Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 702 Colorado St., Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—Is an undergraduate college student eligible for Class I-S(C) to complete his academic year?

A—Yes, if while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning, he is ordered to report for induction, he is eligible, except that he will not be placed in Class I-S(C) if he has previously been classified in Class I-S(C) or has been deferred in Class II-S after June 1, 1967, and has received a baccalaureate degree.

Q—Did the Military Selective

Service Act of 1967 change the entire law that provides the legal basis for the present operation of the Selective Service System?

A—No. The legal basis was established by enactment of the Selective Service Act of 1948. The Military Selective Service Act of 1967 only amended certain portions of that basic law.

Q—If a person liable for registration with the Selective Service System, within five days after his 18th birthday, fails to register with a draft board, what should he do?

A—He should go to the nearest draft board without delay and register. At the same time, he should furnish his own local board in writing with an explanation of his delay.

Tax Man Sam Sez

According to some folks, it ought to be worth something to live in Texas. Well, it is. The Texas community property law gives taxpayers three extra income tax benefits. First, you may qualify for an additional $100 dividend exclusion. Second, you can claim an additional $1000 capital loss by filing separate returns, and third, you can qualify for an additional $228 in retirement income credit. There is also a new benefit available this year in a few rare cases—if you file separate returns, you can claim an extra $150 medical insurance deduction.

Shame on You, Johnnie Green

One of the most conscientious and highly respected public officials in Dallas is attorney John Plath Green of the Dallas School Board who returned to this city recently from Washington with this comment:

"I am disheartened and sick at my stomach."

He had attended a small meeting of school board members representing metropolitan communities from all parts of the country. A few, like himself, were lawyers. There were a doctor or two and some business and other professional men.

There was not a professional educator in the group. Nor a long-haired, governmental theorist with some federal bureau.

Green of Dallas was asked to talk about 20 minutes on what he thought the primary function of a school system should be.

The most important function, he said, is to educate its products.

Teach them to spell, to compose a sentence properly, to think creatively and with high motives, to know right from wrong. "They should know what honor is, what civic service is, what discipline is and what it means to serve their fellowman and their country."

When he finished, he got no applause. "A few of them looked at me, as though I were some kind of a kook."

He was told by one school board member from the East: "Mr. Green, the 20th century has passed you by."

The member from Dallas, in other words, was old-fashioned, reactionary, backwoods and way out in right field. The very idea of a man getting up and saying he believed in teaching honor and duty!

A discussion followed, ideas were pitched back and forth, a resolution or two introduced—and from it all, Green of Dallas got a picture of what these other board members felt that the educational system should do.

One said he felt the primary function was to integrate, not to educate—though he used some high-sounding terms such as "ethnic essentials."

Another said that public schools, from kindergarten on, should use the child "to shape society." Very, very early the child should be taught the value of "public welfare" and of poverty programs and should be bussed from one neighborhood to another, so that he or she could be associated closely with children of other races.

The child should be educated, said another, so he will be an adult "who exists for the state."

Nearly all, except Green of Dallas, felt that children should be taken away from their parents at the age of 2 and put in kindergartens.

Also, by the time they were in the second or third grades, they should be watched closely for a feeling of their aptitudes. If they use their fingers well, put them in vocational work right away; if they can sing a tune, put them in the orchestra—maybe they'll make a Duke Ellington.

Have experts study the young things when they are 7 or 8 years old and determine what careers they should pursue when they are 27 or 28.

But, above all, develop the child "to shape society." The Great Society, the Socialist Society or the Ethnic Considerations Society?

Green of Dallas was a minority of one, a lawyer from a Texas city which still has some people who believe in free enterprise and in the theory that a child should be taught right from wrong, how to read, how to spell and how to write his name correctly.

But that is old-timey and belongs to faded past when a young man chose his own career, worked toward it and even had the gall to pay his own way; a faded past when a youngster was taught to salute the flag, read the United States Constitution and go home to his parents when classes were over.

Shame on Johnnie Green! He should have run for the school board in the days of Abe Lincoln who had the same ideas, but somehow overcame them.

New Protection for Young Worker

New protection for the young worker and his family stands out among the new provisions in the social security law for the disabled, according to Edwin Draughon, manager of the Vernon office. For young workers who became disabled before they had a chance to work under social security for at least 5 years, a new change fits even for some people who have recovered from their disabling condition, or if they were denied benefits previously because they lacked enough work credits. More information is available at the Vernon social security office at 1728 Fannin Street in Vernon.

For benefits to be paid to a disabled worker and his dependents under the old law, he needed social security credits for at least 5 out of the 10 years before becoming disabled. Now, if you become disabled between 24 and 31, you need credits for only half the time between age 21 and the time you became unable to work. If you are disabled before you reach age 24, you need only 1 1/2 years of work under social security out of a 3-year period ending when your disability began.

Benefits under this new provision are first payable for the month of February 1968. About 100,000 people—disabled workers and their dependents—are eligible. An estimated $70 million in additional benefits will be paid out in the first 12 months.

The new law could mean bene-

More Visitors Than Ever Visit Texas During '67

Texas last year hosted more visitors—who spent more money here—than ever before, the Texas Highway Department reported this week.

A total of 20,684,000 persons from out of the state visited Texas in 1967. They spent a record $1,203,137,000, making 1967 the second year in a row that the value of the Texas travel industry has surpassed the billion-dollar mark.

The automobile again was the favorite mode of transportation.

The Highway Department's annual visitor industry survey showed 15,198,000 persons visited Texas by automobile during the year. Their expenditures in the state amounted to a total of $807,972,000 while in the state. Total number of automobile visitors was up 7.4 per cent over 1966, and their expenditures rose 11.6 per cent.

In addition, the Texas Tourist Council, an Austin-based association of travel-related businesses, estimated that an additional 5,486,000 out-of-state visitors came to Texas by commercial carriers. This group added an estimated $395,165,000 to the state's economy.

The Highway Department's survey of automobile travelers employed visual and mechanical traffic count surveys. Valuable data also was gained from more than 12,2 thousand questionnaires distributed by the Department's Tourist Information Bureaus at key highway gateways and returned by out-of-state visitors at the completion of their Texas visit.

"Famous Trees of Texas" Book Will Be Published

The Texas Forest Service is working on a new book, "Famous Trees of Texas" and County Agent Joe Burkett says they are looking for all trees in Texas which have historic backgrounds.

The book will contain pictures and stories about the trees which were the sites of historic events. These trees may have been ones where treaties were signed, court held, people hanged, armies rallied or the many which have local legends around them.

Burkett says that anyone in Foard County who has information about such a tree should contact the Director, Texas Forest Service, College Station, Texas 77840.

Placed end to end, the penicillin vials shipped by UNICEF would cover a distance over 10 times the length of the Panama Canal.

Each $1 from standing trees adds $25 to Texas' economy through harvesting, manufacturing, construction, transportation and marketing, according to the Texas Forestry Association.

Law on Pandering Advertising Is Explained by P. M.

Mail patrons offended by pandering advertisements can now take steps to curb such mail. Postmaster Ted Reeder said this week in announcing plans for administering a new law which gives each family the right to decide that an ad is "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

When an advertisement sent through the mails is offensive on these grounds, a postal patron can now ask the post office to direct the mailer to send no more mail to him and to remove immediately the patron's name from all mailing lists he owns, controls or rents.

To assist patrons, the Post Office Department has published a brief pamphlet—How You Can Curb Pandering Advertisements—which is now available at the Crowell post office. In addition to explaining how the law works, the pocket-size leaflet contains a form letter one can use when sending his complaint to the post office. The pamphlet explains that when a patron receives an advertisement which is, in his opinion, pandering, he must send the ad, its envelope and the form letter, or one which includes its language, to his post office with the words, "Request for prohibitory order" on the face of the envelope.

Postmaster Reeder said: "This new law should give some protection to American families of fended by advertisements they believe to be morally harmful, particularly to their children."

"Last year the Post Office Department received some 140,000 complaints from those offended by pandering advertisements. While in most cases the ads were not legally obscene and were therefore mailable, they are often offensive and are usually not the type of material one would want his children to read," Postmaster Reeder said.

He added that "because the law gives a mail patron the sole right to decide what is offensive, and does not deny others the right to receive the same mail, the Congress felt it does not violate constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech."

While the patron's complaint will only be directed to the sender, Postmaster Reeder believes that one or two complaints will provide substantial protection because "the great bulk of this advertising comes from fewer than 20 so-called 'smut dealers' who are frequently swapping mailing lists."

If a mailer does not strike a complainant's name from this mailing list, and the patron receives a second mailing 30 days after the firm has received the prohibitory order, he may bring the matter to the attention of the postmaster issuing the initial order by writing him and enclosing the second pandering ad with its envelope. If the mailer still fails to respect the order, the Postmaster General may ask the Attorney General to apply for a federal court order directing compliance. Failure to observe the order may be punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

Premium on Doctor Bill Insurance Part of Medicare Goes Up

The premium for the doctor bill insurance part of medicare increases from $3 to $4 in April, Edwin Draughon, social security manager, this week reminded older people in the 5-county area serviced by the Vernon office.

Persons 65 and over who are enrolled for the supplementary medical insurance and receiving monthly social security benefits will find the checks delivered to them April 3rd a dollar less than last month's payment, Mr. Draughon said. For an elderly couple receiving a combined benefit check, the reduction will be $1 each, or a total of $2.

All social security benefit check amounts were changed last month, he noted, as a 13 per cent benefit increase became effective. The amount of the increase in benefits was considerably more than the $1 by which the medical insurance premium is increased.

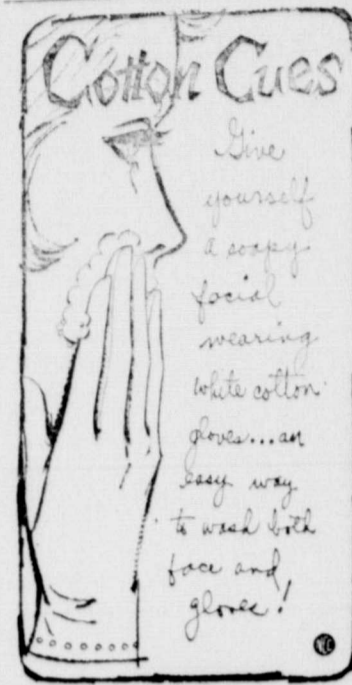

The government will continue to match the increased premium, so the doctor bill insurance will continue to be worth twice the amount of the premium paid by the individual older person.

The medicare law provides for the periodic review of the costs of the medical insurance program, Mr. Draughon said, and for any necessary adjustments in the premium rate.

Not By Accident

Roscoe Haynie, president of Wilson Packing Company, is quoted as saying: "It disturbs me that so many young people respond to surveys saying that the business community is too much of a rat race . . . too competitive. It is not by accident that the United States has gone ahead of other countries but because of the free enterprise system. I suggest that most of the welfare advances . . . are in large part made possible by business and the capitalistic system. Free enterprise has done more to create more wealth for more people than any other system in the world."

Big Challenge

"Trying to cope with this year's huge labor cost increases and those already set for 1968 is proving to be a challenge of staggering proportions . . ." by all odds the most serious problem facing the rail industry, Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the Association of American Railroads, stated. He then indicated that the railroads' 1967 capital spending for plant modernization will amount to about $1.5 billion—20 per cent down from the previous year's all-time record but still the highest ever.

"VIGOROUS PROSECUTION PROTECTS YOUR RIGHTS" ELECT BILL NEAL DISTRICT ATTORNEY in the May 4 Democratic Primary

We believe Bill Neal should be our next District Attorney. Bill Neal is a veteran. He served our country in the U. S. Army Infantry. He is a native of this district, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Overton (Boots) Neal of Quanah. He attended school in Medicine Mound, Crowell and Quanah. After serving in the Army, Bill Neal attended the University of Texas law school where he compiled a remarkable record of legal scholarship. Upon graduation, he was appointed, and served, as a Briefing Attorney for the Texas Supreme Court in Austin.

For the past three years, Bill Neal has been actively engaged in a private law practice in Quanah with Judge Lark Bell and Jim Sowell. He has tried law suits in our county and district courts.

Bill Neal is married and has two children. He is a member of the Episcopal Church and has been active in civic club work. He has also been active in working toward promoting the economic interests of this area, and is president of the Four Winds Industrial Foundation which includes Foard, Hardeman, Cottle and Childress Counties.

Bill Neal is:

- FOR a more vigorous program of law enforcement and prosecution of criminals.
- FOR more emphasis on the rights of law-abiding citizens and less emphasis on the rights of criminals.
- FOR impartial treatment of all persons that come before our courts, regardless of money, class or race.
- FOR bringing criminal cases to trial as soon after indictment as possible.
- AGAINST recommending probated sentences for habitual offenders.
- FOR recommending probated sentences ONLY in the case of juvenile offenders or others who exhibit a definite possibility of rehabilitation.
- FOR cooperating with local law enforcement officers in all three counties comprising this judicial district.

We believe the people of this district need and want a more vigorous program of prosecution of criminals.

We believe Bill Neal is the hardest working and best qualified candidate for the office of District Attorney—and that he merits your vote.

Junior Senior Banquet Held Friday

As if with a touch of magic, the familiar school scene was whisked away to the top of a stately hotel, overlooking a city in silhouette against a star studded horizon, and the members of the junior class greeted the graduating seniors for the annual junior-senior banquet and prom under a "show-off stars" on Friday evening, April 26, in the school cafeteria.

To honor their guests, the juniors transformed the cafeteria into a jewel-like ballroom with a gracefully canopied dining area aglow with shimmering candlelight. A budding fountain glittering with its myriad of twinkling light blinking a warm welcome to each, as the panoramic view unfolded. Suddenly, it was a different world, for there was a surprise behind every hidden star. It could have been fantasy lane, New York, New Orleans, or the golden gate city of San Francisco. With a little imagination, each guest became a part of an exciting evening under the shower of stars.

The banquet was catered by Underwoods of Wichita Falls, and the guests were served and entertained by the Singing Waiters, the sophomore guys. The master of ceremonies, Alan Lee, junior class president, became the "star of the evening." The invocation, "heavenly thanks," was given by Richard Stater. The junior class president welcome everyone aboard in the decorations, and the table held an arrangement of white carnations and maroon chrysanthemums bearing white and maroon streamers. Combination key chain and football coin holders with assorted coins as place favors, completed the decor.

Following the dinner, pictures were taken and each guest expressed his college preference and the vocation toward which he believes he is called. An attache case depicting the honoree's profession as lawyer was presented as a gift by the host. Larry plans to enroll in Baylor University this fall.

Columbian Club Observes Youth Day

With the motto, "To snatch the passing moment and examine it for signs of eternity is the noblest of occupations," the program on Future Homemakers of America and the presence and participation of three members of the 4-H Junior Leaders Club made the April 24 meeting of the Columbian Club an enjoyable occasion.

Mrs. H. M. Black was hostess for the meeting and Mrs. D. R. Magee was program leader which followed the regular business session, Mrs. John Ray, presiding.

"Safety on the Highway" was the method demonstration presented by Cathy McLain and Bettie Ann Burkett. Using posters to emphasize their discourse, they compared good manners on the highway to good manners and thoughtfulness in the home. The girls mentioned a number of safety measures.

As an entry in the public speaking event, Pat Cates spoke on "The International Youthquake."

His was a frank discussion of today's teenagers, their temptations, their deserved as well as undeserved criticisms. Due to the news reports of negative activities of today's youth and the soft peddling or complete absence of reports on the good work being done, many readers have a false opinion of young people as a whole. As Pat said, in protesting this mass grouping, "The teenagers don't make the booze. They don't write the pornographic magazines and they don't sell the drugs."

In conclusion Pat said, "We may at least outwardly, rebel at authority, at guidance, and even at help from parents, teachers and other reliable adults, but never doubt that we don't need and truly desire that guidance and support. We realize that the help given teenagers of today will reflect in the world of tomorrow."

Following the dinner, pictures were taken and each guest expressed his college preference and the vocation toward which he believes he is called. An attache case depicting the honoree's profession as lawyer was presented as a gift by the host. Larry plans to enroll in Baylor University this fall.

Check Withholding Tax Situation

Dallas — Now is the time for North Texas wage earners to take another look at their income tax withholding situation to see whether it covers their actual tax liability.

District Director of Internal Revenue, Ellis Campbell, Jr., said this week that some wage earners may still owe additional tax.

This is particularly true where income was derived from sources

In those cases, Mr. Campbell suggested that taxpayers file a cate, Form W-4, with their em-tax withheld each pay period.

If the taxpayer has already reduced his exemptions to zero, he

New Novel Set with Crowell as Background

THE LAST DAY, by Ramond Lester Carter (Threefools Press, $4.95).

The rolling ranch country that lies roughly between Amarillo and Abilene-Wichita Falls has produced its share of cattle, cotton and wheat over the years, but it is not generally regarded as the locale of novels or the home of novelists.

Recent years have seen Al Dew-lin's "Twilight of Honor," set in Amarillo, and Larry McMurtry's "Horsemen, Pass By," a bit to the southeast. But still the region seems in little danger of inundation by a literary flood.

It's a part of Texas where the highways are straight, the land mainly treeless and the rainfall on the short side. But the people, although influenced to an extent by the physical environment, are in the end the same problem-ridden creatures that people are everywhere.

The Last Day is a skillful intertwining of the themes of death and going-home-again played out against the backdrop of life in Jordan (Crowell), Texas, a West Texas town of 1,700.

TEXAS STATE PAVILION at HemisFair—In a main display area the size of four football fields, the 365-foot long, 64-foot high Institute of Texan Cultures will use the most exciting exhibit techniques available to tell the story of the past, present and future of the diverse peoples of Texas. An outstanding feature of the $10 million pavilion at the 1968 World's Fair in San Antonio is a soaring projection dome, where a shifting tableau of images will be flashed all around the overhead walls.

The author, who grew up in Crowell and later graduated from the University of Texas, captures the aura of small-town West Texas: cup after cup of coffee at the highway cafe, plenty of gossip and speculation on whether it will rain.

Under the surface, however, is a sharp collision of the forces of evil, guilt, betrayal and finally death.

Perhaps the most striking aspect of the book is the style. The writer has fashioned a series of vignettes and strung them together like pearls on a necklace, held together and into a whole by the style.

Charles Wilson, the protagonist, drives home to Jordan at dawn on a hot summer day ostensibly to attend the funeral of his in-effect father. Actually, the journey is a mission of self-revelation.

Charles embarks on a one-day odyssey in Jordan which begins and ends at the highway cafe. In between, he re-lives his early manhood and reflects on the currents that drove him to a prodigal though unspecified life elsewhere.

He visits Trash Hill, just across the Red River in Oklahoma, for cold beer—that part of Texas is alcoholically dry for the most part —and races his expensive sports car the 27 miles back to Jordan just in time to make an appointment with the dead man's widow.

The body then is viewed, the funeral is held and the ceremony at the cemetery carried out.

The physical burial marks a break in the action flow, and events then begin to rush inevitably to a harsh and unsuspected close, keyed in a part to a childhood injury that gave Charles a permanent limp.

There is little conventional about the style, and it is this, rather than the objective story line, which makes the book memorable.

'Poverty Stricken'
Because They Don't Want to Work

"It is not hard-hearted to say the reason some people are 'poverty stricken' is because they do not want to work. There is no use beating around the bush, some people are plain lazy, and want all they can get without any effort on their part—Certainly help the real unfortunate, but the industrious do not have the obligation to care for society's drones.
The Good Book says man shall live by the sweat of his brow, and we haven't read in the same book where any Great Society has to take care of him who is capable of caring for himself, but will not."—Frazee, Minn., Forum.

Texas Travel Handbook's New Edition Available

An expanded edition of the popular Texas Travel Handbook has been released by the Texas Highway Department.

First issued last year as an aid to pleasure travel in Texas, the enlarged second edition now lists nearly 400 cities and towns, and includes more than 2,500 individual items of interest. The 208-page handbook also contains 112 photographs which provide travelers with previews of such attractions as the aerial tramway in El Paso, and Presidio La Bahia near Goliad.

Handbook subjects are as varied as the state itself, ranging from the melancholy Empty Saddle Monument in Dalhart to the humorous Popeye statue in Crystal City.

With the Texas Travel Handbook as a guide, travelers may discover dinosaur tracks, Indian pictographs and buried cities. They will learn the locations of little-known ghost towns, and follow specific directions to the most popular attractions of modern Texas cities.

Special sections are devoted to recreational facilities in Texas national and state forests, and in more than 55 state parks. Summaries of Texas hunting and fishing regulations are provided, as well as information on visiting Mexico.

Like all Highway Department travel literature, the handbook is free. Since its initial publication last year, the guide has become a major item among more than four million pieces of travel material distributed annually by the Texas Highway Department.

The guide is available to three-

Heading Down a Dead-End Street

"A young person today, dissatisfied with school and anxious to get out and work for the money he wants, is heading down a dead-end street if he pursues his dreams without a high school diploma. He finds out too late that the job he longed for will be at best a dull, dirty one with little opportunity for advancement. Or, the jobless rate of 13 per cent for school dropouts suddenly becomes very real to him as he discovers that he doesn't have the ticket he needs to get through the employers' doors. . . . For many of these young people, there is still time. They can go back and finish high school. For others, it is too late. . . . The education they get now charts the course not only for their individual lives but for the welfare of our country in the coming decades." —South Boston, Va., Gazette-Virginian.

Tax Man Sam Sez

So your return was selected for audit. Well, don't feel exclusive. The Internal Revenue agents check over three million returns each year. More than one-third of the returns audited are accepted without change. Last year 390,000 taxpayers who were audited received $154 million in refunds. Internal Revenue also refunded $94 million to an additional 1 1/2 million other taxpayers who made a mistake in arithmetic and overpaid their taxes. An Internal Revenue audit is a two-way process—you should be businesslike and courteous, and furnish proof of your tax claims. If you don't like the decision, appeal.

From the News . . .

THIRTY YEARS AGO

News items below were taken from the Thursday, May 5, 1938, issue of The Foard County News:

Two Mexicans were slain about 2 o'clock Saturday morning at the Tom L. Burnett ranch 20 miles northwest of Crowell. The scene of the crime was in a large tent at the camp of Mexicans employed on the ranch.

Improvements on elevators in Foard County are being completed for the wheat rush expected by elevator men by the last of May.

One of the most damaging hail storms in the history of Foard County completely ruined wheat fields in the Margaret community Tuesday afternoon about 6 o'clock shortly after a heavy rain, accompanied by hail and high wind, struck the county. Four inches of rainfall were recorded at the Crowell State Bank Wednesday morning, to make the rains Tuesday afternoon and night the largest during the same period of time since May, 1935. Heavy downpours were reported in every community in the county.

Approximately five hundred people of Foard and adjoining counties gathered at the Church of Christ last Sunday to join the members in celebrating the fact that the church building was free of debt.

School children of two school districts in Foard County were transferred to the Crowell schools by trustees of the districts Monday night. The entire district of Black was transferred to Crowell, and the high school pupils of Foard City school were transferred to Crowell.

Four girls of the Homemaking Class of Crowell High School left Wednesday morning for San Antonio where they will attend and participate in the State Homemaking contest Thursday and Friday. The girls were accompanied by their instructor, Miss Ruth Patterson, and Mrs. Hubert Brown and daughter, Miss Billie. The four girls are Misses Theda Wright, Juanita Brown, Marie Wells and Pauline Steinebaugh.

The "Amateur Hour" sponsored by the Missionary Class at Foard City Friday night unearthed quite an array of local talent. First prize went to Bewley's Chuck Wagon Gang, composed of the two Messrs. Evenson and Mary Elizabeth, Joe Farrar, Estelle Autry and LaVoyce Lefevre. Second place went to Estelle Autry, singing and playing in a Gene Autry fashion—there must be something in a name.

Join fisherman's contest, catch the "biggest bass," get $20 worth fine tackle—you pick it.—W. R. Womack.

Judge Claude Callaway and I. T. Graves were business visitors in Austin Friday and Saturday of last week.

Mrs. Andrew Calvin and baby daughter, Rebecca Ann, arrived from their home in Corpus Christi Sunday for a visit with relatives here.

Comparison Made of Post Office and Telephone Business

"It is interesting to note the costly dilemma of U. S. Post Office Department operations and its operating deficit with another equally complicated and widespread operation, that of the telephone business. . . . The government runs the postal service, and private enterprise runs the telephone service. Over the past 40 years or so, the cost of telephone service has barely increased. In some areas . . . the cost today is the lowest in history. . . . During this same two score years, first class postal rates have climbed 150 per cent . . . and it was recently announced that the postal rates must be raised. . . . The postal service should be operated without a deficit, at the very least. The answer apparently lies in trying to achieve better management with modern apparatus, rather than a boost in the rates."—Wildwood, N. J., Leader.

Advice Is Given to Dirty Faced Young Beatniks

(Editor's Note: The following timely article was written by Dr. Karl B. Justus, editor of the "Military Chaplain." The Department of the Army sent Dr. Justus' message to The Dallas Morning News and is reprinted from that newspaper.)

With the intensity of the war in Vietnam increasing, with over 100,000 American casualties there, and with a renewed crisis in Korea, it is impossible to overstate the complexities of the challenges confronting the United States in 1968. The situation demands the loyalty and understanding of our citizens. Fortunately, it has that from the great majority of our citizens—who still feel America is the greatest, finest nation on earth.

In America, we cherish our freedoms—free speech, the right to dissent, etc.—and will go to any end to protect these. However, our exercise of free speech and dissent should be intelligent and reasonable (as in our finer forums), rather than violent and treasonable as it has been evidenced on our streets and some college and university campuses.

We say "everyone has a right to his own opinion." Fortunately, that includes me and, frankly, I am weary and disgusted with marches, protests, sit-ins and riots while a half-million American men daily lay their lives on the line in Vietnam. What I am trying to express was said far better by Joseph Holmes of the San Diego Dispatch on last Oct. 27. I quote only part of his article: "My God, how can it be, that one boy lies rotting of malnutrition and torture in a jungle prison camp in North Vietnam—and another boy spits and tramples on the flag of this country on the steps of a university of learning. . . . That one Negro holds the face of his dead white comrade in his arms and cries pitifully in a dirty mud-hole in Vietnam—and another Negro screams hate against his white brother on the streets of countless American cities. . . . That one man of God shields a wounded boy from an enemy bayonet with his own body and dies—and another man of God uses his cloth as a shield to preach hate, dissension and lawlessness. My God, how can it be?"

I, too, want peace—ardently—but with justice, integrity and honor, and not at any price.

It's about time that all those who really feel that Ho Chi Minh, Mao, Castro and the rest of the Red brigade are right, leave America and go live with the Communists. Surely they deserve all that North Vietnam, Red China, Cuba and Russia, too, have to offer.

fer. It's about time that the long-haired, heavily bearded young men, and the dirty-faced slovenly dressed young women, who march or sit in protest in front of the White House, get a job and contribute something constructive. The world doesn't owe them a living.

It's about time that some of America's rebellious youth get wise to themselves. Every generation must dream, evaluate, devise new ways and seek to progress, but that does not mean that ALL standards, morals and values of the past are irrelevant and to be thrown overboard.

It's about time the "hippies," those "flower" boys and girls who proclaim peace and brotherhood, wake up to the fact that LSD will not bring them to a new day, or a new religious experience. More likely, it will bring a "Lost Saints Day," and maybe, a lost life.

It's about time that the more militant civil-rights leaders and "black power" advocates are brought to realize that violence and "massive civil disobedience" are not the ways to achieve such rights. The end does not justify the means. Law should be obeyed, upheld and enforced. The American way is "liberty under law."

It's about time that some of our clergymen spend at least equally as much time preaching the Gospel that regenerates and renews men, as they do working for integration, and trying our statesmen how to conduct international relations. A man who is "marched" into the vision, love and understanding will tell him brotherhood, equal rights, responsibility, opportunities.

It's about time (also) to organize in America, no matter good citizens we are, or be general and progressive, that has to come an end to the stant rise in taxation at the local, state and local level. We don't make more money, can't pay out more, unless we hopelessly in debt. If that's a belt-tightening there will be day of reckoning.

It's about time we see IS GOOD TO BE AN AMERICAN and that patriotism is a virtue. I still get a spine-tingle as I watch the ican flag go by in a parade. I hear a good band play the tune, "Stars and Stripes Forever." I do not always believe "try, right or wrong," but I will with her anyway. I am proud to be an American! How about you?
