Deputy Sheriff Orders Justice Of Peace to Leave County

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Aug. 15.—Carl Utterback, justice of the peace at Aransas Pass, telegraphed the governor's office today that he had been ordered out of San Patricio county last night by a deputy sheriff.

The justice of the peace said the deputy assaulted him in the presence of the sheriff and other deputies and ordered him to resign. Utterback asked advice.

As Governor Ross Sterling is out of the capital, at his home in Houston, Ill., Pat Dougherty, the governor's secretary, replied that the governor lacked authority to advise in the case.

San Patricio county authorities are reported to be at odds over the investigation of the slaying of Miss Dorothy Symons, 18, pretty choir singer.

Captain A. R. Mace, of the state ranger force, said the rangers, who had been there investigating the murder, would not return to that section.

Bert Low Injured In Car Accident

Bert E. Low, of Abilene, formerly of Winters, was seriously injured in an automobile crash three miles north of Lawn Friday evening about 7 o'clock. He was taken to an Abilene hospital soon after found on the road and early Saturday morning was still unconscious. Mr. Low sustained a concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises about the face. The accident occurred at a small cement bridge on highway No. 7.

Mr. Low had visited the Lawn community on business and was returning to his home at Abilene. The accident was witnessed by A. C. Overturf, of Abilene, who was about half a mile behind Mr. Low when he crashed. Mr. Overturf said that as the Low car approached the bridge it apparently skidded in loose gravel and that the steering gear was either smashed or Mr. Low lost control of the machine. It swung to the right, striking a concrete banner on the bridge, smashing the car and throwing the driver to the pavement.

Mr. Overturf returned to Lawn with the injured man as quickly as possible. After receiving first aid at Lawn Mr. Low was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Mr. Low is district agent for the Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company. Until the first of 1931 he was vice-president of the Citizens National Bank of Abilene.

Prior to going to Abilene Mr. Low was head of the First National Bank of Winters for a number of years and was a popular leader in civic movements in this county. He served for several years as an official of the Runnels County Fair Association. Widely known in this and other sections of Runnels county, Mr. Low has made many friends.

Parents of the injured man, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Low, of Winters, hurried to the bedside of their son Friday night.

Mrs. S. H. Daugherty and family, of Carlsbad, N. M., came in Saturday for a visit with her sisters, Mrs. Dave Ransberger, of Concho, and Mrs. G. W. Thomerson, of Menard.

Miss Addie Alexander returned Friday to spend the week-end in Ballinger after working for the past week in Brown and Mills counties.

The aviators' moving picture camera and six reels of film were confiscated. A Rengo dispatch said their plane will not be seized.

The fliers have cabled home for money.

The San Saba Fair, one of the oldest in the state, opened this week to a crowd of 3,000 on the first day. This fair apparently will set an attendance record as good as in its palmiest days. Horse racing is a feature of the afternoon programs with vaudeville, pageants and other amusements at night.

The Coleman city commission recently passed an ordinance prohibiting surface toilets and forcing residents within the city limits to either connect with the sewer system or construct out-houses approved by the state board of health. Such a measure is being considered in Ballinger and public health officers here are strongly urging the law now when a number of cases of typhoid fever have been reported here. Coleman's ordinance will become effective immediately.

Some local boosters apparently are getting tired of making the good-will trips and the crowds are dwindling although those who go have just as much enthusiasm. Next week the committee will try to revive interest in these excursions, seeking to again get at least 100 cars to join the mission inaugurated for the good of Ballinger and Runnels county. These trips are not for the purpose of seeking trade but merely friendly visits in the interest of the county fair and to become better acquainted with rural friends in the various sections of the county.

Many diseases that the law says must be reported to city health officers are never reported at all, according to Dr. E. R. Walker, city health officer here. Twenty-three diseases are included on blanks to be sent to the state health department and of this list only a few are commonly recorded on books kept by the city health department. Cases of anthrax, chicken pox, dengue, diphtheria, dysentery (epidemic), encephalitis (lethargic), glanders, influenza, measles, meningitis, mumps, ophthalmia neonatorum, paratyphoid, poliomyelitis, pneumonia, rabies, scarlet fever, small pox, trachoma, tuberculosis, typhoid fever and whooping cough should be reported as soon as diagnosed. Health officers seek cooperation in this order.

NO SUNDAY DRILLING ON CASTOR-DEAN WELL

Drilling on the Castor-Dean No. 1 oil well has been making good progress for the past few days with day and night shifts being operated. The well is now past the 2,400-foot mark and next week more speed will be possible after the wet hole is in better shape. Pipe was being set in the well on Saturday and the drillers will cut off the flow and the drillers to make better time.

Mr. Castor announced Saturday that work would be suspended Saturday night at midnight and no Sunday tours would be operated on the remainder of the work on this well. The crews will be given Sunday off and people desiring to see the machinery in operation must visit the location some time besides Sunday. Much interest has been evinced in this well by scouts and pay oil is expected to be encountered between 2,550 and 2,560 feet. This is about the depth the pool was found in the Vacuum wells north-east of the city.

MAY BUILD PARK TO TAKE IN OLD ALAMO

(By Associated Press)
SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 15.—Plans for construction of a park around the Alamo will be considered at a meeting of Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, chairman of the Alamo acquisition board, Mayor C. M. Chambers, Porter Whaley, manager of the San Antonio chamber of commerce, and other in the near future.

The legislature has made an appropriation for the creation of the park around the Alamo.

Weatherford claims that fifty per cent of all the pecans in America are produced within a radius of one hundred miles of that city.

SUNDOWN STORIES

THEIR NAME

By Mary Graham Bonner

"They were given the name of trade winds," said the Little Black Clock, as they still sat at one end of the old sailing vessel, "because they helped carry the vessels along and so made the boats go along more quickly with their goods and treasures which they were going to trade."

"And you've turned the time so far back that these people think they are evil spirits," John said.

"Even to the days of Columbus many seamen felt that way about the trade winds," the Little Black Clock continued.

"I don't just understand how they work, or however it is you would speak of them," Peggy said.

"Hot air rises constantly from the neighborhood of the equator," the Little Black Clock said, "and the air comes rushing in from the north and from the south to take the place of the hot air."

"This makes the trade winds, as we always call them, since those days when trading seamen named them."

"Then the earth revolves from west to east and as the air goes toward the equator from north and south there is a good deal of wind caused by these two opposite motions."

Both Peggy and John understood now, and the Little Black Clock added:

"We spoke about them as not being needed much in these days with ships running by modern machinery, but they are a help now too. It is because of them that the climate of the Hawaiian Islands and other Pacific islands are comfortable and so people can live in these parts."

"There's certainly a lot we just take for granted," John remarked, and the Little Black Clock agreed.

HOW'S your HEALTH

HEART DISEASE

In the United States heart disease is responsible for more than 175,000 deaths annually, killing more men and women than tuberculosis, pneumonia or cancer. Approximately one out of every seven deaths is due to this condition, and heart disease deaths are on the increase.

Heart disease also is responsible for a great deal of disability. It is estimated that two out of every 100 persons in the United States have heart disease.

In the World War draft examinations three out of every 100 men examined had some form of heart disease.

It is calculated that 200,000 children of school age in the United States have defective hearts.

The death rate for heart disease is greater for men than for women, though between the ages of 5 and 35 the rate is slightly higher for females.

City population has a higher heart disease mortality rate than rural. Negroes have a higher death rate than white.

The causes of heart disease are numerous. Foremost are acute and chronic infectious diseases, particularly rheumatic fever and syphilis, hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure.

Contributing to the causes are innoxious and poisons of various sorts, bad personal hygiene and improper living methods.

Head of Austrian State Faces Hard Game

(By Associated Press)

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—A man with a hundred problems is Dr. Karl Buresch, new chancellor of Austria.

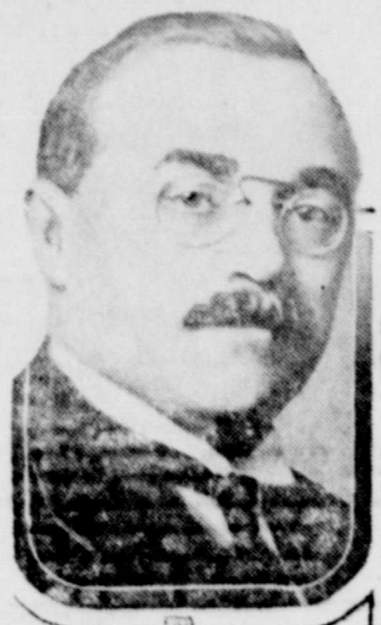

If he solves even a few of them, he will be acclaimed a success.

Every department of Austria's economic life, the state budget, domestic and foreign trade, the railways, the government monopolies, the provincial treasuries, agriculture and the commercial treaties with foreign neighbors, are in need of readjustment.

As assets for his big job Dr. Buresch has a cool, legal mind, robust physique and strong nerves. He has a temper which nothing apparently can ruffle.

Despite his weight, he strides briskly. His bright, steel gray eyes always recognize passing friends and he greets them jovially, disclosing sleek brown hair, smoothly combed and parted on the left side, as he lifts his hat in salute.

He is 53 years old and has held two relatively important offices, the governorship of Lower Austria and the chairmanship of the Christian social parliamentary party. The votes of his clerical friends put him in the chancellorship.

ated in part by its causes.

Common symptoms are shortness of breath following exertions formerly made with ease, undue weariness, pains about the heart or in the left arm, tightness in the chest, palpitation and irregular or rapid heart beat, swelling of the feet and legs, cough and occasional blood spitting.

Appearance of any of these symptoms does not necessarily establish the existence of heart disease, but should lead one to secure a careful medical examination.

Good-Will Trippers To Visit Content

The committee in charge of Good-will trips announced Saturday morning that the trip Tuesday night would be to Content. This date has been delayed in order for a revival meeting to be closed there and the citizens of that community have requested that the Ballinger visitors come there on Tuesday night.

The meeting will be closed Sunday night and announcements will be made at all services Sunday regarding the program for Tuesday night and a large crowd of people from that community has been assured.

A special program is being arranged for the Content trip and a committee will make an effort Monday and Tuesday to enlist many more people to make this date. Content is an outstanding community in this county in civic work and since the organization of the Runnels county fair has been one of the best patrons both to attendance and also to enter exhibits.

The Content school has always been a hard competitor in the school parade here which offers a prize for the largest number of students based on their enrollment at the fair.

GREENWOOD'S SERVICE STATION

school buses have been used to transport the students here and their cooperation has been greatly appreciated by the fair officials.

Many of the livestock entries come from that community and a large number of farmers make individual entries in the agricultural department. Clubs in that section are very active and the county agent and home demonstration agent have received wonderful cooperation from citizens there.

The program will be presented at 8:15 and a good group of numbers have been arranged and will be there to make one of the best programs presented to date.

Mrs. Hugh Latham, of Brownwood, is here to attend the funeral of D. M. Baker Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.
