RELIGIOUS DEPARTMENT.

ALL YOUR CARE.

Oh! blessed words of love divine, How full of peace!

THE BOOK OF BOOKS.

The Past and Future of the Bible—What It Has Done and Is Still Doing—Forever Triumphant.

When our readers hear the flippancy assertion that the Bible is an obsolescent book, that the age is outgrowing it, and it is less read now than in former years, and less influential, we suggest to them to recall what they know of its history.

1. No other so-called sacred books have been tested, as the Bible has, by transplanting them to various lands and ages.

and dialects and become a home book in them all. What it has become in those languages shows what it may become in the few remaining ones in which there is as yet no version of it.

3. No other sacred books have been tried by such light as that in which the Bible has lived and triumphed. The religions of India, China, and Turkey have known only twilight.

These are but a few of the facts in the past which throw their light forward and illumine the future. Do they not give us the highest assurance that God's promises in regard to His Word will be fulfilled?

GOOD FOOD.

What an American Audience Wants and Demands of the Pulpit.

Dr. Storrs, of Brooklyn, in a recent lecture before the Yale divinity students, said: "The age has no patience with triflers and abominates laziness."

WISE SAYINGS.

"If there be any truth measure to a man than that by what he does, it must be by what he gives."

YOUTH'S DEPARTMENT.

FROWNS OR SMILES?

Where do they go, I wonder, The clouds on a cloudy day.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

The Lesson Taught by a Dream to a Boy Who Had a Good Mind Not to Try to Learn.

"It certainly seems cruel for parents to insist on their boys going to school when the day is fine for a game of ball, kite-flying, sailing, coasting, or building snow-forts."

WISE SAYINGS.

"If there be any truth measure to a man than that by what he does, it must be by what he gives."

Now, if Billy had had a longer dream he would probably have understood in how many ways each particular branch of his studies could be useful to him as a man.

A SMART DOG.

How He Barked an Alarm of Fire and Saved the Woodshed.

One day Mary, the cook, went to see her mother who was sick. The children were all at school, so Mrs. White locked up the house and went up-stairs. She sat down by the front window, where she could see any one coming in the gate.

AN OLD TRICK REVIVED.

The Way Some People Make Six Dollars Out of Five.

There is an old swindling device which consists in cutting bank notes into strips and then, in putting them together, save enough from each to make an additional note. This ingenious process, technically known as "sweating," has been applied to the United States silver certificates.

FAMILY AESTHETICISM.

"I hardly know what I shall do next," murmured Mrs. Fitzjoy. "I've embroidered sunflowers, painted pond lilies on shingles, made a crazy quilt, hammered repousse work, got enough darned lace on hand to keep me cool all summer, and carved a holly-wood 'Kate Greenaway.'"

A PERILOUS TRIP.

Across Northumberland Straits in an Ice-Boat.

The recent thrilling adventure of the three ice-boats which came so near being lost in their trip across Northumberland Straits, between Cape Traverse, Prince Edward Island, and Cape Tormentine, New Brunswick, has been a very general topic of conversation in this city, and many stories have been related by those who have at some time or other passed through similar dangers.

DOCTORED HIM.

The Pseudo Physicians Who Were Mistaken in Their Diagnoses.

"Were you ever taken sick out in the country?" inquired a well-known attorney on Saturday afternoon while himself and three or four friends were indulging in the wild recreation of telling stories.

WESTERN TRAIN ROBBERY.

The Commotion Which Followed the Entrance of an Ill-Looking Man.

The last weary traveler was stowed away for the night, the last curtain was drawn across the section, and the low rumble of the train through forest and clearing, farm and valley, was only broken by the occasional snore of a heavy sleeper.
