Historical Briefs About The "King" Of Fibers

The name "muslin" comes from Mosul - once a great cotton manufacturing city in the Middle East.

In 1793, Eli Whitney reinvented the cotton gin - which had been successfully used in India some 2,000 years before!

Eight bales of "New World" cotton were seized by the custom house in England in 1764 - on the grounds that the American colony could not have produced so much!

Texas Exports Total $442 Million In '70

Texas agriculture is alive and well and is making great strides. It supplies an abundance of food and fiber not only to those living in the state but to others as well, especially those in foreign countries.

Texas' share of the 1970 agricultural exports was $442 million, or about 15 percent of its cash receipts from marketings. It ranked fourth among agricultural exporting states. United States agricultural exports totaled $7.2 billion in 1970.

Last year Texas held the top spot in exports of cotton and cottonseed oil with 29 percent of the total and was second in rice with 24 percent. Other top export products included hides and skins, tallow, nuts, flaxseed, feed grains, fruits and vegetables, meat and poultry products, and wheat and flour.

economists, foreign markets have a marked impact on the economic stability of Texas agriculture. Export sales in 1970 equaled 79.5 percent of farm cash receipts for rice, 50 percent for wheat, 44.5 percent for feed grains and 33.5 percent for cotton.

More than three-fourths of the total U. S. farm exports dollar sales and the remainder are under government programs. Most exports under government programs, such as Public Law 480 (food and peace), do not return dollars to the U. S.

Nitrate Leaching Studied In Area

The problem of nitrate leaching and water conservation came under the scrutiny of Texas A&M University researchers at Lubbock last summer when they installed an automated irrigated system.

The system was part of a study financed by the Environmental Protection Agency to see if sub-irrigation could be used to prevent leaching of nitrates and other soluble materials into ground water supplies. It is a prototype of a larger system that will be installed on the Rolling Plains later this year.

The work at Lubbock was conducted by Dr. O. C. ... an engineer, Dr. A. ... a soil chemist, Dr. C. W. Wendt, a soil scientist at the A&M Agricultural Research and Extension Center.

The system was installed in April and operated until it was automatically shut off in early July. There were two different plots in the test, which were used to sweet corn on

When the system was installed, water could be applied to the plots at a rate of 10 gallons per acre. This was later reduced to two and one-half gallons per minute, or one inch of water to each acre each day.

For the automated system, tensiometers were used to allow the soil to dry when the moisture dropped to a certain level. On one plot, the system was geared to have water tension. In other plots the soil moisture

The plot with the low water tension drew almost seven times the water used in the high tension plot that had very little soil moisture.

The corn was harvested on July 29, and the difference in tension factors (soil moisture) was easy to see. The wetter soil produced more than 17,000 ears of corn per acre, while the soil with less moisture produced only about 8,500. The plot with the high soil moisture also produced ears with much higher sugar content.

One interesting fact is that the soil in both plots was never too wet to walk on the surface at any time during the test, including when the water was being applied.

Wilke says the success of the study was due largely to the use of newly developed orifices in the one-half inch polyethylene pipe that was laid 12 inches underground.

"With previous sub-irrigation systems at the Center, there have been considerable problems with the stopping up due to sand grains plugging the holes that were punched in the pipe," Wilke explained. He added that he hoped the insert orifices used in the tests this summer will ease the problem.

But these systems will have to operate successfully for several years before we can be sure the clogging problems are solved, he concluded.

The researchers say that technology is now available to have completely-automated irrigation systems; thus eliminating most labor. Currently, above-ground drip irrigation systems are used to irrigate about 40,000 acres of orchards and vineyards throughout the world. This low figure is because the costs are high, from $300-1,000 per acre.

The major problem now is needed improvements in construction materials to make the practice economical. The scientists at Lubbock believe that this will extend the water supplies of the High Plains and help insure a longer irrigated agricultural economy.

Army ROTC Scholarships

The Army has announced that 1003 four year scholarships will be offered to high school seniors for matriculation at colleges and universities throughout the United States in school year 1972-1973. These Army ROTC scholarships are awarded annually to outstanding male high school seniors who are motivated toward a career as Army officers. The scholarships are worth $6,000.00 to $12,000.00 depending upon the university or college the recipient attends. The scholarship includes tuition, fees, books and laboratory expenses plus $50.00 per month for the duration of the scholarships, and may be used at any of the more than 280 colleges or universities in the United States offering Army ROTC in the fall of 1972.

Selection for these four year scholarships is competitive and is based on the results of the CEEB-Scholastic Aptitude Test or the American College Test or the American College Test will be administered on 11 December 1971. The closing date of 15 January 1972 for scholarship applications will not allow sufficient time for receipt of scores from later scheduled testing dates.

The Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) exists to develop college educated officers for the active Army and reserve components. It enables a young man to prepare for a position of leadership in either a military or civilian career of his choice. The ROTC program is specifically designed to give college men "on-campus" training and experience in the art of organizing, motivating, and leading others. It includes instruction to develop self-discipline, physical stamina, and bearing - qualities that are an important part of leadership and that contribute to success in any career. Many college men, if they do not take ROTC, miss this instruction because comparable leadership training and experience are not normally provided in the academic courses required for a college degree. The young man who wants training that will help to make him a leader during his college years and for the rest of his life should take Army ROTC.

Texas Tech University offers both a four year and a two year program of Army ROTC. The two year program is designed to accommodate students from junior college that are transferring to a four year college or university. If a student is attending a junior college and desires to participate in the two year Army ROTC program he must make application prior to 1 May 1972. A letter of application for the two year program should be addressed to the Professor of Military Science at the college at which the student will take ROTC. Students desiring further information on the four year Army ROTC scholarship program should contact their high school counselor or the Military Science Department at the nearest college or university offering Army ROTC.

Past Days In Lynn County

Copied from Dec. 3, 1925
Last Monday morning a near serious accident occurred just in front of the post office when a car driven by Miss Alice Small struck another car driven by the postmaster, Don H. Parkhurst. Mr. Parkhurst's car had been standing alongside the curb he got in it and started to drive out into the middle of the street to park it. He did not see the approaching car driven by Miss Small and before she could bring her car to a stop it struck Mr. Parkhurst's car with such force as to shatter the windshield of her car, break one of the headlights and do other small damage. One of the fenders on Mr. Parkhurst's car was wrecked. Little Marjorie Wells, who was in the car with Miss Small, received some slight cuts on the face; otherwise no personal injuries were received by any of the parties. Miss Small was driving a coupe and Mr. Parkhurst a Ford touring car.

The Phebe K. Warner Club met in regular session November 13 at the Court House with Mrs. Rogers acting as leader, a very interesting program on "Libraries" was given. There was much discussion as to the best ways of securing a library for Tahoka and for beginning a story hour for children. Committees were appointed to make plans for both the library and the story hour. The Club invites the hearty cooperation of the town in these undertakings.

Suggestions will be appreciated.

The Club will meet again December 4. The subject for the afternoon will be "Texas Manufacturing," with Mrs. E. Smith as leader.

A light snow, driven by a high northwest wind, fell in Tahoka and over the south plains for several hours Thursday night. For an hour or more it melted as fast as it fell, after which it began to form a sheet of white over the surface of the earth. The snow soon melted in the bright sunlight of Friday morning, however. This was the first snow of the season in Lynn County.

Prof. A. B. Taylor, director of the O'Donnell band, was here Wednesday and arranged for his band to give a concert at 3 p. m. next Sunday afternoon. The district court room was procured for the event, and if the weather is sufficiently favorable the concert may be given on the court house lawn.

Prof. Taylor has been directing this band for several months and the boys are doing excellent work, he stated to the News man. This will be their first performance away from home.

It is to be hoped that the people of Tahoka will give the boys a good audience, not only on account of the pleasure that are sure to derive from the concert but also in order to encourage the boys and show a friendly and neighborly attitude towards neighboring towns. Come out, folks, and let's give the boys a splendid reception.

D. L. Short has recently removed here from east Texas and will farm the coming year on the Dr. Callaway farm a few miles east of town. His son, M. L. Short, and I. B. Hill were here Tuesday from Lamesa also looking for places on which to farm the coming year.

Supt. G. H. Nelson, Principal A. B. Sanders, and Mrs. L. F. Craft and Miss Dovie Colleenback of the Tahoka public schools attended the convention of the State Teachers Association in Dallas last week. They report a great meeting a most enjoyable time.

The new ball court, located in the local camp ground, was very successfully dedicated on the night of Friday, Dec. 9. The home team met the O'Donnell quintet in a fast and furious game of basketball. The game was possibly slowed down by the improper lighting of the court, but those present declared it was well worth the money.

The boys from O'Donnell played a good, clean game and had some extra good men, such as Dalbert Beaten, Jack Beasy and others. The local team showed up well and dedicated the new court with a victory of 3 to 9 for Tahoka.

O'Donnell's invitation was accepted and a double header, that is boys and girls, was staged at O'Donnell Tuesday evening, Dec. 15. In this contest the boys are said to have had a harder fought game than in the previous one, neither side scoring as heavily as in the previous one. The O'Donnell team went nation to the end. The Tahoka in to win and fought with determined boys played a consistent game of ball with no stars but all working together for the good of the team. This resulted in favor of a final score of 2 to 8 in favor of Tahoka.

Remember the season tickets are still on sale and will entitle you to see all the games played at home for the whole season. Buy a ticket, help the club, and get a thrill worth your time and money. The remainder of the game will be played on the same court under a flood of white light that can only be supplied by proper wiring and high power bulbs.

The Mason gin at New Moore was totally destroyed by fire at about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The gin had been in operation the day before and had a small fire and it is thought that it had not been entirely extinguished and broke out during the night.

The gin had been in operation only a short time and had ginned about 800 bales. It is not known how much insurance was carried on the plant.

J. E. Morgan, who resides in the Magnolia community, was in town (Thursday) with a bale of cotton which he pulled from one acre of land. He brought to the gin 2,000 pounds of "bollies" and his bale weighed 538 pounds. He has three other acres full as good.

This cotton was grown in lake, which was several feet under water several weeks last spring.

Mr. Morgan says that if the early freeze had not caught it he believes this little patch would have made a bale and half per acre. He had about 15 acres of maize adjacent to this cotton that made two tons per acre. It also was in the lake. Mr. Morgan is pretty well pleased with Lynn county, thank you, in spite of early freezes and occasional sandstorms.

Mrs. Gadberry came in Monday and had the paper sent to her son, Private G. R. Gadberry, who is in Marine Service on U. S. S. California off the coast of San Francisco. The boys all say that the News is just like getting a letter from home, and they want it.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fresh Salesman

Shopping for a studio couch, Myrtle followed the friendly salesman to an obscure nook at the back of the furniture store. Suddenly, while they were talking about fabrics, the salesman seized her in a violent embrace.

Myrtle was so outraged that she not only had the man fired but also sued the owner of the store for damages.

"This was a clear case of assault and battery," she charged in court. "And every employer is responsible for the acts of his employees."

But the court disagreed and rejected her claim. The judge said the owner was not responsible for an act that was so completely separate from the job of selling furniture.

This is a general rule of law, that an employer is not liable for an employee's personal misconduct outside the scope of his job. Thus, the owner of a bar who held not liable when a mischievous waiter gave a customer a painful hotfoot.

It is a different story, however, when the employee's conduct does include a certain amount of physical contact with the public. Take this case:

At a movie matinee, a young teen-ager was ejected from the theater by an irate usher. In doing so, the usher used considerably more roughness than was necessary.

This time, when the teen-ager sued the management for damages, the court pointed out that policing the customers was part of the job of ushering. Even though the usher overdid it, the court said that the theater, as his employer, would have to pay damages.

Furthermore, certain employers may be held liable because of the actions of their employees. To be sure, kissing passengers was not within the scope of a conductor's job. But the court said that the railroad, as a public carrier, owed an extra duty to protect its passengers from harm—a duty which in this case had clearly not performed.

A recent law allows the Veterans Administration to provide up to $30,000 worth of low cost mortgage protection life insurance for about $11,000 severely disabled veterans.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Insurance bounced back into the news on three fronts here last week.

State Board of Insurance Chairman Larry Teaver promised, after a public hearing, to review all aspects of the new catastrophe pool for windstorm coverage in high risk coastal areas.

Agents and property owners complained of price gouging and companies' allegedly unloading on the pool properties which should be insured at standard rates. Companies denied the charges.

Board also took under consideration an Allstate Insurance Company proposal to cut auto coverage rates up to 20 per cent for new-model cars equipped with shock-absorbing bumpers.

All 1973 and later cars must have bumpers which can withstand a five miles an hour front-end crash and a two and a half miles per hour rear-end wallop without damage.

Allstate proposed to allow discounts to become effective with 1972 model cars equipped with owners' expense with the tested shock-absorbing bumpers.

Initial reduction would be 10 per cent in premiums for the five mph front, two and a half mph rear safety protection. The cut would reach 20 per cent for cars which can be crashed at five mph into a test barrier, front and rear, with no damage to the vehicle.

Board members heard support and opposition for proposed new rules to curb arbitrary cancellations and non-renewals on property and casualty insurance. Under the regulations, auto insurance in effect 60 days could be cancelled only for failure to pay premiums or where driver's license has been suspended or revoked. Companies could cancel coverage at annual expiration dates by giving 30 days written notice.

Teaver advised a rule prohibiting cancellations for "age alone."

COURTS SPEAK -- Texas Supreme Court ordered Cooke County district court trial of a teenager's suit against his father for alleged negligence on the job which led to a serious permanent injury.

Case was the first in which the state's top court had considered whether parents should be immune to actions brought by their children due to events outside the normal family relationship.

In two other cases, the Supreme Court sent applications for savings and loan association branches -- in Hallettsville and Bay City -- back to Commissioner W. Sale Lewis for further proceedings.

Lewis had approved the applications, but had not filed a required concise statement of underlying facts supporting his findings, court opinions concluded.

AG OPINIONS--Laws prohibiting dumping of refuse within 300 yards of public highways and anti-dumping statutes pertaining to public and private properties and public waters are both valid and can be harmonized, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded: + Flight schools are subject to new Texas Proprietary School Act.

+ Texas Water Rights Commission can test any claim of a right to use water under water code provisions by the legal requirement of past beneficial use of water without a formal adjudication of all claims on the stream.

+ Legislators are entitled to 16 cents per highway mile for use of personally-owned airplanes on official business trips.

+ Authority exists for establishing a central services account for Texas Tech University and Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

+ Procedure for assessing the Harris County domed stadium for taxation is unchanged by legislation passed this year.

Seventy-six bids covered 39,843 acres of state-owned lands and averaged $44.77 an acre.

Meanwhile, Land Commissioner Robert Armstrong said revised rules and regulations for oil drilling pollution control in coastal waters will require all oil spills or other mishaps to be reported to the land office within 24 hours of discovery. Written notification will be required of all operations on state leases.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED--Charles E. Wright Sr. of Austin, an AFL-CIO local official, was named by Gov. Preston Smith to the board of regents of Texas State Technical Institute.

Smith also announced these appointments: American Revolution Bicentennial Commission -- Mrs. H. K. Allen of Temple.

State Commission for the Deaf -- Landy W. Hallis Sr. of Robstown, Dr. Jack N. Walker of Seguin, Dr. Audrey W. Kelton of Port Lavaca, Mrs. Shirley Ann Facetti of Houston, Ralph H. White of Austin, and Louis B. Orrill Sr. of Dallas.

Texas State Board of Public Accountancy -- Robert J. Hibbetts of Amarillo and Angus H. Cockrell Jr. of San Antonio. Lloyd J. Weaver of Fort Worth was reappointed. Battleship Texas Commission -- Frank E. Trillo of Katy and (reappointments) C. H. Taylor of Houston and Mrs. Margaret Ezzell of Port Neches.

Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities -- Mrs. S. Allen Gulberson of Dallas, the Reverend George S. Heyer Jr. of Austin, Edward R. Hudson Jr. of Fort Worth, Dr. Lorrin G. Kennamer of Austin, Mrs. Roy Riddel Jr. of Houston and Mrs. John M. Wallace of Galveston.

PARTY RULES COMPLY.. New state Democratic party rules on delegate selection comply with national and statutory requirements, Texas National Committeewoman Mrs. Carrin Patman of Ganado reported.

The rules for selection of convention delegations will soon go to the State Democratic Executive Committee for consideration. SDEC Chairman Roy Orr indicated a meeting will be held in mid-January to act on them following a public hearing.

12,000 GET RAISES--Retroactive pay raises have been cleared for 12,000 (of 63,000) state employees who get $2 or less an hour.

Raises were approved for the low-pay workers back to September 1 in line with a federal Pay Board definition of "severe inequity" permitting retroactivity for those paid less than the minimum wage before and after the August freeze.

CITY GETS GRANT--The city of Conroe got the first state matching grant -- of $443,000 -- for construction of wastewater treatment facilities on the west fork of San Jacinto River.

The city's $1.77 million plant was started November 8, with an estimated completion date set for August, 1972. Federal aid will finance 55 per cent of construction and the state 25 per cent on a loan basis. State grants were made possible by passage of a state constitutional amendment setting up a bond fund last May.

SCHOOL SITE SELECTED -- A 200-acre site in south Tarrant County has been accepted for a new state school for the mentally retarded.

Selection follows recommendations of a 1966 study which also advises considering residential need factors for the mentally retarded in the Rio Grande Valley, El Paso and Northeast Texas.

Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation officials said a solution is underway for the Rio Grande Valley's needs, and a plan is developing for El Paso.

SHORT SNORTS: A. C. Turner, chairman of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, will retire February 1.

It will cost more to prove you were born after January 1. Certified birth certificates will go up to $2, from $1.50. Death certificates will also cost $2.

A House committee will study state medical welfare program costs.

State Sen. Joe Christle of El Paso became the sixth Democratic entry in the lieutenant governor's race.

Suits challenging House redistricting have been lumped together and assigned Dallas Federal Judge Joe Estes.

Texas Air Control Board staff members proposed a program to reduce air pollution from autos 20 per cent. Monitoring stations were suggested for Corpus Christi, Houston, Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and San Antonio.

Changes in production rules in the East Texas oil field were recommended to the Railroad Commission by independent operators.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

It seems the saying "wait next year" is getting most popular in agriculture on the High Plains as is in football circles at Texas A & M and other selected schools. This year's cotton crop on the Plains is poor in every respect, excepting market prices. Quality and per acre yields, both of seed and lint, are headed for the lowest averages in recent history. Only the price of lint prevents 1971 from going in the record book as a total cotton disaster.

"But the High Plains is still cotton country," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "and barring unforeseen events there should be more acres devoted to production of the fiber crop on the Plains in 1972 than in 1971. We have excellent underground moisture conditions throughout the area, 1972 prices look good, and with a return to more normal weather next year we can reasonably expect a return to previous high standards of production and quality."

Johnson points out, however, that two things need to be done this year if next year's cotton income is to achieve what appears to be above average potential.

First, he says, cotton producers should begin now to seek an adequate supply of quality planting seed. A short supply of vigorous, high germination planting seed for next year is almost a foregone conclusion in view of the unprecedented low-grade seed being received at oil mills from this year's crop. And every research report since the very beginning has proved a direct relationship between yields and planting seed quality.

"With such favorable moisture conditions farmers cannot afford to jeopardize yield potential by planting inferior seed," Johnson states, "and as yet there is no reason to believe cotton production in 1972 will reach a volume high enough to significantly depress prices. So every pound produced should be well worth the effort."

Second, and also of prime importance according to Johnson, is the matter of protecting the per-acre yields on which cotton program payments are made. Most acreage on the Plains is expected to fall well below the yields on which payments were made this year. But the effects of low production on future payments can be greatly mitigated if every producer will request a "weather adjustment" from his county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

This year's actual yields, for purposes of figuring payment yields in 1972, 1973 and beyond, can be adjusted upward to 90 per cent of the 1971 payment yield -- if farmers request such an adjustment. (And there's still some possibility that the adjustment could be 100 per cent instead of 90 per cent.)

Requests for weather adjustments must be made to the ASCS office in time for office personnel to inspect each field before stalks are cut. The ASCS must determine that the crop was farmed in a "workmanlike manner," which requires inspection before post-harvest operations begin.

ASCS officials are also reminding farmers that if a farm's total production this year equals or exceeds the pounds on which payment was made there will be no reduction at all in the 1972 payment yield. If this is a possibility, they say, it might be worthwhile gathering a crop which wouldn't even pay harvesting costs. Otherwise, whether a crop is harvested will have no effect on future payment yields since a weather adjustment can be made in either case.

On the brighter side of the cotton world is the rise in mill production of cotton denims and corduroys last season.

During 1970 - 71, mill use of all kinds of cotton gained modestly, for the first time since 1965. At season's end on July 31, U. S. mills had consumed 8.1 million bales of cotton, up from about 8 million the previous year.

Cotton milling accelerated despite continuing cutbacks in military demand. Shipments of cotton-content goods to the military forces last season shrank the equivalent of about 75,000 raw bales. But a strong demand for other end uses, primarily denim and corduroy, more than offset this drop.

Denim production during 1971-72 jumped about 50 percent. Corduroy output rose a third. Together the two fabrics absorbed an estimated additional 175,000 bales of raw cotton, turning what would have otherwise been a losing season into a slight gain for cotton consumption.

Reduced cotton textile imports and moderating competition from foreign and domestically produced man-made fibers are also said to have been contributing factors in the year's cotton milling growth.

Think Now About '72 Cotton Planting Seed

Although the 1971 cotton harvest is underway, it is not too early to start thinking about proper planting seed for next year, says Dr. Bob Metzger, Extension area agronomist at Lubbock.

"Producers should make early arrangements for high-quality seed," the specialist says. He explains that the late crop in this area will probably result in a heavy clear-out of immature seed.

This could in turn result in a short supply of some varieties next spring.

The abundance of underground moisture indicates a good cotton crop in 1972. Under these favorable moisture conditions, Metzger says a producer cannot afford to jeopardize his yield potential by planting low-quality seed.

Producers lacking the time, facilities or equipment to properly care for planting seed should consider purchasing certified or registered seed from a reputable company," he suggests, "the extra money is well worth the guaranteed varietal purity and germination."

Seed carried over in storage or caught at the gin for planting should be tested for germination quality. A preliminary test prior to delinting can serve as a guide in deciding whether to delint the seed or release it to an oil mill.

Metzger says that carry-over seed is an excellent source for planting, but that a producer should be wary of quality loss during storage. He suggests that carry-over seed be retested before planting because improper storage can greatly reduce quality.

The Free Fatty Acid (FFA) test can determine if seed is good enough to be stored for next season. The test can be conducted at various seed laboratories and oil mills. FFA is a measure of seed deterioration. Readings between one and two per cent indicate that some deterioration has occurred and the seed should not be planted, Metzger explains.

He warns that the FFA test should not be used by itself, but in combination with a regular germination test. For instance, a low percentage FFA does not necessarily indicate a high-quality planting seed. Light or immature seed may give a favorable FFA reading because of little or no deterioration in the field before harvest.

Research has shown that seed density or weight is directly related to seed vigor, the heavier the seed the more vigorous it is.

The seed may be low in vigor and still not be detached under the usual germination test procedures. He suggests careful screening for low vigor by making the germination tests at 68-70 degrees instead of the optimum conditions at higher temperatures.

Finally, producers should remember that maintaining lint quality also improves seed quality. Metzger says the cotton should be dry when stripped. Seed cotton with 12 per cent moisture can suffer quality damage if left on a trailer for even a short time and allowed to build up heat.

The optimum moisture content is seven to eight per cent, which is usually indicated by a relative humidity of less than 60 per cent at boll height in the field. He suggests delaying stripping cotton until the humidity drops to this level.

Six Accidents In Lynn County During November

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated six accidents on rural highways in Lynn County during the month of November, according to Sergeant H. E. Pirtle, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and 11 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first eleven months of 1971 shows a total of 70 accidents resulting in one person killed and 75 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety for November 1971, shows a total of 576 accidents resulting in 20 persons killed and 292 persons injured. This was 19 less accidents, one more fatality, and two less injured than during October.

The 20 traffic deaths for the month of November, 1971, occurred in the following counties: Hockley, four; Lubbock, Palo Pinto, Hansford and Oldham, two each; Bailey, Carson, Childress, Lipscomb, Moore, Terry, Wheeler and Wilbarger, one each.

New Chemicals In Weed Control Tested

New chemicals in the continuing battle against weeds were tested throughout Texas this year by researchers from Texas A & M University, with much of the work being done at Amarillo and Lubbock.

Dr. Dudley Smith, weed scientist at the TAMU Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, says that six herbicides were applied to cotton, soybeans and seven vegetable crops to determine the tolerance and response of crops to the chemicals. Besides the test plots on the High Plains, there were other studies at College Station.

Treflan and Planavin, two chemicals already on the market, were used as references in the research, Smith explains.

"The experimental herbicides were provided by chemical companies that had previously tested the materials in preliminary greenhouse studies and field trials," he adds.

The six chemicals were given code numbers because they have not been assigned specific trade names yet. They included A-820 (Amchem Products), BAS-3921 (BASF Corporation), CGA-10832 (CIBA-Geigy), EL-179 (Elanco), AN-56477 (Ansul) and USB-3484 (U. S. Borax).

The compounds were applied at various rates on different soil types to determine the minimum safe dosage required to control careless-weed and other weed species. All the chemicals were safe on cotton and soybeans. Both of these crops have large seed and grow fast.

However, most vegetable species showed some reaction to the herbicides, he reports. The seeds of these crops are small and highly-sensitive to chemicals. Watermelon, cantaloupe, and cabbage were sensitive to most of the chemicals; while onion and carrot were tolerant to most of them. Pepper did not suffer injury from any of the compounds.

The weed researcher says that persistence of the herbicides in the soil was determined by two methods. Treated and untreated plots were compared for emergence of new weeds at various times during the year.

"The fact that weeds appeared on the treated plots in the latter stages of the test indicates that most of the chemicals have been degraded," Smith says.

As a further test, soil samples were also checked by planting chemical-sensitive crops in a greenhouse.

Although the actual field trials have been completed, the testing is not over. The researchers will send cottonseed and soil samples for residue analyses to determine if any of the herbicides are still in the crop or perhaps remain at dangerous levels in the soil.

Scientists for the individual companies will compare the Texas findings with results from other states. Also, they will feed low levels of the chemicals to rats, dogs, trout, quail, ducks and monkeys for at least two years. The offspring will be examined for possible abnormalities. Males and females from each animal species will be autopsied for any side-effects after the long feeding test.

Researchers will also study the possible movement of the herbicides from treated fields into lakes, ponds and rivers, Smith explains.

If the herbicides pass each of the tests, they will receive approval by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Before a herbicide is offered for general use, there will be an investment of five to eight million dollars over a three to five year period; all this is an effort to control weeds without damaging the environment, Smith concludes.
