm thirsty."

Claudette Colbert Perfect in Timing Chuckle with Words

One of the very few screen actresses who can laugh and talk simultaneously, is Claudette Colbert. The compliment is paid her by sound technicians who recorded on the new noiseless equipment at a New York studio, "Honor Among Lovers," in which she is featured with Fredric March and which opens Sunday at the Palace Theatre, showing three days.

This accomplishment, which distinguishes Miss Colbert from a great majority of actresses, is a difficult trick, according to C. A. Tuthill, monitor man on the new offering.

It is an accomplishment bordering on a gift, claims Tuthill, to chuckle as Claudette does, at the same time you speak your lines. And it adds a spontaneous quality that continues uninterrupted because of what might be called synchronization of Miss Colbert's voice and mind.

"Miss Colbert laughs the lines whereas another actress would put the laugh or chuckle before or after the words," Tuthill said. "When Miss Colbert is playing a gay scene she actually laughs the words."

"The commoner practice is to chuckle first and then merely carry the momentum of hilarity in one's voice while speaking the lines. But Miss Colbert puts the chuckle right into the words and molds her gayety with her speech into a more accurate and charming characterization."

The new picture, featuring the famous lovers of "Manslaughter," was directed by Dorothy Arzner from an Austin Parker story. It is a modern romantic drama of a beautiful girl secretary, madly in love with a man of inferior character, and who discovers the man who deserves her affection, in a dramatic decision spurning for the moment, proposals which embrace everything but marriage.

Much favorable criticism has been directed toward the suave and flippant dialogue which is handled through the plot. The settings are luxurious, the love moments intensely fascinating.

VALLEY CITIZENS FIGHTING RAISE IN RAIL RATES

(By Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., July 28.—The 15 per cent increase in rates sought by railroads of the country will not bring about the end which the railroads seek, the traffic committee of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce declares in a protest against the raise filed recently with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Practically every organization in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has taken action against the proposed increase.

"The carriers are in no worse condition financially than other industries, and are in much better shape than many lines of business," the protest of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce declares.

"We believe that if an increase in rail rates be allowed a great amount of tonnage now moving by rail would be diverted to truck line transportation, thereby defeating the purpose of an increase in rail rates and creating more havoc in the economic situation of the rail carriers.

"Should an increase be allowed a great amount of the long haul freight, which is around 30,000 carloads per year from this locality, could not stand the increase, and would not move."

The protest continues to point out that the Lower Rio Grande

Verdant Japan to Greet Lindberghs

TOKYO, July 28.—(AP)—A magnificent symphony of green flecked with flowers will be Japan's greeting to the Lindberghs.

In its tender shades of the young rice contrast with the darker tones of the upland crops, the luxuriant masses of the mulberry groves and the still deeper hues of the evergreen-clad hills.

Over this landscape towers Fujiyama, the perfect mountain, visible for 200 miles when the air is clear.

There are no filling stations in the islands, and if the Lindberghs plan any stops along the 1,000-mile stretch of inhospitable islands they must lay their fuel stores ahead.

The Kuriles are in the path of the storms that follow courses northward and eastward into the Pacific.

The government of Japan doubtless will give permission for the Lindberghs to fly into the country from the Kuriles, but likely will map a definite route for them.

Probably they will be allotted practically the same course as that blazed by their compatriots, Captain Lowell H. Smith and his five companions in 1924.

These army fliers touched at Minato, a port at the northern tip of Hondo, the main island of Japan, Kasumigaura, the navy's aviation base 41 miles northeast of Tokyo where many lagoons provide accommodations for sea flying craft, and other places.

Likely they will take a direct route to China via Shankhal, a 900-mile trip over water.

City Tax Rolls for Year are Completed

The city administration reports this week the completion of the tax rolls for the coming year and same are being prepared for the inspection of the equalization board which will carefully study all figures within a short time. The board will watch for cuts in rendition that have been slashed too low and make an effort to place all city property of equal value. Those whose renditions are changed by the board will be notified to appear before this board and show why certain changes should not be made.

Water consumed in Ballinger last week was slightly off and only 331,000 gallons per day was shown to be used locally. Pumping time was cut to a little over seven hours per day and the work at the plant done without any extra help. In addition to the pumping of water a 2-inch master meter was set on the 8-inch discharge line at the plant last week. A galvanized iron jacket was built and placed over the alum feed machine to prevent powdered alum from breaking down insulation on the motor. The grass on the dirt dumps at the station was watered four times. A number of repairs were made on the distributing system during the week and all details of that department are in excellent shape.

The street department operated on full time during the week making some needed improvements. Phillips Avenue was oiled from Sixth to Fourth Street. Residential street paving was cleaned and many loads of dirt and trash hauled from this work to the dump grounds here.

The health authorities made a careful inspection of the sanitary condition of all eating houses here and reported a few defects found. Operators have been notified of these defects and have promised to correct them at once. Another check will be made within a few days to see how the work is progressing. The general health of the town was reported to be in excellent condition.

Other business included in the city weekly report was routine and of no interest.

MANY ASK POSTMASTER TO FIND THEM MATE

(By Associated Press) SAN ANTONIO, July 28.—Postmaster P. G. Lucas is thinking of buying a bow and arrow and taking lessons in archery from Dan Cupid.

Applications for husbands and wives have been swamping the postmaster's office ever since an Alabama woman wrote to him recently and asked for a mockingbird and a San Antonio husband and show why certain changes should not be made.

Lucas received several applications for the job of husband for this woman, all of which he referred to her.

Then a San Antonio woman who read about the lonely Alabama woman wrote to Lucas and said that she thought the postmaster ought to help out "home folks first. She said that she had "means and fine furniture," but could not make a home last week. A galvanized iron jacket was built and placed over the alum feed machine to prevent powdered alum from breaking down insulation on the motor. The grass on the dirt dumps at the station was watered four times. A number of repairs were made on the distributing system during the week and all details of that department are in excellent shape.

AMARILLO TO SPEND BIG SUM ON PUBLIC LIBRARY

(By Associated Press) AMARILLO, July 28.—Because of heavy demands made on the Potter county library by the reading public, the city commission has ordered $3,000 to be spent for books to be placed in the library during the year.

Although the library is maintained by the county, it is used most by Amarillo citizens and visitors, according to Mrs. Ruth Delzell, librarian. Monthly purchases will be made from the fund set aside by the city. Summer reading is increasing. Mrs. Delzell reported, probably because more people are idle.

Drive Opened Against Plague In Farm Fowls

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 28.—State and federal forces have joined in a drive to stamp out tuberculosis from poultry flocks and save farmers millions in losses.

The midwestern and north central states where the disease has been most prevalent, are the focal points in the early part of the campaign that involves two classes of activities. The first is a general educational plan to spread means of preventing tuberculosis, and the other is an intensive eradication program in a few selected counties in those states.

Post-mortem demonstrations, the application of the tuberculin tests and the establishment of flock management are all to be used.

Many swine are affected with the fowl type of tuberculosis through close association with poultry. They are to be checked at packing plants for evidences of it.

In the educational campaign, farmers are urged to rid their flocks of chickens that have passed 18 months of age. The old birds are pointed out as those chiefly affected and most likely to be carriers.

The last congress provided funds for eradication work and the department of agriculture now is able to cooperate with state officials and representatives of the poultry industry. Fifteen veterinarians have been assigned to the task.

Preliminary work shows the disease is materially reduced on farms when owners dispose of old birds at the end of the first laying period.

Declaration Signer Honored

EDENTON, N. C., July 28.—(AP)—A marker soon will be erected here honoring Joseph Hewes, one of North Carolina's three signers of the Declaration of Independence. Hewes was the first secretary of the American navy and John Paul Jones was among the officers he selected for service.

MOON OF DELIGHT by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Juanita Basora Aides her post, selling cigarettes in Divitt's gambling place. The veil of her outgoing gives her security, and Divitt, his wife, Molly, Conchita and her son, Gabriel, treat her kindly. As for Umberto, Gabriel protects her from him. Eric Lindbergh, the real man with Adrian Flores, Mrs. Belaise and Kirk Stanard, her grandson, tries to tear off Juanita's veil. She escapes him, trembling because she has just seen her husband of Mexico join the party. Through a thief's trick Divitt secures Mrs. Belaise's necklace and next day sends Juanita, introduced as Señorita Flores, to return it, saying she had found it. The eldest Mrs. Belaise is disappointed when the girl refuses a reward. Kirk asks Juanita to allow him to call on her.

KIRK RETURNS A CALL

LOOKS like you didn't find out much," Divitt remarked, donning the modernistic pyjamas Molly had decreed for him. "Not very communicative, I take it."

Molly was in bed, her small face looking weary on the great pillow. "No, she don't talk much," said Molly.

"But she ought to know the geography of the house. Naturally, she's not expected to discover the location of the safe on one visit—but we ought to get something out of her. All we know is, they've asked her back. That's the biggest part of the business, but it's not all."

"Divvy, beautiful, what you want to do this thing for? What you want to go in with Umberto for? He'll get us all in trouble yet?"

"Oh, no, he won't. Umberto's my right hand. How much returning you want to do in one year? I've got rid of the hooch, haven't I?"

"Divvy, you know Umberto's rum-running this very night. Things are stricter now—you say so yourself—and if you're mixed up with Umberto, ain't and abetting him—you'll go when he goes—and what's goner become of me and the baby?"

"So that's why you aren't enterprising in pumping Juanita! You ought to know that people expecting a family are keener than ever to feather their nest. You didn't used to look at things this way."

"I've always hated your connection with Umberto. Oh, Divvy, I'm so afraid!"

"You're so afraid you're holding out on me where Juanita's concerned."

"Think what you please, Divvy. You know the girl don't talk much."

"I know well enough I can get on without her," Divitt answered. He got into his bath robe. Molly was looking at him hopefully.

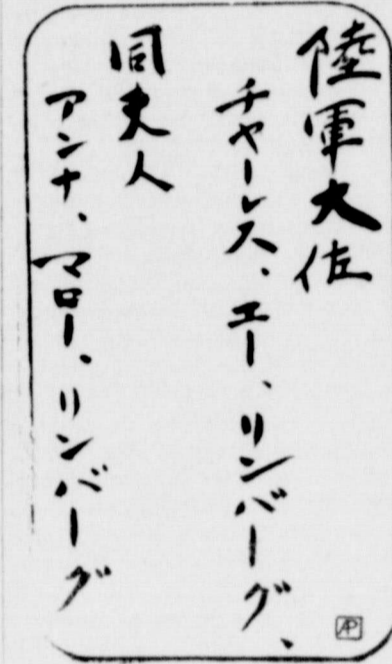

"You mean you don't intend to use Juanita?"

"Use her, of course. But differently."

"Divvy, we've got money. Let's go somewhere and start all over in something that's not dangerous. Many things are dangerous," remarked Divitt. "Aviators take chances. So do miners and soldiers. A man must follow his best. That's the first thing women have to learn." He went over and patted Molly's shoulders. "Go to sleep, kid. You're not going to have any more to do with this."

"I suppose you don't trust me." The thought wrung her heart. "It's not that. Pick out the clothes for Juanita, and look after her dates. Let it go at that. As far as my getting into trouble is concerned—I won't. When it comes I'll be gone—you with me."

He opened a door beside the armoire, went up a narrow stair to his office. There he sat down at his disordered desk and wrote: "Marquesa Carlota de Luiz y Cabrera, 14 Michel Street, New Orleans." "Dear Marquesa: Will you kindly call at my office tomorrow—Thursday—night at nine o'clock?"

Businesses Which Help Build City

J. C. Penney Co., Inc.

The J. C. Penney store opened in Ballinger on March 28, 1930, and since that time has taken its place among the leading businesses of the city.

The Penney store system was founded at Kenner, Wyoming, and since that time has had a wonderful growth and expansion in the United States. The Ballinger store, numbered 1423, is a unit in the system covering the entire nation, and many others have been established since the local store was opened.

The store carries a large line of standard dry goods and notions. A separate department is maintained for ladies' ready-to-wear, and during the Christmas holiday season "Toyland" for the kiddies is a busy place.

All Penney stores are built and operated on the same plan and at all times attract customers with attractive store windows containing special merchandise suitable for the season. They appeal to the buying public with extensive newspaper advertising and while no "sales" are staged every day is a special selling day with low prices featured.

J. A. Killough, local manager, entered the service of the company at Temple in 1920. He was sent to San Angelo in 1924, remaining there until given the management of the Ballinger store. The company offers young men the opportunity of entering its service and learning the business from the bottom up and when prepared placing them in stores at a salary and one-third of the profits of the store.

Since coming to Ballinger Mr. Killough has established himself in the social, civic and business life of the city and is always ready to do his share in community activities.

Miss Elma Ashton is in charge of the office and women's department. Mrs. Augusta Bethany has charge of the women's merchandise section on the first floor, and Glenn Doherty assists Mr. Killough in the men's section.

All School Children Must be Vaccinated

Dr. E. D. Walker, city health officer, issues a warning to parents and guardians regarding compulsory vaccination against small pox for all school children. It is only a little more than one month to the opening of school here and all children must be vaccinated before they can enter. Those who have never been given the vaccine will have time now to take it and be over the bad results before the opening of school.

This rule was rigidly enforced here last year and will be again this year. It saves much time during the school year and for years has been a requirement here. A number thinking that they would be able to attend without a scar last year were sent home and required to be vaccinated before they could re-enter school and as a result more than a weeks time was lost from classes.

Dr. Walker stated that all students would be inspected the first week of school here and anyone found not already vaccinated would be sent home at once.

Other inspections will be made by the health workers soon after school is opened. Students will be weighed regularly and all those found with defects given a chance to correct them.

School will open here on September 7 and with classes already registered it is expected that no time will be lost in starting school work. Those who have not registered and taken their courses will do so the first day and be ready to meet with their classes with only the loss of the first day of school. This work is attended to at the close of each school year, however, some fail to register and other transfers here from other districts to do high school work and are not registered for the opening day.

CIRCLET OF STOLEN HAIR ASSURED MAYAN SWAINS

CHICAGO, July 28.—The secret of winning a girl's love isn't nearly as complicated as it used to be.

The ancient Mayas of Central America reports J. Eric Thompson, assistant curator of archaeology at the Field Museum, believed in this recipe for romance: If a man stole three hairs from the head of his heart's choice, tied them alternately with three of his own, making a circle, the girl would fall in love with him—provided all this was done on a Friday.

Thompson, leader of the third Marshall Field archaeological expedition to British Honduras and Guatemala, uncovered this bit of lore during several months spent in excavating Maya burial mounds.

O. M. Spuling received 14 votes to be elected mayor of Sharon, S. C., a town of 600 people. His opponent received four votes.

Football Coach will Meet Boys at Camp

John Sterling Prince newly elected football coach of the Ballinger high school, will get acquainted with a number of the candidates for the 1931 team at the national guard encampment at Palacios during the next two weeks. He is a member of the hospital unit of the division and has asked that two footballs be issued to the Ballinger guardsmen so that he may get all candidates in the organization at off hours and teach them a little about passing and kicking and get a line on their ability to handle the ball.

Supt. H. C. Lyon stated that the request would be granted and a member of last year's team will take two footballs to camp and look up the new coach as soon as Company C detaches. The boys will have plenty of time in the late afternoons to meet with the coach and do quite a little work. Mr. Prince also inquired about any early training that might be planned here and intimated that he would like to meet the players early and get started to work.

A number of games have been matched, including Paint Rock, San Angelo, Winters, Coleman, Eden, Brady and Melvin, and others who usually come here each year are seeking games. The first game will be played here on September 17, just ten days after the opening of school, and early training will be needed this year to put the boys in physical condition to play this game which also happens to be a conference tilt.

Radio Stars to Give Benefit Show Here

Honeyboy and Sassafras will be in Ballinger tomorrow. They will spend the entire day here and at 8:15 in the evening will appear in a big benefit show at the high school auditorium. The proceeds of the show will all go to the local boy scouts and camp fire organizations.

This benefit performance will be staged without any expense. The performers are giving their work free, the Lions club and Rotary club are sponsoring the benefit, the building is free, advertising free and every nickel taken in will help the local boys and girls in their proposed building program. The admission is low with only 15 and 25 cents being charged to see and hear this nationally known pair of entertainers.

Wednesday at noon the Lions and Rotary clubs will meet in a joint session with Honeyboy and Sassafras as guests of the two clubs. The Lions club has called off their meeting for Friday noon in order to meet with the Rotarians and entertain this distinguished pair. Every member of the two civic clubs are requested to be present Wednesday and those with guests are requested to notify the secretary of the clubs so that the hotel can be notified of the number to be at the luncheon in advance. At other times during the day the entertainers will be found at the Hicks Rubber Company.

The local civic clubs are anxious to fill the school auditorium Wednesday evening for the benefit performance. The program will be one that will really entertain and give many laughs. The building will be opened early in the afternoon and made comfortable for the crowd expected to be present.

Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will assist the clubs in the sale of tickets and other arrangements for the show.
