400 Men Start to Work On Concho County Roads

State Resident Engineer G. M. Garrett is rushing plans as fast as possible this week to employ 400 men on Concho county highway projects. He had a large number busy Wednesday and as rapidly as work can be provided more will be added to the payroll.

This work is being done under the new drouth relief set-up. Concho county was placed on the primary list last week, enabling that county to secure much federal aid.

The first project is applying the first base treatment on highway No. 4 from six miles south of Paint Rock to Eden. No contract will be let, the work being done under Mr. Garrett's supervision with foremen in charge of the details.

During the first part of this week Mr. Garrett was busy getting machinery released to him by contractors and securing trucks, water sprinklers and other equipment needed. Material pits will be opened at once. This route has already been graded and drainage structures were built last year.

Traffic over highway 4 is being detoured at Ballinger while a large cement drainage gutter is being constructed under the southern approach to the Colorado River bridge south of this city. This work is being done by the maintenance division of the state highway department and when completed will divert water on a small creek which flows into the river a short distance below the bridge.

Work on highway 4 north of Winters is progressing satisfactorily and the first base course will be finished within a short time. One rock crusher has been preparing three sizes of rock to be used in the triple asphalt topping.

Veterans in Drouth Stricken Counties Offered CCC Work

Lee Hamilton, in charge of the veterans' reemployment office here, received word Wednesday morning that a call had been issued to veterans of the World War for enlistment in CCC camps in all counties included in the drouth area.

Blanks for the taking of applications were received here with the announcement and Mr. Hamilton will assist any veteran wishing to join the reforestation army. The pay is regular army wages of $30 per month and requires an allotment of 75 per cent to dependents.

Those applying for enlistment will be notified of acceptance by the state office at Austin within a few days and will soon be in a camp. No information was received here as to how many men would be taken in this call and until such notice is obtained Mr. Hamilton will fill out applications for all veterans who ask to join.

FORGOTTEN CISTERN UNCOVERED WHEN BUILDING REMODELED

In remodeling the building which will be occupied by the Davis Dry Goods Company on Hutchings Avenue, workmen removed a part of the floor and found a large cement cistern of about 250-barrel capacity which was half full of water. The cistern is well remembered by many old timers in Ballinger but had been forgotten for years and had had no gutters connected with it for a long time. It was under the Ballinger Dry Goods Company in the early days and some of the pioneers declare it afforded the "best drink in town" at that time. The huge cistern was filled with dirt and rock this week and a new floor will be laid over it.

Red Cross Worker Spends Week Here With Local Unit

R. H. Ziehm, field representative of the American Red Cross, is here this week conferring with officers of the Runnels county chapter. A check-up on work done so far this year and plans for the fall program are being studied by Mr. Ziehm.

Neal Nutt, chairman of the Runnels county chapter, presented Mr. Ziehm to other members of the local organization Monday afternoon and furnished the visiting representative with records and other data.

The field worker is interested in forming classes in health studies, first aid, and swimming. More than 50 Runnels county women completed the course and received diplomas in "Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick" last fall and it is hoped to enroll equally as many this year.

It is planned to begin classes in first aid early next autumn. K. V. Northington has been appointed chairman of the committee to direct study. He will be assisted by local physicians and nurses. Classes will be open for boys and girls, and for adults if enough want to enroll.

Mr. Ziehm stressed the importance of swimming instructions for children and in places where there are pools, instructors will be provided. A number who have passed swimming tests in colleges have been listed and efforts will be made to organize several classes.

National Guards To Camp August 3; Beck is Promoted

Captain Ross Murchison is making plans for the annual national guard encampment to be held at Palacios, August 4 to 18, inclusive. The local company will entrain here on the afternoon of August 3 and return on the morning of August 19.

Capt. Murchison announced this week the resignation from the company of First Lieutenant K. V. Northington, who has been an officer in the Ballinger unit for the past six years. Mr. Northington is devoting his time to other matters which prohibits him from serving the company. Capt. Murchison stated that it was with deep regret that Lieut. Northington's resignation was accepted.

Joe Beck, Jr., second lieutenant, will be promoted to first lieutenant before time for the encampment and only two officers will have charge of the company at Palacios. No papers have been filed for the place of second lieutenant at date.

Capt. Murchison said he expected between 60 and 65 enlisted men to go to camp this summer, practically the full strength of company C. Mrs. Murchison and three or four of the men will go through the country in a car and the remainder will board a pullman here.

The Santa Fe will set out special coaches here on August 2 to transport the guardsmen to camp. The equipment will include standard pullmans and a baggage car.

Four Die When Bus Strikes Bridge and Burns

Pictured above are the remains of a Greyhound bus which burst into flames when it struck a bridge near Dallas, Texas, striking four lives and burning six more people in varying degrees. One witness said the bus was traveling about 35 miles an hour as it rounded the curve in the night, when a tire blew out causing it to swerve to the left and strike the bridge railing. A gas tank at the side was burst and ignited, throwing a mass of flame over the entire bus. Surviving passengers say that Robert Downs, the driver, should be given a medal for valor in rescuing at least three passengers from the burning vehicle. (Texas News Photos)

Runnels County Placed in Primary Emergency Drouth Relief Area

Many Texas Counties to Get Drouth Relief

The above map shows 189 Texas counties which were on the drouth list prior to July 1. Those shown shaded have been added to the rolls in the last several days. The drouth, heretofore confined to the western part of the state, has now penetrated to the easternmost border. Only emergency counties, less than half the above, are eligible for drouth relief money. The secondary class are directly in line for cash if the drouth continues. Scattered rains helped the drouth situation last week, and with federal aid, it is well in hand in Texas. Some of the counties shown as shaded on the map and on the secondary list have been changed to the primary list since the making of this map, as is the case of Runnels county. (Texas News Photo.)

County Judge Paul Trimmer received a message Thursday morning from Senator Tom Connally announcing that Runnels county had been placed on the primary list in the drouth relief area and would now be entitled to full benefits. The telegram read: "Pleased to advise your county today designated for primary drouth relief benefits."

Announcement was made Sunday that Runnels county had been placed in the secondary list of the drouth relief area and would be eligible to receive freight rates on shipments of livestock and incoming deliveries of feed.

All this week Judge Trimmer and a number of others had been working to have the county given the primary benefits. The new designation will allow the government buying of livestock and probably highway construction similar to that commenced in adjoining counties.

No definite information has been received here relative to the benefits to be obtained under the new designation but complete data is expected within a few days. As soon as it is received it will be given publicity.

Another telegram was received later Thursday morning from C. W. Warburton, Washington, who it is understood will be in charge of drouth relief, saying, "We have today designated Runnels county for emergency primary drouth relief."

Mr. Tom Agnew is improved after several days' illness caused by sticking a needle in a foot.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cameron left Tuesday for the Davis Mountain region, where they will spend their vacation. They expected to be gone about ten days.

Special Train Assured For A. & M. Short Course

Bankhead Act is Explained to Group of Cotton Growers

A number of farmers assembled in the district court room at the court house Tuesday morning to hear the Bankhead cotton control act explained. Those summoned here by County Agent Elmo Cook included all community committeemen and at least one other man from each community.

Sam McMillan, agricultural economics instructor at A. & M. College and at present a field worker for the agricultural adjustment administration, was in charge of the meeting and addressed the farmers. Questions were answered in detail by the expert. Allotments to individual farmers was one of the topics explained by Mr. McMillan. The meeting was not open to all farmers of the county but only to the community chairmen and one other who will be ready to assist officials in the work.

Other meetings on this subject will be held later. Mr. Cook announced. He and others from this county last week attended a school in Abilene where government spokesmen explained provisions of the Bankhead law and how cotton raisers would be affected.

City Survey Shows Only 11 Vacancies; Collections Good

A city survey made July 2 showed only eleven unoccupied apartments, residences and business houses. This is the smallest number in several years and practically every habitable house is occupied by one or more families. The survey also showed that seventeen occupied places were without city water connections. This is also a very good record for this service.

Collections in every municipal department help up well in June with taxes paid totalling $2,314.32, water $1,524.26, and sanitary service $180.

Work on the drainage system continued last week with two large crews working twelve hours daily. The tunnel on Hutchings Avenue has been completed and most of the wall and floor work finished south of this street. Work has commenced on the ditch north of Hutchings.

Chief of Police Lee Moreland found three places storing raw hides in violation of a city ordinance and ordered the practice stopped. He also made fire inspections in the city, killed 5 dogs, and answered 25 phone calls.

Water consumption for the past week averaged 424,714 gallons a day.

Miss Maureen Jennings, of Fort Worth, is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Jennings.

Mrs. Augusta Bethany returned recently from Houston and Bellville, where she spent two weeks on vacation.

Miss Edith Coker, of Coleman, is a guest of Mrs. Charles F. Bailey this week.

It is about time for voters to have their minds made up as to the candidates for the different offices. We will refrain from telling anyone how to vote.

Weather in the county during the week-end was freakish in nature; a few localities received regular downpours while others reported light sprinkles and dust storms.

West Texas News Notes

Work was commenced last week on highway 23 between Cisco and Rising Star by the Womack Henning Construction Company, of Abilene. The contract, let for a little more than $78,000, calls for the construction of between seven and eight miles of 20-foot asphalt pavement.

The city of Dedecona will hold its annual home-coming August 9, 10 and 11. This occasion usually attracts several hundred visitors and pioneers of that section for the reunion, political speaking, barbecue, and other forms of entertainment.

The Coke county rodeo held last Friday and Saturday, July 6 and 7, was a huge success. Calf roping, steer riding, bronc riding and other western sports provided amusement for the large number who attended.

Wool markets were rather slow last week, but several thousand pounds are being moved on consignment. Fifty thousand pounds of short fleece was consigned at 20 cents a pound by one Menard buyer and another consigned 100,000 pounds on the same terms.

The Menard fire department will have a 100% record for the first six months of 1934 on insured property when its report is made at the annual State Firemen's Association convention July 13.

Succeeding H. A. Wulff, whose resignation had been tendered several weeks ago, A. B. Reagan took over the duties of postmaster at Brady July 1.

With reports of crowds varying from 10,000 to 55,000 it is difficult to estimate the number of people visiting the Brady Jubilee, held July 3, 4 and 5. Excellent horse races, rodeos, political speakers, dances, etc., provided entertainment and interest for the annual three-day gathering.

A petition asking that Mason county be added to the emergency drouth list in Texas was forwarded to Washington last week. Mason county was placed in the secondary drouth relief group.

The Eden Luncheon Club met last week and besides approving incorporation of the town, and doing some work on the gas problem, it was voted to construct a grandstand on the park square. Work will be started at once.

The McCulloch county relief office opened a public canning plant Monday of this week. The plant will have a capacity of 1,000 to 1,500 cans per day of either fruit or vegetables.

The flood gate of the Brownwood dam, which was raised to allow the water sold to South Texas rice farmers to pass thru the conduits, has been closed after several days, during which time it was impossible to close because of mechanical trouble in the motor which opens and closes the gate.

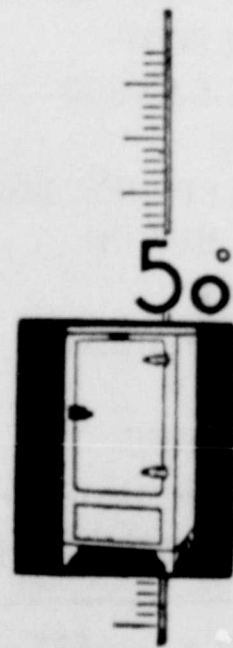

August 16 is now set as the date for moving a CCC camp to the Lake Brownwood park, according to word received from the Texas state parks board.

Says Future of Oil Industry Should Interest All Texans

AUSTIN, July 11.—An economic and physical survey of the petroleum industry in Texas has been made by Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer in the bureau of business research at the University of Texas. By studying the industry during the depression, Mr. Johnson has considered the future problems and prospective status of the industry. "Dominant though the petroleum industry is in Texas, its future outlook is of greatest concern to the people of the state," Mr. Johnson said. "The outlook will be determined in many cases and greatly modified in other cases by reserves of oil in Texas and other states of the Southwest, reserves in other parts of the world, particularly in Russia and the lands bordering the Caribbean Sea; the degree of application of science and technological processes to the production of crude oil, the refining, and to the utilization of oil products; and to the trend in market demands for products of crude petroleum. "The strength of the economic position of the oil industry during the years of the depression is highly indicative of the strength strategic position oil products have attained in modern economic life. Crude oil production in this country reached its high point in 1929, but in 1930 it was 103.5 per cent greater than the average of crude oil production for the five-year period, 1918-22; in 1931, it was 92.8 per cent higher, and in 1932, 77.1 per cent greater. In 1933 there was a considerable gain over production in 1932. By way of contrast it may be noted that production of pig iron in the United States in 1931 was only half what it was in 1929, and in 1932, it was less than one-fourth of the 1929 production. "Due to the introduction of technical processes in refining, however, the real strength of the oil industry is shown in the trends of its refined products. In 1929, the production of gasoline in the United States was 284.5 per cent greater than it was for the average of the five-year period of 1918-22; in 1930, 281.9 per cent; in 1931, 281.3 per cent; and in 1932, 246.9 per cent. These percentage increases in the production of gasoline would be higher still were the amounts of natural gasoline included. Moreover, in 1929 and 1930 United States exports of gasoline were considerably higher than they have been during the past two years. The strength of the American oil industry during the depression has been the proportion of the nation's purchasing power which has been expended for oil products. "Several problems, however, loom up as of possible importance to the oil industry in the near future. One of these is that of disparity between oil reserves and oil production in the North American countries, as evidenced by a recent authoritative statement: 'North America, credited with only a moderate share of the oil reserves of the earth, produces over two-thirds of the output.' Another factor of probable importance is the increased use of the Diesel engine in the United States in recent years. Still another is the growing tendency in this country to regard crude oil as a chemical raw material. Modern refining enterprises are not only widening the range of products derived from crude oil but also at the same time materially raising the quantity of these products. "Still another item of great importance is the growing decentralization of the oil refining industry. In recent years oil refining operations have been materially increased not only in Russia but in many of the countries of Western Europe; a similar growth is noticeable in Canada and in other countries. In 1933 for the first time in several years the exports of crude oil from the United States exceeded our imports. More than half our crude oil exports of last year went to Canada; France took 21 per cent and Japan, 15 per cent. Moreover, most of the American imports of 1933 were heavy crudes required for the manufacture of asphalt; most of these went to the Atlantic seaboard. "Finally it is to be emphasized that no industry can maintain itself in a static condition, as the late Allyn Young wrote a few years ago. If production and trade were always managed with complete efficiency and if producers and traders always had complete knowledge of the market, it would be impractical and uneconomical to keep all the various processes of production and distribution together so as to maintain a smooth and even flow of goods from the first producers to the final buyers. For the oil industry as a whole it is necessary to consider the probable supply of products it can furnish to the markets in the near future. Potential markets have to be given first consideration from the long-time point of view of industry adjustments. Thus Texas' stake in the oil industry is by any means confined to compartments within the boundaries of the state; and it is no less concerned with competition elsewhere than it is with the changes and expansion of markets for oil products the world over."

SEYMOUR LIGHT PLANT IN FORECLOSURE SUIT

DALLAS, July 11.—Foreclosure on the municipally owned electric light plant of the city of Seymour, Texas, is sought in a suit filed in the district court here yesterday by the Municipal Acceptance Corporation of Chicago, holder of the mortgage. Total indebtedness of $142,419.07 is claimed in the petition, including principal and interest. Plaintiff's original petition alleges that the plant was built in 1929 at a total contract price of $125,479. Of the $36,300 that has become due and payable under the December, 1930, refinancing agreement, petitioner claims the city has paid only $13,100, leaving a balance of $22,800 now due and unpaid, that under the terms of the contract, petitioner has the legal right to declare the entire indebtedness due and payable and that it now exercises that right, asking for final judgment for principal, interest, costs of suit and foreclosure of its lien upon the plant and its revenues. T. B. Saunders, cashier of the Security State Bank, left Sunday for a few days' vacation in South Texas. Misses Mozelle Manning and Lurline Bell, of Rankin, are guests of relatives and friends here this week.

Study Shows Pain Not Felt in Accidents

LONDON, July 11.—No one need fear either pain or terror in death by violence if a series of experiments recently reported by correspondents of the London Times may be considered typical. Obviously, none of these correspondents actually was killed, but all came exceedingly close to it, all expected instant death, and all agree that the experience was rather interesting and comfortable, with no trace of either the pain or the terror conventionally supposed to prevail. All agree, however, that another conventional idea is correct, the one that the mind works at such times with enormously greater rapidity than usual, so that a considerable part of a victim's life really might pass through his mind in a very few seconds. One of the correspondents of the Times was in front of a store window when an automobile skidded on the street and knocked him through the plate-glass pane. He remembers seeing a large black object approach him slowly and give him what seemed like a gentle push. There was neither pain nor fear, although he remembers realizing clearly that he was about to die. Speeding up of sensation and thought presumably explains the false impression of slow approach and a gentle push instead of what undoubtedly was a violent impact. Another correspondent reports a railway accident during which he remembers wondering just how he would be killed, but was neither in pain nor terrified. A third reports being knocked down by a vehicle and wondering rather lazily whether the wheels would cross his body and kill him instantly or merely would maim him. Everyone reports the same apparent slowness of what is happening and the same absence of pain and terror. Presumably both effects result from the extreme quickening of thought and of sensation. Ordinary events seem to be slowed up. Apparently there is no time for the speeding brain to pause for such things as terror or pain. Mineral skeletons inside the germ cells of human beings, perhaps constituting the fixed frameworks that keep the units of heredity in their places, have been also, made visible by burning individual animalcules very carefully into ash. The nuclei of the human germ cells now studied by Dr. Polleard are known to carry the elements of heredity from one generation to another in the form of tiny living units, called genes, some of which have been seen and even photographed. Considered with these facts, Dr. Polleard's discoveries suggest that these important genes either consist of mineral atoms or are arranged on some kind of framework of mineral atoms, like dinner plates slipped into a metal dish drier. The ancient art of bed making, apparently neglected by improvers during all the thirty or forty centuries that bed clothes have been in existence, has at last received the attention of an English inventor. G. A. Shakespear, of London, not known to any relation of the poet and dramatist, has invented the device and advertised for aid and capital in marketing it. It consists of a set of metal rods as long as the bed is wide, one of which is placed between each sheet, blanket or other article of bed-clothing as these are hung over the foot of the bed and tucked in at that point. Another similar set of rods then is attached to the loose ends of these articles of bed-clothing, which ends ultimately will be at the head of the bed. By merely moving these rods toward the head of the bed, each sheet or blanket is spread out uniformly and evenly over the bed's surface; one set of rods acting to pull up the clothes while the other set smooths out each of them and keeps it straight and even.

RUBIN HOME BURGLARIZED WHILE FAMILY OUT OF CITY

While Frank Rubin was in the eastern markets buying merchandise recently his home in Wilke Terrace was burglarized of a considerable amount of dry goods. A pass key was evidently used to gain admission to the house. The burglarily was not discovered until Mrs. Rubin returned from a visit at San Antonio Friday of last week. When she entered a front room she observed that a large electric clock was missing and upon investigation found that the house had been ransacked. When Mr. Rubin returned he checked up and reported that between 40 and 50 pairs of shoe, one of his suits, several pairs of trousers, and various other smaller items were taken. He had stored some merchandise at his residence and believes the burglars knew this and also that he and his family were out of the city. Officers are following clues which may lead to arrests. Mr. and Mrs. Conda Wylie went to Temple the first of this week to attend to business several days. Get your Mimeograph Supplies from the Ballinger Printing Co.

COURT TEST AHEAD FOR IRISH LAND ACT

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 11.—To test the legality of the new land act of the Free State a writ against the Irish Free State attorney general and the undersheriff of Longford has just been issued in Longford on behalf of Thomas Halpin, a farmer. Not long ago General O'Duffy announced the United Ireland party was going to test the legality of the issue of warrants and the seizure of goods under the act. The plaintiff claims that the warrants issued purporting to authorize the sheriff to levy upon his goods and chattels for the sum stated to be due under the land purchase acts is null and void, and issued without legal authority. An injunction is also asked for restraining the sheriff from acting on the warrant or taking any steps whatever under it.

WEDDING TOASTS GIVEN BY GUESTS AT BORDER

WARSAW, July 11.—Forbidden to cross the border to attend a wedding in the Polish village of Samejano, close to the German frontiers, German friends suggested that the wedding feast be held at the boundary line. The guests assembled and toasted the bridal pair from a table, one end of which was in Poland and the other in Germany. The merrymakers enjoyed themselves for hours under the watchful eyes of the frontier guards.

IN MEMORIAM

Thomas Lawton Clayton

The death of Thomas Lawton Clayton here Friday brought sorrow to many friends and relatives and removed from this life a character who was a joy to his family and the many friends who held the highest admiration for his many good traits.

He was a typical Westerner, a lover of the outdoors, and found perfect contentment in ranching. It was on his place, eight miles northwest of Ballinger, riding one of his favorite horses about the work he liked so well, that he sustained a slight injury which later resulted in death. A scratch on his face by a thorn caused an infection that was soon beyond control and poisoned his entire body. Death relieved him of his earthly suffering.

Mr. Clayton was an expert ranchman and loved this vocation as perhaps few esteem their life's work. He was an outstanding performer with a rope, a good rider and really loved good horses. While young in years he had lived on the theory that there was no luck and that opportunity came only to those who worked for the "breaks" and was ready to take advantage of them. His knowledge of his work, his business experience and the judgment which he showed in all transactions, made him a successful raiser of livestock and his advice was sought by many who had more years of experience.

Another trait which was far more worthwhile in his life was his deep devotion to his wife and other members of his family. His death left them shocked and unable to realize the loss of this man on whom they had leaned so many times. This trait also attracted many friends, friends who trusted him to the utmost and he appreciated every one of them. His friends and relatives were very near in his life and their sincerity was attested by the great throng of people who came to pay their last respects at his funeral and the many tear dimmed eyes of those who listened as the final tribute was paid and Lawton was tenderly laid to rest in the old Norwood cemetery where relatives and intimates have been buried.

Several years ago decedent professed faith in Christ and joined the Talpa Methodist Church. To this church and his religion he was faithful to the last.

His father, B. J. Clayton, passed away a few years ago but the mother is still living to mourn the going of her devoted son. Two brothers, James and Milton; and three sisters, Mrs. Ray, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Dillard, also survive.

His father and an uncle, F. E. Clayton, came to Runnels county in 1876 and the two families have had much to do with the development of this section. All have engaged in ranching in and around Talpa and Benoit and still operate large tracts of land.

On May 11, 1922, decedent was married to Miss Cora Lindermann, and the devoted wife is left broken hearted at the going of her husband.

Born in Runnels county, Lawton learned to love the West and found peace and joy here. He served well for a short time and has now gone to the "Last Round-up." The land he loved holds his body but his spirit has gone to a great and lasting reward. —Contributed.

UNIVERSITY GETS OLD HORN

AUSTIN, July 11.—It was 120 years ago that Daniel Boone hunted in the mountains of Kentucky, but the powder horn used by Peyton Wade Nowlin, one of his companions, has been presented to the archives of the University of Texas library by Nowlin's grand-daughter, Mrs. Lena Dancy Ledbetter, of Austin. The horn is of polished copper which depicts two horsemen blowing their hunting bugles. Around the head of a Canadian deer are seven four-pointed stars. Significance of the four-points is not known. Acorns and nuts, typical of those found along Texas water-courses, complete the decoration on the horn.

Other grand-daughters of Mr. Nowlin are Mrs. K. C. Miller, Sr., Miss Lula Randolph, and Mrs. Charles Joe Moore, all of Austin.

SUPERINTENDENTS CALLED TO MEET AT SAN MARCOS

County school superintendents have been called to a special meeting of West Texas school officials at San Marcos on July 18. A discussion of matters of particular interest to West Texas schools will be held.

Dr. Hob Gray and Dean T. H. Shelby, of the University of Texas, are among prominent educators who will appear on the program.

Mrs. M. C. Smith and Miss Marryatt Smith have gone to Gainesville where they will visit relatives several days.

Scouts to Visit Carlsbad Caverns On Camping Tour

A bulletin has been received by local Boy Scout leaders, announcing a week's camping tour to Carlsbad Caverns, open to all Boy Scouts of the Concho valley council, who are first class Scouts or above. The trip is scheduled to leave San Angelo Monday, July 30, and return Saturday, August 4. The tour is to be an annual event and will be limited to 25 first class Scouts, who have had at least one week's training at Camp Louis Farr. Registration starts immediately, and should be made by mail or in person to Scout headquarters in the city hall, San Angelo. The policy will be "first come, first served," according to R. L. (Bob) Billington, Scout executive.

The cost will be $9.50 per Scout, which includes transportation, food and all expenses connected with the trip. The group will leave San Angelo at 4:30 Monday morning, July 30, in the Water Valley school bus driven by Reed Trotter, who with Mr. Billington, will be the adult leaders.

The boys will camp out at night and cook their own food. They are to arrive at the caverns the night of July 30, and will leave there August 1.

A special neckerchief will be given each member of the party and the tour will include a swim at Fort Stockton and a free picture show in addition to the trip through the caverns.

Opportunity will be given each Scout for advancement work on camping and out-of-doors merit badges.

Court and Clerk May Appoint Deputies Under Cotton Act

H. O. Jones, representative of the 92nd district, announced Tuesday that someone would be appointed and assigned to each gin in Runnels county to take acknowledgments in compliance with the Bankhead act.

For some time Mr. Jones has been corresponding with the attorney general relative to the cotton control act and this week received the first definite information in regard to the matter.

The attorney general ruled to the effect that under article 3902 R. C. S., 1925, the commissioners' court and the county clerk are empowered to appoint as many deputy clerks as are needed, and under this decision they have the power to appoint one for each gin in the county.

Article 3905 recites the compensation each deputy shall receive, which can be determined by the ginners and the county clerk.

A man at each gin who can do this work will be necessary when the season begins next fall and arrangements will be perfected before that time.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Rhoden, of Midland, are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rhoden. Mr. Rhoden is spending part of his time here fishing on the Colorado River.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lyon have returned from Angleton, where they visited friends several days.

T. S. Lankford, of Abilene, transacted business and visited relatives in Ballinger Saturday.

Clayton Funeral Is Held at Ranch Home Near Talpa

Funeral services for Thomas L. Clayton, 36, were held at the family home, 8 miles northeast of Ballinger, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment made in the Norwood cemetery near Benoit.
Mr. Clayton died at the Halley & Love Sanitarium Friday morning at 10:30 following critical illness of one week's duration. About two weeks ago he was scratched on the face by a thorn while riding pasture and an infection developed later which caused death.

Decedent was born in Runnels county at the ranch home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Clayton. He spent practically all his life there and after reaching maturity began operation of a ranch of his own.

Survivors include the widow; his mother, Mrs. B. J. Clayton; three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Dillard, Tatum, New Mexico; Mrs. Lena Martin, Talpa; and Mrs. J. L. Ray, Waxahachie; and two brothers, James and J. Milton Clayton, Ballinger.
Rev. H. R. Hall and Rev. Lee Whipple conducted the funeral services.

Pallbearers were: H. W. Lynn, Otto Spreen, A. V. Livingston, H. E. Evans, F. M. Pearce, Edwin Werner, B. C. Kirk and O. P. Dorsey.

King-Holt Company undertakers were in charge of arrangements.

4-H CLUB GIRLS CLOSE ENCAMPMENT WEDNESDAY

The two-day encampment here for girls' 4-H club members closed Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Lura Hollingsworth, county home demonstration agent, was in charge of the encampment and an interesting program of instruction and amusement was presented. The girls spent Tuesday night at city park and used the shady nook for the sessions Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday.

At the close of the program Wednesday winners were to receive free trips to the A. & M. College short course, but as Mrs. Hollingsworth was out of town Thursday the names could not be obtained.

Club women of the county will meet here in August for their two-day encampment. Sessions will be held at city park.
