State Rep. Aires School Tax Raise

There has been so much talk and questions arising the past week because of new school tax information relating to the Tahoka School District, that I wanted the people to know of the many inquiries to me. Because of the office I hold, and in direct confirmation with a committee that Speaker Mustcher appointed me on that has to do with taxation of farm, ranch, and forest land, and with Amendment No. 3 to be voted on in the general election in November to cause these properties to be taxed more fairly, just, and equitable and to give some meaning to the production capacities thereof. I suppose I have been considered a knowledgeable authority on taxation because of these reasons.

I can relate to you some of the facts that we have begun to receive through this committee work so that you might be better informed. The School Districts higher tax evaluation and the need for new money has come about because the 61st Legislature was educationally minded. House Bill 240, which included new pension plans, a 5-year plantobring 5 year olds into the public school systems, and the highly controversial teachers pay raise, are some of the reasons why districts like ours are having the same problems.

Tahoka Pre-School Program Underway

Twenty seven eager boys and girls who will be first graders this fall are attending pre-school in South Elementary. The program started June 1st and will operate through July 24th for five days a week from 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. A school bus picks up and delivers children in Tahoka. A morning snack is served at 8:30 a.m. and a full lunch is served at 11:30 by Mrs. Mozell Smith, Supervisor of the school cafeteria.

Mrs. Ruth Walker is teaching the pre-school. Teacher's aides are Connie Gardner and Sandra Marez. Wanda Lawson also helps with the program through the cooperation of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. With a teacher and three aides the children are given much individual attention. No first grade work is taught but songs, games, contests, supervised play, mind and body coordinating exercises are utilized to motivate and interest every student. This is meeting the primary purpose of the pre-school program, which is to get children ready for first grade, eager to go to school and ready to learn.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Pollution of Texas beaches brought strong recommendations to Senate committees for on offshore oil exploration, vigorous enforcement of regulations and creation of a national oil company. Senate beach and pipeline committees listened to full day of testimony. Highlights included:

Complaint of pipeline committee consultant Terence O'Rourke that state agencies seldom file cases to collect fines for oil spill pollution. O'Rourke said Texas would have a fund of millions of dollars from fines to combat pollution if strong enforcement were the rule. Railroad Commission Enforcement Officer Roy Williams acknowledged under questioning that the Commission has never filed lawsuit to punish accidental pollution through spills.

Statement by Sen. A.R. Schwartz of Galveston that the industry should not be permitted to drill in coastal waters until it can give assurances it has technology to prevent spills. Recommendation of Sen. D. H. Harrison of Port Arthur for double safety devices be installed on high coastal rigs to emergency manual shut-off's should be used when automated equipment fails or is destroyed by fires.

Statement by Austin journalist Ronnie Dugger that a national oil company be established to produce aid on public lands. Dugger said former Gov. Ross Sterling, himself an oil company executive, as far back as 1931 had proposed state drill its own oil and that President Nixon's task force finance the federal government oil exploration and development of an emergency standby reserve.

Recommendation by governor's aide John Shanahan Jr. for tighter rules over oil industry operating in state waters and legislative designation of responsibility for oil spill contingency planning.

COURTS SPEAK... In district court cases at Houston and El Paso, Atty. Gen. Crawford C.

Martin won first judicial orders checking air pollution by trash burning and industrial smoke. Civil penalties were assessed in the Robert's Dump case, Houston. An El Paso smelting and refining firm was given deadlines for installing anti-pollution devices.

Supreme Court held that cities under 5,000 (Lindale) cannot annex territory without consent of the people living in the area.

High Court set July arguments on the issue of whether an insurance company (Allstate) issuing uninsured motorist coverage should be allowed to enter court against its own policy holder on the side of uninsured drivers to prove its client was partly at fault or his injuries less than claimed.

Supreme Court reversed the $42,892 judgment awarded a 79-year-old woman injured in a stairway fall at Houston's Astrodome.

Attorney General announced acceptance of voluntary compliance from a Beaumont housewares franchiser, agreeing to discontinue advertising and sales practices questioned as deceptive.

APPOINTMENTS... Former State Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline is the new director of hearings and permits for Texas Water Quality Board. Jim Showen, who served as acting director, will continue to serve as senior hearing examiner.

Houston Mayor Louis Welch was named to a vacancy (succeeding Al Henry, also of Houston) on the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

San Antonio public relations man Jim Battersby was named executive vice-president of Discover Texas Association to replace James M. Gaines, who became director of HemisFair Plaza in San Antonio. Headquarters of the privately-supported tourist promotion group also moved with Battersby from Austin to San Antonio.

SHOULD JPS BE LAWYERS? State Bar will take up a resolution at its San Antonio convention July 2 urging the legislature to require urban county judges and justices of the peace have credentials as lawyers. Resolution suggests attorney qualifications for judges of counties over 50,000 and for JP's in counties over 200,000. Among other resolutions on the agenda is one seeking higher pay for lawyers in military service.

REGULATORY AUTHORITY SOUGHT... State Department of Agriculture has requested power to outlaw chemical compounds harmful to public health.

Commissioner John C. White also proposed in a meeting of the Interim Legislative study committee on Land Use and Environmental Control that the legislature regulate disposing of pesticides and chemical compounds that are no longer needed, no longer used or banned from use.

Committee called the meeting following a report on cumulative effects of the pesticide DDT on animals.

White repeated his previous statement that he knows of no case in which humans have been harmed as a result of the use of DDT in agriculture.

Same Committee was told by a Florida biologist that oysters taken from the Arroyo Colorado area of Laguna Madre had the highest DDT concentrations of any in the nation. This, the biologist said, is a reflection of intense agricultural activity in the Rio Grande Valley. Oysters, according to the same authority, are not killed by DDT, but fish that eat them are.

A Texas Parks and Wildlife spokesman said hydrocarbons (Such as DDT) cannot continue to be used without serious degradation of the world ecological system.

OBSCENITY CRACKDOWN... Federal court in Dallas held that almost all of the new state obscenity control law is constitutional, and Attorney General Martin predicted a crackdown on distribution of obscene material will result.

Only section of the law invalidated was one allowing seizure of material without a hearing.

Ruling rejected requests for injunction by book stores and movie houses in Dallas, Amarillo and Lubbock.

SMALL TOWNS IN TROUBLE... Noting preliminary census figures discouraging to many communities, Gov. Preston Smith said revitalizing the small towns of Texas may be tougher than starting them.

"Right now," said Smith in a speech at Crane, "the people of Texas... whether they live in the largest city or the smallest rural community... have some problems as tough for them as were those that confronted the 'frontier busters' In many respects, our challenge and our task are more demanding and much more complex. The preliminary reports on the census of so many of our smaller cities spell out in box-car size letters that as much tenacity just plain guts... is required to tackle that job as the old-timers needed."

WEIGHTS EQUIPMENT ACCEPTED... National Bureau of Standards presented the state with $80,000 worth of weights and measures standards and calibration equipment.

Precision instruments will be used in the new Department of Agriculture Weights and Measures Laboratory just dedicated here. Equipment is first of kind officially issued to states by the federal government since the 1840's, and the Governor said it will benefit industry, commerce and consumers by insuring just and fair transactions.

SHORT SNORTS... State received a $35,000 federal grant for its training program for local government personnel.

School teachers attending in-service training during August must be paid at higher new salary schedules for 1970-71, Attorney General Martin held in a recent opinion.

Revenue from cigarette taxes increased $4,598,990 to $15,516,491 from May, 1969, to May, 1970, Treasurer Jesse James reports.

City of Corpus Christi's plan for emergency oil spill action is being held up as a model for other communities.

University of Texas regents authorized a project for examining artifacts recovered from sunken Spanish ships in the Gulf of Mexico.

Removal of litter from Texas highways cost $1.9 million a year... enough to build 45 miles of farm-to-market roads or three miles of primary highways... says Texas Highway Department.

Liberal Democrat "Rebuilding Committee" has launched a campaign against Democratic Gov. Preston Smith and Democratic Senate nominee Lloyd Bentsen.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Sir,
When someone asks me where are you from? I proudly say Tahoka, Texas, because the next question is "What kind of a name is that?" I would proudly reply, "It's an old Indian name, which means deep, clear water, I suppose a lot of people did not know this."

Our family was one of the original Lynn Co. families, Mr. and Mrs. James V. Dyer, my grandparents on my father's side, whose farm was located about 4 miles east of town, where we spent most of our childhood days, I'll never forget that long walk to Edith School, and on bad days, my Dad would hitch old "Bob and Ned," to the old wagon and take us. Then there's another walk I can't forget after school and in the summer I looked forward to going to take my piano lessons at Miss Linnie Tippitt's house. She was a lovely person and a wonderful teacher.

Later on when we were older, we moved into town, where I had another piano teacher, Mrs. Raff Richardson, whom I also adored. A swell family we were lucky to have as neighbors.

I'm looking forward to attending my first "Old Settlers Reunion," and hope to see my ex home ec. teacher, Mrs. Hegl, a most admirable person, who in 1967 was awarded a medal for The Outstanding Teacher of the Year. Then there's Mrs. Smith, my Sunday School Teacher, I'm looking forward to seeing her.

Then later in 1937 we moved to San Angelo, Texas, where I graduated from Lakeview High School, of which I'm a proud ex-student, then three years with the government I had my tuition for college. O'Donnell Overpasses Are Not Feasible

Representative E.L. Short, of Tahoka, states that the intersections on both sides of O'Donnell that cross U.S. Highway 87 have brought attention as to the hazardous condition. He states that we have begun to gather some facts and figures as to the possibilities and feasibility of getting the Texas Highway Department to put overpasses on the North and South O'Donnell by-pass.

At this time, according to the State office, it is not feasible to put overpasses at these intersections. They arrive at this conclusion by calculating the traffic, budgeting of funds and advance planning. I requested the number of accidents, the number of injuries and deaths and the amount of property damage at both intersections, and was told the accidents, the property damage, etc. was not extensive enough to justify new construction. The hard facts are that before a project of this magnitude becomes a priority it has to have had more accidents than are on record at this date. Representative Short further states that he believes there is a very good possibility in the near future of U.S. Highway 87 being designated as a part of the interstate system, and this would probably solve more of these hazardous situations than any other methods.

It might seem easy to decide what is best for others, but without factual information public opinion cannot be initiated. In the 50's and 60's, we enjoyed much prosperity and stockpiling for the future was much easier than today. The impact of hard to get money is being felt. There is an enormous amount of information available and numerous statistics at our fingertips, and I invite you to call on your office of State Representative at any time.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Richard L. Christie in a day when all America is concerned with pollution, as it rightfully should be, let us look at the fundamentals. The responsibility for the wise use of our resources is a part of the heritage that is passed on to each generation. Acceptance of this responsibility is needed in the interest of public welfare and the security of the United States.

soil and water. All things, yes all things, even man basically is soil and water. It takes soil and water to produce everything man eats, drinks, wears and works with. Trace food down to see that all of it comes from the soil and water of this great nation. Trace clothing and leather back to see that it comes from soil and water. Yet, we fail to get upset about erosion of soil and water and its depletions. There have been many "Johnny-come-lately" type programs to prevent pollution. Everybody talks about pollution of the air and water and what should be done about it but yet they will let water and soil wash out of their fields, yards and pastures.

Rep. Whitten (Miss.), Chairman of the House Agricultural Appropriations Committee, made the point in hearings on the Fiscal Year 1971 USDA budget. Speaking in regard to SCS funds for conservation work, he said:

"Throughout the history of the U.S., there have been numerous people that thought that cheap raw materials made this country great. To them, it appeared that there was no limit to natural resources. "What is overlooked is, while cheap raw materials made us the great nation that we are, in the process about half of our country was destroyed. In the early thirties we began to realize that resources were limited and this wholesale destruction could not continue.

"Many folks today seem to think that concern over pollution is new. In fact it is the present realization of what we knew in the thirties but failed to do enough about.

"In other committees on which I sit, it seems that the presentation frequently has to do with the new and that which has been highly publicized. Even the Bureau of the Budget seems unaware of the fact that the programs such as yours which have been doing something about pollution have helped us recover from past mistakes.

"At this point I think it would be well for the committee record to show that we are cutting back the very programs which have been doing natural resources."

The Soil Conservation Service has done a good job helping the people of America protect these natural resources and will continue to do so in the future.

Clayton Fund Scholarships will again be available this fall for agricultural journalism majors at Texas A&M University. Dr. R.C. Potts, associate dean of agriculture, said The Clayton Fund of Houston has authorized use of up to $5,000 for the awards to be made during the 1970-71 school year.

The dean said The Clayton Fund was funded by W.L. Clayton, founder of Anderson, Clayton & Company.

Potts said the scholarship program has been in effect at A&M for 17 years and is administered by the College of Agriculture and the Department of Journalism.

C.J. Leabo, head of A&M's Journalism Department, described agricultural journalism as an established and expanding field. Graduates can choose from numerous employment offers by newspapers, magazines, radio and television, public relations firms, and state and federal information services.

He said the program this spring had 20 students. More are expected this fall. Four students were graduated in agricultural journalism during the 1969-70 school year.

The curriculum involves a general background in agriculture, with specialization in journalism during the 1969-70 school year. Reader's Digest Again Libels Agriculture

A blatantly distorted article entitled "Time to Say No to Big Farm Subsidies" made its way into 17.5 million homes and offices this month, thanks to the editors and publishers of Reader's Digest magazine — and thanks to an annual postal subsidy of $9.4 million.

Thus the 25 million or more souls who directly or indirectly squeeze their livelihood from agriculture were not only injured by the half-truths and outright falsifications of the article, but are insulted as well by having to pay a part of the cost.

And this fact has not escaped the attention of Congressman David H. Henderson (D-N.C.), who is Chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. Henderson has requested that Reader's Digest give him space to rebut the article in a future issue pointing out "the distortions and inaccuracies."

He also announced on the floor of the House recently that he will raise some questions before his committee about "the propriety of the second class postal subsidy being paid indiscriminately to all regardless of content."

Henderson's activity in renouncing the infamous mouthings of the Reader's Digest's Eugene Methvin is only another small move toward reversing the tide of adverse publicity leveled against agriculture almost daily, much of it without regard for truth. But his is a well-taken position and may well serve as a springboard for future action.

The Reader's Digest article characterizes payments as being made to farmers "not to grow cotton, wheat, and feed grains", and this is a far cry from the truth. More nearly true would be to state that under present conditions farmers cannot continue to grow these crops without payments. Therefore they are the exact opposite of what Mr. Methvin would have his readers believe. But the majority of those who will read the article are not versed in agriculture, farm programs or their objectives. They have not been made to understand that farm programs benefit the general public by assuring adequate supplies of food and fiber at the world's greatest bargain prices.

Methvin's treacherous tale, in fact, states that the $3.5 billion of annual payments "is only part of the cost, for they also boost the prices that we consumers must pay in the market." How ridiculous can you get?

Farm program payments made up the difference between the cost of producing cotton, wheat and feed grains and the prices for which these commodities sell on the market. Without the payments, consumers would pay a much higher market price or else be obliged to do without these commodities altogether.

Donnell Echols of Lamesa, President of the Lubbock based Plains Cotton Growers Inc. and member of the Board of the National Educational Association for Agriculture, recently said "It is imperative that through PCG, NEIA and every other group at our disposal we let the public know the facts about farming and farm programs. In no other way can we repair the damage done by the erroneous and misleading stories being circulated by national magazines, in Congress and elsewhere."

As an example of PCG efforts to combat the false image being painted of agriculture almost daily, Echols points to "an educational program" being supplied to Congressman George Mahon (D-Tex.) NEIA and others.

Included in the data being supplied to Mr. Mahon, which hopefully will be inserted in the Congressional Record, is a table showing the investment, production costs, income from crop sales, income from government payments and after tax net profit or loss for six High Plains farmers in the years 1967, 1968 and 1969.

The actual figures, taken from the files of a local accounting firm, conclusively show that no one of the six farmers could have stayed in business and continued to produce over the past three years if he had been solely dependent on crop sales covered production costs on only one of the farms for only one of the three years.

The farmers, selected at random from Lamb, Lubbock and Hale Counties, farm an average of 356 acres. Average payments per farm averaged $31,678, and when these payments are added to crop sales the average net income after taxes was $12,014 per farm — a return of less than 5.6 percent on investments, with no allowance for management and labor.

How, then, can farm program payments be characterized as "additions to a l r e a d y sizeable incomes?"

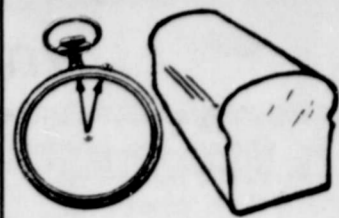

The farms included in the table range from 137 up to 640 acres. Program payments go from below $17,000 up to almost $67,000 and the maximum dollar return to any farmer in any year was $20,640. That was on a 640 acre farm where investment in land and equipment total $209,320.

What Mr. Methvin and other detractors fail to see in farm programs should understand is that the present level of farm program payments, without any form of payments limitation, is rarely enough to keep farmers farming.

Once they understand that fact, crop sales for income.

Without price support payments under government programs, production costs alone, with no regard for return to investment, la-

A total of 1225 persons went thru the gates of the new Piggly Wiggly store opened by W.L. Knight & Son on last Saturday. This is a far greater number than the editor and most other people would have guessed. The large number entering the store was due, of course to the publicity that was given the opening, largely through the columns of the News. Miss Doris Connolly and L.C. Quinsey proved to be the best guessers as to the number of people entering the store. Each of them guessed 1221, missing the correct number by only four. There was also a tie for second place. Mrs. J.H. Nelms guessed 1250, while Jake King guessed 1200, each missing the correct number by 25. The third place was won by Mrs. F.M. Welch, who guessed 1259.

The major portion of those passing through entered between 3:30 in the afternoon and 9 o'clock at night.

The Tahoka Chamber of Commerce has recently procured jobs with the state highway force for many men seeking employment, according to G.H. Nelson, secretary. "One trouble we have encountered," Mr. Nelson stated to the News "is that we have been unable to find light housekeeping rooms for those seeking jobs. We have eighteen men now wanting to come to Tahoka but we have not been able to find suitable rooms for them... A large number of men and teams are employed just now in building the dump for the widened highway across the lake seven miles south of Tahoka. Eight or nine graders are busy building the new grade from the lake in the direction of Tahoka. They are grading practically to the city limits on the south now."

On last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E.H. Boullion the members of the Mothers' Club entertained the Phebe K. Warner Club with a "42" party. After many pleasant games were played delicious sherbet and angel food cake were served to the following: Mesdames W.O. Henderson, Walker, L.E. Weather, and family of O'Donnell, J.M. Doak and family, J.D. Doak and family, W.E. Doak and family all of Snyder; Morris Sanderson and family of O'Donnell, Whoever heard of people on the plains picking cotton in June? But cotton is still being picked in one field between Tahoka and Lubbock, according to J.H. Holloway, gin man. He reports that on the road to Lubbock Monday he saw a bunch of cotton pickers gathering the fleecy staple. A harrow was being run over the field, digging the cotton out of the earth and the "hands" were following, picking it up.

The price of cotton has advanced considerably within the past two or three months, and since practically no rain has fallen yet this year and the prospect for raising a cotton crop is rather precarious, it is supposed that the owner of this old last year crop decided that it would pay to dig his cotton up and save it.

I.S. Doak, Happy Smith and Bill Burlison left Saturday for Memphis, Tenn., to represent Tahoka Kiwanis Club at the big Kiwanis International convention, in session there this week. They will be gone all the week.

Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma bandit and bank robber, who has been operating both in Oklahoma and the North Panhandle oil fields again eluded the officers Monday after a posse of a hundred men thought they had him surrounded in the woods near Pawhuska. Kimes, barely more than 21 years old is wanted for a number of crimes, including murder and bank robbery. Officers have been seeking him for the past six months but thus far have failed to capture him.

A reunion of the Doak families was held at Two-Draw Lake near Post Sunday. The families had gathered at the lake by ten o'clock in the morning and remained until after supper. A great feast was spread at the noon hour, barbecued chicken being an important dish on the menu. It was a great occasion, greatly enjoyed, according to Ira Doak of this city, who was one of the party.

Those present were I.S. Soak and family of Tahoka, C.H. Doak and daughter of O'Donnell, J.M. Doak and family, J.D. Doak and family, W.E. Doak and family all of Snyder; Morris Sanderson and family of O'Donnell,

Mr. Feldler and an aunt of Mrs. CH. Doak's of Anson.
The Terry County Herald reports that a small cyclone visited that county Sunday, June 12, striking near Challis school house, a few miles northeast of Brownfield. A congregation assembled at Challis, watching its approach, became alarmed and scattered. Its path was about 100 yards wide, and in this narrow path it pulled up and wrung off fence posts, clipping the wire as if with nippers, seared the grass as if scorched by fire, and swept away all the loose dirt in the plowed fields. No one was injured and there was little property loss. This is said to be the second near-tornado that has visited Terry county, the first one striking near Meadow soon after the Seagraves branch of the Santa Fe was built through the town several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Henderson left Sunday for the Rio Grande Valley, where they will spend the summer buying cotton. They expect to return to Tahoka in the fall.

S.L. Forrest of Lamesa, of the Forrest Lumber Company was a business visitor in Tahoka Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Ansley of Wichita Falls visited relatives and friends here and at other places in the county last week.

Linda Huffaker, CHD Agent, Says.....

If cheese buying puzzles you, its understandable. More than 800 kinds of cheeses are marketed around the world. They include natural cheese and blends or combinations of natural cheese, process cheese, cheese food and cheese spread. Each natural cheese can be grouped by moisture content or hardness and by degree of ripening or aging.

Although Federal standards or identity govern the minimum percent of milkfat and moisture permissible in most varieties, you can expect each natural cheese to differ a bit from country to country, brand to brand, and package to package even within the same brand. Variations in milk, seasonings, aging manufacturing techniques time of year, locality -- all affect the flavor, texture and color of the same variety.

When you shop for cheese, be sure to read the label. Coldpack or pasteurized process cheese contains about the same fat and moisture content as allowed in the natural cheese from which it is made. Cheese foods contain about 60 percent of the total fat and about the same moisture content as the natural cheese from which it is made. Cheese foods contain about 60 percent of the total fat and about the same moisture content as the natural products.

Pasteurized process cheese spread contains a slightly lower fat content than found in cheese food but a much higher moisture content for easy spreading at room temperature. To find the relative cost of various packages of cheese, compare the price of equal weights. Aged or sharp natural cheese usually costs more than mild cheese; imported cheese sometimes costs more than the same variety made in the United States.

Prepackaged slices, cubed or grated cheese usually costs more than wedges or sticks. Store brands usually cost less than national brands, but there may also be quality or flavor differences. For best flavor, serve ripened natural cheese and coldpack and process types at room

Pupil Accident Insurance

Growing in popularity are insurance policies that cover the schoolchild in case of an accident. Since the idea is relatively new, a number of legal questions have arisen—notably, as to accidents that happen somewhere between the school and the home. Consider this case: A schoolboy, starting homeward after school, decided to make a slight detour in order to accompany a friend on a shopping errand. During the detour, the boy suffered a painful fall. In due course, his parents tried to collect on a student accident policy, claiming that it covered their son while he was travelling to or from school. But the insurance company denied liability. "Our policy did cover him, on the way home from school," the company conceded in court, "but only if he was going 'directly' home. Here, although he was going home, he was not going directly. Therefore, this accident is not covered by the policy." Nevertheless, the court decided the company would have to pay off.

"The deviation was slight," said the judge. "A practical and sensible interpretation of 'directly' will permit such a deviation. The company must have known the propensity of children not to follow a straight line." On the other hand, there are limits as to how far afield the child can stray before losing his protection.

In another case, a youngster fell out of a tree and fractured his arm. At the time of the mishap, school had been over for almost an hour. Furthermore, the boy, instead of moving toward home, had actually gone some distance in the opposite direction. In these circumstances, a court ruled that the insurance protection did not stretch that far. Of course, the terms of the individual policy may make all the difference. In another case, parents tried to collect on a school accident policy when their son got hurt right at home.

Obviously, the accident had nothing to do with school. Yet, the policy stated in so many words that it covered the boy on a 24-hour basis. Following the plain terms of the policy, a court granted the parent's claim.

TWO BITS WORTH

says it will rise to 25 per cent within 10 years! Some government officials believe this free-wheeling extension of credit has added fuel to inflationary fires, a statement that is a likely candidate for the understatement of the year!

Theft of credit cards is also a headache. One credit firm reports losses up to $290,000 in just four months of this year from charges made on stolen cards... (which may, in part, explain why the major card companies have upped "Dues" by five bucks this year)

To cool things down a bit, the Federal Trade Commission banned unsolicited mailings of credit cards on May 18 but another arm of the government (the Federal Reserve Board) says there is no "authority" for such restrictions.

The Nixon administration, after first favoring the ban, reversed itself, saying that it would give bands (already in the credit card business) a virtual monopoly.

In an effort to resolve the problem, the Senate voted 79-1 to outlaw issuance of unsolicited cards. The bill also limits liability for unauthorized use of a credit card to $50. If the card was unsolicited, there would be NO LIABILITY.

The House has not yet acted on the bill. But it looks like the gaping loopholes on careless plastic credit may be shrinking.

TBW And then there's Twiggy. Britain's $2,400 -a-week, 21-22-32 gift to the fashion world says she is retiring from modeling and will start a new career in the movies.

It figures, what with all we've been hearing about the movie industry falling onto lean times.

TBW COLUMN ENDERS: A man's reputation is made not by what he says so much as by what others say he said. A pessimist is just an optimist who had been around too long.

Parking is a headache to city fathers and to mothers of teenage girls.

DAVID MIDKIFF SPEAKS TO ROTARY

"You don't have to lose your teeth," Dr. David Midkiff, local dentist, told Rotary Club members in a talk last Thursday on new techniques in dentistry.

He illustrated his talk with slide films, most of them taken by X-ray camera in the offices of Drs. Midkiff and K.R. Durham. In the past, when disease, decay or pain developed in a tooth, it was pulled. In more recent years, the dental profession has developed means of saving most teeth.

With proper care and periodic checks made by a dentist, Dr. Midkiff declared most people can keep their teeth as long as they live.
