WILDCATS TRAVEL TO CHILlicothe FRIDAY

The Crowell Wildcats, still seeking their first District 11-A win of the season, go to Chillicothe Friday night to challenge the Eagles, who have won two district games this season. Starting time for the contest is 8 o'clock. Chillicothe has district wins over Holliday and Paducah and a loss to Archer City in district 11A action. The Eagles lost non-conference games to Frederick, Okla., and Lockett, and their game with Tipton ended in a tie.

Wildcats Lose 28 to 14 to Holliday Last Friday Night

The Crowell Wildcats came out on the short end of a 28 to 14 score when they travelled to Holliday last Friday night for a District 11-A game with the powerful Eagles, defending district champs. The Eagles scored 7 points in each quarter in their win, using three pass interceptions and two fumbles by the Wildcats to score the win.

A Crowell fumble on the first play of the game put the Eagles in scoring position on the Wildcat 35. Six plays later, Ricky Allgood blasted four yards for the touchdown with Coy Sanders kicking the extra point.

The Wildcats came right back with Gary Cates intercepting an Eagle pass and ran it out to the Crowell 41. The Cats were on their way for their first TD, featuring 35 yards picked up by Jim Tom (Frog) Smith in short gains. Then Cates hit Smith with a TD pass in the end zone from nine yards out. Smith's attempt for points after failed.

Leading by a 7-6 score going into the second quarter, the Eagles turned another Crowell miscue into a touchdown as Allgood raced 11 yards for the final yards. Again Sanders kicked the extra point.

Early in the third quarter, Holliday fumbled on its 32 and the Wildcats recovered. Smith and Cates picked up 17 yards before a fumble halted the drive. Mike King took a pass from Eagle quarterback Ronnie Gafford and ran 63 yards for the touchdown. Sanders again kicked the point-after.

Crowell took the kickoff and returned to their own 37 as the third period ended. The Cats then scored in six plays, with Cates running up the middle for the TD from four yards out with 9:58 left in the game. Smith plunged into the end zone for 2 points, and the score was 21-14.

The Wildcats held the Eagles for downs and took the ball on the Crowell 15. Cates hit Barry Branch with a pass which gained 40 yards. But on the next play, an interception stopped the final Cat drive. Allgood scored the final Eagle TD on a 31-yard run.

Gary Eddy average 42 yards on his 4 punts for the Wildcats, and Branch, Smith and George Eavenson each caught 3 passes from quarterback Cates.

The State Executive Committee announces the tentative 1970 football assignments for Conference A, Supt. Henry Black said last week.

WELL SOLDIER STATIONED IN PANAMA WRITES ABOUT CANAL ZONE

Wendell Callaway, son of the Panama Canal Zone. He has written and sent the following story about the Canal Zone:

"I received a military assignment to the Panama Canal Zone. I don't know what to expect from this small tropical country which connects the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans as the 'World Commerce' for Panama to be a culmination of the past and a certain Latin American republic of Panama is the most Central American. The Panama Canal is the central American's Central American to the northwest is the country's position and the southeast is the equator insures a year-round but humid tropical climate. Panama is a country so diverse to have beaches, a volcanic jungles, fresh water and palm trees.

"The primary mission of the U. S. in Panama is the strategic location of the Panama Canal. The Panama Canal is a 50-mile path across the north-south direction of the country into two equal halves. (Just as many suppose, I assumed that Panama runs in an east-west direction, however, Panama points in a true east-west direction.)

"The canal was completed and in 1914 by the U. S. at a cost of $525,812,661 (today this would be many times this amount, but not before years of suffering, disease and failure. An attempt by France to dig level canal begun in 1880 ended in financial failure in 1889 and after scores of workers were afflicted with the deadly malaria. The U. S. negotiated a treaty with Panama and began construction in 1904 on a less expensive lock system canal instead of a sea level canal.

To picture more clearly the function of and the advantage of a lock system canal, imagine first that rather than being flat, the roughly 50 miles across the isthmus rises in the center with a chain of mountains. Rather than spend the extra millions required to dig deeply enough to achieve a sea level ditch especially through the mountainous region, the U. S. chose to employ the lock system. Basically the locks act as stair steps to raise the ship "over the hump" and back down to sea level.

The three sets of locks, Miraflores, Pedro Miguel and Gatun, through which a ship traversing the canal passes raise the ship a total of 85 feet above sea level. The length of the canal is approximately 50 miles and the average time for transit is 7-8 hours. Each ship passing through the canal displaces 55 million gallons of water to be spilled into the sea after use in the locks. Water for use in the locks of the canal comes primarily from Gatun Lake, a fresh water lake. Thus the tremendous yearly rainfall is a vital necessity to the operation of the canal.

The toll rate for passing through the canal has remained constant since its opening at 90¢ a ton for a loaded vessel. (There are other scales for empty ships and warships). This fact alone is amazing considering the rising costs of all phases of transportation and shipping. Another interesting fact about the Panama Canal is that although it is operated by the U. S., it has been established for international use. This does not exclude Communist bloc countries. I have on occasion seen both Russian and Red Chinese ships traveling through the canal. Theoretically during World War II, a German vessel would have been allowed to pass through the canal. Fortunately none got this far.

The terrain around the Canal Zone is largely jungle. In fact the jungles of Panama are said to more closely resemble those found in Vietnam than any in the world (except of course Vietnam). For that reason, the Jungle Operations Training Center at Fort Sherman conducts jungle tactical and survival training for many Vietnam-bound soldiers.

The interior of the country near the Costa Rican border is like a different world. Surprisingly it resembles the mountainous parts of northern New Mexico and Colorado with its mountains and its streams. Farming and cattle raising abound in this area of Panama. Brahman cattle are the most predominant.

Panama also offers beautiful beaches and is famous for its fine deep sea fishing. Sight seeing attractions include historic Fort San Lorenzo. Some of the original cannons are mounted around the rock-walled ruins of the picture-back to the early 16th century. Ft. San Lorenzo has a commanding and lofty view of the Chagres River and the Caribbean Sea on the Atlantic Coast. Old Panama also offers the tourist a look at the past with remains of a majestic cathedral tower and other rock-walled ruins serving as picturesque reminders of a once-thriving seaport city. Old Panama was sacked and virtually destroyed by the English pirate, Henry Morgan, in

The population of Panama is almost international in nature. It can hardly be said that one race is the native Panamanian. Panamanians are Negro, Latin, Indian, Oriental and Caucasian. The variety of races found in Panama is traceable to Panama's role as a world port and perhaps more directly to the influx of people who worked on the construction and operation of the canal. A large percentage of Panama City and Colon, the two principal cities of Panama, is Negro. The predominant language is Spanish although many Panamanians speak English.

One particularly interesting group of people found in the Canal Zone is the Cuna Indians who originated from the San Blas Islands, about 75 miles off the Atlantic Coast of Panama. The San Blas, as they are popularly known, are a small people with Indian features. The women are particularly colorful in dress wearing costumes with hand-stitched designs called hemolas, head scarfs and brightly colored wrapping on their ankles. Highlighting their distinctive wardrobe is the wearing of a gold ring in their nose.

Shanty houses dot the hillsides along the Trans-Isthmian Highway (speed limits range from 40 to 50 MPH) from Colon to Panama City, a vivid reminder of the large-scale poverty in Panama. Stands along the highway offer peppers, bananas and even an occasional cayuca (a canoe made by hollowing out a log) for sale to passing motorists. Sections of both major cities are cluttered with shacks which seem hardly livable. The minimum wage in Panama is 40¢ per hour.

In addition to the Trans-Isthmian Highway, the Atlantic and Pacific sides of Panama are linked by a railway. The Panama Railroad is known as the world's fastest train—only an hour and a half coast to coast! This is less amazing considering that coast to coast in Panama is only 50 miles.

The history of Panama has had many outside influences. Early historic heroes include Christopher Columbus who sailed along the coast of Panama in 1502 (the town of Colon is the Spanish name for Columbus) and Balboa who crossed the Isthmus to first discover the Pacific Ocean in 1513. The English pirate Henry Morgan also figures in Panama's past, although in a negative manner, with his destructive raids on Old Panama and Fort San Lorenzo. Panama was early an important port. During the gold rush of the late 1840's, many of the 49'ers crossed the Isthmus partially by boat and on foot in preference to the long and dangerous trek by land to the gold fields of California.

The coming of the Canal brought new people and new heroes to Panama. President Theodore Roosevelt, U. S. President during the construction of the canal, and Colonel William C. Gorag whose medical techniques to combat malaria have almost eliminated the disease as a serious health problem in Panama, are two examples. Today, many homes and businesses in Panama display a picture of President John F. Kennedy, a mute testimony to the widespread affection for the late President in Latin America.

The past year the elected president of Panama was overthrown and the country is presently under the control of a military junta. The Guardia Nacional maintains rigid control of Panama but is seemingly pro-American. Guardia Nacional dot the street corners of the city armed with riot shotguns or rifles. They maintain a constant alert to any threat to their power.

Rain is almost a way of life in Panama. The average yearly rainfall is 130 inches. During the rainy season which lasts from April through December, you can expect at least one good rain storm every day. However, unlike in Texas, the rain doesn't virtually bring activity to a standstill. As a friend said, "If you put off something because of rain you will never get it done in Panama." So, if it rains, you move under a bo-hio (an open air, thatched roofed structure covered with palm leaves) or open your umbrella and carry on.

A typical weather summary recently printed in a local newspaper gave these figures for the month of August. The average temperature was 84 degrees and the average relative humidity was 86 per cent. Rainfall for the month was 22 inches. Bringing this down to practical description, crackers are seldom crisp. Potato chips are sold in pressurized cans. Shoes mold a day after being polished and metal rusts quickly. These are some of the by-products of the intense humidity in Panama.

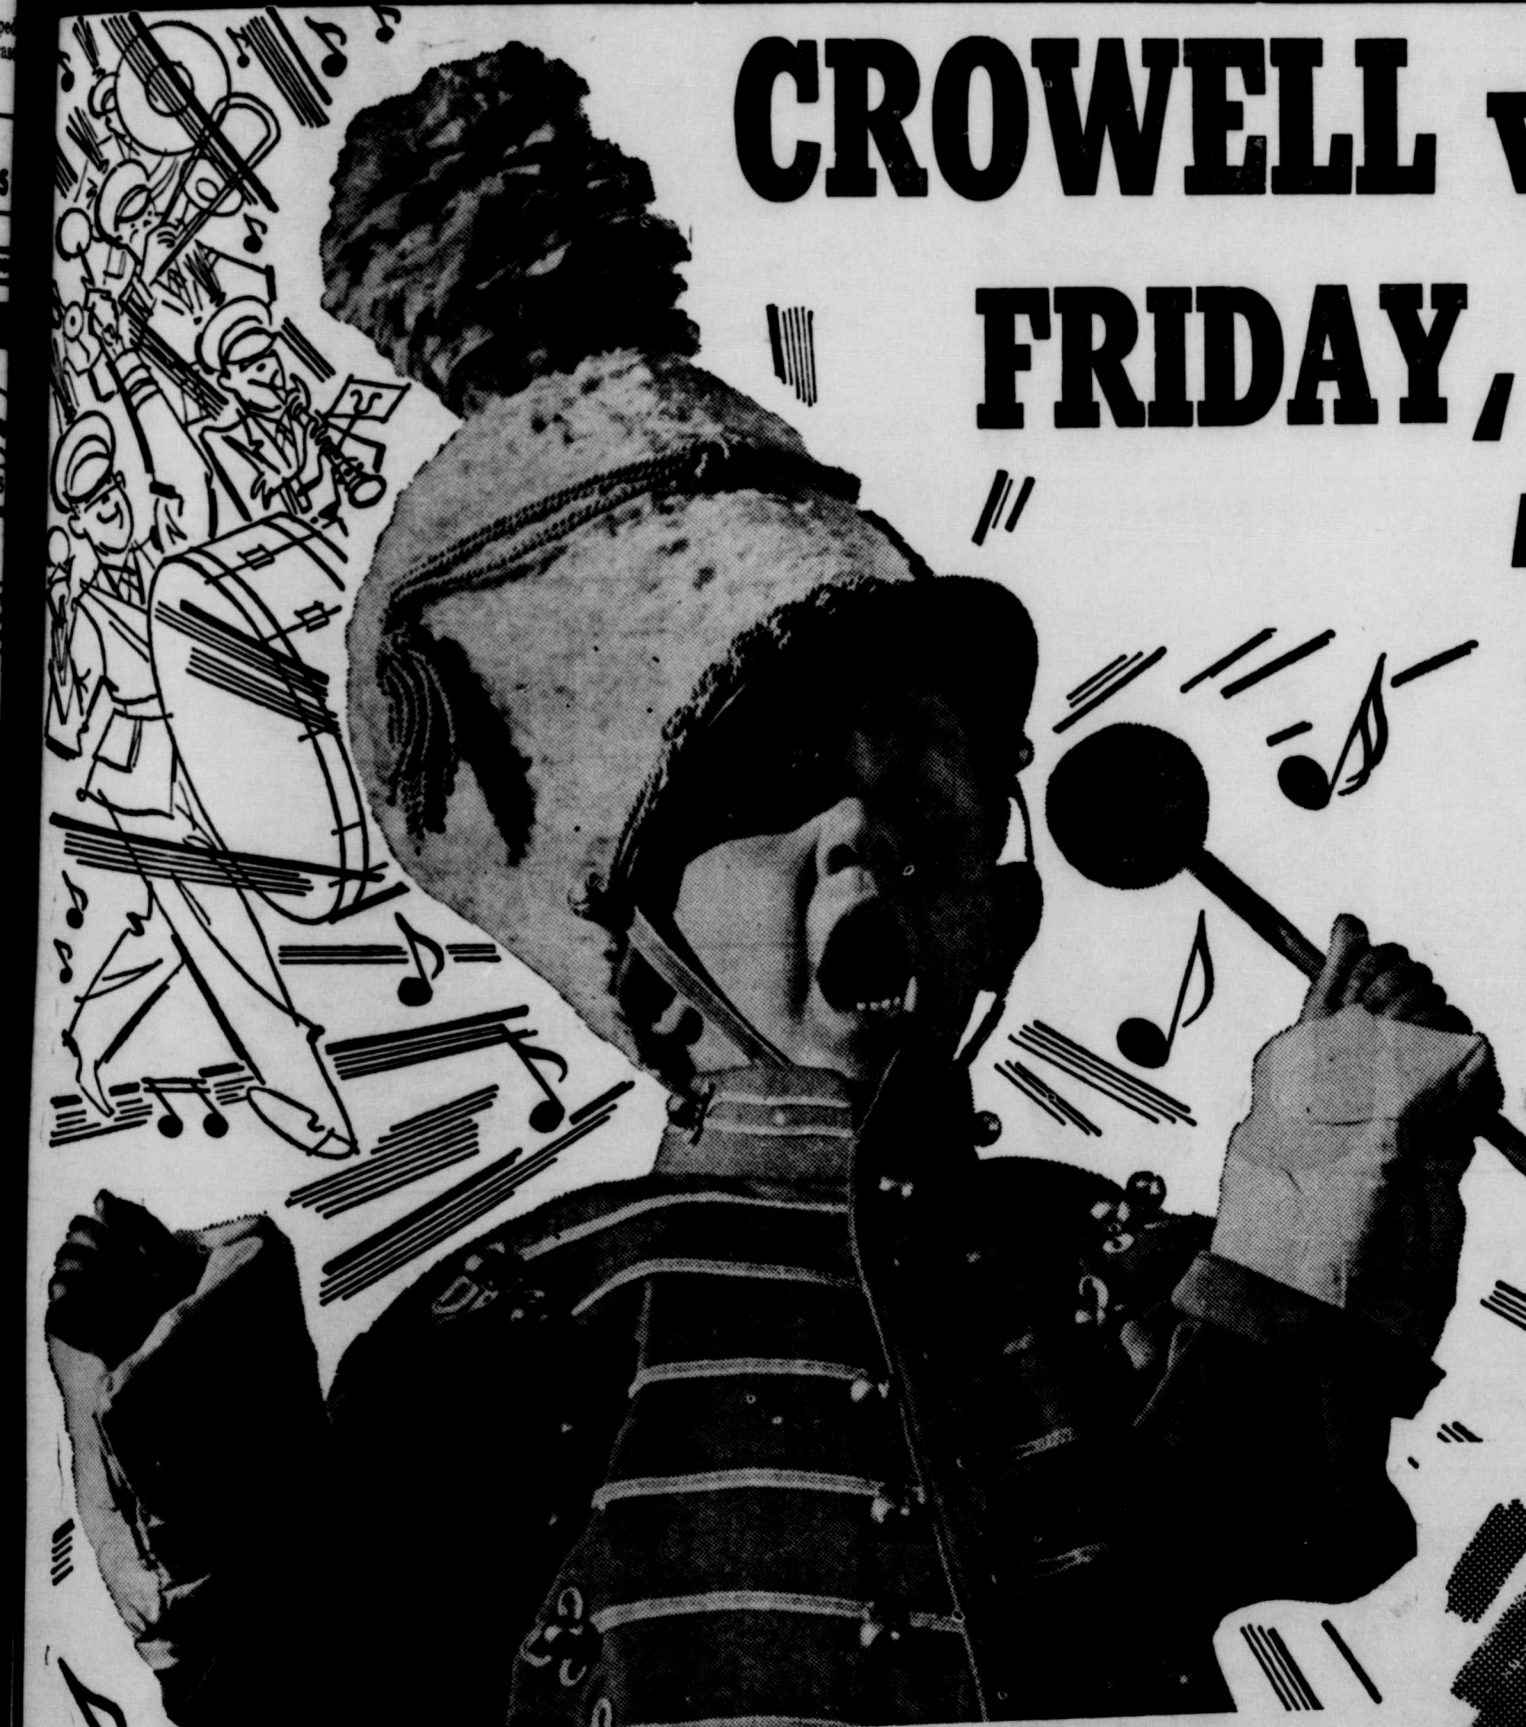

My job is that of an information specialist with the Atlantic Area Installation Command at Fort Davis. I am responsible for writing releases of newsworthy events and forwarding them with photos to service and civilian newspapers in the Canal Zone.

Although Panama has much to offer, you can believe that there's no place like the good ole USA. There's not much griping here about America; most everyone I know can't wait to get back. For that reason I hope that by doing my job as well as I can during

Heatly Honored at Prison Rodeo

The Texas Department of Corrections honored Rep. Bill Heatly at the Prison Rodeo at Huntsville on Sunday, Oct. 12, for his long service to Texas and for his undivided interest in the Texas Penal System. Heatly has been chairman of the House Appropriations Committee for five sessions of the Legislature and therefore, has been influential in securing funds for the operation of the vast Texas prison system.

Since Heatly has been chairman of the appropriations committee, rapid progress has been made in modern concepts of prison management, which emphasizes education together with fair and firm discipline and constructive work for the prisoners.

"The prison system has developed from seven small and poorly equipped factories in 1963, to 18 modern plants in which 1,428 inmates receive training in the latest methods of manufacturing," Heatly said. "The prisoners produce nearly all of the food and fiber consumed by the prison system and produce mattresses, bricks, mops, textiles, license plates, soap, detergent, furniture and other products in their modern factories."

Two Minutes With the Bible

Buy the Truth and Sell It Not.—Prov. 23:23.

Every true Christian should understand that the truth costs. If you don't think so, make it your own, value it, defend it, stand for it, and see if it doesn't cost. Before you are through it may cost you far more than you had thought—hours of ease and pleasure, friends and money. Yes, the truth costs. Salvation is gloriously free but the truth costs—that is if you want it for yourself. Many who know the truth won't buy it. They won't pay what it costs to say: "This is what I believe. This is my conviction." The truth isn't worth that much to them.

But God's Word urges us: "Buy the truth!" Not, "Buy it if you can get it at a bargain; if the price is not too great." No, "Buy the truth!" Buy it at any price. It's far more valuable than anything you can give in exchange for it.

And when you have bought it—"sell it not." How many, alas, have bought the truth only to sell out again. For awhile they valued and defended some God-given light from His Word, but presently they sold it again for something that seemed more valuable. Perhaps it was peace with others, or position, or popularity or some other temporal gain. They still gave mental assent that it was the truth, but it formed no part of them. It was no longer a conviction. Such should read again the Spirit's counsel: "Buy the truth, and sell it not." He does not say: "Don't sell it unless you can get a very good price for it." He says: "Sell it not." Sell it not at any price. Buy it, no matter what it costs and when it is yours do not sell it for any price or under any consideration.

Letter to Editor

October 17, 1969

To the Editor:

During these times of demonstrations, protests, moratoriums, and people telling us what is wrong with our country, the news media, especially in national news and around the big cities, seems to overlook those stories about those of us who know how great our country is.

As everyone knows, a nationwide moratorium was observed on October 15 in which 1,000,000 people reportedly took part. We failed to see, hear, or read any news report about the 195,000,000 of us who stayed home. Sure we want peace! Who doesn't? But we also realize that in order to achieve it, there is a right way and a wrong way to go about it.

We attended in Dallas the same day, a company meeting. At the meeting there were 4,500 people who believe in and support the American way of life and the free enterprise system. The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag and closed with the singing of "God Bless America." What a thrill it was to hear that many voices raised in praise of our country when about all we hear these days is protest songs. This story was not covered by local TV or radio. It received no mention at all in the Dallas papers that we could find. Yet, a mere handful of students who demonstrated in Dallas received full coverage by all the media. The entire front page of The Dallas Morning News was taken for this story.

It is our belief that if these types of stories were put in their proper perspective, perhaps we would be better understood and respected abroad. This country has its faults like any other. We don't overlook this, but it is still the greatest country in the world, and it is about time those of us who believe this make our voices heard.

Sincerely,
Ray and Betty Gibson,
Jackie and Myrna Walker.

Veterans' Widows on Limited Income May Be Eligible for Pension

Veterans' widows were reminded this week if they have a limited income they may be eligible for a Veterans Administration pension.

Under current law, according to Jack Coker, manager of the Waco VA regional office, qualified widows of wartime veterans who have died of causes not related to their service are eligible if their income is no more than $2,000 if they have no children, and no more than $3,200 if they do.

If a widow does not qualify for a pension because of a higher income or because she remarries, her children may still be eligible to receive pensions. Persons seeking further information are urged to contact their nearest VA office, Coker said. The V. A. regional office is located at 1400 North Valley Mills Drive, Waco, Texas 76710.

STATE Capital NEWS

Austin, Tex.—More than 100 "fraternal organizations" are being requested by Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. to swear that they are in fact fraternal organizations and not just "private clubs."

He says applications are coming in from "fraternities" that evidently are "private clubs" and if they are approved it will make a mockery of the five cent tax per drink requirement set by the Legislature on private clubs.

Texas law provides that fraternal organizations are exempt from franchise taxes.

Among the "fraternal organizations" presently being asked to confirm their status are the Benevolent Order of the Impala of Texas, Club L'Amour Fraternal Association, Inc., the Fraternal Order of Moon Maidens, The Fraternal Order of Dart Players and the Fraternal Order for the Preservation and Resurrection of Burlesque.

If an organization refuses to answer the questionnaire within 30 days, it faces dissolution. Answering the questions falsely means possible perjury charges.
