Sterling Sees No Aid for Southern Cotton Farmer

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, August 4.—Governor Ross S. Sterling today opened the southwide cotton conference here with the statement that gigantic stocks were unsold while millions go poorly clothed. He denied the existence of a surplus of the staple, asserting that distribution is faulty.

The Texas executive said millions of Chinese and Indians are hungry and naked, lacking gold wherewith to buy cotton, the United States and France having three-fourths of the world's visible supply of the yellow metal.

Gov. Sterling said he doubted somewhat if it was possible to aid farmers or oil men by legislation. Oklahoma, New Mexico, Tennessee, Louisiana and Arkansas are represented in the conference.

Preliminary recommendations passed yesterday asked the federal farm board to keep cotton being held off the market until after New Year. Statutory acreage reduction was approved.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Neil, of Menard, were in Ballinger Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. W. L. Williams.

Roy Reeder left Sunday for Eastern markets where he will buy his fall and winter merchandise for the Ballinger store.

School Trustees Hear Speakers

School trustees of Rannels county assembled Tuesday morning in the district court room at the court house for an all-day session to learn of school legislation recently changed and attend to other business.

The meeting was called to order by County Superintendent R. E. White, and J. D. Motley, secretary of the Ballinger Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the school officials and invited them to eat watermelon with the local organization at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. This invitation was received with generous applause and all promised to be on hand for the ice cold refreshments.

E. J. Clark, representative of the state department of education, spoke during most of the forenoon in explaining changes made in school laws which would affect the operations of schools at the next term. Many of the changes are slight but are of particular interest to trustees. Changes regulating overs and unders, transfers, and the collection of tuition were discussed as well as the new state aid law.

J. H. Winfrey, state sanitary engineer, also was on the program here, and talked to the trustees about improving sanitary conditions in schools of the county. A survey is being made on sanitary conditions in Rannels county and a report will be compiled soon.

Those desiring were given an opportunity to ask questions regarding anything not thoroughly understood. Every school in the county was represented at this meeting.

Russian Morgantic Widow Sues Poland for Rich Farms

(By Associated Press)
WARSAW, August 4.—Countess Natalia Brassow, morganatic widow of Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, brother of the last czar of Russia, has started legal proceedings against Poland to recover four farms which belonged to the grand duke when he owned broad acres in what is now Polish territory.

The farms represent a value of approximately $1,000,000.

Grand Duke Michael married Natalia Brassow, the divorced wife of one of his adjutants. The imperial family never recognized her nor George, the son of this marriage.

When the bolshevik upheaval broke out, Michael was murdered. Countess Brassow and her young son succeeded in escaping abroad, where the surviving members of the imperial family continued to give them the cold shoulder. It was left to King George of Eng-

Turkey Raisers Plan Marketing

Members of the Rannels County Poultry Association are being given an opportunity to vote on whether a new contract be signed for marketing of their products on a cooperative basis this year. A questionnaire has been mailed each member of the association by C. W. Lehmburg and the first answers are beginning to arrive at this time and are being tabulated as they are received.

As soon as the membership has expressed itself on the subject a meeting will be called at some place in the county to take definite action on the matter of marketing this year's crop of birds and officers will begin a campaign to carry out the wishes of the meeting.

Officers of the association believe the turkey crop in this county will be about one-third less than that of last year, but the quality has been greatly improved and should bring better prices under the new classifying rule used for all shipments. Birds have done well this year due to a good range with plenty of green stuff and will be heavier at market time with the same amount of feeding.

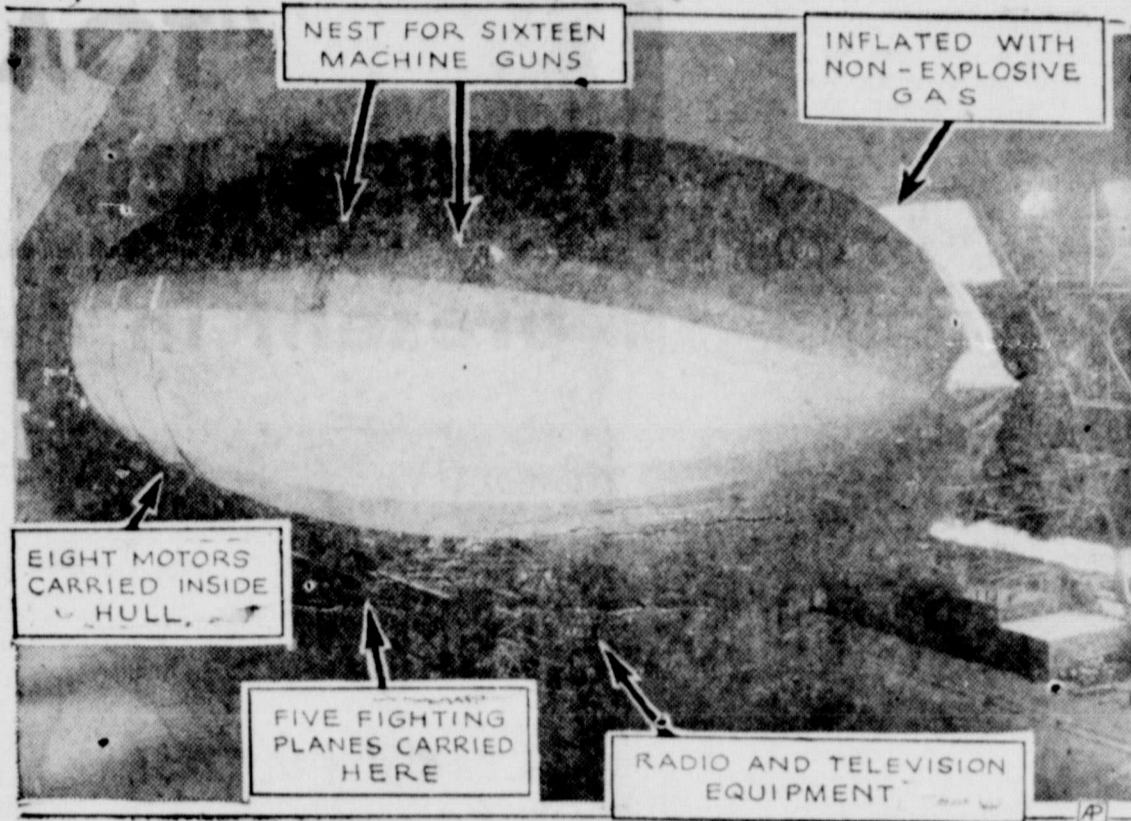

The association was successful with its shipments last year and officials believe that a year's experience will be of value to all raisers in classifying birds for shipment. All fowls with the exception of No. 1s will be discouraged at the first market in November. Small birds will be held and fed for a later market when these will class higher.

Akron "Baptism" After Three Years' Work Milestone in Building U. S. Air Industry

The navy's dirigible, Akron, which Mrs. Hoover will dedicate August 8, is the largest, fastest and safest airship in the world, its designers believe. Carrying five military planes within its hull and mounting 16 machine guns it will be a veritable flying fortress.

(By R. P. Cronin, Jr.)
AKRON, O., August 4.—(AP)—The fluttering of eight white pigeons in a mammoth hangar here August 8 will mark the passing of another milestone in the history of American aeronautical progress.

The birds will be released as the dirigible Akron, constructed by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation for the United States navy, is christened.

The Akron is not only the largest, speediest and safest airship in the world, but is also one of the few in the world commissioned for military purposes. The Akron will make her trial flights under command of Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rowendahl and 69 officers and men.

The history of the Akron goes back to 1926, when Rear Admiral William A. Moffett convinced congress that lighter-than-air craft was the present-day word in the air military program of the nation.

Congress authorized the construction of two giant dirigibles. And the government, in awarding its contract, helped to create a lighter-than-air industry in America.

In July, 1927, a contract was awarded the Akron corporation, and a year later $200,000 was made available for construction. Shortly thereafter the Goodyear-Zeppelin company started erection of the mammoth air dock here.

Zeppelin patents held in Germany were obtained, and 13 experienced Zeppelin engineers were induced to come to Akron. Among them was Dr. Karl Arr-

(By Associated Press)
SINTON, Tex., Aug. 4.—Justice of the Peace A. J. Custer today refused to postpone the preliminary hearing here of Newton Yarberry, 22, charged with the murder of Dorothy Symon, pretty church chorister, of Aransas Pass. The hearing was recessed until this afternoon.

Yarberry has denied all knowledge of the killing.

County Roadwork Progressing Fast

A representative of the McClung Construction Company was here Tuesday morning consulting with the resident Engineer G. M. Garrett, and left for Paint Rock to select a location for his bridge machinery. This firm was awarded a contract last week for the construction of a bridge across Hog Creek, just South of Paint Rock on Highway No. 4, and will place machinery on the location there at once to start work as soon as a work order can be received.

Brown & Root, contractors on Highway No. 4, have started the rock crusher to operating on the A. J. Thorp farm. The rock from this crusher will be hauled and dumped on the shoulder of highway 4 to be used in combination with asphalt in triple surfacing of that road. They are also beginning the construction of the second treatment of base on the North end of this eleven mile stretch of road and the lower end of South Seventh Street in the city limits.

G. M. Garrett announced Tuesday that all cement work had been completed on the Frog Pond and Kickapoo bridges in Concho county, and that as soon as the refills were made and approaches completed the bridges would be opened to travel. This work will be finished during the month of August. They are located on Highway No. 9 between San Angelo and Eden.

Grading of Highway No. 23 from Ballinger to Talpa is about 70 per cent complete at the present time however no work has been done for the past week. The Austin Bridge Company is making fine progress with the concrete bridge work on Highway No. 23 and expect to complete their contract in September. Three of the larger bridges have already been completed, a box culvert is being poured at present and there are yet two box type bridges to be built and five girders to be poured on two bridges on this end of the job. They are making excellent time with their work and will likely complete the drainage structures before the grading on this road is finished.

When the present work is completed there will only be the surfacing of Highway 23 from Ballinger to Talpa and a bridge across Elm Creek on the same road left to be attended to in this county.

Runnels county has been in-

not enter competition with other

SUNDOWN STORIES

FIFTY BILLION YEARS By Mary Graham Bonner

It was bright daylight and the Clock had turned the time ahead fifty billion years. John and Peggy wondered what would happen.

The world looked different from that of their day, but not so very different. They were sitting down by the side of a road used only for landing powerful airplanes.

But the Little Black Clock was talking to them, and in amazement they listened.

"Yes, I've turned the time ahead
fifty billion years, and I've never turned it that far forward for any of our adventures."

"Will we find out anything different, do you suppose?" asked John, and then he added, "Are they having longer days in the future?"

"They most certainly are," said
the Clock. "Instead of a 24-hour day they now have a day that lasts 47 times that amount. So that is a little sum for you to do when you get home!"

"When you saw the Tide brothers a long, long time ago, I believe they told you that the moon's work with the tides was slowly slowing down the rotating,
or turning around of the earth.

You see, when the earth turned more quickly the 24 hours was enough to complete the job.

"The moon, with a little help
from the sun, causes the tides.
Now the tides have kept the earth from moving quite so quickly. But I haven't taken you where you can see the moon."

"Can't we see the moon anywhere?" Peggy asked.

"No, we'll have to take a trip to see the moon shining in the heavens," the Clock said.

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Jago Gulikson, Academy of Medicine

CAUSES OF STUTTERING

At a recent meeting of the American Society for the Study of Disorders of Speech a group of experts put forth their opinions
as to the causes and treatments of stuttering.

In reading a summary of their discussion one is impressed with the diversity of views. One is led to believe that either we still know very little about the causes of stuttering or else—which appears to be more warranted—that the causes are many and varied.

Dr. Smiley Blanton, who has devoted himself to the study of speech defects, fittingly described stuttering as a difficult combination of organic, constitutional and functional factors. Emotional and psychologic difficulties were agreed upon as among the principal causes.

Treatment, therefore, requires speech training such as is used for the training of the voice and speech of non-stutterers and a definite knowledge of and the capacity to apply mental hygiene in order to resolve the hampering emotional fixations that embarrass the stammerer.

Dr. Blanton observed with warrant that the emotional problems from which the stammerer suffers cannot be adequately treated by good will, a kind heart and inspirational talks.

While emotional factors are considered the underlying cause of stuttering, there are others
that are influencing or predisposing in character.

Enlarged adenoids, diseased tonsils and defective teeth may, by reflex action, cause the sufferer to stutter.

General weakness resulting from malnutrition, illness or overwork and shock, fear and hysteria may also predispose the sufferer to stuttering.

An hereditary factor has been noted in a number of cases. One explanation that has been strongly advanced by one group of psychologists is that stuttering is the result when left handed children are forced to use the right hand.

BOOTLEGGING OF MARIHUANA SAID TO BE INCREASING

(San Marcos Record)
Alberto Mesa, 53, was indicted by the special grand jury for the July term of district court, and charged with the sale of more than $50 worth of marihuana (marihuana weed). The Mexican made bond, following his arrest.

According to Sheriff M. M.
Wren, this is the first arrest in Hays county for the possession,
sale or transportation of marihuana since the law went into effect about 60 days ago paralleling its violation with the liquor law and making it a felony to violate the law regarding its possession, sale or transportation.

Sheriff Wren and his entire force are making a powerful drive against the violation of this new law since the use of the product is becoming more popular among all classes of citizens and is becoming known to be responsible for much crime in this section of the state.

Sheriff Wren and his deputies brought to San Marcos Sunday afternoon a load of marihuana weed which when dried and ready for sale would have an estimated value of between $600 and $1,500.
The officers secured this large haul at the home of a man living
four miles from San Marcos.

The marihuana weed is gathered, principally by Mexicans, dried, and then rubbed into a powder and sold in both small and large quantities by many Mexicans living in Hays county.
Its use is said to make the smoker have a craze, or desire, to kill or commit crimes the knowledge of which can not be recalled by the criminal when he recovers from the influence of the weed. Bootlegging in this product is becoming a new occupation, according to Sheriff Wren.

Sheriff Wren and deputies have found small patches of marihuana in the yards of several Mexican residents in San Marcos and they declare they intend to continue their search and seizure of this weed, until San Marcos and Hays county will be free from its demoralizing, terrible effects.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally (Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals) present in every tobacco leaf

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia

Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive
"TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE.

"Never The Twain Shall Meet" Has Vivid Tropical Background

Just as America stands for hustling business, France for gowns, Argentina for wheat and Spain for revolutions, so do the South Sea Islands stand for romance, hula dances and intrigue.

In "Never The Twain Shall Meet," which will open a two-day run at the Palace Theatre tomorrow, the veteran director of Polynesian pictures, W. S. Van Dyke, has brought the breath of the tropics, the lure of the native girl, the all-consuming fire that enters the blood of a white man in the torrid islands and the conflict of the Caucasian and the native islanders.

With the two successes, "White Shadows in the South Seas" and "The Pagan," both taken near Tahiti, behind him, Van Dyke knows his natives. Weird dances, the ways of cast-off whites, the fiery passion of pagan girls, the degradations of those Caucasians who remain in the tropics, the contrast with the set manners and customs of civilization, all form a part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's novel romance of the South Seas.

In quick sequence the picture moves from exclusive drawing rooms of the American socially elite to the island haunts of the Polynesians, there to bring into contrast the ways of the peoples of this earth.

In the cast are Conchita Montenegro, Leslie Howard, C. Aubrey Smith, Karen Morley, Mitchell Lewis, Hale Hamilton, Clyde Cook, Bob Gilbert, Joan Standing and Eulalie Jensen.

Businesses Which Help Build City

Mrs. Bailey's Beauty Parlor Mrs. Ruth Bailey established one of the first beauty parlors in Ballinger and has successfully conducted that business since opening here. The business was started on August 19, 1925 and while there had been other similar shops here, they were more or less of the transient type and only opened for a short time.

Using practical business methods Mrs. Bailey soon established a patronage that has stayed with her through the years and that demanded additional help to operate her shop. She installed modern machinery from the first and since has kept her plant modern in every particular.

Permanent waving machines of the latest type offer Frederick, Naivette and Croquignole and hair driers and many other electrical devices are a part of the equipment of this shop.

Mrs. W. F. Harrell is an assistant to Mrs. Bailey and both women make a close study of the business and all new methods of work that are taught in the best schools.

Mrs. Bailey stated that she came to Ballinger to make her home and that she had given work that she knew would stand the rigid tests and bring customers back the second time. She is not complaining about depression but has accepted the changes in business and is still treating her patronage in a way that brings them back for appointments when in need of work at a beauty parlor.

She is conveniently located on Hutchings Avenue in an upstairs office where ladies can be comfortable and at the same time have privacy of this modern office.

Wings . . . like the gulls, will flutter, too, by away! Kirk tomorrow is not sure of her.

Nuthall, Moody Match Center Of Interest in Cup Series

The match of Mrs. Helen Willis Moody and Betty Nuthall, British girl, is expected to furnish the high spot in the 1931 Wightman Cup series, August 7-8, at Forest Hills, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Would Betty Nuthall, sturdy British girl, have romped off with the American women's tennis championship last year at Forest Hills if Helen Willis Moody had been entered?

This question has been debated more or less by followers of the sport for about a year, and it should receive some sort of an answer in the 1931 renewal of the Wightman Cup series, August 7-8, on the grass courts of the West Side Club at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Miss Nuthall and Queen Helen are expected to hold the spotlight for their respective teams in the ninth annual series between the American and British forces for the cup put up by Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston. Each team has won four of the series, the first of which was played in 1923.

Miss Nuthall never has beaten the American girl in singles competition, though in the 1929 British team cup play, Queen Helen was extended to the limit to pull out a 7-5, 8-6 victory.

Mrs. Moody recently returned to tournament play in the East, after a year's retirement on the West Coast. The form she showed in her first large tournament, the annual invitational affair at Seabright, N. J., indicates that the British girl must be very good indeed to silence those critics who say her road to the American championship last year would have been much rougher had Queen Helen elected to defend her crown.

The Wightman Cup series is made up of seven matches, and it has been mainly the superiority in singles which has enabled the American women to get an even break thus far. Hence the importance of the Nuthall vs. Moody match is readily apparent.

Miss Helen Jacobs, a Californian like Mrs. Moody, probably will get the No. 2 singles assignment. Mrs. Fearnley Whittinghall, formerly Eileen Bennett, is likely to fill a similar role for the British team.

Other members of the invading British team are Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron, Phyllis Mudford and Dorothy Round.

Station Plans On World-Wide Radio Hook-Up

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, August 4.—Fostering of good will between the United States and foreign countries will be sought by the interchange of radio programs under the auspices of the newly organized Short Wave Broadcasting Corporation of New York.

The federal radio commission has approved the project. Ellis A. Yost, chief examiner for the commission, who recommended granting licenses to the company, says "there is need for a short wave broadcasting station independent of the chains."

He reports that a plan has been worked out for the rebroadcast of programs throughout Latin America by means of ten or more centrally located stations. Negotiations are also in progress for the rebroadcasting of programs in China and Japan.

The commission has been informed that the Italian embassy is interested in broadcasting Italian programs in the United States, and American programs in Italy.

The Short Wave Broadcasting Corporation, the commission was told, is a fusion of the interests of Aviation Radio Station, Inc., operating Station WRNY, of the short wave station W2XAL, and of certain operations of the Short Wave and Television Corporation of Boston.

ITALIAN EX-SOLDIERS FREED OF WARTIME DEATH THREAT

(By Associated Press)

PALERMO, Italy, August 4.—Eight ex-soldiers, all former members of the same squad, were freed here after a court martial had acquitted them of having deserted to the Austrians in the World War.

They would have faced a firing squad had they been found guilty, for the death penalty for Italian wartime culprits is still in force.

The men were on duty in an advanced post at San Marco the night of August 26, 1917. They did not return for duty and when a scout found the listening post empty with no signs of a fight they were listed as deserters.

Recently the eight were rounded up. Their defense, that they were captured by the Austrians, was accepted.

CHURCH OF GOD REVIVAL HAS WONDERFUL MEETING

Rev. Coker, the evangelist who is conducting the Church of God revival, and Rev. Johnson, the pastor, visited the mission Sunday school which is conducted by Mrs. Sargent, last Sunday eve.

Rev. Coker spoke to the children on obedience to God and their parents. Attention was good. It was very interesting to see how orderly little Beatrice Bryan, their secretary, performed and sang good bye to the children as they left the building.

It is through the kindness of H. W. Lynn, the oil mill manager, that they have the use of the office and other necessary things for the good of the Sunday school.

Service Clubs will Hold Joint Session

Ballinger service clubs will meet Wednesday noon at the Central Hotel in a joint meeting. The session was planned as a part of the Rotarians six months program and the Lions Club accepted the invitation to be present and take charge of the program. President Robert Bruce of the Lions Club named a special committee several weeks ago to plan and present a program for this occasion and good entertainment is promised for the occasion.

President L. R. Tinner is urging that every Rotarian be present Wednesday and that all who can bring guests to swell the attendance at this joint meeting. Last Wednesday was the first time in the history of the local Rotary club that 100 per cent attendance was registered. The membership committee had been striving for this for some time but it took the announcement that "Honeyboy and Sassafras" would be present to get the crowd out.

No special discussion of any civic project will be submitted to the club members Wednesday. This meeting was planned as a good-will, friendly get-together and business unless of unusual importance will be dispensed with. Those who expect to have guests with them are requested to notify the secretary of the member's club so the hotel management can be notified and be ready promptly at 12.

The Lions will not hold their Friday luncheon and attendance will be checked at the joint meeting Wednesday.

Akron "Baptism"

stein, world-famed Zeppelin builder.

Fabrication of the Akron was formally started November 7, 1929, when Rear Admiral Moffett drove a golden rivet into the master ring. Eight hundred men then went to work on the ship, and in a year and a half since then the queen of the air has steadily taken form.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to attend the christening, including many men high in the councils of the nation. The program will be broadcast.

When the Akron takes to the air engineers probably will soon lay the groundwork for the second Zeppelin, the ZRS-5, and later the corporation expects to construct mammoth lighter-than-air craft for transatlantic service.

These commercial ships will be similar to the Akron, except that the military equipment will be replaced by accommodations for 100 passengers.

The Akron is 785 feet from stem to stern, nine feet longer than the world-grinding Graf Zeppelin. She has a capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet, almost twice as great as the Graf, and her maximum diameter is 132.9 feet.

Her eight motors develop 4,480 horsepower, and drive her at a maximum of 85 miles an hour. She can cruise 10,580 miles without refueling.

Her lifting gas is the non-explosive helium.

Her armament will include 16 heavy calibre machine guns and five fighting planes. These planes, resting in a hangar within the giant ship, can be released and recovered by a trapeze arrangement.

Invite Local Scouts To Summer Camps

Ballinger Boy Scouts are being urged to attend two different camps this summer. The camps are nearby and a number of local Scouts will be present for the full period at these camps or at least the one staged by the Concho Valley Council.

Recently the troops here became units of this council, being transferred from the Chisholm Trail area. Soon after the transfer a new campsite was donated to the Concho Valley area near Junction which is said to be the best location from a point of beauty in the state.

The encampment to start on August 17 will be the first to be held at the new location and all activities of the camp will be under the direction of B. W. Draper, executive for the area. His letter to Scouts of this city states that the two weeks at the camp will be given over to exploring the new site and that many interesting trips have been planned. Trips have been scheduled over the surrounding country, up mountain streams, to "haunted" houses, old battlefields, ancient Indian villages, into wild game preserves and a dozen other places.

The first encampment will be held from August 17 to 24 and the second from August 24 to 31. Scouts can attend one week or can make reservations for both weeks. The cost will be $3.25 for a single week or $10.50 for both weeks and the following items will be needed by each boy attending: Outdoor uniform, one pair strong shoes, wading shoes, one pair blankets or equivalent, extra shirt, pants, stockings, handkerchiefs, underwear, soap, two towels, comb, tooth-paste, tooth-brush, plate, knife, fork, spoon and cup.

Those desiring should make application at once and parents who are interested in more information can get some by writing B. W. Draper, San Angelo.

Camp Tonkawa, near Buffalo Gap, will be opened for the first time this year, and Ballinger Scouts are invited to attend this camp which starts on August 13.

Farmers Discuss Cotton Picking

Farmers from about twelve communities of the North portion of Runnels county met in Winters Monday afternoon to discuss the cotton production in this county and the amount of labor that would be needed here this fall to gather the cotton crop.

Reports from all communities represented there Monday indicated that cotton was doing fine with a prospect at the present time of a yield of about one-half bale to the acre. With more than 200,000 acres planted in cotton in the county give promise at this season of the largest crop ever produced in this county.

Farmers attending the meeting at Winters estimated that they would need labor to gather from 50 to 80 per cent of their crop this fall and could manage the rest with their families. The price for cotton picking was discussed freely and all favored basing the price for picking with the price per pound the product was bringing and to change the picking price with the market. No definite action was taken on this matter, however, but farmers were anxious to fix a price and abide by that set figure and not have raising and taking pickers from a neighboring field.

County Agent C. W. Lehnberg stated Tuesday morning that he planned to call a meeting here within a short time and invite all communities in the South part of the county to come here and discuss the problem of gathering the crop this year. An invitation will be sent broadcast to the farmers of this section and every effort made to get a representative crowd to attend the gathering when the date is set.

Farmers in most sections will have a full job taking care of their feed crops. Maize and other row crops are beginning to ripen now and the late summer and early fall will be used to harvest this crop and place it in the barns or on the market. This job will take most of the farmer's time until the early cotton picking season starts and with the large acreage this fall and a good crop it will likely be late in the winter before the crop is gathered in this county.

Those studying the labor situation believe that there will not be enough local labor to take care of the large crop here and that other provisions will have to be made.

Trippers to Visit Maverick Tonight

The Ballinger people will be off for Maverick late this evening and a big crowd is being arranged for and expected at that place tonight at 8:15. The crowd will assemble there and will not meet in town before departure. The band will leave in the bus at about 7:00 o'clock and as soon as they arrive will begin a popular concert which will be followed by the program.

The program committee has made all arrangements for this week and have announced the Thursday night engagement for Rowena. This will be another short trip over a concrete road and people can attend without getting in the dust.

Dates are being made for a week at a time with two communities being scheduled for each week. This is done to cause no changes being made due to unexpected happenings in the communities to be visited. With the short course over the entire program is being devoted at present to boosting the Runnels county fair in October.

Brownwood Man Buys Wilke Bakery

B. N. Wilke announced Tuesday morning that all details of a sale of his bakery had been completed and that the business was now in the hands of A. W. Boler. Mr. Boler arrived here the last of the past week and started negotiations for the Wilke Bakery. The closing of the deal will not effect the business of that plant and it will continue to operate but under the name of Boler Bakery.

Mr. Boler comes here from Brownwood and is an experienced baker, having been in the business for many years. He will personally do his own baking and his wife will look after the sales in the front show room. Mr. Boler stated Tuesday that he expected to keep the products of the bakery high and nothing but first class bread, cakes and pastries would be manufactured in his plant.

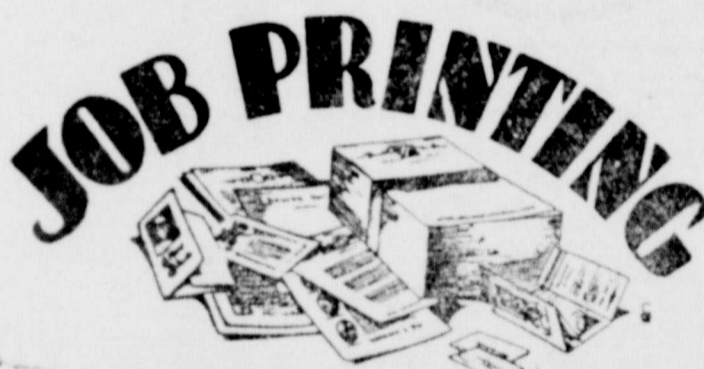

Mr. and Mrs. Boler and their two children and Mrs. Boler's mother have moved here and are living in the Chas. Storm house in Wilke Terrace. They expect to make Ballinger their permanent home and take their places in the civic and commercial life of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilke in retiring from the bakery extend their thanks to those who have so generously patronized them since they opened the business here on the first of January. They will spend several weeks on a vacation near Junction on the Llano river and will return here after that is over. Mr. Wilke stated Tuesday that he was not ready to announce what line of business he would engage in if any.
